And what peace between the rich and the poor?

19 Wild asses in the wilderness are the prey of lions;
 likewise the poor are feeding grounds for the rich.

20 Humility is an abomination to the proud;
 likewise the poor are an abomination to the rich.

21 When the rich person totters, he is supported by friends, but when the humble^c falls, he is pushed away even by friends.

22 If the rich person slips, many come to the rescue;
 he speaks unseemly words, but they justify him.

If the humble person slips, they even criticize him;
 he talks sense, but is not given a hearing.

23 The rich person speaks and all are silent;
 they extol to the clouds what he says.
 The poor person speaks and they say,
 “Who is this fellow?”

And should he stumble, they even push him down.

24 Riches are good if they are free from sin; poverty is evil only in the opinion of the ungodly.

25 The heart changes the countenance, either for good or for evil.^d

26 The sign of a happy heart is a cheerful face,

^a Other ancient authorities read in your folly

^b Other ancient authorities add as verse 14, When you hear these things in your sleep, wake up! During all your life love the Lord, and call on him for your salvation.

^c Other ancient authorities read poor

^d Other ancient authorities add and a glad heart makes a cheerful countenance

rather than from the perspective of the rich. 8–13: In dealing with the rich and powerful, one must always be on guard, since they can easily bring about one’s downfall; see also 31.12–18. Similar cautious advice is found in Egyptian wisdom literature (Amenemope, ch. 23), in Prov 23.1–3, and in later Jewish wisdom literature (m. Abot 2.3). 15–20: The incompatibility between rich and poor is illustrated by comparisons taken from the animal kingdom, which serve to naturalize the social antagonism. 17: Cf. Isa 11.6. 21–23: The rich customarily receive better treatment than the poor.

13.24–14.2: Wealth and happiness. Happiness of heart (in biblical understanding where thinking and feeling take place) is reflected in a cheerful face and in a clear conscience.

but to devise proverbs requires painful thinking.

14 Happy are those who do not blunder with their lips,

and need not suffer remorse for sin.

² Happy are those whose hearts do not condemn them, and who have not given up their hope.

³ Riches are inappropriate for a small-minded person; and of what use is wealth to a miser?

⁴ What he denies himself he collects for others; and others will live in luxury on his goods.

⁵ If one is mean to himself, to whom will he be generous? He will not enjoy his own riches.

⁶ No one is worse than one who is grudging to himself; this is the punishment for his meanness.

⁷ If ever he does good, it is by mistake; and in the end he reveals his meanness.

⁸ The miser is an evil person; he turns away and disregards people.

⁹ The eye of the greedy person is not satisfied with his share; greedy injustice withers the soul.

¹⁰ A miser begrudges bread, and it is lacking at his table.

¹¹ My child, treat yourself well, according to your means, and present worthy offerings to the Lord.

¹² Remember that death does not tarry, and the decree^a of Hades has not been shown to you.

¹³ Do good to friends before you die, and reach out and give to them as much as you can.

¹⁴ Do not deprive yourself of a day's enjoyment; do not let your share of desired good pass by you.

¹⁵ Will you not leave the fruit of your labors to another, and what you acquired by toil to be divided by lot?

¹⁶ Give, and take, and indulge yourself, because in Hades one cannot look for luxury.

¹⁷ All living beings become old like a garment, for the decree^b from of old is, "You must die!"

¹⁸ Like abundant leaves on a spreading tree that sheds some and puts forth others, so are the generations of flesh and blood: one dies and another is born.

¹⁹ Every work decays and ceases to exist, and the one who made it will pass away with it.

²⁰ Happy is the person who meditates on^c wisdom and reasons intelligently,

²¹ who^d reflects in his heart on her ways and ponders her secrets,

²² pursuing her like a hunter, and lying in wait on her paths;

²³ who peers through her windows and listens at her doors;

²⁴ who camps near her house and fastens his tent peg to her walls;

^a Heb Syr: Gk covenant

^b Heb: Gk covenant

^c Other ancient authorities read dies in

^d The structure adopted in verses 21-27 follows the Heb

14.3–10: The miser. While devoted to making money, the miser never really enjoys life and so leads a miserable existence, doing harm to himself and little good for others (cf. Prov 11.24–26).

14.11–19: Money and death. Now is the time to use money to serve God, help others, and enjoy oneself. 12: Hades, the abode of the dead; Sheol in Hebrew. 14: Cf. Eccl 8.15; 9.7. 17: Like a garment, cf. Ps 102.26; Isa 50.9. The decree from of old, see Gen 2.17; 3.3,19. 18–19: Cf. Eccl 1.2–4; Iliad 6.146–49.

14.20–27: The search for wisdom. One who seeks and finds wisdom may be declared happy (cf. Prov 3.13). 20: Happy is takes the form of a beatitude or makarism (cf. Ps 1.1; Prov 3.13; 8.34; etc.; Mt 5.3–11; Lk 6.20–23). 22–27: The search for wisdom is compared to going on a hunt, camping out by her house, and finding her as a

- ²⁵ who pitches his tent near her,
and so occupies an excellent lodging place;
²⁶ who places his children under her shelter,
and lodges under her boughs;
²⁷ who is sheltered by her from the heat,
and dwells in the midst of her glory.

15 Whoever fears the Lord will do this, and whoever holds to the law will obtain wisdom.^a

- ² She will come to meet him like a mother, and like a young bride she will welcome
him.
³ She will feed him with the bread of learning, and give him the water of wisdom to drink.
⁴ He will lean on her and not fall, and he will rely on her and not be put to shame.
⁵ She will exalt him above his neighbors, and will open his mouth in the midst of the assembly.
⁶ He will find gladness and a crown of rejoicing,
and will inherit an everlasting name.
⁷ The foolish will not obtain her,
and sinners will not see her.
⁸ She is far from arrogance,
and liars will never think of her.
⁹ Praise is unseemly on the lips of a sinner,
for it has not been sent from the Lord.

- ¹⁰ For in wisdom must praise be uttered,
and the Lord will make it prosper.
¹¹ Do not say, “It was the Lord’s doing that I fell away”;
for he does not do^b what he hates.
¹² Do not say, “It was he who led me astray”;
for he has no need of the sinful.
¹³ The Lord hates all abominations; such things are not loved by those who fear him.
¹⁴ It was he who created humankind in the beginning,
and he left them in the power of their own free choice.
¹⁵ If you choose, you can keep the commandments,
and to act faithfully is a matter of your own choice.
¹⁶ He has placed before you fire and water;
stretch out your hand for whichever you choose.
¹⁷ Before each person are life and death,
and whichever one chooses will be given.
¹⁸ For great is the wisdom of the Lord;
he is mighty in power and sees everything;
¹⁹ his eyes are on those who fear him,
and he knows every human action.
²⁰ He has not commanded anyone to be wicked,

^a Gk her

^b Heb: Gk you ought not to do

shady tree. 23: Peers through her windows, cf. Song 2.9. 24: Her house, cf. the description of Ben Sira’s school as the “house of instruction” in 51.23; see also Prov 8.32–35. 26: Her boughs, for wisdom as a tree, see 1.20; 24.13–17; Prov 3.18.

15.1–10: The benefits of wisdom. Wisdom is eager to be found and wants to lavish gifts on those who seek her out. 1: The three major theological themes of Sirach—fear of Lord, the law, and wisdom—come together in this verse (cf. 1.1–30; 6.32–37; 24.23). 2–6: Portrayed as a mother and as a bride, wisdom brings to those who seek her love, sustenance, security, success, and an everlasting name (immortality by remembrance). Cf. Prov 7.4; Wis 7.12; 8.2. 3: Bread and water, cf. 1.16; 24.19–21; Prov 9.1–5; Isa 55.1–2. 7–10: Wisdom has nothing to do with fools and sinners; only the wise can praise God properly.

15.11–20: Human choice and sin. Since God has given humans free will, they must take responsibility for their sins. 11–13: For texts that could suggest that God makes people sin, see Ex 11.10 and 2 Sam 24.1. 14–17: No attention is given here to Adam’s sin (Gen 3.1–24) or the sins of “the sons of God” (Gen 6.1–4; but see Sir 16.7). Rather, the human person is regarded as free to choose between life and death (Deut 30.15–20) and so must be ready to accept the consequences. 14: Free choice (Heb “yetser”) is a technical term, sometimes used in a good sense (Isa 26.3; 1 Chr 29.18), but usually to refer to an evil tendency or inclination toward sin (Gen 6.5; 8.21; cf. 2 Esd 4.30–31). In postbiblical times the doctrine arose of a good and an evil “yetser” that every person possesses (cf. 37.3). 18–20: God has no part in sin (cf. 15.11–13).

and he has not given anyone permission to sin.

16 Do not desire a multitude of worthless^a children,
and do not rejoice in ungodly offspring.

²If they multiply, do not rejoice in them,
unless the fear of the Lord is in them.

³Do not trust in their survival, or rely on their numbers;^b

for one can be better than a thousand, and to die childless is better than to have ungodly children.

⁴For through one intelligent person a city can be filled with people, but through a clan of outlaws it becomes desolate.

⁵Many such things my eye has seen,
and my ear has heard things more striking than these.

⁶In an assembly of sinners a fire is kindled, and in a disobedient nation wrath blazes up.

⁷He did not forgive the ancient giants who revolted in their might.

⁸He did not spare the neighbors of Lot, whom he loathed on account of their arrogance.

⁹He showed no pity on the doomed nation, on those dispossessed because of their sins;^c

¹⁰or on the six hundred thousand foot soldiers who assembled in their stubbornness.^d

¹¹Even if there were only one stiff-necked person,
it would be a wonder if he remained unpunished.

For mercy and wrath are with the Lord;^e he is mighty to forgive—but he also pours out wrath.

¹²Great as is his mercy, so also is his chastisement;
he judges a person according to his or her deeds.

¹³The sinner will not escape with plunder, and the patience of the godly will not be frustrated.

¹⁴He makes room for every act of mercy; everyone receives in accordance with his or her deeds.^f

¹⁷Do not say, “I am hidden from the Lord, and who from on high has me in mind?

Among so many people I am unknown,
for what am I in a boundless creation?

¹⁸Lo, heaven and the highest heaven, the abyss and the earth, tremble at his visitation!^g

¹⁹The very mountains and the foundations of the earth
quiver and quake when he looks upon them.

^a Heb: Gk unprofitable

^b Other ancient authorities add For you will groan in untimely mourning, and will know of their sudden end.

^c Other ancient authorities add All these things he did to the hard-hearted nations, and by the multitude of his holy ones he was not appeased.

^d Other ancient authorities add Chastising, showing mercy, striking, healing, the Lord persisted in mercy and discipline.

^e Gk him

^f Other ancient authorities add ¹⁵*The Lord hardened Pharaoh so that he did not recognize him, in order that his works might be known under heaven.* ¹⁶*His mercy is manifest to the whole of creation, and he divided his light and darkness with a plumb line.*

^g Other ancient authorities add The whole world past and present is in his will.

16.1–23: Responsibility for sin. God holds both individuals and groups responsible for their sins. 1–4: In a society in which having many children was regarded as a sign of divine blessing (Prov 17.6; Ps 127.3–5), the author counters that one good child can be better than a thousand bad ones. Cf. 40.15–16; 41.5–9. 5–10: God has punished groups of sinners such as the ancient giants (Gen 6.1–4), the neighbors of Lot (Gen 18.16–19.29), the doomed nation of Canaanites (Lev 18.3,24–25), and the six hundred thousand foot soldiers in the desert (Ex 12.37; Num 14.38). 11–14: God judges individuals according to their deeds (Ps 62.12; Ezek 18). 15–23: The speaker quoted here claims that God is distant and has no concern for individuals and their moral responsibility (cf. Wis 2.1–20). The target may be Qoheleth/Ecclesiastes. The monologue is prefaced by an admonition (Do not say) and is concluded with a judgment (16.23) that whoever says such things is a fool.

- ²⁰ But no human mind can grasp this,
and who can comprehend his ways?
²¹ Like a tempest that no one can see,
so most of his works are concealed.^a ²² Who is to announce his acts of justice?
Or who can await them? For his decree^b is far off."^c ²³ Such are the thoughts of one devoid of understanding;
a senseless and misguided person thinks foolishly.
- ²⁴ Listen to me, my child, and acquire knowledge,
and pay close attention to my words.
²⁵ I will impart discipline precisely^d and declare knowledge accurately.
- ²⁶ When the Lord created^e his works from the beginning,
and, in making them, determined their boundaries,
²⁷ he arranged his works in an eternal order,
and their dominion^f for all generations.
They neither hunger nor grow weary,
and they do not abandon their tasks.
²⁸ They do not crowd one another,
and they never disobey his word.
²⁹ Then the Lord looked upon the earth, and filled it with his good things.
³⁰ With all kinds of living beings he covered its surface,
and into it they must return.

17 The Lord created human beings out of earth,
and makes them return to it again.

- ² He gave them a fixed number of days, but granted them authority over everything on the earth.^g ³ He endowed them with strength like his own,^h

- and made them in his own image.
⁴ He put the fear of themⁱ in all living beings,
and gave them dominion over beasts and birds.^j
⁶ Discretion and tongue and eyes, ears and a mind for thinking he gave
them.
⁷ He filled them with knowledge and understanding,
and showed them good and evil.
⁸ He put the fear of him into^k their hearts to show them the majesty of his works.^l
¹⁰ And they will praise his holy name,
⁹ to proclaim the grandeur of his works.
¹¹ He bestowed knowledge upon them, and allotted to them the law of life.^m ¹² He established with them an eternal covenant,
and revealed to them his decrees.

- ^a Meaning of Gk uncertain: Heb Syr If I sin, no eye can see me, and if I am disloyal all in secret, who is to know?
^b Heb the decree: Gk the covenant
^c Other ancient authorities add and a scrutiny for all comes at the end
^d Gk by weight
^e Heb: Gk judged
^f Or elements
^g Lat: Gk it
^h Lat: Gk proper to them
ⁱ Syr: Gk him
^j Other ancient authorities add as verse 5, They obtained the use of the five faculties of the Lord; as sixth he distributed to them the gift of mind, and as seventh, reason, the interpreter of one's faculties.
^k Other ancient authorities read He set his eye upon
^l Other ancient authorities add and he gave them to boast of his marvels forever
^m Other ancient authorities add so that they may know that they who are alive now are mortal

16.24–17.24: Creation and responsibility. God has put order into the world that can be discerned by reason and the law of Moses (the Torah), and God knows and judges the actions of every person. 16.26–17.4: A paraphrase of Gen 1–3 and related texts, with an emphasis on the orderliness of creation. 26: Beginning, Gen 1.1; Prov 8.22–23. Their boundaries, Job 38.10; Pss 104.9; 148.6. 27b–28: Apparently referring to the heavenly bodies; see Ps 104.19; but cf. 1 En 21. 29: Good things, Gen 1.4,10,12, etc. 30: Must return, 17.1; Gen 3.19. 17.1: Out of earth, Gen 2.7 2: Authority, Gen 1.28. 3: His own image, Gen 1.26. 4: Dominion, Gen 1.28; 9.2. 6–10: God has endowed humans with reason, and their proper response to God is fear and praise of the Lord. Thus there is no excuse for sin. 11–14: The law (the Torah) is a further gift from God, and it enables humans to discern good from evil. 11: The law of life, 45.5; Deut 30.15–20. 12–13: When God made a covenant with the Israelites on Mount Sinai, they saw his glorious majesty (Ex 19).

¹³ Their eyes saw his glorious majesty, and their ears heard the glory of his voice.

¹⁴ He said to them, “Beware of all evil.”
And he gave commandment to each of them concerning the neighbor.

¹⁵ Their ways are always known to him;
they will not be hid from his eyes.^a

¹⁷ He appointed a ruler for every nation,
but Israel is the Lord’s own portion.^b

¹⁹ All their works are as clear as the sun before him,
and his eyes are ever upon their ways.

²⁰ Their iniquities are not hidden from him,
and all their sins are before the Lord.^c

²² One’s almsgiving is like a signet ring with the Lord,^d
and he will keep a person’s kindness like the apple of his eye.^e

²³ Afterward he will rise up and repay them, and he will bring their recompense on their heads.

²⁴ Yet to those who repent he grants a return, and he encourages those who are losing hope.

²⁵ Turn back to the Lord and forsake your sins;
pray in his presence and lessen your offense.

²⁶ Return to the Most High and turn away from iniquity,^f
and hate intensely what he abhors.

²⁷ Who will sing praises to the Most High in Hades
in place of the living who give thanks?

²⁸ From the dead, as from one who does not exist, thanksgiving has ceased;
those who are alive and well sing the Lord’s praises.

²⁹ How great is the mercy of the Lord, and his forgiveness for those who return to him!

³⁰ For not everything is within human capability,

since human beings are not immortal.

³¹ What is brighter than the sun? Yet it can be eclipsed.

So flesh and blood devise evil.

³² He marshals the host of the height of heaven;
but all human beings are dust and ashes.

18 He who lives forever created the whole universe;

² the Lord alone is just.^g

⁴ To none has he given power to proclaim his works;
and who can search out his mighty deeds?

⁵ Who can measure his majestic power?
And who can fully recount his mercies?

⁶ It is not possible to diminish or increase
them,
nor is it possible to fathom the wonders of the Lord.

^a Other ancient authorities add ¹⁶*Their ways from youth tend toward evil, and they are unable to make for themselves hearts of flesh in place of their stony hearts.* ¹⁷*For in the division of the nations of the whole earth, he appointed*

^b Other ancient authorities add as verse 18, whom, being his firstborn, he brings up with discipline, and allotting to him the light of his love, he does not neglect him.

^c Other ancient authorities add as verse 21, But the Lord, who is gracious and knows how they are formed, has neither left them nor abandoned them, but has spared them.

^d Gk him

^e Other ancient authorities add apportioning repentance to his sons and daughters

^f Other ancient authorities add for he will lead you out of darkness to the light of health.

^g Other ancient authorities add and there is no other beside him; ³he steers the world with the span of his hand, and all things obey his will; for he is king of all things by his power, separating among them the holy things from the profane.

14: Neighbor, Ex 20.13–17; Lev 19.18; Deut 5.17–21. 15–23: Although God will judge each person with justice, almsgiving and repentance can delay or even temper God’s judgment. 17: The Lord’s own portion, Deut 32.8–9. 22: Signet ring (Jer 22.24; Hag 2.23) and apple of his eye (Deut 32.10; Ps 17.8; Prov 7.2) suggest a close personal relationship with God.

17.25–32: A call to repent. God’s mercy makes repentance possible. 27: Hades, Heb “Sheol,” the abode of the dead, where there is no praising God (Pss 6.5; 30.9; 88.10–12; 115.17–18; Isa 38.18; Bar 2.17). 31: Eclipsed, if the sun can fail by way of an eclipse, so mortal humans can also be expected to fail. 32: Dust and ashes, see 10.9n.

18.1–14: God’s majesty and mercy. The all-powerful and just God shows mercy to weak and mortal humans.

- ⁷When human beings have finished, they are just beginning, and when they stop, they are still perplexed.
- ⁸What are human beings, and of what use are they?
What is good in them, and what is evil?
- ⁹The number of days in their life is great if they reach one hundred years.^a
- ¹⁰Like a drop of water from the sea and a grain of sand, so are a few years among the days of eternity.
- ¹¹That is why the Lord is patient with them and pours out his mercy upon them.
- ¹²He sees and recognizes that their end is miserable; therefore he grants them forgiveness all the more.
- ¹³The compassion of human beings is for their neighbors, but the compassion of the Lord is for every living thing.
He rebukes and trains and teaches them, and turns them back, as a shepherd his flock.
- ¹⁴He has compassion on those who accept his discipline and who are eager for his precepts.
- ¹⁵My child, do not mix reproach with your good deeds, or spoil your gift by harsh words.
- ¹⁶Does not the dew give relief from the scorching heat?
So a word is better than a gift.
- ¹⁷Indeed, does not a word surpass a good gift?
Both are to be found in a gracious person.
- ¹⁸A fool is ungracious and abusive, and the gift of a grudging giver makes the eyes dim.
- ¹⁹Before you speak, learn; and before you fall ill, take care of your health.
- ²⁰Before judgment comes, examine yourself; and at the time of scrutiny you will find forgiveness.
- ²¹Before falling ill, humble yourself; and when you have sinned, repent.
- ²²Let nothing hinder you from paying a vow promptly, and do not wait until death to be released from it.
- ²³Before making a vow, prepare yourself; do not be like one who puts the Lord to the test.
- ²⁴Think of his wrath on the day of death, and of the moment of vengeance when he turns away his face.
- ²⁵In the time of plenty think of the time of hunger; in days of wealth think of poverty and need.
- ²⁶From morning to evening conditions change; all things move swiftly before the Lord.
- ²⁷One who is wise is cautious in everything; when sin is all around, one guards against wrongdoing.
- ²⁸Every intelligent person knows wisdom, and praises the one who finds her.
- ²⁹Those who are skilled in words become wise themselves, and pour forth apt proverbs.^b

^a Other ancient authorities add but the death of each one is beyond the calculation of all

^b Other ancient authorities add Better is confidence in the one Lord than clinging with a dead heart to a dead one.

8: What are human beings, Ps 8.4. 9: The number of days, Ps. 90.10. 13: As a shepherd his flock, cf. Pss 23.1–4; 80.1; Isa 40.11; Ezek 34.11–16.

18.15–18: Words and gifts. Good gifts can be spoiled by bad words, whereas good words are better than material gifts and are the mark of a gracious person. For more texts on speech, see 18.19–29; 19.4–17; 20.1–8, 18–31.

18.19–29: Reflection and action. Before, during, and after action there is need for planning and assessment. 22–23: For similar advice see Prov 20.25; Eccl 5.4–5. Test, cf. Ex 17.2; Deut 6.16. 29: Apt proverbs are intended as both interpretations of life experiences and guides to living wisely and correctly.

18.30–19.3: Self-control. Matters that need control are base desires such as greed and lust. Their negative effects include shame, poverty, debauchery (Prov 20.1; 31.3–5), and death.

SELF-CONTROL^a

- ³⁰ Do not follow your base desires,
but restrain your appetites.
- ³¹ If you allow your soul to take pleasure in base desire, it will make you the laughingstock of your enemies.
- ³² Do not revel in great luxury, or you may become impoverished by its expense.
- ³³ Do not become a beggar by feasting with borrowed money,
when you have nothing in your purse.^b
- 19 The one who does this^c will not become rich;
one who despises small things will fail little by little.
- ² Wine and women lead intelligent men astray,
and the man who consorts with prostitutes is reckless.
- ³ Decay and worms will take possession of
him,
and the reckless person will be snatched away.
- ⁴ One who trusts others too quickly has a shallow mind,
and one who sins does wrong to himself.
- ⁵ One who rejoices in wickedness^d will be condemned,^e
⁶ but one who hates gossip has less evil.
- ⁷ Never repeat a conversation,
and you will lose nothing at all.
- ⁸ With friend or foe do not report it,
and unless it would be a sin for you, do not reveal it;
- ⁹ for someone may have heard you and watched you,
and in time will hate you.
- ¹⁰ Have you heard something? Let it die with you.
Be brave, it will not make you burst!
- ¹¹ Having heard something, the fool suffers birth pangs
like a woman in labor with a child.
- ¹² Like an arrow stuck in a person's thigh,
so is gossip inside a fool.
- ¹³ Question a friend; perhaps he did not do it;
or if he did, so that he may not do it again.
- ¹⁴ Question a neighbor; perhaps he did not say it;
or if he said it, so that he may not repeat it.
- ¹⁵ Question a friend, for often it is slander;
so do not believe everything you hear.
- ¹⁶ A person may make a slip without intending it.
Who has not sinned with his tongue?
- ¹⁷ Question your neighbor before you threaten him;
and let the law of the Most High take its course.^f
- ²⁰ The whole of wisdom is fear of the Lord, and in all wisdom there is the fulfillment of the law.^g

^a This heading is included in the Gk text.

^b Other ancient authorities add for you will be plotting against your own life

^c Heb: Gk A worker who is a drunkard

^d Other ancient authorities read heart

^e Other ancient authorities add but one who withstands pleasures crowns his life. ⁶*One who controls the tongue will live without strife,*
^f Other ancient authorities add and do not be angry. ¹⁸*The fear of the Lord is the beginning of acceptance, and wisdom obtains his love.* ¹⁹*The knowledge of the Lord's commandments is life-giving discipline; and those who do what is pleasing to him enjoy the fruit of the tree of immortality.*

^g Other ancient authorities add and the knowledge of his omnipotence. ²¹*When a slave says to his master, "I will not act as you wish," even if later he does it, he angers the one who supports him.*

19.4–17: The evils of gossip. Loose talk is destructive not only to its subject but also to its purveyors. 4–12: A wise person should not accept slander or gossip too quickly and repeat it unless it would be a sin (19.8) to withhold it (cf. Lev 5.1). 13–17: When a friend or neighbor is the subject of gossip, it is best to question that person directly. 17: The law of the Most High, cf. Lev 19.17–18.

18–19: The verses included in the translators' note to 19.17 are generally regarded as a later addition to the text, since they refer explicitly to immortality, which is inconsistent with Sirach's statements elsewhere about the finality of death.

19.20–30: Wisdom and cleverness. Without fear of the Lord and fulfilling God's law, what may seem like ²²The knowledge of wickedness is not wisdom, nor is there prudence in the counsel of sinners.

²³There is a cleverness that is detestable, and there is a fool who merely lacks wisdom.

²⁴Better are the God-fearing who lack understanding than the highly intelligent who transgress the law.

²⁵There is a cleverness that is exact but unjust, and there are people who abuse favors to gain a verdict.

²⁶There is the villain bowed down in mourning,

but inwardly he is full of deceit.

²⁷He hides his face and pretends not to hear,

but when no one notices, he will take advantage of you.

²⁸Even if lack of strength keeps him from sinning,

he will nevertheless do evil when he finds the opportunity.

²⁹A person is known by his appearance, and a sensible person is known when first met, face to face.

³⁰A person's attire and hearty laughter, and the way he walks, show what he is.

20 There is a rebuke that is untimely,
and there is the person who is wise enough to keep silent.

²How much better it is to rebuke than to fume!

³And the one who admits his fault will be kept from failure.

⁴Like a eunuch lusting to violate a girl is the person who does right under compulsion.

⁵Some people keep silent and are thought to be wise,

while others are detested for being talkative.

⁶Some people keep silent because they have nothing to say,
while others keep silent because they know when to speak.

⁷The wise remain silent until the right moment,
but a boasting fool misses the right moment.

⁸Whoever talks too much is detested, and whoever pretends to authority is hated.^a ⁹There may be good fortune for a person in adversity, and a windfall may result in a loss.

¹⁰There is the gift that profits you nothing, and the gift to be paid back double.

¹¹There are losses for the sake of glory, and there are some who have raised their heads from humble circumstances.

¹²Some buy much for little,
but pay for it seven times over.

¹³The wise make themselves beloved by only few words,^b
but the courtesies of fools are wasted.

¹⁴A fool's gift will profit you nothing,^c
for he looks for recompense sevenfold.^d

¹⁵He gives little and upbraids much;
he opens his mouth like a town crier.
Today he lends and tomorrow he asks it back;

such a one is hateful to God and humans.^e

^a Other ancient authorities add How good it is to show repentance when you are reprov'd, for so you will escape deliberate sin!

^b Heb: Gk by words

^c Other ancient authorities add so it is with the envious who give under compulsion

^d Syr: Gk he has many eyes instead of one

^e Other ancient authorities lack to God and humans

wisdom may be only detestable cleverness. 20: Fear of the Lord, cf. Prov 1.7; 9.10. 29: A person's appearance may be either deceiving or revealing.

20.1–31: Speech and related topics. These sayings concerning rebukes, silence, gifts and money, the fool, inappropriate speech, shame, lies, and other matters are connected more by catchwords and topics than by logical progression or argument. The appeal throughout is to human experience and natural reasoning, not to fear of the Lord or the commandments. 4: Like a eunuch, a sinner cannot be forced to do right any more than a eunuch can engage in sexual intercourse. 5–6: Keep silent, Prov 17.27–28. 9–12: Although wisdom literature attempted to

¹⁶ The fool says, “I have no friends, and I get no thanks for my good deeds.
Those who eat my bread are evil-tongued.”

¹⁷ How many will ridicule him, and how often!^a

¹⁸ A slip on the pavement is better than a slip of the tongue;
the downfall of the wicked will occur
just as speedily.

¹⁹ A coarse person is like an inappropriate story, continually on the lips of the ignorant.

²⁰ A proverb from a fool’s lips will be rejected,
for he does not tell it at the proper time.

²¹ One may be prevented from sinning by poverty;
so when he rests he feels no remorse.

²² One may lose his life through shame, or lose it because of human respect.^b

²³ Another out of shame makes promises to a friend,
and so makes an enemy for nothing.

²⁴ A lie is an ugly blot on a person;
it is continually on the lips of the ignorant.

²⁵ A thief is preferable to a habitual liar,
but the lot of both is ruin.

²⁶ A liar’s way leads to disgrace,
and his shame is ever with him.

PROVERBIAL SAYINGS^c

²⁷ The wise person advances himself by his words,
and one who is sensible pleases the great.

²⁸ Those who cultivate the soil heap up their harvest,
and those who please the great atone for injustice.

²⁹ Favors and gifts blind the eyes of the wise;
like a muzzle on the mouth they stop reproofs.

³⁰ Hidden wisdom and unseen treasure,
of what value is either?

³¹ Better are those who hide their folly than those who hide their wisdom.^d

21 Have you sinned, my child? Do so no more,

but ask forgiveness for your past sins.

² Flee from sin as from a snake;
for if you approach sin, it will bite you.

Its teeth are lion’s teeth,
and can destroy human lives.

³ All lawlessness is like a two-edged sword;
there is no healing for the wound it inflicts.

⁴ Panic and insolence will waste away riches;
thus the house of the proud will be laid waste.^e

⁵ The prayer of the poor goes from their lips to the ears of God,^f and his judgment comes speedily.

⁶ Those who hate reproof walk in the sinner’s steps,
but those who fear the Lord repent in their heart.

⁷ The mighty in speech are widely known;
when they slip, the sensible person knows it.

⁸ Whoever builds his house with other people’s money is like one who gathers stones for his burial mound.^g

^a Other ancient authorities add for he has not honestly received what he has, and what he does not have is unimportant to him

^b Other ancient authorities read his foolish look

^c This heading is included in the Gk text.

^d Other ancient authorities add ³²*Unwearied endurance in seeking the Lord is better than a masterless charioteer of one’s own life.*

^e Other ancient authorities read uprooted

^f Gk his ears

^g Other ancient authorities read for the winter

discern clear cause-and-effect relationships, it also acknowledged the possibility of paradox and uncertainty; cf. Prov 14.12; 16.25; Eccl 9.11–12. 24–26: For the evil effects of a lie, see 7.13; 25.2; Prov 6.17; 12.22; Ps 5.6.

21.1–10: The destructive effects of sin. Sin can destroy a person and lead to shame and death. 2–3: Sin is subtle and tempting like a snake (Gen 3.1–5), strong and destructive like a lion’s teeth (27.10), and deadly like a two-edged sword (Prov 5.4). 5: The prayer of the poor, cf. 35.17–21. 9: Bundle of tow, that is, combustible fibers. Fire here refers to the sinner’s destruction in this life rather than punishment after death. 10: Hades, the abode

- ⁹ An assembly of the wicked is like a bundle of tow,
and their end is a blazing fire.
- ¹⁰ The way of sinners is paved with smooth stones,
but at its end is the pit of Hades.
- ¹¹ Whoever keeps the law controls his thoughts, and the fulfillment of the fear of the Lord is wisdom.
- ¹² The one who is not clever cannot be taught,
but there is a cleverness that increases bitterness.
- ¹³ The knowledge of the wise will increase like a flood,
and their counsel like a life-giving spring.
- ¹⁴ The mind^a of a fool is like a broken jar;
it can hold no knowledge.
- ¹⁵ When an intelligent person hears a wise saying,
he praises it and adds to it;
when a fool^b hears it, he laughs at^c it and throws it behind his back.
- ¹⁶ A fool's chatter is like a burden on a journey,
but delight is found in the speech of the intelligent.
- ¹⁷ The utterance of a sensible person is sought in the assembly, and they ponder his words in their minds.
- ¹⁸ Like a house in ruins is wisdom to a fool,
and to the ignorant, knowledge is talk that has no meaning.
- ¹⁹ To a senseless person education is fetters
on his feet,
and like manacles on his right hand.
- ²⁰ A fool raises his voice when he laughs,
but the wise^d smile quietly.
- ²¹ To the sensible person education is like a golden ornament,
and like a bracelet on the right arm.
- ²² The foot of a fool rushes into a house,
but an experienced person waits respectfully outside.
- ²³ A boor peers into the house from the door,
but a cultivated person remains outside.
- ²⁴ It is ill-mannered for a person to listen at a door;
the discreet would be grieved by the disgrace.
- ²⁵ The lips of babblers speak of what is not their concern,^e but the words of the prudent are weighed in the balance.
- ²⁶ The mind of fools is in their mouth,
but the mouth of the wise is in^f their mind.
- ²⁷ When an ungodly person curses an adversary,^g
he curses himself.
- ²⁸ A whisperer degrades himself and is hated in his neighborhood.
- 22 The idler is like a filthy stone,
and every one hisses at his disgrace.
² The idler is like the filth of dunghills;
anyone that picks it up will shake it off his hand.

^a Syr Lat: Gk entrails

^b Syr: Gk reveler

^c Syr: Gk dislikes

^d Syr Lat: Gk clever

^e Other ancient authorities read of strangers speak of these things

^f Other ancient authorities omit in

^g Or curses Satan

of the dead (Heb “Sheol”).

21.11–28: The sage and the fool. The opening saying gives the series of comparisons a specifically Jewish religious context by linking them to the law, fear of the Lord, and wisdom—the major themes of the book. Otherwise, the appeal is to common human experience and reason. The contrasts between the sage and the fool are especially evident with regard to speech (21.16–17, 25–28), attitudes toward education (21.15, 19, 21), and behavior (21.22–24).

22.1–18: Dealing with fools. While the idler and the fool can be avoided, dealing with one's own foolish children is especially difficult. 1: Filthy stone, a rock used for wiping oneself after a bowel movement. 3–6: Daughter, sons were prized in Ben Sira's patriarchal society, whereas daughters were often regarded as a source of trouble for their

³ It is a disgrace to be the father of an undisciplined son, and the birth of a daughter is a loss.

⁴ A sensible daughter obtains a husband of her own, but one who acts shamefully is a grief to her father.

⁵ An impudent daughter disgraces father and husband, and is despised by both.

⁶ Like music in time of mourning is ill-timed conversation, but a thrashing and discipline are at all times wisdom.^a

⁹ Whoever teaches a fool is like one who glues potsherds together, or who rouses a sleeper from deep slumber.

¹⁰ Whoever tells a story to a fool tells it to a drowsy man; and at the end he will say, "What is it?"

¹¹ Weep for the dead, for he has left the light behind; and weep for the fool, for he has left intelligence behind.

Weep less bitterly for the dead, for he is at rest; but the life of the fool is worse than death.

¹² Mourning for the dead lasts seven days, but for the foolish or the ungodly it lasts all the days of their lives.

¹³ Do not talk much with a senseless person or visit an unintelligent person.^b Stay clear of him, or you may have trouble, and be spattered when he shakes himself off.

Avoid him and you will find rest, and you will never be wearied by his lack of sense.

¹⁴ What is heavier than lead? And what is its name except "Fool"?

¹⁵ Sand, salt, and a piece of iron are easier to bear than a stupid person.

¹⁶ A wooden beam firmly bonded into a building is not loosened by an earthquake; so the mind firmly resolved after due reflection will not be afraid in a crisis.

¹⁷ A mind settled on an intelligent thought is like stucco decoration that makes a wall smooth.

¹⁸ Fences^c set on a high place will not stand firm against the wind; so a timid mind with a fool's resolve will not stand firm against any fear.

¹⁹ One who pricks the eye brings tears, and one who pricks the heart makes clear its feelings.

²⁰ One who throws a stone at birds scares them away, and one who reviles a friend destroys a friendship.

²¹ Even if you draw your sword against a friend, do not despair, for there is a way back.

²² If you open your mouth against your friend, do not worry, for reconciliation is possible.

^a Other ancient authorities add Children who are brought up in a good life, conceal the lowly birth of their parents. ^bOther ancient authorities add Children who are disdainfully and boorishly haughty stain the nobility of their kindred.

^b Other ancient authorities add For being without sense he will despise everything about you

^c Other ancient authorities read Pebbles

fathers (cf. 7.24–25; 42.9–13). 6: Thrashing, corporal punishment was acceptable in this society (30.1–13; Prov 13.24; 23.13–14). 7–8: Translated in the marginal notes, these verses are probably not part of the original composition. 9: Glues potsherds together, reassembling a broken clay pot is futile and nearly impossible. 11–12: The fool is more deserving of pity and mourning than a dead person (cf. 38.16–23). 13: Avoid him, the best strategy for dealing with a fool. 14–15: The comparisons illustrate how burdensome a fool can be (cf. 21.16). Verse 14 has the structure of a riddle. 16–18: A fool's resolve, the comparisons contrast the strong resolve of the sage and the weak resolve of the fool.

22.19–26: Preserving friendships. Friendships are best preserved by keeping confidences and avoiding harsh words. A true friend remains faithful both in prosperity and in hard times (cf. 6.5–17; 9.10–16; 19.13–17; 27.16–21; 37.1–6). 19: Eye, just as the eye is sensitive to being hurt, so the heart (the place of thinking and feeling) suffers and expresses its own hurt feelings.

But as for reviling, arrogance, disclosure of secrets, or a treacherous blow— in these cases any friend will take to flight.

²³ Gain the trust of your neighbor in his poverty, so that you may rejoice with him in his prosperity.

Stand by him in time of distress, so that you may share with him in his inheritance.^a ²⁴ The vapor and smoke of the furnace precede the fire; so insults precede bloodshed.

²⁵ I am not ashamed to shelter a friend, and I will not hide from him.

²⁶ But if harm should come to me because of him, whoever hears of it will beware of him.

²⁷ Who will set a guard over my mouth, and an effective seal upon my lips, so that I may not fall because of them, and my tongue may not destroy me?

23 O Lord, Father and Master of my life, do not abandon me to their designs, and do not let me fall because of them!

² Who will set whips over my thoughts, and the discipline of wisdom over my mind, so as not to spare me in my errors, and not overlook my^b sins?

³ Otherwise my mistakes may be multiplied, and my sins may abound, and I may fall before my adversaries, and my enemy may rejoice over me.^c

⁴ O Lord, Father and God of my life, do not give me haughty eyes,⁵ and remove evil desire from me.

⁶ Let neither gluttony nor lust overcome me, and do not give me over to shameless passion.

DISCIPLINE OF THE TONGUE^d

⁷ Listen, my children, to instruction concerning the mouth;

the one who observes it will never be caught.

⁸ Sinners are overtaken through their lips; by them the reviler and the arrogant are tripped up.

⁹ Do not accustom your mouth to oaths, nor habitually utter the name of the Holy One;

¹⁰ for as a servant who is constantly under scrutiny will not lack bruises, so also the person who always swears and utters the Name will never be cleansed^e from sin.

¹¹ The one who swears many oaths is full of iniquity, and the scourge will not leave his house.

If he swears in error, his sin remains on him, and if he disregards it, he sins doubly; if he swears a false oath, he will not be justified, for his house will be filled with calamities.

¹² There is a manner of speaking comparable to death;^f may it never be found in the inheritance of Jacob!

Such conduct will be far from the godly, and they will not wallow in sins.

¹³ Do not accustom your mouth to coarse, foul language, for it involves sinful speech.

^a Other ancient authorities add For one should not always despise restricted circumstances, or admire a rich person who is stupid.

^b Gk their

^c Other ancient authorities add From them the hope of your mercy is remote

^d This heading is included in the Gk text.

^e Syr be free

^f Other ancient authorities read clothed about with death

22.27–23.6: Prayers for self-control. Two short units consisting of a question and a prayer ask for God's help in the areas of speech and sexuality. 23.1,4: O Lord, Father, cf. 51.10.

23.7–15: Sins of speech. Recognition of the need for self-control in matters of speech flows from the question and prayer in 22.27–23.1. 9: Oaths, for avoiding rash or false oaths sworn in God's name, see Ex 20.7; Lev

¹⁴ Remember your father and mother when you sit among the great, or you may forget yourself in their presence,
and behave like a fool through bad habit;
then you will wish that you had never been born,
and you will curse the day of your birth.

¹⁵ Those who are accustomed to using abusive language will never become disciplined as long as they live.

¹⁶ Two kinds of individuals multiply sins,
and a third incurs wrath.

Hot passion that blazes like a fire will not be quenched until it burns itself out;
one who commits fornication with his near of kin will never cease until the fire burns him up.

¹⁷ To a fornicator all bread is sweet;
he will never weary until he dies.

¹⁸ The one who sins against his marriage bed

says to himself, “Who can see me?
Darkness surrounds me, the walls hide me, and no one sees me. Why should I worry?

The Most High will not remember sins.”

¹⁹ His fear is confined to human eyes and he does not realize that the eyes of the Lord

are ten thousand times brighter than the sun;
they look upon every aspect of human behavior and see into hidden corners.

²⁰ Before the universe was created, it was known to him,
and so it is since its completion.

²¹ This man will be punished in the streets of the city,
and where he least suspects it, he will be seized.

²² So it is with a woman who leaves her husband
and presents him with an heir by another man.

²³ For first of all, she has disobeyed the law of the Most High;
second, she has committed an offense against her husband;
and third, through her fornication she has committed adultery and brought forth children by another man.

²⁴ She herself will be brought before the assembly,
and her punishment will extend to her children.

²⁵ Her children will not take root,
and her branches will not bear fruit.

²⁶ She will leave behind an accursed memory
and her disgrace will never be blotted out.

²⁷ Those who survive her will recognize that nothing is better than the fear of the Lord,
and nothing sweeter than to heed the commandments of the Lord.^a

THE PRAISE OF WISDOM^b

24 Wisdom praises herself, and tells of her glory in the midst of her people.

^a Other ancient authorities add as verse 28, It is a great honor to follow God, and to be received by him is long life.

^b This heading is included in the Gk text.

5.4; Deut 5.11. 12: Death, the biblical penalty for blasphemy (Lev 24.16). The inheritance of Jacob, the Israelites. 14: Curse the day of your birth, see Job 3.3–5; Jer 20.14–18.

23.16–27: Sexual sins. This unit flows from the question and prayer in 23.2–6. 16–17: Two kinds . . . a third, the numerical proverb (cf. 25.1–2,7–11; 26.5–6,28; 50.25–26) condemns three kinds of sexual sins: hot passion, incest, and fornication. 18–21: How adulterers delude themselves. 21: Punished, cf. Lev 20.10; Deut 22.22–27. 22–27: An adulteress who bears a child by another man offends both God and her husband (Ex 20.14; Deut. 5.18). 24: Before the assembly, cf. Deut 22.22–24. 27: The punishments visited upon those who commit adultery highlight the importance of the fear of the Lord and God's commandments.

24.1–22: Wisdom praises herself. Wisdom is personified as a female figure (cf. Prov 8.22–36; Job 28; Bar

²In the assembly of the Most High she opens her mouth,
and in the presence of his hosts she tells of her glory:
³“I came forth from the mouth of the Most High,
and covered the earth like a mist.
⁴I dwelt in the highest heavens,
and my throne was in a pillar of cloud.
⁵Alone I compassed the vault of heaven and traversed the depths of the abyss.
⁶Over waves of the sea, over all the earth, and over every people and nation I have held sway.^a ⁷Among all these I sought a resting place;
in whose territory should I abide?
⁸“Then the Creator of all things gave me a command,
and my Creator chose the place for my tent.
He said, ‘Make your dwelling in Jacob,
and in Israel receive your inheritance.’ ⁹Before the ages, in the beginning, he created me,
and for all the ages I shall not cease to be.
¹⁰In the holy tent I ministered before him,
and so I was established in Zion.
¹¹Thus in the beloved city he gave me a resting place,
and in Jerusalem was my domain.
¹²I took root in an honored people,
in the portion of the Lord, his heritage.
¹³“I grew tall like a cedar in Lebanon, and like a cypress on the heights of Hermon.
¹⁴I grew tall like a palm tree in En-gedi,^b and like rosebushes in Jericho;

like a fair olive tree in the field, and like a plane tree beside water^c I grew tall.
¹⁵Like cassia and camel’s thorn I gave forth perfume,
and like choice myrrh I spread my fragrance,
like galbanum, onycha, and stacte,
and like the odor of incense in the tent.
¹⁶Like a terebinth I spread out my branches, and my branches are glorious and graceful.
¹⁷Like the vine I bud forth delights, and my blossoms become glorious and abundant fruit.^d ¹⁹“Come to me, you who desire me,
and eat your fill of my fruits.
²⁰For the memory of me is sweeter than honey,
and the possession of me sweeter than the honeycomb.
²¹Those who eat of me will hunger for more,
and those who drink of me will thirst for more.
²²Whoever obeys me will not be put to shame,
and those who work with me will not sin.”

- ^a Other ancient authorities read I have acquired a possession
^b Other ancient authorities read on the beaches
^c Other ancient authorities omit beside water
^d Other ancient authorities add as verse 18, I am the mother of beautiful love, of fear, of knowledge, and of holy hope; being eternal, I am given to all my children, to those who are named by him.

3.9–4.4) who dwells in the Jerusalem Temple. 1–2: Her glory, both the Hebrew (hokhma) and Greek (sophia) terms for wisdom are feminine in gender. The use of first-person singular language in praise of oneself (are-talogy) is characteristic of ancient texts associated with the Egyptian goddess Isis. Her people, i.e., Israel, and the assembly of the Most High, i.e., the divine council, cf. Ps 82.1,6–7. 3–7: Wisdom was created by God and has cosmic significance (Prov 8.22–31; Wis 1.7; 7.22–30). 4: Pillar of cloud, see Ex 13.21–22; 33.9–10. 7: Resting place, cf. Job 28.12–28; Wis 7.22–30; 1 Enoch 42. 8–12: Zion, wisdom’s dwelling place in Jacob (cf. Bar 3.36–37) is the Jerusalem Temple. 9: Cf. Prov 8.22–23. 10: Holy tent, i.e., the tabernacle; see Ex 25.8–9. 13–17: The comparisons stress wisdom’s attractiveness and her life-giving power. 13: Lebanon, a high mountain range in modern Lebanon and Syria, famous in antiquity for its forests. Hermon, a high mountain on the border between modern Israel and Syria. 14: En-gedi and Jericho are oases in the Judean desert region, near the Dead Sea. 15: These items were ingredients for the perfume and incense used in the Jerusalem Temple; see Ex 30.22–38. 19–22: Wisdom’s banquet provides delights and keeps one from sin (cf. 51.23–30; Prov 9.1–6).

²³ All this is the book of the covenant of the Most High God,
the law that Moses commanded us
as an inheritance for the congregations of Jacob.^a

²⁵ It overflows, like the Pishon, with wisdom, and like the Tigris at the time of the first fruits.

²⁶ It runs over, like the Euphrates, with understanding,
and like the Jordan at harvest time.

²⁷ It pours forth instruction like the Nile,^b
like the Gihon at the time of vintage.

²⁸ The first man did not know wisdom^c fully,
nor will the last one fathom her.

²⁹ For her thoughts are more abundant than the sea,
and her counsel deeper than the great abyss.

³⁰ As for me, I was like a canal from a river,
like a water channel into a garden.

³¹ I said, "I will water my garden and drench my flower-beds."
And lo, my canal became a river,
and my river a sea.

³² I will again make instruction shine forth like the dawn,
and I will make it clear from far away.

³³ I will again pour out teaching like prophecy,
and leave it to all future generations.

³⁴ Observe that I have not labored for myself alone,
but for all who seek wisdom.^c

25 I take pleasure in three things, and they are beautiful in the sight of God and of mortals:^d agreement among brothers and sisters, friendship among neighbors, and a wife and a husband who live in harmony.

² I hate three kinds of people, and I loathe their manner of life:
a pauper who boasts, a rich person who lies,
and an old fool who commits adultery.

³ If you gathered nothing in your youth, how can you find anything in your old age?

⁴ How attractive is sound judgment in the gray-haired,
and for the aged to possess good counsel!

⁵ How attractive is wisdom in the aged, and understanding and counsel in the venerable!

⁶ Rich experience is the crown of the aged,
and their boast is the fear of the Lord.

⁷ I can think of nine whom I would call blessed,
and a tenth my tongue proclaims:
a man who can rejoice in his children;
a man who lives to see the downfall of his foes.

⁸ Happy the man who lives with a sensible wife,

^a Other ancient authorities add as verse 24, "Do not cease to be strong in the Lord, cling to him so that he may strengthen you; the Lord Almighty alone is God, and besides him there is no savior."

^b Syr: Gk It makes instruction shine forth like light

^c Gk her

^d Syr Lat: Gk In three things I was beautiful and I stood in beauty before the Lord and mortals.

24.23–34: Ben Sira's commentary on the preceding poem about Wisdom. The identification of wisdom with the covenant and the law (24.23; Ex 24.7; Deut 33.4) combines the two great traditions taught at Ben Sira's school. 25–27: Four of the rivers—Pishon, Tigris, Euphrates, and Gihon—appear in Gen 2.10–14. 28–29: The first man, Adam did not know the Torah, the true wisdom, which was given first to Moses. 30–34: As a wisdom teacher, Ben Sira regarded himself as a canal and a water channel for the wisdom conveyed in the Torah and the ancient Near Eastern wisdom tradition. See 33.16–19 and 51.13–30 for further autobiographical reflections on his role as a wisdom teacher.

25.1–11: Happiness. Two sets of numerical sayings (25.1–2,7–11) bracket an ideal picture of old age (25.3–6). 1–2: The scenes of harmony stand in contrast with pictures of persons who act inappropriately. 3–6: At their best the elderly manifest the value of wisdom and fear of the Lord. 7–11: Ten beatitudes declare certain persons happy in the present. 8: Plowing with an ox and ass together is forbidden by Deut 22.10. The reference here may and the one who does not plow with ox and ass together.^a Happy is the one who does not sin with the tongue,

and the one who has not served an inferior.

⁹ Happy is the one who finds a friend,^b and the one who speaks to attentive listeners.

¹⁰ How great is the one who finds wisdom!
But none is superior to the one who fears the Lord.

¹¹ Fear of the Lord surpasses everything; to whom can we compare the one who has it?^c

¹³ Any wound, but not a wound of the heart!
Any wickedness, but not the wickedness of a woman!

¹⁴ Any suffering, but not suffering from those who hate!
And any vengeance, but not the vengeance of enemies!

¹⁵ There is no venom^d worse than a snake's venom,^d
and no anger worse than a woman's^e wrath.

¹⁶ I would rather live with a lion and a dragon
than live with an evil woman.

¹⁷ A woman's wickedness changes her appearance,
and darkens her face like that of a bear.

¹⁸ Her husband sits^f among the neighbors,
and he cannot help sighing^g bitterly.

¹⁹ Any iniquity is small compared to a woman's iniquity;
may a sinner's lot befall her!

²⁰ A sandy ascent for the feet of the aged—such is a garrulous wife to a quiet husband.

²¹ Do not be ensnared by a woman's beauty, and do not desire a woman for her possessions.^h

²² There is wrath and impudence and great disgrace
when a wife supports her husband.

²³ Dejected mind, gloomy face, and wounded heart come from an evil
wife.

Drooping hands and weak knees come from the wife who does not make her husband happy.

²⁴ From a woman sin had its beginning,
and because of her we all die.

²⁵ Allow no outlet to water, and no boldness of speech to an evil wife.

²⁶ If she does not go as you direct,
separate her from yourself.

26 Happy is the husband of a good wife;
the number of his days will be doubled.

² A loyal wife brings joy to her husband, and he will complete his years in peace.

³ A good wife is a great blessing;
she will be granted among the blessings of the man who fears the Lord.

⁴ Whether rich or poor, his heart is content,
and at all times his face is cheerful.

^a Heb Syr: Gk lacks and the one who does not plow with ox and ass together

^b Lat Syr: Gk good sense

^c Other ancient authorities add as verse 12, The fear of the Lord is the beginning of love for him, and faith is the beginning of clinging to him.

^d Syr: Gk head

^e Other ancient authorities read an enemy's

^f Heb Syr: Gk loses heart

^g Other ancient authorities read and listening he sighs

^h Heb Syr: Other Gk authorities read for her beauty

be to polygamy with incompatible wives (cf. 26.6; 37.11).

25.13–26.18: Bad and good wives. Alternating sections describe a bad wife (25.13–26; 26.5–12) and a good wife (26.1–4; 26.13–18). 25.13–26: Advice for young male students about the bad effects of living with an evil and angry woman. Sirach's very negative remarks about women are striking even in the context of a patriarchal culture. 16: Prov 21.19; 25.24; 27.15. 22: Disgrace, for a husband to be dependent financially on his wife was regarded as a cause for shame. 24: From a woman sin had its beginning, see Gen 3.6. Sirach's interpretation exceeds Gen 3 in placing blame upon the woman (cf. 2 Cor 11.3; 1 Tim 2.14). 26: Separate, only the husband could initiate divorce proceedings (Deut 24.1–4). 26.1–4: A good wife is a great blessing to her husband, and brings him a long

⁵ Of three things my heart is frightened, and of a fourth I am in great fear:^a Slander in the city, the gathering of a mob, and false accusation—all these are worse than death.

⁶ But it is heartache and sorrow when a wife is jealous of a rival, and a tongue-lashing makes it known to all.

⁷ A bad wife is a chafing yoke;
taking hold of her is like grasping a scorpion.

⁸ A drunken wife arouses great anger;
she cannot hide her shame.

⁹ The haughty stare betrays an unchaste
wife;
her eyelids give her away.

¹⁰ Keep strict watch over a headstrong daughter,
or else, when she finds liberty, she will make use of it.

¹¹ Be on guard against her impudent eye, and do not be surprised if she sins against you.

¹² As a thirsty traveler opens his mouth and drinks from any water near him, so she will sit in front of every tent peg and open her quiver to the arrow.

¹³ A wife's charm delights her husband, and her skill puts flesh on his bones.

¹⁴ A silent wife is a gift from the Lord, and nothing is so precious as her self-discipline.

¹⁵ A modest wife adds charm to charm, and no scales can weigh the value of her chastity.

¹⁶ Like the sun rising in the heights of the Lord,

so is the beauty of a good wife in her well-ordered home.

¹⁷ Like the shining lamp on the holy lampstand,
so is a beautiful face on a stately figure.

¹⁸ Like golden pillars on silver bases,
so are shapely legs and steadfast feet.

Other ancient authorities add verses 19-27:

¹⁹ My child, keep sound the bloom of your youth, and do not give your strength to strangers.

²⁰ *Seek a fertile field within the whole plain,
and sow it with your own seed, trusting in your fine stock.*

²¹ So your offspring will prosper, and, having confidence in their good descent, will grow great.

²² A prostitute is regarded as spittle, and a married woman as a tower of death to her lovers.

²³ A godless wife is given as a portion to a lawless man, but a pious wife is given to the man who fears the Lord.

²⁴ *A shameless woman constantly acts disgracefully,
but a modest daughter will even be embarrassed before her husband.*

²⁵ A headstrong wife is regarded as a dog, but one who has a sense of shame will fear the Lord.

²⁶ *A wife honoring her husband will seem wise to all,
but if she dishonors him in her pride she will be known to all as ungodly.
Happy is the husband of a good wife;*

^a Syr: Meaning of Gk uncertain

life, joy, and peace (cf. Prov. 31.10–31). 26.5–12: Warnings about a jealous, bad, drunken, and unchaste wife lead into advice about keeping strict control over a headstrong daughter. 5–6: In numerical proverbs (see 23.16–17n) the last element is the climax. 6: Jealous of a rival, probably referring to hostility among wives in a polygamous household. 12: Tent peg . . . quiver, the language here about illicit sexual relations is very graphic. 26.13–18: A good wife is praised for her virtues and physical beauty. 13: Her skill, cf. Prov 31.10–31. 17–18: Cf. Song 4.1–7.

27.19–27: More about women. While not in the Hebrew text, these verses appear in Greek and Syriac manuscripts and seem to have been part of Ben Sira's original work. 19–21: The ideal for the young Jewish man is to marry a Jewish woman and raise up many children from her (Prov 5.7–23). 20: An agricultural metaphor for reproduction. 22–27: These further contrasts between bad and good wives (cf. 25.13–26.18) allow the positive ideal of the good Jewish wife to emerge more clearly.

for the number of his years will be doubled.

²⁷ A loud-voiced and garrulous wife is like a trumpet sounding the charge, and every person like this lives in the anarchy of war.

²⁸ At two things my heart is grieved, and because of a third anger comes over me:

a warrior in want through poverty, intelligent men who are treated contemptuously, and a man who turns back from righteousness to sin—the Lord will prepare him for the sword!

²⁹ A merchant can hardly keep from wrongdoing, nor is a tradesman innocent of sin.

27 Many have committed sin for gain,^a and those who seek to get rich will avert their eyes.

² As a stake is driven firmly into a fissure between stones, so sin is wedged in between selling and buying.

³ If a person is not steadfast in the fear of the Lord, his house will be quickly overthrown.

⁴ When a sieve is shaken, the refuse appears; so do a person's faults when he speaks.

⁵ The kiln tests the potter's vessels; so the test of a person is in his conversation.

⁶ Its fruit discloses the cultivation of a tree; so a person's speech discloses the cultivation of his mind.

⁷ Do not praise anyone before he speaks, for this is the way people are tested.

⁸ If you pursue justice, you will attain it and wear it like a glorious robe.

⁹ Birds roost with their own kind, so honesty comes home to those who practice it.

¹⁰ A lion lies in wait for prey; so does sin for evildoers.

¹¹ The conversation of the godly is always wise, but the fool changes like the moon.

¹² Among stupid people limit your time, but among thoughtful people linger on.

¹³ The talk of fools is offensive, and their laughter is wantonly sinful.

¹⁴ Their cursing and swearing make one's hair stand on end, and their quarrels make others stop their ears.

¹⁵ The strife of the proud leads to bloodshed, and their abuse is grievous to hear.

¹⁶ Whoever betrays secrets destroys confidence, and will never find a congenial friend.

¹⁷ Love your friend and keep faith with him; but if you betray his secrets, do not follow after him.

¹⁸ For as a person destroys his enemy, so you have destroyed the friendship of your neighbor.

¹⁹ And as you allow a bird to escape from your hand, so you have let your neighbor go, and will not catch him again.

²⁰ Do not go after him, for he is too far off, and has escaped like a gazelle from a snare.

²¹ For a wound may be bandaged, and there is reconciliation after abuse, but whoever has betrayed secrets is without hope.

^a Other ancient authorities read a trifle

26.28–27.29: Sin and speech. 26.28–27.7: How speech often reveals a person's character. 28: Another numerical proverb (see 23.16–17; 26.5–6). Warrior, the Greek translator may have mistaken warrior for the Hebrew word for "wealthy man." 27.2: Sin is wedged, business dealings often involve corruption (cf. Prov 11.1; 20.10,14). 4–7: Good speech is a paramount virtue in the wisdom tradition. A series of three comparisons from daily life disclose its diagnostic quality. 8–10: The contrasting effects of honesty and sin. 11–15: The contrast in the speech of the godly person and the fool. 16–21: Betraying confidences or secrets often brings friendships to an

²² Whoever winks the eye plots mischief, and those who know him will keep their distance.

²³ In your presence his mouth is all sweetness,
and he admires your words;
but later he will twist his speech and with your own words he will trip you up.

²⁴ I have hated many things, but him above all;
even the Lord hates him.

²⁵ Whoever throws a stone straight up throws it on his own head, and a treacherous blow opens up many wounds.

²⁶ Whoever digs a pit will fall into it, and whoever sets a snare will be caught in it.

²⁷ If a person does evil, it will roll back upon him,
and he will not know where it came from.

²⁸ Mockery and abuse issue from the proud,
but vengeance lies in wait for them like a lion.

²⁹ Those who rejoice in the fall of the godly will be caught in a snare, and pain will consume them before their death.

³⁰ Anger and wrath, these also are abominations,
yet a sinner holds on to them.

28 The vengeful will face the Lord's vengeance,
for he keeps a strict account of^a their sins.

² Forgive your neighbor the wrong he has done,
and then your sins will be pardoned
when you pray.

³ Does anyone harbor anger against another,
and expect healing from the Lord?

⁴ If one has no mercy toward another like himself,
can he then seek pardon for his own sins?

⁵ If a mere mortal harbors wrath, who will make an atoning sacrifice for his sins?

⁶ Remember the end of your life, and set enmity aside;
remember corruption and death, and be true to the commandments.

⁷ Remember the commandments, and do not be angry with your neighbor;
remember the covenant of the Most High, and overlook faults.

⁸ Refrain from strife, and your sins will be fewer;
for the hot-tempered kindle strife,

⁹ and the sinner disrupts friendships and sows discord among those who are at peace.

¹⁰ In proportion to the fuel, so will the fire burn,
and in proportion to the obstinacy, so will strife increase;^b in proportion to a person's strength will be his anger,

and in proportion to his wealth he will increase his wrath.

¹¹ A hasty quarrel kindles a fire,
and a hasty dispute sheds blood.

¹² If you blow on a spark, it will glow;
if you spit on it, it will be put out;
yet both come out of your mouth.

^a Other ancient authorities read for he firmly establishes

^b Other ancient authorities read burn

end (Prov 20.19; 25.9). 21: Without hope, of reconciliation (cf. 22.22). 22–24: The hatefulness of the hypocrite. 25–29: How people destroy themselves with their own evil devices; cf. Prov 26.27; Eccl 10.8.

27.30–28.7: Forgiveness of sins. Two very important attributes of God are justice and mercy. 27.30–28.1: Those who demand strict justice from others will have to face God's own strict justice (cf. Deut 32.35–36). 2–5: Those who seek God's mercy must be willing to show mercy to others (cf. Lev 19.18). 6–7: Remembering death, the commandments, and God's covenant can provide encouragement to forgive others. Death is frequently mentioned as a motivation for proper conduct in Sirach; see 7.36; 8.7; 14.12; 18.24; 38.20.

28.8–26: Destructive speech. The mouth can be the instrument for all kinds of bad speech, and so it must be carefully controlled. 8–12: The mouth can either ignite or extinguish anger and strife (cf. Prov 26.20–21).

¹³ Curse the gossips and the double-tongued, for they destroy the peace of many.

¹⁴ Slander^a has shaken many,
and scattered them from nation to nation;
it has destroyed strong cities,
and overturned the houses of the great.

¹⁵ Slander^a has driven virtuous women from their homes,
and deprived them of the fruit of their toil.

¹⁶ Those who pay heed to slander^b will not find rest,
nor will they settle down in peace.

¹⁷ The blow of a whip raises a welt,
but a blow of the tongue crushes the bones.

¹⁸ Many have fallen by the edge of the sword, but not as many as have fallen because of the tongue.

¹⁹ Happy is the one who is protected from it,
who has not been exposed to its anger,
who has not borne its yoke,
and has not been bound with its fetters.

²⁰ For its yoke is a yoke of iron,
and its fetters are fetters of bronze;

²¹ its death is an evil death,
and Hades is preferable to it.

²² It has no power over the godly;
they will not be burned in its flame.

²³ Those who forsake the Lord will fall into its power;
it will burn among them and will not be put out.

It will be sent out against them like a lion;
like a leopard it will mangle them.

^{24a} As you fence in your property with thorns,

^{25b} so make a door and a bolt for your mouth.

^{24b} As you lock up your silver and gold,

^{25a} so make balances and scales for your words.

²⁶ Take care not to err with your tongue,^c and fall victim to one lying in wait.

29 The merciful lend to their neighbors;
by holding out a helping hand they keep the commandments.

² Lend to your neighbor in his time of need;

repay your neighbor when a loan falls due.

³ Keep your promise and be honest with
him,
and on every occasion you will find what you need.

⁴ Many regard a loan as a windfall, and cause trouble to those who help
them.

⁵ One kisses another's hands until he gets a loan,
and is deferential in speaking of his neighbor's money;

but at the time for repayment he delays,
and pays back with empty promises,
and finds fault with the time.

⁶ If he can pay, his creditor^d will hardly get back half,
and will regard that as a windfall.

If he cannot pay, the borrower^d has robbed
the other of his money, and he has needlessly made him an enemy;

^a Gk A third tongue

^b Gk it

^c Gk with it

^d Gk he

13–16: Slander can and does ruin lives (51.2–6). 17–23: A series of comparisons illustrates the destructive effects of speech. 17: Bones, cf. Prov 25.15. 21: Hades (Heb “Sheol”) is the abode of the dead. 24–26: Various images highlight the need to guard against destructive speech. One’s words should be guarded as carefully as one’s prized possessions.

29.1–20: Money matters. 1–7: Lending. While loans could be given to fellow Jews without charging interest (Ex 22.25; Lev 25.35–37; Deut 15.7–11; 23.19–20; 24.10–13; Neh 5.10–11), charging interest was allowed when one loaned to non-Jews (Deut 23.20–21). Ben Sira encourages a willingness to make loans, but warns that there is

he will repay him with curses and reproaches, and instead of glory will repay him with dishonor.

⁷ Many refuse to lend, not because of meanness,
but from fear^a of being defrauded needlessly.

⁸ Nevertheless, be patient with someone in humble circumstances, and do not keep him waiting for your alms.

⁹ Help the poor for the commandment's sake, and in their need do not send them away empty-handed.

¹⁰ Lose your silver for the sake of a brother or a friend, and do not let it rust under a stone and be lost.

¹¹ Lay up your treasure according to the commandments of the Most High,
and it will profit you more than gold.

¹² Store up almsgiving in your treasury,
and it will rescue you from every disaster;

¹³ better than a stout shield and a sturdy spear,
it will fight for you against the enemy.

¹⁴ A good person will be surety for his neighbor,
but the one who has lost all sense of shame will fail him.

¹⁵ Do not forget the kindness of your guarantor,
for he has given his life for you.

¹⁶ A sinner wastes the property of his guarantor,

¹⁷ and the ungrateful person abandons his rescuer.

¹⁸ Being surety has ruined many who were prosperous,
and has tossed them about like waves of the sea;

it has driven the influential into exile,
and they have wandered among foreign nations.

¹⁹ The sinner comes to grief through surety;
his pursuit of gain involves him in lawsuits.

²⁰ Assist your neighbor to the best of your ability, but be careful not to fall yourself.

²¹ The necessities of life are water, bread, and clothing,
and also a house to assure privacy.

²² Better is the life of the poor under their own crude roof than sumptuous food in the house of others.

²³ Be content with little or much,
and you will hear no reproach for being a guest.^b

²⁴ It is a miserable life to go from house to house;
as a guest you should not open your mouth;

²⁵ you will play the host and provide drink without being thanked,
and besides this you will hear rude words like these:

²⁶ "Come here, stranger, prepare the table;
let me eat what you have there."

²⁷ "Be off, stranger, for an honored guest is here;

my brother has come for a visit, and I need the guest-room."

²⁸ It is hard for a sensible person to bear scolding about lodging^c and the insults of the moneylender.

^a Other ancient authorities read many refuse to lend, therefore, because of such meanness; they are afraid

^b Lat: Gk reproach from your family; other ancient authorities lack this line

^c Or scolding from the household

no guarantee that one will be repaid and so one must always be cautious (cf. 8.12–13). 8–13: Alms. Giving alms is in accord with the Torah (Deut 15.7) and will contribute to one's spiritual treasury (cf. 3.30–4.10). 14–20: Surety. Ben Sira's encouragement to provide surety or collateral for another person contrasts with the advice given repeatedly in Prov 6.1–5; 11.15; 17.18; 20.16; 22.2; 27.13.

29.21–28: Not depending on others. While the Torah directs caring for indigent relatives (Lev 25.35), receiving such care can become demeaning and even shameful. 21: Necessities, cf. the longer list in 39.26. 25: You will play the host, that is, you will be pressed into service in the household.

CONCERNING CHILDREN^a

- 30 He who loves his son will whip him often,
so that he may rejoice at the way he turns out.
- ² He who disciplines his son will profit by him,
and will boast of him among acquaintances.
- ³ He who teaches his son will make his enemies envious,
and will glory in him among his friends.
- ⁴ When the father dies he will not seem to be dead,
for he has left behind him one like himself,
- ⁵ whom in his life he looked upon with joy and at death, without grief.
- ⁶ He has left behind him an avenger against his enemies,
and one to repay the kindness of his friends.
- ⁷ Whoever spoils his son will bind up his wounds,
and will suffer heartache at every cry.
- ⁸ An unbroken horse turns out stubborn,
and an unchecked son turns out headstrong.
- ⁹ Pamper a child, and he will terrorize you;
play with him, and he will grieve you.
- ¹⁰ Do not laugh with him, or you will have sorrow with him,
and in the end you will gnash your teeth.
- ¹¹ Give him no freedom in his youth,
and do not ignore his errors.
- ¹² Bow down his neck in his youth,^b and beat his sides while he is young,
or else he will become stubborn and disobey you,
and you will have sorrow of soul from him.^c
- ¹³ Discipline your son and make his yoke heavy,^d

so that you may not be offended by his shamelessness.

- ¹⁴ Better off poor, healthy, and fit than rich and afflicted in body.
- ¹⁵ Health and fitness are better than any gold,
and a robust body than countless riches.
- ¹⁶ There is no wealth better than health of body,
and no gladness above joy of heart.
- ¹⁷ Death is better than a life of misery,
and eternal sleep^e than chronic sickness.

CONCERNING FOODS^f

- ¹⁸ Good things poured out upon a mouth that is closed are like offerings of food placed upon a grave.
- ¹⁹ Of what use to an idol is a sacrifice?
For it can neither eat nor smell.
So is the one punished by the Lord;
²⁰ he sees with his eyes and groans as a eunuch groans when embracing a girl.^g
- ²¹ Do not give yourself over to sorrow,
and do not distress yourself deliberately.

^a This heading is included in the Gk text.

^b Other ancient authorities lack this line and the preceding line

^c Other ancient authorities lack this line

^d Heb: Gk take pains with him

^e Other ancient authorities lack eternal sleep

^f This heading is included in the Gk text; other ancient authorities place the heading before verse 16

^g Other ancient authorities add So is the person who does right under compulsion

30.1–13: Fathers and sons. A father's discipline of his son will benefit the son and add to the father's good reputation before others. 1–6: Ben Sira's harsh views on raising children (cf. 22.6) were not unique (cf. Prov 13.24; 19.18; 22.15; 23.13–14; 29.15,17). 4: The child is the image of the father (cf. Gen 5.3; Tob 9.6). 6: Avenger, one who can vindicate his father's honor (cf. Ps 127.5). 7–13: Lack of discipline will lead to shame and sorrow for both parent and child (Deut 21.18–21).

30.14–25: Happiness. Three elements that lead to happiness are good health, good food, and a good disposition. 17: Death is better, cf. Job 3.11,13,17; Eccl 4.2–3; 6.3,10,13; Tob 3.6,10,13. 18–20: Food placed on a grave (Tob

²² A joyful heart is life itself,
and rejoicing lengthens one's life span.

²³ Indulge yourself^a and take comfort, and remove sorrow far from you,
for sorrow has destroyed many,
and no advantage ever comes from it.

²⁴ Jealousy and anger shorten life, and anxiety brings on premature old
age.

²⁵ Those who are cheerful and merry at table
will benefit from their food.

31 Wakefulness over wealth wastes away one's flesh,
and anxiety about it drives away sleep.

² Wakeful anxiety prevents slumber, and a severe illness carries off sleep.^b

³ The rich person toils to amass a fortune, and when he rests he fills himself with his dainties.

⁴ The poor person toils to make a meager living,
and if ever he rests he becomes needy.

⁵ One who loves gold will not be justified;
one who pursues money will be led astray^c by it.

⁶ Many have come to ruin because of gold, and their destruction has met them face to face.

⁷ It is a stumbling block to those who are avid for it, and every fool will be taken captive by
it.

⁸ Blessed is the rich person who is found blameless,
and who does not go after gold.

⁹ Who is he, that we may praise him?
For he has done wonders among his people.

¹⁰ Who has been tested by it and been found perfect?
Let it be for him a ground for boasting.

Who has had the power to transgress and did not transgress,
and to do evil and did not do it?

¹¹ His prosperity will be established,^d and the assembly will proclaim his acts of charity.

¹² Are you seated at the table of the great?^e
Do not be greedy at it, and do not say, "How much food there is here!"

¹³ Remember that a greedy eye is a bad thing.
What has been created more greedy than the eye?
Therefore it sheds tears for any reason.

¹⁴ Do not reach out your hand for everything you see,
and do not crowd your neighbor^f at the dish.

¹⁵ Judge your neighbor's feelings by your own,
and in every matter be thoughtful.

¹⁶ Eat what is set before you like a well brought-up person,^g and do not chew greedily, or you will give offense.

¹⁷ Be the first to stop, as befits good manners,

^a Other ancient authorities read Beguile yourself

^b Other ancient authorities read sleep carries off a severe illness

^c Heb Syr: Gk pursues destruction will be filled

^d Other ancient authorities add because of this

^e Heb Syr: Gk at a great table

^f Gk him

^g Heb: Gk like a human being

4.17) is useless. An idol (Deut 4.28; Isa 44.9–20) and a eunuch (20.4) are unable to enjoy the pleasures of life. 23: Indulge yourself, cf. Eccl 2.10; 11.9–10.

31.1–11: Riches and righteousness. Wealth does not guarantee happiness or righteousness (cf. Prov 30.8–9; Eccl 5.10). 8–11: The beatitude acknowledges that it is possible (by exception) for a rich person to be righteous (cf. 13.24; Prov 28.20). 8: Gold, the Hebrew text has mammon (cf. Mt 6.24; Lk 16.9,13).

31.12–32.13: Table manners and moderation. In the upper-class milieu supposed here, cautious public behavior could help in establishing and maintaining one's good reputation. The topic of proper behavior at banquets was a frequent theme in ancient Egyptian wisdom literature, including Ptahhotep and Amenemope. 12–18: The goal behind observing good table manners (cf. Prov 23.1–3) is to avoid drawing undue and unwelcome

- and do not be insatiable, or you will give offense.
- ¹⁸ If you are seated among many persons, do not help yourself^a before they do.
- ¹⁹ How ample a little is for a well-disciplined person!
He does not breathe heavily when in bed.
- ²⁰ Healthy sleep depends on moderate eating;
he rises early, and feels fit.
The distress of sleeplessness and of nausea and colic are with the glutton.
- ²¹ If you are overstuffed with food, get up to vomit, and you will have relief.
- ²² Listen to me, my child, and do not disregard me,
and in the end you will appreciate my words.
In everything you do be moderate,^b and no sickness will overtake you.
- ²³ People bless the one who is liberal with food,
and their testimony to his generosity is trustworthy.
- ²⁴ The city complains of the one who is stingy with food,
and their testimony to his stinginess is accurate.
- ²⁵ Do not try to prove your strength by wine-drinking,
for wine has destroyed many.
- ²⁶ As the furnace tests the work of the smith,^c
so wine tests hearts when the insolent quarrel.
- ²⁷ Wine is very life to human beings if taken in moderation.
What is life to one who is without wine?
It has been created to make people happy.
- ²⁸ Wine drunk at the proper time and in moderation is rejoicing of heart and gladness of soul.
- ²⁹ Wine drunk to excess leads to bitterness of spirit,
to quarrels and stumbling.
- ³⁰ Drunkenness increases the anger of a fool to his own hurt,
reducing his strength and adding wounds.
- ³¹ Do not reprove your neighbor at a banquet of wine,
and do not despise him in his merrymaking;
speak no word of reproach to him,
and do not distress him by making demands of him.
- 32 If they make you master of the feast,
do not exalt yourself;
be among them as one of their number.
Take care of them first and then sit down;
² when you have fulfilled all your duties,
take your place,
so that you may be merry along with them
and receive a wreath for your excellent leadership.
- ³ Speak, you who are older, for it is your right,
but with accurate knowledge, and do not interrupt the music.
- ⁴ Where there is entertainment, do not pour out talk;
do not display your cleverness at the wrong time.
- ⁵ A ruby seal in a setting of gold is a concert of music at a banquet of wine.
- ⁶ A seal of emerald in a rich setting of gold is the melody of music with good wine.
- ⁷ Speak, you who are young, if you are obliged to,
but no more than twice, and only if asked.

^a Gk reach out your hand

^b Heb Syr: Gk industrious

^c Heb: Gk tests the hardening of steel by dipping

attention to oneself. 19–31: The bad effects of drinking too much wine (cf. Prov 20.1; 23.29–35; 31.4–5) are contrasted with the good effects of the moderate use of wine (cf. Ps 104.15). 32.1–13: Advice to various participants at a banquet. 1: Master of the feast, the one who cares for the needs of those who are eating (2 Macc 2.27). 3–10:

⁸ Be brief; say much in few words;
be as one who knows and can still hold his tongue.

⁹ Among the great do not act as their equal;
and when another is speaking, do not babble.

¹⁰ Lightning travels ahead of the thunder, and approval goes before one who is modest.

¹¹ Leave in good time and do not be the last;
go home quickly and do not linger.

¹² Amuse yourself there to your heart's content,
but do not sin through proud speech.

¹³ But above all bless your Maker, who fills you with his good gifts.

¹⁴ The one who seeks God^a will accept his discipline,
and those who rise early to seek him^b will find favor.

¹⁵ The one who seeks the law will be filled with it,
but the hypocrite will stumble at it.

¹⁶ Those who fear the Lord will form true judgments,
and they will kindle righteous deeds
like a light.

¹⁷ The sinner will shun reproof, and will find a decision according to his liking.

¹⁸ A sensible person will not overlook a thoughtful suggestion;
an insolent^c and proud person will not be deterred by fear.^d

¹⁹ Do nothing without deliberation, but when you have acted, do not regret
it.

²⁰ Do not go on a path full of hazards, and do not stumble at an obstacle twice.^e

²¹ Do not be overconfident on a smooth^f road,

²² and give good heed to your paths.^g

²³ Guard^h yourself in every act, for this is the keeping of the commandments.

²⁴ The one who keeps the law preserves himself,ⁱ and the one who trusts the Lord will not suffer loss.

33 No evil will befall the one who fears
the Lord,
but in trials such a one will be rescued
again and again.

² The wise will not hate the law,
but the one who is hypocritical about it is like a boat in a storm.

³ The sensible person will trust in the law;
for such a one the law is as dependable
as a divine oracle.

⁴ Prepare what to say, and then you will be listened to;
draw upon your training, and give your answer.

⁵ The heart of a fool is like a cart wheel,
and his thoughts like a turning axle.

⁶ A mocking friend is like a stallion that neighs no matter who the rider is.

^a Heb: Gk who fears the Lord

^b Other ancient authorities lack to seek him

^c Heb: Gk alien

^d Meaning of Gk uncertain. Other ancient authorities add and after acting, with him, without deliberation

^e Heb: Gk stumble on stony ground

^f Or an unexplored

^g Heb Syr: Gk and beware of your children

^h Heb Syr: Gk Trust

ⁱ Heb: Gk who believes the law heeds the commandments

Directions to older persons and the young. 11–13: Advice meant for all. 13: Bless your Maker, by saying a prayer of thanksgiving after the meal.

32.14–33.6: The law, fear of the Lord, and wisdom. Ben Sira's ideal sage combines these three elements (which are the book's central themes), and so differs sharply from fools and sinners. 14: Discipline, a frequent topic in the book; see 1.27; 4.17; 6.18,22; 21.19,21; 26.14; 42.5,8; 50.27). Rise early, for prayer (cf. 39.5). 15: The law, here and elsewhere in the passage the reference is to the law of Moses (the Torah). 17: Decision, an interpretation of the Torah. 33.1: Cf. Wis 10.1–21. 2: Hebrew, "He who hates the law is not wise, and is tossed about like a boat in a storm." 3: Divine oracle, the Urim and Thummim (45.10; Ex 28.30; Num 27.21; 1 Sam 14.41–42).

- ⁷ Why is one day more important than another,
when all the daylight in the year is from the sun?
- ⁸ By the Lord's wisdom they were distinguished,
and he appointed the different seasons and festivals.
- ⁹ Some days he exalted and hallowed, and some he made ordinary days.
- ¹⁰ All human beings come from the ground, and humankind^a was created out of the dust.
- ¹¹ In the fullness of his knowledge the Lord distinguished them and appointed their different ways.
- ¹² Some he blessed and exalted, and some he made holy and brought near to himself;
but some he cursed and brought low, and turned them out of their place.
- ¹³ Like clay in the hand of the potter, to be molded as he pleases, so all are in the hand of their Maker, to be given whatever he decides.
- ¹⁴ Good is the opposite of evil, and life the opposite of death;
so the sinner is the opposite of the godly.
- ¹⁵ Look at all the works of the Most High; they come in pairs, one the opposite of the other.
- ¹⁶ Now I was the last to keep vigil;
I was like a gleaner following the grape-pickers;
- ¹⁷ by the blessing of the Lord I arrived first, and like a grape-picker I filled my wine press.
- ¹⁸ Consider that I have not labored for myself alone,
but for all who seek instruction.
- ¹⁹ Hear me, you who are great among the people,
and you leaders of the congregation, pay heed!
- ²⁰ To son or wife, to brother or friend, do not give power over yourself, as long as you live;
and do not give your property to another, in case you change your mind and must ask for it.
- ²¹ While you are still alive and have breath in you, do not let anyone take your place.
- ²² For it is better that your children should ask from you than that you should look to the hand of your children.
- ²³ Excel in all that you do;
bring no stain upon your honor.
- ²⁴ At the time when you end the days of your life,
in the hour of death, distribute your inheritance.
- ²⁵ Fodder and a stick and burdens for a donkey;
bread and discipline and work for a slave.

^a Heb: Gk Adam

33.7–15: The pairs. God's plan for creation is based on opposites. Nevertheless, since the absolute sovereignty of God is assumed, this is not a full-scale dualism. Ben Sira may be influenced by Stoic philosophy. 7–9: Some days are holy days and others are ordinary (Gen 1.14; 2.3; Deut 16.1–15). 10–13: A similar dualism occurs among humans. Although all are made from dust (Gen 3.19), some are blessed and some are cursed; perhaps referring to the different status of Israel (Gen 12.2–3; Ex 19.5) and the Canaanites (Gen 9.25–27; 12.6–7). 13: Clay, cf. Isa 29.16; 45.9; 64.8; Jer 18.1–12. 14–15: The dualism of the pairs is modified, since the Most High remains sovereign over all (Isa 45.7).

33.16–19: Ben Sira's vocation. For other autobiographical notices, see 24.30–34; 34.9–13; 39.12–13; 50.27; 51.13–30. 16–17: A gleaner collects the leftovers during the harvest. By study and hard work Ben Sira became a grape-picker, that is, a wisdom teacher. 18–19: For all, cf. 24.34.

33.20–33: Master of the household. The advice given here is intended for an adult male with a family, financial resources, and slaves. 20–24: Preserve your financial independence and do not distribute your property until the hour of death. 25–33: Human slavery was a socially and religiously sanctioned institution, and integral to the economy, in Ben Sira's world (cf. 7.20–21). His harsh advice is tempered by recognizing the self-interest

²⁶ Set your slave to work, and you will find rest;
leave his hands idle, and he will seek liberty.

²⁷ Yoke and thong will bow the neck,
and for a wicked slave there are racks and tortures.

²⁸ Put him to work, in order that he may not be idle,
²⁹ for idleness teaches much evil.

³⁰ Set him to work, as is fitting for him,
and if he does not obey, make his fetters heavy.

Do not be overbearing toward anyone,
and do nothing unjust.

³¹ If you have but one slave, treat him like yourself,
because you have bought him with blood.

If you have but one slave, treat him like a brother,
for you will need him as you need your life.

³² If you ill-treat him, and he leaves you and runs away,

³³ which way will you go to seek him?

34 The senseless have vain and false hopes,
and dreams give wings to fools.

² As one who catches at a shadow and pursues the wind,
so is anyone who believes in^a dreams.

³ What is seen in dreams is but a reflection,
the likeness of a face looking at itself.

⁴ From an unclean thing what can be clean?

And from something false what can be true?

⁵ Divinations and omens and dreams are unreal,
and like a woman in labor, the mind has fantasies.

⁶ Unless they are sent by intervention from the Most High,
pay no attention to them.

⁷ For dreams have deceived many,
and those who put their hope in them have perished.

⁸ Without such deceptions the law will be fulfilled,
and wisdom is complete in the mouth of the faithful.

⁹ An educated^b person knows many things, and one with much experience knows what he is talking about.

¹⁰ An inexperienced person knows few things,

¹¹ but he that has traveled acquires much cleverness.

¹² I have seen many things in my travels,
and I understand more than I can express.

¹³ I have often been in danger of death,
but have escaped because of these experiences.

¹⁴ The spirit of those who fear the Lord will live,

¹⁵ for their hope is in him who saves them.

¹⁶ Those who fear the Lord will not be timid,
or play the coward, for he is their hope.

^a Syr: Gk pays heed to

^b Other ancient authorities read A traveled

of someone who owns only one slave (33.31–33). 30: Do nothing unjust, that is, act according to the biblical laws pertaining to slaves (Ex 21.2–6, 20–21, 26–27; Lev 25.46; Deut 15.12–18). 32: Runs away, Deut 23.15–16.

34.1–8: A critique of dreams. It is better to fulfill the law and to practice perfect wisdom than to rely on dreams for wisdom and direction. Ben Sira may be criticizing the Jewish apocalyptic movement, which relied extensively on dreams and visions for divine guidance (see the book of Daniel). 1: Dreams give wings to fools, cf. Deut 13.2–5; 18.9–14; Eccl 5.7; Jer 29.8. 2: Pursues the wind, cf. Eccl 1.14; Hos 12.1. 3: Reflection, dreams are often merely mirrors of one's own concerns. 4: Unclean . . . clean, cf. Job 14.4. 6: From the Most High, an exception is made for dreams that definitely come from God (as in Gen 37.5–10; Judg 7.13–15; Dan 2).

34.9–13: The value of experience through travel. See 39.4; 51.13.

34.14–20: Fear of the Lord. Blessings accompany those who fear the Lord, which is the proper human re-

¹⁷Happy is the soul that fears the Lord!
¹⁸To whom does he look? And who is his support?
¹⁹The eyes of the Lord are on those who love him,
 a mighty shield and strong support,
 a shelter from scorching wind and a shade from noonday sun,
 a guard against stumbling and a help against falling.
²⁰He lifts up the soul and makes the eyes sparkle;
 he gives health and life and blessing.
²¹If one sacrifices ill-gotten goods, the offering is blemished;^a ²²the gifts^b of the lawless are not acceptable.
²³The Most High is not pleased with the offerings of the ungodly, nor for a multitude of sacrifices does he forgive sins.
²⁴Like one who kills a son before his father's eyes is the person who offers a sacrifice from the property of the poor.
²⁵The bread of the needy is the life of the poor;
 whoever deprives them of it is a murderer.
²⁶To take away a neighbor's living is to commit murder;
²⁷to deprive an employee of wages is to shed blood.
²⁸When one builds and another tears down,
 what do they gain but hard work?

²⁹When one prays and another curses,
 to whose voice will the Lord listen?
³⁰If one washes after touching a corpse,
 and touches it again,
 what has been gained by washing?
³¹So if one fasts for his sins,
 and goes again and does the same things,
 who will listen to his prayer?
 And what has he gained by humbling himself?

35 The one who keeps the law makes many offerings;
²one who heeds the commandments makes an offering of well-being.
³The one who returns a kindness offers choice flour,
⁴and one who gives alms sacrifices a thank offering.
⁵To keep from wickedness is pleasing to the Lord,
 and to forsake unrighteousness is an atonement.
⁶Do not appear before the Lord empty-handed,
⁷for all that you offer is in fulfillment of the commandment.
⁸The offering of the righteous enriches the altar,
 and its pleasing odor rises before the Most High.
⁹The sacrifice of the righteous is acceptable,
 and it will never be forgotten.

^a Other ancient authorities read is made in mockery

^b Other ancient authorities read mockeries

sponse to true wisdom (cf. 1.11–30; 2.1–18). 19: The eyes of the Lord, cf. Ps 34.15. Shelter, cf. Pss 61.2–4; 91.1–4; 121.5–6; Isa 25.4.

34.21–31: True religion and social justice. Religious practices must be animated by and accomplished with a concern for social justice (cf. 1 Sam 15.22; Ps 51.16–19; Prov 15.8; 21.3; Hos 6.6; Amos 5.21–24). 21: Blemished, cf. Lev 22.18–25. 26–27: Deprive an employee, cf. Lev 19.13. 28: One builds and another tears down, both the poor and the rich lose. 29: To whose voice, cf. 4.5–6; 35.17–21. 30: Touching a corpse makes a person ritually impure (Num 19.11). 31: Fasts for his sins, most likely a reference to the Day of Atonement (Lev 23.27–32).

35.1–13: Good deeds and sacrifices. While Ben Sira was an enthusiastic supporter of the Jerusalem Temple and its priesthood (cf. 50.1–24), he also insisted that sacrifices be offered in the proper spirit and be accompanied by ethical obedience to the Torah (cf. Isa 1.11–18; Mic 6.6–8; Tob 1.6–8). 1–5: Observing the commandments, performing kind actions, and avoiding sin are equivalent to offering sacrifices to God (cf. Ps 51.17; 1QS 8.1–4). 6–13: But such observances are neither in opposition to the offering of material sacrifices nor substitutes for them. Here Ben Sira offers his endorsement of the sacrificial system carried out at the Jerusalem Temple.

¹⁰ Be generous when you worship the Lord, and do not stint the first fruits of your hands.

¹¹ With every gift show a cheerful face,
and dedicate your tithe with gladness.

¹² Give to the Most High as he has given to you,
and as generously as you can afford.

¹³ For the Lord is the one who repays,
and he will repay you sevenfold.

¹⁴ Do not offer him a bribe, for he will not accept it;

¹⁵ and do not rely on a dishonest sacrifice;

for the Lord is the judge,
and with him there is no partiality.

¹⁶ He will not show partiality to the poor;
but he will listen to the prayer of one who is wronged.

¹⁷ He will not ignore the supplication of the orphan,
or the widow when she pours out her complaint.

¹⁸ Do not the tears of the widow run down her cheek

¹⁹ as she cries out against the one who causes them to fall?

²⁰ The one whose service is pleasing to the Lord will be accepted, and his prayer will reach to the clouds.

²¹ The prayer of the humble pierces the clouds,
and it will not rest until it reaches its goal;

it will not desist until the Most High responds

²² and does justice for the righteous, and executes judgment.

Indeed, the Lord will not delay, and like a warrior^a will not be patient until he crushes the loins of the unmerciful

²³ and repays vengeance on the nations;
until he destroys the multitude of the insolent,

and breaks the scepters of the unrighteous;

²⁴ until he repays mortals according to their deeds,
and the works of all according to their thoughts;

²⁵ until he judges the case of his people and makes them rejoice in his mercy.

²⁶ His mercy is as welcome in time of distress
as clouds of rain in time of drought.

36 Have mercy upon us, O God^b of all,
² and put all the nations in fear of you.

³ Lift up your hand against foreign nations and let them see your might.

⁴ As you have used us to show your holiness to them,
so use them to show your glory to us.

⁵ Then they will know,^c as we have known,
that there is no God but you, O Lord.

⁶ Give new signs, and work other wonders;

⁷ make your hand and right arm glorious.

⁸ Rouse your anger and pour out your wrath;

⁹ destroy the adversary and wipe out the enemy.

¹⁰ Hasten the day, and remember the appointed time,^d

^a Heb: Gk and with them

^b Heb: Gk O Master, the God

^c Heb: Gk And let them know you

^d Other ancient authorities read remember your oath

35.14–26: God's justice. As a just judge God will not be bribed by dishonest sacrifice. God will answer the prayers of those most in need. 15: No partiality, cf. Deut 10.17; Job 34.19; Wis 6.7. 17: Orphan . . . widow, God will defend the most vulnerable in society (cf. 4.9–10; Ps 68.5; Prov 23.10–11). 22–26: This passage prepares for the prayer in 36.1–22. It may allude to political turmoil in Ben Sira's own time. 25: His people, this suggests that the oppressors threatened here were foreign enemies of Israel, perhaps the Seleucids who had recently replaced the Ptolemies as rulers over the land of Israel.

36.1–22: Prayers for God's people. 1–12: A plea for deliverance from Israel's enemies, perhaps from the Seleucid rulers after 198 BCE (cf. Ps 44.1–8; 2 Macc 1.24–29). 1: God of all, cf. 36.5,12; 50.22. 4: As God manifested holiness in rescuing Israel from exile (Ezek 20.41; 28.25), so may God display glory by subduing its enemies now. 6–7: Signs . . . wonders . . . hand . . . right arm, allusions to the Exodus from Egypt (Ex 11.9–10; 15.6; Deut 4.34; 7.19;

- and let people recount your mighty deeds.
- ¹¹ Let survivors be consumed in the fiery wrath,
and may those who harm your people meet destruction.
- ¹² Crush the heads of hostile rulers who say, "There is no one but ourselves."
- ¹³ Gather all the tribes of Jacob,^a ¹⁶ and give them their inheritance, as at the beginning.
- ¹⁷ Have mercy, O Lord, on the people called by your name, on Israel, whom you have named^b your firstborn,
- ¹⁸ Have pity on the city of your sanctuary,^c
Jerusalem, the place of your dwelling.^d
- ¹⁹ Fill Zion with your majesty,^e and your temple^f with your glory.
- ²⁰ Bear witness to those whom you created in the beginning,
and fulfill the prophecies spoken in your name.
- ²¹ Reward those who wait for you and let your prophets be found trustworthy.
- ²² Hear, O Lord, the prayer of your servants, according to your goodwill toward^g your people, and all who are on the earth will know that you are the Lord, the God of the ages.
- ²³ The stomach will take any food,
yet one food is better than another.
- ²⁴ As the palate tastes the kinds of game,
so an intelligent mind detects false words.
- ²⁵ A perverse mind will cause grief,
but a person with experience will pay him back.
- ²⁶ A woman will accept any man as a husband,

- but one girl is preferable to another.
- ²⁷ A woman's beauty lights up a man's face,
and there is nothing he desires more.
- ²⁸ If kindness and humility mark her speech,
her husband is more fortunate than other men.
- ²⁹ He who acquires a wife gets his best possession,^h a helper fit for him and a pillar of support.ⁱ
- ³⁰ Where there is no fence, the property will be plundered; and where there is no wife, a man will become a fugitive and a wanderer.^j
- ³¹ For who will trust a nimble robber that skips from city to city?
So who will trust a man that has no nest,
but lodges wherever night overtakes him?

37 Every friend says, "I too am a friend";
but some friends are friends only in name.

- ² Is it not a sorrow like that for death itself
when a dear friend turns into an enemy?

- ^a Owing to a dislocation in the Greek Mss of Sirach, the verse numbers 14 and 15 are not used in chapter 36, though no text is missing.
- ^b Other ancient authorities read you have likened to
- ^c Or on your holy city
- ^d Heb: Gk your rest
- ^e Heb Syr: Gk the celebration of your wondrous deeds
- ^f Heb Syr: Gk Lat people
- ^g Heb and two Gk witnesses: Lat and most Gk witnesses read according to the blessing of Aaron for
- ^h Heb: Gk enters upon a possession
- ⁱ Heb: Gk rest
- ^j Heb: Gk wander about and sigh

Neh 9.10). 10: The appointed time, when Israel will be freed from its foreign oppressors. 13–22: A prayer for the ingathering of Israel and God's blessing on the Jerusalem Temple. 17: Called by your name, see Deut 28.10; Jer 14.9. Firstborn, see Ex 4.22. 18: Your dwelling, cf. Pss 26.8; 63.2; 102.16; 132.13–14.

36.23–31: On choosing a wife. 23–25: On discernment in general.

26–31: On choosing a wife in particular (cf. 26.13–18). 26: Accept, marriages were often arranged by the fathers (cf. 7.25). 29: In a patriarchal family, the wife was regarded as the husband's possession. A helper fit for him, see Gen 2.18. 30: A fugitive and a wanderer, like Cain (Gen 4.12,14).

37.1–15: On choosing a friend and a counselor. 1–7: More warnings against false and fair-weather friends (cf.

³ O inclination to evil, why were you formed to cover the land with deceit?

⁴ Some companions rejoice in the happiness of a friend,
but in time of trouble they are against him.

⁵ Some companions help a friend for their stomachs' sake, yet in battle they will carry his shield.

⁶ Do not forget a friend during the battle,^a and do not be unmindful of him when you distribute your spoils.^b

⁷ All counselors praise the counsel they give, but some give counsel in their own interest.

⁸ Be wary of a counselor,
and learn first what is his interest,
for he will take thought for himself.

He may cast the lot against you ⁹ and tell you, "Your way is good,"
and then stand aside to see what happens to you.

¹⁰ Do not consult the one who regards you with suspicion;
hide your intentions from those who are jealous of you.

¹¹ Do not consult with a woman about her rival or with a coward about war, with a merchant about business or with a buyer about selling, with a miser about generosity^c or with the merciless about kindness, with an idler about any work or with a seasonal laborer about completing his work, with a lazy servant about a big task—pay no attention to any advice they give.

¹² But associate with a godly person whom you know to be a keeper of the commandments, who is like-minded with yourself,
and who will grieve with you if you fail.

¹³ And heed^d the counsel of your own heart, for no one is more faithful to you than it is.

¹⁴ For our own mind sometimes keeps us better informed than seven sentinels sitting high on a watchtower.

¹⁵ But above all pray to the Most High that he may direct your way in truth.

¹⁶ Discussion is the beginning of every work,
and counsel precedes every undertaking.

¹⁷ The mind is the root of all conduct;
¹⁸ it sprouts four branches,^e good and evil, life and death;
and it is the tongue that continually rules them.

¹⁹ Some people may be clever enough to teach many,
and yet be useless to themselves.

²⁰ A skillful speaker may be hated;
he will be destitute of all food,

²¹ for the Lord has withheld the gift of charm,
since he is lacking in all wisdom.

²² If a person is wise to his own advantage,
the fruits of his good sense will be praiseworthy.^f

²³ A wise person instructs his own people, and the fruits of his good sense will endure.

²⁴ A wise person will have praise heaped upon him,

^a Heb: Gk in your heart

^b Heb: Gk him in your wealth

^c Heb: Gk gratitude

^d Heb: Gk establish

^e Heb: Gk As a clue to changes of heart four kinds of destiny appear

^f Other ancient witnesses read trustworthy

6.5–17; 9.10–16; 19.13–17; 22.19–26; 27.16–21). 3: O inclination to evil, the evil impulse (Heb yetser) is the origin of sins and offenses against friendships (cf. 15.14n). 5: Carry his shield, defend from attack (cf. Ps 35.2). 8–11: By finding out a prospective counselor's own agenda, one can avoid relying on inappropriate counselors. 11: Her rival, perhaps another wife (26.6). 12–15: The best sources of good counsel are those who keep the commandments, one's own heart, and the Most High.

37.16–26: Wisdom and action. 16–18: Wise action demands consultation, thought, and articulation. 19–26:

- and all who see him will call him happy.
 25 The days of a person's life are numbered, but the days of Israel are without number.
 26 One who is wise among his people will inherit honor,^a
 and his name will live forever.
 27 My child, test yourself while you live;
 see what is bad for you and do not give in to it.
 28 For not everything is good for everyone,
 and no one enjoys everything.
 29 Do not be greedy for every delicacy,
 and do not eat without restraint;
 30 for overeating brings sickness,
 and gluttony leads to nausea.
 31 Many have died of gluttony, but the one who guards against it prolongs his life.

- 38 Honor physicians for their services,
 for the Lord created them;
 2 for their gift of healing comes from the Most High,
 and they are rewarded by the king.
 3 The skill of physicians makes them distinguished,
 and in the presence of the great they are admired.
 4 The Lord created medicines out of the earth,
 and the sensible will not despise them.
 5 Was not water made sweet with a tree in order that its^b power might be known?
 6 And he gave skill to human beings that he^c might be glorified in his marvelous works.
 7 By them the physician^d heals and takes away pain;
 8 the pharmacist makes a mixture from them.

- God's^e works will never be finished;
 and from him health^f spreads over all the earth.
 9 My child, when you are ill, do not delay,
 but pray to the Lord, and he will heal
 you.
 10 Give up your faults and direct your hands rightly,
 and cleanse your heart from all sin.
 11 Offer a sweet-smelling sacrifice, and a memorial portion of choice flour, and pour oil on your offering, as much as you can afford.^g 12 Then give the physician his place, for the Lord created him;
 do not let him leave you, for you need
 him.
 13 There may come a time when recovery lies in the hands of physicians,^h 14 for they too pray to the Lord that he grant them success in diagnosisⁱ
 and in healing, for the sake of preserving life.
 15 He who sins against his Maker, will be defiant toward the physician.^j 16 My child, let your tears fall for the dead,
 and as one in great pain begin the lament.

^a Other ancient authorities read confidence

^b Or his

^c Or they

^d Heb: Gk he

^e Gk His

^f Or peace

^g Heb: Lat lacks as much as you can afford; Meaning of Gk uncertain

^h Gk in their hands

ⁱ Heb: Gk rest

^j Heb: Gk may he fall into the hands of the physician

There are clever persons who lack wisdom, while truly wise persons benefit themselves and their people. 25: The days of Israel are without number, 2 Macc 14.15.

37.27–31: Moderation. Cf. 31.12–31. 28: Not everything is good for everyone, Num 11.18–20.

38.1–15: Sickness and physicians. The wise person is respectful toward and cooperative with doctors, and regards medicines as gifts from God. 5: Water made sweet, see Ex 15.23–25. 9–15: The assumption is that illness is the effect of sin (Deut 28.21–22, 27–28; Prov 3.7–8; Job 5.17–18), and so the sick must engage in prayer, repentance, and sacrifice.

Lay out the body with due ceremony,
and do not neglect the burial.

¹⁷ Let your weeping be bitter and your wailing fervent;
make your mourning worthy of the departed,

for one day, or two, to avoid criticism;
then be comforted for your grief.

¹⁸ For grief may result in death, and a sorrowful heart saps one's strength.

¹⁹ When a person is taken away, sorrow is over;
but the life of the poor weighs down the heart.

²⁰ Do not give your heart to grief;
drive it away, and remember your own end.

²¹ Do not forget, there is no coming back;
you do the dead^a no good, and you injure yourself.

²² Remember his^b fate, for yours is like it;
yesterday it was his,^c and today it is yours.

²³ When the dead is at rest, let his remembrance rest too, and be comforted for him when his spirit has departed.

²⁴ The wisdom of the scribe depends on the opportunity of leisure;
only the one who has little business can become wise.

²⁵ How can one become wise who handles the plow,
and who glories in the shaft of a goad, who drives oxen and is occupied with their work,
and whose talk is about bulls?

²⁶ He sets his heart on plowing furrows,
and he is careful about fodder for the heifers.

²⁷ So it is with every artisan and master artisan
who labors by night as well as by day;
those who cut the signets of seals,
each is diligent in making a great variety;

they set their heart on painting a lifelike image,
and they are careful to finish their work.

²⁸ So it is with the smith, sitting by the anvil,
intent on his iron-work;
the breath of the fire melts his flesh,
and he struggles with the heat of the furnace;

the sound of the hammer deafens his ears,^d
and his eyes are on the pattern of the object.

He sets his heart on finishing his handiwork,
and he is careful to complete its decoration.

²⁹ So it is with the potter sitting at his work
and turning the wheel with his feet;
he is always deeply concerned over his products,
and he produces them in quantity.

³⁰ He molds the clay with his arm and makes it pliable with his feet;
he sets his heart to finish the glazing,
and he takes care in firing^e the kiln.

³¹ All these rely on their hands,
and all are skillful in their own work.

^a Gk him

^b Heb: Gk my

^c Heb: Gk mine

^d Cn: Gk renews his ear

^e Cn: Gk cleaning

38.16–23: Mourning. Grief over the death of a loved one (cf. 22.11–12; Tob 1.17–18; 4.3–4; 6.15; 12.12; 14.12–13) should be intense but circumscribed, lest the mourner suffer harm. 23: The dead is at rest, while there is no explicit denial of life after death, there is no affirmation of it either.

38.24–34: Tradesmen and the scribe. Scribes trained at Ben Sira's school (51.23–28) learned not only to copy and produce legal documents but were also expected to become intellectuals, public figures, and leaders (cf. 39.1–11). 24: Leisure, the scribe has time and circumstances to study, whereas farmers, artisans, smiths, and potters (38.25–30) are too occupied with working on their trades to do so. The contrast between the scribe and other occupations is also a topic in several Egyptian wisdom compositions, including the Satire on the Trades

³² Without them no city can be inhabited, and wherever they live, they will not go hungry.^a

Yet they are not sought out for the council of the people,^b

³³ nor do they attain eminence in the public assembly.

They do not sit in the judge's seat, nor do they understand the decisions of the courts;

they cannot expound discipline or judgment,

and they are not found among the rulers.^c

³⁴ But they maintain the fabric of the world, and their concern is for^d the exercise of their trade.

How different the one who devotes himself
to the study of the law of the Most High!

39 He seeks out the wisdom of all the ancients,
and is concerned with prophecies;

² he preserves the sayings of the famous and penetrates the subtleties of parables;

³ he seeks out the hidden meanings of proverbs and is at home with the obscurities of parables.

⁴ He serves among the great and appears before rulers;

he travels in foreign lands and learns what is good and evil in the human lot.

⁵ He sets his heart to rise early to seek the Lord who made him,
and to petition the Most High;

he opens his mouth in prayer and asks pardon for his sins.

⁶ If the great Lord is willing, he will be filled with the spirit of understanding;

he will pour forth words of wisdom of his own

and give thanks to the Lord in prayer.

⁷ The Lord^e will direct his counsel and knowledge,

as he meditates on his mysteries.

⁸ He will show the wisdom of what he has learned,

and will glory in the law of the Lord's covenant.

⁹ Many will praise his understanding;
it will never be blotted out.

His memory will not disappear, and his name will live through all generations.

¹⁰ Nations will speak of his wisdom, and the congregation will proclaim his praise.

¹¹ If he lives long, he will leave a name greater than a thousand, and if he goes to rest, it is enough^f for
him.

¹² I have more on my mind to express;
I am full like the full moon.

¹³ Listen to me, my faithful children, and blossom
like a rose growing by a stream of water.

¹⁴ Send out fragrance like incense, and put forth blossoms like a lily.
Scatter the fragrance, and sing a hymn of
praise;
bless the Lord for all his works.

^a Syr: Gk and people can neither live nor walk there

^b Most ancient authorities lack this line

^c Cn: Gk among parables

^d Syr: Gk prayer is in

^e Gk He himself

^f Cn: Meaning of Gk uncertain

and the Instruction of Kheti. 32–33: Without them no city can be inhabited, Ben Sira acknowledges the positive contributions of tradesmen to society. But they are not present in the public assembly, the courts, or among the rulers. 34: Law, the Torah was an essential component in Ben Sira's curriculum (cf. Ezra 7.6,10).

39.1–11: Scribal education. The scribes dealt with the law, wisdom, and prophecies (see the Prologue for the threefold division of the Hebrew scriptures). 2–3: Cf. Prov 1.5–6; 25.1. 4: Travels, cf. 34.11; 51.13. 5: Prayer, since God is the source of true wisdom (1.1–10), prayer must be part of the scribe's formation. 9: His memory and name will live, cf. 37.26; 44.10–15. 11: Greater than a thousand, cf. Job 9.3; 33.23; Eccl 7.28.

39.12–35: God's creation and evil. God can use everything, both good and bad, to carry out the divine pur-

¹⁵ Ascribe majesty to his name and give thanks to him with praise, with songs on your lips, and with harps;
this is what you shall say in thanksgiving:

¹⁶ “All the works of the Lord are very good,
and whatever he commands will be done at the appointed time.

¹⁷ No one can say, ‘What is this?’ or ‘Why is that?’— for at the appointed time all such questions will be answered.

At his word the waters stood in a heap,
and the reservoirs of water at the word of his mouth.

¹⁸ When he commands, his every purpose is fulfilled,
and none can limit his saving power.

¹⁹ The works of all are before him, and nothing can be hidden from his eyes.

²⁰ From the beginning to the end of time
he can see everything, and nothing is too marvelous for him.

²¹ No one can say, ‘What is this?’ or ‘Why is that?’— for everything has been created for its own purpose.

²² “His blessing covers the dry land like a river,
and drenches it like a flood.

²³ But his wrath drives out the nations, as when he turned a watered land into salt.

²⁴ To the faithful his ways are straight,
but full of pitfalls for the wicked.

²⁵ From the beginning good things were created for the good,
but for sinners good things and bad.^a

²⁶ The basic necessities of human life are water and fire and iron and salt and wheat flour and milk and honey, the blood of the grape and oil and clothing.

²⁷ All these are good for the godly,
but for sinners they turn into evils.

²⁸ “There are winds created for vengeance,
and in their anger they can dislodge mountains;^b
on the day of reckoning they will pour out their strength and calm the anger of their Maker.

²⁹ Fire and hail and famine and pestilence,
all these have been created for
vengeance;

³⁰ the fangs of wild animals and scorpions and vipers,
and the sword that punishes the ungodly with destruction.

³¹ They take delight in doing his bidding, always ready for his service on earth;
and when their time comes they never disobey his command.”

³² So from the beginning I have been convinced of all this and have thought it out and left it in writing:

³³ All the works of the Lord are good, and he will supply every need in its time.

³⁴ No one can say, “This is not as good as that,”
for everything proves good in its appointed time.

³⁵ So now sing praise with all your heart and voice,
and bless the name of the Lord.

40 Hard work was created for everyone, and a heavy yoke is laid on the children of Adam,
from the day they come forth from their mother’s womb

^a Heb Lat: Gk sinners bad things

^b Heb Syr: Gk can scourge mightily

pose. 16–31: A hymn of praise (v. 14). 16: Very good, cf. Gen 1.4,10,12,18,21,25,31. 17: The waters stood in a heap, see Ex 15.8; Josh 3.16. Water at the word of his mouth, see Gen 1.9–10. 21: Created for its own purpose may reflect the influence of Stoic philosophy. 23: Watered land into salt, see Gen 19.24–26. 26: The basic necessities, cf. 29.21. 28–30: Things with bad effects punish the wicked. 33–34: Good, cf. 39.16; 33.7–15.

40.1–30: Miseries and joys. 1–11: Fears and anxieties stem from the heavy yoke laid on Adam’s descendants until the day they return to^a the mother of all the living.^b

²Perplexities and fear of heart are theirs, and anxious thought of the day of their death.

³From the one who sits on a splendid throne to the one who grovels in dust and ashes,

⁴from the one who wears purple and a crown
to the one who is clothed in burlap,

⁵there is anger and envy and trouble and unrest,
and fear of death, and fury and strife.
And when one rests upon his bed,
his sleep at night confuses his mind.

⁶He gets little or no rest;
he struggles in his sleep as he did by day.^c

He is troubled by the visions of his mind like one who has escaped from the battlefield.

⁷At the moment he reaches safety he wakes up, astonished that his fears were groundless.

⁸To all creatures, human and animal,
but to sinners seven times more,

⁹come death and bloodshed and strife and sword, calamities and famine and ruin and plague.

¹⁰All these were created for the wicked, and on their account the flood came.

¹¹All that is of earth returns to earth,
and what is from above returns above.^d

¹²All bribery and injustice will be blotted
out,
but good faith will last forever.

¹³The wealth of the unjust will dry up like a river,
and crash like a loud clap of thunder in a storm.

¹⁴As a generous person has cause to rejoice,
so lawbreakers will utterly fail.

¹⁵The children of the ungodly put out few branches;
they are unhealthy roots on sheer rock.

¹⁶The reeds by any water or river bank are plucked up before any grass;

¹⁷but kindness is like a garden of blessings,
and almsgiving endures forever.

¹⁸Wealth and wages make life sweet,^e but better than either is finding a treasure.

¹⁹Children and the building of a city establish one's name, but better than either is the one who finds wisdom.

Cattle and orchards make one prosperous;^f
but a blameless wife is accounted better than either.

²⁰Wine and music gladden the heart, but the love of friends^g is better than either.

²¹The flute and the harp make sweet melody, but a pleasant voice is better than
either.

²²The eye desires grace and beauty, but the green shoots of grain more than
either.

²³A friend or companion is always welcome,
but a sensible wife^h is better than
either.

²⁴Kindred and helpers are for a time of trouble,
but almsgiving rescues better than
either.

^a Other Gk and Lat authorities read are buried in

^b Heb: Gk of all

^c Arm: Meaning of Gk uncertain

^d Heb Syr: Gk Lat from the waters returns to the sea

^e Heb: Gk Life is sweet for the self-reliant worker

^f Heb Syr: Gk lacks but better ... prosperous

^g Heb: Gk wisdom

^h Heb Compare Syr: Gk wife with her husband

(Gen 3:17–19). 1: Mother's womb . . . mother, cf. Job 1.21. 5–7: For restless sleep and bad dreams, see 34.1–8; Job 7.4; Eccl 2.23. 10: Flood, see Gen 6–8. 11: Returns to earth, cf. Gen 3.19. What is from above, cf. Eccl 12.7. 12–17: In the end righteousness will prevail. 15: Cf. Job 18.16. 18–27: The numerical sayings name two good things and

²⁵ Gold and silver make one stand firm, but good counsel is esteemed more than either.

²⁶ Riches and strength build up confidence, but the fear of the Lord is better than
either.

There is no want in the fear of the Lord, and with it there is no need to seek for help.

²⁷ The fear of the Lord is like a garden of blessing, and covers a person better than any
glory.

²⁸ My child, do not lead the life of a beggar;
it is better to die than to beg.

²⁹ When one looks to the table of another, one's way of life cannot be considered a life.

One loses self-respect with another person's food,
but one who is intelligent and well instructed guards against that.

³⁰ In the mouth of the shameless begging is sweet,
but it kindles a fire inside him.

41 O death, how bitter is the thought of you
to the one at peace among possessions, who has nothing to worry about and is prosperous in everything, and still is vigorous enough to enjoy food!

² O death, how welcome is your sentence to one who is needy and failing in strength,
worn down by age and anxious about everything;
to one who is contrary, and has lost all patience!

³ Do not fear death's decree for you;
remember those who went before you and those who will come after.

⁴ This is the Lord's decree for all flesh;
why then should you reject the will of the Most High?

Whether life lasts for ten years or a hundred or a thousand,
there are no questions asked in Hades.

⁵ The children of sinners are abominable
children,
and they frequent the haunts of the ungodly.

⁶ The inheritance of the children of sinners will perish,
and on their offspring will be a perpetual disgrace.

⁷ Children will blame an ungodly father, for they suffer disgrace because of him.

⁸ Woe to you, the ungodly, who have forsaken the law of the Most High God!

⁹ If you have children, calamity will be theirs;
you will beget them only for groaning.
When you stumble, there is lasting joy;^a and when you die, a curse is your lot.

¹⁰ Whatever comes from earth returns to
earth;
so the ungodly go from curse to destruction.

¹¹ The human body is a fleeting thing, but a virtuous name will never be blotted out.^b

¹² Have regard for your name, since it will outlive you longer than a thousand hoards of gold.

¹³ The days of a good life are numbered,
but a good name lasts forever.

¹⁴ My children, be true to your training and be at peace;

^a Heb: Meaning of Gk uncertain

^b Heb: Gk People grieve over the death of the body, but the bad name of sinners will be blotted out assert that a third is even better. 26–27: Fear of the Lord is best of all (cf. 1.11–30). 28–30: The worst misery is to be reduced to begging (29.24–28; 30.17).

41.1–13: Death and reputation. The most important mode of immortality for Ben Sira is through one's name, the reputation that one leaves behind (cf. 14.11–19; 17.25–28; 38.16–23). 4: Decree for all, cf. Gen 3.19. Hades, Heb “Sheol,” the abode of the dead (cf. Ps 88.10–12). 5: Abominable children, merely having offspring does not guarantee immortality (Wis 3.12–13,16–18; 4.3–6). 11: Virtuous name, cf. Prov 22.1; Eccl 7.1.

hidden wisdom and unseen treasure—
of what value is either?

¹⁵ Better are those who hide their folly than those who hide their wisdom.

¹⁶ Therefore show respect for my words;
for it is not good to feel shame in every circumstance,
nor is every kind of abashment to be approved.^a

¹⁷ Be ashamed of sexual immorality, before your father or mother;

and of a lie, before a prince or a ruler;

¹⁸ of a crime, before a judge or magistrate; and of a breach of the law, before the congregation and the people;

of unjust dealing, before your partner or your friend;

¹⁹ and of theft, in the place where you live.

Be ashamed of breaking an oath or agreement,^b

and of leaning on your elbow at meals;

of surliness in receiving or giving,

²⁰ and of silence, before those who greet
you;

of looking at a prostitute,

²¹ and of rejecting the appeal of a relative;

of taking away someone's portion or gift,

and of gazing at another man's wife;

²² of meddling with his servant-girl—
and do not approach her bed;

of abusive words, before friends—and do not be insulting after making a gift.

42 Be ashamed of repeating what you hear,
and of betraying secrets.

Then you will show proper shame,
and will find favor with everyone.

Of the following things do not be ashamed,
and do not sin to save face:

² Do not be ashamed of the law of the Most High and his covenant, and of rendering judgment to acquit the
ungodly;

³ of keeping accounts with a partner or with traveling companions, and of dividing the inheritance of friends;

⁴ of accuracy with scales and weights, and of acquiring much or little;

⁵ of profit from dealing with merchants, and of frequent disciplining of
children,

and of drawing blood from the back of a wicked slave.

⁶ Where there is an untrustworthy wife, a seal is a good thing;

and where there are many hands, lock things up.

⁷ When you make a deposit, be sure it is counted and weighed,
and when you give or receive, put it all in writing.

⁸ Do not be ashamed to correct the stupid or foolish or the aged who are guilty of sexual immorality.

Then you will show your sound training,
and will be approved by all.

⁹ A daughter is a secret anxiety to her father,

and worry over her robs him of sleep;
when she is young, for fear she may not marry, or if married, for fear she may be disliked;

¹⁰ while a virgin, for fear she may be seduced and become pregnant in her father's house;

^a Heb: Gk and not everything is confidently esteemed by everyone

^b Heb: Gk before the truth of God and the covenant

41.14–42.8: True and false shame. Cf. 4.20–6.4; 10.19–11.6. After an introduction (41.14–16), Ben Sira describes behaviors that properly bring shame (sexual misconduct, dishonesty, rudeness, 41.17–42.1a) and notes things of which one should not be ashamed (fidelity to the law, honesty, controlling one's household, giving reproof where needed, 42.1b–8). 42.2: The law of the Most High leads the list of things not to be ashamed of.

42.9–14: A father's anxiety over his daughters. Cf. 7.24–25; 22.3–6. The major concern here is the father's good reputation (cf. 30.1–13). 9–10: Worry over her, the father was responsible for arranging his daughter's or having a husband, for fear she may go astray,

or, though married, for fear she may be barren.

¹¹ Keep strict watch over a headstrong daughter,
or she may make you a laughingstock to
your enemies,
a byword in the city and the assembly of^a
the people,
and put you to shame in public gatherings.^b

See that there is no lattice in her room, no spot that overlooks the approaches to the house.^c

¹² Do not let her parade her beauty before any man, or spend her time among married women;^a

¹³ for from garments comes the moth, and from a woman comes woman's wickedness.

¹⁴ Better is the wickedness of a man than a woman who does good;
it is woman who brings shame and disgrace.

¹⁵ I will now call to mind the works of the Lord,
and will declare what I have seen.
By the word of the Lord his works are made;
and all his creatures do his will.^d

¹⁶ The sun looks down on everything with its light,
and the work of the Lord is full of his glory.

¹⁷ The Lord has not empowered even his holy ones
to recount all his marvelous works, which the Lord the Almighty has established

so that the universe may stand firm in his glory.

¹⁸ He searches out the abyss and the human heart;
he understands their innermost secrets.
For the Most High knows all that may be known;
he sees from of old the things that are to come.^e

¹⁹ He discloses what has been and what is to be,
and he reveals the traces of hidden things.

²⁰ No thought escapes him,
and nothing is hidden from him.

²¹ He has set in order the splendors of his wisdom;
he is from all eternity one and the same.
Nothing can be added or taken away,
and he needs no one to be his counselor.

²² How desirable are all his works,
and how sparkling they are to see!^f

²³ All these things live and remain forever; each creature is preserved to meet a particular need.^g

²⁴ All things come in pairs, one opposite the other,
and he has made nothing incomplete.

²⁵ Each supplements the virtues of the other.
Who could ever tire of seeing his glory?

^a Heb: Meaning of Gk uncertain

^b Heb: Gk to shame before the great multitude

^c Heb: Gk lacks See . . . house

^d Syr Compare Heb: most Gk witnesses lack and all . . . will

^e Heb: Gk he sees the sign(s) of the age

^f Meaning of Gk uncertain

^g Heb: Gk forever for every need, and all are obedient marriage, and a high premium was placed on her virginity and fertility (cf. Deut 22.13–29). 11–12: Headstrong daughter, a father who was unable to control the women of his household was subject to shame. Thus the life of unmarried daughters was closely supervised. 13: From a woman comes woman's wickedness, the woman is Eve (cf. Gen 3.6; 1 Tim 3.14). 14: Better is the wickedness of a man, the lowest point in Ben Sira's misogyny (cf. 25.13–26.27; 36.26–31).

42.15–43.33: God's glory made manifest in all creation. 15–25: The order and splendor of the whole cosmos reflect God's omniscience and purpose. 15: By the word, cf. Gen 1.1–31; Ps 33.6; Jdt 16.14; Wis 9.1. 17: Holy ones, that is, angels or members of the heavenly court. 19: What has been and what is to be, cf. Isa 41.22–23; 44.7. Reveals . . . hidden things, cf. Dan 2.22. 21: Counselor, cf. Isa 40.13. 24: All things come in pairs, cf. 33.7–15; 39.12–35;

43 The pride of the higher realms is the clear vault of the sky,
as glorious to behold as the sight of the heavens.

²The sun, when it appears, proclaims as it rises what a marvelous instrument it is, the work of the Most High.

³At noon it parches the land,
and who can withstand its burning heat?

⁴A man tending^a a furnace works in burning heat, but three times as hot is the sun scorching the mountains;

it breathes out fiery vapors,
and its bright rays blind the eyes.

⁵Great is the Lord who made it;
at his orders it hurries on its course.

⁶It is the moon that marks the changing seasons,^b governing the times, their everlasting sign.

⁷From the moon comes the sign for festal days,
a light that wanes when it completes its course.

⁸The new moon, as its name suggests, renews itself;^c
how marvelous it is in this change,
a beacon to the hosts on high,
shining in the vault of the heavens!

⁹The glory of the stars is the beauty of heaven,
a glittering array in the heights of the Lord.

¹⁰On the orders of the Holy One they stand in their appointed places;
they never relax in their watches.

¹¹Look at the rainbow, and praise him who made it;
it is exceedingly beautiful in its brightness.

¹²It encircles the sky with its glorious arc;
the hands of the Most High have stretched it out.

¹³By his command he sends the driving snow and speeds the lightnings of his judgment.

¹⁴Therefore the storehouses are opened,
and the clouds fly out like birds.

¹⁵In his majesty he gives the clouds their strength, and the hailstones are broken in pieces.

^{17a}The voice of his thunder rebukes the earth;

¹⁶when he appears, the mountains shake.

At his will the south wind blows;

^{17b}so do the storm from the north and the whirlwind.

He scatters the snow like birds flying down,

and its descent is like locusts alighting.

¹⁸The eye is dazzled by the beauty of its whiteness,
and the mind is amazed as it falls.

¹⁹He pours frost over the earth like salt,
and icicles form like pointed thorns.

²⁰The cold north wind blows,
and ice freezes on the water;
it settles on every pool of water,
and the water puts it on like a breastplate.

²¹He consumes the mountains and burns up the wilderness, and withers the tender grass like fire.

²²A mist quickly heals all things;
the falling dew gives refreshment from the heat.

²³By his plan he stilled the deep and planted islands in it.

²⁴Those who sail the sea tell of its dangers,
and we marvel at what we hear.

²⁵In it are strange and marvelous creatures,
all kinds of living things, and huge sea-monsters.

^a Other ancient authorities read blowing upon

^b Heb: Meaning of Gk uncertain

^c Heb: Gk The month is named after the moon

40.8–10. 43.1–12: God's glory in the heavenly bodies (cf. Job 38.1–38; Ps 104). 7: The sign for festal days, this may suggest preference for a lunar rather than a solar calendar. 11: Rainbow, see Gen 9.12–17. 43.13–26: God's glory in storms (cf. Ps 29; Job 38–39). 16–17: The imagery is evocative of divine theophanies, cf. Ps 18.7–15. 23–25: Cf.

²⁶ Because of him each of his messengers succeeds,
and by his word all things hold together.

²⁷ We could say more but could never say enough;

let the final word be: "He is the all."

²⁸ Where can we find the strength to praise
him?

For he is greater than all his works.

²⁹ Awesome is the Lord and very great,
and marvelous is his power.

³⁰ Glorify the Lord and exalt him as much as you can,
for he surpasses even that.

When you exalt him, summon all your strength,
and do not grow weary, for you cannot praise him enough.

³¹ Who has seen him and can describe
him?

Or who can extol him as he is?

³² Many things greater than these lie hidden,
for I^a have seen but few of his works.

³³ For the Lord has made all things, and to the godly he has given wisdom.

HYMN IN HONOR OF OUR ANCESTORS^b

44 Let us now sing the praises of famous men,
our ancestors in their generations.

² The Lord apportioned to them^c great
glory,
his majesty from the beginning.

³ There were those who ruled in their kingdoms,
and made a name for themselves by their valor;

those who gave counsel because they were intelligent;
those who spoke in prophetic oracles;

⁴ those who led the people by their counsels and by their knowledge of the people's lore;

they were wise in their words of instruction;

⁵ those who composed musical tunes,
or put verses in writing;

⁶ rich men endowed with resources, living peacefully in their homes—

⁷ all these were honored in their generations,
and were the pride of their times.

⁸ Some of them have left behind a name,
so that others declare their praise.

⁹ But of others there is no memory;
they have perished as though they had never existed;

they have become as though they had never been born,
they and their children after them.

¹⁰ But these also were godly men, whose righteous deeds have not been forgotten;

¹¹ their wealth will remain with their descendants,
and their inheritance with their children's children.^d

¹² Their descendants stand by the covenants;
their children also, for their sake.

¹³ Their offspring will continue forever, and their glory will never be blotted
out.

¹⁴ Their bodies are buried in peace, but their name lives on generation after generation.

^a Heb: Gk we

^b This title is included in the Gk text.

^c Heb: Gk created

^d Heb Compare Lat Syr: Meaning of Gk uncertain

Pss 104.24–26; 107.23–24. 27–33: God is the all in the sense that all creation reveals the presence of God as its creator and lord. The proper response from humans is praise and humility.

44.1–50.24: In praise of Israel's ancestors. Ben Sira celebrates the covenant with the patriarchs and Israel by recounting the great figures of Israel's history (44.1–49.16), culminating in the high priest Simon II (50.1–24).

44.1–15: God's glory made manifest in Israel. The great heroes in Israel's history are best understood as manifestations of God's glory (cf. 1 Macc 2.51–64). 1. Famous men, the Hebrew and Syriac read men of piety. 3–8: Twelve types of heroes are listed. 9–10: Some good people have left no memorial, but they will not be forgotten.

14: Their name, cf. 41.11–13.

¹⁵The assembly declares^a their wisdom, and the congregation proclaims their praise.

¹⁶Enoch pleased the Lord and was taken up,
an example of repentance to all generations.

¹⁷Noah was found perfect and righteous;
in the time of wrath he kept the race alive;^b
therefore a remnant was left on the earth
when the flood came.

¹⁸Everlasting covenants were made with
him
that all flesh should never again be blotted out by a flood.

¹⁹Abraham was the great father of a multitude of nations, and no one has been found like him in
glory.

²⁰He kept the law of the Most High,
and entered into a covenant with him;
he certified the covenant in his flesh,
and when he was tested he proved faithful.

²¹Therefore the Lord^c assured him with an oath that the nations would be blessed through his offspring;
that he would make him as numerous as the dust of the earth,
and exalt his offspring like the stars, and give them an inheritance from sea to sea and from the Euphrates^d to the ends of the earth.

²²To Isaac also he gave the same assurance for the sake of his father Abraham.

The blessing of all people and the covenant
²³he made to rest on the head of Jacob;
he acknowledged him with his blessings,
and gave him his inheritance;
he divided his portions,
and distributed them among twelve tribes.

From his descendants the Lord^c brought forth a godly man, who found favor in the sight of all 45¹and was beloved by God and people,
Moses, whose memory is blessed.
²He made him equal in glory to the holy ones,
and made him great, to the terror of his enemies.
³By his words he performed swift miracles;^e
the Lord^c glorified him in the presence of kings.

He gave him commandments for his people,
and revealed to him his glory.

⁴For his faithfulness and meekness he consecrated him,
choosing him out of all humankind.

⁵He allowed him to hear his voice,
and led him into the dark cloud, and gave him the commandments face to face,
the law of life and knowledge,

^a Heb: Gk Peoples declare

^b Heb: Gk was taken in exchange

^c Gk he

^d Syr: Heb Gk River

^e Heb: Gk caused signs to cease

44.16–23: The patriarchs. 16: Enoch also ends the list (49.14). For his being taken up, see Gen 5.24. Why he is called an example of repentance is not clear. 17–18: Noah was perfect (Gen 6.9) and righteous (Gen 7.1), and the vehicle for everlasting covenants (Gen 9.8–17). 19–21: Abraham, the great father (Gen 17.4–5), kept the law before it was given to Moses on Sinai, entered into the covenant by circumcision (Gen 17), and was tested in the binding of Isaac (Gen 22.1–14). 21: See Gen 12.3; 13.16; 15.5,18; 22.17–18. 22: Isaac, Gen 17.19; 26.3–5. 23: Jacob, Gen 27.27–29; 28.13–15; his inheritance is the promised land (Gen 28.4). The twelve tribes of Israel, descended from Jacob's sons; see Gen 49.

45.1–5: Moses as a miracle worker and teacher. 2: Glory, Ex 33.18–23. 3: Miracles, specifically the signs and plagues in Egypt; Ex 7.1–11.10; 12.29–32. Commandments, the Decalogue (Ex 20.1–17; Deut 5.1–33); glory (Ex 33.18–23). 4: Meekness, Num 12.3. 5: Dark cloud, Ex 20.21; 24.18. Face to face, Num 12.8. Teach, Deut 4.1.

so that he might teach Jacob the covenant,
and Israel his decrees.

⁶ He exalted Aaron, a holy man like Moses^a who was his brother, of the tribe of Levi.

⁷ He made an everlasting covenant with
him,
and gave him the priesthood of the people.

He blessed him with stateliness,
and put a glorious robe on him.

⁸ He clothed him in perfect splendor, and strengthened him with the symbols of authority,
the linen undergarments, the long robe,
and the ephod.

⁹ And he encircled him with pomegranates,
with many golden bells all around,
to send forth a sound as he walked,
to make their ringing heard in the temple
as a reminder to his people;

¹⁰ with the sacred vestment, of gold and violet and purple, the work of an embroiderer;

with the oracle of judgment, Urim and Thummim;

¹¹ with twisted crimson, the work of an artisan;
with precious stones engraved like seals,
in a setting of gold, the work of a jeweler,
to commemorate in engraved letters
each of the tribes of Israel;

¹² with a gold crown upon his turban, inscribed like a seal with "Holiness," a distinction to be prized, the work of an expert,
a delight to the eyes, richly adorned.

¹³ Before him such beautiful things did not exist.
No outsider ever put them on,

but only his sons
and his descendants in perpetuity.

¹⁴ His sacrifices shall be wholly burned twice every day continually.

¹⁵ Moses ordained him,
and anointed him with holy oil;
it was an everlasting covenant for him and for his descendants as long as the heavens endure,
to minister to the Lord^a and serve as priest
and bless his people in his name.

¹⁶ He chose him out of all the living to offer sacrifice to the Lord, incense and a pleasing odor as a memorial portion,
to make atonement for the^b people.

¹⁷ In his commandments he gave him authority and statutes and^c judgments,
to teach Jacob the testimonies,
and to enlighten Israel with his law.

¹⁸ Outsiders conspired against him,
and envied him in the wilderness, Dathan and Abiram and their followers and the company of Korah, in wrath and anger.

¹⁹ The Lord saw it and was not pleased, and in the heat of his anger they were destroyed;

he performed wonders against them to consume them in flaming fire.

²⁰ He added glory to Aaron and gave him a heritage;
he allotted to him the best of the first fruits,
and prepared bread of first fruits in abundance;

²¹ for they eat the sacrifices of the Lord, which he gave to him and his descendants.

^a Gk him

^b Other ancient authorities read his or your

^c Heb: Gk authority in covenants of

45.6–26: Aaron and Phinehas. Attention to the priesthood prepares for the climactic description of Simon the high priest in 50.1–24. 6: His brother, of the tribe of Levi, Ex 4.14. 7: Everlasting covenant of priesthood, Ex 29.9; 40.15. 8–13: Perfect splendor, see Ex 28–29 for the various priestly vestments. 10: Urim and Thummim, see Ex 28.30; Num 27.21; 1 Sam 14.41–42. 14: Sacrifices, Lev 6.8–15; Num 28.3–4. 15: Moses ordained . . . anointed, Ex 28.41; Lev 8.1–30. Bless his people, see Num 6.22–27. 17: Teach, Lev 10.11; Deut 33.10; Mal 2.7. 18–19: Dathan and Abiram

²² But in the land of the people he has no inheritance, and he has no portion among the people;
for the Lord^a himself is his^b portion and inheritance.

²³ Phinehas son of Eleazar ranks third in glory for being zealous in the fear of the Lord, and standing firm, when the people turned away,
in the noble courage of his soul;
and he made atonement for Israel.

²⁴ Therefore a covenant of friendship was established with him, that he should be leader of the sanctuary and of his people, that he and his descendants should have the dignity of the priesthood forever.

²⁵ Just as a covenant was established with David son of Jesse of the tribe of Judah, that the king's heritage passes only from son to son,
so the heritage of Aaron is for his descendants alone.

²⁶ And now bless the Lord who has crowned you with glory.^c
May the Lord^a grant you wisdom of mind to judge his people with justice,
so that their prosperity may not vanish,
and that their glory may endure through all their generations.

so that he might give Israel its inheritance.

² How glorious he was when he lifted his hands and brandished his sword against the cities!

³ Who before him ever stood so firm?
For he waged the wars of the Lord.

⁴ Was it not through him that the sun stood still and one day became as long as two?

⁵ He called upon the Most High, the Mighty One,
when enemies pressed him on every side,
and the great Lord answered him with hailstones of mighty power.

⁶ He overwhelmed that nation in battle,
and on the slope he destroyed his opponents,
so that the nations might know his armament,
that he was fighting in the sight of the Lord;
for he was a devoted follower of the Mighty One.

⁷ And in the days of Moses he proved his loyalty,
he and Caleb son of Jephunneh:
they opposed the congregation,^e restrained the people from sin,
and stilled their wicked grumbling.
⁸ And these two alone were spared out of six hundred thousand infantry,
to lead the people^f into their inheritance,
the land flowing with milk and honey.

46 Joshua son of Nun was mighty in war,
and was the successor of Moses in the prophetic office.

He became, as his name implies,
a great savior of God's^d elect, to take vengeance on the enemies that rose against them,

^a Gk he

^b Other ancient authorities read your

^c Heb: Gk lacks And... glory

^d Gk his

^e Other ancient authorities read the enemy

^f Gk them

... Korah, Num 16.1–35. 21: Eat the sacrifices, Num 18.8–19. 22: No inheritance, Num 18.20; Deut 12.12. 23–25: Phinehas, Num 25.10–13; Ps 106.30; 1 Macc 2.54. 26: You, perhaps directed to Simon (50.1–24) and his successors.

46.1–20: Joshua and Caleb, the judges, and Samuel. 1–10: For Joshua's military exploits, see Josh 6–11. 1: Successor of Moses, Deut 34.9; Josh 1.1,5; 3.7. Joshua's name means "the Lord is salvation." 4: Sun stood still, Josh 10.12–14. 5: Hailstones, Josh 10.11. 7: Proved his loyalty, Num 14.6–10. 8: Two alone, Num 14.38; 26.65. Six hundred

⁹The Lord gave Caleb strength, which remained with him in his old
age,
so that he went up to the hill country,
and his children obtained it for an inheritance, ¹⁰so that all the Israelites might see how good it is to follow the Lord.

¹¹The judges also, with their respective names,
whose hearts did not fall into idolatry and who did not turn away from the Lord—
may their memory be blessed!
¹²May their bones send forth new life from where they lie,
and may the names of those who have been honored
live again in their children!

¹³Samuel was beloved by his Lord;
a prophet of the Lord, he established the kingdom and anointed rulers over his people.
¹⁴By the law of the Lord he judged the congregation,
and the Lord watched over Jacob.
¹⁵By his faithfulness he was proved to be a prophet,
and by his words he became known as a trustworthy seer.

¹⁶He called upon the Lord, the Mighty
One,
when his enemies pressed him on every side,
and he offered in sacrifice a suckling lamb.

¹⁷Then the Lord thundered from heaven,
and made his voice heard with a mighty sound; ¹⁸he subdued the leaders of the enemy^a and all the rulers of the Philistines.

¹⁹Before the time of his eternal sleep,
Samuel^b bore witness before the Lord
and his anointed:
“No property, not so much as a pair of shoes,
have I taken from anyone!”
And no one accused him.

²⁰Even after he had fallen asleep, he prophesied
and made known to the king his death, and lifted up his voice from the ground in prophecy, to blot out the wickedness of the people.

47 After him Nathan rose up to prophesy in the days of David.
²As the fat is set apart from the offering of well-being,
so David was set apart from the Israelites.

³He played with lions as though they were young goats,
and with bears as though they were lambs of the flock.

⁴In his youth did he not kill a giant,
and take away the people’s disgrace,
when he whirled the stone in the sling and struck down the boasting Goliath?

⁵For he called on the Lord, the Most High,
and he gave strength to his right arm
to strike down a mighty warrior,
and to exalt the power^c of his people.

⁶So they glorified him for the tens of thousands he conquered, and praised him for the blessings bestowed by the Lord, when the glorious diadem was given to
him.

^a Heb: Gk leaders of the people of Tyre

^b Gk he

^c Gk horn

thousand, Ex 12.37; Num 11.21. 9: Caleb’s inheritance, Josh 14.6–14. 11–12: Only those judges who did not fall into idolatry (as Gideon did; Judg 8.22–35) are blessed. 12: Bones send forth new life, 2 Kings 13.21. 13–20: Samuel anointed rulers (1 Sam 10.1; 16.13) and served as a judge (1 Sam 7.3–17), prophet (1 Sam 3.19–20), and priest (1 Sam 7.9). 16–18: 1 Sam 7.9–11. 19: See 1 Sam 12.3. 20: Lifted up his voice from the ground, 1 Sam 28.8–19.

47.1–25: Early kings. 1: Nathan, 2 Sam 7.2–3; 12.1; 1 Chr 17.1. 2–11: David was chosen by God (1 Sam 16.1–12), was a great warrior, and initiated public worship in Jerusalem (1 Chr 16.4; 23.1–6,24–32). 2: The fat, Lev 3.3–5. 3: Played with lions . . . and with bears, 1 Sam 17.34–36. 4: Kill a giant, Goliath (1 Sam 17.49–51). 6: Tens of thousands,

⁷ For he wiped out his enemies on every side,
and annihilated his adversaries the Philistines;
he crushed their power^a to our own day.

⁸ In all that he did he gave thanks to the Holy One, the Most High, proclaiming his glory;
he sang praise with all his heart, and he loved his Maker.

⁹ He placed singers before the altar, to make sweet melody with their voices.^b

¹⁰ He gave beauty to the festivals, and arranged their times throughout the year,^c

while they praised God's^d holy name, and the sanctuary resounded from early morning.

¹¹ The Lord took away his sins, and exalted his power^a forever; he gave him a covenant of kingship and a glorious throne in Israel.

¹² After him a wise son rose up who because of him lived in security:^e

¹³ Solomon reigned in an age of peace, because God made all his borders tranquil, so that he might build a house in his name and provide a sanctuary to stand forever.

¹⁴ How wise you were when you were young!
You overflowed like the Nile^f with understanding.

¹⁵ Your influence spread throughout the earth, and you filled it with proverbs having deep meaning.

¹⁶ Your fame reached to far-off islands, and you were loved for your peaceful reign.

¹⁷ Your songs, proverbs, and parables, and the answers you gave astounded the nations.

¹⁸ In the name of the Lord God, who is called the God of Israel, you gathered gold like tin and amassed silver like lead.

¹⁹ But you brought in women to lie at your side, and through your body you were brought into subjection.

²⁰ You stained your honor, and defiled your family line, so that you brought wrath upon your children, and they were grieved^g at your folly,

²¹ because the sovereignty was divided and a rebel kingdom arose out of Ephraim.

²² But the Lord will never give up his mercy, or cause any of his works to perish; he will never blot out the descendants of his chosen one, or destroy the family line of him who loved him.

So he gave a remnant to Jacob, and to David a root from his own family.

²³ Solomon rested with his ancestors, and left behind him one of his sons, broad in^h folly and lacking in sense, Rehoboam, whose policy drove the people to revolt.

Then Jeroboam son of Nebat led Israel into sin and started Ephraim on its sinful ways.

^a Gk horn

^b Other ancient authorities add and daily they sing his praises

^c Gk to completion

^d Gk his

^e Heb: Gk in a broad place

^f Heb: Gk a river

^g Other ancient authorities read I was grieved

^h Heb (with a play on the name Rehoboam) Syr: Gk the people's

¹ Sam 18.7. ¹¹: His sins, ² Sam 11–12. Covenant of kingship, ² Sam 7.12–16; Ps 89.19–37. ^{12–22}: Solomon built the Jerusalem Temple (1 Kings 5–8), became wise and wealthy (1 Kings 3.12–13; 4.21–34; 10.14–29) but succumbed to lust and idolatry (1 Kings 11.1–11). ²¹: When Solomon died, what had been one kingdom was divided into ²⁴Their sins increased more and more,

until they were exiled from their land.
²⁵For they sought out every kind of wickedness,
until vengeance came upon them.

48 Then Elijah arose, a prophet like fire,
and his word burned like a torch.

²He brought a famine upon them, and by his zeal he made them few in number.

³By the word of the Lord he shut up the heavens,
and also three times brought down fire.

⁴How glorious you were, Elijah, in your wondrous deeds!

Whose glory is equal to yours?

⁵You raised a corpse from death and from Hades, by the word of the Most High.

⁶You sent kings down to destruction, and famous men, from their sickbeds.

⁷You heard rebuke at Sinai and judgments of vengeance at Horeb.

⁸You anointed kings to inflict retribution,
and prophets to succeed you.^a

⁹You were taken up by a whirlwind of fire, in a chariot with horses of fire.

¹⁰At the appointed time, it is written, you are destined^b

to calm the wrath of God before it breaks out in fury,

to turn the hearts of parents to their children,

and to restore the tribes of Jacob.

¹¹Happy are those who saw you and were adorned^c with your love!
For we also shall surely live.^d

¹²When Elijah was enveloped in the whirlwind,
Elisha was filled with his spirit.
He performed twice as many signs, and marvels with every utterance of his mouth.^e

Never in his lifetime did he tremble before any ruler,
nor could anyone intimidate him at all.

¹³Nothing was too hard for him, and when he was dead, his body
prophesied.

¹⁴In his life he did wonders,
and in death his deeds were marvelous.

¹⁵Despite all this the people did not repent,
nor did they forsake their sins, until they were carried off as plunder from their land,
and were scattered over all the earth.

The people were left very few in number, but with a ruler from the house of David.

¹⁶Some of them did what was right, but others sinned more and more.

¹⁷Hezekiah fortified his city,
and brought water into its midst;
he tunneled the rock with iron tools,
and built cisterns for the water.

¹⁸In his days Sennacherib invaded the country;
he sent his commander^f and departed;

^a Heb: Gk him

^b Heb: Gk are for reproofs

^c Other ancient authorities read and have died

^d Text and meaning of Gk uncertain

^e Heb: Gk lacks He performed . . . mouth

^f Other ancient authorities add from Lachish

two; 1 Kings 11.11–13,31–39; 12.15–20. 22: Root, see Isa 11.10. 23–25: Rehoboam and Jeroboam, 1 Kings 11.43–12.20; 12.28–30. 24: Exiled, 2 Kings 17.6–8,18.

48.1–16: Elijah and Elisha. 1–11: How Elijah the prophet manifested God's glory. 3: Shut up the heavens, 1 Kings 17.1. Brought down fire, 1 Kings 18.38; 2 Kings 1.10–12. 5: Raised a corpse, 1 Kings 17.21–22. Hades, Heb "Sheol," the abode of the dead. 6: Sent kings, 2 Kings 1.16. 7: Heard rebuke at Sinai, 1 Kings 19.8. 8: Anointed kings, 1 Kings 19.15–16. 9: Taken up, 2 Kings 2.11. 10: It is written, Mal 4.5–6. 12–14: How the prophet Elisha manifested God's glory. 12: Filled with his spirit, 2 Kings 2.9,13. 13: His body prophesied, 2 Kings 13.20–21. 15–16: The prophets could not overcome the people's sinfulness, which led to the defeat and exile of the northern kingdom of Israel in the eighth century BCE. 15: Were carried off, 2 Kings 18.11–12.

48.17–49.16: Kings, prophets, and leaders of Judah. 17–22: The reign of King Hezekiah. 17: Water, 2 Kings

he shook his fist against Zion, and made great boasts in his arrogance.

¹⁹Then their hearts were shaken and their hands trembled,
and they were in anguish, like women
in labor.

²⁰But they called upon the Lord who is merciful,
spreading out their hands toward him.
The Holy One quickly heard them from heaven,
and delivered them through Isaiah.

²¹The Lord^a struck down the camp of the Assyrians,
and his angel wiped them out.

²²For Hezekiah did what was pleasing to
the Lord,
and he kept firmly to the ways of his ancestor David,
as he was commanded by the prophet Isaiah,
who was great and trustworthy in his visions.

²³In Isaiah's^b days the sun went backward,
and he prolonged the life of the king.

²⁴By his dauntless spirit he saw the future,
and comforted the mourners in Zion.

²⁵He revealed what was to occur to the end of time,
and the hidden things before they happened.

49 The name^c of Josiah is like blended incense

prepared by the skill of the perfumer;
his memory^d is as sweet as honey to every mouth,
and like music at a banquet of wine.

²He did what was right by reforming the
people,
and removing the wicked
abominations.

³He kept his heart fixed on the Lord;
in lawless times he made godliness prevail.

⁴Except for David and Hezekiah and Josiah,
all of them were great sinners,
for they abandoned the law of the Most High;
the kings of Judah came to an end.

⁵They^e gave their power to others,
and their glory to a foreign nation,

⁶who set fire to the chosen city of the sanctuary,
and made its streets desolate,
as Jeremiah had foretold.^f

⁷For they had mistreated him, who even in the womb had been consecrated a prophet,
to pluck up and ruin and destroy,
and likewise to build and to plant.

⁸It was Ezekiel who saw the vision of
glory,
which God^a showed him above the chariot of the cherubim.

⁹For God^g also mentioned Job who held fast to all the ways of justice.^h

¹⁰May the bones of the Twelve Prophets send forth new life from where they lie, for they comforted the people of Jacob and delivered them with confident hope.

^a Gk He

^b Gk his

^c Heb: Gk memory

^d Heb: Gk it

^e Heb He

^f Gk by the hand of Jeremiah

^g Gk he

^h Heb Compare Syr: Meaning of Gk uncertain

20.20. 18: Sennacherib, the Assyrian king (705–681 BCE); 2 Kings 18.13,17; Isa 36.1. 20: Called upon the Lord, 2 Kings 19.15–20. 21: The Lord struck down, 2 Kings 19.35; Isa 37.36. 23–25: The deeds of the prophet Isaiah. 23: Sun went backward, 2 Kings 20.8–11; Isa 38.7–8. 24–25: He saw the future, Isa 40.1–2; 42.9. 49.1–3: The reign of King Josiah. 1: His memory, 2 Kings 22.1–23.30. 6–7: The prophet Jeremiah, 2 Chr 36.17–19; Jer 1.5–10; 38.2. 8: The prophet Ezekiel, Ezek 1.3–15; 10.1–3; 9: Job, Job 1–2; 42. 10: Twelve Prophets, Hosea—Malachi, the so-called Minor Prophets, probably considered a single book by Ben Sira. 11–13: Leaders after the exile: Zerubbabel (Ezra

¹¹ How shall we magnify Zerubbabel?
 He was like a signet ring on the right hand,
¹² and so was Jeshua son of Jozadak;
 in their days they built the house and raised a temple^a holy to the Lord, destined for everlasting glory.
¹³ The memory of Nehemiah also is lasting;
 he raised our fallen walls,
 and set up gates and bars,
 and rebuilt our ruined houses.
¹⁴ Few have^b ever been created on earth like Enoch,
 for he was taken up from the earth.
¹⁵ Nor was anyone ever born like Joseph;^c even his bones were cared for.
¹⁶ Shem and Seth and Enosh were honored,^d
 but above every other created living being was Adam.

50 The leader of his brothers and the pride of his people^e was the high priest, Simon son of Onias, who in his life repaired the house,
 and in his time fortified the temple.
² He laid the foundations for the high double walls,
 the high retaining walls for the temple enclosure.
³ In his days a water cistern was dug,^f a reservoir like the sea in circumference.
⁴ He considered how to save his people from ruin,
 and fortified the city against siege.
⁵ How glorious he was, surrounded by the people,
 as he came out of the house of the curtain.
⁶ Like the morning star among the clouds,
 like the full moon at the festal season;^f
⁷ like the sun shining on the temple of the Most High,

like the rainbow gleaming in splendid clouds;
⁸ like roses in the days of first fruits,
 like lilies by a spring of water,
 like a green shoot on Lebanon on a summer day;
⁹ like fire and incense in the censer,
 like a vessel of hammered gold studded with all kinds of precious stones;
¹⁰ like an olive tree laden with fruit, and like a cypress towering in the clouds.
¹¹ When he put on his glorious robe and clothed himself in perfect splendor,
 when he went up to the holy altar,
 he made the court of the sanctuary
 glorious.
¹² When he received the portions from the hands of the priests,
 as he stood by the hearth of the altar with a garland of brothers around him, he was like a young cedar on Lebanon
 surrounded by the trunks of palm trees.
¹³ All the sons of Aaron in their splendor held the Lord's offering in their hands before the whole congregation of Israel.
¹⁴ Finishing the service at the altars,^g and arranging the offering to the Most High, the Almighty,

^a Other ancient authorities read people

^b Heb Syr: Gk No one has

^c Heb Syr: Gk adds the leader of his brothers, the support of the people

^d Heb: Gk Shem and Seth were honored by people

^e Heb Syr: Gk lacks this line. Compare 49.15

^f Heb: Meaning of Gk uncertain

^g Other ancient authorities read altar

3.2; Hag 2.23), Jeshua (Ezra 3.2; Hag 1.12; 2.2; Zech 3.1); Nehemiah (Neh 7.1). 14–16: Mentions of Enoch (44.16; Gen 5.18–24) and Joseph (Gen 39–50) as well as Shem (Gen 9.18), Seth (Gen 5.3) and Enosh (Gen 5.6–11) lead back to Adam (Gen 1.26–31).

50.1–24: Simon the high priest. Simon II, son of Onias, was the high priest from 219 to 196 BCE (Josephus, Ant. 12.4.10). 1–4: A summary of Simon's public works projects. 5–13: For an earlier description of the high priest's vestments, cf. 45.6–13; cf. Ex 28.2–43; 39.1–31. 14–21: A vivid description of the Temple ritual and sac-

¹⁵ he held out his hand for the cup and poured a drink offering of the blood of the grape;
he poured it out at the foot of the altar,
a pleasing odor to the Most High, the king of all.

¹⁶ Then the sons of Aaron shouted;
they blew their trumpets of hammered metal;
they sounded a mighty fanfare
as a reminder before the Most High.

¹⁷ Then all the people together quickly fell to the ground on their faces to worship their Lord,
the Almighty, God Most High.

¹⁸ Then the singers praised him with their voices
in sweet and full-toned melody.^a

¹⁹ And the people of the Lord Most High offered their prayers before the Merciful One, until the order of worship of the Lord was ended,
and they completed his ritual.

²⁰ Then Simon^b came down and raised his hands over the whole congregation of Israelites,
to pronounce the blessing of the Lord with his lips,
and to glory in his name;

²¹ and they bowed down in worship a second time,
to receive the blessing from the Most High.

²² And now bless the God of all,
who everywhere works great wonders,
who fosters our growth from birth, and deals with us according to his mercy.

²³ May he give us^c gladness of heart, and may there be peace in our^d days

in Israel, as in the days of old.

²⁴ May he entrust to us his mercy,
and may he deliver us in our^e days!

²⁵ Two nations my soul detests,
and the third is not even a people:

²⁶ Those who live in Seir,^f and the Philistines,
and the foolish people that live in Shechem.

²⁷ Instruction in understanding and knowledge
I have written in this book,
Jesus son of Eleazar son of Sirach^g of Jerusalem,
whose mind poured forth wisdom.

²⁸ Happy are those who concern themselves with these things, and those who lay them to heart will become wise.

²⁹ For if they put them into practice, they will be equal to anything, for the fear^h of the Lord is their path.

PRAYER OF JESUS SON OF SIRACHⁱ

51 I give you thanks, O Lord and King, and praise you, O God my Savior.
I give thanks to your name,
² for you have been my protector and helper

^a Other ancient authorities read in sweet melody throughout the house

^b Gk he

^c Other ancient authorities read you

^d Other ancient authorities read your

^e Other ancient authorities read his

^f Heb Compare Lat: Gk on the mountain of Samaria

^g Heb: Meaning of Gk uncertain

^h Heb: Other ancient authorities read light

ⁱ This title is included in the Gk text.

rifices, most likely for the Day of Atonement (Lev 16). 16: Trumpets, Num 10.2; 31.6. 18: Singers, 2 Chr 29.26–30. 20: The blessing, Num 6.24–27. His name, only the high priest (and only once a year, on the Day of Atonement) could utter the ineffable name, YHWH. 22–24: A concluding benediction.

50.25–26: A final numerical proverb. 26: Seir (Edom) and the Philistines were historic enemies of the Israelites; here they refer to those who threatened them in Ben Sira's time, the Idumeans and the Greeks, along with the Samaritans, in Shechem.

50.27–29: Postscript. 27: Jesus, the author's Hebrew name was probably Yeshua ben Eleazar ben Sira. 29: Fear of the Lord, one of the book's major themes (1.11–30).

and have delivered me from destruction and from the trap laid by a slanderous tongue,
 from lips that fabricate lies.
 In the face of my adversaries you have been my helper ³ and delivered me,
 in the greatness of your mercy and of your name,
 from grinding teeth about to devour me,
 from the hand of those seeking my life,
 from the many troubles I endured,
⁴ from choking fire on every side, and from the midst of fire that I had not kindled,
⁵ from the deep belly of Hades, from an unclean tongue and lying words—
⁶ the slander of an unrighteous tongue to the king.
 My soul drew near to death,
 and my life was on the brink of Hades below.
⁷ They surrounded me on every side,
 and there was no one to help me;
 I looked for human assistance,
 and there was none.
⁸ Then I remembered your mercy,
 O Lord,
 and your kindness^a from of old,
 for you rescue those who wait for you and save them from the hand of their enemies.
⁹ And I sent up my prayer from the earth,
 and begged for rescue from death.
¹⁰ I cried out, “Lord, you are my Father;^b do not forsake me in the days of trouble,
 when there is no help against the proud.
¹¹ I will praise your name continually, and will sing hymns of thanksgiving.”
 My prayer was heard,
¹² for you saved me from destruction and rescued me in time of trouble.
 For this reason I thank you and praise you,
 and I bless the name of the Lord.

 Heb adds:

*Give thanks to the LORD, for he is good,
 for his steadfast love endures forever;*

*Give thanks to the God of praises,
 for his steadfast love endures forever;*

*Give thanks to the guardian of Israel,
 for his steadfast love endures forever;*

*Give thanks to him who formed all things,
 for his steadfast love endures forever;*

*Give thanks to the redeemer of Israel,
 for his steadfast love endures forever;*

*Give thanks to him who gathers the dispersed of Israel,
 for his steadfast love endures forever;*

*Give thanks to him who rebuilt his city and his sanctuary,
 for his steadfast love endures forever;*

*Give thanks to him who makes a horn to sprout for the house of David,
 for his steadfast love endures forever;*

*Give thanks to him who has chosen the sons of Zadok to be priests,
 for his steadfast love endures forever;*

*Give thanks to the shield of Abraham,
 for his steadfast love endures forever;*

*Give thanks to the rock of Isaac,
 for his steadfast love endures forever;*

*Give thanks to the mighty one of Jacob,
 for his steadfast love endures forever;*

*Give thanks to him who has chosen Zion,
 for his steadfast love endures forever;*

Give thanks to the King of the kings of kings,

^a Other ancient authorities read work

^b Heb: Gk the Father of my lord

51:1–30: Three appendixes. 1–12: A hymn in thanksgiving for deliverance. 5,6: Hades, Heb “Sheol,” the abode of the dead. 10: Father, cf. 23:1,4. 12: Following v. 12, the medieval Hebrew text includes a thanksgiving for his steadfast love endures

forever;

He has raised up a horn for his people,
praise for all his loyal ones.

For the children of Israel, the people close to him.
Praise the LORD!

¹³ While I was still young, before I went on my travels,

I sought wisdom openly in my prayer.

¹⁴ Before the temple I asked for her,
and I will search for her until the end.

¹⁵ From the first blossom to the ripening grape
my heart delighted in her;
my foot walked on the straight path;
from my youth I followed her steps.

¹⁶ I inclined my ear a little and received her,
and I found for myself much instruction.

¹⁷ I made progress in her;
to him who gives wisdom I will give
glory.

¹⁸ For I resolved to live according to wisdom,^a
and I was zealous for the good,
and I shall never be disappointed.

¹⁹ My soul grappled with wisdom,^a and in my conduct I was strict;^b

I spread out my hands to the heavens, and lamented my ignorance of her.

²⁰ I directed my soul to her,
and in purity I found her.

With her I gained understanding from the first;
therefore I will never be forsaken.

²¹ My heart was stirred to seek her;
therefore I have gained a prize possession.

²² The Lord gave me my tongue as a reward,
and I will praise him with it.

²³ Draw near to me, you who are uneducated,
and lodge in the house of instruction.

²⁴ Why do you say you are lacking in these things,^c
and why do you endure such great thirst?

²⁵ I opened my mouth and said, Acquire wisdom^d for yourselves without money.

²⁶ Put your neck under her^e yoke,
and let your souls receive instruction;
it is to be found close by.

²⁷ See with your own eyes that I have labored but little and found for myself much serenity.

²⁸ Hear but a little of my instruction, and through me you will acquire silver and gold.^f

²⁹ May your soul rejoice in God's^g mercy, and may you never be ashamed to praise him.

³⁰ Do your work in good time, and in his own time God^h will give you your reward.

^a Gk her

^b Meaning of Gk uncertain

^c Cn Compare Heb Syr: Meaning of Gk uncertain

^d Heb: Gk lacks wisdom

^e Heb: other ancient authorities read the

^f Syr Compare Heb: Gk Get instruction with a large sum of silver, and you will gain by it much gold.

^g Gk his

^h Gk he

hymn based on Ps 136. 13–30: An autobiographical, acrostic poem on the search for wisdom. Another (somewhat more erotic) version of this text appears in a Psalms scroll from Qumran (11QPsa). 13: Travels, cf. 34.11; 39.4. 23: Draw near to me, cf. 14.20–27; Prov 9.1–6. House of instruction, a wisdom school, presumably Ben Sira's own in Jerusalem. 26: Yoke, cf. 6.23–31.

This page intentionally left blank

BARUCH

NAME AND AUTHORSHIP

The title of the book comes from its opening verse, which attributes the book to Baruch son of Neriah, the scribe of Jeremiah (cf. Jer 32.12; 36.4). This verse places Baruch in the Babylonian exile of the early sixth century BCE, but according to Jer 43.1–7, he and Jeremiah went to Egypt (not Babylon) in 582 BCE. This, along with historical errors in the introduction (1.1–14), suggests that the work was not actually written by Baruch. Following 1.1, later rabbinic tradition places Baruch in Babylon (Mid. Rab. Song 5.5; b. Meg. 16b; Seder Olam R. 26). The book is often referred to as 1 Baruch to distinguish it from several other books also attributed to Baruch, dating from the second century CE.

CANONICAL STATUS AND LOCATION IN CANON

In the Protestant tradition the book of Baruch is included in the Apocrypha; in the Roman Catholic and Eastern Orthodox churches it is one of the deuterocanonical books of the Old Testament. In Catholic Bibles the book is located between Lamentations and Ezekiel, with the Letter of Jeremiah (see p. 1537) appended as the final chapter of Baruch. In the Orthodox churches the book is between Lamentations and the Letter of Jeremiah. Baruch is not included in the Jewish canon of scripture.

DATE OF COMPOSITION AND HISTORICAL CONTEXT

Scholars often date the book of Baruch to the second or first centuries BCE. The book's themes of communal repentance, the gift of the Torah to Israel, and the glorification of Jerusalem through the return of the exiles may indicate a date during the national revival led by the Maccabees that began during the revolt against the Seleucid king Antiochus IV Epiphanes (175–164 BCE).

LITERARY HISTORY, STRUCTURE, AND CONTENTS

The existing text of Baruch is in Greek. On the basis of its literary style scholars think that the book was originally written in Hebrew and then translated into Greek; however, no Hebrew manuscript of Baruch is known. Ancient versions of Baruch in other languages, such as Latin and Syriac, are translations from the Greek.

The book has four major sections:

- A. Historical Introduction (1.1–14)
- B. Confession of Sin (1.15–3.8)
- C. Wisdom Poem (3.9–4.4)
- D. Poem of Consolation (4.5–5.9)

While themes such as confession of sin and exile are found throughout the work, these four sections differ significantly from one another in form and content (see, for example, 3.10n. and 4.10n.). Also, different names for God are used in the confession (“Lord”), in the Wisdom poem (“God”), and in the poem of consolation (“the Everlasting”). Thus the different sections may have been written separately and combined later. Much of the book is a pastiche of quotations and paraphrases of biblical texts (see the annotations). This type of composition, popular in the late Second Temple period, provided a means of interpreting canonical literature and creating new works.

INTERPRETATION

The Babylonian exile was not a living reality for the author of Baruch but a context for reflection on maintaining the vitality of the relationship between God and Israel. The book attributes the Babylonian exile to national sin (1.21–2.1). The curses of the covenant have now come upon the people (1.20; 2.2; compare 2.3 and Deut 28.53). The book offers a way to alleviate this difficult situation: confess your sins and turn to God. The people need to renew their dedication to God and the covenant. This is the core message of the prayer in 1.15–3.8. The poem in 3.9–4.4 encourages Israel to learn “where there is wisdom” (3.14)—God has found Wisdom, and he has given it to Israel in the form of the Torah (3.36–4.1a). Wisdom, as elsewhere in wisdom literature, is associated with life

(3.9; 4.1b; Prov 3.16). God, the book promises, will reward repentance by returning the exiles to Judah (4.36–5.9). The exile represents death and sin (2.17; 3.4,10–11); return to Zion symbolizes life and devotion to God.

Although the book of Baruch originated in the Jewish community, like other such works written in the Hellenistic and Roman eras, it fell out of use in rabbinic Judaism. Early Christian writers, however, frequently quoted the book as scripture. Baruch 3.36–37, which refers to Wisdom appearing on earth and living with humankind, was often cited because of its Christological interpretation (cf. Jn 1.14).

GUIDE TO READING

The opening verses of Baruch describe the book as having been read to the Jews exiled in Babylon; reading aloud was a common practice in antiquity. Modern readers can also appreciate the book's rhetorical appeal by listening to it rather than reading it silently. Even though the book consists of stylistically different sections, readers can experience its unity by noticing verses that reflect its main themes: sin and exile, repentance and the restoration of Zion. In antiquity Jewish education often involved memorizing large sections of scripture. Thus early readers would have recognized the many phrases adapted from biblical books, in particular Deuteronomy, Jeremiah, and Isaiah. The annotations will aid modern readers to identify and recognize these echoes of scripture.

Matthew Goff

1 These are the words of the book that Baruch son of Neriah son of Mahseiah son of Zedekiah son of Hasadiah son of Hilkiyah wrote in Babylon, ² in the fifth year, on the seventh day of the month, at the time when the Chaldeans took Jerusalem and burned it with fire.

³ Baruch read the words of this book to Jeconiah son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, and to all the people who came to hear the book, ⁴ and to the nobles and the princes, and to the elders, and to all the people, small and great, all who lived in Babylon by the river Sud.

⁵ Then they wept, and fasted, and prayed before the Lord; ⁶ they collected as much money as each could give, ⁷ and sent it to Jerusalem to the high priest^a Jehoiakim son of Hilkiyah son of Shallum, and to the priests, and to all the people who were present with him in Jerusalem. ⁸ At the same time, on the tenth day of Sivan, Baruch^b took the vessels of the house of the Lord, which had been carried away from the temple, to return them to the land of Judah—the silver vessels that Zedekiah son of Josiah, king of Judah, had made, ⁹ after King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon had carried away from Jerusalem Jeconiah and the princes and the prisoners and the nobles and the people of the land, and brought them to Babylon.

¹⁰ They said: Here we send you money; so buy with the money burnt offerings and sin offerings and incense, and prepare a grain offering, and offer them on the altar of the Lord our God; ¹¹ and pray for the life of King

^a Gk the priest

^b Gk he

1.1–14: Historical introduction. 1–2: Authorship and date. 1: Baruch, Jeremiah's scribe (Jer 36.4,15; 45.1). The genealogy here is more extensive than in Jer 32.12. 2: Fifth year, after the destruction of Jerusalem in 586 BCE (2 Kings 25.8–12) by the Babylonians (the Chaldeans). 3–4: Baruch reads his book to the other exiles (cf. Jer 36.10). 3: Jeconiah, also called Jehoiachin. He was regarded by the exiles as king (2 Kings 24.15; 25.27–30; Jer 24.1; Ezek 1.2). 4: Sud, the name is otherwise unknown. Perhaps a reference to the river Ahava (Ezra 8.15,21,31). 5–7: The exiles react to Baruch's reading. 5: In the book of Baruch the word Lord occurs only in 1.1–3.8. 6: They collected, see Ezra 1.4,6. 7: The high priest Jehoiakim, otherwise unknown. The Greek reads "the priest." The genealogy is derived from 1 Chr 6.13–15. 8: Sivan, the third month of the Jewish calendar (May–June). This verse does not agree with Ezra 1.7–11, which states that Sheshbazzar returned the gold and silver vessels to Jerusalem after the edict of the Persian king Cyrus (538 BCE). Zedekiah, the king of Judah when Jerusalem fell (2 Kings 24.18–25.7). 2 Kings never claims that Zedekiah fashioned temple vessels. 9: Jer 24.1; 2 Kings 24.10–16. 10–14: Instruction that accompanies the scroll sent by exiles to the Jews who remained in Jerusalem. 10: Jer 41.5 indicates that Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon, and for the life of his son Belshazzar, so that their days on earth may be like the days of heaven.¹² The Lord will give us strength, and light to our eyes; we shall live under the protection^a of King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon, and under the protection of his son Belshazzar, and we shall serve them many days and find favor in their sight.¹³ Pray also for us to the Lord our God, for we have sinned against the Lord our God, and to this day the anger of the Lord and his wrath have not turned away from us.¹⁴ And you shall read aloud this scroll that we are sending you, to make your confession in the house of the Lord on the days of the festivals and at appointed seasons.

¹⁵ And you shall say: The Lord our God is in the right, but there is open shame on us today, on the people of Judah, on the inhabitants of Jerusalem,¹⁶ and on our kings, our rulers, our priests, our prophets, and our ancestors,¹⁷ because we have sinned before the Lord.¹⁸ We have disobeyed him, and have not heeded the voice of the Lord our God, to walk in the statutes of the Lord that he set before us.¹⁹ From the time when the Lord brought our ancestors out of the land of Egypt until today, we have been disobedient to the Lord our God, and we have been negligent, in not heeding his voice.²⁰ So to this day there have clung to us the calamities and the curse that the Lord declared through his servant Moses at the time when he brought our ancestors out of the land of Egypt to give to us a land flowing with milk and honey.²¹ We did not listen to the voice of the Lord our God in all the words of the prophets whom he sent to us,²² but all of us followed the intent of our own wicked hearts by serving other gods and doing what is evil in the sight of the Lord our God.

2 So the Lord carried out the threat he spoke against us: against our judges who ruled Israel, and against our kings and our rulers and the people of Israel and Judah.² Under the whole heaven there has not been done the like of what he has done in Jerusalem, in accordance with the threats that were^b written in the law of Moses.³ Some of us ate the flesh of their sons and others the flesh of their daughters.⁴ He made them subject to all the kingdoms around us, to be an object of scorn and a desolation among all the surrounding peoples, where the Lord has scattered them.⁵ They were brought down and not raised up, because our nation^c sinned against the Lord our God, in not heeding his voice.

⁶ The Lord our God is in the right, but there is open shame on us and our ancestors this very day.⁷ All those calamities with which the Lord threatened us have come upon us.⁸ Yet we have not entreated the favor of the Lord by turning away, each of us, from the thoughts of our wicked hearts.⁹ And the Lord has kept the calamities ready, and the Lord has brought them upon us, for the Lord is just in all the works that he has commanded us to do.¹⁰ Yet we have not obeyed his voice, to walk in the statutes of the Lord that he set before us.

¹¹ And now, O Lord God of Israel, who brought your people out of the land of Egypt with a mighty hand and with signs and wonders and with great power and outstretched arm, and made yourself a name that continues to this day,¹² we have sinned, we have

^a Gk in the shadow

^b Gk in accordance with what is

^c Gk because we

incense and grain offerings continued at the ruined temple; cf. Jer 17.26. 11: Jer 29.7. Belshazzar was the son of Nabonidus. Dan 5 makes the same error.

1.15–3.8: Confession of sin. This prayer draws on numerous biblical texts, including Lev 26, Deut 28, and parts of Jeremiah. It also has many links with Dan 9.4–19. Bar 1.15–2.5 appears to be intended for the Jewish community in Palestine and 2.6–3.8 for Jews in exile; compare 1.15–16 and 2.13–14. 1.15–18: The Jews in Judah confess their disobedience to God and his commandments (Dan 9.7–10). This refrain is similar to 2.6–10, which helps mark the division between the two sections of 1.15–3.8. 15: Open shame, repeated in 2.6. See Dan 9.7–8; Ezra 9.7. 18: 2.10; Dan 9.10. 1.19–2.5: Israel's disobedience is given a historical context, from the Exodus to the Babylonian exile. 19: 2 Kings 21.15; Jer 7.25. 20: Curse, Lev 26; Deut 28; Jer 11.3–5. 21: Jer 7.25–26; 26.4–5; Dan 9.5–6.10. 22: 2.8. 2.1–2: Dan 9.12–13. 3: Lev 26.29; Deut 28.53; Jer 19.9; Lam 4.10. 4: Cf. Jer 42.18. 5: Deut 28.13. 6–10: Confession of guilt. See 1.15–18; Dan 9.12–14. 11–26: Supplication and confession. 11–14: Dan 9.15–17. 11:

been ungodly, we have done wrong, O Lord our God, against all your ordinances. ¹³ Let your anger turn away from us, for we are left, few in number, among the nations where you have scattered us. ¹⁴ Hear, O Lord, our prayer and our supplication, and for your own sake deliver us, and grant us favor in the sight of those who have carried us into exile; ¹⁵ so that all the earth may know that you are the Lord our God, for Israel and his descendants are called by your name.

¹⁶ O Lord, look down from your holy dwelling, and consider us. Incline your ear, O Lord, and hear; ¹⁷ open your eyes, O Lord, and see, for the dead who are in Hades, whose spirit has been taken from their bodies, will not ascribe glory or justice to the Lord; ¹⁸ but the person who is deeply grieved, who walks bowed and feeble, with failing eyes and famished soul, will declare your glory and righteousness, O Lord.

¹⁹ For it is not because of any righteous deeds of our ancestors or our kings that we bring before you our prayer for mercy, O Lord our God. ²⁰ For you have sent your anger and your wrath upon us, as you declared by your servants the prophets, saying: ²¹ Thus says the Lord: Bend your shoulders and serve the king of Babylon, and you will remain in the land that I gave to your ancestors. ²² But if you will not obey the voice of the Lord and will not serve the king of Babylon, ²³ I will make to cease from the towns of Judah and from the region around Jerusalem the voice of mirth and the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride, and the whole land will be a desolation without inhabitants.

²⁴ But we did not obey your voice, to serve the king of Babylon; and you have carried out your threats, which you spoke by your servants the prophets, that the bones of our kings and the bones of our ancestors would be brought out of their resting place; ²⁵ and indeed they have been thrown out to the heat of day and the frost of night. They perished in great misery, by famine and sword and pestilence. ²⁶ And the house that is called by your name you have made as it is today, because of the wickedness of the house of Israel and the house of Judah.

²⁷ Yet you have dealt with us, O Lord our God, in all your kindness and in all your great compassion, ²⁸ as you spoke by your servant Moses on the day when you commanded him to write your law in the presence of the people of Israel, saying, ²⁹ "If you will not obey my voice, this very great multitude will surely turn into a small number among the nations, where I will scatter them. ³⁰ For I know that they will not obey me, for they are a stiff-necked people. But in the land of their exile they will come to themselves ³¹ and know that I am the Lord their God. I will give them a heart that obeys and ears that hear; ³² they will praise me in the land of their exile, and will remember my name ³³ and turn from their stubbornness and their wicked deeds; for they will remember the ways of their ancestors, who sinned before the Lord. ³⁴ I will bring them again into the land that I swore to give to their ancestors, to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and they will rule over it; and I will increase them, and they will not be diminished. ³⁵ I will make an everlasting covenant with them to be their God and they shall be my people; and I will never again remove my people Israel from the land that I have given them."

3 O Lord Almighty, God of Israel, the soul in anguish and the wearied spirit cry out to you. ² Hear, O Lord, and have mercy, for we have sinned before you. ³ For you are enthroned forever, and we are perishing

Ex 15.11–16; Jer 32.20–21. 12: Cf. 1 Kings 8.47 and Ps 106.6. 13: Deut 4.27; Jer 42.2. 15: Cf. Deut 28.10; Jer 14.9. 16: Deut 26.15; 1 Kings 8.39; Isa 63.15; Dan 9.18. 17: Pss 6.5; 30.9; Isa 38.18; Sir 17.27–28. Hades, in Hebrew "Sheol," the underworld abode of the dead. 18: Deut 28.65–66. 20: Jer 36.7. 21: Jer 27.11–12. 23: Jer 7.34; 16.9; 33.10–11. 24: Jer 8.1–2. 25: Jer 36.30. 26: Jer 7.14. 27–35: Repentance and restoration illustrate God's compassion for Israel. The words attributed to Moses in vv. 29–34 have no verbatim match in the Hebrew Bible but resemble phrases from Deuteronomy and Jeremiah. 29: Deut 28.58,62. 30: 1 Kings 8.47. 31: Jer 24.7. 34: Lev 26.42–45; Deut 6.10; 30.1–5; Jer 32.37. 35: Jer 24.6; 32.38–40. 3.1–8: Appeal to God to hear the prayer of the exiles. 4: The Greek word dead (see textual note a) may represent the confusion of two similar Hebrew terms, one which means "dead" and the other "men." Note, however, that elsewhere in the book exile is symbolically depicted as a form of death (2.17;

forever. ⁴ O Lord Almighty, God of Israel, hear now the prayer of the people^a of Israel, the children of those who sinned before you, who did not heed the voice of the Lord their God, so that calamities have clung to us. ⁵ Do not remember the iniquities of our ancestors, but in this crisis remember your power and your name. ⁶ For you are the Lord our God, and it is you, O Lord, whom we will praise. ⁷ For you have put the fear of you in our hearts so that we would call upon your name; and we will praise you in our exile, for we have put away from our hearts all the iniquity of our ancestors who sinned against you. ⁸ See, we are today in our exile where you have scattered us, to be reproached and cursed and punished for all the iniquities of our ancestors, who forsook the Lord our God.

⁹ Hear the commandments of life, O Israel; give ear, and learn wisdom!

¹⁰ Why is it, O Israel, why is it that you are in the land of your enemies, that you are growing old in a foreign country, that you are defiled with the dead,

¹¹ that you are counted among those in Hades?

¹² You have forsaken the fountain of wisdom.

¹³ If you had walked in the way of God, you would be living in peace forever.

¹⁴ Learn where there is wisdom, where there is strength, where there is understanding,

so that you may at the same time discern where there is length of days, and life, where there is light for the eyes, and peace.

¹⁵ Who has found her place?

And who has entered her storehouses?

¹⁶ Where are the rulers of the nations, and those who lorded it over the animals on earth;

¹⁷ those who made sport of the birds of the air, and who hoarded up silver and gold

in which people trust,

and there is no end to their getting;

¹⁸ those who schemed to get silver, and were anxious,

but there is no trace of their works?

¹⁹ They have vanished and gone down to Hades,

and others have arisen in their place.

²⁰ Later generations have seen the light of day,

and have lived upon the earth;

but they have not learned the way to knowledge,

nor understood her paths,

nor laid hold of her.

²¹ Their descendants have strayed far from her^b way.

²² She has not been heard of in Canaan, or seen in Teman;

^a Gk dead

^b Other ancient authorities read their

3.10–11). 7: 1 Kings 8.47–48; Jer 32.40b. 8: 2.4. The exile is punishment for sins committed by earlier generations (2.33; 3.4–5; Ex 20.5; 34.7; Lam 5.7; cf. Jer 31.29–30; Ezek 18).

3.9–4.4: Wisdom poem. Wisdom, personified as a woman, is elusive but known to God, who gave her to Israel as the Torah. This section has many affinities with Sir 24 and Job 28. 3.9–14: Introduction to the poem, exhorting Israel to learn wisdom. 9: The commandments of life, Deut 30.15–20; Sir 45.5. 10: This verse connects the Wisdom poem of 3.9–4.4 to the confession of sin in 1.15–3.8. Growing old, the exile has continued for a long time (contrast 1.2). 11: Pss 28.1; 88.4. Hades, see 2.17n. 12: Prov 18.4; Jer 2.13; 2 Esd 14.47. 14: Prov 3.2,13–18; Job 12.13. 15–23: Gentile kings and nations do not possess wisdom. 15: Job 28.12,20. 16b–17a: Jer 27.6; Dan 2.37–38; Jdt 11.7. 17b–19: Those who searched for riches were unable to avoid death. The Torah, by contrast, is associated with life (4.1; cf. Prov 8.10–11,19). 22: Canaan, here probably a reference to the Phoenicians (cf. Gen 10.15), whose coastal cities Tyre and Sidon were associated with wisdom and mercantile skill (Isa 23.8; Ezek 28.3–5; Zech 9.2). Teman, in Edom, a region known for its wisdom (Jer 49.7; Ob 8–9; cf. Gen 36.9–11). 23: The descendants of Hagar, the Ishmaelites, who were Arabian tribal groups with a reputation for trade and commerce (Gen 25.12–15; 37.25). Merran, the word occurs nowhere else in the Bible. It may be a corruption of “Midian,” an area well-known for its traders in the northern Hejaz region of Arabia, east of the Gulf of Aqaba

²³ the descendants of Hagar, who seek for understanding on the earth, the merchants of Merran and Teman, the story-tellers and the seekers for understanding, have not learned the way to wisdom, or given thought to her paths.

²⁴ O Israel, how great is the house of God, how vast the territory that he possesses!

²⁵ It is great and has no bounds; it is high and immeasurable.

²⁶ The giants were born there, who were famous of old, great in stature, expert in war.

²⁷ God did not choose them, or give them the way to knowledge;

²⁸ so they perished because they had no wisdom, they perished through their folly.

²⁹ Who has gone up into heaven, and taken her, and brought her down from the clouds?

³⁰ Who has gone over the sea, and found her, and will buy her for pure gold?

³¹ No one knows the way to her, or is concerned about the path to her.

³² But the one who knows all things knows her, he found her by his understanding.

The one who prepared the earth for all time filled it with four-footed creatures;

³³ the one who sends forth the light, and it goes; he called it, and it obeyed him, trembling;

³⁴ the stars shone in their watches, and were glad; he called them, and they said, "Here we are!" They shone with gladness for him who made them.

³⁵ This is our God; no other can be compared to him.

³⁶ He found the whole way to knowledge, and gave her to his servant Jacob and to Israel, whom he loved.

³⁷ Afterward she appeared on earth and lived with humankind.

4 She is the book of the commandments of God,

the law that endures forever.

All who hold her fast will live, and those who forsake her will die.

² Turn, O Jacob, and take her; walk toward the shining of her light.

³ Do not give your glory to another, or your advantages to an alien people.

⁴ Happy are we, O Israel, for we know what is pleasing to God.

⁵ Take courage, my people, who perpetuate Israel's name!

⁶ It was not for destruction that you were sold to the nations, but you were handed over to your enemies because you angered God.

⁷ For you provoked the one who made you by sacrificing to demons and not to God.

⁸ You forgot the everlasting God, who brought you up, and you grieved Jerusalem, who reared you.

(Gen 25.2; 37.28; Isa 60.6). 24–28: This section praises the magnitude of God's creation. 24: The house of God, the context suggests that this refers to the created world rather than the Jerusalem temple. 26: The giants, the legendary offspring of angels and women recounted in Gen 6.1–4; cf. 1 En. 6–8; Jub. 5. 28: Sir 16.7; Wis 14.6; 3 Macc 2.4. 29–37: Only God has Wisdom, and he gives it to Israel. 29: Deut 30.12–14; cf. Prov 30.4; Sir 24.4. 30: Job 28.14–15. 32: Job 28.23. God finds Wisdom (see v. 36), whereas in Ben Sira he creates Wisdom (Sir 24.3,9; cf. Prov 8:22). 33: The trembling of the light denotes its fear and obedience before God (cf. Gen 1.3; Job 38.35). 34: Job 38.7; Ps 148.3; Sir 43.10. 36: Sir 24.8. 37: Divine Wisdom appears on earth in Prov 8 and Sir 24.6–12 (cf. Wis 1.7; 9.10). Contrast 1 En. 42. 4.1–4: Identification of Wisdom as the Torah, which Israel should embrace. The personification of Wisdom as a woman is more prominent in Prov 8 and Sir 24 (cf. Wis 6–9). 1: Prov 3.18; Sir 24.23 (cf. 6.37; 15.1). 4: Deut 33.29.

4.5–5.9: Poem of consolation. 4.5–8: Introductory exhortation, stressing that God wished to punish, not destroy, Israel because of its sins. 5: Take courage, a refrain of the poem (vv. 21,27,30; cf. Isa 40.1). 6: Isa 50.1b; 52.3. 7: Deut 32.16–17; Ps 106.37. 8: Gen 21.33; Isa 40.28. 9b–16: Jerusalem personified addresses neighboring

- ⁹For she saw the wrath that came upon you from God,
and she said:
Listen, you neighbors of Zion,
God has brought great sorrow upon me;
¹⁰for I have seen the exile of my sons and daughters,
which the Everlasting brought upon
them.
¹¹With joy I nurtured them, but I sent them away with weeping and sorrow.
¹²Let no one rejoice over me, a widow and bereaved of many;
I was left desolate because of the sins of my children,
because they turned away from the law of God.
¹³They had no regard for his statutes;
they did not walk in the ways of God's commandments,
or tread the paths his righteousness showed them.
¹⁴Let the neighbors of Zion come; remember the capture of my sons and daughters,
which the Everlasting brought upon
them.
¹⁵For he brought a distant nation against
them,
a nation ruthless and of a strange language, which had no respect for the aged and no pity for a child.
¹⁶They led away the widow's beloved sons, and bereaved the lonely woman of her daughters.
¹⁷But I, how can I help you?
¹⁸For he who brought these calamities upon you will deliver you from the hand of your enemies.
¹⁹Go, my children, go;
for I have been left desolate.
- ²⁰I have taken off the robe of peace and put on sackcloth for my supplication;
I will cry to the Everlasting all my days.
²¹Take courage, my children, cry to God,
and he will deliver you from the power and hand of the enemy.
²²For I have put my hope in the Everlasting to save you,
and joy has come to me from the Holy
One,
because of the mercy that will soon come to you from your everlasting savior.^a ²³For I sent you out with sorrow and weeping,
but God will give you back to me with joy and gladness forever.
²⁴For as the neighbors of Zion have now seen your capture,
so they soon will see your salvation by God,
which will come to you with great glory and with the splendor of the Everlasting.
²⁵My children, endure with patience the wrath that has come upon you from God.
Your enemy has overtaken you,
but you will soon see their destruction and will tread upon their necks.
²⁶My pampered children have traveled rough roads;
they were taken away like a flock carried off by the enemy.
²⁷Take courage, my children, and cry to God, for you will be remembered by the one who brought this upon you.
²⁸For just as you were disposed to go astray from God,
return with tenfold zeal to seek him.

^a Or from the Everlasting, your savior

cities. 9: Lam 1.12. 10: Everlasting, a term for God characteristic of this poem that is not found in other sections of the book of Baruch (vv. 14,20,22,24,35; 5.2). 12: Isa 49.21; 54.4; Lam 1.1. 15: Deut 28.49–50; Isa 33.19. 17–29: Jerusalem personified speaks to the exiles. 20: Contrast Isa 52.1. Robe of peace, worn during a time of prosperity. Sackcloth, worn in times of mourning and penitence (e.g., Isa 3.24; Jer 6.26; Lam 2.10). 22: The Holy One, a name for God that is prominent in Isaiah (e.g., 5.19; 12.6; 43.3; 47.4; 60.9) found also in 4.37; 5.5 but not elsewhere in the book of Baruch. 23: Ps 126.6; Isa 35.10; 51.11; Jer 31.12–13. 24: Isa 60.1–3. 25: Deut 33.29; Isa 51.23. The wrath

²⁹ For the one who brought these calamities upon you will bring you everlasting joy with your salvation.

³⁰ Take courage, O Jerusalem, for the one who named you will comfort you.

³¹ Wretched will be those who mistreated you and who rejoiced at your fall.

³² Wretched will be the cities that your children served as slaves; wretched will be the city that received your offspring.

³³ For just as she rejoiced at your fall and was glad for your ruin, so she will be grieved at her own desolation.

³⁴ I will take away her pride in her great population, and her insolence will be turned to grief.

³⁵ For fire will come upon her from the Everlasting for many days, and for a long time she will be inhabited by demons.

³⁶ Look toward the east, O Jerusalem, and see the joy that is coming to you from God.

³⁷ Look, your children are coming, whom you sent away; they are coming, gathered from east and west, at the word of the Holy One, rejoicing in the glory of God.

5 Take off the garment of your sorrow and affliction, O Jerusalem, and put on forever the beauty of the glory from God.

² Put on the robe of the righteousness that comes from God; put on your head the diadem of the glory of the Everlasting;

³ for God will show your splendor everywhere under heaven.

⁴ For God will give you evermore the name, "Righteous Peace, Godly Glory."

⁵ Arise, O Jerusalem, stand upon the height;

look toward the east, and see your children gathered from west and east

at the word of the Holy One, rejoicing that God has remembered them.

⁶ For they went out from you on foot, led away by their enemies;

but God will bring them back to you, carried in glory, as on a royal throne.

⁷ For God has ordered that every high mountain and the everlasting hills be made low and the valleys filled up, to make level ground,

so that Israel may walk safely in the glory of God.

⁸ The woods and every fragrant tree have shaded Israel at God's command.

⁹ For God will lead Israel with joy, in the light of his glory, with the mercy and righteousness that come from him.

has a short duration (cf. Isa 54.7–8). 4.30–5.9: The narrator consoles Jerusalem with the prospect of the exiles' return. 30–35: Jerusalem is encouraged by the fall of her enemies, referring to Babylon and perhaps Edom (Ps 137.7–8; Isa 63.1–6; cf. Isa 13–14; 47; Jer 50–51). Contrast the attitude toward Babylon in 1.11–12. 30: The one who named you, see 5.4n. Cf. Isa 51.3. 35: Fire, Jer 51.58; demons, Isa 13.21; 34.14. 4.36–5.4: Jerusalem is exhorted to watch the exiles return from the east. 36–37: See 5.5n. 5.1–2: 4.20; Isa 52.1; 61.3,10; Pss. Sol. 11.7. 4: The renaming of Jerusalem, which marks a change in status, is a theme in the prophetic books (Isa 1.26; 60.14; 62.2–4; Jer 33.16; Ezek 48.35). Righteous Peace, Isa 32.17; 60.17. 5.5–9: A second call for Jerusalem to watch God bring the exiles to her. 5: 4.36; Isa 40.9–11; 43.5; 49.18; 51.17; 60.4; Pss. Sol. 11.2–3. 6: Isa 49.22; 66.20. 7: Isa 40.4–5; 42.16; Pss. Sol. 11.4. 8: Pss. Sol. 11.5–6. Cf. Isa 41.19.

THE LETTER OF JEREMIAH

NAME AND AUTHORSHIP

The work claims to be a copy of a letter written by the prophet Jeremiah for Judeans about to be exiled to Babylonia in 597 BCE. The Letter, however, never gives the impression that the siege of Jerusalem and the Babylonian exile are recent calamities. Moreover, it draws on the canonical book of Jeremiah and other biblical texts (see next sections). Thus the Letter was probably written much later and attributed to Jeremiah, inspired by the account in Jer 29 of Jeremiah's writing to the exilic community.

CANONICAL STATUS AND LOCATION IN CANON

The Letter is not part of the Jewish or Protestant canons. In the Roman Catholic and Orthodox traditions it is deuterocanonical. Major Greek Septuagint manuscripts, such as Vaticanus (fourth century CE) and Alexandrinus (fifth century CE), treat the Letter as a distinct work placed between Lamentations and Ezekiel. The Latin Vulgate, which is prominent in the Roman Catholic tradition, considers the text the sixth chapter of Baruch. The Letter appears in the NRSV as an independent book because it differs markedly from Baruch in terms of style and content; there is no strong evidence that it was originally part of Baruch (but see also note a).

DATE OF COMPOSITION AND HISTORICAL CONTEXT

Although the Letter purports to be sent to the Judeans about to be exiled to Babylonia in the early sixth century BCE, many scholars date the Letter to the Hellenistic period. The reference in v. 3 to an exile lasting seven generations (280 years) could, if taken literally, indicate that the text was written in 317 BCE. The "seven generations," however, should probably be read symbolically. 2 Macc 2.1–3 refers to the Letter, and a fragment of a Greek papyrus from Cave 7 of Qumran (7Q2) contains a portion of Let Jer 43–44; these factors indicate that the work was written before 100 BCE.

LITERARY HISTORY, STRUCTURE, AND CONTENTS

Although the oldest surviving manuscripts of the Letter are in Greek, there are indications that it was originally written in Hebrew or Aramaic and then translated into Greek (see 12n. and 72n.).

After a historical introduction (vv. 1–7), the body of the composition consists of ten warnings about idolatry. Each unit ends with a refrain that idols are not gods and that they should not be feared (vv. 16, 23, 29, 40, 44, 52, 56, 65, 69, 72).

INTERPRETATION

The Letter of Jeremiah warns Jews to avoid pagan religion and asserts that idols are false gods that have no power. Since the veneration of idols was widespread, the text would have had relevance not only to Jewish exiles living in Babylon but to Jews living anywhere in the ancient world. The work is influenced by biblical condemnations of idolatry such as Deut 4.27–28; Isa 44.9–20; 46.5–7; Pss 115.3–8; 135.15–18; cf. Wis 13–15. The Letter also relies upon and expands Jer 10. Despite the identification of the composition as a letter, inspired by the prophet's epistle to the exiles in Jer 29, the work does not belong to the genre of ancient letters and is better classified as a homily or sermon.

GUIDE TO READING

The homiletical style of the Letter, with its vivid imagery, repeated refrains, reliance on formulaic biblical denunciations of idolatry, and sarcastic humor is intended to reinforce beliefs and values already held by its Jewish audience. The author shows no sympathy for actual pagan customs, and the Letter cannot be read as an accurate description of the way in which pagans understood their own religious practices.

Matthew Goff

6^a A copy of a letter that Jeremiah sent to those who were to be taken to Babylon as exiles by the king of the Babylonians, to give them the message that God had commanded him.

² Because of the sins that you have committed before God, you will be taken to Babylon as exiles by Nebuchadnezzar, king of the Babylonians. ³ Therefore when you have come to Babylon you will remain there for many years, for a long time, up to seven generations; after that I will bring you away from there in peace. ⁴ Now in Babylon you will see gods made of silver and gold and wood, which people carry on their shoulders, and which cause the heathen to fear. ⁵ So beware of becoming at all like the foreigners or of letting fear for these gods^b possess you ⁶ when you see the multitude before and behind them worshiping them. But say in your heart, “It is you, O Lord, whom we must worship.” ⁷ For my angel is with you, and he is watching over your lives.

⁸ Their tongues are smoothed by the carpenter, and they themselves are overlaid with gold and silver; but they are false and cannot speak. ⁹ People^c take gold and make crowns for the heads of their gods, as they might for a girl who loves ornaments. ¹⁰ Sometimes the priests secretly take gold and silver from their gods and spend it on themselves, ¹¹ or even give some of it to the prostitutes on the terrace. They deck their gods^d out with garments like human beings—these gods of silver and gold and wood ¹² that cannot save themselves from rust and corrosion. When they have been dressed in purple robes, ¹³ their faces are wiped because of the dust from the temple, which is thick upon them. ¹⁴ One of them holds a scepter, like a district judge, but is unable to destroy anyone who offends it. ¹⁵ Another has a dagger in its right hand, and an ax, but cannot defend itself from war and robbers. ¹⁶ From this it is evident that they are not gods; so do not fear them.

¹⁷ For just as someone’s dish is useless when it is broken, ¹⁸ so are their gods when they have been set up in the temples. Their eyes are full of the dust raised by the feet of those who enter. And just as the gates are shut on every side against anyone who has offended a king, as though under sentence of death, so the priests make their temples secure with doors and locks and bars, in order that they may not be plundered by robbers. ¹⁹ They light more lamps for them than they light for themselves, though their gods^e can see none of them. ²⁰ They are^f just like a beam of the temple, but their hearts, it is said, are eaten away when crawling creatures from the earth devour them and their robes. They do not notice ²¹ when their faces have been blackened by the smoke

^a The King James Version (like the Latin Vulgate) prints The Letter of Jeremiah as Chapter 6 of the Book of Baruch, and the chapter and verse numbers are here retained. In the Greek Septuagint, the Letter is separated from Baruch by the Book of Lamentations.

^b Gk for them

^c Gk They

^d Gk them

^e Gk they

^f Gk It is

6.1–7: Historical introduction. 1: The exile of 597 BCE (2 Kings 24.10–17). Who were to be taken, the work is composed for people about to be exiled. The letter in Jer 29 is written by the prophet to Jews already in exile. 3: Seven generations, taken literally, the duration of the exile in Babylon. Contrast the different figures given in Jer 25.12; 29.10 (seventy years), Ezek 4.6 (forty years) and Dan 9.24 (seventy weeks of years). 4: Silver and gold, overlaid on wood (v. 55; Jer 10.3–4; cf. Isa 40.19). Which people carry on their shoulders, this may refer to the procession that was part of the Akitu, the Babylonian New Year festival (see v. 26). 5: Jer 10.2.

6.8–73: Warnings against idolatry. 8–16: First warning: the helplessness of idols. 8: Carpenter, Isa 40.20; 44.13; Jer. 10.3–4. Cannot speak, Pss 115.4–5; 135.15–16. 11: Prostitutes may refer to women who earned money for vows through prostitution (cf. v. 43). 12: Purple robes, a symbol of authority (cf. Jer 10.9). Corrosion, several Greek manuscripts give this word as either “food” or “meat.” It is most likely a mistranslation of a Hebrew word for “moth.” 15: Vv. 48–49, 57.

6.17–23: Second warning: the uselessness of idols. 17: V. 59; Jer 22.28; Hos 8.8. 18: Robbers, see vv. 57–58n. 19: Despite many lamps, the idols cannot see (Deut 4.28; Pss 115.5; 135.16; Isa 44.18). 20: Being wooden, the idols are subject to decay and infestation. 22: The earliest reference in Jewish literature to cats, first domesticated in Egypt.

of the temple. ²²Bats, swallows, and birds alight on their bodies and heads; and so do cats. ²³From this you will know that they are not gods; so do not fear them.

²⁴As for the gold that they wear for beauty—it^a will not shine unless someone wipes off the tarnish; for even when they were being cast, they did not feel it. ²⁵They are bought without regard to cost, but there is no breath in them. ²⁶Having no feet, they are carried on the shoulders of others, revealing to humankind their worthlessness. And those who serve them are put to shame ²⁷because, if any of these gods falls^b to the ground, they themselves must pick it up. If anyone sets it upright, it cannot move itself; and if it is tipped over, it cannot straighten itself. Gifts are placed before them just as before the dead. ²⁸The priests sell the sacrifices that are offered to these gods^c and use the money themselves. Likewise their wives preserve some of the meat^d with salt, but give none to the poor or helpless. ²⁹Sacrifices to them may even be touched by women in their periods or at childbirth. Since you know by these things that they are not gods, do not fear them.

³⁰For how can they be called gods? Women serve meals for gods of silver and gold and wood; ³¹and in their temples the priests sit with their clothes torn, their heads and beards shaved, and their heads uncovered. ³²They howl and shout before their gods as some do at a funeral banquet. ³³The priests take some of the clothing of their gods^e to clothe their wives and children. ³⁴Whether one does evil to them or good,

they will not be able to repay it. They cannot set up a king or depose one. ³⁵Likewise they are not able to give either wealth or money; if one makes a vow to them and does not keep it, they will not require it. ³⁶They cannot save anyone from death or rescue the weak from the strong. ³⁷They cannot restore sight to the blind; they cannot rescue one who is in distress. ³⁸They cannot take pity on a widow or do good to an orphan. ³⁹These things that are made of wood and overlaid with gold and silver are like stones from the mountain, and those who serve them will be put to shame. ⁴⁰Why then must anyone think that they are gods, or call them gods?

Besides, even the Chaldeans themselves dishonor them; for when they see someone who cannot speak, they bring Bel and pray that the mute may speak, as though Bel^f were able to understand! ⁴¹Yet they themselves cannot perceive this and abandon them, for they have no sense. ⁴²And the women, with cords around them, sit along the passages, burning bran for incense. ⁴³When one of them is led off by one of the passers-by and is taken to bed by him, she derides the woman next to her, because she was not as attractive as herself and her cord was not broken. ⁴⁴Whatever is done for these idols^g is

^a Lat Syr: Gk they

^b Gk if they fall

^c Gk to them

^d Gk of them

^e Gk some of their clothing

^f Gk he

^g Gk them

6.24–29: Third warning: the lifelessness of idols. 25: No breath, Ps 135.17; Jer 10.14; 51.17; Hab 2.19. 26: V. 4; Isa 46.1, 7a; Jer 10.5. 27: Isa 46.7b; Jer 10.4 (cf. 1 Sam 5.3). Gifts for the dead, Ps 106.28; Tob 4.17; Sir 30.18–19. 29: Biblical purity regulations state that women during and shortly after menstruation and childbirth are not allowed to participate in worship (Lev 12.2–5; 15.19–24).

6.30–40a: Fourth warning: the powerlessness of idols. 30: Only men were priests in the Temple in Jerusalem; but see Ex 38.8; 1 Sam 2.22. 31–32: Ritual mourning, presumably for gods such as the Mesopotamian deity Tammuz, whose descent into the netherworld was annually observed with similar practices (Ezek 8.14; cf. Lev 21.5). Funeral banquets, Jer 16.5–9. 34b: V. 53; cf. Job 12.18; Dan 2.21. 35b: Deut 23.21. 36: Deut 32.39; 1 Sam 2.6. 37: Ps 146.8. 38: Deut 10.18; Ps 146.9. 39: Isa 44.11; Hab 2.19.

6.40b–44: Fifth warning: the folly of revering idols. 40b: Chaldeans, often a synonym for “Babylonians.” The term can also refer to astrologers or diviners (e.g., Dan 2.2,4). Bel (“Lord”), a title for Marduk, the patron god of the city of Babylon (Isa 46.1; Jer 50.2; 51.44; Bel 1.3). 43: The Greek historian Herodotus (1.199) describes a similar practice among the Babylonians (cf. v. 11).

6.45–52: Sixth warning: idols are not divine but the work of human hands. 45: Isa 40.15; Jer 10.9; Pss 115.4;

false. Why then must anyone think that they are gods, or call them gods?

⁴⁵They are made by carpenters and goldsmiths; they can be nothing but what the artisans wish them to be. ⁴⁶Those who make them will certainly not live very long themselves; ⁴⁷how then can the things that are made by them be gods? They have left only lies and reproach for those who come after. ⁴⁸For when war or calamity comes upon them, the priests consult together as to where they can hide themselves and their gods.^a ⁴⁹How then can one fail to see that these are not gods, for they cannot save themselves from war or calamity? ⁵⁰Since they are made of wood and overlaid with gold and silver, it will afterward be known that they are false. ⁵¹It will be manifest to all the nations and kings that they are not gods but the work of human hands, and that there is no work of God in them. ⁵²Who then can fail to know that they are not gods?^b

⁵³For they cannot set up a king over a country or give rain to people. ⁵⁴They cannot judge their own cause or deliver one who is wronged, for they have no power; ⁵⁵they are like crows between heaven and earth. When fire breaks out in a temple of wooden gods overlaid with gold or silver, their priests will flee and escape, but the gods^c will be burned up like timbers. ⁵⁶Besides, they can offer no resistance to king or enemy. Why then must anyone admit or think that they are gods?

⁵⁷Gods made of wood and overlaid with silver and gold are unable to save themselves from thieves or robbers. ⁵⁸Anyone who can will strip them of their gold and silver and of the robes they wear, and go off with this booty, and they will not be able to help themselves. ⁵⁹So it is better to be a king who shows his courage, or a household utensil that serves its owner's need, than to be these false gods; better even the door of a house that protects its contents, than these false gods; better also a wooden pillar in a palace, than these false gods.

⁶⁰For sun and moon and stars are bright, and when sent to do a service, they are obedient. ⁶¹So also the lightning, when it flashes, is widely seen; and the wind likewise blows in every land. ⁶²When God commands the clouds to go over the whole world, they carry out his command. ⁶³And the fire sent from above to consume mountains and woods does what it is ordered. But these idols^d are not to be compared with them in appearance or power. ⁶⁴Therefore one must not think that they are gods, nor call them gods, for they are not able either to decide a case or to do good to anyone. ⁶⁵Since you know then that they are not gods, do not fear them.

⁶⁶They can neither curse nor bless kings; ⁶⁷they cannot show signs in the heavens for the nations, or shine like the sun or give light like the moon. ⁶⁸The wild animals are better than they are, for they can flee to shelter and help themselves. ⁶⁹So we have no evidence whatever that they are gods; therefore do not fear them.

⁷⁰Like a scarecrow in a cucumber bed, which guards nothing, so are their gods of wood, overlaid with gold and silver. ⁷¹In the

^a Gk them

^b Meaning of Gk uncertain

^c Gk they

^d Gk these things

135.15. 47: Those who come after, future generations. 50: Afterward, when the idols' overlay is stripped off (cf. vv. 10,58).

6.53–56: Seventh warning: the impotence of idols. 53: See v. 34b and note. Give rain, Deut 11.14; 28.12; Ps 147.8; Jer 14.22. 54: Vv. 36–37. 55: Crows, the sense is unclear; perhaps a mistranslation into Greek of the Hebrew word for “clouds.”

6.57–65: Eighth warning: the helplessness and uselessness of idols. 57–58: The author mentions the plundering of idols several times (vv. 15,18,33; cf. 10). 59: V. 17. 60–63: God controls the natural world; the idols do not (cf. Sir 16.26–30; 1 En. 2–5). 61: Pss 97.4; 135.7. 64: V. 54; Ex 18.19; Isa 41.21.

6.66–69: Ninth warning: idols cannot do what God can. Wild animals can do more than they can. 66: V. 34; Jer 10.5; for the idiom see Gen 12.3; Num 22.6. 67: Signs, portents (cf. Jer 10.2; Joel 2.30).

6.70–73: Tenth warning: idols are compared to a scarecrow, a thornbush, and a corpse. 70: Like a scarecrow in a cucumber bed, the same comparison occurs in the Hebrew text of Jer 10.5 but not in its translation in the Greek Septuagint, suggesting that the Letter was originally written in Hebrew. 71: Thornbush, a common, use-

same way, their gods of wood, overlaid with gold and silver, are like a thornbush in a garden on which every bird perches; or like a corpse thrown out in the darkness.⁷² From the purple and linen^a that rot upon them you will know that they are not gods; and they will finally be consumed themselves, and be a reproach in the land.⁷³ Better, therefore, is someone upright who has no idols; such a person will be far above reproach.

^a Cn: Gk marble, Syr silk less shrub (cf. Judg 9.14–15). A corpse thrown out, the body is crudely discarded and not buried (cf. Isa 34.3; Jer 14.16; 22.19). 72: The Greek word “marble” (see textual note a) is a mistranslation based on the confusion of two Hebrew homonyms (shesh), one of which means “alabaster” (or “marble”) and the other “linen.”

THE ADDITIONS TO DANIEL

CANONICAL STATUS AND LOCATION

The original book of Daniel is comprised of twelve chapters, six in Aramaic and six in Hebrew. The Greek translations of the book of Daniel, however, both in the Septuagint (LXX) version and in a version attributed to the second-century CE Jewish scholar Theodotion, include three Additions to the twelve original chapters: “The Prayer of Azariah and the Song of the Three Jews,” “Susanna,” and “Bel and the Dragon.” The names given to these poetic compositions are descriptive titles provided by later editors and do not appear in the texts of the ancient manuscripts themselves.

The Additions to Daniel are considered canonical in Roman Catholic and Orthodox Christian traditions, whereas Protestants place them with the Apocrypha. They are not considered scriptural in Judaism.

The Prayer of Azariah and the Song of the Three Jews are found in all Greek versions between Dan 3.23 and 3.24. The Septuagint locates the other two Additions at the end of the book of Daniel, after 12.13; Theodotion’s version places Susanna at the opening of the book of Daniel, and Bel and the Dragon at the conclusion of ch 6. The NRSV follows Theodotion’s text but places the Additions with the other Apocryphal/Deuterocanonical texts rather than integrating them into the book of Daniel.

DATE AND HISTORICAL CONTEXT

Behind the Greek Additions may lie Hebrew or Aramaic originals, although no versions of the three stories have been found, even among the Dead Sea Scrolls. Like the folktales in Dan 1–6, the Additions may well have been written prior to the Maccabean revolt of the mid-second century BCE; the Prayer of Azariah (vs. 9) may reflect the crisis that led to the revolt. Scholars debate the place of composition: A Semitic (Hebrew or Aramaic) original would strengthen the argument for an origin in Israel or the eastern Diaspora; a Greek original would suggest Alexandria in Egypt, where there was a major Jewish community. The Additions likely circulated independently and only later, perhaps ca. 100 BCE when the book of Daniel was translated into Greek, were they added to it. The first independent citations of the Additions date from the church fathers of the second century CE.

Amy-Jill Levine

THE PRAYER OF AZARIAH AND THE SONG OF THE THREE JEWS

LOCATION

The Prayer of Azariah (vv. 1–22) and the Song of the Three Jews (vv. 28–68), along with a brief prose paragraph (vv. 23–27) concerning the fate of the three in Nebuchadnezzar’s furnace, appear in ancient manuscripts between Dan 3.23 and 3.24. The Prayer and Song (with the exception of the end of the Song) may have had no original connection to the book of Daniel. They appear as numbers seven and eight of the fifteen “Odes” added to the book of Psalms in a few manuscripts of the Septuagint, a placement that complements the resemblance of these Additions to Ps 148 in terms of theme and to Ps 136 in terms of structure. The narrative context of Dan 3 gives their general emphasis on hope for deliverance, national repentance, and divine faithfulness a poignant focus as the three Jews face death in Babylonian exile.

DATE AND HISTORICAL CONTEXT

Whether the Prayer and Song were initially written in Hebrew or Aramaic or Greek remains debated, as does their place of composition. The Prayer contains references that correspond to the reign of the Seleucid king Antiochus IV (175–164 BCE), and so a second- (or perhaps first-) century BCE date of composition is possible.

CONTENTS AND INTERPRETATION

Prayers and hymns are a hallmark of Second Temple Jewish texts, and they are found in such works as Judith, Tobit, and Baruch, as well as in Dan 9 and among the scrolls discovered at Qumran (the Dead Sea Scrolls). The Additions to Daniel are especially comparable to the Additions to Esther—in both, prose narrative is supplemented with prayer and song that emphasize the piety of the main characters. The Prayer of Azariah resembles other postexilic works in its condemnation of the covenant community for its lack of fidelity to God, its emphasis on divine righteousness and mercy, and its appeal for deliverance (Ps 106; Ezra 9.6–15; Neh 1.5–11; Bar 1.15–3.8; and some Qumran texts). The Song of the Three Jews has allusions to numerous psalmic and prophetic passages in its exhortations to the heavens (vv. 36–41), nature (vv. 42–51), earth and its creatures (vv. 52–59), and humanity (vv. 60–68). Unlike the book of Daniel and the Prayer of Azariah, however, it does not suggest a period of persecution or a time when the Temple was either destroyed or profaned.

Amy-Jill Levine

(ADDITIONS TO DANIEL, INSERTED BETWEEN
3.23 AND 3.24)

¹They^a walked around in the midst of the flames, singing hymns to God and blessing the Lord. ²Then Azariah stood still in the fire and prayed aloud:

³“Blessed are you, O Lord, God of our ancestors, and worthy of praise; and glorious is your name forever!

⁴For you are just in all you have done; all your works are true and your ways right, and all your judgments are true.

⁵You have executed true judgments in all you have brought upon us and upon Jerusalem, the holy city of our ancestors;

by a true judgment you have brought all this upon us because of our sins.

⁶For we have sinned and broken your law in turning away from you; in all matters we have sinned grievously.

⁷We have not obeyed your commandments, we have not kept them or done what you have commanded us for our own good.

⁸So all that you have brought upon us, and all that you have done to us, you have done by a true judgment.

⁹You have handed us over to our enemies, lawless and hateful rebels, and to an unjust king, the most wicked in all the world.

¹⁰And now we cannot open our mouths; we, your servants who worship you, have become a shame and a reproach.

¹¹For your name’s sake do not give us up forever, and do not annul your covenant.

¹²Do not withdraw your mercy from us, for the sake of Abraham your beloved and for the sake of your servant Isaac and Israel your holy one,

¹³to whom you promised to multiply their descendants like the stars of heaven and like the sand on the shore of the sea.

¹⁴For we, O Lord, have become fewer than any other nation, and are brought low this day in all the world because of our sins.

¹⁵In our day we have no ruler, or prophet, or leader, no burnt offering, or sacrifice, or oblation, or incense,

^a That is, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah (Dan 2.17), the original names of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego (Dan 1.6-7)

1–22: The prayer of Azariah. 1: They refers to Daniel’s three friends, Hananiah (named Shadrach), Mishael (Meshach), and Azariah (Abednego) in v. 66; Dan 1.6–7; 3.22–23. The Babylonian names given here in parentheses do not appear in these Additions; the use of the Hebrew names reinforces the friends’ Jewish identity. 3: Our ancestors, see vv. 5.12,29; 1 Kings 8.53; Ezra 7.27; Dan 2.23; Tob 8.5. Your name, the praise of the divine name becomes increasingly common in Second Temple Jewish literature; cf. v. 30. 5: True judgments, v. 8; Neh 9.33; Lam 1.18; Tobit; and other texts attribute the Babylonian exile to the community’s sin. 6–8: The confession of sin resembles Dan 9.5,15; Ezra 9.6; Neh 9.26. 9: The unjust king in the context of the book of Daniel is Nebuchadnezzar (Dan 3.19), but the vague reference makes the statement applicable to other tyrants, such as Antiochus IV Epiphanes (see 1 Macc 1 and notes to Dan 10–12); rebels may refer to Jews who supported Antiochus and the Hellenization of Jerusalem (1 Macc 1.11–15,41–60). 10: Shame and a reproach, see Dan 9.12. 11: Covenant, see Gen 15.18; 17.7–8. 12: Abraham is identified as beloved of God in Isa 41.8; 2 Chr 20.7; Jas 2.23, as well as the Qur’an (4.125). Isaac is called servant in Gen 24.14. Israel, i.e., Jacob (see Gen 32.28; 35.10). Holy one is more typically used for heavenly beings (Dan 4.10,20; 8.13). 13: On the promise, with references to the stars or the sand, see, e.g., Gen 15.5; 22.17; Ex 32.13; Jer 33.22. 15: No ruler, when read in the context of Dan 3, may refer to Nebuchadnezzar’s blinding and exiling the Judean king (2 Kings 24.15); the lament is more generally expressed in Lam 2.9; Hos 3.4. No prophet is exaggerated for the Babylonian context, but it fits the early postexilic period (see Zech 13.3–6) and the time of Antiochus IV. No burnt offering, cessation of proper sacrifices occurred both when Nebuchadnezzar destroyed the Temple and when Antiochus IV profaned it. 16: Contrition and humility substitute for sacrifice (1 Sam 15.22; Pss 51.16–17; 141.2; Hos 6.6); the context of the prayer, the impending martyrdom of the no place to make an offering before you and to find mercy.

¹⁶Yet with a contrite heart and a humble spirit may we be accepted,

¹⁷as though it were with burnt offerings of rams and bulls,
or with tens of thousands of fat lambs;
such may our sacrifice be in your sight
today,
and may we unreservedly follow you,^a for no shame will come to those who trust in you.

¹⁸And now with all our heart we follow you;
we fear you and seek your presence.

¹⁹Do not put us to shame,
but deal with us in your patience and in your abundant mercy.

²⁰Deliver us in accordance with your marvelous works,
and bring glory to your name, O Lord.

²¹Let all who do harm to your servants be put to shame;
let them be disgraced and deprived of all power,
and let their strength be broken.

²²Let them know that you alone are the Lord God,
glorious over the whole world.”

²³Now the king’s servants who threw them in kept stoking the furnace with naphtha, pitch, tow, and brushwood. ²⁴And the flames poured out above the furnace forty-nine cubits, ²⁵and spread out and burned those Chaldeans who were caught near the furnace.

²⁶But the angel of the Lord came down into the furnace to be with Azariah and his companions, and drove the fiery flame out of the furnace, ²⁷and made the inside of the furnace as though a moist wind were whistling through it. The fire did not touch them at all and caused them no pain or distress.

²⁸Then the three with one voice praised and glorified and blessed God in the furnace:

²⁹“Blessed are you, O Lord, God of our ancestors,
and to be praised and highly exalted
forever;

³⁰And blessed is your glorious, holy name, and to be highly praised and highly exalted forever.

³¹Blessed are you in the temple of your holy glory,
and to be extolled and highly glorified
forever.

³²Blessed are you who look into the depths from your throne on the cherubim,
and to be praised and highly exalted
forever.

³³Blessed are you on the throne of your kingdom,
and to be extolled and highly exalted
forever.

³⁴Blessed are you in the firmament of heaven,
and to be sung and glorified forever.

³⁵“Bless the Lord, all you works of the Lord;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him
forever.

^a Meaning of Gk uncertain

three, makes the point acute. 21: Put to shame, in the context of the book of Daniel, anticipates Nebuchadnezzar’s madness in Dan 4. See also Sir 36.9 on the hope for the enemy’s demise.

23–27: Protection in the furnace. The plot follows Dan 3.22. 23: Naphthah is a type of petroleum (see 2 Macc 1.20–22,30–36). 24: Forty-nine cubits is 71 ft (22 m); the multiple of seven suggests Dan 3.19, in which Nebuchadnezzar orders the furnace heated to seven times its usual temperature 25: Burned those Chaldeans is noted in Dan 3.22; the king’s agents die from the flames. 26: The protecting angel is an increasingly common figure in Second Temple literature (Tobit; Sus 44–45 in the Old Greek version; 1 Enoch); this verse makes the angelic presence, implicit in the reference to a “fourth man” who appeared like a “son of the gods” in Dan 3.25, explicit. 27: The verse is evoked in 3 Macc 6.6. Moist wind is dew; cf. Isa 26.19; Hos 14.5; Mic 5.7; etc., where dew indicates God’s salvation.

28–34: Song of thanksgiving. 29: The song begins with direct address to God. Verses 29–30 resemble Tob 8.5. 31: Temple may refer to the heavenly, not the Jerusalem, sanctuary, as in Ps 11.4; Hab 2.20. 32: Cherubim are winged creatures who serve as the divine throne (Ex 25.18–20; 2 Sam 6.2; 22:11; Ps 18:10).

30–68: The litany of praise. 30: Glorious, holy name, Pss 29.2; 66.2; 79.9; etc. 31: Temple of your . . . glory may indicate a heavenly temple, or the earthly one in a restored, purified state. 35: The song shifts to exhortations

- ³⁶ Bless the Lord, you heavens;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him
forever.
- ³⁷ Bless the Lord, you angels of the Lord;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him
forever.
- ³⁸ Bless the Lord, all you waters above the heavens;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him
forever.
- ³⁹ Bless the Lord, all you powers of the Lord;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him
forever.
- ⁴⁰ Bless the Lord, sun and moon;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him
forever.
- ⁴¹ Bless the Lord, stars of heaven;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him
forever.
- ⁴² “Bless the Lord, all rain and dew;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him
forever.
- ⁴³ Bless the Lord, all you winds;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him
forever.
- ⁴⁴ Bless the Lord, fire and heat;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him
forever.
- ⁴⁵ Bless the Lord, winter cold and summer heat;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him
forever.
- ⁴⁶ Bless the Lord, dews and falling snow;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him
forever.
- ⁴⁷ Bless the Lord, nights and days;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him
forever.
- ⁴⁸ Bless the Lord, light and darkness;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him
forever.
- ⁴⁹ Bless the Lord, ice and cold;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him
forever.
- ⁵⁰ Bless the Lord, frosts and snows;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him
forever.
- ⁵¹ Bless the Lord, lightnings and clouds;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him
forever.
- ⁵² “Let the earth bless the Lord;
let it sing praise to him and highly exalt him forever.
- ⁵³ Bless the Lord, mountains and hills;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him
forever.
- ⁵⁴ Bless the Lord, all that grows in the ground;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him
forever.
- ⁵⁵ Bless the Lord, seas and rivers;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him
forever.
- ⁵⁶ Bless the Lord, you springs;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him
forever.
- ⁵⁷ Bless the Lord, you whales and all that swim in the waters;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him
forever.
- ⁵⁸ Bless the Lord, all birds of the air;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him
forever.
- ⁵⁹ Bless the Lord, all wild animals and cattle;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him
forever.
- ⁶⁰ “Bless the Lord, all people on earth;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him
forever.
- ⁶¹ Bless the Lord, O Israel;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him
forever.
- ⁶² Bless the Lord, you priests of the Lord;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him
forever.
- ⁶³ Bless the Lord, you servants of the Lord;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him
forever.
- ⁶⁴ Bless the Lord, spirits and souls of the righteous;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him
forever.

to creation and thereby recalls the refrains of Pss 136 and 148. 38: Waters above, see Gen 1.7; Ps 148.4. 39: Powers suggests the heavenly host (see Ps 148.2–3). 57: Whales, or sea monsters, suggest Leviathan (Isa 27.1; Ps 104.26; Job 41). 62: Priests implies a Temple setting, but the song does not restrict its recitation to the Temple.

⁶⁵ Bless the Lord, you who are holy and humble in heart;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him
forever.

⁶⁶ “Bless the Lord, Hananiah, Azariah, and Mishael;
sing praise to him and highly exalt him
forever.

For he has rescued us from Hades and saved us from the power^a of death, and delivered us from the midst of the burning fiery furnace;

from the midst of the fire he has delivered us.

⁶⁷ Give thanks to the Lord, for he is good,
for his mercy endures forever.

⁶⁸ All who worship the Lord, bless the God of gods,
sing praise to him and give thanks to
him,
for his mercy endures forever.”

^a Gk hand

63: Servants could also refer to priests or other Temple functionaries, but the term is not limited to them. 66: The friends are identified by their Hebrew names, as in Dan 1.6; 1 Macc 2.59. Hananiah means “the LORD is gracious”; Azariah is “the LORD has helped” (in the book of Tobit, the disguised angel Raphael assumes this name); and Mishael is “who is like God?” Hades, the abode of the dead. Their song strikes the same chord as numerous biblical comments on rescue from Sheol, e.g., 1 Sam 2.6; Pss 16.10; 30.3; 49.15; 86.13; Prov 23.14; Jon 2.2. 67: Give thanks . . . for his mercy endures forever, see Ps 136; Sir 51; 1 Macc 4.24.

SUSANNA

NAME AND LOCATION

This addition to the book of Daniel is named for its heroine. Often called the first detective story, it appears in two different forms and locations in the early textual traditions. The Septuagint (and the Vulgate) locate it after Daniel 13; Theodotion, the version followed in this as well as most modern translations, locates the story at the beginning of the book of Daniel, since Sus 45 describes Daniel as a “young man.” Perhaps composed as early as the Persian period (539–333 BCE), Susanna’s tale was added to the cycle of tales about Daniel, probably ca. 100 BCE. The story may originally not have been about Daniel; the identification of the rescuing lad as Daniel would then be a secondary attribute of the story, added when the tale was attached to the other materials concerning Daniel, just as the Prayer of Azariah and the Song of the Three Jews may not have had an original connection to Dan 3. Susanna’s setting in peaceful Babylon, in which the enemies are not wicked pagan kings but corrupt Jewish judges, contrasts with the threats emphasized in Dan 1–6.

CONTENT AND CANONICAL STATUS

Like Greek Esther, Judith, and Sarah of the book of Tobit, Susanna is beautiful and chaste, and, as in those books, prayer and piety are major motifs. Indeed, with the exception of the villainous elders, all the characters—including the narrator—mention God. First cited as having canonical status by the church father Irenaeus of Lyons in the late second century CE, Roman Catholic and Orthodox churches consider it canonical, while Protestants include it in the Apocrypha. Although the addition is not considered scriptural in Judaism, Susanna’s story was also adapted by Samaritan and medieval Jewish writers.

Amy-Jill Levine

¹There was a man living in Babylon whose name was Joakim. ²He married the daughter of Hilkiah, named Susanna, a very beautiful woman and one who feared the Lord. ³Her parents were righteous, and had trained their daughter according to the law of Moses. ⁴Joakim was very rich, and had a fine garden adjoining his house; the Jews used to come to him because he was the most honored of them all.

⁵That year two elders from the people were appointed as judges. Concerning them the Lord had said: “Wickedness came forth from Babylon, from elders who were judges, who were supposed to govern the people.”

⁶These men were frequently at Joakim’s house, and all who had a case to be tried came to them there.

⁷When the people left at noon, Susanna would go into her husband’s garden to walk. ⁸Every day the two elders used to see her, going in and walking about, and they began to lust for her. ⁹They suppressed their

1–4: Introduction. 1: Set in Babylon, the story is typically dated during the Babylonian exile (587–538 BCE) because of its connection to Daniel; however, an exact date is never specified. Joakim does not appear to be connected with others of the same name (2 Kings 24.15; Neh 12.10,12,26; Jdt 4.6; 15.8). 2: Susanna, the name, which means “lily,” appears in Lk 8.3, but not elsewhere in the Jewish or Christian canons. It is attested in late Babylonian sources. Hilkiah was a common name in priestly circles (2 Kings 22.4; Neh 12.7; Jer 1.1) and so perhaps suggests that Susanna’s father was a priest. Beauty and piety are typically associated with heroines in the Deuterocanonical literature (Jdt 8.7–8; Tob 6.12; Est 2:7,20 [LXX]). 4: The prosperity of some Jews in Babylon is attested by archaeological findings (see also Jer 29.5–7; 2 Esd 3:1b–2). Joakim’s honor appears based on wealth. Garden (Gk “Paradeisos”) recalls Eden (Gen 2–3).

5–14: The elders’ plot. 5: The year is not identified. Elders, community leaders (Ruth 4.2–12; Ezek 8.1; 14.1; 20.1; Jer 29.1). The phrase wickedness (Gk “anomia,” lit. “lawlessness”) came forth is unattested in existing prophetic books, but see Jer 23.14–15; the church fathers Origen and Jerome associate the reference with Jer 29.20–23. The occasional suggestion that the Jewish community denied this story canonical status because it consciences and turned away their eyes from looking to Heaven or remembering their duty to administer justice. ¹⁰ Both were overwhelmed with passion for her, but they did not tell each other of their distress, ¹¹ for they were ashamed to disclose their lustful desire to seduce her. ¹² Day after day they watched eagerly to see her.

¹³ One day they said to each other, "Let us go home, for it is time for lunch." So they both left and parted from each other. ¹⁴ But turning back, they met again; and when each pressed the other for the reason, they confessed their lust. Then together they arranged for a time when they could find her alone.

¹⁵ Once, while they were watching for an opportune day, she went in as before with only two maids, and wished to bathe in the garden, for it was a hot day. ¹⁶ No one was there except the two elders, who had hidden themselves and were watching her. ¹⁷ She said to her maids, "Bring me olive oil and ointments, and shut the garden doors so that I can bathe." ¹⁸ They did as she told them: they shut the doors of the garden and went out by the side doors to bring what they had been commanded; they did not see the elders, because they were hiding.

¹⁹ When the maids had gone out, the two elders got up and ran to her. ²⁰ They said, "Look, the garden doors are shut, and no one can see us. We are burning with desire for you; so give your consent, and lie with us. ²¹ If you refuse, we will testify against you that a young man was with you, and this was why you sent your maids away."

²² Susanna groaned and said, "I am completely trapped. For if I do this, it will mean death for me; if I do not, I cannot escape your hands. ²³ I choose not to do it; I will fall into your hands, rather than sin in the sight of the Lord."

²⁴ Then Susanna cried out with a loud voice, and the two elders shouted against her. ²⁵ And one of them ran and opened the garden doors. ²⁶ When the people in the house heard the shouting in the garden, they rushed in at the side door to see what had happened to her. ²⁷ And when the elders told their story, the servants felt very much ashamed, for nothing like this had ever been said about Susanna.

²⁸ The next day, when the people gathered at the house of her husband Joakim, the two elders came, full of their wicked plot to have Susanna put to death. In the presence of the people they said, ²⁹ "Send for Susanna daughter of Hilkiah, the wife of Joakim." ³⁰ So they sent for her. And she came with her parents, her children, and all her relatives.

³¹ Now Susanna was a woman of great refinement and beautiful in appearance. ³² As criticized the elders is belied by the remarkable amount of self-critique the biblical text generates. 8: Lust, in violation of Ex 20.17. 9: Turned away their eyes, although they had no hesitance in looking at Susanna. Heaven is a circumlocution for God. 14: Pressed the other, as if in cross-examination: their true testimony here will contrast with their false testimony regarding Susanna.

15–21: The attempted rape. 15: Contrary to most artistic depictions, Susanna never actually bathes. In the garden, the scene recollects depictions both of luxuriant beauty and physical love in the Song of Solomon, and of the garden of Eden (Gen 2–3) as a site of temptation. Bathe suggests both Bathsheba (2 Sam 11.2) and observations in Jewish-Hellenistic literature (Jubilees 22; Testament of Reuben 3) that Reuben sinned with his father's wife Bilhah after seeing her bathe; cf. Gen 35.22; 49.4. Maids frequently accompany heroines in the Deuterocanonical texts (Jdt, Tob, Add Esth). 17: Oil and ointments, compare 2 Sam 12.20; Ruth 3.3; Jdt 10.3. Shut the garden doors attests to Susanna's modesty. 20: Give your consent, Susanna's choice is adultery or death.

22–27: Susanna's response. 22: Death, because adultery was a capital crime (Lev 20.10; Deut 22.21–24; see also Jn 8:4–5). Susanna knows the "law of Moses" (v. 3). 23: Sin in the sight of the Lord is the same concern voiced by Joseph in similar circumstances (Gen 39.9). 24: Deut 22.24 legislates that a woman, facing rape, is to cry out with a loud voice; Susanna shows knowledge of and fidelity to the law. On crying out at times of oppression, see also Gen 21.16; Ex 2.23; 14.10; Deut 26.7; 1 Sam 4.13; 3 Macc 5.51; and elsewhere. 27: That servants would be ashamed indicates the dishonor to the household. Although the elders (v. 11) and servants feel shame, Susanna is never described in this manner, despite being placed in a situation of public humiliation (vv. 31–32). Nothing like this, although she had an unblemished reputation, Susanna is presumed guilty.

28–41: Accusation. 30: Susanna is accompanied by all her family except Joakim. The Septuagint (LXX) notes she was veiled, the scoundrels ordered her to be unveiled, so that they might feast their eyes on her beauty.³³ Those who were with her and all who saw her were weeping.

³⁴ Then the two elders stood up before the people and laid their hands on her head.

³⁵ Through her tears she looked up toward Heaven, for her heart trusted in the Lord.

³⁶ The elders said, “While we were walking in the garden alone, this woman came in with two maids, shut the garden doors, and dismissed the maids.³⁷ Then a young man, who was hiding there, came to her and lay with her.³⁸ We were in a corner of the garden, and when we saw this wickedness we ran to them.³⁹ Although we saw them embracing, we could not hold the man, because he was stronger than we, and he opened the doors and got away.⁴⁰ We did, however, seize this woman and asked who the young man was,⁴¹ but she would not tell us. These things we testify.”

Because they were elders of the people and judges, the assembly believed them and condemned her to death.

⁴² Then Susanna cried out with a loud voice, and said, “O eternal God, you know what is secret and are aware of all things before they come to be;⁴³ you know that these men have given false evidence against me. And now I am to die, though I have done none of the wicked things that they have charged against me!”

⁴⁴ The Lord heard her cry.⁴⁵ Just as she was being led off to execution, God stirred up the holy spirit of a young lad named Daniel,⁴⁶ and he shouted with a loud voice, “I want no part in shedding this woman’s blood!”

⁴⁷ All the people turned to him and asked, “What is this you are saying?”⁴⁸ Taking his stand among them he said, “Are you such fools, O Israelites, as to condemn a daughter of Israel without examination and without learning the facts?⁴⁹ Return to court, for these men have given false evidence against her.”

⁵⁰ So all the people hurried back. And the rest of the^a elders said to him, “Come, sit among us and inform us, for God has given you the standing of an elder.”⁵¹ Daniel said to them, “Separate them far from each other, and I will examine them.”

⁵² When they were separated from each other, he summoned one of them and said to him, “You old relic of wicked days, your sins have now come home, which you have

^a Gk lacks rest of the

that Susanna had four children. 31: Refinement and beauty are attributes of (Gk) Esther. 32: Veiled emphasizes her modesty; although the trial occurs in her home, the proceedings are public. The LXX describes Susanna as being uncovered (see Hos 2.3–10; Ezek 16.37–39). 34: Laid their hands indicates that the elders serve as witnesses (Lev 24.14; see Lev 8.14,18,22; Ex 29.10,15,19 for sacrificial imagery, and Lev 16.21–22 for the scapegoat ritual). The elders planned to lay their hands upon Susanna in order to rape her; now their gesture seeks to condemn her. Two witnesses are required (Num 35.30; Deut 17.6; 19.15). 41: Condemned her without cross-examination (Deut 19.15–21) or Susanna’s own testimony; the “trial” is illegal according to both biblical and later rabbinic regulations.

42–43: Susanna’s prayer. Like (Gk) Esther (14.3–19), Judith (9.2–14), and Sarah (Tob 2.10–15), as well as Azariah of the Additions to Daniel, Susanna offers personal prayer in a time of distress. 42: Loud voice, see v. 24. Know what is secret is a divine attribute stressed in Dan 2.22. 43: Given false evidence, Susanna’s prayer locates God as the (true) judge and jury even as it again shows her knowledge of the law (Deut 19.15–21). Now I am to die leaves Susanna’s request for justice implicit.

44–47: Daniel responds. 44: God responds to Susanna’s prayer, not to the events that prompted it. 45: Young lad contrasts Daniel with the “elders”; the term indicates a youth of marriageable age (Tob 5.17) and subtly recalls the “young man” the elders claimed was with Susanna (37–39). Holy spirit is associated with both prophetic abilities and the possession of wisdom. The miraculous element in Susanna is not the work of an angel or a revelation of an undescribed dream, but the miracle of the inspired intellect. 46: I want no part, since the community is responsible for justice (Deut 22.20–21; Mt 27.24; Acts 24.26).

48–63: Susanna’s acquittal. 48: Examination, or cross-examination, is required by Deut 19.15–20. Daughter of Israel, see also v. 57, which describes Susanna as a daughter of Judah. 50: Daniel’s status appears miraculously granted. His youth contrasts with his standing as an elder. 50: Rest of the elders indicates that not all the leaders committed in the past,⁵³ pronouncing unjust judgments, condemning the innocent and acquitting the guilty, though the Lord said, ‘You shall not put an innocent and righteous person to death.’⁵⁴ Now then, if you really saw this woman, tell me this: Under what tree did you see them being intimate with each other?” He answered, “Under a mastic tree.”^a⁵⁵ And Daniel said, “Very well! This lie has cost you your head, for the angel of God has received the sentence from God and will immediately cut^a you in two.”

⁵⁶ Then, putting him to one side, he ordered them to bring the other. And he said to him, “You offspring of Canaan and not of Judah, beauty has beguiled you and lust has perverted your heart.”⁵⁷ This is how you have been treating the daughters of Israel, and they were intimate with you through fear; but a daughter of Judah would not tolerate your wickedness.⁵⁸ Now then, tell me: Under what tree did you catch them being intimate with each other?” He answered, “Under an evergreen oak.”^b⁵⁹ Daniel said to him, “Very well! This lie has cost you also your head, for the angel of God is waiting with his sword to split^b you in two, so as to destroy you both.”

⁶⁰ Then the whole assembly raised a great shout and blessed God, who saves those who hope in him.⁶¹ And they took action against the two elders, because out of their own mouths Daniel had convicted them of bearing false witness; they did to them as they had wickedly planned to do to their neighbor.⁶² Acting in accordance with the law of Moses, they put them to death. Thus innocent blood was spared that day.

⁶³ Hilkiah and his wife praised God for their daughter Susanna, and so did her husband Joakim and all her relatives, because she was found innocent of a shameful deed.

⁶⁴ And from that day onward Daniel had a great reputation among the people.

^a The Greek words for mastic tree and cut are similar, thus forming an ironic wordplay

^b The Greek words for evergreen oak and split are similar, thus forming an ironic wordplay are wicked. 53: Pronouncing unjust judgments, Daniel accuses the first elder of a pattern of injustice. The citation evokes Ex 23:7. 54–55: Mastic (Gk “schinon”) . . . cut (Gk “schisei”): “clove . . . cleave” provides an English approximation of the Greek pun. 55: Angels become increasingly common in Jewish Hellenistic literature (including Daniel; also Isa 37:36; Ezek 9). Here they serve as agents of punishment rather than of revelation. 56–57: The comment compares three nations. Offspring of Canaan suggests the sexual crimes attributed to the earlier inhabitants of the promised land (Lev 18.24–28); daughters of Israel refers to the Northern Kingdom, destroyed by Assyria in 722 BCE (2 Kings 17); daughter of Judah, Susanna is from the Southern Kingdom, whose exile in 586 BCE created the Babylonian Jewish community. 58–59: Evergreen oak (Gk “prinon”) . . . split (Gk “kataprisei”): “yew” and “hew” provides an English approximation of the Greek pun. 59: Sword recalls Gen 3.24, as Susanna’s garden suggests Eden (Gen 2–3). 62: Law of Moses is Deut 19.15–21.

64: Epilogue. If Susanna is placed at the opening of the book of Daniel, Daniel’s great reputation is seen to increase in the subsequent stories.

BEL AND THE DRAGON

LOCATION AND NAME

These stories appear as ch 14 of the Greek version of the book of Daniel. In the Septuagint, as opposed to Theodotion's version, which is printed here, Daniel is identified as a priest and thus as a positive foil to the deceptive priests of the false gods. The title of the stories in the Septuagint is "From the prophecy of Habakkuk, the son of Joshua [Gk Jesus], of the tribe of Levi."

DATE, CONTENTS, AND INTERPRETATION

Perhaps composed as early as the Persian period (539–333 BCE), these two idol parodies (compare Isa 44) display the foolishness of pagan worship, divine protection of faithful Jews, and the cleverness of the court favorite, Daniel. In the first story, concerning Bel, Daniel demonstrates that the idol is not a god by proving that it does not eat the food set out for it each night; the second story reverses this scenario as Daniel proves that the dragon is not divine by feeding it a noxious concoction that kills it. This second story recapitulates the account of Daniel in the lion's den (Dan 6.16–24) and adds to it Daniel's own miraculous feeding by the prophet Habakkuk. Food references culminate at the end, when Daniel's enemies are eaten by the lions into whose den Daniel had been thrown. Perhaps this second story is based on Jer 51.34,44, which is also set in Babylon, the filling of a belly with delicacies, and the punishment of Bel by having him "disgorge what he has swallowed."

Amy-Jill Levine

¹When King Astyages was laid to rest with his ancestors, Cyrus the Persian succeeded to his kingdom. ²Daniel was a companion of the king, and was the most honored of all his Friends.

³Now the Babylonians had an idol called Bel, and every day they provided for it twelve bushels of choice flour and forty sheep and six measures^a of wine. ⁴The king revered it and went every day to worship it. But Daniel worshiped his own God.

So the king said to him, "Why do you not worship Bel?" ⁵He answered, "Because I do not revere idols made with hands, but the living God, who created heaven and earth and has dominion over all living creatures."

⁶The king said to him, "Do you not think that Bel is a living god? Do you not see how much he eats and drinks every day?" ⁷And Daniel laughed, and said, "Do not be deceived, O king, for this thing is only clay inside and bronze outside, and it never ate or drank anything."

⁸Then the king was angry and called the priests of Bel^b and said to them, "If you do not tell me who is eating these provisions, you shall die. ⁹But if you prove that Bel is eating them, Daniel shall die, because he has spoken blasphemy against Bel." Daniel said to the king, "Let it be done as you have said."

^a A little more than fifty gallons

^b Gk his priests

1–2: Daniel in the Persian court. 1: Astyages, last king of Media (585–550 BCE), was defeated by his grandson, Cyrus the Persian (Dan 6.28). 2: Companion of the king, perhaps an official position (1 Macc 2.18), suggests a confidant. Most honored, see Dan 2.48.

3–7: The worship of Bel. 3: Bel, an epithet of Marduk, the god who headed the Babylonian pantheon (Jer 50.2). Ancient Babylonian sources confirm Bel's extensive diet. 4: The king revered it, although ancient sources indicate that in actual practice, the "leftovers" were sent to the king, and their consumption was considered to provide blessings. The king's support for the priests who were consuming the food is therefore ironic. 4: The question indicates the story's original independence from the book of Daniel, although in Dan 1–6 kings continually require reeducation about Daniel's faith and practices. 5: Daniel boldly confesses his own faith and criticizes that of the king. 7: Laughed (also in v. 19) indicates Daniel's familiarity with the king as well as his disdain for the worship of the idol; Bel is also ridiculed in Isa 46.1–2.

¹⁰ Now there were seventy priests of Bel, besides their wives and children. So the king went with Daniel into the temple of Bel. ¹¹ The priests of Bel said, "See, we are now going outside; you yourself, O king, set out the food and prepare the wine, and shut the door and seal it with your signet." ¹² When you return in the morning, if you do not find that Bel has eaten it all, we will die; otherwise Daniel will, who is telling lies about us." ¹³ They were unconcerned, for beneath the table they had made a hidden entrance, through which they used to go in regularly and consume the provisions. ¹⁴ After they had gone out, the king set out the food for Bel. Then Daniel ordered his servants to bring ashes, and they scattered them throughout the whole temple in the presence of the king alone. Then they went out, shut the door and sealed it with the king's signet, and departed. ¹⁵ During the night the priests came as usual, with their wives and children, and they ate and drank everything.

¹⁶ Early in the morning the king rose and came, and Daniel with him. ¹⁷ The king said, "Are the seals unbroken, Daniel?" He answered, "They are unbroken, O king." ¹⁸ As soon as the doors were opened, the king looked at the table, and shouted in a loud voice, "You are great, O Bel, and in you there is no deceit at all!"

¹⁹ But Daniel laughed and restrained the king from going in. "Look at the floor," he said, "and notice whose footprints these are." ²⁰ The king said, "I see the footprints of men and women and children."

²¹ Then the king was enraged, and he arrested the priests and their wives and children. They showed him the secret doors through which they used to enter to consume what was on the table. ²² Therefore the king put them to death, and gave Bel over to Daniel, who destroyed it and its temple.

²³ Now in that place^a there was a great dragon, which the Babylonians revered. ²⁴ The king said to Daniel, "You cannot deny that this is a living god; so worship him." ²⁵ Daniel said, "I worship the Lord my God, for he is the living God. ²⁶ But give me permission, O king, and I will kill the dragon without sword or club." The king said, "I give you permission."

²⁷ Then Daniel took pitch, fat, and hair, and boiled them together and made cakes, which he fed to the dragon. The dragon ate them, and burst open. Then Daniel said, "See what you have been worshipping!"

²⁸ When the Babylonians heard about it, they were very indignant and conspired against the king, saying, "The king has become a Jew; he has destroyed Bel, and killed the dragon, and slaughtered the priests."

²⁹ Going to the king, they said, "Hand Daniel

^a Other ancient authorities lack in that place

8–22: Bel's trial. 8: The abruptness of You shall die (Dan 2.5; 3.6; 6.7) is conventional in folktales. 10: Wives and children contrasts Daniel's single status. 11: Prepare the wine by mixing it with water (2 Macc 15.39) or spices (Isa 5.22; Song 8.2). 14: Ordered his servants, unlike Dan chs 1–6, where Daniel relies on divine revelation and aid, here as well as in Susanna, he succeeds by his wits. The scene establishes what becomes a detective story convention, the "mystery of the locked room." 22: Put them to death echoes the punishment of the wicked elders (Sus 62; see Dan 2.12; 6.24); the corruption of the priests condemns also their wives and children. Bel's idol and temple were, according to the Greek historian Herodotus and other ancient sources, destroyed by the Persian king Xerxes in 479 BCE; Xerxes melted the temple's 20 ft (6 m) high statue of Bel into 800 lb (363 kg) of gold bullion. Daniel's action responds to Babylon's destruction of the Jerusalem Temple.

23–27: The destruction of the dragon. 23: Great dragon, dragons or snakes could symbolize the divine in ancient Near Eastern and Mediterranean cultures (see Num 2.8–9; 2 Kings 18.4), but there is no independent evidence of Babylonian snake worship. 24: Living god contrasts with the idol Bel, for the snake is clearly alive. 25: Daniel resists apostasy, a special concern for Jews in the Diaspora and during the persecution of Antiochus IV Epiphanes. 27: Pitch, fat, and hair would not necessarily be a noxious concoction; later versions of the story add details to increase the toxicity of the mixture. The snake eats and dies, unlike Bel who is proven false because he cannot eat; within the cycle of stories about Daniel, this detail offers subtle comparisons. Daniel and his friends prosper by restricting their diet (Dan 1); Belshazzar falls because of his blasphemous feasting (Dan 5).

28–42: Daniel in the lion pit. 28: Become a Jew anticipates v. 41, where the king affirms Daniel's God; he does not, however, convert. 29: The death threat repeats the punishment of Bel's priests and their families, but here over to us, or else we will kill you and your household.”³⁰ The king saw that they were pressing him hard, and under compulsion he handed Daniel over to them.

³¹ They threw Daniel into the lions’ den, and he was there for six days. ³² There were seven lions in the den, and every day they had been given two human bodies and two sheep; but now they were given nothing, so that they would devour Daniel.

³³ Now the prophet Habakkuk was in Judea; he had made a stew and had broken bread into a bowl, and was going into the field to take it to the reapers. ³⁴ But the angel of the Lord said to Habakkuk, “Take the food that you have to Babylon, to Daniel, in the lions’ den.” ³⁵ Habakkuk said, “Sir, I have never seen Babylon, and I know nothing about the den.” ³⁶ Then the angel of the Lord took him by the crown of his head and carried him by his hair; with the speed of the wind^a he set him down in Babylon, right over the den.

³⁷ Then Habakkuk shouted, “Daniel, Daniel! Take the food that God has sent you.” ³⁸ Daniel said, “You have remembered me, O God, and have not forsaken those who love you.” ³⁹ So Daniel got up and ate. And the angel of God immediately returned Habakkuk to his own place.

⁴⁰ On the seventh day the king came to mourn for Daniel. When he came to the den he looked in, and there sat Daniel! ⁴¹ The king shouted with a loud voice, “You are great, O Lord, the God of Daniel, and there is no other besides you!” ⁴² Then he pulled Daniel^b out, and threw into the den those who had attempted his destruction, and they were instantly eaten before his eyes.

^a Or by the power of his spirit

^b Gk him

the king is threatened by his own people. 30: The king’s reluctance resembles that of Darius (Dan 6). 31: Lions’ den, see Dan 6.16–24, where Daniel spends one night, not six. Daniel destroyed Babylon’s animal god; now the Babylonians anticipate that animals will destroy him. 32: The description continues the author’s interest in dietary matters, but it is only in this case that concerns for eating will be connected to the miraculous. 33: Habakkuk prophesied ca. 612–597 BCE, well before the events recounted here. 34: Angels appear in the book of Daniel as protectors (Dan 6.22) as well as apocalyptic revealers and interpreters (Dan 7–12). Along with the unlikely summoning of Habakkuk and his reluctance concerning this unexpected assignment, the food is part of the tale’s humor: the lions, not Daniel, have the greater problem with hunger. 36: By his hair, see Ezek 8.3. 41: You are great replaces the king’s praise of Bel in 18. 42: References to food reach their conclusion as Daniel’s accusers are consumed.

1 MACCABEES

NAME

The name “1 Maccabees” derives from the church fathers Hippolytus (ca. 170–236 CE), Origen (ca. 185–254 CE), and Jerome (ca. 342–420 CE), who notes that he found the first book of the Maccabees in Hebrew. The name “Maccabee,” a nickname (“Hammer”) given to Judas (1 Macc 3.4), was extended in Christian (but not Jewish) tradition to include his family. Origen said the book was titled sarbethsabanaiel, a Greek transliteration possibly suggesting an original Hebrew “The Book of the House of the Princes of Israel.”

CANONICAL STATUS AND LOCATION

Jerome distinguished between Hebrew and Greek Jewish books, describing the latter as apocrypha, “hidden things.” Perhaps because Jerome knew of a Hebrew version of 1 Maccabees, it was included in the Vulgate, the Latin Bible of the Western church. It is also one of the canonical scriptures of the Eastern Orthodox churches. The sixteenth-century Protestant reformers, unsympathetic toward non-Hebrew Jewish writings, placed it firmly among the Apocrypha, to be read for instruction in godly manners but not in Christian doctrine. The Roman Catholic church reaffirmed the canonical status of 1 Maccabees at the Council of Trent (1545–63). The book is not canonical in Jewish tradition, although it is an important religious text describing the origin of the festival of Hanukkah, the rededication of the Temple in 164 BCE. In Roman Catholic and Eastern Orthodox Bibles, 1 Maccabees is placed among the historical books, after the books of Tobit, Judith, and Esther. In Protestant Bibles it is included among the Apocrypha, usually after the Additions to Daniel.

AUTHORSHIP AND DATE

The author’s identity is unknown. He was apparently an educated Jew, well versed in the Hebrew scriptures and the Temple liturgy, and with sufficient leisure and resources for authorship. He wrote in Hebrew but was able to use, translate, and incorporate Greek and Latin documents from Seleucid, Roman, and Spartan archives. His interests were political and historical rather than priestly; he firmly supported the Maccabean cause but was sufficiently scholarly and objective to avoid demonizing the Seleucid opposition (contrast 2 Maccabees).

The book covers Jewish history from the time of Alexander the Great to the high priesthood of John Hyrcanus (134–104 CE) and is thus usually dated to the later years of Hyrcanus’s rule or soon after; the statements of 1 Macc 16.23–24, that his achievements were recorded in the chronicles of his high priesthood, and of 1 Macc 13.30, that the Maccabean family tomb built by Simon “remains to this day,” suggest some passing of time. The book’s positive attitude toward Rome makes it likely that it was written before the Roman general Pompey captured Jerusalem in 63 BCE.

LITERARY HISTORY

Sometime about the turn of the era, 1 Maccabees appeared in Greek translation; the late first-century BCE Jewish historian Josephus used this as a major source for his Antiquities (Ant. 12.242–13.212). Josephus perhaps found a copy in Jerusalem before the destruction of Jerusalem in 70 CE, or later in a Roman library. The fourth- and fifth-century manuscripts of Codex Sinaiticus and Codex Alexandrinus, and the eighth-century Codex Venetus preserve the Greek text; the presumed Hebrew original has been lost. The Old Latin translation, from the second or early third century CE, was later incorporated into the Vulgate tradition.

HISTORICAL CONTEXT

Judea had known a long period of relative peace and prosperity, first under Alexander the Great (332–323 BCE), then under the Ptolemies, the successors to Alexander’s rule in Egypt. As a result of Alexander’s rule, Hellenism (a mixture of Greek and Semitic cultures) had dominated all the countries of the eastern Mediterranean basin. By the second century BCE, however, when Judea came under the control of the Seleucids, the successors to Alexander’s rule in Mesopotamia and Syria, Jews were divided over how to relate to Gentile culture. The upper classes in Jerusalem, the Hellenizers, had long adopted Greek ways, while the poorer people of the rural areas tended to cling to the customs of their ancestors. The book of 1 Maccabees consistently presents the Hellenizers as “renegades” or apostates (1 Macc 1.11–15), and their introduction of the Greek gymnasium and all that went with it (see 2 Macc 4.11–17) as the root of the following struggle.

1 MACCABEES

In this situation of complex religious, economic, and political tensions, the actions of the Seleucid ruler Antiochus IV were a match in a tinderbox. In 169 BCE Antiochus IV invaded Egypt to reclaim Judea from Ptolemy IV Philometor. On Antiochus’s return he pillaged the Jerusalem Temple (1 Macc 1.20–28) for purely financial reasons (he had at that point no political or religious quarrel with Judea). The following year, believing Judea to be in revolt (2 Macc 5.11), Antiochus attacked Jerusalem more viciously (1 Macc 1.29–40; cf. 2 Macc 5.11–14, Dan 11.29–31), and the subsequent attempt to suppress the Judeans by attacking the religious law (1 Macc 1.41–61), which apparently sustained the Jewish resistance, led to the war of independence and its horrors described in the following chapters of 1 Maccabees.

Into this crisis the author introduces the priestly family of Mattathias and his sons Judas, Jonathan, and Simon as the deliverers of Judea. Fearing that the policies of the Hellenizers would destroy Judaism, Judas Maccabeus and his men mounted a campaign of armed resistance against both enemies. Using a combination of guerrilla warfare and diplomacy, they succeeded in recovering and purifying the Temple after Antiochus had defiled it, fortifying Jerusalem and securing a measure of independence for Judea. By the end of the book three generations of Mattathias’s family had fought for Judea’s independence from the Seleucids and had established a ruling dynasty (called Hasmonean according to Josephus and other sources) that would remain in power until the Roman occupation in 63 BCE.

STRUCTURE AND CONTENTS

The book is clearly structured. Chapters 1 and 2 are introductory, giving the historical context and Mattathias’s exhortation to his sons, and emphasizing the complementary roles of Simon and Judas (2.65–66). Chapters 3.1–9.22 describe the achievements of Judas, marked by an opening poetic eulogy of Judas (3.3–9) and a closure modeled on the regnal summaries in 1 and 2 Kings (9.22). Chapters 9.23–16.23 describe the activities of Jonathan, Simon, and Simon’s son John, marked by the eulogy of Simon (14.4–15) and another regnal closure (16.23). Within this framework the author marshals his complex narrative. He presents the Maccabean relationships with the hostile Seleucids of Syria, the Ptolemies of Egypt, the cities of the Palestinian coast, and the tribes of Transjordan, and with two friendly Mediterranean powers, the Romans and the Spartans. The book condemns the “renegades” within Israel who would conform to the Greek way of life (1.11–15); Judas and Simon are presented as preserving the Jewish law and Temple against the enemies of their nation (14.29). The book ends with the firm establishment and solid achievements of the high priesthood of John Hyrcanus (16.23). For this author, it is through the Maccabean family alone that “deliverance was given to Israel” (5.62).

INTERPRETATION AND GUIDE TO READING

Historians value 1 Maccabees for its information on the second-century BCE Jewish-Hellenistic world. Jews and Christians alike have seen the Maccabees as champions against tyrants hostile to their faith aided by traitors within the fold. Some students of history, less sympathetic to the Jewish cause, have seen Antiochus as a cultivated Hellenistic monarch trying to unify his empire and control a disloyal subject on his borders. Others in modern times, less sympathetic to imperial causes, have interpreted the Maccabees as a rebel army struggling righteously on behalf of political minorities. Different circumstances make for different readings, as ever.

The reader will make sense of 1 Maccabees only by taking it as a coherent narrative from start to finish. Occasional dipping will yield only confusion. The author shapes his history clearly, quoting archival sources for information and adding short poems as theological commentary. Sympathetic reading will reveal, rewardingly, that the author was a man of scholarly ability, deep commitment to Israel, and trust in Israel’s God.

John R. Bartlett

1 After Alexander son of Philip, the Macedonian, who came from the land of Kittim, had defeated^d King Darius of the Persians and the Medes, he succeeded him as king. (He had previously become king of Greece.)² He fought many battles, conquered strongholds, and put to death the kings of the earth.³ He advanced to the ends of the earth, and plundered many nations. When the earth became quiet before him, he was exalted, and his heart was lifted up.⁴ He gathered a very strong army and ruled over countries, nations, and princes, and they became tributary to him.

⁵ After this he fell sick and perceived that he was dying.⁶ So he summoned his most honored officers, who had been brought up with him from youth, and divided his kingdom among them while he was still alive.⁷ And after Alexander had reigned twelve years, he died.

⁸ Then his officers began to rule, each in his own place.⁹ They all put on crowns after his death, and so did their descendants after them for many years; and they caused many evils on the earth.

¹⁰ From them came forth a sinful root, Antiochus Epiphanes, son of King Antiochus;

he had been a hostage in Rome. He began to reign in the one hundred thirty-seventh year of the kingdom of the Greeks.^b

¹¹ In those days certain renegades came out from Israel and misled many, saying, “Let us go and make a covenant with the Gentiles around us, for since we separated from them many disasters have come upon us.”

¹² This proposal pleased them,¹³ and some of the people eagerly went to the king, who authorized them to observe the ordinances of the Gentiles.¹⁴ So they built a gymnasium in Jerusalem, according to Gentile custom,¹⁵ and removed the marks of circumcision, and abandoned the holy covenant. They joined with the Gentiles and sold themselves to do evil.

¹⁶ When Antiochus saw that his kingdom was established, he determined to become king of the land of Egypt, in order that he might reign over both kingdoms.¹⁷ So he invaded Egypt with a strong force, with chariots and elephants and cavalry and with a large fleet.¹⁸ He engaged King Ptolemy of

^a Gk adds and he defeated

^b 175 B.C.

1.1–10: Introduction. The author sketches the history of the Hellenistic world from Alexander the Great to Antiochus IV; cf. Dan 11.2–28. 1: Philip II of Macedon (ruled 359–336 BCE) conquered the Greeks in 338 BCE; his son Alexander (336–323 BCE) marched from Greece (the land of Kittim) and defeated Darius III of Persia at Issus (333 BCE) and Gaugamela (331 BCE). Media (the land of the Medes) was south of the Caspian Sea. 2: Strongholds, e.g., Tyre and Gaza. 3: To the ends of the earth, i.e., present-day Afghanistan and India. Exalted . . . his heart was lifted up suggests deification as well as the biblical sin of pride (Isa 2.5–22; 2 Chr 26.16). 7: Alexander died at Babylon, June 323 BCE. 8–9: Officers . . . descendants, especially Seleucus I Nicator (305–281 BCE), who seized Babylonia and Syria, and Ptolemy I Soter (305–282 BCE), who took over Egypt and Palestine, and their successors in these regions. Crowns were of white cloth rather than precious metal. 10: Antiochus IV (175–164 BCE), son of Antiochus III “the Great” (223–187 BCE), used the title “Theos Epiphanes” (“god manifest”) on some of his later coins, but probably took such implied divinity less seriously than his Jewish subjects. Hostage in Rome, after the Roman defeat of Antiochus III at Magnesia (190 BCE); he escaped, succeeding his brother Seleucus IV in 175 BCE. One hundred thirty-seventh year of the Seleucid era, which began in either 312 BCE or 311 BCE.

1.11–15: Conflicts over Hellenization. 11: The author sees the renegades as Jewish apostates; 2 Macc 4.7–17 identifies the usurping high priest Jason as their leader. They hoped for the economic and political advantages of belonging to the wider Hellenistic world, rejecting the separation from the Gentiles required by the Law (cf. Deut 7.1–6) and demanded by Nehemiah (Neh 13.1–3, 23–27). 14: Gymnasium, the essential place of education and recreation for citizens of a Hellenistic city. This development did not break the Law, but according to Greek custom, athletes competed in the nude (2 Macc 4.14). Removing the marks of circumcision by surgery (epispasm) to make participants resemble Greek athletes was elsewhere seen as showing “irreverence to the divine laws” (2 Macc 4.17).

1.16–19: Antiochus IV and Egypt. See Dan 11.25–27. In 170 BCE Egypt, under Ptolemy VI Philometor (180–145 BCE), claimed Palestine under the terms of an earlier marriage settlement; Antiochus invaded Egypt, defeated Ptolemy (v. 18) at Mons Casius, and captured the fortress of Pelusium.

Egypt in battle, and Ptolemy turned and fled before him, and many were wounded and fell. ¹⁹They captured the fortified cities in the land of Egypt, and he plundered the land of Egypt.

²⁰After subduing Egypt, Antiochus returned in the one hundred forty-third year.^a He went up against Israel and came to Jerusalem with a strong force. ²¹He arrogantly entered the sanctuary and took the golden altar, the lampstand and took the light, and all its utensils. ²²He took also the table for the bread of the Presence, the cups for drink offerings, the bowls, the golden censers, the curtain, the crowns, and the gold decoration on the front of the temple; he stripped it all off. ²³He took the silver and the gold, and the costly vessels; he took also the hidden treasures that he found. ²⁴Taking them all, he went into his own land.

He shed much blood,
and spoke with great arrogance.

²⁵Israel mourned deeply in every community,

²⁶rulers and elders groaned, young women and young men became faint,
the beauty of the women faded.

²⁷Every bridegroom took up the lament;
she who sat in the bridal chamber was mourning.

²⁸Even the land trembled for its inhabitants,
and all the house of Jacob was clothed with shame.

²⁹Two years later the king sent to the cities of Judah a chief collector of tribute, and he came to Jerusalem with a large force. ³⁰Deceitfully he spoke peaceable words to them, and they believed him; but he suddenly fell upon the city, dealt it a severe blow, and destroyed many people of Israel. ³¹He plundered the city, burned it with fire, and tore down its houses and its surrounding walls. ³²They took captive the women and children, and seized the livestock. ³³Then they fortified the city of David with a great strong wall and strong towers, and it became their citadel. ³⁴They stationed there a sinful people, men who were renegades. These strengthened their position; ³⁵they stored up arms and food, and collecting the spoils of Jerusalem they stored them there, and became a great menace,

^a 169 B.C.

1.20–28: Antiochus’s first attack on Jerusalem. In autumn 169 BCE Antiochus, en route home from Egypt, pillaged the Jerusalem Temple (cf. the earlier attempt of Seleucus IV, 2 Macc 3). His motive was financial (see Dan 11.28); he had no political or religious quarrel with Judah. A Hellenistic king would not hesitate to enter a city temple; the Jewish author saw the entry of anyone but the high priest into the sanctuary as arrogance (v. 21; cf. Dan 7.8,25), requiring divine punishment. 21–23: Golden altar (of incense), Ex 30.1–10; lampstand, Ex 25.31–40; table, Ex 25.23–30; cf. 1 Kings 7.48–50. The bread of the Presence, see Lev 24.5–9; this symbolized the covenant between God and Israel, which 1 Macc sees as threatened by the current events. Crowns, diplomatic gifts stored in the Temple; see 13.37. Gold decoration, see 1 Kings 6.20–22. Hidden treasures, money deposited for safety by individuals; see 2 Macc 4.10–12. Later Judas restores these losses (4.49). 24b–28: Poetic comment (cf. the book of Lamentations) on the events described, as also in 1.36–40; 2.7–13. Blood, vv. 20–24 record no bloodshed, but see 2 Macc 5.11–14.

1.29–40: Capture and fortification of Jerusalem. 29: Two years later, probably 168 BCE, after Antiochus’s second invasion of Egypt (2 Macc 5.1). Ejected from Egypt by Roman legions, learning that in Jerusalem his appointee the high priest Menelaus was under attack from his deposed predecessor Jason (2 Macc 5.5–10), and believing Judea was in revolt, Antiochus attacked Jerusalem viciously (2 Macc 5.11–14), later sending Apollonius with troops to enslave the citizens (2 Macc 5.24). Apollonius is probably the chief collector of tribute, this title perhaps mistranslates “captain of the Mysians” (mercenary troops from Asia; see 2 Macc 5.24). 30: The city . . . many people, the concern is political, to subjugate Jerusalem. 33: The city of David indicates historical identity rather than topography; the precise location of the citadel (Gk “akra”) is debated; it overlooked and controlled the Temple (Josephus, Ant. 12.252,362), from the northwest or southeast corner, and was finally captured by Simon (13.49–50). 34: Renegades: see v. 11n. 36–40: Poetic lament, emphasizing the citadel’s effect on the sanctuary. But Antiochus has not yet threatened Jewish religion.

³⁶for the citadel^a became an ambush against the sanctuary,
an evil adversary of Israel at all times.

³⁷On every side of the sanctuary they shed innocent blood;
they even defiled the sanctuary.

³⁸Because of them the residents of Jerusalem fled;
she became a dwelling of strangers;
she became strange to her offspring,
and her children forsook her.

³⁹Her sanctuary became desolate like a desert;
her feasts were turned into mourning,
her sabbaths into a reproach,
her honor into contempt.

⁴⁰Her dishonor now grew as great as her
glory;
her exaltation was turned into mourning.

⁴¹Then the king wrote to his whole kingdom that all should be one people, ⁴²and that all should give up their particular customs.

⁴³All the Gentiles accepted the command of the king. Many even from Israel gladly adopted his religion; they sacrificed to idols and profane the sabbath. ⁴⁴And the king sent letters by messengers to Jerusalem and the towns of Judah; he directed them to follow customs strange to the land, ⁴⁵to forbid burnt offerings and sacrifices and drink offerings in the sanctuary, to profane sabbaths and festivals, ⁴⁶to defile the sanctuary and the priests, ⁴⁷to build altars and sacred precincts and shrines for idols, to sacrifice swine and other unclean animals, ⁴⁸and to leave their sons uncircumcised.
They were to make themselves abominable by everything unclean and profane, ⁴⁹so that they would forget the law and change all the ordinances. ⁵⁰He added,^b “And whoever does not obey the command of the king shall die.”

⁵¹In such words he wrote to his whole kingdom. He appointed inspectors over all the people and commanded the towns of Judah to offer sacrifice, town by town. ⁵²Many of the people, everyone who forsook the law, joined them, and they did evil in the land;
⁵³they drove Israel into hiding in every place of refuge they had.

⁵⁴Now on the fifteenth day of Chislev, in the one hundred forty-fifth year,^c they erected a desolating sacrilege on the altar of burnt offering. They also built altars in the surrounding towns of Judah, ⁵⁵and offered incense at the doors of the houses and in the streets. ⁵⁶The books of the law that they found they tore to pieces and burned with fire. ⁵⁷Anyone found possessing the book of the covenant, or anyone who adhered to the law, was condemned to death by decree of the king. ⁵⁸They kept using violence against Israel, against those who were found month after month in the towns. ⁵⁹On the twenty-fifth day of the month they offered sacrifice on the altar that was on top of the altar of burnt offering. ⁶⁰According to the decree, they put to death the women who had their children circumcised, ⁶¹and their families and those who circumcised them; and they hung the infants from their mothers’ necks.

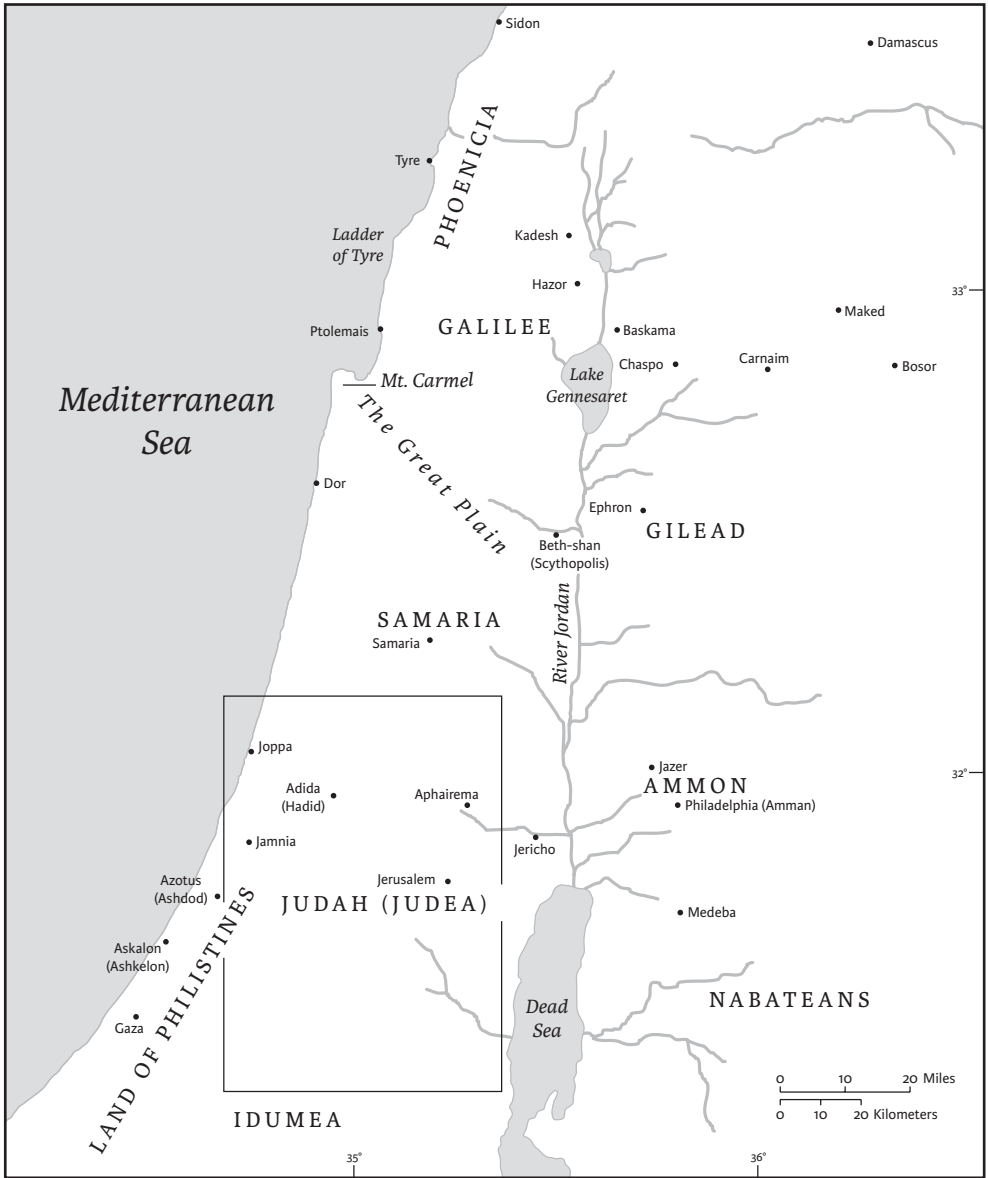

⁶²But many in Israel stood firm and were resolved in their hearts not to eat unclean food. ⁶³They chose to die rather than to be defiled by food or to profane the holy cov-

^a Gk it

^b Gk lacks He added

^c 167 B.C.

1.41–64: The decree of Antiochus and its consequences. 41–43: Antiochus did not attempt religious coercion throughout his whole kingdom. His letters applied only to Jews in Jerusalem and Judea. 45–48: His prohibitions forced Jews to break the Law’s fundamental commandments of burnt offerings and sacrifices, sabbaths and festivals, rejection of idolatry, practice of circumcision, and the offering of proper sacrifice at Jerusalem only (Ex 20.4–6; Deut 12.2–28). 51: Thus inspectors required sacrifice outside Jerusalem in the towns of Judah (cf. v. 55). 2 Macc 6.7 adds that Jews had to offer pagan sacrifices monthly to celebrate the king’s birthday, and to honor the god Dionysus. 54: The date is December 168 or 167 BCE. Desolating sacrilege (“abomination of desolation”; cf. Dan 11.31; Mk 13.14) may pun on the Syrian “Ba’al Samen” (“Lord of Heaven”), identified as “Olympian Zeus” in 2 Macc 6.2, or more likely indicate a pagan altar erected above the Jewish altar of burnt offering outside the Temple (see v. 59). 56–57,60–61: The books of the Law, people owning copies, or keeping the Law, and those practicing circumcision (cf. 2 Macc 6.10) were targeted. Decree, the instructions contained in the king’s letters (vv. 45–48 above). Antiochus’s motives are debated; probably he wished to suppress rebellion by abolishing the Chs 2–16: Campaigns of the Maccabees and Hasmoneans. See map on p. 1563 for sites in the Jerusalem vicinity.

enant; and they did die. ⁶⁴Very great wrath came upon Israel.

2 In those days Mattathias son of John son of Simeon, a priest of the family of Joarib, moved from Jerusalem and settled in Modein.

²He had five sons, John surnamed Gaddi, ³Simon called Thassi, ⁴Judas called Maccabeus, ⁵Eleazar called Avaran, and Jonathan called Apphus. ⁶He saw the blasphemies being committed in Judah and Jerusalem, ⁷and said, “Alas! Why was I born to see this,

the ruin of my people, the ruin of the holy city,
and to live there when it was given over to the enemy,
the sanctuary given over to aliens?”

⁸Her temple has become like a person without honor;^a

⁹her glorious vessels have been carried into exile.

Her infants have been killed in her streets,
her youths by the sword of the foe.

¹⁰What nation has not inherited her palaces^b and has not seized her spoils?

¹¹All her adornment has been taken away;
no longer free, she has become a slave.

¹²And see, our holy place, our beauty,
and our glory have been laid waste;
the Gentiles have profaned them.

¹³Why should we live any longer?”

¹⁴Then Mattathias and his sons tore their clothes, put on sackcloth, and mourned greatly.

¹⁵The king’s officers who were enforcing the apostasy came to the town of Modein to make them offer sacrifice. ¹⁶Many from Israel came to them; and Mattathias and his sons were assembled. ¹⁷Then the king’s officers spoke to Mattathias as follows: “You are a leader, honored and great in this town, and supported by sons and brothers. ¹⁸Now be the first to come and do what the king commands, as all the Gentiles and the people of Judah and those that are left in Jerusalem have done. Then you and your sons will be numbered among the Friends of the king, and you and your sons will be honored with silver and gold and many gifts.”

¹⁹But Mattathias answered and said in a loud voice: “Even if all the nations that live under the rule of the king obey him, and have chosen to obey his commandments, every one of them abandoning the religion of their ancestors, ²⁰I and my sons and my brothers will continue to live by the covenant of our ancestors. ²¹Far be it from us to desert the law and the ordinances. ²²We will not obey the king’s words by turning aside from our religion to the right hand or to the left.”

²³When he had finished speaking these words, a Jew came forward in the sight of all to offer sacrifice on the altar in Modein, according to the king’s command. ²⁴When Mat-tathias saw it, he burned with zeal and his heart was stirred. He gave vent to righteous anger; he ran and killed him on the altar. ²⁵At the same time he killed the king’s officer who was forcing them to sacrifice, and he tore down the altar. ²⁶Thus he burned with zeal for the law, just as Phinehas did against Zimri son of Salu.

^a Meaning of Gk uncertain

^b Other ancient authorities read has not had a part in her kingdom

code that apparently sustained it. 64: Great wrath, 1 Macc presents these events as God’s punishment upon the sins of the renegades and their supporters.

2.1–14: Mattathias and his sons. 1: Family of Joarib, a senior priestly (not high priestly) family; 1 Chr 9.10; 24.7. Modein (cf. 13.25–30), a village near Lod, ca. 20 mi (32 km) northwest of Jerusalem. 2–5: Simon, see chs 13–16; Judas, see 3.1–9.22. The nickname Maccabeus may mean “hammer” (see Introduction, 2 Macc). Eleazar, see 6.43. Jonathan, see 9.28–13.30. Jonathan and Simon became high priests. 7–13: A poetic lament over Jerusalem personified as a captive woman, a comment on the events of 1.41–64; see Lam 1.

2.15–28: Confrontation at Modein. 15: King’s officers, cf. “inspectors” (1.51). 18: What the king commands, i.e., make local sacrifice away from Jerusalem, against the Jewish Law. Friends of the king, advisers at court appointed by the king. Jonathan was later enrolled among the king’s “chief Friends” (10.65; cf. 10.20; 11.27) or “King’s Kinsmen” (10.89). 22: Turning aside, Mattathias rejects the invitation, quoting Deut 5.32. 23: The Jew thus makes a direct challenge to Mattathias’s leadership. 26: Mattathias is directly compared with Phinehas, grandson of the high priest Aaron, who had killed an Israelite. The Israelite had compromised Israelite exclusivism by having

²⁷ Then Mattathias cried out in the town with a loud voice, saying: “Let every one who is zealous for the law and supports the covenant come out with me!” ²⁸ Then he and his sons fled to the hills and left all that they had in the town.

²⁹ At that time many who were seeking righteousness and justice went down to the wilderness to live there, ³⁰ they, their sons, their wives, and their livestock, because troubles pressed heavily upon them. ³¹ And it was reported to the king’s officers, and to the troops in Jerusalem the city of David, that those who had rejected the king’s command had gone down to the hiding places in the wilderness. ³² Many pursued them, and overtook them; they encamped opposite them and prepared for battle against them on the sabbath day. ³³ They said to them, “Enough of this! Come out and do what the king commands, and you will live.” ³⁴ But they said, “We will not come out, nor will we do what the king commands and so profane the sabbath day.” ³⁵ Then the enemy^a quickly attacked them. ³⁶ But they did not answer them or hurl a stone at them or block up their hiding places, ³⁷ for they said, “Let us all die in our innocence; heaven and earth testify for us that you are killing us unjustly.” ³⁸ So they attacked them on the sabbath, and they died, with their wives and children and livestock, to the number of a thousand persons.

³⁹ When Mattathias and his friends learned of it, they mourned for them deeply. ⁴⁰ And all said to their neighbors: “If we all do as our kindred have done and refuse to fight with the Gentiles for our lives and for our ordinances, they will quickly destroy us from the earth.” ⁴¹ So they made this decision that day: “Let us fight against anyone who comes to attack us on the sabbath day; let us not all die as our kindred died in their hiding places.”

⁴² Then there united with them a company of Hasideans, mighty warriors of Israel, all who offered themselves willingly for the law. ⁴³ And all who became fugitives to escape their troubles joined them and reinforced them. ⁴⁴ They organized an army, and struck down sinners in their anger and renegades in their wrath; the survivors fled to the Gentiles for safety. ⁴⁵ And Mattathias and his friends went around and tore down the altars; ⁴⁶ they forcibly circumcised all the uncircumcised boys that they found within the borders of Israel. ⁴⁷ They hunted down the arrogant, and the work prospered in their hands. ⁴⁸ They rescued the law out of the hands of the Gentiles and kings, and they never let the sinner gain the upper hand.

⁴⁹ Now the days drew near for Mattathias to die, and he said to his sons: “Arrogance and scorn have now become strong; it is a time of ruin and furious anger. ⁵⁰ Now, my children, show zeal for the law, and give your lives for the covenant of our ancestors.

⁵¹ “Remember the deeds of the ancestors, which they did in their generations; and you will receive great honor and an everlasting name. ⁵² Was not Abraham found faithful when tested, and it was reckoned to him as righteousness? ⁵³ Joseph in the time of his distress kept the commandment, and became lord of Egypt. ⁵⁴ Phinehas our ancestor, because he was deeply zealous, received the covenant of everlasting priesthood. ⁵⁵ Joshua, because he fulfilled the command, became a judge in Israel. ⁵⁶ Caleb, because he testified in the assembly, received an inheritance in intercourse with a Midianite woman who worshiped Baal of Peor (Num 25.1–16). 28: Fled to the hills, 2 Macc 5.27–6.2 dates this before Antiochus’s religious persecution.

^a Gk they

2:29–41: Passive resistance. 29: Mattathias’s violence for Law and covenant (2.27) is contrasted favorably with the passive reaction of another group seeking righteousness and justice. 41: Mattathias’s followers decide that the necessity of self-preservation overrides even the command to keep the sabbath.

2:42–48: The Hasideans and Mattathias. The Hasideans (Heb “hasidim,” “the pious,” cf. Pss 79.2; 149.1) are another militaristic group, which united with Mattathias’s friends; in 2 Macc 14.6 they are under Judas’s leadership. 1 Macc 7.12 reports them as naively and fatally supporting a peace mission.

2:49–70: Mattathias’s death-bed speech. Jacob (Gen 49), Moses (Deut 33), and Samuel (1 Sam 12) utter similar speeches; compare also the praises of famous men in Sir 44–50. 52: Abraham . . . faithful when tested, Gen 22.1–18; reckoned . . . as righteousness, Gen 15.6. 53: Joseph, Gen 39–50. 54: Phinehas, see v. 26n. 55–56: Joshua the land. ⁵⁷ David, because he was merciful, inherited the throne of the kingdom forever. ⁵⁸ Elijah, because of great zeal for the law, was taken up into heaven. ⁵⁹ Hananiah, Azariah, and Mishael believed and were saved from the flame. ⁶⁰ Daniel, because of his innocence, was delivered from the mouth of the lions.

⁶¹ “And so observe, from generation to generation, that none of those who put their trust in him will lack strength. ⁶² Do not fear the words of sinners, for their splendor will turn into dung and worms. ⁶³ Today they will be exalted, but tomorrow they will not be found, because they will have returned to the dust, and their plans will have perished. ⁶⁴ My children, be courageous and grow strong in the law, for by it you will gain honor.

⁶⁵ “Here is your brother Simeon who, I know, is wise in counsel; always listen to him; he shall be your father. ⁶⁶ Judas Maccabeus has been a mighty warrior from his youth; he shall command the army for you and fight the battle against the peoples.^a ⁶⁷ You shall rally around you all who observe the law, and avenge the wrong done to your people. ⁶⁸ Pay back the Gentiles in full, and obey the commands of the law.”

⁶⁹ Then he blessed them, and was gathered to his ancestors. ⁷⁰ He died in the one hundred forty-sixth year^b and was buried in the tomb of his ancestors at Modein. And all Israel mourned for him with great lamentation.

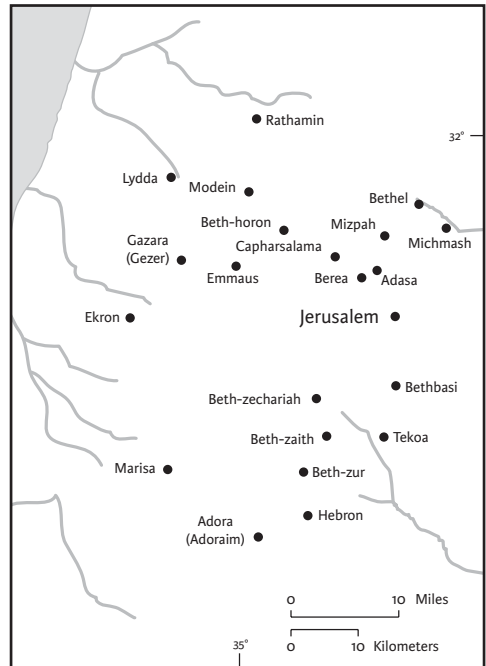

3 Then his son Judas, who was called Maccabeus, took command in his place. ² All his brothers and all who had joined his father helped him; they gladly fought for Israel.

³ He extended the glory of his people.

Like a giant he put on his breastplate;
he bound on his armor of war and waged battles,
protecting the camp by his sword.

and Caleb appear together in Num 14.5–10 and Sir 46.1–10. 57: David . . . merciful, perhaps “pious” or “loyal” is meant. Throne . . . forever, see 2 Sam 7.13,16. 58: Elijah . . . zeal for the law, cf. 1 Kings 21.17–29; into heaven, 2 Kings 2.9–12. 59: Hananiah, Azariah, and Mishael, see Dan 1.6–20. 60: Daniel . . . lions, Dan 6.16–24. Mattathias commends these heroes especially for their loyalty to the Law and readiness to testify under trial. 65–66: Simeon (Simon), wise in counsel, and Judas, a mighty warrior, thus 1 Macc presents them, but in reverse order. 70: Tomb, described in 13.27–30.

3.1–9: Introducing Judas. The poem pictures Judas in terms of earlier heroes. 4: Like a lion, cf. Judah (Gen 49.9). 5–8: Judas attacks two groups, the lawbreakers (vv. 5,6) who accept Antiochus’s decree, and foreign kings (v. 7), i.e., Antiochus IV and Demetrius. Turned away wrath from Israel, cf. Phinehas (Num 25.11); thus Judas cancels God’s wrath (1.64).

Chs 2–16: The Jerusalem vicinity.

⁴ He was like a lion in his deeds,
like a lion’s cub roaring for prey.

⁵ He searched out and pursued those who broke the law;
he burned those who troubled his
people.

⁶ Lawbreakers shrank back for fear of
him;
all the evildoers were confounded;
and deliverance prospered by his hand.

⁷ He embittered many kings,
but he made Jacob glad by his deeds,
and his memory is blessed forever.

^a Or of the people

^b 166 B.C.

⁸ He went through the cities of Judah;
he destroyed the ungodly out of the land;^a
thus he turned away wrath from Israel.

⁹ He was renowned to the ends of the earth;
he gathered in those who were perishing.

¹⁰ Apollonius now gathered together Gentiles and a large force from Samaria to fight against Israel. ¹¹ When Judas learned of it, he went out to meet him, and he defeated and killed him. Many were wounded and fell, and the rest fled. ¹² Then they seized their spoils; and Judas took the sword of Apollonius, and used it in battle the rest of his life.

¹³ When Seron, the commander of the Syrian army, heard that Judas had gathered a large company, including a body of faithful soldiers who stayed with him and went out to battle, ¹⁴ he said, "I will make a name for myself and win honor in the kingdom. I will make war on Judas and his companions, who scorn the king's command." ¹⁵ Once again a strong army of godless men went up with him to help him, to take vengeance on the Israelites.

¹⁶ When he approached the ascent of Beth-horon, Judas went out to meet him with a small company. ¹⁷ But when they saw the army coming to meet them, they said to Judas, "How can we, few as we are, fight against so great and so strong a multitude?
And we are faint, for we have eaten nothing today." ¹⁸ Judas replied, "It is easy for many to be hemmed in by few, for in the sight of Heaven there is no difference between saving by many or by few. ¹⁹ It is not on the size of the army that victory in battle depends, but strength comes from Heaven. ²⁰ They come against us in great insolence and lawlessness to destroy us and our wives and our children, and to despoil us; ²¹ but we fight for our lives and our laws. ²² He himself will crush them before us; as for you, do not be afraid of them."

²³ When he finished speaking, he rushed suddenly against Seron and his army, and they were crushed before him. ²⁴ They pursued them^b down the descent of Beth-horon to the plain; eight hundred of them fell, and the rest fled into the land of the Philistines.
²⁵ Then Judas and his brothers began to be feared, and terror fell on the Gentiles all around them. ²⁶ His fame reached the king, and the Gentiles talked of the battles of Judas.

²⁷ When King Antiochus heard these reports, he was greatly angered; and he sent and gathered all the forces of his kingdom, a very strong army. ²⁸ He opened his coffers and gave a year's pay to his forces, and ordered them to be ready for any need. ²⁹ Then he saw that the money in the treasury was exhausted, and that the revenues from the country were small because of the dissension and disaster that he had caused in the land by abolishing the laws that had existed from the earliest days. ³⁰ He feared that he might not have such funds as he had before for his expenses and for the gifts that he used to give more lavishly than preceding kings. ³¹ He was greatly perplexed in mind;
then he determined to go to Persia and collect the revenues from those regions and raise a large fund.

^a Gk it

^b Other ancient authorities read him

3:10–26: Judas's campaigns against Apollonius and Seron. 10: Apollonius, possibly the Apollonius of 2 Macc 5.24, probably governor of Samaria (Josephus, Ant. 2.287). 11 Macc knows no details of this campaign. 12: Sword of Apollonius, cf. David's use of Goliath's sword (2 Sam 17.51). 13: Seron . . . Syrian army, in spite of the title, not a high-ranking officer, nor the main Syrian army, which in 166 BCE was on parade near Antioch. 16: Ascent of Beth-horon, a major pass ca. 12 mi (20 km) northwest of Jerusalem on the route from the coastal plain. The Seleucid general Bacchides later fortified it (9.50). Judas ambushed Seron here, as the Jews ambushed the Roman general Cestius in 65 CE (Josephus, J.W. 2.547). 18: Heaven, throughout 1 Macc, a pious substitution for the name of God; note "he himself" (v. 22). Saving by many or by few, an echo of 1 Sam 14.6. 24: Philistines, an anachronism illustrating the presentation of Judas as a latter-day David.

3:27–37: Antiochus's policy. 27: Gathered all the forces for a military review at Daphne near Antioch, 166 BCE. 29–30: Antiochus's shortage of cash was not caused, as the author likes to imagine, by abolishing the [Jewish] laws but by spending lavishly elsewhere. 31: Antiochus hoped to restore his finances by an expedition to Persia.

³² He left Lysias, a distinguished man of royal lineage, in charge of the king's affairs from the river Euphrates to the borders of Egypt. ³³ Lysias was also to take care of his son Antiochus until he returned. ³⁴ And he turned over to Lysias^a half of his forces and the elephants, and gave him orders about all that he wanted done. As for the residents of Judea and Jerusalem, ³⁵ Lysias was to send a force against them to wipe out and destroy the strength of Israel and the remnant of Jerusalem; he was to banish the memory of them from the place, ³⁶ settle aliens in all their territory, and distribute their land by lot. ³⁷ Then the king took the remaining half of his forces and left Antioch his capital in the one hundred and forty-seventh year.^b He crossed the Euphrates river and went through the upper provinces.

³⁸ Lysias chose Ptolemy son of Dorymenes, and Nicanor and Gorgias, able men among the Friends of the king, ³⁹ and sent with them forty thousand infantry and seven thousand cavalry to go into the land of Judah and destroy it, as the king had commanded. ⁴⁰ So they set out with their entire force, and when they arrived they encamped near Emmaus in the plain. ⁴¹ When the traders of the region heard what was said to them, they took silver and gold in immense amounts, and fetters,^c and went to the camp to get the Israelites for slaves. And forces from Syria and the land of the Philistines joined with them.

⁴² Now Judas and his brothers saw that misfortunes had increased and that the forces were encamped in their territory. They also learned what the king had commanded to do to the people to cause their final destruction. ⁴³ But they said to one another, "Let us restore the ruins of our people, and fight for our people and the sanctuary." ⁴⁴ So the congregation assembled to be ready for battle, and to pray and ask for mercy and compassion.

⁴⁵ Jerusalem was uninhabited like a wilderness;

not one of her children went in or out.
The sanctuary was trampled down,
and aliens held the citadel;
it was a lodging place for the Gentiles.
Joy was taken from Jacob;

the flute and the harp ceased to play.

⁴⁶ Then they gathered together and went to Mizpah, opposite Jerusalem, because Israel formerly had a place of prayer in Mizpah.

⁴⁷ They fasted that day, put on sackcloth and sprinkled ashes on their heads, and tore their clothes. ⁴⁸ And they opened the book of the law to inquire into those matters about which the Gentiles consulted the likenesses of their gods. ⁴⁹ They also brought the vestments of the priesthood and the first fruits and the tithes, and they stirred up the nazirites^d who had completed their days; ⁵⁰ and they cried aloud to Heaven, saying,

"What shall we do with these?

Where shall we take them?

⁵¹ Your sanctuary is trampled down and profaned, and your priests mourn in humiliation.

^a Gk him

^b 165 B.C.

^c Syr: Gk Mss, Vg slaves

^d That is those separated or those consecrated

32: Lysias . . . of royal lineage was probably one of the King's "Kinsmen" (an honorary title; cf. 10.89) rather than a blood relative. 33: His son Antiochus, Antiochus V Eupator (ca. 164–162 BCE). 37: Antioch, modern Antakya in southern Turkey near the mouth of the Orontes River, founded by Seleucus I in 300 BCE. Upper provinces, Antioch campaigned in Armenia, along the Persian Gulf, and in Elymais, probably in spring 165 BCE.

3.38–4.35: Judas's victory over Gorgias. 38: Ptolemy son of Dorymenes, probably the governor of Coele Syria and Phoenicia (2 Macc 8.8), and Nicanor, "son of Patroclus and one of the king's chief Friends" (2 Macc 8.9), play no further part in this campaign in 1 Macc; the enemy is led by Gorgias, another of the king's Friends (see 2.18) and governor of Idumea (2 Macc 12.32), but according to 2 Macc 8.10–29 by Nicanor (whose activities, however, seem to belong to Demetrius's reign; see 7.26–50). 40: Emmaus (not that of Lk 24.13), ca. 18 mi (28 km) west-northwest of Jerusalem, 8 mi (13 km) south of Modein. 41: Slaves, the sale of captured soldiers was usual in ancient warfare (see also 2 Macc 8.10–11). Some scholars think that Syria is an error for "Idumea" (cf. 4.29). Philistines, see v. 24n. 45–46: A poetic comment (cf. vv. 50–53). 46: Mizpah, 8 mi (13 km) north of Jerusalem, where Samuel gathered the Israelites against the Philistines (1 Sam 7.5–11). 48: A deliberate contrast: Jews consult the book of the law, Gentiles their gods. 49: Nazirites (cf. Num 6.1–21), perhaps a reminder of men like Samson (Judg

⁵² Here the Gentiles are assembled against us to destroy us;

you know what they plot against us.

⁵³ How will we be able to withstand them, if you do not help us?"

⁵⁴ Then they sounded the trumpets and gave a loud shout. ⁵⁵ After this Judas appointed leaders of the people, in charge of thousands and hundreds and fifties and tens.

⁵⁶ Those who were building houses, or were about to be married, or were planting a vineyard, or were fainthearted, he told to go home again, according to the law. ⁵⁷ Then the army marched out and encamped to the south of Emmaus.

⁵⁸ And Judas said, "Arm yourselves and be courageous. Be ready early in the morning to fight with these Gentiles who have assembled against us to destroy us and our sanctuary.

⁵⁹ It is better for us to die in battle than to see the misfortunes of our nation and of the sanctuary. ⁶⁰ But as his will in heaven may be, so shall he do."

4 Now Gorgias took five thousand infantry and one thousand picked cavalry, and this division moved out by night ² to fall upon the camp of the Jews and attack them suddenly. Men from the citadel were his guides. ³ But Judas heard of it, and he and his warriors moved out to attack the king's force in Emmaus ⁴ while the division was still absent from the camp. ⁵ When Gorgias entered the camp of Judas by night, he found no one there, so he looked for them in the hills, because he said, "These men are running away from us."

⁶ At daybreak Judas appeared in the plain with three thousand men, but they did not have armor and swords such as they desired. ⁷ And they saw the camp of the Gentiles, strong and fortified, with cavalry all around it; and these men were trained in war. ⁸ But

Judas said to those who were with him, "Do not fear their numbers or be afraid when they charge. ⁹ Remember how our ancestors were saved at the Red Sea, when Pharaoh with his forces pursued them. ¹⁰ And now, let us cry to Heaven, to see whether he will favor us and remember his covenant with our ancestors and crush this army before us today. ¹¹ Then all the Gentiles will know that there is one who redeems and saves Israel."

¹² When the foreigners looked up and saw them coming against them, ¹³ they went out from their camp to battle. Then the men with Judas blew their trumpets ¹⁴ and engaged in battle. The Gentiles were crushed, and fled into the plain, ¹⁵ and all those in the rear fell by the sword. They pursued them to Gazara, and to the plains of Idumea, and to Azotus and Jamnia; and three thousand of them fell. ¹⁶ Then Judas and his force turned back from pursuing them, ¹⁷ and he said to the people, "Do not be greedy for plunder, for there is a battle before us; ¹⁸ Gorgias and his force are near us in the hills. But stand now against our enemies and fight them, and afterward seize the plunder boldly."

¹⁹ Just as Judas was finishing this speech, a detachment appeared, coming out of the hills. ²⁰ They saw that their army^a had been put to flight, and that the Jews^a were burning the camp, for the smoke that was seen showed what had happened. ²¹ When they perceived this, they were greatly frightened, and when they also saw the army of Judas drawn up in the plain for battle, ²² they all fled into the land of the Philistines. ²³ Then Judas returned to plunder the camp, and they seized a great amount of gold and silver, and cloth dyed blue and sea purple, and great riches. ²⁴ On their return they sang hymns

^a Gk they

13.7), Israel's champion against the Philistines. 55–56: Judas appointed leaders (cf. Moses, Deut 1.15), sending home some groups (cf. Deut 20.5–8) and giving a pre-battle sermon (like Jehoshaphat; 2 Chr 20.15–17). 4.2: The citadel, see 1.33n. 8: Do not fear their numbers, the imbalance of Judas's 3,000 men opposing 35,000 infantry and 6,000 cavalry (see 3.39 and 4.1) is emphasized. 2 Macc 8.9,24 give different numbers. 9–11: Judas appeals to Israel's victory at the Red Sea (Ex 14.21–31) and God's covenant with their ancestors Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob (Gen 17.1–8; 26.2–5; 35.9–15). 15: Gazara, Gezer (1 Kings 9.15–17), and Jamnia, Jabneh (2 Chr 26.6), were both west of Emmaus, the site of the battle, and Azotus, Ashdod (1 Sam 5.5–6), was to the southwest. All were once Philistine cities. Idumea was south of Judah toward the Negeb. 23: Cloth dyed blue and sea purple, luxury products of the Phoenician coast; see Ezek 27.7. 24: Pss 118.1; 136.1.

and praises to Heaven—“For he is good, for his mercy endures forever.”²⁵ Thus Israel had a great deliverance that day.

²⁶ Those of the foreigners who escaped went and reported to Lysias all that had happened. ²⁷ When he heard it, he was perplexed and discouraged, for things had not happened to Israel as he had intended, nor had they turned out as the king had ordered. ²⁸ But the next year he mustered sixty thousand picked infantry and five thousand cavalry to subdue them. ²⁹ They came into Idumea and encamped at Beth-zur, and Judas met them with ten thousand men.

³⁰ When he saw that their army was strong, he prayed, saying, “Blessed are you, O Savior of Israel, who crushed the attack of the mighty warrior by the hand of your servant David, and gave the camp of the Philistines into the hands of Jonathan son of Saul, and of the man who carried his armor. ³¹ Hem in this army by the hand of your people Israel, and let them be ashamed of their troops and their cavalry. ³² Fill them with cowardice; melt the boldness of their strength; let them tremble in their destruction. ³³ Strike them down with the sword of those who love you, and let all who know your name praise you with hymns.”

³⁴ Then both sides attacked, and there fell of the army of Lysias five thousand men; they fell in action.^a ³⁵ When Lysias saw the rout of his troops and observed the boldness that inspired those of Judas, and how ready they were either to live or to die nobly, he withdrew to Antioch and enlisted mercenaries in order to invade Judea again with an even larger army.

³⁶ Then Judas and his brothers said, “See, our enemies are crushed; let us go up to

cleanse the sanctuary and dedicate it.”³⁷ So all the army assembled and went up to Mount Zion. ³⁸ There they saw the sanctuary desolate, the altar profaned, and the gates burned. In the courts they saw bushes sprung up as in a thicket, or as on one of the mountains. They saw also the chambers of the priests in ruins. ³⁹ Then they tore their clothes and mourned with great lamentation; they sprinkled themselves with ashes⁴⁰ and fell face down on the ground. And when the signal was given with the trumpets, they cried out to Heaven.

⁴¹ Then Judas detailed men to fight against those in the citadel until he had cleansed the sanctuary. ⁴² He chose blameless priests devoted to the law,⁴³ and they cleansed the sanctuary and removed the defiled stones to an unclean place. ⁴⁴ They deliberated what to do about the altar of burnt offering, which had been profaned. ⁴⁵ And they thought it best to tear it down, so that it would not be a lasting shame to them that the Gentiles had defiled it. So they tore down the altar,⁴⁶ and stored the stones in a convenient place on the temple hill until a prophet should come to tell what to do with them. ⁴⁷ Then they took unhewn^b stones, as the law directs, and built a new altar like the former one. ⁴⁸ They also rebuilt the sanctuary and the interior of the temple, and consecrated the courts. ⁴⁹ They made new holy vessels, and brought the lampstand, the altar of incense, and the table into the temple. ⁵⁰ Then they offered incense on the altar and lit the lamps on the lampstand, and these gave light in the tem-

^a Or and some fell on the opposite side

^b Gk whole

4.26–35: Judas defeats Lysias. 26: Lysias, see 3.32n. 28: The next year, i.e., year 148 (cf. 3.37), probably beginning in autumn 165 BCE. 1 Macc emphasizes the size of Lysias’s army. 29: Beth-zur, 16 mi (25 km) south-southeast of Jerusalem; cf. 2 Macc 11.25. 30–33: Judas’s prayer (cf. 4.8–11) recalls David’s killing of Goliath (the mighty warrior; cf. 1 Sam 17.4–54) and Jonathan’s success against the Philistines (1 Sam 14.1–15); 1 Macc again presents the struggle in biblical terms. 35: To invade Judea again, cf. 6.28–63. Some scholars suspect that these two campaigns are really one.

4.36–61: The cleansing of the Temple and dedication of the altar. 37: Mount Zion, an old name for the city of David (2 Sam 5.7) and the Temple site (Ps 2.6; Joel 2.1). 38: Sanctuary desolate . . . altar profaned, cf. 1.54, 59. Gates burned, by Jason’s men in 168 BCE, cf. 2 Macc 1.8; 5.5–6; 8.33. 41: Judas attacks the citadel, which controlled access to the Temple (see 1.33n.). 43: Defiled stones, i.e., those forming the “desolating sacrilege,” 1.54n. 44: See 1.54, 59. 46: Stored the stones, though defiled, they were still part of the original altar. Prophet should come, the author believed that prophecy had ceased (9.27) but awaited a future prophet to advise the people (14.41;

ple.⁵¹ They placed the bread on the table and hung up the curtains. Thus they finished all the work they had undertaken.

⁵² Early in the morning on the twenty-fifth day of the ninth month, which is the month of Chisleb, in the one hundred forty-eighth year,^a ⁵³ they rose and offered sacrifice, as the law directs, on the new altar of burnt offering that they had built. ⁵⁴ At the very season and on the very day that the Gentiles had profaned it, it was dedicated with songs and harps and lutes and cymbals. ⁵⁵ All the people fell on their faces and worshiped and blessed Heaven, who had prospered them. ⁵⁶ So they celebrated the dedication of the altar for eight days, and joyfully offered burnt offerings; they offered a sacrifice of well-being and a thanksgiving offering. ⁵⁷ They decorated the front of the temple with golden crowns and small shields; they restored the gates and the chambers for the priests, and fitted them with doors. ⁵⁸ There was very great joy among the people, and the disgrace brought by the Gentiles was removed.

⁵⁹ Then Judas and his brothers and all the assembly of Israel determined that every year at that season the days of dedication of the altar should be observed with joy and gladness for eight days, beginning with the twenty-fifth day of the month of Chisleb.

⁶⁰ At that time they fortified Mount Zion with high walls and strong towers all around, to keep the Gentiles from coming and trampling them down as they had done before.

⁶¹ Judas^b stationed a garrison there to guard it; he also fortified Beth-zur to guard it, so that the people might have a stronghold that faced Idumea.

5 When the Gentiles all around heard that the altar had been rebuilt and the sanctuary dedicated as it was before, they became very angry, ² and they determined to destroy the descendants of Jacob who lived among them. So they began to kill and destroy among the people. ³ But Judas made war on the descendants of Esau in Idumea, at Akrabattene, because they kept lying in wait for Israel. He dealt them a heavy blow and humbled them and despoiled them. ⁴ He also remembered the wickedness of the sons of Baean, who were a trap and a snare to the people and ambushed them on the highways. ⁵ They were shut up by him in their^c towers; and he encamped against them, vowed their complete destruction, and burned with fire their towers and all who were in them. ⁶ Then he crossed over to attack the Ammonites, where he found a strong band and many people, with Timothy as their leader. ⁷ He engaged in many battles with them, and they cf. Deut 18.15; Mal 4.5; Jn 1.21). 47: As the law directs, Ex 20.25; Deut 27.5–6. 49: Cf. 1.21–23n. 51: Curtains, see Ex 26.1–10, 31–35. Finished, echoing the completion of Moses' work (Ex 40.33). 52: Chisleb . . . the one hundred forty-eighth year, i.e., December 165 BCE, exactly three years after the desecration (1.59); this dating places the Temple dedication, with 1 Macc, before Antiochus IV's death in 164 BCE. Some scholars, following 2 Macc 10.1–8, date the dedication soon after Antiochus's death in December 164 BCE. 56: Eight days, as in Solomon's Temple dedication (1 Kings 8.66) and Hezekiah's purification (2 Chr 29.17). 57: Crowns, cf. 1.22. 59: Assembly, cf. 5.16; 14.19. Exactly who has authority to make this decision in 165 BCE is unclear. Every year, the letters of 2 Macc 1.1–9 and 1.10–2.18 instruct Egyptian Jews to keep this feast, associating it with lighting lamps (2 Macc 1.8) and holy fire (2 Macc 1.19–2.12). It is also called "the feast of Lights" (Josephus, Ant. 12.236) and "the festival of the Dedication" (Jn 10.22). 60–61: Mount Zion, defending the Temple area against the citadel; Beth-zur, defending Jerusalem from the south (see 4.29n.).

^a 164 B.C.

^b Gk He

^c Gk her

5.1–68: Judas rescues Jews from neighboring peoples. The author inserts these undated events between chs 4 and 6 (2 Macc dates some of them later), constructing ch 5 carefully. Verses 1–8 show Judas attacking the sons of Esau and the Ammonites, balanced by 5.65–68 in which he attacks the sons of Esau again. In between, 5.9–64 show Simon rescuing Jews from Galilee (vv. 17, 21–23), Judas rescuing Jews from Gilead (vv. 17, 24–54), and Joseph and Azariah, left to guard Judea, being defeated (vv. 18–19, 55–62). 3: Esau, brother of Jacob, ancestor of Judah's enemy, Edom (see Gen 36). Judas defeats the Edomites as David did (2 Sam 8.13–14). Idumea (see 4.15n.). Akrabattene, located by Josephus (J.W. 2.235) in Samaria, by some scholars south of Judah (cf. Num 34.4). 4: Sons of Baean, otherwise unknown. 6: Ammonites, east of the Jordan; cf. Saul's victory (2 Sam 11). Timothy, cf.

were crushed before him; he struck them down.⁸ He also took Jazer and its villages; then he returned to Judea.

⁹ Now the Gentiles in Gilead gathered together against the Israelites who lived in their territory, and planned to destroy them. But they fled to the stronghold of Dathema,¹⁰ and sent to Judas and his brothers a letter that said, “The Gentiles around us have gathered together to destroy us.¹¹ They are preparing to come and capture the stronghold to which we have fled, and Timothy is leading their forces.¹² Now then, come and rescue us from their hands, for many of us have fallen,¹³ and all our kindred who were in the land of Tob have been killed; the enemy^a have captured their wives and children and goods, and have destroyed about a thousand persons there.”

¹⁴ While the letter was still being read, other messengers, with their garments torn, came from Galilee and made a similar report; ¹⁵ they said that the people of Ptolemais and Tyre and Sidon, and all Galilee of the Gentiles,^b had gathered together against them “to annihilate us.” ¹⁶ When Judas and the people heard these messages, a great assembly was called to determine what they should do for their kindred who were in distress and were being attacked by enemies.^c ¹⁷ Then Judas said to his brother Simon, “Choose your men and go and rescue your kindred in Galilee; Jonathan my brother and I will go to Gilead.” ¹⁸ But he left Joseph, son of Zechariah, and Azariah, a leader of the people, with the rest of the forces, in Judea to guard it; ¹⁹ and he gave them this command, “Take charge of this people, but do not engage in battle with the Gentiles until we return.” ²⁰ Then three thousand men were assigned to Simon to go to Galilee, and eight thousand to Judas for Gilead.

²¹ So Simon went to Galilee and fought many battles against the Gentiles, and the Gentiles were crushed before him.²² He pursued them to the gate of Ptolemais; as many as three thousand of the Gentiles fell, and he despoiled them.²³ Then he took the Jews^d of Galilee and Arbatta, with their wives and children, and all they possessed, and led them to Judea with great rejoicing.

²⁴ Judas Maccabeus and his brother Jonathan crossed the Jordan and made three days’ journey into the wilderness.²⁵ They encountered the Nabateans, who met them peaceably and told them all that had happened to their kindred in Gilead: ²⁶ “Many of them have been shut up in Bozrah and Bosor, in Alema and Chaspho, Maked and Carnaim”—all these towns were strong and large—²⁷ “and some have been shut up in the other towns of Gilead; the enemy^a are getting ready to attack the strongholds tomorrow and capture and destroy all these people in a single day.”

²⁸ Then Judas and his army quickly turned back by the wilderness road to Bozrah; and he took the town, and killed every male by the edge of the sword; then he seized all its spoils and burned it with fire.²⁹ He left the place at night, and they went all the way to the stronghold of Dathema.^e ³⁰ At dawn they looked out and saw a large company, which could not be counted, carrying ladders and engines of war to capture the stronghold, and attacking the Jews within.^f ³¹ So Judas saw that the battle had begun and that the cry of the town went up to Heaven, with trumpets and loud shouts,³² and he said to the men of his forces, “Fight today for your kindred!” ³³ Then he came up behind them in three

^a Gk they

^b Gk aliens

^c Gk them

^d Gk those

^e Gk lacks of Dathema. See verse 9

^f Gk and they were attacking them

vv. 9,34,37,40 and 2 Macc 8.30–33. 8: Jazer, ca. 12 mi (20 km) northwest of Philadelphia (modern Amman); see Num 32.3. 9: Gilead, region north of Amman. Dathema, precise location uncertain. 13: Land of Tob, in southern Syria; see Judg 11.3. 15: Ptolemais, earlier Acco (Judg 1.31; modern Akko), renamed by Ptolemy II Philadelphus in 261 BCE, a Hellenistic port hostile to the Jews (see 2 Macc 6.8). 23: Arbatta, precise location uncertain. 25: Nabateans, people of northwest Arabia whose kings (e.g., Aretas, 2 Macc 5.8) ruled from Petra in southern Transjordan. 26: Bosrah, modern Bostra in southern Syria. The identifications of Bosor, Alema, Chaspho (perhaps the Caspin of 2 Macc 12.13–16), and Maked are debated. Carnaim (cf. 2 Macc 12.21) is Sheik Sad in southern Syria.

companies, who sounded their trumpets and cried aloud in prayer.³⁴ And when the army of Timothy realized that it was Maccabeus, they fled before him, and he dealt them a heavy blow. As many as eight thousand of them fell that day.

³⁵Next he turned aside to Maapha,^a and fought against it and took it; and he killed every male in it, plundered it, and burned it with fire.³⁶ From there he marched on and took Chaspho, Maked, and Bosor, and the other towns of Gilead.

³⁷After these things Timothy gathered another army and encamped opposite Raphon, on the other side of the stream.³⁸ Judas sent men to spy out the camp, and they reported to him, “All the Gentiles around us have gathered to him; it is a very large force.³⁹ They also have hired Arabs to help them, and they are encamped across the stream, ready to come and fight against you.” And Judas went to meet them.

⁴⁰Now as Judas and his army drew near to the stream of water, Timothy said to the officers of his forces, “If he crosses over to us first, we will not be able to resist him, for he will surely defeat us.⁴¹ But if he shows fear and camps on the other side of the river, we will cross over to him and defeat him.”

⁴²When Judas approached the stream of water, he stationed the officers^b of the army at the stream and gave them this command, “Permit no one to encamp, but make them all enter the battle.”⁴³ Then he crossed over against them first, and the whole army followed him. All the Gentiles were defeated before him, and they threw away their arms and fled into the sacred precincts at Carnaim.

⁴⁴But he took the town and burned the sacred precincts with fire, together with all who were in them. Thus Carnaim was conquered; they could stand before Judas no longer.

⁴⁵Then Judas gathered together all the Israelites in Gilead, the small and the great, with their wives and children and goods, a very large company, to go to the land of Judah.⁴⁶ So they came to Ephron. This was a large and very strong town on the road, and they could not go around it to the right or to the left; they had to go through it.⁴⁷ But the people of the town shut them out and blocked up the gates with stones.

⁴⁸Judas sent them this friendly message, “Let us pass through your land to get to our land. No one will do you harm; we will simply pass by on foot.” But they refused to open to him.⁴⁹ Then Judas ordered proclamation to be made to the army that all should encamp where they were.⁵⁰ So the men of the forces encamped, and he fought against the town all that day and all the night, and the town was delivered into his hands.⁵¹ He destroyed every male by the edge of the sword, and razed and plundered the town. Then he passed through the town over the bodies of the dead.

⁵²Then they crossed the Jordan into the large plain before Beth-shan.⁵³ Judas kept rallying the laggards and encouraging the people all the way until he came to the land of Judah.⁵⁴ So they went up to Mount Zion with joy and gladness, and offered burnt offerings, because they had returned in safety; not one of them had fallen.

⁵⁵Now while Judas and Jonathan were in Gilead and their^c brother Simon was in Galilee before Ptolemais,⁵⁶ Joseph son of Zechariah, and Azariah, the commanders of the forces, heard of their brave deeds and of the heroic war they had fought.⁵⁷ So they said, “Let us also make a name for ourselves; let us go and make war on the Gentiles around us.”⁵⁸ So they issued orders to the men of the forces that were with them and marched against Jamnia.⁵⁹ Gorgias and his men came out of the town to meet them

^a Other ancient authorities read Alema

^b Or scribes

^c Gk his

33–34: Cf. Gideon’s tactics in Judg 7.19–20. 35: Maapha, both text and site intended are uncertain. 37: Raphon, er-Rafeh, 9 mi (15 km) west of Carnaim. 43–44: Sacred precincts, of the goddess Atargatis, consort of the Syrian god Hadad; see 2 Macc 12.26. 46: Ephron, et-Taiyibeh, 12 mi (20 km) south-southeast of Lake Gennesaret (the Sea of Galilee); see 2 Macc 12.27. 48: Judas follows Moses’ example, Num 21.21–24. 52: Beth-shan, in Hellenistic times Scythopolis (2 Macc 12.29–30), in the Jordan Valley ca. 16 mi (26 km) south-southwest of Lake Gennesaret (the Sea of Galilee). 56: Joseph and Azariah envy Judas’s success; for the author, only members of Judas’s family in battle. ⁶⁰Then Joseph and Azariah were routed, and were pursued to the borders of Judea; as many as two thousand of the people of Israel fell that day. ⁶¹Thus the people suffered a great rout because, thinking to do a brave deed, they did not listen to Judas and his brothers. ⁶²But they did not belong to the family of those men through whom deliverance was given to Israel.

⁶³The man Judas and his brothers were greatly honored in all Israel and among all the Gentiles, wherever their name was heard. ⁶⁴People gathered to them and praised them.

⁶⁵Then Judas and his brothers went out and fought the descendants of Esau in the land to the south. He struck Hebron and its villages and tore down its strongholds and burned its towers on all sides. ⁶⁶Then he marched off to go into the land of the Philistines, and passed through Marisa.^a ⁶⁷On that day some priests, who wished to do a brave deed, fell in battle, for they went out to battle unwisely. ⁶⁸But Judas turned aside to Azotus in the land of the Philistines; he tore down their altars, and the carved images of their gods he burned with fire; he plundered the towns and returned to the land of Judah.

6 King Antiochus was going through the upper provinces when he heard that Elymais in Persia was a city famed for its wealth in silver and gold. ²Its temple was very rich, containing golden shields, breastplates, and weapons left there by Alexander son of Philip, the Macedonian king who first reigned over the Greeks. ³So he came and tried to take the city and plunder it, but he could not because his plan had become known to the citizens ⁴and they withstood him in battle. So he fled and in great disappointment left there to return to Babylon.

⁵Then someone came to him in Persia and reported that the armies that had gone into the land of Judah had been routed; ⁶that Lysias had gone first with a strong force, but had turned and fled before the Jews;^b that the Jews^c had grown strong from the arms, supplies, and abundant spoils that they had taken from the armies they had cut down; ⁷that they had torn down the abomination that he had erected on the altar in Jerusalem; and that they had surrounded the sanctuary with high walls as before, and also Beth-zur, his town.

⁸When the king heard this news, he was astounded and badly shaken. He took to his bed and became sick from disappointment, because things had not turned out for him as he had planned. ⁹He lay there for many days, because deep disappointment continually gripped him, and he realized that he was dying. ¹⁰So he called all his Friends and said to them, "Sleep has departed from my eyes and I am downhearted with worry. ¹¹I said to myself, 'To what distress I have come! And into what a great flood I now am plunged! For I was kind and beloved in my power.' ¹²But now I remember the wrong I did in Jerusalem. I seized all its vessels of silver and gold, and I sent to destroy the inhabitants of Judah without good reason. ¹³I know that it is because of this that these misfortunes have come upon me; here I am, perishing of bitter disappointment in a strange land."

¹⁴Then he called for Philip, one of his Friends, and made him ruler over all his

^a Other ancient authorities read Samaria

^b Gk them

^c Gk they can claim to have saved Israel (v. 62). 58: Jamnia, see 4.15. 65: Hebron, where David ruled over Judah (1 Sam 5.5), now in Idumea; ca. 20 mi (31 km) south of Jerusalem. 66: Marisa, 2 Macc 12.35, also in Idumea, ca. 12 mi (20 km) northwest of Hebron. 67: The same point is made as in v. 62. 68: Azotus, see 4.15. Altars . . . images, Judas, as at Carnaim (v. 44), destroys a pagan sanctuary, in accordance with Deuteronomy's command (Deut 7.5). Throughout the chapter 1 Macc presents Judas as a biblical hero.

6.1–17: Death of Antiochus IV and accession of Antiochus V. 1: Upper provinces, see 3.37n. Elymais, a region west of Persia, not a city. 2–3: Temple, identified by 2 Macc 1.11–17 as the temple of the goddess Nanea (Gk Artemis), possibly located by 2 Macc 9.2 at Persepolis. 5–7: Reported, these verses summarize 3.38–4.61, events from before Antiochus's death (see v. 16). 8–13: The author's invention, suggesting (more charitably than 2 Macc 9) some remorse in Antiochus. 12: See 1.20–23, 30–31. 14–15: Instead of Lysias, Antiochus appoints Philip, perhaps the "courtier" of 2 Macc 9.29 (cf. Manaen in Acts 13.1), as ruler and guardian of the child Antiochus V.

kingdom. ¹⁵ He gave him the crown and his robe and the signet, so that he might guide his son Antiochus and bring him up to be king. ¹⁶ Thus King Antiochus died there in the one hundred forty-ninth year.^a ¹⁷ When Lysias learned that the king was dead, he set up Antiochus the king's^b son to reign. Lysias^c had brought him up from boyhood; he named him Eupator.

¹⁸ Meanwhile the garrison in the citadel kept hemming Israel in around the sanctuary. They were trying in every way to harm them and strengthen the Gentiles. ¹⁹ Judas therefore resolved to destroy them, and assembled all the people to besiege them. ²⁰ They gathered together and besieged the citadel^d in the one hundred fiftieth year;^e and he built siege towers and other engines of war. ²¹ But some of the garrison escaped from the siege and some of the ungodly Israelites joined them. ²² They went to the king and said, "How long will you fail to do justice and to avenge our kindred? ²³ We were happy to serve your father, to live by what he said, and to follow his commands. ²⁴ For this reason the sons of our people besieged the citadel^f and became hostile to us; moreover, they have put to death as many of us as they have caught, and they have seized our inheritances. ²⁵ It is not against us alone that they have stretched out their hands; they have also attacked all the lands on their borders. ²⁶ And see, today they have encamped against the citadel in Jerusalem to take it; they have fortified both the sanctuary and Beth-zur; ²⁷ unless you quickly prevent them, they will do still greater things, and you will not be able to stop them."

²⁸ The king was enraged when he heard this. He assembled all his Friends, the commanders of his forces and those in authority.^g ²⁹ Mercenary forces also came to him from other kingdoms and from islands of the seas. ³⁰ The number of his forces was one hundred thousand foot soldiers, twenty thousand horsemen, and thirty-two elephants accustomed to war. ³¹ They came through Idumea and encamped against Beth-zur, and for many days they fought and built engines of war; but the Jews^h sallied out and burned these with fire, and fought courageously.

³² Then Judas marched away from the citadel and encamped at Beth-zechariah, opposite the camp of the king. ³³ Early in the morning the king set out and took his army by a forced march along the road to Beth-zechariah, and his troops made ready for battle and sounded their trumpets. ³⁴ They offered the elephants the juice of grapes and mulberries, to arouse them for battle. ³⁵ They distributed the animals among the phalanxes; with each elephant they stationed a thousand men armed with coats of mail, and with brass helmets on their heads; and five hundred picked horsemen were assigned to each beast. ³⁶ These took their position beforehand wherever the animal was; wherever it went, they went with it, and they never left it. ³⁷ On the elephantsⁱ were wooden towers, strong and covered; they were fastened on each animal by special harness, and on each were four^j armed men who fought from there,

^a 163 B.C.

^b Gk his

^c Gk He

^d Gk it

^e 162 B.C.

^f Meaning of Gk uncertain

^g Gk those over the reins

^h Gk they

ⁱ Gk them

^j Cn: Some authorities read thirty; others thirty-two

Signet, the official seal, a symbol of authority together with the crown and the robe. 16: Died, Antiochus's death is securely dated between 19/20 November and 18/19 December 164 BCE; the one hundred forty-ninth year began in spring or autumn 164 BCE. 17: Lysias (see 3.32), in spite of Antiochus's wishes, remains regent for Antiochus V Eupator, "of a good father," and opposes Philip (see 6.55–56, 63).

6.18–27: Judas attacks the citadel. 18: Citadel, see 1.33n. 20: The one hundred fiftieth year began in spring or autumn 163 BCE; the event probably belongs to 163, not 162 BCE (cf. 2 Macc 13.1). Siege towers with other engines were commonly used in Hellenistic times; see 5.30; 6.51–52. 26: Fortified both the sanctuary and Beth-zur, cf. 4.60–61.

6.28–63: Lysias's response. 31: Beth-zur, fortified by Judas (4.61). 32: Beth-zechariah, ca. 7 mi (10 km) north of Beth-zur, between it and Jerusalem. Judas was blocking Lysias's approach to Jerusalem. 34: The elephants are aroused by alcoholic juice; cf. 3 Macc 5.2. 35: Phalanxes, infantry units in sixteen parallel columns sixteen ranks and also its Indian driver.³⁸ The rest of the cavalry were stationed on either side, on the two flanks of the army, to harass the enemy while being themselves protected by the phalanxes.³⁹ When the sun shone on the shields of gold and brass, the hills were ablaze with them and gleamed like flaming torches.

⁴⁰ Now a part of the king's army was spread out on the high hills, and some troops were on the plain, and they advanced steadily and in good order.⁴¹ All who heard the noise made by their multitude, by the marching of the multitude and the clanking of their arms, trembled, for the army was very large and strong.⁴² But Judas and his army advanced to the battle, and six hundred of the king's army fell.⁴³ Now Eleazar, called Avaran, saw that one of the animals was equipped with royal armor. It was taller than all the others, and he supposed that the king was on it.⁴⁴ So he gave his life to save his people and to win for himself an everlasting name.⁴⁵ He courageously ran into the midst of the phalanx to reach it; he killed men right and left, and they parted before him on both sides.⁴⁶ He got under the elephant, stabbed it from beneath, and killed it; but it fell to the ground upon him and he died.⁴⁷ When the Jews^a saw the royal might and the fierce attack of the forces, they turned away in flight.

⁴⁸ The soldiers of the king's army went up to Jerusalem against them, and the king encamped in Judea and at Mount Zion.⁴⁹ He made peace with the people of Beth-zur, and they evacuated the town because they had no provisions there to withstand a siege, since it was a sabbatical year for the land.⁵⁰ So the king took Beth-zur and stationed a guard there to hold it.⁵¹ Then he encamped before the sanctuary for many days. He set up siege towers, engines of war to throw fire and stones, machines to shoot arrows, and catapults.⁵² The Jews^a also made engines of war to match theirs, and fought for many days.⁵³ But they had no food in storage,^b because it was the seventh year; those who had found safety in Judea from the Gentiles had consumed the last of the stores.⁵⁴ Only a few men were left in the sanctuary; the rest scattered to their own homes, for the famine proved too much for them.

⁵⁵ Then Lysias heard that Philip, whom King Antiochus while still living had appointed to bring up his son Antiochus to be king,⁵⁶ had returned from Persia and Media with the forces that had gone with the king, and that he was trying to seize control of the government.⁵⁷ So he quickly gave orders to withdraw, and said to the king, to the commanders of the forces, and to the troops, "Daily we grow weaker, our food supply is scant, the place against which we are fighting is strong, and the affairs of the kingdom press urgently on us.⁵⁸ Now then let us come to terms with these people, and make peace with them and with all their nation.⁵⁹ Let us agree to let them live by their laws as they did before; for it was on account of their laws that we abolished that they became angry and did all these things."

⁶⁰ The speech pleased the king and the commanders, and he sent to the Jews^c an offer of peace, and they accepted it.⁶¹ So the king and the commanders gave them their oath. On these conditions the Jews^a evacuated the stronghold.⁶² But when the king entered Mount Zion and saw what a strong fortress the place was, he broke the oath he had sworn and gave orders to tear down the wall all around.⁶³ Then he set off in haste and returned to Antioch. He found Philip in control of the city, but he fought against him, and took the city by force.

7 In the one hundred fifty-first year^d Demetrius son of Seleucus set out from Rome, sailed with a few men to a town by

^a Gk they

^b Other ancient authorities read in the sanctuary

^c Gk them

^d 161 B.C.

deep wielding long pikes. 43: Eleazar Avaran, Judas's brother (2.5). 49–50: Beth-zur had to be captured before the attack on Jerusalem. The sabbatical year (see Lev 25.2–7) began in autumn 164 BCE, with no harvesting in 163 BCE; cf. v. 53. 55: Philip, see vv. 14–15. 57–59: Threatened by Philip, isolated in Jerusalem, Lysias proposes terms, cancellation of the decree (1.51–60) for Jewish evacuation of Mount Zion (4.60). The letter of 2 Macc 11.22–27 probably reflects this situation. 62: Tear down the wall, Lysias goes beyond the agreement.

the sea, and there began to reign. ²As he was entering the royal palace of his ancestors, the army seized Antiochus and Lysias to bring them to him. ³But when this act became known to him, he said, “Do not let me see their faces!” ⁴So the army killed them, and Demetrius took his seat on the throne of his kingdom.

⁵Then there came to him all the renegade and godless men of Israel; they were led by Alcimus, who wanted to be high priest. ⁶They brought to the king this accusation against the people: “Judas and his brothers have destroyed all your Friends, and have driven us out of our land. ⁷Now then send a man whom you trust; let him go and see all the ruin that Judas^a has brought on us and on the land of the king, and let him punish them and all who help them.”

⁸So the king chose Bacchides, one of the king’s Friends, governor of the province Beyond the River; he was a great man in the kingdom and was faithful to the king. ⁹He sent him, and with him he sent the ungodly Alcimus, whom he made high priest; and he commanded him to take vengeance on the Israelites. ¹⁰So they marched away and came with a large force into the land of Judah; and he sent messengers to Judas and his brothers with peaceable but treacherous words.

¹¹But they paid no attention to their words, for they saw that they had come with a large force.

¹²Then a group of scribes appeared in a body before Alcimus and Bacchides to ask for just terms. ¹³The Hasideans were first among the Israelites to seek peace from them, ¹⁴for they said, “A priest of the line of Aaron has come with the army, and he will not harm us.” ¹⁵Alcimus^b spoke peaceable words to them and swore this oath to them, “We will not seek to injure you or your friends.” ¹⁶So they trusted him; but he seized sixty of them and killed them in one day, in accordance with the word that was written,

¹⁷“The flesh of your faithful ones and their blood

they poured out all around Jerusalem, and there was no one to bury them.”

¹⁸Then the fear and dread of them fell on all the people, for they said, “There is no truth or justice in them, for they have violated the agreement and the oath that they swore.”

¹⁹Then Bacchides withdrew from Jerusalem and encamped in Beth-zaith. And he sent and seized many of the men who had deserted to him,^c and some of the people, and killed them and threw them into a great pit. ²⁰He placed Alcimus in charge of the country and left with him a force to help him; then Bacchides went back to the king.

²¹Alcimus struggled to maintain his high priesthood, ²²and all who were troubling their people joined him. They gained control of the land of Judah and did great damage in Israel. ²³And Judas saw all the wrongs that Alcimus and those with him had done among the Israelites; it was more than the Gentiles had done. ²⁴So Judas^a went out into all the surrounding parts of Judea, taking vengeance on those who had deserted and preventing those in the city^d from going out into the country. ²⁵When Alcimus saw that Judas and those with

^a Gk he

^b Gk He

^c Or many of his men who had deserted

^d Gk and they were prevented

7:1–4: Demetrius becomes king. 1: One hundred fifty-first year, beginning in spring or autumn 162 BCE. Demetrius I Soter (162–150 BCE), son of Seleucus IV (Antiochus IV’s brother), was held hostage in Rome (175–162 BCE). Helped by the historian Polybius, he escaped. A few men, Polybius says sixteen. Town by the sea: Tripolis (2 Macc 14.1), in northern Lebanon. 2: Palace, at Antioch.

7:5–25: Alcimus as high priest. 5: Renegades, Hellenizing opponents of the Maccabees, cf. 1.11. High priest, Alcimus’s predecessor Menelaus, of dubious priestly descent (2 Macc 3.4; 4.23), had bought his office (2 Macc 4.23). Alcimus, of a genuine high-priestly family (7.14; 2 Macc 14.7), was compromised in Maccabean eyes as Hellenizing (7.9; 2 Macc 14.3). 8: Beyond the River, i.e., west of the Euphrates (cf. 3.32; Ezra 4.11). 12: Scribes, i.e., scholars of the Law. 13: The Hasideans (see 2.42n.) apparently joined the scribes and trusted Alcimus, but he mistrusted the Hasideans. 17: Ps 79.2–3. 19: Beth-zaith, location uncertain; either 15 mi (24 km) south or 9 mi (15 km) north of Jerusalem.

him had grown strong, and realized that he could not withstand them, he returned to the king and brought malicious charges against them.

²⁶ Then the king sent Nicanor, one of his honored princes, who hated and detested Israel, and he commanded him to destroy the people. ²⁷ So Nicanor came to Jerusalem with a large force, and treacherously sent to Judas and his brothers this peaceable message, ²⁸ “Let there be no fighting between you and me; I shall come with a few men to see you face to face in peace.”

²⁹ So he came to Judas, and they greeted one another peaceably; but the enemy were preparing to kidnap Judas. ³⁰ It became known to Judas that Nicanor^a had come to him with treacherous intent, and he was afraid of him and would not meet him again. ³¹ When Nicanor learned that his plan had been disclosed, he went out to meet Judas in battle near Caphar-salama. ³² About five hundred of the army of Nicanor fell, and the rest^b fled into the city of David.

³³ After these events Nicanor went up to Mount Zion. Some of the priests from the sanctuary and some of the elders of the people came out to greet him peaceably and to show him the burnt offering that was being offered for the king. ³⁴ But he mocked them and derided them and defiled them and spoke arrogantly, ³⁵ and in anger he swore this oath, “Unless Judas and his army are delivered into my hands this time, then if I return safely I will burn up this house.” And he went out in great anger. ³⁶ At this the priests went in and stood before the altar and the temple; they wept and said,

³⁷ “You chose this house to be called by your name, and to be for your people a house of prayer and supplication.

³⁸ Take vengeance on this man and on his army,
and let them fall by the sword;
remember their blasphemies,
and let them live no longer.”

³⁹ Now Nicanor went out from Jerusalem and encamped in Beth-horon, and the Syrian army joined him. ⁴⁰ Judas encamped in Adasa with three thousand men. Then Judas prayed and said, ⁴¹ “When the messengers from the king spoke blasphemy, your angel went out and struck down one hundred eighty-five thousand of the Assyrians.^c ⁴² So also crush this army before us today; let the rest learn that Nicanor^a has spoken wickedly against the sanctuary, and judge him according to this wickedness.”

⁴³ So the armies met in battle on the thirteenth day of the month of Adar. The army of Nicanor was crushed, and he himself was the first to fall in the battle. ⁴⁴ When his army saw that Nicanor had fallen, they threw down their arms and fled. ⁴⁵ The Jews^b pursued them a day’s journey, from Adasa as far as Gazara, and as they followed they kept sounding the battle call on the trumpets. ⁴⁶ People came out of all the surrounding villages of Judea, and they outflanked the enemy^d and drove them back to their pursuers,^e so that they all fell by the sword; not even one of them was left. ⁴⁷ Then the Jews^b seized the spoils and the plunder; they cut off Nicanor’s head and the right hand that he had so arrogantly stretched out, and brought them and displayed them just outside Jerusalem. ⁴⁸ The people rejoiced greatly and celebrated that day as a day of great gladness. ⁴⁹ They

^a Gk he

^b Gk they

^c Gk of them

^d Gk them

^e Gk these

7.26–50: Judas and Nicanor. 26: Nicanor, possibly the Nicanor of 3.38 (in 2 Macc 14.12 an elephant commander and governor of Judea). 27,30: 1 Macc presents Nicanor as ever-treacherous, 2 Macc 14.18–25 as attempting friendly persuasion. 31: Caphar-salama, Khirbet Selma, ca. 7 mi (11 km) northwest of Jerusalem. 32: Nicanor lost men but remained in control; he demanded the surrender of Judas on pain of burning the Temple (v. 35, and replacing it with a temple to Dionysus, 2 Macc 14.33). 37: Your name, alluding to 1 Kings 8.29. 39: Beth-horon, see 3.16n. 40: Adasa, location uncertain, but somewhere between Beth-horon and Jerusalem. 41: Judas refers to 2 Kings 19.35. 43: Adar, i.e., March, probably 161 BCE. 45: The westward pursuit (cf. 1 Sam 14.31) to decreed that this day should be celebrated each year on the thirteenth day of Adar.

⁵⁰ So the land of Judah had rest for a few days.

8 Now Judas heard of the fame of the Romans, that they were very strong and were well-disposed toward all who made an alliance with them, that they pledged friendship to those who came to them, ² and that they were very strong. He had been told of their wars and of the brave deeds that they were doing among the Gauls, how they had defeated them and forced them to pay tribute, ³ and what they had done in the land of Spain to get control of the silver and gold mines there, ⁴ and how they had gained control of the whole region by their planning and patience, even though the place was far distant from them. They also subdued the kings who came against them from the ends of the earth, until they crushed them and inflicted great disaster on them; the rest paid them tribute every year. ⁵ They had crushed in battle and conquered Philip, and King Perseus of the Macedonians, ^a and the others who rose up against them. ⁶ They also had defeated Antiochus the Great, king of Asia, who went to fight against them with one hundred twenty elephants and with cavalry and chariots and a very large army. He was crushed by them; ⁷ they took him alive and decreed that he and those who would reign after him should pay a heavy tribute and give hostages and surrender some of their best provinces, ⁸ the countries of India, Media, and Lydia. These they took from him and gave to King Eumenes. ⁹ The Greeks planned to come and destroy them, ¹⁰ but this became known to them, and they sent a general against the Greeks ^b and attacked them. Many of them were wounded and fell, and the Romans ^c took captive their wives and children; they plundered them, conquered the land, tore down their strongholds, and enslaved them to this day. ¹¹ The remaining kingdoms and islands, as many as ever opposed them, they destroyed and enslaved; ¹² but with their friends and those who rely on them they have kept friendship. They have subdued kings far and near, and as many as have heard of their fame have feared them. ¹³ Those whom they wish to help and to make kings, they make kings, and those whom they wish they depose; and they have been greatly exalted. ¹⁴ Yet for all this not one of them has put on a crown or worn purple as a mark of pride, ¹⁵ but they have built for themselves a senate chamber, and every day three hundred twenty senators constantly deliberate concerning the people, to govern them well. ¹⁶ They trust one man each year to rule over them and to control all their land; they all heed the one man, and there is no envy or jealousy among them.

^a Or Kittim

^b Gk them

^c Gk they

Gazara (see 4.15n.), the complete annihilation, and the decapitation (cf. 1 Sam 17.54) recall famous past victories. 49: Celebrated each year, but dropped from the calendar after 70 CE. 1 Macc sees this event as introducing a short period of peace; in 2 Macc 15.28–37 it marks the Jewish permanent repossession of Jerusalem.

8.1–16: Eulogy of the Romans. 1 Macc lists Rome's achievements, presenting Rome as an ally against the Seleucids. Several of the details are inaccurate. 1: Friendship, an official term indicating diplomatic relationship. 2: Rome had conquered Gauls south of the Alps by 190 BCE. 3: Spain, Roman exploitation began after Rome defeated Carthage (202 BCE). 4: Kings . . . of the earth, identified in vv. 5–12. 5: Philip V of Macedon was defeated at Cynoscephale in 197 BCE; his son Perseus was defeated at Pydna 168 BCE. 6: The Seleucid Antiochus (III) the Great (223–187 BCE), who according to other sources had fifty-four, not one hundred twenty elephants, was crushed at Magnesia by Scipio Africanus (189 BCE). 7: Antiochus remained free, but by the Treaty of Apamea (188 BCE) paid tribute of twelve thousand talents and gave hostages (including the future Antiochus IV). 8: Rome transferred not India and Media but Asia Minor (including Lydia) to King Eumenes of Pergamum and to Rhodes. 9–10: 1 Macc refers to the Achaean War of 146–145 BCE. Strongholds, particularly Corinth, mercilessly destroyed by L. Mummius. 11: Remaining kingdoms and islands, including Carthage and Sicily. 14: Crown . . . purple, the Roman republic banned kingship and its trappings, but magistrates wore togas with a purple hem. 1 Macc indirectly criticizes Jonathan (10.20,62,64) and Simon (14.43). 15: The Roman senate numbered three hundred and did not meet daily. 16: One man each year, i.e., a consul; in fact there were two.

¹⁷ So Judas chose Eupolemus son of John son of Accos, and Jason son of Eleazar, and sent them to Rome to establish friendship and alliance, ¹⁸ and to free themselves from the yoke; for they saw that the kingdom of the Greeks was enslaving Israel completely. ¹⁹ They went to Rome, a very long journey; and they entered the senate chamber and spoke as follows: ²⁰ “Judas, who is also called Maccabeus, and his brothers and the people of the Jews have sent us to you to establish alliance and peace with you, so that we may be enrolled as your allies and friends.” ²¹ The proposal pleased them, ²² and this is a copy of the letter that they wrote in reply, on bronze tablets, and sent to Jerusalem to remain with them there as a memorial of peace and alliance:

²³ “May all go well with the Romans and with the nation of the Jews at sea and on land forever, and may sword and enemy be far from them. ²⁴ If war comes first to Rome or to any of their allies in all their dominion, ²⁵ the nation of the Jews shall act as their allies wholeheartedly, as the occasion may indicate to them. ²⁶ To the enemy that makes war they shall not give or supply grain, arms, money, or ships, just as Rome has decided; and they shall keep their obligations without receiving any return. ²⁷ In the same way, if war comes first to the nation of the Jews, the Romans shall willingly act as their allies, as the occasion may indicate to them. ²⁸ And to their enemies there shall not be given grain, arms, money, or ships, just as Rome has decided; and they shall keep these obligations and do so without deceit. ²⁹ Thus on these terms the Romans make a treaty with the Jewish people. ³⁰ If after these terms are in effect both parties shall determine to add or delete anything, they shall do so at their discretion, and any addition or deletion that they may make shall be valid.

³¹ “Concerning the wrongs that King Demetrius is doing to them, we have written to him as follows, ‘Why have you made your yoke heavy on our friends and allies the Jews? ³² If now they appeal again for help against you, we will defend their rights and fight you on sea and on land.’”

9 When Demetrius heard that Nicanor and his army had fallen in battle, he sent Bacchides and Alcimus into the land of Judah a second time, and with them the right wing of the army. ² They went by the road that leads to Gilgal and encamped against Mesaloth in Arbela, and they took it and killed many people. ³ In the first month of the one hundred fifty-second year^a they encamped against Jerusalem; ⁴ then they marched off and went to Berea with twenty thousand foot soldiers and two thousand cavalry.

⁵ Now Judas was encamped in Elasa, and with him were three thousand picked men. ⁶ When they saw the huge number of the enemy forces, they were greatly frightened, and many slipped away from the camp, until no more than eight hundred of them were left.

⁷ When Judas saw that his army had slipped away and the battle was imminent, he was crushed in spirit, for he had no time to assemble them. ⁸ He became faint, but he said to those who were left, “Let us get up and go against our enemies. We may have the strength to fight them.” ⁹ But they tried to dissuade him, saying, “We do not have the strength. Let us rather save our own lives

^a 160 B.C.

8.17–32: Alliance with Rome. 17: Eupolemos, grandson of Accos, of a priestly (Ezra 2.61) and diplomatic (2 Macc 4.11) family, may be the Jewish historian Eupolemus who wrote ca. 158 BCE. Jason's son Antipater also served on a mission to Rome (12.16; 14.22). These men had Greek names and presumably spoke Greek. 19: Long journey, over a month, probably in 161 BCE. 20: Allies and friends, Judas aims high; Judea was not even an independent state but subject to the Seleucid king. 22: Bronze tablets, cf. 14.27. 23–30: The format is standard, including mutual assistance in case of foreign aggression (vv. 24,27), prohibition of support for enemies (vv. 26,28), and provision for alterations (v. 30). 31–32: An appended letter from Rome to Demetrius, probably inauthentic.

9.1–22: The death of Judas. This resumes the narrative from 7.50. 1: Bacchides and Alcimus, see 7.19–20; second time, cf. 7.8–20. 2: The topography requires close examination. Gilgal was near Jericho. Mesaloth perhaps transliterates a Heb word for “trails” and in Arbela the Heb for “Mount Bethel.” 3: The one hundred fifty-second year began in spring or autumn 161 BCE. 4: Berea, possibly el-Bireh near Ramallah 10 mi (16 km) north of Je-

now, and let us come back with our kindred and fight them; we are too few.”¹⁰ But Judas said, “Far be it from us to do such a thing as to flee from them. If our time has come, let us die bravely for our kindred, and leave no cause to question our honor.”

¹¹Then the army of Bacchides^a marched out from the camp and took its stand for the encounter. The cavalry was divided into two companies, and the slingers and the archers went ahead of the army, as did all the chief warriors. ¹²Bacchides was on the right wing. Flanked by the two companies, the phalanx advanced to the sound of the trumpets; and the men with Judas also blew their trumpets. ¹³The earth was shaken by the noise of the armies, and the battle raged from morning until evening.

¹⁴Judas saw that Bacchides and the strength of his army were on the right; then all the stouthearted men went with him, ¹⁵and they crushed the right wing, and he pursued them as far as Mount Azotus. ¹⁶When those on the left wing saw that the right wing was crushed, they turned and followed close behind Judas and his men. ¹⁷The battle became desperate, and many on both sides were wounded and fell. ¹⁸Judas also fell, and the rest fled.

¹⁹Then Jonathan and Simon took their brother Judas and buried him in the tomb of their ancestors at Modein,²⁰ and wept for him. All Israel made great lamentation for him; they mourned many days and said,

²¹“How is the mighty fallen,
the savior of Israel!”

²²Now the rest of the acts of Judas, and his wars and the brave deeds that he did, and his greatness, have not been recorded, but they were very many.

²³After the death of Judas, the renegades emerged in all parts of Israel; all the wrongdoers reappeared. ²⁴In those days a very great famine occurred, and the country went over to their side. ²⁵Bacchides chose the godless and put them in charge of the country. ²⁶They made inquiry and searched for the friends of Judas, and brought them to Bacchides, who took vengeance on them and made sport of them. ²⁷So there was great distress in Israel, such as had not been since the time that prophets ceased to appear among them.

²⁸Then all the friends of Judas assembled and said to Jonathan,²⁹“Since the death of your brother Judas there has been no one like him to go against our enemies and Bacchides, and to deal with those of our nation who hate us. ³⁰Now therefore we have chosen you today to take his place as our ruler and leader, to fight our battle.” ³¹So Jonathan accepted the leadership at that time in place of his brother Judas.

³²When Bacchides learned of this, he tried to kill him. ³³But Jonathan and his brother Simon and all who were with him heard of it, and they fled into the wilderness of Tekoa and camped by the water of the pool of Asphar. ³⁴Bacchides found this out on the sabbath day, and he with all his army crossed the Jordan.

³⁵So Jonathan^b sent his brother as leader of the multitude and begged the Nabateans, who were his friends, for permission to store with them the great amount of baggage that they had. ³⁶But the family of Jambri from Medeba came out and seized John and all that he had, and left with it.

^a Gk lacks of Bacchides

^b Gk he

rusalem. 5: Elasa, .6 mi (1 km) from el-Bireh. 15: Mount Azotus, perhaps a corruption of “to the slopes of the mountains.” The whole campaign thus takes place in the central hill country north of Jerusalem. 19: Modein, see 2.1n. 21: Mighty fallen, quoting 2 Sam 1.19. 22: 1 Macc imitates the formulae used in the books of Kings (cf. 1 Kings 11.41; 1 Macc 16.23).

9.23–31: Jonathan succeeds Judas. 23: The author begins the second half of his history with the reappearance of the pro-Seleucid renegades (cf. 1.11,34), who assume control under Bacchides. 27: For 1 Macc, this is the nadir of the post-prophetic age (cf. 4.46n.). 28: Jonathan, apparently the youngest brother (2.5). 30: Ruler and leader, cf. Judg 11.4–11.

9.32–53: Jonathan and Bacchides. The topography of this section, which intertwines the accounts of Bacchides’s pursuit of Jonathan (vv. 32–34,43–49) and a Nabatean-Maccabean vendetta (vv. 35–42), is confusing. 33: Tekoa, Amos’s home (Am 1.1), 11 mi (18 km) south of Jerusalem. 34: Topographically difficult here; probably

³⁷ After these things it was reported to Jonathan and his brother Simon, “The family of Jambri are celebrating a great wedding, and are conducting the bride, a daughter of one of the great nobles of Canaan, from Nadabath with a large escort.” ³⁸ Remembering how their brother John had been killed, they went up and hid under cover of the mountain.

³⁹ They looked out and saw a tumultuous procession with a great amount of baggage; and the bridegroom came out with his friends and his brothers to meet them with tambourines and musicians and many weapons. ⁴⁰ Then they rushed on them from the ambush and began killing them. Many were wounded and fell, and the rest fled to the mountain; and the Jews^a took all their goods. ⁴¹ So the wedding was turned into mourning and the voice of their musicians into a funeral dirge. ⁴² After they had fully avenged the blood of their brother, they returned to the marshes of the Jordan.

⁴³ When Bacchides heard of this, he came with a large force on the sabbath day to the banks of the Jordan. ⁴⁴ And Jonathan said to those with him, “Let us get up now and fight for our lives, for today things are not as they were before. ⁴⁵ For look! the battle is in front of us and behind us; the water of the Jordan is on this side and on that, with marsh and thicket; there is no place to turn. ⁴⁶ Cry out now to Heaven that you may be delivered from the hands of our enemies.” ⁴⁷ So the battle began, and Jonathan stretched out his hand to strike Bacchides, but he eluded him and went to the rear. ⁴⁸ Then Jonathan and the men with him leaped into the Jordan and swam across to the other side, and the enemy^a did not cross the Jordan to attack them. ⁴⁹ And about one thousand of Bacchides’ men fell that day.

⁵⁰ Then Bacchides^b returned to Jerusalem and built strong cities in Judea: the fortress in Jericho, and Emmaus, and Beth-horon, and Bethel, and Timnath, and^c Pharathon, and Tephon, with high walls and gates and bars. ⁵¹ And he placed garrisons in them to harass Israel. ⁵² He also fortified the town of Beth-zur, and Gazara, and the citadel, and in them he put troops and stores of food. ⁵³ And he took the sons of the leading men of the land as hostages and put them under guard in the citadel at Jerusalem.

⁵⁴ In the one hundred and fifty-third year,^d in the second month, Alcimus gave orders to tear down the wall of the inner court of the sanctuary. He tore down the work of the prophets! ⁵⁵ But he only began to tear it down, for at that time Alcimus was stricken and his work was hindered; his mouth was stopped and he was paralyzed, so that he could no longer say a word or give commands concerning his house. ⁵⁶ And Alcimus died at that time in great agony. ⁵⁷ When Bacchides saw that Alcimus was dead, he returned to the king, and the land of Judah had rest for two years.

⁵⁸ Then all the lawless plotted and said, “See! Jonathan and his men are living in quiet and confidence. So now let us bring Bacchides back, and he will capture them all in one night.” ⁵⁹ And they went and consulted with him. ⁶⁰ He started to come with a large force, and secretly sent letters to all his al-

^a Gk they

^b Gk he

^c Some authorities omit and

^d 159 B.C.

a gloss from v. 43. 35: Nabateans, see 5.25n. 36: Family of Jambri, a local tribe. Medeba, ca. 20 mi (32 km) south-southwest of Philadelphia (Amman). John, see 2.1. 37: Nadabath, perhaps a corruption of Medeba. 43: Bacchides comes from the west. 45: Jonathan is on the marshy west bank, with the Jordan curving round him on each side. 48: Jonathan retreats back across the Jordan. 50–52: Bacchides ensures control of the eastern (Jericho), northern/northwestern (Emmaus, Beth-horon, Bethel, Timnath, Pharathon, Tephon), western (Gazara) and southern (Beth-zur) approaches to Jerusalem; see maps on pp. 1560, 1563. 53: Citadel, see 1.33n.

9.54–57: Death of Alcimus. 54: The one hundred and fifty-third year began in spring or autumn 160 BCE. Wall, probably that separating the outer, Gentile court from the inner courts reserved for Jews, perhaps with Hellenizing intentions. Work of the prophets: in what sense precisely is unclear. 57: Two years, presumably ca. 159–158 BCE.

9.58–73: The continuing struggle. 62: Bethbasi, perhaps Khirbet Beit Bassi, ca. 7 mi (11 km) south of Jerusa-lies in Judea, telling them to seize Jonathan and his men; but they were unable to do it, because their plan became known.⁶¹ And Jonathan's men^a seized about fifty of the men of the country who were leaders in this treachery, and killed them.

⁶² Then Jonathan with his men, and Simon, withdrew to Bethbasi in the wilderness; he rebuilt the parts of it that had been demolished, and they fortified it.⁶³ When Bacchides learned of this, he assembled all his forces, and sent orders to the men of Judea.⁶⁴ Then he came and encamped against Bethbasi; he fought against it for many days and made machines of war.

⁶⁵ But Jonathan left his brother Simon in the town, while he went out into the country; and he went with only a few men.⁶⁶ He struck down Odomera and his kindred and the people of Phasiron in their tents.⁶⁷ Then he^b began to attack and went into battle with his forces; and Simon and his men sallied out from the town and set fire to the machines of war.⁶⁸ They fought with Bacchides, and he was crushed by them. They pressed him very hard, for his plan and his expedition had been in vain.⁶⁹ So he was very angry at the renegades who had counseled him to come into the country, and he killed many of them. Then he decided to go back to his own land.

⁷⁰ When Jonathan learned of this, he sent ambassadors to him to make peace with him and obtain release of the captives.⁷¹ He agreed, and did as he said; and he swore to Jonathan^c that he would not try to harm him as long as he lived.⁷² He restored to him the captives whom he had taken previously from the land of Judah; then he turned and went back to his own land, and did not come again into their territory.⁷³ Thus the sword ceased from Israel.

Jonathan settled in Michmash and began to judge the people; and he destroyed the godless out of Israel.

10 In the one hundred sixtieth year^d Alexander Epiphanes, son of Antiochus, landed and occupied Ptolemais. They welcomed him, and there he began to reign.² When King Demetrius heard of it, he assembled a very large army and marched out to meet him in battle.³ Demetrius sent Jonathan a letter in peaceable words to honor him; ⁴ for he said to himself, "Let us act first to make peace with him^e before he makes peace with Alexander against us, ⁵ for he will remember all the wrongs that we did to him and to his brothers and his nation."⁶ So Demetrius^f gave him authority to recruit troops, to equip them with arms, and to become his ally; and he commanded that the hostages in the citadel should be released to him.

⁷ Then Jonathan came to Jerusalem and read the letter in the hearing of all the people and of those in the citadel.⁸ They were greatly alarmed when they heard that the king had given him authority to recruit troops.⁹ But those in the citadel released the hostages to Jonathan, and he returned them to their parents.

¹⁰ And Jonathan took up residence in Jerusalem and began to rebuild and restore the city.¹¹ He directed those who were doing the work to build the walls and encircle Mount Zion with squared stones, for better fortification; and they did so.

^a Gk they

^b Other ancient authorities read they

^c Gk him

^d 152 B.C.

^e Gk them

^f Gk he

lem. 65–66: Simon struck down Odomera and . . . the people of Phasiron (as local supporters of Bacchides?), or by a slight change "summoned" them, in which case the Greek "they" (v. 67; see textual note b) makes sense. 68: Bacchides, besieging Bethbasi, was crushed between attacks from both town and surrounding country. 70–73: Peace is agreed upon, and captives are returned. Michmash, ca. 9 mi (14 km) north-northeast of Jerusalem; cf. 1 Sam 13.23. Judge the people, Jonathan appears as a biblical hero (cf. 1 Sam 7.6), but has no political or priestly office.

10.1–50: Alexander Epiphanes and Demetrius I compete for Jonathan's support. 1: The one hundred sixtieth year probably began in spring or autumn 153, or possibly 152 BCE. Alexander Epiphanes, commonly called Balas, was an impostor who, helped by Eumenes of Pergamum (cf. 8.8), got Rome's support against Demetrius; he ruled until ca. 145. Ptolemais, see 5.15n. 6–8: Hostages . . . released (cf. 9.53), an important concession. 10–11:

¹²Then the foreigners who were in the strongholds that Bacchides had built fled; ¹³all of them left their places and went back to their own lands. ¹⁴Only in Beth-zur did some remain who had forsaken the law and the commandments, for it served as a place of refuge.

¹⁵Now King Alexander heard of all the promises that Demetrius had sent to Jonathan, and he heard of the battles that Jonathan^a and his brothers had fought, of the brave deeds that they had done, and of the troubles that they had endured. ¹⁶So he said, “Shall we find another such man? Come now, we will make him our friend and ally.” ¹⁷And he wrote a letter and sent it to him, in the following words:

¹⁸“King Alexander to his brother Jonathan, greetings. ¹⁹We have heard about you, that you are a mighty warrior and worthy to be our friend. ²⁰And so we have appointed you today to be the high priest of your nation; you are to be called the king’s Friend and you are to take our side and keep friendship with us.” He also sent him a purple robe and a golden crown.

²¹So Jonathan put on the sacred vestments in the seventh month of the one hundred sixtieth year,^b at the festival of booths,^c and he recruited troops and equipped them with arms in abundance. ²²When Demetrius heard of these things he was distressed and said, ²³“What is this that we have done? Alexander has gotten ahead of us in forming a friendship with the Jews to strengthen himself. ²⁴I also will write them words of encouragement and promise them honor and gifts, so that I may have their help.” ²⁵So he sent a message to them in the following words:

“King Demetrius to the nation of the Jews, greetings. ²⁶Since you have kept your agreement with us and have continued your friendship with us, and have not sided with our enemies, we have heard of it and rejoiced. ²⁷Now continue still to keep faith with us, and we will repay you with good for what you do for us. ²⁸We will grant you many immunities and give you gifts.

²⁹“I now free you and exempt all the Jews from payment of tribute and salt tax and crown levies,³⁰ and instead of collecting the third of the grain and the half of the fruit of the trees that I should receive, I release them from this day and henceforth. I will not collect them from the land of Judah or from the three districts added to it from Samaria and Galilee, from this day and for all time. ³¹Jerusalem and its environs, its tithes and its revenues, shall be holy and free from tax. ³²I release also my control of the citadel in Jerusalem and give it to the high priest, so that he may station in it men of his own choice to guard it. ³³And everyone of the Jews taken as a captive from the land of Judah into any part of my kingdom, I set free without payment; and let all officials cancel also the taxes on their livestock.

^a Gk he

^b 152 B.C.

^c Or tabernacles

Jonathan restores the defenses built by Judas (4.60) and destroyed by Lysias (6.62). 12: Strongholds, cf. 9.50–53. 14: Beth-zur, cf. 6.50. 20: We have appointed you . . . high priest, Alexander had no right in Jewish law to do this. King’s Friend, see 2.18n. Purple robe, appropriate both for a Friend and for the high priest (Ex 28.5). Golden crown, a gift: the high priest could wear a golden rosette and a “holy diadem” (Ex 28.36; 29.6) on the turban. 21: Vestments, Ex 28.1–39; 39.1–26. The one hundred sixtieth year here began in spring, as the references to the seventh month and the autumn festival of booths (Lev 23.33–43) require, possibly in 153 but probably in 152 BCE. 22–45: Demetrius offers new, remarkable concessions (vv. 29–45). Some major concessions reappear in Demetrius II’s proposals (11.30–37: the exemption from salt tax and crown levies [v. 29; 11.35], from payments of grain and fruit [v. 30; 11.34]), and therefore were probably not part of Demetrius I’s offer. Demetrius’s astonishing offer of exemption from tribute (v. 29) is not granted until 13.39, as part of a peace agreement. Ceding control of the citadel (v. 32) (in fact never returned but captured by Simon, 13.50), the gift of Ptolemais and its lands (v. 39; cf. v. 1), the annual grant of fifteen thousand shekels of silver (v. 40), are also unlikely concessions at this stage. More realistically, Demetrius I may have conceded tax freedom and inviolability for Jerusalem (v. 31), festivals as days of immunity and release (v. 34), enrollment of Jews in the king’s forces and administration with freedom to live by their own laws (vv. 36–37), the annexation to Judea of three Samaritan districts (v. 38), various provisions for Temple finances and debtors taking sanctuary in the Temple (vv. 41–45), and the costs of restoring the sanctuary and ³⁴ “All the festivals and sabbaths and new moons and appointed days, and the three days before a festival and the three after a festival—let them all be days of immunity and release for all the Jews who are in my kingdom. ³⁵ No one shall have authority to exact anything from them or annoy any of them about any matter.

³⁶ “Let Jews be enrolled in the king’s forces to the number of thirty thousand men, and let the maintenance be given them that is due to all the forces of the king. ³⁷ Let some of them be stationed in the great strongholds of the king, and let some of them be put in positions of trust in the kingdom. Let their officers and leaders be of their own number, and let them live by their own laws, just as the king has commanded in the land of Judah.

³⁸ “As for the three districts that have been added to Judea from the country of Samaria, let them be annexed to Judea so that they may be considered to be under one ruler and obey no other authority than the high priest.

³⁹ Ptolemais and the land adjoining it I have given as a gift to the sanctuary in Jerusalem, to meet the necessary expenses of the sanctuary. ⁴⁰ I also grant fifteen thousand shekels of silver yearly out of the king’s revenues from appropriate places. ⁴¹ And all the additional funds that the government officials have not paid as they did in the first years,^a they shall give from now on for the service of the temple.^b

⁴² Moreover, the five thousand shekels of silver that my officials^c have received every year from the income of the services of the temple, this too is canceled, because it belongs to the priests who minister there. ⁴³ And all who take refuge at the temple in Jerusalem, or in any of its precincts, because they owe money to the king or are in debt, let them be released and receive back all their property in my kingdom.

⁴⁴ “Let the cost of rebuilding and restoring the structures of the sanctuary be paid from the revenues of the king. ⁴⁵ And let the cost of rebuilding the walls of Jerusalem and fortifying it all around, and the cost of rebuilding the walls in Judea, also be paid from the revenues of the king.”

⁴⁶ When Jonathan and the people heard these words, they did not believe or accept them, because they remembered the great wrongs that Demetrius^d had done in Israel and how much he had oppressed them. ⁴⁷ They favored Alexander, because he had been the first to speak peaceable words to them, and they remained his allies all his days.

⁴⁸ Now King Alexander assembled large forces and encamped opposite Demetrius. ⁴⁹ The two kings met in battle, and the army of Demetrius fled, and Alexander^e pursued him and defeated them. ⁵⁰ He pressed the battle strongly until the sun set, and on that day Demetrius fell.

⁵¹ Then Alexander sent ambassadors to Ptolemy king of Egypt with the following message: ⁵² “Since I have returned to my kingdom and have taken my seat on the throne of my ancestors, and established my rule—for I crushed Demetrius and gained control of our country; ⁵³ I met him in battle, and he and his army were crushed by us, and we have taken our seat on the throne of his kingdom—⁵⁴ now therefore let us establish friendship with one another; give me now your daughter as my wife, and I will become your son-in-law, and will make gifts to you and to her in keeping with your position.”

⁵⁵ Ptolemy the king replied and said, “Happy was the day on which you returned to the land of your ancestors and took your seat on the throne of their kingdom. ⁵⁶ And now I will do for you as you wrote, but meet me at Ptolemais, so that we may see one another, and I will become your father-in-law, as you have said.”

^a Meaning of Gk uncertain

^b Gk house

^c Gk they

^d Gk he

^e Other ancient authorities read Alexander fled, and Demetrius

walls of Jerusalem and in Judea (vv. 44–45). 46: Great wrongs, cf. chs 7–9. 47: First to speak, in fact, Demetrius was (v. 3). The Greek perhaps means that Alexander provided the original opportunity for peace. 48–50: This follows from v. 2. The battleground is unknown; see Josephus, Ant. 13.58–61. The date is probably summer 150 BCE.

10.51–66: Alexander, Ptolemy, and Jonathan. 51: Ptolemy VI Philometor (180–145 BCE), cf. 1.18. 54: Daughter, Cleopatra Thea (v. 57). 55: Ptolemy recognizes Alexander’s legitimacy. 56: Ptolemais (cf. v. 1), a symbol of Egypt

⁵⁷ So Ptolemy set out from Egypt, he and his daughter Cleopatra, and came to Ptolemais in the one hundred sixty-second year.^a

⁵⁸ King Alexander met him, and Ptolemy^b gave him his daughter Cleopatra in marriage, and celebrated her wedding at Ptolemais with great pomp, as kings do.

⁵⁹ Then King Alexander wrote to Jonathan to come and meet him. ⁶⁰ So he went with pomp to Ptolemais and met the two kings; he gave them and their Friends silver and gold and many gifts, and found favor with them. ⁶¹ A group of malcontents from Israel, renegades, gathered together against him to accuse him; but the king paid no attention to them. ⁶² The king gave orders to take off Jonathan's garments and to clothe him in purple, and they did so. ⁶³ The king also seated him at his side; and he said to his officers, "Go out with him into the middle of the city and proclaim that no one is to bring charges against him about any matter, and let no one annoy him for any reason." ⁶⁴ When his accusers saw the honor that was paid him, in accord with the proclamation, and saw him clothed in purple, they all fled. ⁶⁵ Thus the king honored him and enrolled him among his chief^c Friends, and made him general and governor of the province. ⁶⁶ And Jonathan returned to Jerusalem in peace and gladness.

⁶⁷ In the one hundred sixty-fifth year^d Demetrius son of Demetrius came from Crete to the land of his ancestors. ⁶⁸ When King Alexander heard of it, he was greatly distressed and returned to Antioch. ⁶⁹ And Demetrius appointed Apollonius the governor of Coelesyria, and he assembled a large force and encamped against Jamnia. Then he sent the following message to the high priest Jonathan:

⁷⁰ "You are the only one to rise up against us, and I have fallen into ridicule and disgrace because of you. Why do you assume authority against us in the hill country?" ⁷¹ If you now have confidence in your forces, come down to the plain to meet us, and let us match strength with each other there, for I have with me the power of the cities. ⁷² Ask and learn who I am and who the others are that are helping us. People will tell you that you cannot stand before us, for your ancestors were twice put to flight in their own land. ⁷³ And now you will not be able to withstand my cavalry and such an army in the plain, where there is no stone or pebble, or place to flee."

⁷⁴ When Jonathan heard the words of Apollonius, his spirit was aroused. He chose ten thousand men and set out from Jerusalem, and his brother Simon met him to help him. ⁷⁵ He encamped before Joppa, but the people of the city closed its gates, for Apollonius had a garrison in Joppa. ⁷⁶ So they fought against it, and the people of the city became afraid and opened the gates, and Jonathan gained possession of Joppa.

⁷⁷ When Apollonius heard of it, he mustered three thousand cavalry and a large army, and went to Azotus as though he were going farther. At the same time he advanced into the plain, for he had a large troop of cavalry and put confidence in it. ⁷⁸ Jonathan^b pursued him to Azotus, and the armies engaged in battle. ⁷⁹ Now Apollonius had secretly left a thousand cavalry behind them. ⁸⁰ Jonathan learned that there was an ambush

^a 150 B.C.

^b Gk he

^c Gk first

^d 147 B.C.

tion presence on the coast. 57: The one hundred sixty-second year, probably summer-autumn 150 BCE. 60: He, i.e., Jonathan; two kings, Alexander and Ptolemy. 65: Chief Friends, promotion, cf. v. 20. General and governor, i.e., military and civil head of the province, i.e., Judea. Jonathan is now a Seleucid official.

10.67–89: Jonathan defeats Apollonius. 67: The one hundred sixty-fifth year probably began in autumn 148 BCE; Demetrius II Nicator came from Crete to Cilicia in spring 147 BCE with Cretan mercenaries led by Lasthenes (cf. 11.32). 68: Returned to Antioch, the Seleucid capital. 69: Apollonius, known from Polybius (Hist. 31.11.19). Coelesyria, originally "hollow Syria" between the Lebanon and Anti-Lebanon ranges, then with wider reference. Jamnia, see 4.15n. Demetrius has to control Jonathan before attacking Alexander. 72: Twice put to flight, perhaps referring to Judas's defeats, 6.47; 9.6–19. 73: No stone or pebble, i.e., for ammunition. 74: Simon (2.3) appears in action for the first time. 75: Joppa (cf. 2 Macc 3–9), on the coast north of Jamnia, Azotus, and As-behind him, for they surrounded his army and shot arrows at his men from early morning until late afternoon.⁸¹ But his men stood fast, as Jonathan had commanded, and the enemy's^a horses grew tired.

⁸² Then Simon brought forward his force and engaged the phalanx in battle (for the cavalry was exhausted); they were overwhelmed by him and fled,⁸³ and the cavalry was dispersed in the plain. They fled to Azotus and entered Beth-dagon, the temple of their idol, for safety.⁸⁴ But Jonathan burned Azotus and the surrounding towns and plundered them; and the temple of Dagon, and those who had taken refuge in it, he burned with fire.⁸⁵ The number of those who fell by the sword, with those burned alive, came to eight thousand.

⁸⁶ Then Jonathan left there and encamped against Askalon, and the people of the city came out to meet him with great pomp.

⁸⁷ He and those with him then returned to Jerusalem with a large amount of booty.

⁸⁸ When King Alexander heard of these things, he honored Jonathan still more;⁸⁹ and he sent to him a golden buckle, such as it is the custom to give to the King's Kinsmen. He also gave him Ekron and all its environs as his possession.

11 Then the king of Egypt gathered great forces, like the sand by the seashore, and many ships; and he tried to get possession of Alexander's kingdom by trickery and add it to his own kingdom.² He set out for Syria with peaceable words, and the people of the towns opened their gates to him and went to meet him, for King Alexander had commanded them to meet him, since he was Alexander's^b father-in-law.³ But when Ptolemy entered the towns he stationed forces as a garrison in each town.

⁴ When he^c approached Azotus, they showed him the burnt-out temple of Dagon, and Azotus and its suburbs destroyed, and the corpses lying about, and the charred bodies of those whom Jonathan^d had burned in the war, for they had piled them in heaps along his route.⁵ They also told the king what Jonathan had done, to throw blame on him; but the king kept silent.⁶ Jonathan met the king at Joppa with pomp, and they greeted one another and spent the night there.⁷ And Jonathan went with the king as far as the river called Eleutherus; then he returned to Jerusalem.

⁸ So King Ptolemy gained control of the coastal cities as far as Seleucia by the sea, and he kept devising wicked designs against Alexander.⁹ He sent envoys to King Demetrius, saying, "Come, let us make a covenant with each other, and I will give you in marriage my daughter who was Alexander's wife, and you shall reign over your father's kingdom."¹⁰ I now regret that I gave him my daughter, for he has tried to kill me."¹¹ He threw blame on Alexander^e because he coveted his kingdom.¹² So he took his daughter away from him and gave her to Demetrius. He was estranged from Alexander, and their enmity became manifest.

¹³ Then Ptolemy entered Antioch and put on the crown of Asia. Thus he put two crowns

^a Gk their

^b Gk his

^c Other ancient authorities read they

^d Gk he

^e Gk him

calon; Jonathan thus separates Apollonius from Demetrius. 82: Simon's forces complete the rout. 83–84: Azotus, see 4.15n. Beth-dagon, lit. "the house of Dagon" (a West Semitic and later a Philistine god) at Azotus/Ashdod; see 1 Sam 5.1–5; cf. Judg 16.23. 1 Macc emphasizes Maccabean hostility to paganism. 86: Askalon, earlier Ashkelon, about 10 mi (16 km) south of Azotus. 88–89: Buckle, to fasten the cloak; cf. 11.58. Kinsmen, see 2.18. Ekron, Tel Miqne, a former Philistine city (Josh 14.3), important for olive oil production. Judea begins to extend her territory.

11.1–19: The end of Ptolemy VI and Alexander. 1: By trickery, Josephus (Ant. 13.106–8) claims that Ptolemy set out as Alexander's ally but changed his mind after Alexander plotted against his life. 4: See 10.84. 5: The king kept silent, needing Jonathan's support. 7: River called Eleutherus, Nahr el-Kebir, north of Tripolis. 8: Seleucia, Antioch's port at the mouth of the Orontes River, founded by Antiochus I. 9: Demetrius II, see 10.67. My daughter, i.e., Cleopatra; see 10.57. 10: Tried to kill me, a reference to the plot (v. 1). 12: Ptolemy was supporting Demetrius to undermine Alexander. 13: Two crowns, Antiochus IV had also wished (1.16) to "reign over both on his head, the crown of Egypt and that of Asia. ¹⁴ Now King Alexander was in Cilicia at that time, because the people of that region were in revolt. ¹⁵ When Alexander heard of it, he came against him in battle. Ptolemy marched out and met him with a strong force, and put him to flight. ¹⁶ So Alexander fled into Arabia to find protection there, and King Ptolemy was triumphant. ¹⁷ Zabdiel the Arab cut off the head of Alexander and sent it to Ptolemy. ¹⁸ But King Ptolemy died three days later, and his troops in the strongholds were killed by the inhabitants of the strongholds. ¹⁹ So Demetrius became king in the one hundred sixty-seventh year.^a

²⁰ In those days Jonathan assembled the Judeans to attack the citadel in Jerusalem, and he built many engines of war to use against it. ²¹ But certain renegades who hated their nation went to the king and reported to him that Jonathan was besieging the citadel. ²² When he heard this he was angry, and as soon as he heard it he set out and came to Ptolemais; and he wrote Jonathan not to continue the siege, but to meet him for a conference at Ptolemais as quickly as possible.

²³ When Jonathan heard this, he gave orders to continue the siege. He chose some of the elders of Israel and some of the priests, and put himself in danger, ²⁴ for he went to the king at Ptolemais, taking silver and gold and clothing and numerous other gifts. And he won his favor. ²⁵ Although certain renegades of his nation kept making complaints against him, ²⁶ the king treated him as his predecessors had treated him; he exalted him in the presence of all his Friends. ²⁷ He confirmed him in the high priesthood and in as many other honors as he had formerly had, and caused him to be reckoned among his chief^b Friends. ²⁸ Then Jonathan asked the king to free Judea and the three districts of Samaria^c from tribute, and promised him three hundred talents. ²⁹ The king consented, and wrote a letter to Jonathan about all these things; its contents were as follows:

³⁰ “King Demetrius to his brother Jonathan and to the nation of the Jews, greetings.

³¹ This copy of the letter that we wrote concerning you to our kinsman Lasthenes we have written to you also, so that you may know what it says. ³² ‘King Demetrius to his father Lasthenes, greetings. ³³ We have determined to do good to the nation of the Jews, who are our friends and fulfill their obligations to us, because of the goodwill they show toward us. ³⁴ We have confirmed as their possession both the territory of Judea and the three districts of Aphairema and Lydda and Rathamin; the latter, with all

^a 145 B.C.

^b Gk first

^c Cn: Gk the three districts and Samaria kingdoms,” the Ptolemaic and the Seleucid, but was prevented by Rome. 14: Cilicia, on the southeast coast of Turkey. 15: Strabo (Geog. 16.2.8) locates the battle on the river Oenoparus near Antioch. 16: Arabia, the great desert east of Damascus and extending into southern Jordan; cf. Gal 1.17. 17: Zabdiel; Diodorus 32.9,10 gives the name Diocles, blaming Alexander’s death on two of his officers. 18: Seriously wounded, Ptolemy died after surgery, having seen Alexander’s severed head (Josephus, Ant. 13.118). Strongholds, cf. 11.3. 19: Demetrius had arrived to claim his crown two years earlier (10.67), and took it in the one hundred sixty-seventh year, probably summer 145 BCE.

11.20–37: Jonathan’s agreement with Demetrius II. 20: Jonathan’s attack on the citadel shows that Demetrius’s promise (10.32), if authentic, was not fulfilled. 23: Jonathan negotiates from a position of strength. 26: Predecessors, i.e., Demetrius I and Alexander. 27: High priesthood, see 10.20n. Other honors, presumably his military and civil rule of Judea (10.65). Chief Friends, cf. Alexander’s honors, 10.65. 28: To free . . . from tribute, a major request; possession of the three districts (10.38) was confirmed, but tribute remission not granted (v. 34). Three hundred talents, in lieu of tribute; a talent weighed about 75 lb (34 kg). 32: Lasthenes, not Demetrius’s father but the general of his Cretan mercenaries. 34: Confirmed as their possession, according to 10.38, specifically under the high priest’s authority. Aphairema (Ephraim in Jn 11.54), Lydda (Lod, Ezra 2.2) and Rathamin (Arimathea in Lk 23.50) lie to the north and northwest of Judea; see maps on pp. 1560, 1563. To all those who offer sacrifice in Jerusalem (i.e., the priesthood), if taken with the preceding words, the revenues of the three districts benefit the priesthood (cf. 10.38); if with the following words (so NRSV), the priests are offered release from taxes on crops and fruit, salt, and crown taxes (v. 35; see 10.29–30). Demetrius is perhaps allowing that Jerusalem shall be “holy the region bordering them, were added to Judea from Samaria. To all those who offer sacrifice in Jerusalem we have granted release from^a the royal taxes that the king formerly received from them each year, from the crops of the land and the fruit of the trees.³⁵ And the other payments henceforth due to us of the tithes, and the taxes due to us, and the salt pits and the crown taxes due to us—from all these we shall grant them release.³⁶ And not one of these grants shall be canceled from this time on forever.³⁷ Now therefore take care to make a copy of this, and let it be given to Jonathan and put up in a conspicuous place on the holy mountain.”

³⁸When King Demetrius saw that the land was quiet before him and that there was no opposition to him, he dismissed all his troops, all of them to their own homes, except the foreign troops that he had recruited from the islands of the nations. So all the troops who had served under his predecessors hated him.³⁹ A certain Trypho had formerly been one of Alexander’s supporters; he saw that all the troops were grumbling against Demetrius. So he went to Imalkue the Arab, who was bringing up Antiochus, the young son of Alexander,⁴⁰ and insistently urged him to hand Antiochus^b over to him, to become king in place of his father. He also reported to Imalkue^b what Demetrius had done and told of the hatred that the troops of Demetrius^c had for him; and he stayed there many days.

⁴¹Now Jonathan sent to King Demetrius the request that he remove the troops of the citadel from Jerusalem, and the troops in the strongholds; for they kept fighting against Israel.⁴² And Demetrius sent this message back to Jonathan: “Not only will I do these things for you and your nation, but I will confer great honor on you and your nation, if I find an opportunity.⁴³ Now then you will do well to send me men who will help me, for all my troops have revolted.”⁴⁴ So Jonathan sent three thousand stalwart men to him at Antioch, and when they came to the king, the king rejoiced at their arrival.

⁴⁵Then the people of the city assembled within the city, to the number of a hundred and twenty thousand, and they wanted to kill the king.⁴⁶ But the king fled into the palace. Then the people of the city seized the main streets of the city and began to fight.

⁴⁷So the king called the Jews to his aid, and they all rallied around him and then spread out through the city; and they killed on that day about one hundred thousand.⁴⁸ They set fire to the city and seized a large amount of spoil on that day, and saved the king.

⁴⁹When the people of the city saw that the Jews had gained control of the city as they pleased, their courage failed and they cried out to the king with this entreaty:⁵⁰ “Grant us peace, and make the Jews stop fighting against us and our city.”⁵¹ And they threw down their arms and made peace. So the Jews gained glory in the sight of the king and of all the people in his kingdom, and they returned to Jerusalem with a large amount of spoil.

⁵²So King Demetrius sat on the throne of his kingdom, and the land was quiet before him.⁵³ But he broke his word about all that he had promised; he became estranged from Jonathan and did not repay the favors that Jonathan^d had done him, but treated him very harshly.

⁵⁴After this Trypho returned, and with him the young boy Antiochus who began to reign and put on the crown.⁵⁵ All the troops that Demetrius had discharged gathered

^a Or Samaria, for all those who offer sacrifice in Jerusalem, in place of

^b Gk him

^c Gk his troops

^d Gk he

and tax-free” (cf. 10.31), the taxes going to support the official rituals. 37: Copy, cf. 8.22; holy mountain, Mount Zion. Note that Demetrius rejects cancellation of tribute, and retains control of the citadel.

11.38–59: The appearance of Trypho. 39: Trypho, “self-indulgent,” the nickname of Diodotus, former officer of Demetrius I and Alexander. Imalkue, possibly son of Zabdiel (11.17). Antiochus, born ca. 150 BCE. 41: Remove the troops, presumably Jonathan had withdrawn his attack (11.20) under the agreement. Strongholds, Beth-zur and Gazara (see 9.52). 42–44: Demetrius agrees, in return for military assistance. Antioch, ca. 300 mi (500 km) north of Jerusalem. 46–48: Josephus (Ant. 13.135–41) describes the fighting. 53: Demetrius reneges and, according to around him; they fought against Demetrius,^a and he fled and was routed.⁵⁶ Trypho captured the elephants^b and gained control of Antioch.⁵⁷ Then the young Antiochus wrote to Jonathan, saying, “I confirm you in the high priesthood and set you over the four districts and make you one of the king’s Friends.”⁵⁸ He also sent him gold plates and a table service, and granted him the right to drink from gold cups and dress in purple and wear a gold buckle.⁵⁹ He appointed Jonathan’s^c brother Simon governor from the Ladder of Tyre to the borders of Egypt.

⁶⁰ Then Jonathan set out and traveled beyond the river and among the towns, and all the army of Syria gathered to him as allies. When he came to Askalon, the people of the city met him and paid him honor.⁶¹ From there he went to Gaza, but the people of Gaza shut him out. So he besieged it and burned its suburbs with fire and plundered them.⁶² Then the people of Gaza pleaded with Jonathan, and he made peace with them, and took the sons of their rulers as hostages and sent them to Jerusalem. And he passed through the country as far as Damascus.

⁶³ Then Jonathan heard that the officers of Demetrius had come to Kadesh in Galilee with a large army, intending to remove him from office.⁶⁴ He went to meet them, but left his brother Simon in the country.⁶⁵ Simon encamped before Beth-zur and fought against it for many days and hemmed it in.⁶⁶ Then they asked him to grant them terms of peace, and he did so. He removed them from there, took possession of the town, and set a garrison over it.

⁶⁷ Jonathan and his army encamped by the waters of Gennesaret. Early in the morning they marched to the plain of Hazor,⁶⁸ and there in the plain the army of the foreigners met him; they had set an ambush against him in the mountains, but they themselves met him face to face.⁶⁹ Then the men in ambush emerged from their places and joined battle.⁷⁰ All the men with Jonathan fled; not one of them was left except Mattathias son of Absalom and Judas son of Chalphi, commanders of the forces of the army.⁷¹ Jonathan tore his clothes, put dust on his head, and prayed.⁷² Then he turned back to the battle against the enemy^d and routed them, and they fled.⁷³ When his men who were fleeing saw this, they returned to him and joined him in the pursuit as far as Kadesh, to their camp, and there they encamped.⁷⁴ As many as three thousand of the foreigners fell that day. And Jonathan returned to Jerusalem.

12 Now when Jonathan saw that the time was favorable for him, he chose men and sent them to Rome to confirm and renew the friendship with them.² He also sent letters to the same effect to the Spartans and to other places.³ So they went to Rome and entered the senate chamber

^a Gk him

^b Gk animals

^c Gk his

^d Gk them

Josephus (Ant. 13.143), demands payment of back taxes. 54: Trypho establishes Antiochus VI. 55: Discharged, Gk “sent to the crows,” suggesting contempt; this rebounded on Demetrius. 57: The four districts, i.e., the three Samaritan districts with Judea (11.34), or perhaps with Ekron (10.89). 58: Gold buckle, cf. 10.89. 59: Jonathan was already governor of Judea (10.65); Simon is now made Seleucid governor of the whole coastal region (with which he was familiar; see 10.74–85) from Ras en-Naqla, north of Ptolemais, to the Egyptian border (cf. Cendebaeus, 15.38).

11.60–74: Campaigns of Jonathan and Simon. 60: Beyond the river, the Greek means that Jonathan toured the province west of the Euphrates. Askalon (see 10.86n.) welcomed Jonathan; Gaza (ca. 12 mi [20 km] south of Askalon) opposed him, as it had Alexander the Great. 63: Kadesh in Galilee, Tell Qades (Josh 12.22). 65–66: Beth-zur, cf. 9.52; 11.41. 67: The waters of Gennesaret, the Sea of Galilee, to the north of which, in the plain of Hazor, Jonathan intended to counter Demetrius at Kadesh. 71: Cf. Josh 7.6–9. 74: This narrative continues in 12.24.

12.1–23: Alliances with Rome and Sparta. 1: The time was favorable, the date is between Antiochus VI’s accession (145 BCE) and Jonathan’s death (142 BCE; 13.23), after Rome’s destruction of the Achaean League in Greece (see 8.9–10n.). Renew, see 8.17–32. 2: The Spartans (v. 2), a militaristic people, the rival of Athens in Greece, whose constitution, founded by the lawgiver Lycurgus, may have seemed to the Jews comparable to the Law of Moses. 3–4: The renewal is assumed; the Romans sent letters to people in every place (compare the list in 15.22–23) requesting safe conduct for the envoys’ return; Josephus preserves a similar letter (Ant. 14.233). 5–18:

and said, “The high priest Jonathan and the Jewish nation have sent us to renew the former friendship and alliance with them.”

⁴ And the Romans^a gave them letters to the people in every place, asking them to provide for the envoys^b safe conduct to the land of Judah.

⁵ This is a copy of the letter that Jonathan wrote to the Spartans: ⁶ “The high priest Jonathan, the senate of the nation, the priests, and the rest of the Jewish people to their brothers the Spartans, greetings.

⁷ Already in time past a letter was sent to the high priest Onias from Arius,^c who was king among you, stating that you are our brothers, as the appended copy shows.

⁸ Onias welcomed the envoy with honor, and received the letter, which contained a clear declaration of alliance and friendship.

⁹ Therefore, though we have no need of these things, since we have as encouragement the holy books that are in our hands, ¹⁰ we have undertaken to send to renew our family ties and friendship with you, so that we may not become estranged from you, for considerable time has passed since you sent your letter to us. ¹¹ We therefore remember you constantly on every occasion, both at our festivals and on other appropriate days, at the sacrifices that we offer and in our prayers, as it is right and proper to remember brothers. ¹² And we rejoice in your glory. ¹³ But as for ourselves, many trials and many wars have encircled us; the kings around us have waged war against us. ¹⁴ We were unwilling to annoy you and our other allies and friends with these wars, ¹⁵ for we have the help that comes from

Heaven for our aid, and so we were delivered from our enemies, and our enemies were humbled. ¹⁶ We therefore have chosen Numenius son of Antiochus and Antipater son of Jason, and have sent them to Rome to renew our former friendship and alliance with them. ¹⁷ We have commanded them to go also to you and greet you and deliver to you this letter from us concerning the renewal of our family ties. ¹⁸ And now please send us a reply to this.”

¹⁹ This is a copy of the letter that they sent to Onias: ²⁰ “King Arius of the Spartans, to the high priest Onias, greetings. ²¹ It has been found in writing concerning the Spartans and the Jews that they are brothers and are of the family of Abraham. ²² And now that we have learned this, please write us concerning your welfare; ²³ we on our part write to you that your livestock and your property belong to us, and ours belong to you. We therefore command that our envoys^a report to you accordingly.”

²⁴ Now Jonathan heard that the commanders of Demetrius had returned, with a larger force than before, to wage war against him. ²⁵ So he marched away from Jerusalem and met them in the region of Hamath, for he gave them no opportunity to invade his own country. ²⁶ He sent spies to their camp, and they returned and reported to him that the enemy^a were being drawn up in formation to attack the Jews^b by night. ²⁷ So when the

^a Gk they

^b Gk them

^c Vg Compare verse 20: Gk Darius

This letter is a fiction concocted by the author; behind it lies the letter of vv. 19–21. 6: Senate (Gk “gerousia”), elsewhere “elders” (cf. 7.33); later the Sanhedrin. Brothers, see vv. 6,11,21. 7: High priest Onias, Arius, either Onias I (323–300 BCE) and Arius I (309–265), though the contact is most unlikely at this date; or Onias III (so Josephus, Ant. 12.225) murdered in 174 BCE (2 Macc 4.34), though there was no contemporary king Arius of Sparta (the author perhaps used the only Spartan royal name known to him). Appended copy, vv. 19–21. 9: Holy books, “the Law and the Prophets and the other books of our ancestors” (Sir Prologue). 11–12: Surely insincere. 13–15: If authentic, tactless, with no reference to Spartan political difficulties. 16: Numenius, Antipater, cf. 8.17n.; 14.22. 17: The sending of ambassadors to Rome also to you is equally undiplomatic. 19–21: This letter is probably inauthentic, though perhaps deriving from a source also known to Josephus (Ant. 12.225–27). 21: Brothers, of the family of Abraham, an idea unlikely from a Spartan king. 23: Livestock and property, most unlikely between Sparta and Judea. Although these letters were fictional, however, the diplomatic contacts they presuppose were real; the Spartan “kinship” is noted in 2 Macc 5.9.

12.24–38: Jonathan’s war with Demetrius, continued. This narrative continues from 11.74. 25: Reference to Jerusalem here and in 11.74 suggests that Jonathan returned south for the winter. 25: Hamath, on the Orontes sun had set, Jonathan commanded his troops to be alert and to keep their arms at hand so as to be ready all night for battle, and he stationed outposts around the camp. ²⁸ When the enemy heard that Jonathan and his troops were prepared for battle, they were afraid and were terrified at heart; so they kindled fires in their camp and withdrew.^a ²⁹ But Jonathan and his troops did not know it until morning, for they saw the fires burning. ³⁰ Then Jonathan pursued them, but he did not overtake them, for they had crossed the Eleutherus river. ³¹ So Jonathan turned aside against the Arabs who are called Zabadeans, and he crushed them and plundered them. ³² Then he broke camp and went to Damascus, and marched through all that region.

³³ Simon also went out and marched through the country as far as Askalon and the neighboring strongholds. He turned aside to Joppa and took it by surprise, ³⁴ for he had heard that they were ready to hand over the stronghold to those whom Demetrius had sent. And he stationed a garrison there to guard it.

³⁵ When Jonathan returned he convened the elders of the people and planned with them to build strongholds in Judea, ³⁶ to build the walls of Jerusalem still higher, and to erect a high barrier between the citadel and the city to separate it from the city, in order to isolate it so that its garrison^b could neither buy nor sell. ³⁷ So they gathered together to rebuild the city; part of the wall on the valley to the east had fallen, and he repaired the section called Chaphenatha. ³⁸ Simon also built Adida in the Shephelah; he fortified it and installed gates with bolts.

³⁹ Then Trypho attempted to become king in Asia and put on the crown, and to raise his hand against King Antiochus. ⁴⁰ He feared that Jonathan might not permit him to do so, but might make war on him, so he kept seeking to seize and kill him, and he marched out and came to Beth-shan. ⁴¹ Jonathan went out to meet him with forty thousand picked warriors, and he came to Beth-shan. ⁴² When Trypho saw that he had come with a large army, he was afraid to raise his hand against him. ⁴³ So he received him with honor and commended him to all his Friends, and he gave him gifts and commanded his Friends and his troops to obey him as they would himself. ⁴⁴ Then he said to Jonathan, "Why have you put all these people to so much trouble when we are not at war?" ⁴⁵ Dismiss them now to their homes and choose for yourself a few men to stay with you, and come with me to Ptolemais. I will hand it over to you as well as the other strongholds and the remaining troops and all the officials, and will turn around and go home. For that is why I am here."

⁴⁶ Jonathan^c trusted him and did as he said; he sent away the troops, and they returned to the land of Judah. ⁴⁷ He kept with himself three thousand men, two thousand of whom he left in Galilee, while one thousand accompanied him. ⁴⁸ But when Jonathan entered Ptolemais, the people of Ptolemais closed the gates and seized him, and they killed with the sword all who had entered with him.

⁴⁹ Then Trypho sent troops and cavalry into Galilee and the Great Plain to destroy all Jonathan's soldiers. ⁵⁰ But they realized that Jonathan had been seized and had perished

^a Other ancient authorities omit and withdrew

^b Gk they

^c Gk he

River in northern Syria. 30: Crossed the Eleutherus river (see 11.7n.), i.e., southwest toward the coast. 31: Zabadeans, cf. Zabdriel (11.17), and modern Zebdani, north-northwest of Damascus (v. 32). 33–34: Simon, in the south (11.64–65) surprises Joppa (previously taken by Jonathan, 10.76) and garrisons it. 35: Strongholds, perhaps those built by Bacchides (9.50) and later deserted (10.12). 36: Still higher, cf. 10.11. The barrier blockading the citadel and its garrison presaged its fall (13.49–52). 37: Valley to the east, the Kidron. Chapfenatha, unidentified. 38: Adida, Hadid (Ezra 2.33) near Lydda (11.34). Shephelah, foothills west of Judea.

12.39–53: Trypho captures Jonathan. 39: King in Asia, cf. 11.13. 40: Beth-shan (see 5.52n.), at a strategic point in the Jordan Valley (5.52). 45: Ptolemais, hostile to the Jews (5.15). Trypho repeats Demetrius's false promise (10.39). Other strongholds, apart from Beth-zur, Joppa, and Adida, already in Jewish hands. 48: Jonathan is seized, but not yet killed (see 13.23). 49: Great Plain, also called the Valley of Jezreel (Judg 6.33) and the plain of Es-along with his men, and they encouraged one another and kept marching in close formation, ready for battle.⁵¹ When their pursuers saw that they would fight for their lives, they turned back.⁵² So they all reached the land of Judah safely, and they mourned for Jonathan and his companions and were in great fear; and all Israel mourned deeply.⁵³ All the nations around them tried to destroy them, for they said, “They have no leader or helper. Now therefore let us make war on them and blot out the memory of them from humankind.”

13 Simon heard that Trypho had assembled a large army to invade the land of Judah and destroy it,² and he saw that the people were trembling with fear. So he went up to Jerusalem, and gathering the people together³ he encouraged them, saying to them, “You yourselves know what great things my brothers and I and the house of my father have done for the laws and the sanctuary; you know also the wars and the difficulties that my brothers and I have seen.⁴ By reason of this all my brothers have perished for the sake of Israel, and I alone am left.⁵ And now, far be it from me to spare my life in any time of distress, for I am not better than my brothers.⁶ But I will avenge my nation and the sanctuary and your wives and children, for all the nations have gathered together out of hatred to destroy us.”

⁷The spirit of the people was rekindled when they heard these words,⁸ and they answered in a loud voice, “You are our leader in place of Judas and your brother Jonathan.⁹ Fight our battles, and all that you say to us we will do.”¹⁰ So he assembled all the warriors and hurried to complete the walls of Jerusalem, and he fortified it on every side.

¹¹He sent Jonathan son of Absalom to Joppa, and with him a considerable army; he drove out its occupants and remained there.

¹²Then Trypho left Ptolemais with a large army to invade the land of Judah, and Jonathan was with him under guard.¹³ Simon encamped in Adida, facing the plain.¹⁴ Trypho learned that Simon had risen up in place of his brother Jonathan, and that he was about to join battle with him, so he sent envoys to him and said,¹⁵ “It is for the money that your brother Jonathan owed the royal treasury, in connection with the offices he held, that we are detaining him.¹⁶ Send now one hundred talents of silver and two of his sons as hostages, so that when released he will not revolt against us, and we will release him.”

¹⁷Simon knew that they were speaking deceitfully to him, but he sent to get the money and the sons, so that he would not arouse great hostility among the people, who might say,¹⁸ “It was because Simon^a did not send him the money and the sons, that Jonathan^b perished.”¹⁹ So he sent the sons and the hundred talents, but Trypho^b broke his word and did not release Jonathan.

²⁰After this Trypho came to invade the country and destroy it, and he circled around by the way to Adora. But Simon and his army kept marching along opposite him to every place he went.²¹ Now the men in the citadel kept sending envoys to Trypho urging him to come to them by way of the wilderness and to send them food.²² So Trypho got all his cavalry draelon (Jdt 1.8), extending from Mount Carmel to the Jordan Valley. 52–53: Mourned, though Jonathan was not dead; blot out the memory, dramatic exaggeration (cf. 3.35).

^a Gk I

^b Gk he

13.1–11: Simon becomes leader. The date is somewhere between the accession of Demetrius II in 145 BCE (11.19) and the regaining of independence in 143 or 142 BCE (13.41). If Jonathan’s campaigns (11.63–74; 12.24–32) belong to 144 BCE, Simon perhaps took over in 143 BCE. 4: Brothers . . . perished, Eleazar (6.46), Judas (9.18), John (9.38); I alone am left, cf. 1 Kings 18.22. Jonathan, however, was still alive (cf. 13.23). 7–8: These verses echo 2.67–68 and 9.28–31. In 2.67–68 Mattathias commissions his sons; in 9.28 the “friends of Judas” appointed Jonathan; now the people appoint Simon, an indication of political development. 10: Simon urgently completes Jonathan’s fortification of Jerusalem (12.35–37). 11: Jonathan son of Absalom, perhaps brother of Mattathias (11.70). Simon strengthens his control of Joppa (cf. 12.33–34). The capture of this harbor was “to crown all his honor” (14.5).

13.12–30: Trypho invades Judea; the death of Jonathan. 13: Adida, see 12.38n. 16: Talents, see 11.28n. 20: Ado-

ready to go, but that night a very heavy snow fell, and he did not go because of the snow. He marched off and went into the land of Gilead.

²³When he approached Baskama, he killed Jonathan, and he was buried there. ²⁴Then Trypho turned and went back to his own land.

²⁵Simon sent and took the bones of his brother Jonathan, and buried him in Modein, the city of his ancestors. ²⁶All Israel bewailed him with great lamentation, and mourned for him many days. ²⁷And Simon built a monument over the tomb of his father and his brothers; he made it high so that it might be seen, with polished stone at the front and back. ²⁸He also erected seven pyramids, opposite one another, for his father and mother and four brothers. ²⁹For the pyramids^a he devised an elaborate setting, erecting about them great columns, and on the columns he put suits of armor for a permanent memorial, and beside the suits of armor he carved ships, so that they could be seen by all who sail the sea. ³⁰This is the tomb that he built in Modein; it remains to this day.

³¹Trypho dealt treacherously with the young King Antiochus; he killed him ³²and became king in his place, putting on the crown of Asia; and he brought great calamity on the land. ³³But Simon built up the strongholds of Judea and walled them all around, with high towers and great walls and gates and bolts, and he stored food in the strongholds. ³⁴Simon also chose emissaries and sent them to King Demetrius with a request to grant relief to the country, for all that Trypho did was to plunder. ³⁵King Demetrius sent him a favorable reply to this request, and wrote him a letter as follows, ³⁶“King Demetrius to Simon, the high priest and friend of kings, and to the elders and nation of the Jews, greetings. ³⁷We have received the gold crown and the palm branch that you^b sent, and we are ready to make a general peace with you and to write to our officials to grant you release from tribute. ³⁸All the grants that we have made to you remain valid, and let the strongholds that you have built be your possession. ³⁹We pardon any errors and offenses committed to this day, and cancel the crown tax that you owe; and whatever other tax has been collected in Jerusalem shall be collected no longer. ⁴⁰And if any of you are qualified to be enrolled in our bodyguard,^c let them be enrolled, and let there be peace between us.”

⁴¹In the one hundred seventieth year^d the yoke of the Gentiles was removed from Israel, ⁴²and the people began to write in their documents and contracts, “In the first year of Simon the great high priest and commander and leader of the Jews.”

⁴³In those days Simon^e encamped against Gazara^f and surrounded it with troops. He

^a Gk For these

^b The word you in verses 37-40 is plural

^c Or court

^d 142 B.C.

^e Gk he

^f Cn: Gk Gaza

ra (Adoraim, 2 Chr 11.9), a Hellenistic town in Idumea, southwest of Beth-zur, held by Simon. 22: Gilead, east of the River Jordan. 23: Baskama, unidentified, perhaps near the Sea of Galilee. 25–29: Modein, see 2.1. Simon builds above the family tomb a typically Hellenistic victory monument, with pyramids, columns, armor (trophies), and carved ships; Simon (perhaps emulating Solomon; see 1 Kings 9.26–28; 10.11–12,22) was signaling Jewish marine ambitions for which the capture of Joppa was important.

13.31–53. Simon regains independence for Judea. 31–32: Trypho . . . became king, killing Antiochus, probably late 143, or 142 BCE. The last known coins of Antiochus VI are dated year 171, i.e., 142–141 BCE. Crown of Asia, cf. 12.39. 33: Strongholds, Simon continues the policy of 11.66; 12.35,38. 34: Plunder: the underlying Heb word (“ṭerepah”) puns on Trypho. 36: High priest, see 14.38,41. Friend of kings, an irregular and suspect phrase. Elders, see 7.33; 12.6n.,35. Nation, 11.30. 37: Gold crown, palm branch, diplomatic gifts, tokens of allegiance (cf. 2 Macc 14.4). General peace, release from tribute, the latter, long sought (cf. 11.28) meant independence. 38: Strongholds, Beth-zur, Adida, Joppa. 39: Crown tax, other tax, ceded already (11.35). 40: Enrolled in our bodyguard, cf. 10.36, which merely allowed enrollment in the king’s forces. 41: Yoke of the Gentiles, i.e., Seleucid rule. The one hundred seventieth year, reckoned from 312 or 311 BCE, began in spring 143 or 142 BCE; the date is therefore 142 or 141 BCE. 42: Documents and contracts, unfortunately none survive. The titles high priest (14.27,38,41), commander (11.59), and leader of the Jews (perhaps the “ethnarch” of 14.47) were conferred by the Seleucids. 43: Gazara, a correction made a siege engine, brought it up to the city, and battered and captured one tower.⁴⁴ The men in the siege engine leaped out into the city, and a great tumult arose in the city.⁴⁵ The men in the city, with their wives and children, went up on the wall with their clothes torn, and they cried out with a loud voice, asking Simon to make peace with them;⁴⁶ they said, “Do not treat us according to our wicked acts but according to your mercy.”⁴⁷ So Simon reached an agreement with them and stopped fighting against them. But he expelled them from the city and cleansed the houses in which the idols were located, and then entered it with hymns and praise.⁴⁸ He removed all uncleanness from it, and settled in it those who observed the law. He also strengthened its fortifications and built in it a house for himself.

⁴⁹ Those who were in the citadel at Jerusalem were prevented from going in and out to buy and sell in the country. So they were very hungry, and many of them perished from famine.⁵⁰ Then they cried to Simon to make peace with them, and he did so. But he expelled them from there and cleansed the citadel from its pollutions.⁵¹ On the twenty-third day of the second month, in the one hundred seventy-first year,^a the Jews^b entered it with praise and palm branches, and with harps and cymbals and stringed instruments, and with hymns and songs, because a great enemy had been crushed and removed from Israel.⁵² Simon^c decreed that every year they should celebrate this day with rejoicing. He strengthened the fortifications of the temple hill alongside the citadel, and he and his men lived there.⁵³ Simon saw that his son John had reached manhood, and so he made him commander of all the forces; and he lived at Gazara.

14 In the one hundred seventy-second year^d King Demetrius assembled his forces and marched into Media to obtain help, so that he could make war against Trypho.² When King Arsaces of Persia and Media heard that Demetrius had invaded his territory, he sent one of his generals to take him alive.³ The general^e went and defeated the army of Demetrius, and seized him and took him to Arsaces, who put him under guard.

⁴ The land^e had rest all the days of Simon. He sought the good of his nation; his rule was pleasing to them, as was the honor shown him, all his days.

⁵ To crown all his honors he took Joppa for a harbor, and opened a way to the isles of the sea.

⁶ He extended the borders of his nation, and gained full control of the country.

⁷ He gathered a host of captives; he ruled over Gazara and Beth-zur and the citadel, and he removed its uncleanness from it; and there was none to oppose him.

⁸ They tilled their land in peace; the ground gave its increase, and the trees of the plains their fruit.

^a 141 B.C.

^b Gk they

^c Gk He

^d 140 B.C.

^e Other ancient authorities add of Judah

for Gk “Gaza” (11.61), which remained independent until 96 BCE. Gazara, garrisoned by Bacchides (9.52), was an important capture. 47: Idols, cf. the treatment of Azotus (5.68). 48: House, an inscription found in Gazara calls for fire to descend on Simon’s palace. 49–50: The citadel (cf. 12.36) is finally starved out and ritually cleansed. 51: Twenty-third day of the second month (lyyar), a major event, dated precisely in late May/early June 142 or 141 BCE, and celebrated annually (mentioned in Megillat Ta’anith, “Scroll of Fasting”). Harps, etc: cf. 4.54. 52: Fortifications of the temple hill, cf. 12.36. 53: John, see 16.1–24.

14.1–3: Exile of Demetrius II. 1: The one hundred and seventy-second year began in autumn 141 BCE, and the campaign in spring 140 BCE. 2: Persia and Media, formerly part of the Seleucid empire, were under Parthian control; Arsaces VI Mithradates I (171–138 BCE) occupied Seleucia on the Tigris. Demetrius attempted to recover Babylonia. 3: Arsaces held Demetrius, but gave him his daughter as wife. Demetrius regained his throne and ruled 129–126 BCE.

14.4–15: Poetic eulogy of Simon. Compare the ode in praise of Judas, 3.3–9. 4: Had rest, cf. Judg 3.30; 5.31; etc. 5: Joppa, 13.11. 6: Extended the borders, Jonathan had added three districts (11.34); Simon settled Jews in ⁹Old men sat in the streets;

they all talked together of good things,
and the youths put on splendid military attire.

¹⁰He supplied the towns with food, and furnished them with the means of defense, until his renown spread to the ends of the earth.

¹¹He established peace in the land,
and Israel rejoiced with great joy.

¹²All the people sat under their own vines and fig trees,
and there was none to make them afraid.

¹³No one was left in the land to fight them, and the kings were crushed in those days.

¹⁴He gave help to all the humble among his people;
he sought out the law,
and did away with all the renegades and outlaws.

¹⁵He made the sanctuary glorious, and added to the vessels of the sanctuary.

¹⁶It was heard in Rome, and as far away as Sparta, that Jonathan had died, and they were deeply grieved. ¹⁷When they heard that his brother Simon had become high priest in his stead, and that he was ruling over the country and the towns in it, ¹⁸they wrote to him on bronze tablets to renew with him the friendship and alliance that they had established with his brothers Judas and Jonathan.

¹⁹And these were read before the assembly in Jerusalem.

²⁰This is a copy of the letter that the Spartans sent:

“The rulers and the city of the Spartans to the high priest Simon and to the elders and the priests and the rest of the Jewish people, our brothers, greetings. ²¹The envoys who were sent to our people have told us about your glory and honor, and we rejoiced at their coming. ²²We have recorded what they said in our public decrees, as follows, ‘Numenius son of Antiochus and Antipater son of Jason, envoys of the Jews, have come to us to renew their friendship with us. ²³It has pleased our people to receive these men with honor and to put a copy of their words in the public archives, so that the people of the Spartans may have a record of them.
And they have sent a copy of this to the high priest Simon.’”

²⁴After this Simon sent Numenius to Rome with a large gold shield weighing one thousand minas, to confirm the alliance with the Romans.^a

²⁵When the people heard these things they said, “How shall we thank Simon and his sons? ²⁶For he and his brothers and the house of his father have stood firm; they have fought and repulsed Israel’s enemies and established its freedom.” ²⁷So they made a record on bronze tablets and put it on pillars on Mount Zion.

^a Gk them

Joppa and Gazara. 7: The capture of Gazara, Beth-zur, and the citadel were major achievements. 8–15: Simon’s Judea is pictured in idyllic and scriptural terms from Lev 26.4; 1 Kings 4.25; Ezek 36.33–36; Mic 4.4; Zech 8.4; and elsewhere. 15: Made the sanctuary glorious, no details are known.

14.16–24: Diplomacy with Rome and Sparta. These verses, interweaving contacts with Rome and Sparta, must be connected with 12.1–23 and 15.15–24, and present many problems. 16: As far away as Sparta, an editorial link between two separate accounts. 18: The Romans wrote, a most unlikely initiative. Probably they were responding to Simon’s initiative described in v. 24. Bronze tablets suggest memorial plaques, not letters. Renew . . . established with . . . Judas and Jonathan, cf. 8.21; 12.1. 20–23: This letter is clearly linked with that of 12.5–18 and seems equally inauthentic. 24: Numenius, cf. 12.16; 14.22; 15.15. His travels are incomprehensible in their present sequence; this visit to Rome to confirm the alliance belongs before the Roman response of 14.8. Gold shield . . . one thousand minas, an enormous gift (weighing more than 1,100 lb [500 kg]) for a small nation.

14.25–49: Decree in honor of Simon. Such decrees were common in the Hellenistic world. They usually record the honorand’s achievements in “whereas” clauses (cf. “since,” v. 29), ending with the decree (“it seemed good to . . .”; cf. “have resolved,” v. 41). 27: A record on bronze tablets, cf. 8.21; 14.18. Mount Zion, 4.37; cf. Ps 2.6. Copy, vv. 27–45 seem partly quotation, partly reportage by 1 Macc. The eighteenth day of Elul, in the one hundred seventy-second year, a Jewish date, 13 September 141 or 140 BCE. Simon’s third year, his first was year 170; cf. 13.41.

This is a copy of what they wrote: “On the eighteenth day of Elul, in the one hundred seventy-second year,^a which is the third year of the great high priest Simon,²⁸ in Asaramel,^b in the great assembly of the priests and the people and the rulers of the nation and the elders of the country, the following was proclaimed to us:

²⁹ “Since wars often occurred in the country, Simon son of Mattathias, a priest of the sons^c of Joarib, and his brothers, exposed themselves to danger and resisted the enemies of their nation, in order that their sanctuary and the law might be preserved; and they brought great glory to their nation. ³⁰ Jonathan rallied the^d nation, became their high priest, and was gathered to his people. ³¹ When their enemies decided to invade their country and lay hands on their sanctuary, ³² then Simon rose up and fought for his nation. He spent great sums of his own money; he armed the soldiers of his nation and paid them wages. ³³ He fortified the towns of Judea, and Beth-zur on the borders of Judea, where formerly the arms of the enemy had been stored, and he placed there a garrison of Jews. ³⁴ He also fortified Joppa, which is by the sea, and Gazara, which is on the borders of Azotus, where the enemy formerly lived. He settled Jews there, and provided in those towns^e whatever was necessary for their restoration.

³⁵ “The people saw Simon’s faithfulness^f and the glory that he had resolved to win for his nation, and they made him their leader and high priest, because he had done all these things and because of the justice and loyalty that he had maintained toward his nation. He sought in every way to exalt his people. ³⁶ In his days things prospered in his hands, so that the Gentiles were put out of the^d country, as were also those in the city of David in Jerusalem, who had built themselves a citadel from which they used to sally forth and defile the environs of the sanctuary, doing great damage to its purity. ³⁷ He settled Jews in it and fortified it for the safety of the country and of the city, and built the walls of Jerusalem higher.

³⁸ “In view of these things King Demetrius confirmed him in the high priesthood, ³⁹ made him one of his Friends, and paid him high honors. ⁴⁰ For he had heard that the Jews were addressed by the Romans as friends and allies and brothers, and that the Romans^g had received the envoys of Simon with honor.

⁴¹ “The Jews and their priests have resolved that Simon should be their leader and high priest forever, until a trustworthy prophet should arise, ⁴² and that he should be governor over them and that he should take charge of the sanctuary and appoint officials over its tasks and over the country and the weapons and the strongholds, and that he should take charge of the sanctuary, ⁴³ and that he should be obeyed by all, and that all contracts in the

^a 140 B.C.

^b This word resembles the Hebrew words for the court of the people of God or the prince of the people of God

^c Meaning of Gk uncertain

^d Gk their

^e Gk them

^f Other ancient authorities read conduct

^g Gk they

28: Asaramel, a corruption (see textual note b), possibly of the title “prince of God’s people.” 30: Became their high priest, 10.20–21. This reference to Jonathan is intrusive in a decree honoring Simon. 31: Enemies . . . invade their country, i.e., Trypho, 13.1. 32: His own money, like other Hellenistic rulers, Simon paid for his army. 33–34: Fortified . . . Judea (12.38; 13.33), Beth-zur (11.65–66), Joppa (12.33–34), Gazara (13.43–48), near Azotus (14.34). 35: This verse, speaking of the people’s actions, divides vv. 34 and 36, which belong together. 36: Gentiles . . . put out, from Beth-zur (11.66), Joppa (13.1), Gazara (13.47), citadel (13.50). 37: Settled Jews in it and fortified it, not mentioned in 13.50. Built the walls of Jerusalem higher, continuing Jonathan’s work (12.36; 13.52). 38–39: 1 Macc reports Demetrius II’s action, not explicitly stated in 13.36–37, and motivation, clearly not original to the decree. 40: The author similarly adds reference to Roman approval of Simon. 41–43: The actual decree making Simon leader (Gk “hegoumenos,” 13.8,42), high priest (“archiereus,” 13.36,42), and governor (“strategos”; cf. 13.42), with civil, religious and military powers. High priest forever, i.e., for life, or to create a priestly dynasty. Until a trustworthy prophet should arise, i.e., to approve this high priesthood or reveal another. 42: Take charge of the sanctuary, repeated later (v. 43) and additional here. 43: All contracts, cf. 13.42. Purple and . . . gold (buckle): the insignia country should be written in his name, and that he should be clothed in purple and wear gold.

⁴⁴ “None of the people or priests shall be permitted to nullify any of these decisions or to oppose what he says, or to convene an assembly in the country without his permission, or to be clothed in purple or put on a gold buckle. ⁴⁵ Whoever acts contrary to these decisions or rejects any of them shall be liable to punishment.”

⁴⁶ All the people agreed to grant Simon the right to act in accordance with these decisions. ⁴⁷ So Simon accepted and agreed to be high priest, to be commander and ethnarch of the Jews and priests, and to be protector of them all. ⁴⁸ And they gave orders to inscribe this decree on bronze tablets, to put them up in a conspicuous place in the precincts of the sanctuary, ⁴⁹ and to deposit copies of them in the treasury, so that Simon and his sons might have them.

15 Antiochus, son of King Demetrius, sent a letter from the islands of the sea to Simon, the priest and ethnarch of the Jews, and to all the nation; ² its contents were as follows: “King Antiochus to Simon the high priest and ethnarch and to the nation of the Jews, greetings. ³ Whereas certain scoundrels have gained control of the kingdom of our ancestors, and I intend to lay claim to the kingdom so that I may restore it as it formerly was, and have recruited a host of mercenary troops and have equipped warships, ⁴ and intend to make a landing in the country so that I may proceed against those who have destroyed our country and those who have devastated many cities in my kingdom, ⁵ now therefore I confirm to you all the tax remissions that the kings before me have granted you, and a release from all the other payments from which they have released you. ⁶ I permit you to mint your own coinage as money for your country, ⁷ and I grant freedom to Jerusalem and the sanctuary. All the weapons that you have prepared and the strongholds that you have built and now hold shall remain yours. ⁸ Every debt you owe to the royal treasury and any such future debts shall be canceled for you from henceforth and for all time. ⁹ When we gain control of our kingdom, we will bestow great honor on you and your nation and the temple, so that your glory will become manifest in all the earth.”

¹⁰ In the one hundred seventy-fourth year^b Antiochus set out and invaded the land of his ancestors. All the troops rallied to him, so that there were only a few with Trypho. ¹¹ Antiochus pursued him, and Trypho^c came in his flight to Dor, which is by the sea; ¹² for he knew that troubles had converged on him, and his troops had deserted him. ¹³ So Antiochus encamped against Dor, and with him were one hundred twenty thousand warriors and eight thousand cavalry. ¹⁴ He surrounded the town, and the ships joined battle from the sea; he pressed the town hard from land and sea, and permitted no one to leave or enter it.

¹⁵ Then Numenius and his companions arrived from Rome, with letters to the kings and countries, in which the following was written: ¹⁶ “Lucius, consul of the Romans, to King Ptolemy, greetings. ¹⁷ The envoys of the Jews have come to us as our friends and allies

^a Or to preside over them all

^b 138 B.C.

^c Gk he

of kings' Friends and high priests (cf. 10.20,89; 14.44). 44–45: Safeguarding Simon's position. 47: Simon agreed to be high priest. . . commander (Gk “strategos”), and ethnarch, an alternate Greek title for “leader of the people.” 48: Bronze tablets, cf. v. 27.

15.1–41: Antiochus VII, Trypho, and Simon. 1: With Antiochus VI dead and Demetrius II captive in Parthia, Demetrius's brother Antiochus VII Sidetes (named after his home town Side in Pamphylia) acceded in 139 or 138 BCE. Islands of the sea, probably Rhodes in the Aegean off the coast of Asia Minor. 2: Priest, ethnarch, cf. 14.47. 5: Remissions, cf. 10.25–45; 11.30–37; 13.38–39. 6: Coinage, a new privilege (but soon withdrawn, v. 27), of minting copper (not silver or gold) coins. No coins of Simon are known. 7: Freedom to Jerusalem and the sanctuary (cf. 10.31; 11.34) may have meant that Jerusalem was to be sacred, with right of asylum, rather than tax exempt. 9: Antiochus clearly assumes that Judea, though with some independence, remains part of his empire. 10: Trypho, cf. 12.39. The one hundred and seventy-fourth year began in autumn 139 BCE; Antiochus set out the following spring. 11: Dor, an ancient port south of Mount Carmel. 15–24: These verses interrupt the account of Antio-

to renew our ancient friendship and alliance. They had been sent by the high priest Simon and by the Jewish people¹⁸ and have brought a gold shield weighing one thousand minas.¹⁹ We therefore have decided to write to the kings and countries that they should not seek their harm or make war against them and their cities and their country, or make alliance with those who war against them.²⁰ And it has seemed good to us to accept the shield from them.²¹ Therefore if any scoundrels have fled to you from their country, hand them over to the high priest Simon, so that he may punish them according to their law.”

²²The consul^a wrote the same thing to King Demetrius and to Attalus and Ariarathes and Arsaces,²³ and to all the countries, and to Sampsames,^b and to the Spartans, and to Delos, and to Myndos, and to Sicyon, and to Caria, and to Samos, and to Pamphylia, and to Lycia, and to Halicarnassus, and to Rhodes, and to Phaselis, and to Cos, and to Side, and to Aradus and Gortyna and Cnidus and Cyprus and Cyrene.²⁴ They also sent a copy of these things to the high priest Simon.

²⁵King Antiochus besieged Dor for the second time, continually throwing his forces against it and making engines of war; and he shut Trypho up and kept him from going out or in.²⁶ And Simon sent to Antiochus^c two thousand picked troops, to fight for him, and silver and gold and a large amount of military equipment.²⁷ But he refused to receive them, and broke all the agreements he formerly had made with Simon, and became estranged from him.²⁸ He sent to him Athenobius, one of his Friends, to confer with him, saying, “You hold control of Joppa and Gazara and the citadel in Jerusalem; they are cities of my kingdom.²⁹ You have devastated their territory, you have done great damage in the land, and you have taken possession of many places in my kingdom.³⁰ Now then, hand over the cities that you have seized and the tribute money of the places that you have conquered outside the borders of Judea;³¹ or else pay me five hundred talents of silver for the destruction that you have caused and five hundred talents more for the tribute money of the cities. Otherwise we will come and make war on you.”

³²So Athenobius, the king’s Friend, came to Jerusalem, and when he saw the splendor of Simon, and the sideboard with its gold and silver plate, and his great magnificence, he was amazed. When he reported to him the king’s message,³³ Simon said to him in reply: “We have neither taken foreign land nor seized foreign property, but only the inheritance of our ancestors, which at one time had been unjustly taken by our enemies.³⁴ Now that we have the opportunity, we are firmly holding the inheritance of our ancestors.³⁵ As for Joppa and Gazara, which you demand, they were causing great damage among the people and to our land; for them we will give you one hundred talents.”

^a Gk He

^b The name is uncertain

^c Gk him

chus’s pursuit of Trypho and clearly belong with 14.24. 16: Lucius, possibly Lucius Caecilius Metellus, consul in Rome 142 BCE, or Lucius Valerius Flaccus, praetor 134 BCE and consul 131 BCE, with whom Josephus (Ant. 145–148) associates an almost identical Jewish mission (though dating it to Hyrcanus II’s time [63–40 BCE]). Josephus has perhaps confused consuls and dating. 18: Weighing one thousand minas (see 14.24n.), according to Josephus (Ant. 14.147), “worth fifty thousand gold pieces.” 22: Demetrius II, cf. 11.19; 14.1; Attalus II (159–38) of Pergamum; Ariarathes V (162–131) of Cappadocia; Arsaces, cf. 14.2. 23: A list of independent cities and states: Sampsames, possibly Samsun on the Black Sea. In Greece: the Spartans (see 12.2), and Sicyon, on the Gulf of Corinth. Aegean islands: Delos, a free port, notorious for its slave trade, with a Jewish population and synagogue; Samos; Rhodes (cf. Acts 21.1); Cos (cf. Acts 21.1). Crete: Gortyna. On the southwest coast of modern Turkey: Caria and Lycia, states; Myndos; Halicarnassus, birthplace of the Greek historian Herodotus; Cnidus. On the south coast of Turkey: Pamphylia (cf. Acts 13.13); Phaselis; Side (cf. 15.1n.), later notorious for piracy. Phoenician coast: Aradus. Eastern Mediterranean: Cyprus. North Africa: Cyrene (cf. Mark 15.21). Ptolemy VIII of Egypt claimed these last two for his empire. 25: For the second time, an inaccurate gloss probably caused by the intrusion of vv. 15–24 into this narrative. 26: Simon sends military aid to Antiochus, thus accepting his political allegiance. 27: Agreements, cf. vv. 5–9. 28: Joppa, Gazara, and the citadel were Seleucid possessions before Simon took them, and Antiochus’s claims (vv. 30–31) had some justification. 31: Or else suggests that Antiochus was open to negotiation. Talents, Athenobius^a did not answer him a word,³⁶ but returned in wrath to the king and reported to him these words, and also the splendor of Simon and all that he had seen. And the king was very angry.

³⁷Meanwhile Trypho embarked on a ship and escaped to Orthosia.³⁸ Then the king made Cendebeus commander-in-chief of the coastal country, and gave him troops of infantry and cavalry.³⁹ He commanded him to encamp against Judea, to build up Kedron and fortify its gates, and to make war on the people; but the king pursued Trypho.⁴⁰ So Cendebeus came to Jamnia and began to provoke the people and invade Judea and take the people captive and kill them.⁴¹ He built up Kedron and stationed horsemen and troops there, so that they might go out and make raids along the highways of Judea, as the king had ordered him.

16 John went up from Gazara and reported to his father Simon what Cendebeus had done.² And Simon called in his two eldest sons Judas and John, and said to them: “My brothers and I and my father’s house have fought the wars of Israel from our youth until this day, and things have prospered in our hands so that we have delivered Israel many times.³ But now I have grown old, and you by Heaven’s^b mercy are mature in years. Take my place and my brother’s, and go out and fight for our nation, and may the help that comes from Heaven be with you.”

⁴So John^c chose out of the country twenty thousand warriors and cavalry, and they marched against Cendebeus and camped for the night in Modein.⁵ Early in the morning they started out and marched into the plain, where a large force of infantry and cavalry

was coming to meet them; and a stream lay between them.⁶ Then he and his army lined up against them. He saw that the soldiers were afraid to cross the stream, so he crossed over first; and when his troops saw him, they crossed over after him.⁷ Then he divided the army and placed the cavalry in the center of the infantry, for the cavalry of the enemy were very numerous.⁸ They sounded the trumpets, and Cendebeus and his army were put to flight; many of them fell wounded and the rest fled into the stronghold.⁹ At that time Judas the brother of John was wounded, but John pursued them until Cendebeus^d reached Kedron, which he had built.¹⁰ They also fled into the towers that were in the fields of Azotus, and John^d burned it with fire, and about two thousand of them fell. He then returned to Judea safely.

¹¹Now Ptolemy son of Abubus had been appointed governor over the plain of Jericho; he had a large store of silver and gold,¹² for he was son-in-law of the high priest.¹³ His heart was lifted up; he determined to get control of the country, and made treacherous plans against Simon and his sons, to do away with them.¹⁴ Now Simon was visiting the towns of the country and attending to their needs, and he went down to Jericho with his sons Mattathias and Judas, in the one hundred seventy-seventh year,^e in the eleventh month, which is the month of Shebat.¹⁵ The son of Abubus received them treacherously

^a Gk He

^b Gk his

^c Other ancient authorities read he

^d Gk he

^e 134 B.C.

see 11.28n. 32: Gold and silver plate, the gifts of Trypho (11.58), provocatively displayed. 35: Simon is prepared to negotiate over Joppa and Gazara. 37: Orthosia, a Phoenician city north of Tripolis. 38: Commander-in-chief of the coastal country, Simon was governor (“strategos”) of the coast south of the Ladder of Tyre (cf. 11.59); Antiochus apparently replaces him with the higher ranking (“epistrategos”) Cendebaeus. 39: Kedron, cf. 16.9, near Jamnia, perhaps the village of Qatra. 40: Jamnia, cf. 4.15n.; 10.69.

16.1–10: John defeats Cendebaeus. 1: Gazara, John’s home, cf. 13.53. 2–3: Cf. Mattathias’s speech, 2.49–68. 4: Modein, see 2.1n. 8: Stronghold, i.e., Kedron, cf. v. 9; 15.39. 10: Azotus, burned by Jonathan (10.84). These verses give a confusing picture.

16.11–22: The deaths of Simon and his sons Mattathias and Judas, and the accession of John Hyrcanus. 11–12: Ptolemy son of Abubus, Hellenized Semitic names. His wealth came from his governorship of the rich plain of Jericho (cf. Gen 13.10) and his father-in-law’s income. 14: Though retired (v. 3) Simon is still active. Mattathias and Judas, probably named after Simon’s father and uncle. Shebat, the date, cast in Jewish form, is in the little stronghold called Dok, which he had built; he gave them a great banquet, and hid men there. ¹⁶When Simon and his sons were drunk, Ptolemy and his men rose up, took their weapons, rushed in against Simon in the banquet hall and killed him and his two sons, as well as some of his servants. ¹⁷So he committed an act of great treachery and returned evil for good.

¹⁸Then Ptolemy wrote a report about these things and sent it to the king, asking him to send troops to aid him and to turn over to him the towns and the country. ¹⁹He sent other troops to Gazara to do away with John; he sent letters to the captains asking them to come to him so that he might give them

silver and gold and gifts; ²⁰and he sent other troops to take possession of Jerusalem and the temple hill. ²¹But someone ran ahead and reported to John at Gazara that his father and brothers had perished, and that “he has sent men to kill you also.” ²²When he heard this, he was greatly shocked; he seized the men who came to destroy him and killed them, for he had found out that they were seeking to destroy him.

²³The rest of the acts of John and his wars and the brave deeds that he did, and the building of the walls that he completed, and his achievements, ²⁴are written in the annals of his high priesthood, from the time that he became high priest after his father.

January/February 135 or 134 BCE. 15: Dok, the fortress on the Mount of Temptation above the spring ‘Ain Duk, overlooking Jericho. 19: Gazara, John’s home (cf. v. 1), ca. 34 mi (55 km) west of Jericho. 20: Ptolemy’s plot failed, information reaching John before Ptolemy could take control. Ptolemy retreated to Dok, where John besieged him, and then fled to Philadelphia (Amman); Josephus, Ant. 13.230–235.

16.23–24: Epilogue. Compare the epilogue to Judas’s career, 9.22. These verses imitate summaries familiar from 1–2 Kings, e.g., 2 Kings 14.28–29. 23: John is presented as a worthy successor, with his brave deeds and building of the walls (probably walls destroyed by Antiochus VII, [Josephus, Ant. 13.247], who invaded Judea in 134 BCE, cf. his threat, 15.31). 24: The author prefers not to describe John’s career, referring the reader to annals: any existing were probably lost when the Romans destroyed the Temple (70 CE). John’s high priesthood (134–104 BCE) appears to be in the past. 1 Macc was perhaps written during his high priesthood and completed shortly after it.

2 MACCABEES

TITLE

The title Maccabees derives from Heb maqqabi, “hammer” (cf. Isa 44.12), the nickname given to Judas Maccabeus, the leader of the Jewish revolt that the story narrates. The original Greek title was “Book Recounting the Matters Pertaining to Maccabeus.” The titles of the two main manuscripts of this work specifically refer to “the deeds of Judas Maccabeus” (terming it, respectively, an “epistle” or an “epitome” about those deeds). This title is especially appropriate for this work, in contrast to 1 Maccabees, which develops the history of several subsequent members of the Hasmonean dynasty after Judas.

CANONICAL STATUS

Second Maccabees is part of the Roman Catholic canon and Eastern Orthodox canons and the Protestant Apocrypha, but has no sacred status in Judaism. The text survived as part of the Septuagint (LXX), the Greek version of the Hebrew scriptures.

DATE, AUTHORSHIP, AND LITERARY HISTORY

In the introduction, the author tells us that the work is an abridgement of a longer work, now lost, written by Jason of Cyrene. Jason, otherwise unknown probably wrote in the mid-second century BCE, within a decade or so of the last events described in the work. The present abridgement was produced not long thereafter, around the same time as 1 Maccabees. Whereas 1 Maccabees was originally composed in Hebrew, 2 Maccabees was composed in Greek.

STRUCTURE AND CONTENTS

The body of the work (chs 4–15) deals with Judean history from King Antiochus IV Epiphanes’ ascent to the Seleucid throne in 175 BCE to Judas Maccabeus’s victory over the Seleucid general Nicanor in 161 BCE. It is prefaced (chs 1–2) by Palestinian letters urging the Jews of Egypt to celebrate the festival of Hanukkah, which commemorates Judas’s purification and rededication of the Temple of Jerusalem in 164 BCE; by the abridger’s introduction (2.19–32); and by a story (ch 3) about the way the Temple was miraculously preserved from desecration in the days of Antiochus’s predecessor, an episode that in its present context serves as something of an idyllic prologue to the book’s main story.

Chapter 4 begins that story with the introduction of Hellenized institutions into Jerusalem, which, according to the author, engendered sinful neglect of true Judaism. God, in response, “disregarded” (5.17) Jerusalem, i.e., suspended his providential care for it and thus allowed terrible things to happen, culminating in Antiochus’s decrees against Judaism. These decrees then led to the noble martyrdom of those who refused to obey (chs 6–7).

Beginning in ch 8, however, God’s anger changes to mercy (8.5; the pivotal verse of the book), and things go dramatically uphill: Judas Maccabeus wins battle after battle, Antiochus dies a terrible death (ch 9), Judas retakes Jerusalem and restores proper worship in the Temple (ch 10), and further victories bring about the repeal of Antiochus’s decrees against Judaism (ch 11). More campaigns follow (chs 12–13) until the Seleucid army, commanded by Nicanor, is finally and decisively defeated. The book ends with the establishment of a holiday, “Nicanor’s Day,” to commemorate that event.

Accordingly, the main part of the book has two parts, in each of which, in the tradition of biblical dual causality, history and theology coincide. Chapters 4–7 present the problem: sin leads to persecution and Antiochus has the upper hand, while chs 8–15 present the solution: atonement makes for “reconciliation” (5.20; 7.33; 8.29) between the Jews and God, and Judas wins victory after victory until the circle is completed. The narrative opens in 3.1 with “the city” being once upon a time in ideal circumstances, and closes with the announcement in 15.37 that “the city” was restored to (other) ideal circumstances and so remained happily ever after.

INTERPRETATION

The book is a fascinating blend of Hellenism and Judaism. It was composed in the literary Greek of its day, comparable to that of the second-century BCE Greek historian Polybius, and has numerous allusions to Greek literature. For example, the author compares Antiochus's arrogance to that of the Persian king Xerxes (5.21; 9.8), portrays his heroes as complete Hellenistic gentlemen (4.37; 15.12,30), depicts his central martyr as a Jewish Socrates, and throughout the story, focuses upon Jerusalem as the Jews' polis, portraying Antiochus as a "barbarian" who tried to change the city's "constitution" and forbid Jews to "act as citizens" (6.1) according to Jewish law. But it is also a very Jewish book; its basic interpretative model is the Song of Moses (Deut 32), according to which God providentially cares for the Jews but hides his face when they sin, thus allowing foreigners to persecute them until the shedding of "his servants'" blood works atonement, so that God steps in, revenges himself upon their enemies, and restores his providential care for them. The author composes several substantial excurses (4.16–17; 5.17–20; 6.12–17), as well as various shorter remarks (e.g., 8.5; 9.13) to make sure readers understand his interpretation of events.

In addition to providing a parallel witness to the events reported in 1 Macc 1–7, this work (apart from the two introductory epistles) also bears witness to Judaism in the Hellenistic Diaspora. While those opening epistles have much in common with 1 Maccabees, the body of the book aligns more easily with such Diaspora works as 3 Maccabees, the Letter of Aristeas, and the works of Philo. This affinity is especially evident in the book's rosy picture of the Jews' usual relations with Gentiles (e.g. 4.35–36,49; contrast 1 Macc 5.1–2; 12.53), its assumption that Gentile rulers are usually benevolent (3.1–3; 5.16; contrast 1 Macc 1.9), its relative lack of interest in the Temple rituals (contrast 5.16 with the detail in 1 Macc 1.21–22 and note 2 Maccabees' emphasis upon God's residence in heaven in 3.39; 14.35), its high esteem for martyrs (see 6.11n.), and its insistence upon the priority of the people rather than the place (5.19; see also 5.6n).

Daniel R. Schwartz

1 The Jews in Jerusalem and those in the land of Judea,

To their Jewish kindred in Egypt,
Greetings and true peace.

² May God do good to you, and may he remember his covenant with Abraham and Isaac and Jacob, his faithful servants. ³ May he give you all a heart to worship him and to do his will with a strong heart and a willing spirit. ⁴ May he open your heart to his law and his commandments, and may he bring peace. ⁵ May he hear your prayers and be reconciled to you, and may he not forsake you in time of evil. ⁶ We are now praying for you here.

⁷ In the reign of Demetrius, in the one hundred sixty-ninth year,^a we Jews wrote to you, in the critical distress that came upon us in those years after Jason and his company revolted from the holy land and the kingdom⁸ and burned the gate and shed innocent blood. We prayed to the Lord and were heard, and we offered sacrifice and grain offering, and we lit the lamps and set out the loaves.⁹ And now see that you keep the festival of booths in the month of Chislev, in the one hundred eighty-eighth year.^b

^a 143 B.C.

^b 124 B.C.

1.1–9: Letter to the Jews in Egypt. This letter from Jerusalem invites the Jews of Egypt to observe the Hanukkah festival by referring to a previous letter written in the one hundred sixty-ninth year of the Seleucid era (v. 7), in the reign of Demetrius II, i.e., 143/142 BCE, which overlapped the first year of Hasmonean independence, according to 1 Macc 13.41. The letter portrays the Jews' troubles as having begun with Jason's revolt against the kingdom (v. 7), i.e., the kingdom of God; see ch 4. Thus, this epistle was written as something of a cover letter accompanying the body of the work, in an attempt to convince the Jews of Egypt to join in celebrating the Hasmoneans' victory. 2: See Gen 15.18; 26.3; 35.12. 8: Lit the lamps and set out the loaves, as mandated by Lev 24.1–9; see 10.3. 9: Festival of booths in the month of Chislev, i.e., Hanukkah. The festival of booths (or tabernacles; Heb "Sukkoth") is celebrated in the autumn month of Tishri (September); Chislev (November/December) of 164 is when Judas retook the Temple, purified it, and rededicated it in a celebration reminiscent of that of the autumn festival (see 10.6–7). In the one hundred eighty-eighth year, if this date, ca. 124 BCE, is authentic, then this letter is quoting one of 143/142 BCE. But the date may be corrupt.

¹⁰The people of Jerusalem and of Judea and the senate and Judas,

To Aristobulus, who is of the family of the anointed priests, teacher of King Ptolemy, and to the Jews in Egypt,

Greetings and good health.

¹¹Having been saved by God out of grave dangers we thank him greatly for taking our side against the king,^a ¹²for he drove out those who fought against the holy city. ¹³When the leader reached Persia with a force that seemed irresistible, they were cut to pieces in the temple of Nanea by a deception employed by the priests of the goddess^b Nanea. ¹⁴On the pretext of intending to marry her, Antiochus came to the place together with his Friends, to secure most of its treasures as a dowry. ¹⁵When the priests of the temple of Nanea had set out the treasures and Antiochus had come with a few men inside the wall of the sacred precinct, they closed the temple as soon as he entered it. ¹⁶Opening a secret door in the ceiling, they threw stones and struck down the leader and his men; they dismembered them and cut off their heads and threw them to the people outside. ¹⁷Blessed in every way be our God, who has brought judgment on those who have behaved impiously.

¹⁸Since on the twenty-fifth day of Chislev we shall celebrate the purification of the temple, we thought it necessary to notify you, in order that you also may celebrate the festival of booths and the festival of the fire given when Nehemiah, who built the temple and the altar, offered sacrifices.

¹⁹For when our ancestors were being led captive to Persia, the pious priests of that time took some of the fire of the altar and secretly hid it in the hollow of a dry cistern, where they took such precautions that the place was unknown to anyone. ²⁰But after many years had passed, when it pleased God, Nehemiah, having been commissioned by the king of Persia, sent the descendants of the priests who had hidden the fire to get it. And when they reported to us that they had not found fire but only a thick liquid, he ordered them to dip it out and bring it. ²¹When the materials for the sacrifices were presented, Nehemiah ordered the priests to sprinkle the liquid on the wood and on the things laid upon it. ²²When this had been done and some time had passed,

^a Cn: Gk as those who array themselves against a king

^b Gk lacks the goddess

1.10–2.18: Another letter to the Jews of Egypt. This letter focuses on the history of the fire on the altar of the Temple of Jerusalem, working backward from Nehemiah through Jeremiah to Solomon. It claims that the fire that descended from heaven in the days of Solomon (2.10; 2 Chr 7.3) was hidden by pious priests at the time of the destruction of the First Temple (1.19). At the time of the restoration, it was found by Nehemiah, after a metamorphosis into a viscous and combustible liquid (1.20–36). He used some of it to rekindle the fire on the altar of the Second Temple, while the rest of it was preserved in rocks (1.31–32), from which Judas would eventually extract it when rededicating the Temple (10.3). So the restored Temple still had the original fire that descended from heaven. Thus, this letter constitutes an extended argument for the legitimacy of the Second Temple by connecting Nehemiah's restoration and Judas's rededication to Solomon's original dedication. 10: The senate, lit. "council of elders." Judas Maccabeus; this letter is presented as if it were written in contemplation of the first Hanukkah or perhaps its first anniversary. Aristobulus was an Alexandrian Jewish philosopher and biblical exegete in the days of Ptolemy VI Philometor, king of Egypt, 180–145 BCE. By naming him merely "Ptolemy" the Judean authors show how little they care about that foreign king; contrast the use of "Philometor" in the body of the book (4.21; 9.29).

1.11–16: Antiochus Epiphanes' death in Persia. For other versions of Antiochus's death during his eastern campaign, taken here to be part of God's rescue of the Jews, see ch 9 and 1 Macc 6.1–16. 14: His Friends, courtiers of high rank; cf. 7.24; 14.11. This is not the only case of a fictive "sacred marriage" being used as a pretext to obtain money from a sanctuary. 18: The festival of booths, cf. 1 Macc 10.21; 1 Kings 8.2; Neh 8.13–18.

1.19–36: The latest link: the preservation of the fire. This story assumes that Nehemiah rebuilt the Second Temple. In fact, he was active in the mid-fifth century BCE, several generations after the construction of the Second Temple. The mistake was common in Jewish tradition, which frequently remembered the Persian period as shorter than it really was. 19: Persia, the exiles were actually led to Babylonia (cf. 2 Kings 24.14), which later became part of the Persian empire. 20: Nehemiah . . . commissioned, Neh 2.7–8. 22: The sun . . . a great fire blazed and when the sun, which had been clouded over, shone out, a great fire blazed up, so that all marveled.²³ And while the sacrifice was being consumed, the priests offered prayer—the priests and everyone. Jonathan led, and the rest responded, as did Nehemiah.²⁴ The prayer was to this effect:

“O Lord, Lord God, Creator of all things, you are awe-inspiring and strong and just and merciful, you alone are king and are kind,²⁵ you alone are bountiful, you alone are just and almighty and eternal. You rescue Israel from every evil; you chose the ancestors and consecrated them.²⁶ Accept this sacrifice on behalf of all your people Israel and preserve your portion and make it holy.²⁷ Gather together our scattered people, set free those who are slaves among the Gentiles, look on those who are rejected and despised, and let the Gentiles know that you are our God.²⁸ Punish those who oppress and are insolent with pride.²⁹ Plant your people in your holy place, as Moses promised.”

³⁰ Then the priests sang the hymns.

³¹ After the materials of the sacrifice had been consumed, Nehemiah ordered that the liquid that was left should be poured on large stones.³² When this was done, a flame blazed up; but when the light from the altar shone back, it went out.³³ When this matter became known, and it was reported to the king of the Persians that, in the place where the exiled priests had hidden the fire, the liquid had appeared with which Nehemiah and his associates had burned the materials of the sacrifice,³⁴ the king investigated the matter, and enclosed the place and made it sacred.

³⁵ And with those persons whom the king favored he exchanged many excellent gifts.

³⁶ Nehemiah and his associates called this “nephthar,” which means purification, but by most people it is called naphtha.^a

2 One finds in the records that the prophet Jeremiah ordered those who were being deported to take some of the fire, as has been mentioned,² and that the prophet, after giving them the law, instructed those who were being deported not to forget the commandments of the Lord, or to be led astray in their thoughts on seeing the gold and silver statues and their adornment.³ And with other similar words he exhorted them that the law should not depart from their hearts.

⁴ It was also in the same document that the prophet, having received an oracle, ordered that the tent and the ark should follow with him, and that he went out to the mountain where Moses had gone up and had seen the inheritance of God.⁵ Jeremiah came and found a cave-dwelling, and he brought there the tent and the ark and the altar of incense; then he sealed up the entrance.⁶ Some of those who followed him came up intending to mark the way, but could not find it.⁷ When Jeremiah learned of it, he rebuked them and declared: “The place shall remain unknown until God gathers his people together again and shows his mercy.⁸ Then the Lord will disclose these things, and the glory of the Lord and the cloud will appear, as they were shown in the case of Moses, and as Solomon asked that the place should be specially consecrated.”

⁹ It was also made clear that being possessed of wisdom Solomon^b offered sacrifice

^a Gk nephthai

^b Gk he

up, with no human involvement, as in the days of Solomon (2.10; 2 Chr 7.3). The story also echoes one about Elijah in 1 Kings 18.33–38. 23: Jonathan is unknown, although it may refer to Mattaniah “who was the leader to begin the thanksgiving in prayer” (Neh 11.17) and whose name, like Jonathan, also means “God’s gift” in Hebrew. 27: Gather . . . set free those who are slaves among the Gentiles, this Judean attitude contrasts diametrically with that of the Diaspora author of the body of the book. 29: As Moses promised, Ex 15.17; Deut 30.5. 34: The Persians considered fire holy and sometimes enclosed sites of sacred fire. 36: “Nephthar,” which means purification, this etymology is obscure but Hanukkah is often seen as a purification; cf. 2.18; 10.3.

2.1–8: The penultimate link: Jeremiah. The tradition that Jeremiah saw to the hiding of various ritual objects at the time the First Temple was destroyed supplements the preceding one about what “pious priests” (1.19) did at the same time. For similar traditions, see 2 Baruch 6. 2: Instructed those who were being deported, see Letter of Jeremiah. 4: Mountain, Nebo (Deut 32.49). Inheritance of God refers to the Holy Land in this Judean letter; elsewhere, notably in Deut 32.9, it often refers to the people (see 5.19n. and 6.16n.). 9–10: Solomon, 1 Kings 8.62–64;

for the dedication and completion of the temple.¹⁰ Just as Moses prayed to the Lord, and fire came down from heaven and consumed the sacrifices, so also Solomon prayed, and the fire came down and consumed the whole burnt offerings.¹¹ And Moses said, “They were consumed because the sin offering had not been eaten.”¹² Likewise Solomon also kept the eight days.

¹³The same things are reported in the records and in the memoirs of Nehemiah, and also that he founded a library and collected the books about the kings and prophets, and the writings of David, and letters of kings about votive offerings.¹⁴ In the same way Judas also collected all the books that had been lost on account of the war that had come upon us, and they are in our possession.¹⁵ So if you have need of them, send people to get them for you.

¹⁶Since, therefore, we are about to celebrate the purification, we write to you. Will you therefore please keep the days?¹⁷ It is God who has saved all his people, and has returned the inheritance to all, and the kingship and the priesthood and the consecration,¹⁸ as he promised through the law. We have hope in God that he will soon have mercy on us and will gather us from everywhere under heaven into his holy place, for he has rescued us from great evils and has purified the place.

¹⁹The story of Judas Maccabeus and his brothers, and the purification of the great temple, and the dedication of the altar,²⁰ and further the wars against Antiochus Epiphanes and his son Eupator,²¹ and the appearances that came from heaven to those who fought bravely for Judaism, so that though few in number they seized the whole land and pursued the barbarian hordes,²² and regained possession of the temple famous throughout the world, and liberated the city, and re-established the laws that were about to be abolished, while the Lord with great kindness became gracious to them—²³all this, which has been set forth by Jason of Cyrene in five volumes, we shall attempt to condense into a single book.²⁴ For considering the flood of statistics involved and the difficulty there is for those who wish to enter upon the narratives of history because of the mass of material,²⁵ we have aimed to please those who wish to read, to make it easy for those who are inclined to memorize, and to profit all readers.²⁶ For us who have undertaken the toil of abbreviating, it is no light matter but calls for sweat and loss of sleep,²⁷ just as it is not easy for one who prepares a banquet and seeks the benefit of others. Nevertheless, to secure the gratitude of many we will gladly endure the uncomfortable toil,²⁸ leaving the responsibility for exact details to the compiler, while devoting our effort to arriving at the outlines of the condensation.²⁹ For as the master builder of a new house must be concerned with the whole construction, while the one who undertakes

2 Chr 7r.10: Moses prayed, Lev 9.24. 11: “They were consumed . . .” does not appear in the Bible, but may refer to the story in Lev 10.16–19. 12: The eight days of dedicatory celebrations by Moses (Lev 8.33–9.1) and Solomon (2 Chr 7.9) are cited as precedents for Hanukkah (10.6). 13–14: Memoirs of Nehemiah . . . Judas also collected, the biblical book of Nehemiah does not contain these references. Cf. Ezra 3.1–6; 1 Esd 5:46–50. It is important for the author, however, to underline these parallels between the putative founder of the Second Temple and its restorer, so that his claims are documented and thus should be believed by his addressees. Although there is no other evidence for the claim that Nehemiah founded a library, the reference to kings and prophets, and the writings of David sounds like a way of referring to the latter two parts of the Hebrew canon; compare the prologue to Sir and Lk 24.44. Votive offerings, such as those mentioned in 3.2 and 5.16. 17: All . . . to all, including the Jews of Egypt. Kingship and the priesthood, a usual Jewish way of reading the promise of Ex 19.6.

2.19–32: The author’s preface. 19–23. An involved sentence, in which the author shows his control of Greek from the outset. 21: Appearances (Gk “epiphaneiai”) . . . from heaven are given significant attention in the ensuing narrative at 3.24–26; 5.2–4; 10.29; 11.8; 12.22; etc. These true “epiphanies” are contrasted with the arrogant villain’s byname, “Epiphanes.” Judaism, the first known use of this term for the religion. Barbarian hordes as a term referring to the Greeks is a calculated reversal, which allows the author to mobilize the sympathies of Greek readers; so too 5.22; 13.9; 15.2. 23: The five-volume work of Jason of Cyrene, of which 2 Macc is an abridgement, is no longer extant. Cyrene, in Libya. 29: The author compares his work to that of a decorator, in its painting and decoration has to consider only what is suitable for its adornment, such in my judgment is the case with us.³⁰ It is the duty of the original historian to occupy the ground, to discuss matters from every side, and to take trouble with details,³¹ but the one who recasts the narrative should be allowed to strive for brevity of expression and to forego exhaustive treatment.³² At this point therefore let us begin our narrative, without adding any more to what has already been said; for it would be foolish to lengthen the preface while cutting short the history itself.

3 While the holy city was inhabited in unbroken peace and the laws were strictly observed because of the piety of the high priest Onias and his hatred of wickedness,² it came about that the kings themselves honored the place and glorified the temple with the finest presents,³ even to the extent that King Seleucus of Asia defrayed from his own revenues all the expenses connected with the service of the sacrifices.

⁴ But a man named Simon, of the tribe of Benjamin, who had been made captain of the temple, had a disagreement with the high priest about the administration of the city market.⁵ Since he could not prevail over Onias, he went to Apollonius of Tarsus,^a who

at that time was governor of Coelesyria and Phoenicia,⁶ and reported to him that the treasury in Jerusalem was full of untold sums of money, so that the amount of the funds could not be reckoned, and that they did not belong to the account of the sacrifices, but that it was possible for them to fall under the control of the king.⁷ When Apollonius met the king, he told him of the money about which he had been informed. The king^b chose Heliodorus, who was in charge of his affairs, and sent him with commands to effect the removal of the reported wealth.⁸ Heliodorus at once set out on his journey, ostensibly to make a tour of inspection of the cities of Coelesyria and Phoenicia, but in fact to carry out the king's purpose.

⁹ When he had arrived at Jerusalem and had been kindly welcomed by the high priest of^c the city, he told about the disclosure that had been made and stated why he had come, and he inquired whether this really was the situation.¹⁰ The high priest explained that there were some deposits belonging to widows and orphans,¹¹ and also some money of Hyrcanus son of Tobias, a man of very promi-

^a Gk Apollonius son of Tharseas

^b Gk He

^c Other ancient authorities read and relation to Jason's original construction; for another analogy, see 15.39.

3.1–3: Prologue. Once upon a time everything was fine. 1: The holy city, this opening bracket announces the book's topic; for the closing bracket, see 15.37. In the next two verses, the author quickly moves, using the inclusive term "place" (v. 2, compare 13.23), to the Temple. Onias III, son of Simeon II (whose praises are sung in Sir 50). He turned against Syria and collaborated with Egypt, while his cousins, the family of Tobias, to which Simon (v. 4) belonged, were pro-Syrian. For the notion that his piety guaranteed the stability of the city, compare Sir 10.2. Hatred of wickedness, a universal moral quality that also characterizes good Gentiles (4.36,49) and God himself (8.4). 3: King Seleucus IV ruled 187–175 BCE. Asia was frequently used of the Seleucid kingdom.

3.4–40: Simon's plot against Onias. 4: But signals the beginning of the story; compare 12.2 and 14.26. A man named Simon, just as Greek kings are generally represented as benevolent and the villainous Antiochus is an exception, so too concerning Jewish villains, our author prefers lone wolves and bad apples, not parties; see 4.7 (contrast 1 Macc 1.13–14), 40; 14.3 (contrast 1 Macc 7.5, also 1.11; 2.46). That is, the author in general portrays his world as good, with only occasional problems; contrast the world according to 1 Maccabees, which needed serious revision by the Hasmoneans. Of the tribe of Benjamin, since 4.23 identifies Menelaus as Simon's brother, many scholars prefer to read, with Latin witnesses, "of Bilgah" (a priestly clan, 1 Chr 24.14). 5: Tarsus, capital of Cilicia in southern Asia Minor (Acts 21.39), then part of the Seleucid empire. Coelesyria, lit. "hollow Syria" (see 1 Macc 10.69n.), here used of Palestine. 6: Simon apparently claimed that the royal budgets, earmarked for sacrifices (as in v. 3), were in fact being accumulated. 7: Heliodorus, the prime minister of Seleucus IV, is known from inscriptions and historical sources. 11: Hyrcanus son of Tobias, a well-known aristocratic Jewish family in Transjordan; see also 12.17. Hyrcanus was pro-Egyptian. He fled east of the Jordan after 198 BCE and built the fortress now known as Araq el-Emir. He committed suicide on the accession of Antiochus IV in 175. A talent

ment position, and that it totaled in all four hundred talents of silver and two hundred of gold. To such an extent the impious Simon had misrepresented the facts.¹² And he said that it was utterly impossible that wrong should be done to those people who had trusted in the holiness of the place and in the sanctity and inviolability of the temple that is honored throughout the whole world.

¹³ But Heliodorus, because of the orders he had from the king, said that this money must in any case be confiscated for the king's treasury.¹⁴ So he set a day and went in to direct the inspection of these funds.

There was no little distress throughout the whole city.¹⁵ The priests prostrated themselves before the altar in their priestly vestments and called toward heaven upon him who had given the law about deposits, that he should keep them safe for those who had deposited them.¹⁶ To see the appearance of the high priest was to be wounded at heart, for his face and the change in his color disclosed the anguish of his soul.¹⁷ For terror and bodily trembling had come over the man, which plainly showed to those who looked at him the pain lodged in his heart.¹⁸ People also hurried out of their houses in crowds to make a general supplication because the holy place was about to be brought into dishonor.¹⁹ Women, girded with sackcloth under their breasts, thronged the streets. Some of the young women who were kept indoors ran together to the gates, and some to the walls, while others peered out of the windows.²⁰ And holding up their hands to heaven, they all made supplication.²¹ There was something pitiable in the prostration of the whole populace and the anxiety of the high priest in his great anguish.

²² While they were calling upon the Almighty Lord that he would keep what had been entrusted safe and secure for those who had entrusted it,²³ Heliodorus went on with what had been decided.²⁴ But when he arrived at the treasury with his bodyguard, then and there the Sovereign of spirits and of all authority caused so great a manifestation that all who had been so bold as to accompany him were astounded by the power of God, and became faint with terror.²⁵ For there appeared to them a magnificently caparisoned horse, with a rider of frightening mien; it rushed furiously at Heliodorus and struck at him with its front hoofs. Its rider was seen to have armor and weapons of gold.²⁶ Two young men also appeared to him, remarkably strong, gloriously beautiful and splendidly dressed, who stood on either side of him and flogged him continuously, inflicting many blows on him.²⁷ When he suddenly fell to the ground and deep darkness came over him, his men took him up, put him on a stretcher,²⁸ and carried him away—this man who had just entered the aforesaid treasury with a great retinue and all his bodyguard but was now unable to help himself. They recognized clearly the sovereign power of God.

²⁹ While he lay prostrate, speechless because of the divine intervention and deprived of any hope of recovery,³⁰ they praised the Lord who had acted marvelously for his own place. And the temple, which a little while before was full of fear and disturbance, was filled with joy and gladness, now that the Almighty Lord had appeared.

³¹ Some of Heliodorus's friends quickly begged Onias to call upon the Most High to grant life to one who was lying quite at his last breath.³² So the high priest, fearing that the king might get the notion that some foul play had been perpetrated by the Jews with regard to Heliodorus, offered sacrifice for the man's recovery.³³ While the high priest was making an atonement, the same young men appeared again to Heliodorus dressed in the same clothing, and they stood and said, "Be very grateful to the high priest Onias, since for his sake the Lord has granted you your life."³⁴ And see that you, who have been weighed ca. 75 lb (34 kg). 14–21: A purple passage, typical of Hellenistic "pathetic" historiography meant to make readers share in the emotions of the characters depicted by vivid rhetoric, as if they were being watched on stage. 15: The law about deposits, see Ex 22.7–13. 19: Sackcloth was a common sign of self-humiliation or mourning, used to support appeals for divine aid; compare 10.25 and Esth 4.1. Young women who were kept indoors, cf. Sir 42.9–12. 22–23: They . . . Heliodorus, the author often emphasizes the opposition of the two sides set for a showdown; cf. 10.28; 15.25–26. 26: Two young men, angelic figures, as in 10.30 and 3 Macc 6.18. 34:

flogged by heaven, report to all people the majestic power of God.” Having said this they vanished.

³⁵ Then Heliodorus offered sacrifice to the Lord and made very great vows to the Savior of his life, and having bidden Onias farewell, he marched off with his forces to the king.

³⁶ He bore testimony to all concerning the deeds of the supreme God, which he had seen with his own eyes. ³⁷ When the king asked Heliodorus what sort of person would be suitable to send on another mission to Jerusalem, he replied, ³⁸ “If you have any enemy or plotter against your government, send him there, for you will get him back thoroughly flogged, if he survives at all; for there is certainly some power of God about the place. ³⁹ For he who has his dwelling in heaven watches over that place himself and brings it aid, and he strikes and destroys those who come to do it injury.” ⁴⁰ This was the outcome of the episode of Heliodorus and the protection of the treasury.

4 The previously mentioned Simon, who had informed about the money against^a his own country, slandered Onias, saying that it was he who had incited Heliodorus and had been the real cause of the misfortune. ² He dared to designate as a plotter against the government the man who was the benefactor of the city, the protector of his compatriots, and a zealot for the laws. ³ When his hatred progressed to such a degree that even murders were committed by one of Simon’s approved agents, ⁴ Onias recognized that the rivalry was serious and that Apollonius son of Menestheus,^b and governor of Coelesyria and Phoenicia, was intensifying the malice of Simon. ⁵ So he appealed to the king, not accusing his compatriots but having in view the welfare, both public and private, of all the people. ⁶ For he saw that without the king’s attention public affairs could not again reach a peaceful settlement, and that Simon would not stop his folly.

⁷ When Seleucus died and Antiochus, who was called Epiphanes, succeeded to the kingdom, Jason the brother of Onias obtained the high priesthood by corruption, ⁸ promising the king at an interview^c three hundred sixty talents of silver, and from another source of revenue eighty talents. ⁹ In addition to this he promised to pay one hundred fifty more if permission were given to establish by his authority a gymnasium and a body of youth for it, and to enroll the people of Jerusalem as citizens of Antioch. ¹⁰ When the king assented and Jason^d came to office, he at once shifted his compatriots over to the Greek way of life.

¹¹ He set aside the existing royal concessions to the Jews, secured through John

^a Gk and

^b Vg Compare verse 21: Meaning of Gk uncertain

^c Or by a petition

^d Gk he

Flogged by heaven, in answer to prayers of vv. 15,20; note esp. v. 39. ³⁶: He bore testimony, as do others in this book who learned the same lesson (8.36; 9.17; 11.13). ³⁹: Dwelling in heaven, an important belief for Diaspora Jews; compare 5.19 and Acts 7.47–50.

4.1–6: Simon plots against Onias again. See 3.4n. The hostility resumes between the two rival Jewish families, contrasting in good Diaspora fashion the Jewish troublemaker Simon to the providential monarch. 4–5: Coelesyria, see 3.5n.

4.7–17: Jason’s reforms; “Antioch in Jerusalem.” 7: When Seleucus died, 175 BCE. He was said to have been assassinated by Heliodorus (see 3.7). After the Roman defeat of Antiochus III at the battle of Magnesia (190 BCE) and Antiochus’s capitulation to Rome in the subsequent Treaty of Apamea, one of his sons, Antiochus IV, was held hostage in Rome while another, Seleucus IV, reigned on the Syrian throne. With the death of Seleucus, Antiochus IV returned to Syria and ascended to the throne, being replaced in Rome by Demetrius I, Seleucus’s young son; see 14.1n. 8: Talent, see 3.11n. 9: Gymnasium, a Greek school, the place not only of sport but also of political and cultural education, in short, the hallmark and bearer of Hellenism; cf. 1 Macc 1.14. As citizens of Antioch, that is, Jason received permission to establish a “polis”, a Greek-style city-state in which citizenship status was essential to participation in political and economic life, called “Antioch in Jerusalem.” 11: The existing royal concessions, privileges recorded by Josephus granted by Antiochus III upon the establishment of Seleucid rule in Judea around 200 BCE, including the promise that Jewish law would be observed. The establishment of Antioch in Jerusalem is taken, by our pious author, to abrogate or undercut those privileges. John the father of the father of Eupolemus, who went on the mission to establish friendship and alliance with the Romans; and he destroyed the lawful ways of living and introduced new customs contrary to the law.¹² He took delight in establishing a gymnasium right under the citadel, and he induced the noblest of the young men to wear the Greek hat.

¹³ There was such an extreme of Hellenization and increase in the adoption of foreign ways because of the surpassing wickedness of Jason, who was ungodly and no true^a high priest,¹⁴ that the priests were no longer intent upon their service at the altar. Despising the sanctuary and neglecting the sacrifices, they hurried to take part in the unlawful proceedings in the wrestling arena after the signal for the discus-throwing,¹⁵ disdainful of the honors prized by their ancestors and putting the highest value upon Greek forms of prestige.

¹⁶ For this reason heavy disaster overtook them, and those whose ways of living they admired and wished to imitate completely became their enemies and punished them.¹⁷ It is no light thing to show irreverence to the divine laws—a fact that later events will make clear.

¹⁸ When the quadrennial games were being held at Tyre and the king was present,¹⁹ the vile Jason sent envoys, chosen as being Antiochian citizens from Jerusalem, to carry three hundred silver drachmas for the sacrifice to Hercules. Those who carried the money, however, thought best not to use it for sacrifice, because that was inappropriate, but to expend it for another purpose.²⁰ So this money was intended by the sender for the sacrifice to Hercules, but by the decision of its carriers it was applied to the construction of triremes.

²¹ When Apollonius son of Menestheus was sent to Egypt for the coronation^b of Philometor as king, Antiochus learned that Philometor^c had become hostile to his government, and he took measures for his own security. Therefore upon arriving at Joppa he proceeded to Jerusalem.²² He was welcomed magnificently by Jason and the city, and ushered in with a blaze of torches and with shouts. Then he marched his army into Phoenicia.

²³ After a period of three years Jason sent Menelaus, the brother of the previously mentioned Simon, to carry the money to the king and to complete the records of essential business.²⁴ But he, when presented to the king, extolled him with an air of authority, and secured the high priesthood for himself,

^a Gk lacks true

^b Meaning of Gk uncertain

^c Gk he

Eupolemus is said, here, to have negotiated those privileges, just as his son, Eupolemus, was later to be a Jewish ambassador to Rome (1 Macc 8.17). The move from the father's Hebrew name to the son's Greek name illustrates the rise of Hellenism in contemporary Jerusalem, as does "Jason son of Eleazar," Eupolemus's partner (1 Macc 8.17). 12: The Greek hat was broad-rimmed; symbolic of the acceptance of Greek culture, it also allows our author to show off here with an impressive pun (Gk "hypotasson . . . hypo petason," "induced . . . the hat"). 16–17: An authorial excursus asserting that sin will not go unpunished.

4.18–22: Two pictures of life in Antioch in Jerusalem. The first story (vv. 18–20) shows that one may be a citizen of a "polis" and still avoid idolatry, and the second (vv. 21–22) shows the Jews were good subjects of the Seleucid king. 18: Tyre, a major city north of Palestine. Regular games had been held there since the late fourth century BCE. 19: Envoys were commonly sent by Greek cities to observe games and celebrations in others. A drachma was equivalent to a day's wages for a laborer. Hercules, the Greek name of the god Melkart of Tyre. 20: Triremes were standard Phoenician, Greek, and Roman war ships, with three benches of rowers on each side. 21–22: Apollonius, see v. 4. Coronation, or perhaps a coming-of-age ceremony. Ptolemy VI Philometor (ca. 180–145 BCE) became hostile to Syria, and claimed Palestine, which is why the Seleucid king travels east to secure his relationship with Jerusalem before proceeding to Phoenicia, the coastal plain. Jason and the city, as at 3.9, the high priest serves as something of a mayor; compare Sir 50.1–4.

4.23–50: Menelaus. The quality of the high priest now goes from bad to worse. If Jason, who supplanted Onias (4.7–8), was guilty of institutionalizing Hellenization in Jerusalem, Menelaus, who supplanted Jason (v. 26!), was a cruel (v. 25) and negligent (v. 27) governor who corruptly sought his own enrichment (v. 32) and did not shrink from murder (v. 34) and bribery (v. 45). He held onto his position, or tried to, until ca. 162 BCE

outbidding Jason by three hundred talents of silver.²⁵ After receiving the king's orders he returned, possessing no qualification for the high priesthood, but having the hot temper of a cruel tyrant and the rage of a savage wild beast.²⁶ So Jason, who after supplanting his own brother was supplanted by another man, was driven as a fugitive into the land of Ammon.²⁷ Although Menelaus continued to hold the office, he did not pay regularly any of the money promised to the king.²⁸ When Sostratus the captain of the citadel kept requesting payment—for the collection of the revenue was his responsibility—the two of them were summoned by the king on account of this issue.²⁹ Menelaus left his own brother Lysimachus as deputy in the high priesthood, while Sostratus left Crates, the commander of the Cyprian troops.

³⁰ While such was the state of affairs, it happened that the people of Tarsus and of Mallus revolted because their cities had been given as a present to Antiochis, the king's concubine.³¹ So the king went hurriedly to settle the trouble, leaving Andronicus, a man of high rank, to act as his deputy.

³² But Menelaus, thinking he had obtained a suitable opportunity, stole some of the gold vessels of the temple and gave them to Andronicus; other vessels, as it happened, he had sold to Tyre and the neighboring cities.

³³ When Onias became fully aware of these acts, he publicly exposed them, having first withdrawn to a place of sanctuary at Daphne near Antioch.³⁴ Therefore Menelaus, taking Andronicus aside, urged him to kill Onias. Andronicus^a came to Onias, and resorting to treachery, offered him sworn pledges and gave him his right hand; he persuaded him, though still suspicious, to come out from the place of sanctuary; then, with no regard for justice, he immediately put him out of the way.

³⁵ For this reason not only Jews, but many also of other nations, were grieved and displeased at the unjust murder of the man.

³⁶ When the king returned from the region of Cilicia, the Jews in the city^b appealed to him with regard to the unreasonable murder of Onias, and the Greeks shared their hatred of the crime.³⁷ Therefore Antiochus was grieved at heart and filled with pity, and wept because of the moderation and good conduct of the deceased.³⁸ Inflamed with anger, he immediately stripped off the purple robe from Andronicus, tore off his clothes, and led him around the whole city to that very place where he had committed the outrage against Onias, and there he dispatched the bloodthirsty fellow. The Lord thus repaid him with the punishment he deserved.

³⁹ When many acts of sacrilege had been committed in the city by Lysimachus with the connivance of Menelaus, and when report of them had spread abroad, the populace gathered against Lysimachus, because many of the gold vessels had already been stolen.⁴⁰ Since the crowds were becoming aroused and filled with anger, Lysimachus armed about three thousand men and launched an unjust attack, under the leadership of a certain Auranus, a man advanced in years and no less advanced in folly.⁴¹ But when the Jews^c became aware that Lysimachus was attacking them, some picked up stones, some blocks of wood, and others took handfuls of the ashes that were lying around, and threw them in wild confusion at Lysimachus and his men.⁴² As a result, they wounded many of them, and killed some, and put all the rest to flight;

^a Gk He

^b Or in each city

^c Gk they

(see 13.3–8). 26: Land of Ammon, east of the Jordan, near modern Amman. 30: Tarsus . . . Mallus were cities in southeastern Asia Minor. Hellenistic kings often provided a wife or concubine with a regular income by giving her a city. Antiochus, being extravagant (see 1 Macc 3.30), was often in need of money. 31: It is important for our author to claim that when injustice was done the king was absent, and that upon his return (v. 36) the king was enraged and meted out well-deserved punishment. 33: Sanctuary at Daphne, of Apollo. Daphne is about 5 mi (8 km) from Antioch. Andronicus is thus shown to have violated the sanctity of a Greek temple in order to murder the Jewish high priest. 35–36: Not only Jews . . . other nations . . . Greeks, the author insists on the basic unity of humanity and especially upon the Greeks' respect for Jews (see also v. 49 and 12.30–31); after all, Onias was a man. 37: Moderation and good conduct were appropriate to a Hellenistic gentleman; cf. 15.12. 38: The Lord, the temple robber himself they killed close by the treasury.

⁴³ Charges were brought against Menelaus about this incident. ⁴⁴ When the king came to Tyre, three men sent by the senate presented the case before him. ⁴⁵ But Menelaus, already as good as beaten, promised a substantial bribe to Ptolemy son of Dorymenes to win over the king. ⁴⁶ Therefore Ptolemy, taking the king aside into a colonnade as if for refreshment, induced the king to change his mind. ⁴⁷ Menelaus, the cause of all the trouble, he acquitted of the charges against him, while he sentenced to death those unfortunate men, who would have been freed uncondemned if they had pleaded even before Scythians. ⁴⁸ And so those who had spoken for the city and the villages^a and the holy vessels quickly suffered the unjust penalty. ⁴⁹ Therefore even the Tyrians, showing their hatred of the crime, provided magnificently for their funeral. ⁵⁰ But Menelaus, because of the greed of those in power, remained in office, growing in wickedness, having become the chief plotter against his compatriots.

5 About this time Antiochus made his second invasion of Egypt. ² And it happened that, for almost forty days, there appeared over all the city golden-clad cavalry charging through the air, in companies fully armed with lances and drawn swords— ³ troops of cavalry drawn up, attacks and counterattacks made on this side and on that, brandishing of shields, massing of spears, hurling of missiles, the flash of golden trappings, and armor of all kinds. ⁴ Therefore everyone prayed that the apparition might prove to have been a good omen.

⁵ When a false rumor arose that Antiochus was dead, Jason took no fewer than a thousand men and suddenly made an assault on the city. When the troops on the wall had been forced back and at last the city was being taken, Menelaus took refuge in the citadel. ⁶ But Jason kept relentlessly slaughtering his compatriots, not realizing that success at the cost of one's kindred is the greatest misfortune, but imagining that he was setting up trophies of victory over enemies and not over compatriots. ⁷ He did not, however, gain control of the government; in the end he got only disgrace from his conspiracy, and fled again into the country of the Ammonites. ⁸ Finally he met a miserable end. Accused^b before Aretas the ruler of the Arabs, fleeing from city to city, pursued by everyone, hated as a rebel against the laws, and abhorred as the executioner of his country and his compatriots, he was cast ashore in Egypt. ⁹ There he who had driven many from their

^a Other ancient authorities read the people

^b Cn: Gk Imprisoned

an explicit statement of dual causality: Antiochus did the Lord's work. 39: The city, Jerusalem. 42: Killed close by the treasury, frequently the punishment fits the crime in 2 Maccabees, thus demonstrating God's equitable management of history; see also vv. 16,26,38. For Menelaus's own end, see 13.8. 45: Dorymenes had fought for Ptolemy IV against Antiochus III; his son Ptolemy had been governor of Cyprus and had deserted to Antiochus IV (see 10.12–13). 47: Scythians, a proverbially brutal people north of the Black Sea; see 7.4n. 48: The city and the villages and the holy vessels, see textual note a. The reference first of all to the city, and only thereafter to the holy vessels, although the issue pertained to the latter, is typical for the orientation of this book; see 3.1n.

5.1–27: Antiochus IV desecrates the Temple. 1–4: Apparition over Jerusalem. 1: Antiochus made his second invasion of Egypt in the spring of 168 BCE, the first having occurred in 170. The second was successful, although a Roman ultimatum forced him to withdraw (Dan 11.29–30). This humiliation may have created the “false rumor” of Antiochus's death (v. 5). 2–4: There appeared over all the city, an apparition of a military nature. Because its meaning was ambiguous, all the Jerusalemites could do was pray that it be for the good; the rest of the chapter shows it was not. 5–10: Jason attempts to take Jerusalem. Jason, who had been ousted by Menelaus and expelled from the city (4.26), now attempts a comeback. Because Jason had been forced out of the city (v. 7), although Menelaus had withdrawn to the citadel (the Temple mount, v. 5), there was probably a nationalist rebellion against Seleucid rule at the same time, as Antiochus inferred (v. 11). But our author prefers to ignore that; compare 3.4n. 6: Compatriots, lit. “fellow citizens.” Trophies commemorate victories over enemies (15.6), not compatriots, lit. “members of his people.” In this sentence, the Diaspora author uses first a political (city-oriented) category and then two ethnic ones (“kindred,” “members of his people”). 8: Aretas I, king of Nabatean own country into exile died in exile, having embarked to go to the Lacedaemonians in hope of finding protection because of their kinship. ¹⁰ He who had cast out many to lie unburied had no one to mourn for him; he had no funeral of any sort and no place in the tomb of his ancestors.

¹¹ When news of what had happened reached the king, he took it to mean that Judea was in revolt. So, raging inwardly, he left Egypt and took the city by storm. ¹² He commanded his soldiers to cut down relentlessly everyone they met and to kill those who went into their houses. ¹³ Then there was massacre of young and old, destruction of boys, women, and children, and slaughter of young girls and infants. ¹⁴ Within the total of three days eighty thousand were destroyed, forty thousand in hand-to-hand fighting, and as many were sold into slavery as were killed.

¹⁵ Not content with this, Antiochus^a dared to enter the most holy temple in all the world, guided by Menelaus, who had become a traitor both to the laws and to his country. ¹⁶ He took the holy vessels with his polluted hands, and swept away with profane hands the votive offerings that other kings had made to enhance the glory and honor of the place. ¹⁷ Antiochus was elated in spirit, and did not perceive that the Lord was angered for a little while because of the sins of those who lived in the city, and that this was the reason he was disregarding the holy place. ¹⁸ But if it had not happened that they were involved in many sins, this man would have been flogged and turned back from his rash act as soon as he came forward, just as Heliodorus had been, whom King Seleucus sent to inspect the treasury. ¹⁹ But the Lord did not choose the nation for the sake of the holy place, but the place for the sake of the nation. ²⁰ Therefore the place itself shared in the misfortunes that befell the nation and afterward participated in its benefits; and what was forsaken in the wrath of the Almighty was restored again in all its glory when the great Lord became reconciled.

²¹ So Antiochus carried off eighteen hundred talents from the temple, and hurried away to Antioch, thinking in his arrogance that he could sail on the land and walk on the sea, because his mind was elated. ²² He left governors to oppress the people: at Jerusalem, Philip, by birth a Phrygian and in character more barbarous than the man who appointed him; ²³ and at Gerizim, Andronicus; and besides these Menelaus, who lorded it over his compatriots worse than the others did. In his malice toward the Jewish citizens,^b ²⁴ Antiochus^a sent Apollonius, the captain

^a Gk he

^b Or worse than the others did in his malice toward the Jewish citizens

Arabia, south and east of Palestine; his capital was at Petra. 9: Rejected in Egypt, Jason fled to the Lacedaemonians in Sparta; other Jewish sources (e.g., 1 Macc 12.7,21) allege a kinship between the Jews and Spartans. 10: Unburied . . . no funeral, a common theme in this book (9.15,28; 12.39; 13.7). 11–16: Antiochus attacks Jerusalem thinking that all Judea, not just the villain Jason, was in revolt. He was raging inwardly because the Romans had forced him out of Egypt (the Roman envoy, Popillius Laenas, had threatened him with war if he attempted to annex Egypt; see 1 Macc 1.20); both his foreign and his domestic programs were collapsing. 12–13: This account of murder of young and old, outside and inside, seems to allude to Deut 32.25. (On Deut 32 as the basic biblical subtext of this book, see the Introduction.) 15: Even Jews were forbidden to enter the most holy parts of the temple. That the high priest Menelaus would guide Antiochus further indicts him as unfit (4.25). 16: The relative lack of interest in ritual details (only “holy vessels”; contrast 1 Macc 1.21–23), and the need to underline that most Gentile kings are benevolent and respectful to Jews, are typically Diasporan.

5.17–20: Authorial excursus (cf. 4.16–17). The author explains that the Temple could suffer this profanation and robbery because it was secondary to the people; for a similar argument see Mk 2.27. 17: For a little while . . . disregarding is the author’s Greek way of rendering the biblical notion of God’s hiding his face (Deut 32.20), something which he does at times “for a little while” (Isa 54.7–8) due to the Jews’ sins. 18: Heliodorus, see ch 3.

5.21–27: Further troubles. 21: Thinking in his arrogance that he could sail on the land and walk on the sea describes Antiochus according to the standard Greek topos of an arrogant oriental monarch. 22: Phrygia, a region of western Asia Minor. 22–23: The people: at Jerusalem . . . at Gerizim, the author considers Samaritans to be Jews, although they worshiped at a different temple. The author’s evenhandedness reflects the situation of Diaspora of the Mysians, with an army of twenty-two thousand, and commanded him to kill all the grown men and to sell the women and boys as slaves.²⁵ When this man arrived in Jerusalem, he pretended to be peaceably disposed and waited until the holy sabbath day; then, finding the Jews not at work, he ordered his troops to parade under arms.²⁶ He put to the sword all those who came out to see them, then rushed into the city with his armed warriors and killed great numbers of people.

²⁷ But Judas Maccabeus, with about nine others, got away to the wilderness, and kept himself and his companions alive in the mountains as wild animals do; they continued to live on what grew wild, so that they might not share in the defilement.

6 Not long after this, the king sent an Athenian^a senator^b to compel the Jews to forsake the laws of their ancestors and no longer to live by the laws of God;² also to pollute the temple in Jerusalem and to call it the temple of Olympian Zeus, and to call the one in Gerizim the temple of Zeus-the-Friend-of-Strangers, as did the people who lived in that place.

³ Harsh and utterly grievous was the onslaught of evil.⁴ For the temple was filled with debauchery and reveling by the Gentiles, who dallied with prostitutes and had intercourse with women within the sacred precincts, and besides brought in things for sacrifice that were unfit.⁵ The altar was covered with abominable offerings that were forbidden by the laws.⁶ People could neither keep the sabbath, nor observe the festivals of their ancestors, nor so much as confess themselves to be Jews.

⁷ On the monthly celebration of the king's birthday, the Jews^c were taken, under bitter constraint, to partake of the sacrifices; and when a festival of Dionysus was celebrated, they were compelled to wear wreaths of ivy and to walk in the procession in honor of Dionysus.⁸ At the suggestion of the people of Ptolemais^d a decree was issued to the neighboring Greek cities that they should adopt the same policy toward the Jews and make them partake of the sacrifices,⁹ and should kill those who did not choose to change over to Greek customs. One could see, therefore, the misery that had come upon them.¹⁰ For example, two women were brought in for having circumcised their children. They publicly paraded them around the city, with their babies hanging at their breasts, and then hurled them down headlong from the wall.¹¹ Others who had assembled in the caves nearby, in order to observe the seventh day secretly, were betrayed to Philip and were

^a Other ancient authorities read Antiochian

^b Or Geron an Athenian

^c Gk they

^d Cn: Gk suggestion of the Ptolemies (or of Ptolemy)

Jews who worshiped at neither; cf. Jn 4.21. 24: Captain of the Mysians, lit. "Mysarch," commander of mercenary troops from Mysia, a region of Asia Minor. 25: Parade under arms recalls the apparition in vv. 1–3 and clarifies its meaning. 27: Judas Maccabeus, the third son of Mattathias, of the Hasmonean family (1 Macc 2.1–28). Mention of him here provides a ray of hope throughout the next two chapters of suffering. He will reappear, with a much larger force, at the beginning of ch 8. Live on what grew wild, in observance of Jewish dietary laws that prohibited the consumption of unclean animals; cf. 11.31; 1 Macc 1.62–63; Dan 1.8.

6.1–11: Decrees against Judaism. If Jason made Hellenization available in the social, political, and economic spheres, Antiochus now pollutes the Jews' Temple and attempts to force new rituals upon them which, however Semitic or syncretistic, were viewed by many Jews as Greek customs (v. 9), because a Greek king imposed them. 1: Athenian, Antiochus's ties to Athens are well documented; compare 9.15. 2: As at 5.22–23, the author has no problems about drawing a parallel between the Temple of Jerusalem and that of the Samaritans, which was considered illegitimate by some Jerusalemite Jews. 4: The temple was polluted; see also 1 Macc 1.46–59 and Dan 11.31. 7: Antiochus's birthday was celebrated on the twenty-fifth of each month (1 Macc 1.58–59). Dionysus, the Greek god of wine and harvest. 8: Ptolemais, the Hellenistic city founded at Acco, north of Haifa. 10–11: These first stories of martyrs are paralleled at 1 Macc 1.60–61 and 2.29–38. In contrast to 1 Maccabees, however, our "pathetic" work (see 3.14–21n.) refers (as at 3.19) to the mothers' breasts, not their necks; and as a Diaspora work it praises the martyrs in the caves who refused to fight on the sabbath, as opposed to 1 Macc 2, which uses them as foils for the Hasmoneans.

all burned together, because their piety kept them from defending themselves, in view of their regard for that most holy day.

¹² Now I urge those who read this book not to be depressed by such calamities, but to recognize that these punishments were designed not to destroy but to discipline our people. ¹³ In fact, it is a sign of great kindness not to let the impious alone for long, but to punish them immediately. ¹⁴ For in the case of the other nations the Lord waits patiently to punish them until they have reached the full measure of their sins; but he does not deal in this way with us, ¹⁵ in order that he may not take vengeance on us afterward when our sins have reached their height. ¹⁶ Therefore he never withdraws his mercy from us. Although he disciplines us with calamities, he does not forsake his own people. ¹⁷ Let what we have said serve as a reminder; we must go on briefly with the story.

¹⁸ Eleazar, one of the scribes in high position, a man now advanced in age and of noble presence, was being forced to open his mouth to eat swine's flesh. ¹⁹ But he, welcoming death with honor rather than life with pollution, went up to the rack of his own accord, spitting out the flesh, ²⁰ as all ought to go who have the courage to refuse things that it is not right to taste, even for the natural love of life.

²¹ Those who were in charge of that unlawful sacrifice took the man aside because of their long acquaintance with him, and privately urged him to bring meat of his own providing, proper for him to use, and to pretend that he was eating the flesh of the sacrificial meal that had been commanded by the king, ²² so that by doing this he might be saved from death, and be treated kindly on account of his old friendship with them. ²³ But making a high resolve, worthy of his years and the dignity of his old age and the gray hairs that he had reached with distinction and his excellent life even from childhood, and moreover according to the holy God-given law, he declared himself quickly, telling them to send him to Hades.

²⁴ "Such pretense is not worthy of our time of life," he said, "for many of the young might suppose that Eleazar in his ninetieth year had gone over to an alien religion, ²⁵ and through my pretense, for the sake of living a brief moment longer, they would be led astray because of me, while I defile and disgrace my old age. ²⁶ Even if for the present I would avoid the punishment of mortals, yet whether I live or die I will not escape the hands of the Almighty. ²⁷ Therefore, by bravely giving up my life now, I will show myself worthy of my old age ²⁸ and leave to the young a noble example of how to die a good death willingly and nobly for the revered and holy laws."

When he had said this, he went^a at once to the rack. ²⁹ Those who a little before had acted toward him with goodwill now changed to ill will, because the words he had uttered were in their opinion sheer madness.^b

³⁰ When he was about to die under the blows, he groaned aloud and said: "It is clear to the Lord in his holy knowledge that, though I might have been saved from death, I am enduring terrible sufferings in my body under this beating, but in my soul I am glad to suffer these things because I fear him."

³¹ So in this way he died, leaving in his death an example of nobility and a memorial of courage, not only to the young but to the great body of his nation.

^a Other ancient authorities read was dragged

^b Meaning of Gk uncertain

6.12–17: Authorial excursus (cf. 4.16–17; 5.17–20). The author explains to his readers that it is God's graciousness to his people that brings him to allow punishment for sins as they occur, thus enabling atonement and reconciliation. 12: To discipline, as in Deut 8.5. 14: Full measure of their sins, which would then bring upon them irrevocable punishment; Gen 15.16. 16: He does not forsake his own people, Ps 94.14.

6.18–31 Martyrdom of Eleazar. 18: Scribes were scholars of the Torah; cf. 1 Macc 7.12. 4 Macc 5.4 adds, on unknown authority but not improbably, that Eleazar was a priest. Swine's flesh is the best known of biblically prohibited meats (Lev 11.7–8). In this case the problem is compounded because the meat was sacrificed in a pagan rite (v. 21). 23: Hades, the Gk name of the underworld (Heb "Sheol"). 28: Leave to the young a noble example, Eleazar is presented as a Jewish Socrates; his speech resembles Socrates's final speech in Plato's Apology. 30: Body . . . soul, a distinction that reflects the influence of Greek anthropology on Jewish thought. Fear, revere. 31: Not only to the young, as he said in v. 28; the next chapter, however, focuses on the young.

7 It happened also that seven brothers and their mother were arrested and were being compelled by the king, under torture with whips and thongs, to partake of unlawful swine's flesh. ² One of them, acting as their spokesman, said, "What do you intend to ask and learn from us? For we are ready to die rather than transgress the laws of our ancestors."

³ The king fell into a rage, and gave orders to have pans and caldrons heated. ⁴ These were heated immediately, and he commanded that the tongue of their spokesman be cut out and that they scalp him and cut off his hands and feet, while the rest of the brothers and the mother looked on. ⁵ When he was utterly helpless, the king^a ordered them to take him to the fire, still breathing, and to fry him in a pan. The smoke from the pan spread widely, but the brothers^b and their mother encouraged one another to die nobly, saying, ⁶ "The Lord God is watching over us and in truth has compassion on us, as Moses declared in his song that bore witness against the people to their faces, when he said, 'And he will have compassion on his servants.'"^c

⁷ After the first brother had died in this way, they brought forward the second for their sport. They tore off the skin of his head with the hair, and asked him, "Will you eat rather than have your body punished limb by limb?" ⁸ He replied in the language of his ancestors and said to them, "No." Therefore he in turn underwent tortures as the first brother had done. ⁹ And when he was at his last breath, he said, "You accursed wretch, you dismiss us from this present life, but the King of the universe will raise us up to an everlasting renewal of life, because we have died for his laws."

¹⁰ After him, the third was the victim of their sport. When it was demanded, he quickly put out his tongue and courageously stretched forth his hands, ¹¹ and said nobly, "I got these from Heaven, and because of his laws I disdain them, and from him I hope to get them back again." ¹² As a result the king himself and those with him were astonished at the young man's spirit, for he regarded his sufferings as nothing.

¹³ After he too had died, they maltreated and tortured the fourth in the same way. ¹⁴ When he was near death, he said, "One cannot but choose to die at the hands of mortals and to cherish the hope God gives of being raised again by him. But for you there will be no resurrection to life!"

¹⁵ Next they brought forward the fifth and maltreated him. ¹⁶ But he looked at the king,^d and said, "Because you have authority among mortals, though you also are mortal, you do what you please. But do not think that God has forsaken our people. ¹⁷ Keep on, and see how his mighty power will torture you and your descendants!"

¹⁸ After him they brought forward the sixth. And when he was about to die, he said, "Do not deceive yourself in vain. For we are suffering these things on our own account, because of our sins against our own God. Therefore^e astounding things have happened. ¹⁹ But do not think that you will go unpunished for having tried to fight against God!"

^a Gk he

^b Gk they

^c Gk slaves

^d Gk at him

^e Lat: Other ancient authorities lack Therefore

7:1–42: Martyrdom of seven brothers and their mother. This story—which has a life of its own in Jewish literature, is the principal subject of 4 Maccabees, and may be inspired by Jer 15.9—may have been appropriated from an independent source, as is suggested by the king's presence and by the absence of political formulations so typical of this book. 1: The king is Antiochus IV (v. 24), although he returned to Syria in ch 5 and imposed the decrees through his agents. 2: Ancestors, lit. "fathers," who are thus made to compete with the king; compare "language of his ancestors" (i.e., Hebrew) in vv. 8,21,27. 4: Scalp, lit. "cut him around the Scythian way"; see 4.47n. 6: As Moses declared, Deut 32.36. On Deut 32, see Introduction. 9: Raise us up, resurrection is a recurrent theme in this chapter; see also 12.43–45 and 14.46. This belief's only clear attestation in the Hebrew Bible, Dan 12.1–3, seems to be a response to the same persecutions. 11: Heaven, a circumlocution for God; see v. 34. 18: Because of our sins, as in v. 32 and throughout this book; "our" is both specific (as in 12.40) and collective,

²⁰ The mother was especially admirable and worthy of honorable memory. Although she saw her seven sons perish within a single day, she bore it with good courage because of her hope in the Lord. ²¹ She encouraged each of them in the language of their ancestors. Filled with a noble spirit, she reinforced her woman's reasoning with a man's courage, and said to them, ²² "I do not know how you came into being in my womb. It was not I who gave you life and breath, nor I who set in order the elements within each of you. ²³ Therefore the Creator of the world, who shaped the beginning of humankind and devised the origin of all things, will in his mercy give life and breath back to you again, since you now forget yourselves for the sake of his laws."

²⁴ Antiochus felt that he was being treated with contempt, and he was suspicious of her reproachful tone. The youngest brother being still alive, Antiochus^a not only appealed to him in words, but promised with oaths that he would make him rich and enviable if he would turn from the ways of his ancestors, and that he would take him for his Friend and entrust him with public affairs. ²⁵ Since the young man would not listen to him at all, the king called the mother to him and urged her to advise the youth to save himself. ²⁶ After much urging on his part, she undertook to persuade her son. ²⁷ But, leaning close to him, she spoke in their native language as follows, deriding the cruel tyrant: "My son, have pity on me. I carried you nine months in my womb, and nursed you for three years, and have reared you and brought you up to this point in your life, and have taken care of you.^b ²⁸ I beg you, my child, to look at the heaven and the earth and see everything that is in them, and recognize that God did not make them out of things that existed.^c And in the same way the human race came into being. ²⁹ Do not fear this butcher, but prove worthy of your brothers. Accept death, so that in God's mercy I may get you back again along with your brothers."

³⁰ While she was still speaking, the young man said, "What are you^d waiting for? I will not obey the king's command, but I obey the command of the law that was given to our ancestors through Moses. ³¹ But you,^e who have contrived all sorts of evil against the Hebrews, will certainly not escape the hands of God.

³² For we are suffering because of our own sins. ³³ And if our living Lord is angry for a little while, to rebuke and discipline us, he will again be reconciled with his own servants.^f

³⁴ But you, unholy wretch, you most defiled of all mortals, do not be elated in vain and puffed up by uncertain hopes, when you raise your hand against the children of heaven.

³⁵ You have not yet escaped the judgment of the almighty, all-seeing God. ³⁶ For our brothers after enduring a brief suffering have drunk^g of ever-flowing life, under God's covenant; but you, by the judgment of God, will receive just punishment for your arrogance. ³⁷ I, like my brothers, give up body and life for the laws of our ancestors, appealing to God to show mercy soon to our nation and by trials and plagues to make you confess that he alone is God,³⁸ and through me and my brothers to bring to an end the wrath of the Almighty that has justly fallen on our whole nation."

^a Gk he

^b Or have borne the burden of your education

^c Or God made them out of things that did not exist

^d The Gk here for you is plural

^e The Gk here for you is singular

^f Gk slaves

^g Cn: Gk fallen

as in the excurses (4.16–17; 5.18). Astounding things have happened, namely, your successes against the Jews. 22: It was not I who gave you life, The mother's speech appears to combine references to Sir 1.1–3, which it refutes, with technical vocabulary from Greek philosophy (set in order the elements; Plato, Theaetetus 210e; Aristotle, Metaphysics 998a.23). The author argues that resurrection is a mystery analogous to the creation of the world, or of a human being. Just as God caused something to exist that had not existed previously (see v. 28), so God can resurrect a person who has ceased to exist. 24: His Friend, see 1.14n. 28: Did not make them out of things that existed, this verse was understood by Origen (185–254 CE) and subsequent Christian authors to be a statement of the doctrine that God created the universe out of nothing. 33: Angry for a little while, see 5.17n. Reconciled with his own servants, alluding to Deut 32.36; see v. 6 above and 8.29. 34: Children of heaven, the Jews; see v.11n. 38: Through me and my brothers to bring to an end the wrath, their deaths are not in vain, but rather effective; con-

Places associated with the campaigns of the Maccabees in 2 Macc 8-15.

³⁹ The king fell into a rage, and handled him worse than the others, being exasperated at his scorn. ⁴⁰ So he died in his integrity, putting his whole trust in the Lord.

⁴¹ Last of all, the mother died, after her sons.

⁴² Let this be enough, then, about the eating of sacrifices and the extreme tortures.

8 Meanwhile Judas, who was also called Maccabeus, and his companions secretly entered the villages and summoned their kindred and enlisted those who had continued in the Jewish faith, and so they gathered about six thousand. ² They implored the Lord to look upon the people who were oppressed by all; and to have pity on the temple that had been profaned by the godless; ³ to have mercy on the city that was being destroyed and about to be leveled to the ground; to hearken to the blood that cried out to him; ⁴ to remember also the lawless destruction of the innocent babies and the blasphemies committed against his name; and to show his hatred of evil.

⁵ As soon as Maccabeus got his army organized, the Gentiles could not withstand him, for the wrath of the Lord had turned to mercy. ⁶ Coming without warning, he would set fire to towns and villages. He captured strategic positions and put to flight not a few of the enemy. ⁷ He found the nights most advantageous for such attacks. And talk of his valor spread everywhere.

⁸ When Philip saw that the man was gaining ground little by little, and that he was pushing ahead with more frequent successes, he wrote to Ptolemy, the governor of Coele-syria and Phoenicia, to come to the aid of the king's government. ⁹ Then Ptolemy^a promptly appointed Nicanor son of Patroclus, one of the king's chief^b Friends, and sent him, in command of no fewer than twenty thousand Gentiles of all nations, to wipe out the whole race of Judea. He associated with him Gorgias, a general and a man of experience in military service. ¹⁰ Nicanor determined to make up for the king the tribute due to the Romans, two thousand talents, by selling the captured Jews into slavery. ¹¹ So he immediately sent to the towns on the seacoast, inviting them to buy Jewish slaves and promising to hand over ninety slaves for a talent, not expecting the judgment from the Almighty that was about to overtake him.

¹² Word came to Judas concerning Nicanor's invasion; and when he told his companions of the arrival of the army, ¹³ those who were cowardly and distrustful of God's justice ran off and got away. ¹⁴ Others sold all their remaining property, and at the same time implored the Lord to rescue those who had been sold by the ungodly Nicanor before he ever met them, ¹⁵ if not for their own sake, then for the sake of the covenants made with their ancestors, and because he had called them by his holy and glorious name. ¹⁶ But Maccabeus gathered his forces together, to the number six thousand, and exhorted them

^a Gk he

^b Gk one of the first

trast 1 Macc 1.62–63; 2.29–41; 3.8. In 1 Macc it is not the death of the martyrs but Judas's valor that turns away the wrath. In 2 Macc the deaths increase the suffering of Israel to such a degree that God is moved to intervene for them; cf. Deut 32.36; Bar 4.

8.1–7: Judas begins the revolt. See 1 Macc 3.1–41. 2–4: The troops' prayer summarizes the events narrated by the book so far. 3: The blood that cried out to him, cf. Gen 4.10. 4: Innocent babies, 6.10; in context, this also refers, with some exaggeration, to the seven sons of ch 7. 7: The nights, see 10:28; 12:6,9; 13:15; and especially 1 Macc 4:1–25.

8.8–36: First victory over Nicanor. See 1 Macc 3.38–4.25. 8: Philip, see 5.22. Ptolemy (see 10.12–13, 1 Macc 3.38). 9: Nicanor son of Patroclus, according to 1 Macc 3–4, Gorgias was the main figure in this campaign, but 2 Macc makes Nicanor the principal villain. Chs 14–15 narrate Judas's further clashes with him, and the book ends with the establishment of a festival commemorating his final defeat. 10: The tribute due to the Romans imposed by the Treaty of Apamea (188 BCE; see 4.7n.); the Seleucids were in arrears. Talent, see 3.11n. 11: Ninety slaves for a talent was half or less of the usual price. 13: Ran off, 1 Macc 3.55–56 portrays this as part of a ceremony mandated by Deut 20.5–8, but 2 Macc uses the occasion to emphasize the courage of those who remained. 15: Covenants, see 1.2n. Because he had called them by his . . . name, a standard argument in prayers asking God to not to be frightened by the enemy and not to fear the great multitude of Gentiles who were wickedly coming against them, but to fight nobly,¹⁷ keeping before their eyes the lawless outrage that the Gentiles^a had committed against the holy place, and the torture of the derided city, and besides, the overthrow of their ancestral way of life.¹⁸ “For they trust to arms and acts of daring,” he said, “but we trust in the Almighty God, who is able with a single nod to strike down those who are coming against us, and even, if necessary, the whole world.”

¹⁹ Moreover, he told them of the occasions when help came to their ancestors; how, in the time of Sennacherib, when one hundred eighty-five thousand perished,²⁰ and the time of the battle against the Galatians that took place in Babylonia, when eight thousand Jews^b fought along with four thousand Macedonians; yet when the Macedonians were hard pressed, the eight thousand, by the help that came to them from heaven, destroyed one hundred twenty thousand Galatians^c and took a great amount of booty.

²¹ With these words he filled them with courage and made them ready to die for their laws and their country; then he divided his army into four parts.²² He appointed his brothers also, Simon and Joseph and Jonathan, each to command a division, putting fifteen hundred men under each.²³ Besides, he appointed Eleazar to read aloud^d from the holy book, and gave the watchword, “The help of God”; then, leading the first division himself, he joined battle with Nicanor.

²⁴ With the Almighty as their ally, they killed more than nine thousand of the enemy, and wounded and disabled most of Nicanor’s army, and forced them all to flee.²⁵ They captured the money of those who had come to buy them as slaves. After pursuing them for some distance, they were obliged to return because the hour was late.²⁶ It was the day before the sabbath, and for that reason they did not continue their pursuit.²⁷ When they had collected the arms of the enemy and stripped them of their spoils, they kept the sabbath, giving great praise and thanks to the Lord, who had preserved them for that day and allotted it to them as the beginning of mercy.²⁸ After the sabbath they gave some of the spoils to those who had been tortured and to the widows and orphans, and distributed the rest among themselves and their children.²⁹ When they had done this, they made common supplication and implored the merciful Lord to be wholly reconciled with his servants.^e

³⁰ In encounters with the forces of Timothy and Bacchides they killed more than twenty thousand of them and got possession of some exceedingly high strongholds, and they divided a very large amount of plunder, giving to those who had been tortured and to the orphans and widows, and also to the aged, shares equal to their own.³¹ They collected the arms of the enemy,^f and carefully stored all of them in strategic places; the

^a Gk they

^b Gk lacks Jews

^c Gk lacks Galatians

^d Meaning of Gk uncertain

^e Gk slaves

^f Gk their arms

intervene: God’s own reputation was at stake; cf. Ex 32.12; Deut 32.27; 1 Macc 4.33. 19: Sennacherib, king of Assyria; see Isa 37.36; 2 Kings 19.35; this miracle is also cited at 15.22. 20: Galatians, a people of Asia Minor, known for their invasions westward in the third century BCE and for their service as mercenaries; the battle mentioned here is otherwise unknown. If “Jews” is omitted (see textual note b), Judas would be citing a case in which God helps worthy people regardless of their identity; see 4.35–36n. 21: Four parts, Judas commanded the first (v. 23). 22: His brothers, see 1 Macc 2.2–5. Although they scarcely figure in 2 Macc, Simon was high priest from 142 to 134 BCE (see 1 Macc 13–16), and Jonathan from 160 to 143 or 142 (see 1 Macc 9.23–12.53). Joseph, perhaps John is meant; see 1 Macc 2.2; 9.35–36. 23: Eleazar, another brother, was killed at Beth-zachariah (1 Macc 2.5; 6.43–46). 25: Captured the money of those who had come to buy them, the punishment fitting the crime, as often in this book (4.42n.). 26: Day before the sabbath required preparations; compare 12.38; Mk 15.42. 1 Macc 4.15–16 has no such religious explanation; rather, the Jews broke off the pursuit when it became too dangerous. 27–29: Beginning of mercy . . . wholly reconciled with his servants, completes the process predicted at 7.33. 30–33: This scene is located here, although out of place chronologically, to illustrate the pious practice of sharing spoils rest of the spoils they carried to Jerusalem.

³²They killed the commander of Timothy's forces, a most wicked man, and one who had greatly troubled the Jews. ³³While they were celebrating the victory in the city of their ancestors, they burned those who had set fire to the sacred gates, Callisthenes and some others, who had fled into one little house; so these received the proper reward for their impiety.^a

³⁴The thrice-accursed Nicanor, who had brought the thousand merchants to buy the Jews, ³⁵having been humbled with the help of the Lord by opponents whom he regarded as of the least account, took off his splendid uniform and made his way alone like a runaway slave across the country until he reached Antioch, having succeeded chiefly in the destruction of his own army! ³⁶So he who had undertaken to secure tribute for the Romans by the capture of the people of Jerusalem proclaimed that the Jews had a Defender, and that therefore the Jews were invulnerable, because they followed the laws ordained by him.

9 About that time, as it happened, Antiochus had retreated in disorder from the region of Persia. ²He had entered the city called Persepolis and attempted to rob the temples and control the city. Therefore the people rushed to the rescue with arms, and Antiochus and his army were defeated,^b with the result that Antiochus was put to flight by the inhabitants and beat a shameful retreat.

³While he was in Ecbatana, news came to him of what had happened to Nicanor and the forces of Timothy. ⁴Transported with rage, he conceived the idea of turning upon the Jews the injury done by those who had put him to flight; so he ordered his charioteer to drive without stopping until he completed the journey. But the judgment of heaven rode with him! For in his arrogance he said, "When I get there I will make Jerusalem a cemetery of Jews."

⁵But the all-seeing Lord, the God of Israel, struck him with an incurable and invisible blow. As soon as he stopped speaking he was seized with a pain in his bowels, for which there was no relief, and with sharp internal tortures— ⁶and that very justly, for he had tortured the bowels of others with many and strange inflictions. ⁷Yet he did not in any way stop his insolence, but was even more filled with arrogance, breathing fire in his rage against the Jews, and giving orders to drive even faster. And so it came about that he fell out of his chariot as it was rushing along, and the fall was so hard as to torture every limb of his body.

⁸Thus he who only a little while before had thought in his superhuman arrogance that he could command the waves of the sea, and had imagined that he could weigh the high mountains in a balance, was brought down to earth and carried in a litter, making the power of God manifest to all. ⁹And so the ungodly man's body swarmed with worms, and while he was still living in anguish and pain, his flesh rotted away, and because of

^a Meaning of Gk uncertain

^b Gk they were defeated

with the needy (see Num 31.25–47; 1 Sam 30.21–25). 34: Thrice-accursed Nicanor, as in 15.3. 35: Having succeeded chiefly in the destruction of his own army, the author loves to gloat; compare e.g., v. 25; 3.28; 5.9–10; 9.8–10. 36: Proclaimed, like Heliodorus (see 3.39n.), that the Jews had a Defender, i.e., God; compare 11.13.

9.1–12: Antiochus's retreat and illness. See 1 Macc 6.1–16. Antiochus IV Epiphanes began his eastern campaign in 165 BCE, leaving behind his young son Antiochus Eupator with a guardian, Lysias (1 Macc 3.31). 2 Macc simplifies matters by first mentioning that pair only after recounting Antiochus IV's demise; see 10.10–11. For another version of the king's defeat and death, see 1.11–17. 1: Antiochus went to Persia to strengthen his authority there and to get funds. 2: Persepolis, the capital of Persia, near modern Shiraz, founded by Darius I. 3: Antiochus was on his way to Babylon (1 Macc 6.4) but apparently went north by way of Ecbatana (modern Hamadan). 4: But the judgment of heaven rode with him, as elsewhere in this chapter, the author employs irony: Antiochus thinks he will punish the Jews but does not even know his own nemesis is riding along with him. 5: Incurable, as in Isa 14.6. That chapter, on the fall of the king of Babylon, informs other parts of this chapter as well. 6: Tortured the bowels, both by inflicting pain and by forcing Jews to eat forbidden foods (chs 6–7). 8: Command the waves of the sea, 5.21. Weigh the high mountains in a balance is something only God can do (Isa 40.12).

the stench the whole army felt revulsion at his decay.¹⁰ Because of his intolerable stench no one was able to carry the man who a little while before had thought that he could touch the stars of heaven.¹¹ Then it was that, broken in spirit, he began to lose much of his arrogance and to come to his senses under the scourge of God, for he was tortured with pain every moment.¹² And when he could not endure his own stench, he uttered these words, “It is right to be subject to God; mortals should not think that they are equal to God.”^a

¹³ Then the abominable fellow made a vow to the Lord, who would no longer have mercy on him, stating ¹⁴ that the holy city, which he was hurrying to level to the ground and to make a cemetery, he was now declaring to be free; ¹⁵ and the Jews, whom he had not considered worth burying but had planned to throw out with their children for the wild animals and for the birds to eat, he would make, all of them, equal to citizens of Athens; ¹⁶ and the holy sanctuary, which he had formerly plundered, he would adorn with the finest offerings; and all the holy vessels he would give back, many times over; and the expenses incurred for the sacrifices he would provide from his own revenues; ¹⁷ and in addition to all this he also would become a Jew and would visit every inhabited place to proclaim the power of God.¹⁸ But when his sufferings did not in any way abate, for the judgment of God had justly come upon him, he gave up all hope for himself and wrote to the Jews the following letter, in the form of a supplication. This was its content:

¹⁹ “To his worthy Jewish citizens, Antiochus their king and general sends hearty greetings and good wishes for their health and prosperity.²⁰ If you and your children are well and your affairs are as you wish, I am glad. As my hope is in heaven,²¹ I remember with affection your esteem and goodwill. On my way back from the region of Persia I suffered an annoying illness, and I have deemed it necessary to take thought for the general security of all.²² I do not despair of my condition, for I have good hope of recovering from my illness,²³ but I observed that my father, on the occasions when he made expeditions into the upper country, appointed his successor,²⁴ so that, if anything unexpected happened or any unwelcome news came, the people throughout the realm would not be troubled, for they would know to whom the government was left.²⁵ Moreover, I understand how the princes along the borders and the neighbors of my kingdom keep watching for opportunities and waiting to see what will happen. So I have appointed my son Antiochus to be king, whom I have often entrusted and commended to most of you when I hurried off to the upper provinces; and I have written to him what is written here.²⁶ I therefore urge and beg you to remember the public

^a Or not think thoughts proper only to God

9: Worms, a common motif in narratives about the death of tyrants, e.g., Jdt 16.17; Acts 12.23. Stench, from Joel 2.20, of “the northerner,” who was easily identified as Antiochus Epiphanes (the “king of the north” of Dan 11).

10: Touch the stars of heaven, Isa 14.13.

9.13–27: Antiochus’s vow and letter to the Jews. The author enjoys himself, concocting promises and self-humiliation by the desperate king. 14: Free, of taxes; perhaps also having asylum status. 15: Not considered worth burying, see 5.10n. 16: Cf. 3.3; 5.16. Antiochus’s promises conform to his brother’s practice (3.3). 17: To proclaim the power of God, as did Heliodorus (3.37–39) and Nicanor (8.36). 17–18: Would visit . . . had justly come upon him, the Greek verbs are identical, ironically underlining the contrast between Antiochus’s confident promise and his inability to fulfill it. 19–27: The letter is no supplication (v. 18). Some scholars consider this to be an authentic letter, but one that was addressed only to Jews loyal to the king, bidding them to support his son Antiochus V (vv. 25–27); cf. the authentic letters in 11.16, 22, 27, 34. If it is authentic, it does not fit the context. Alternatively, it may be an ironic composition by the author, designed to make Antiochus appear ridiculous. 19: Citizens means fellow-citizens (as in 5.6, “compatriots”), reflecting Antiochus’s promise to become a Jew. By naming the addressees first Antiochus ascribes them greater importance, another example of the author’s humor; contrast the authentic letters in ch 11. 23: My father, Antiochus III, who appointed Seleucus IV as his successor. The upper country, i.e., Babylonia and Persia, the inlands of Asia, as in 1 Macc 3.37; 6.1. 25: What is written here, lit. “What is written below,” as if the letter had an appendix: more spoofing of official letters (such as 1 Macc 11.31; 12.7).

and private services rendered to you and to maintain your present goodwill, each of you, toward me and my son.²⁷ For I am sure that he will follow my policy and will treat you with moderation and kindness.”

²⁸ So the murderer and blasphemer, having endured the more intense suffering, such as he had inflicted on others, came to the end of his life by a most pitiable fate, among the mountains in a strange land.²⁹ And Philip, one of his courtiers, took his body home; then, fearing the son of Antiochus, he withdrew to Ptolemy Philometor in Egypt.

10 Now Maccabeus and his followers, the Lord leading them on, recovered the temple and the city;² they tore down the altars that had been built in the public square by the foreigners, and also destroyed the sacred precincts.³ They purified the sanctuary, and made another altar of sacrifice; then, striking fire out of flint, they offered sacrifices, after a lapse of two years, and they offered incense and lighted lamps and set out the bread of the Presence.⁴ When they had done this, they fell prostrate and implored the Lord that they might never again fall into such misfortunes, but that, if they should ever sin, they might be disciplined by him with forbearance and not be handed over to blasphemous and barbarous nations.⁵ It happened that on the same day on which the sanctuary had been profaned by the foreigners, the purification of the sanctuary took place, that is, on the twenty-fifth day of the same month, which was Chislew.⁶ They celebrated it for eight days with rejoicing, in the manner of the festival of booths, remembering how not long before, during the festival of booths, they had been wandering in the mountains and caves like wild animals.⁷ Therefore, carrying ivy-wreathed wands and beautiful branches and also fronds of palm, they offered hymns of thanksgiving to him who had given success to the purifying of his own holy place.⁸ They decreed by public edict, ratified by vote, that the whole nation of the Jews should observe these days every year.

⁹ Such then was the end of Antiochus, who was called Epiphanes.

¹⁰ Now we will tell what took place under Antiochus Eupator, who was the son of that ungodly man, and will give a brief summary of the principal calamities of the wars.¹¹ This man, when he succeeded to the kingdom, appointed one Lysias to have charge of the government and to be chief governor of Coele-syria and Phoenicia.¹² Ptolemy, who was called Macron, took the lead in showing justice to the Jews because of the wrong that had been done to them, and attempted to maintain peaceful relations with them.¹³ As a result he was accused before Eupator by the king's Friends.

Cf. 11.17n. 26: Your present goodwill, the way this contradicts the facts so blatantly again constitutes authorial humor.

9.28–29: Antiochus's death. Philip apparently tried to seize the Seleucid government (1 Macc 6.55–56) without success and so went over to their enemy, Ptolemy VI (see 4.21). As cuneiform evidence attests, Antiochus died late in 164 BCE, around the same time as the rededication of the Temple.

10.1–8: Rededication of the Temple (cf. 1 Macc 4.36–61). This passage, needed to support the invitation in the letters prefaced to the book, seems to have been inserted by the Judean authors of those letters. It interrupts the preceding account, which continues in 10.9, and in contrast to the book as a whole displays an interest in the Temple and an antipathy for Gentiles. 1: The temple and the city, historical order reversed; contrast 3.1–3; 4.48; 15.17. 3: Striking fire out of flint, lit. “igniting rocks and extracting fire from them”; see 1.10–2.18n. the incense, lamps, and bread of the Presence, prescribed by Ex 30.7–8; 25.30. 4: Disciplined, see 6.12n. 5–6: Chislew . . . festival of booths, (December 164 BCE); see 1.9, 18. The Hanukkah festival, celebrated for eight days like Solomon's dedication of the first Temple (1 Kings 8.65–66) and Hezekiah's reconsecration (2 Chr 29.17), commemorates this event. See also 1 Macc 4.52–59. In the mountains and caves like wild animals, see 5.27. 7: Ivy-wreathed wands, contrast 6.7. Fronds of palm, cf. 1 Macc 13.51; Jn 12.13.

10.9–13: Antiochus V Eupator ascends to throne. See 9.1–12n. Antiochus V, son of Antiochus IV Epiphanes, ruled 164–162 BCE, when he was murdered by order of Demetrius I at the age of eleven. 10: Eupator, who was the son of that ungodly man is ironic, since “Eupator” means “who has a good father.” 11: Lysias, see 1 Macc 3.32–33. 12: Ptolemy Macron, see 4.45. We know no more about his fair policy toward the Jews. 13: Philometor, see 1.10n.

He heard himself called a traitor at every turn, because he had abandoned Cyprus, which Philometor had entrusted to him, and had gone over to Antiochus Epiphanes. Unable to command the respect due his office,^a he took poison and ended his life.

¹⁴When Gorgias became governor of the region, he maintained a force of mercenaries, and at every turn kept attacking the Jews.¹⁵ Besides this, the Idumeans, who had control of important strongholds, were harassing the Jews; they received those who were banished from Jerusalem, and endeavored to keep up the war.¹⁶ But Maccabeus and his forces, after making solemn supplication and imploring God to fight on their side, rushed to the strongholds of the Idumeans.¹⁷ Attacking them vigorously, they gained possession of the places, and beat off all who fought upon the wall, and slaughtered those whom they encountered, killing no fewer than twenty thousand.

¹⁸When at least nine thousand took refuge in two very strong towers well equipped to withstand a siege,¹⁹ Maccabeus left Simon and Joseph, and also Zacchaeus and his troops, a force sufficient to besiege them; and he himself set off for places where he was more urgently needed.²⁰ But those with Simon, who were money-hungry, were bribed by some of those who were in the towers, and on receiving seventy thousand drachmas let some of them slip away.²¹ When word of what had happened came to Maccabeus, he gathered the leaders of the people, and accused these men of having sold their kindred for money by setting their enemies free to fight against them.²² Then he killed these men who had turned traitor, and immediately captured the two towers.²³ Having success at arms in everything he undertook, he destroyed more than twenty thousand in the two strongholds.

²⁴Now Timothy, who had been defeated by the Jews before, gathered a tremendous force of mercenaries and collected the cavalry from Asia in no small number. He came on, intending to take Judea by storm.²⁵ As he drew near, Maccabeus and his men sprinkled dust on their heads and girded their loins with sackcloth, in supplication to God.²⁶ Falling upon the steps before the altar, they implored him to be gracious to them and to be an enemy to their enemies and an adversary to their adversaries, as the law declares.²⁷ And rising from their prayer they took up their arms and advanced a considerable distance from the city; and when they came near the enemy they halted.²⁸ Just as dawn was breaking, the two armies joined battle, the one having as pledge of success and victory not only their valor but also their reliance on the Lord, while the other made rage their leader in the fight.

²⁹When the battle became fierce, there appeared to the enemy from heaven five resplendent men on horses with golden bridles, and they were leading the Jews.³⁰ Two of them took Maccabeus between them, and shielding him with their own armor and weapons, they kept him from being wounded. They showered arrows and thunderbolts on the enemy, so that, confused and blinded, they were thrown into disorder and cut to pieces.³¹ Twenty thousand five hundred were slaughtered, besides six hundred cavalry.

³²Timothy himself fled to a stronghold called Gazara, especially well garrisoned,

^a Cn: Meaning of Gk uncertain

In claiming that Seleucid courtiers condemned Ptolemy Macron for moving his loyalty to the Seleucids, our author is condemning them, as usual; cf. 14.11.

10.14–23: Fighting the Idumeans. Cf. 1 Macc 5.3–5. 14: The region, of Idumea (southern Palestine) according to 12.32, which explains the link to the next verse. 15: Those who were banished from Jerusalem, apparently by Judas when he retook the city. 17: Twenty thousand, a favorite number (see also v. 23; 8.9,30). 20: Drachma, see 4.19n.

10.24–38: Fighting Timothy. 24: Timothy, who had been defeated by the Jews before, this might be a secondary gloss (see 8.30–33n.). To take Judea, but according to 1 Macc 5.6–8,11 this warfare was in Transjordan; see v. 32n. 25: Sprinkled dust, or possibly “ashes,” as in Esth 4.1; cf. 14.15 and Josh 7.6. 26: The steps before the altar, compare Joel 2.17 and see 9.9n. As the law declares, at Ex 23.22. The very next verse there promises that God’s angel will go before the Jews; see below, v. 29. 28: The one . . . the other, cf. 3:22–23n. 29: Horses with golden bridles, as at 3.25. 32:

where Chaereas was commander.³³ Then Maccabeus and his men were glad, and they besieged the fort for four days.³⁴ The men within, relying on the strength of the place, kept blaspheming terribly and uttering wicked words.³⁵ But at dawn of the fifth day, twenty young men in the army of Maccabeus, fired with anger because of the blasphemies, bravely stormed the wall and with savage fury cut down everyone they met.³⁶ Others who came up in the same way wheeled around against the defenders and set fire to the towers; they kindled fires and burned the blasphemers alive. Others broke open the gates and let in the rest of the force, and they occupied the city.³⁷ They killed Timothy, who was hiding in a cistern, and his brother Chaereas, and Apollophanes.³⁸ When they had accomplished these things, with hymns and thanksgivings they blessed the Lord who shows great kindness to Israel and gives them the victory.

11 Very soon after this, Lysias, the king's guardian and kinsman, who was in charge of the government, being vexed at what had happened,² gathered about eighty thousand infantry and all his cavalry and came against the Jews. He intended to make the city a home for Greeks,³ and to levy tribute on the temple as he did on the sacred places of the other nations, and to put up the high priesthood for sale every year.⁴ He took no account whatever of the power of God, but was elated with his ten thousands of infantry, and his thousands of cavalry, and his eighty elephants.⁵ Invading Judea, he approached Beth-zur, which was a fortified place about five stadia^a from Jerusalem, and pressed it hard.

⁶ When Maccabeus and his men got word that Lysias^b was besieging the strongholds, they and all the people, with lamentations and tears, prayed the Lord to send a good angel to save Israel.⁷ Maccabeus himself was the first to take up arms, and he urged the others to risk their lives with him to aid their kindred. Then they eagerly rushed off together.⁸ And there, while they were still near Jerusalem, a horseman appeared at their head, clothed in white and brandishing weapons of gold.⁹ And together they all praised the merciful God, and were strengthened in heart, ready to assail not only humans but the wildest animals or walls of iron.¹⁰ They advanced in battle order, having their heavenly ally, for the Lord had mercy on them.¹¹ They hurled themselves like lions against the enemy, and laid low eleven thousand of them and sixteen hundred cavalry, and forced all the rest to flee.¹² Most of them got away stripped and wounded, and Lysias himself escaped by disgraceful flight.

¹³ As he was not without intelligence, he pondered over the defeat that had befallen him, and realized that the Hebrews were invincible because the mighty God fought

^a Meaning of Gk uncertain

^b Gk he

Gazara (Gezer) was conquered by the Hasmoneans only decades later (1 Macc 13.43–48); here we should probably read (as in 1 Macc 5.8) “Jazer,” a town in Transjordan, west of Amman. Chaereas, Timothy's brother, according to v. 37. 37: Timothy, who was hiding in a cistern. A cistern was a large pit with plaster walls that stored water. The author often denies his enemies honorable death in battle; compare 8.34–35; 9.1–2; 11.12; 12.35.

11.1–15: Beth-zur campaign. Compare 1 Macc 4.26–35 and 6.31. Beth-zur was a fortress 16 mi (25 km) south-southeast of Jerusalem. 1: Lysias, see 9.1–12n. Kinsman, honorific usage, as at 1 Macc 11.31; compare v. 22, “brother.” 2: He intended, lit. “thinking”; see v. 4n. 3: High priesthood for sale every year, which would demean it greatly, for traditionally, until Jason (4.7; cf. 4.24), it had been held for life and passed from father to son. 4: He took no account whatever, lit. “not thinking more,” responding to the verb in v. 2: i.e., Lysias depended upon his own thoughts, and did not give more consideration to the power of God. He will learn: see v. 13. Elephants, often used to force openings in opposing ranks of soldiers (cf. 1 Macc 1.17; 3.34; 6.34–35. 5: Five stadia, lit. “five schoinoi”; a “schoinos” was a Persian measure popular in Egypt, equivalent to ca. thirty stadia (see 12.10–28n.), so the distance here is approximately 18 mi (29 km), which is close to the actual distance of 16 mi (26 km). 6: A good angel, as at 15.23; see 10.26n. 12: Lysias himself escaped by disgraceful flight, see 10.37n. 13–15: According to 1 Macc 4.35 no peace was made, but Lysias returned to Antioch for reinforcements. He may have heard of Antiochus's death and hastened home to take control. 13: God fought on their side, as at 8.36.

on their side. So he sent to them¹⁴ and persuaded them to settle everything on just terms, promising that he would persuade the king, constraining him to be their friend.^a ¹⁵ Maccabeus, having regard for the common good, agreed to all that Lysias urged. For the king granted every request in behalf of the Jews which Maccabeus delivered to Lysias in writing.

¹⁶ The letter written to the Jews by Lysias was to this effect:

“Lysias to the people of the Jews, greetings.¹⁷ John and Absalom, who were sent by you, have delivered your signed communication and have asked about the matters indicated in it. ¹⁸ I have informed the king of everything that needed to be brought before him, and he has agreed to what was possible. ¹⁹ If you will maintain your goodwill toward the government, I will endeavor in the future to help promote your welfare. ²⁰ And concerning such matters and their details, I have ordered these men and my representatives to confer with you. ²¹ Farewell. The one hundred forty-eighth year,^b Dioscorinthius twenty-fourth.”

²² The king's letter ran thus:

“King Antiochus to his brother Lysias, greetings. ²³ Now that our father has gone on to the gods, we desire that the subjects of the kingdom be undisturbed in caring for their own affairs. ²⁴ We have heard that the Jews do not consent to our father's change to Greek customs, but prefer their own way of living and ask that their own customs be allowed them. ²⁵ Accordingly, since we choose that this nation also should be free from disturbance, our decision is that their temple be restored to them and that they shall live according to the customs of their ancestors. ²⁶ You will do well, therefore, to send word to them and give them pledges of friendship, so that they may know our policy and be of good cheer and go on happily in the conduct of their own affairs.”

²⁷ To the nation the king's letter was as follows:

“King Antiochus to the senate of the Jews and to the other Jews, greetings. ²⁸ If you are well, it is as we desire. We also are in good health. ²⁹ Menelaus has informed us that you wish to return home and look after your own affairs. ³⁰ Therefore those who go home by the thirtieth of Xanthicus will have our pledge of friendship and full permission ³¹ for the Jews to enjoy their own food and laws, just as formerly, and none of them shall be molested in any way for what may have been done in ignorance. ³² And I have also sent Menelaus to encourage you.

^a Meaning of Gk uncertain

^b 164 B.C.

11.16–38: Four official letters. These are usually assumed to be authentic, but their location here, after the death of Antiochus IV (ch 9) and ascent of Eupator to the throne (ch 10), is problematic. True, the second letter is definitely by Antiochus Eupator, who refers to his father's death in v. 23. But the other three bear dates in 164 BCE, when Antiochus IV Epiphanes was still alive and ruling, although campaigning in the east; see 9.28–29n. The author's mistaken assumption that all four letters are from the period after that king's death caused problems in the narrative; see 12.1n., 12.10n., and 13.23n.

11.16–21: Lysias's letter to the Jews. 17: John, perhaps Judas's brother (1 Macc 2.2); for Absalom, see 1 Macc 11.70; 13.11. Your signed communication, read “your communication attached below”; the reference is to the document mentioned in v. 15, which was unfortunately not preserved. 18: And he has agreed, read “and I have agreed” (see vv. 35–36); Lysias distinguishes between decisions he is authorized to take and others that require the king's attention. 19: Maintain your goodwill, Lysias diplomatically ignores the warfare. 21: The one hundred forty-eighth year of the Seleucid era ran from autumn 165 to autumn 164; the name of the month is corrupt. The date is before Judas rededicated the Temple.

11.22–26: The king's letter to Lysias. 24: We have heard that the Jews do not consent, more diplomatic understatement. 25: Temple be restored . . . live according to the customs of their ancestors, Antiochus rescinds his father's decrees against Judaism (ch 6), ignoring the fact that the Temple was already in Jewish hands.

11.27–33: The king's letter to the Jews. 29: Menelaus as late as spring 164 BCE was attempting to mediate between Antiochus and the Jews. 30: Thirtieth of Xanthicus, equivalent to Heb Nisan (March/April). 31: Their own food and laws, the special emphasis upon food corresponds to that focus of the decrees (chs 6–7; 1 Macc 1.62–63). 33: Xanthicus fifteenth, the amnesty's deadline was only two weeks later (v. 30), which is unlikely. Given

³³ Farewell. The one hundred forty-eighth year,^a Xanthicus fifteenth.”

³⁴ The Romans also sent them a letter, which read thus:

“Quintus Memmius and Titus Manius, envoys of the Romans, to the people of the Jews, greetings. ³⁵ With regard to what Lysias the kinsman of the king has granted you, we also give consent. ³⁶ But as to the matters that he decided are to be referred to the king, as soon as you have considered them, send some one promptly so that we may make proposals appropriate for you. For we are on our way to Antioch. ³⁷ Therefore make haste and send messengers so that we may have your judgment. ³⁸ Farewell. The one hundred forty-eighth year,^a Xanthicus fifteenth.”

12 When this agreement had been reached, Lysias returned to the king, and the Jews went about their farming.

² But some of the governors in various places, Timothy and Apollonius son of Gennaesus, as well as Hieronymus and Demophon, and in addition to these Nicanor the governor of Cyprus, would not let them live quietly and in peace. ³ And the people of Joppa did so ungodly a deed as this: they invited the Jews who lived among them to embark, with their wives and children, on boats that they had provided, as though there were no ill will to the Jews;^{b 4} and this was done by public vote of the city. When they accepted, because they wished to live peaceably and suspected nothing, the people of Joppa^c took them out to sea and drowned them, at least two hundred. ⁵ When Judas heard of the cruelty visited on his compatriots, he gave orders to his men ⁶ and, calling upon God, the righteous judge, attacked the murderers of his kindred. He set fire to the harbor by night, burned the boats, and massacred those who had taken refuge there. ⁷ Then, because the city's gates were closed, he withdrew, intending to come again and root out the whole community of Joppa. ⁸ But learning that the people in Jamnia meant in the same way to wipe out the Jews who were living among them, ⁹ he attacked the Jamnites by night and set fire to the harbor and the fleet, so that the glow of the light was seen in Jerusalem, thirty miles^d distant.

¹⁰ When they had gone more than a mile^e from there, on their march against Timothy, at least five thousand Arabs with five

^a 164 B.C.

^b Gk to them

^c Gk they

^d Gk two hundred forty stadia

^e Gk nine stadia

the identity of the date in v. 38, which too is suspicious, it is likely that this date is corrupt.

11.34–38: Letter of the Romans to the Jews. 34: The Romans in this period were periodically sending embassies to the East. Judas apparently asked them to use their influence with the Seleucids, just as a few years later he would establish a mutual defense pact with them (1 Macc 8). 35–36: What Lysias . . . has granted . . . referred to the king, see v. 18n.

12.1–9: Clashes in coastal towns. 1: This agreement, lit. “these covenants.” But the documents in ch 11 are not covenants; they are one-sided decisions. Chapter 13, in contrast, does end with “covenants” (13.25, same term in Greek). Given the author’s difficulties coordinating ch 13 with earlier material (see 13.1–26n.), perhaps it originally preceded ch 12. The Jews went about their farming, a pastoral image of returning “to their own affairs” (11.23,26,29). 2: Timothy, 8.30–33; 10.24–37. Governor of Cyprus, read “Cypriarch,” i.e., commander of mercenaries from Cyprus (cf. 5.24n.). 3: Joppa, Jaffa, next to modern Tel Aviv; a major port on the Mediterranean, later conquered by the Hasmoneans (1 Macc 12.33–34). 8: Jamnia, ca. 14 mi (22 km) south of Joppa; compare v. 40 and 1 Macc 5.58.

12.10–28: Fighting in Transjordan. This section parallels much of 1 Macc 5, which contains a fuller account. The order is confused here, for “one mile” (v. 10, lit. “nine stadia”; a stadion was ca. 625 ft [190 m]) would not take Judas’s forces from the Mediterranean coast to Transjordan; “ninety-five miles” (v. 17) could. Perhaps the two stories have been erroneously exchanged. 10: Timothy, some confusion is present here too, as he had been killed at 10.37; see 11.16–38n. 10–11: Arabs . . . nomads, the author often varies his terminology; compare “no light matter . . . not easy” in 2.26–27 and “festival of weeks . . . Pentecost” in 12.31–32. 1 Macc 5.25 identifies these Arabs as Nabateans and claims they were peaceable from the outset; 2 Macc first allows Judas another heroic hundred cavalry attacked them. ¹¹ After a hard fight, Judas and his companions, with God's help, were victorious. The defeated nomads begged Judas to grant them pledges of friendship, promising to give him livestock and to help his people^a in all other ways. ¹² Judas, realizing that they might indeed be useful in many ways, agreed to make peace with them; and after receiving his pledges they went back to their tents.

¹³ He also attacked a certain town that was strongly fortified with earthworks^b and walls, and inhabited by all sorts of Gentiles. Its name was Caspin. ¹⁴ Those who were within, relying on the strength of the walls and on their supply of provisions, behaved most insolently toward Judas and his men, railing at them and even blaspheming and saying unholy things. ¹⁵ But Judas and his men, calling upon the great Sovereign of the world, who without battering rams or engines of war overthrew Jericho in the days of Joshua, rushed furiously upon the walls. ¹⁶ They took the town by the will of God, and slaughtered untold numbers, so that the adjoining lake, a quarter of a mile^c wide, appeared to be running over with blood.

¹⁷ When they had gone ninety-five miles^d from there, they came to Charax, to the Jews who are called Toubiani. ¹⁸ They did not find Timothy in that region, for he had by then left there without accomplishing anything, though in one place he had left a very strong garrison. ¹⁹ Dositheus and Sosipater, who were captains under Maccabeus, marched out and destroyed those whom Timothy had left in the stronghold, more than ten thousand men. ²⁰ But Maccabeus arranged his army in divisions, set men^e in command of the divisions, and hurried after Timothy, who had with him one hundred twenty thousand infantry and two thousand five hundred cavalry. ²¹ When Timothy learned of the approach of Judas, he sent off the women and the children and also the baggage to a place called Carnaim; for that place was hard to besiege and difficult of access because of the narrowness of all the approaches. ²² But when Judas's first division appeared, terror and fear came over the enemy at the manifestation to them of him who sees all things. In their flight they rushed headlong in every direction, so that often they were injured by their own men and pierced by the points of their own swords. ²³ Judas pressed the pursuit with the utmost vigor, putting the sinners to the sword, and destroyed as many as thirty thousand.

²⁴ Timothy himself fell into the hands of Dositheus and Sosipater and their men. With great guile he begged them to let him go in safety, because he held the parents of most of them, and the brothers of some, to whom no consideration would be shown. ²⁵ And when with many words he had confirmed his solemn promise to restore them unharmed, they let him go, for the sake of saving their kindred.

²⁶ Then Judas^e marched against Carnaim and the temple of Atargatis, and slaughtered twenty-five thousand people. ²⁷ After the rout and destruction of these, he marched also against Ephron, a fortified town where Lysias lived with multitudes of people of all nationalities.^b Stalwart young men took their stand before the walls and made a vigorous defense; and great stores of war engines and missiles were there. ²⁸ But the Jews^f called upon the Sovereign who with power shatters

^a Gk them

^b Meaning of Gk uncertain

^c Gk two stadia

^d Gk seven hundred fifty stadia

^e Gk he

^f Gk they

victory before they make peace. 13: All sorts of Gentiles is pejorative, as in v. 27. Caspin, ca. 10 mi (16 km) east of Lake Gennesaret (the Sea of Galilee). 15: Overthrew Jericho, Josh 6.1–21. 16: Adjoining lake, perhaps a swamp. 17: Charax, "fortified camp"; location unknown. Toubiani, Jews associated with the Tobiad family (3.11n.); cf. 1 Macc 5.13. 21: Women . . . children . . . baggage, lit. "women, children, and other baggage," reflecting patriarchal values. Carnaim, farther east in Transjordan (1 Macc 5.26–27). 22: Manifestation, epiphany; see 2.21n. Injured by their own men, a literary convention in battle scenes. 26: Carnaim, see v. 21n. Atargatis was a Syrian goddess, corresponding to the Canaanite Ashtoreth; cf. "Ashteroth-karnaim" in Gen 14.5. 27: Ephron, ca. 8 mi (13 km) east of the Jordan River, opposite Scythopolis (v. 29; 1 Macc 5.46–51). War engines, large catapults.

the might of his enemies, and they got the town into their hands, and killed as many as twenty-five thousand of those who were in it.

²⁹ Setting out from there, they hastened to Scythopolis, which is seventy-five miles^a from Jerusalem. ³⁰ But when the Jews who lived there bore witness to the goodwill that the people of Scythopolis had shown them and their kind treatment of them in times of misfortune, ³¹ they thanked them and exhorted them to be well disposed to their race in the future also. Then they went up to Jerusalem, as the festival of weeks was close at hand.

³² After the festival called Pentecost, they hurried against Gorgias, the governor of Idumea, ³³ who came out with three thousand infantry and four hundred cavalry. ³⁴ When they joined battle, it happened that a few of the Jews fell. ³⁵ But a certain Dositheus, one of Bacenor's men, who was on horseback and was a strong man, caught hold of Gorgias, and grasping his cloak was dragging him off by main strength, wishing to take the accursed man alive, when one of the Thracian cavalry bore down on him and cut off his arm; so Gorgias escaped and reached Marisa.

³⁶ As Esdris and his men had been fighting for a long time and were weary, Judas called upon the Lord to show himself their ally and leader in the battle. ³⁷ In the language of their ancestors he raised the battle cry, with hymns; then he charged against Gorgias's troops when they were not expecting it, and put them to flight.

³⁸ Then Judas assembled his army and went to the city of Adullam. As the seventh day was coming on, they purified themselves according to the custom, and kept the sabbath there.

³⁹ On the next day, as had now become necessary, Judas and his men went to take up the bodies of the fallen and to bring them back to lie with their kindred in the sepulchres of their ancestors. ⁴⁰ Then under the tunic of each one of the dead they found sacred tokens of the idols of Jamnia, which the law forbids the Jews to wear. And it became clear to all that this was the reason these men had fallen. ⁴¹ So they all blessed the ways of the Lord, the righteous judge, who reveals the things that are hidden; ⁴² and they turned to supplication, praying that the sin that had been committed might be wholly blotted out. The noble Judas exhorted the people to keep themselves free from sin, for they had seen with their own eyes what had happened as the result of the sin of those who had fallen. ⁴³ He also took up a collection, man by man, to the amount of two thousand drachmas of silver, and sent it to Jerusalem to provide for a sin offering. In doing this he acted very well and honorably, taking account of the resurrection. ⁴⁴ For if he were not expecting that those who had fallen would rise again, it would have been superfluous and foolish to pray for the dead. ⁴⁵ But if he was looking to the splendid reward that is laid up for those who fall asleep in godliness, it was a holy and pious thought. Therefore he made atonement for the dead, so that they might be delivered from their sin.

13 In the one hundred forty-ninth year^b word came to Judas and his men that Antiochus Eupator was coming with a great

^a Gk six hundred stadia

^b 163 B.C.

12.29–31: Return to Jerusalem. 29: Scythopolis (Hellenistic Beth-shan), a major city west of the Jordan River, ca. 16 mi (26 km) south of the Sea of Galilee (Judg 1.27; 1 Kings 4.12). 31: Went up, the usual verb for pilgrimage to Jerusalem; e.g. 1 Sam 1.3; Acts 21.15. 31–32: Festival of weeks . . . Pentecost, this holiday comes seven weeks ("Pentecost" = fifty [days]) after Passover (Lev 23.15–16; Acts 2.1). 35: Thracians were well-known mercenaries in the Hellenistic period. Marisa was a major Idumean town, 20 mi (32 km) southwest of Jerusalem. 37: Language of their ancestors, i.e., Hebrew. 38: Adullam, ca. 10 mi (16 km) southeast of Marisa. 40: Although only "a few" Jews had died (v. 34), it is important for the author that it is sin, not the chances of war, that caused their death. Sacred tokens of the idols of Jamnia, probably taken as booty. Which the law forbids, see Num 33.52; Deut 7.25–26. 43–45: The author expounds upon Judas's care for the dead as evidence of his belief that their lives did not end with death; see 7.9n. 45: Fall asleep, a common metaphor for death.

13.1–26: A new invasion. This chapter, which makes no allusion to ch 11, reports yet another campaign by Lysias and Antiochus Eupator that focuses on Beth-zur (vv. 18–22). This is problematic, both because no at-army against Judea,² and with him Lysias, his guardian, who had charge of the government. Each of them had a Greek force of one hundred ten thousand infantry, five thousand three hundred cavalry, twenty-two elephants, and three hundred chariots armed with scythes.

³ Menelaus also joined them and with utter hypocrisy urged Antiochus on, not for the sake of his country's welfare, but because he thought that he would be established in office. ⁴ But the King of kings aroused the anger of Antiochus against the scoundrel; and when Lysias informed him that this man was to blame for all the trouble, he ordered them to take him to Beroea and to put him to death by the method that is customary in that place. ⁵ For there is a tower there, fifty cubits high, full of ashes, and it has a rim running around it that on all sides inclines precipitously into the ashes. ⁶ There they all push to destruction anyone guilty of sacrilege or notorious for other crimes. ⁷ By such a fate it came about that Menelaus the lawbreaker died, without even burial in the earth. ⁸ And this was eminently just; because he had committed many sins against the altar whose fire and ashes were holy, he met his death in ashes.

⁹ The king with barbarous arrogance was coming to show the Jews things far worse than those that had been done^a in his father's time. ¹⁰ But when Judas heard of this, he ordered the people to call upon the Lord day and night, now if ever to help those who were on the point of being deprived of the law and their country and the holy temple, ¹¹ and not to let the people who had just begun to revive fall into the hands of the blasphemous Gentiles. ¹² When they had all joined in the same petition and had implored the merciful Lord with weeping and fasting and lying prostrate for three days without ceasing, Judas exhorted them and ordered them to stand ready.

¹³ After consulting privately with the elders, he determined to march out and decide the matter by the help of God before the king's army could enter Judea and get possession of the city. ¹⁴ So, committing the decision to the Creator of the world and exhorting his troops to fight bravely to the death for the laws, temple, city, country, and commonwealth, he pitched his camp near Modein. ¹⁵ He gave his troops the watchword, "God's victory," and with a picked force of the bravest young men, he attacked the king's pavilion at night and killed as many as two thousand men in the camp. He stabbed^b the leading elephant and its rider. ¹⁶ In the end they filled the camp with terror and confusion and withdrew in triumph. ¹⁷ This happened, just as day was dawning, because the Lord's help protected him.

¹⁸ The king, having had a taste of the daring of the Jews, tried strategy in attacking their positions. ¹⁹ He advanced against Beth-

^a Or the worst of the things that had been done

^b Meaning of Gk uncertain

tempt is made to coordinate this narrative with that of ch 11, and because according to the parallel narrative in 1 Maccabees this second campaign began around Beth-zur (1 Macc 6.31) but quickly moved north to Beth-zechariah (1 Macc 6.32–47), which is not mentioned here. Similarly, Philip's role is puzzling; see 13.23n. It appears that the author was confused. 3–8: Death of Menelaus. This interruptive interlude takes care of a loose end. 3: Menelaus, see 4.23–50n. 4: King of kings, a typical Persian epithet. Here it refers to God. Beroea, Aleppo in northern Syria. 5: Fifty cubits high, cf. Esth 7.9; a cubit was ca. 18 in (45 cm). This method was Persian; we are not told here whether the ashes were hot, so that Menelaus died by burning, or cold, and so by suffocating. 7: Without even burial, see 5.10n. 8: The apparent artificiality of this explanation of poetic justice shows how important the notion is for 2 Macc; see 4.42n. 9: To explain why the invasion continued although the real troublemaker had been recognized and executed, the author can only claim that the king's attitude toward the Jews changed for the worse; no reason is given. 11: Just begun to revive, so relapse would be all the worse; cf. 14.36. 12: Fasting . . . for three days, as in Esth 4.16. 14: Modein, ca. 20 mi (32 km) northwest of Jerusalem, the hometown of the Hasmoneans (1 Macc 2.1). 15: Watchword, as in 8.23. Leading elephant and its rider, cf. 1 Macc 6.43–46, where Eleazar dies after heroically killing the lead elephant. 16: According to 1 Macc 6.47, the Jews fled. 19: Beth-zur, zur, a strong fortress of the Jews, was turned back, attacked again,^a and was defeated.

²⁰Judas sent in to the garrison whatever was necessary.²¹ But Rhodocus, a man from the ranks of the Jews, gave secret information to the enemy; he was sought for, caught, and put in prison.²² The king negotiated a second time with the people in Beth-zur, gave pledges, received theirs, withdrew, attacked Judas and his men, was defeated;²³ he got word that Philip, who had been left in charge of the government, had revolted in Antioch; he was dismayed, called in the Jews, yielded and swore to observe all their rights, settled with them and offered sacrifice, honored the sanctuary and showed generosity to the holy place.²⁴ He received Maccabeus, left Hegemonides as governor from Ptolemais to Gerar,²⁵ and went to Ptolemais. The people of Ptolemais were indignant over the treaty; in fact they were so angry that they wanted to annul its terms.^b ²⁶Lysias took the public platform, made the best possible defense, convinced them, appeased them, gained their goodwill, and set out for Antioch. This is how the king's attack and withdrawal turned out.

14 Three years later, word came to Judas and his men that Demetrius son of Seleucus had sailed into the harbor of Tripolis with a strong army and a fleet,² and had taken possession of the country, having made away with Antiochus and his guardian Lysias.

³Now a certain Alcimus, who had formerly been high priest but had willfully defiled himself in the times of separation,^c realized that there was no way for him to be safe or to have access again to the holy altar,⁴ and went to King Demetrius in about the one hundred fifty-first year,^d presenting to him a crown of gold and a palm, and besides these some of the customary olive branches from the temple. During that day he kept quiet.⁵ But he found an opportunity that furthered his mad purpose when he was invited by Demetrius to a meeting of the council and was asked about the attitude and intentions of the Jews. He answered:

⁶“Those of the Jews who are called Hasideans, whose leader is Judas Maccabeus, are keeping up war and stirring up sedition, and will not let the kingdom attain tranquility.⁷ Therefore I have laid aside my ancestral glory—I mean the high priesthood—and have

^a Or faltered

^b Meaning of Gk uncertain

^c Other ancient authorities read of mixing

^d 161 B.C.

see 11.1–15n. 23: Philip, who had been left in charge of the government, had revolted, this comment is confusing, since 9.29 reported that Philip had fled to Egypt out of fear of Eupator; see 11.16–38n. 24: Received Maccabeus, formally taking leave of him, as at 3.35. Hegemonides, like Heliodorus (3.7) and Ptolemy Macron (10:12), this Seleucid official is known from inscriptions. From Ptolemais to Gerar, the Palestinian coastal region from Acco down to below Gaza; for this administrative district, see also 1 Macc 11.59 and 15.38. 25: The treaty, see 12.1n.

14.1–25: Alcimus and Nicanor. Enter a new villain, Alcimus, said to have formerly been high priest, which is possible if Antiochus V appointed him after the death of Menelaus. He incites the new Seleucid king against Judas, and a royal expedition is sent out, commanded by Nicanor, who is taken by the author, perhaps mistakenly, to be identical with the “thrice-accursed” (8.34; 15.3) villain of ch 8. According to 1 Macc 7.12–25 the first campaign incited by Alcimus was commanded by Bacchides; 2 Macc assigns it to Nicanor in light of its general focus upon him, culminating in his defeat in ch 15 and the festival established to celebrate it (15.36); cf. 8.9n. 1: Three years later, about 162 or 161 BCE. Demetrius I, son of Seleucus IV (reigned 162–150), had been sent to Rome to replace Antiochus IV Epiphanes as a hostage. When Seleucus IV died in 175 BCE, Demetrius was still a child, and Antiochus assumed the throne (see 4.7n.). After the death of Antiochus IV, Demetrius viewed his cousin Antiochus V Eupator as a usurper (see 4.7n.). Demetrius escaped from Rome in the late summer of 162 BCE and quickly established himself upon the Seleucid throne. Tripolis, in northern Lebanon. 2: See 1 Macc 7.3–4. 3: A certain Alcimus, alone; compare 1 Macc 7.5, where he leads a delegation; see 3.4n. Times of separation refers to the days of Antiochus's decrees. 4: Crown of gold and a palm, customary gifts to kings; compare 1 Macc 13.37. 6–11: Alcimus's speech is meant to be understood as self-serving. His concern for the commonweal is a parody serving to contrast him with Onias (4.1–6) 6: Hasideans, meaning “pious ones”; see also 1 Macc 7.13 where they are a party separate from the Maccabees, and Judas is not their leader. In 1 Macc their pious peace-seeking is represented as naïve, and many of them are killed, making them, in 1 Macc 1.62–63 and 2.29–38, foils for the now come here,⁸ first because I am genuinely concerned for the interests of the king, and second because I have regard also for my compatriots. For through the folly of those whom I have mentioned our whole nation is now in no small misfortune.⁹ Since you are acquainted, O king, with the details of this matter, may it please you to take thought for our country and our hard-pressed nation with the gracious kindness that you show to all.¹⁰ For as long as Judas lives, it is impossible for the government to find peace.”

¹¹ When he had said this, the rest of the king's Friends,^a who were hostile to Judas, quickly inflamed Demetrius still more.¹² He immediately chose Nicanor, who had been in command of the elephants, appointed him governor of Judea, and sent him off¹³ with orders to kill Judas and scatter his troops, and to install Alcimus as high priest of the great^b temple.¹⁴ And the Gentiles throughout Judea, who had fled before^c Judas, flocked to join Nicanor, thinking that the misfortunes and calamities of the Jews would mean prosperity for themselves.

¹⁵ When the Jews^d heard of Nicanor's coming and the gathering of the Gentiles, they sprinkled dust on their heads and prayed to him who established his own people forever and always upholds his own heritage by manifesting himself.¹⁶ At the command of the leader, they^e set out from there immediately and engaged them in battle at a village called Dessau.^c¹⁷ Simon, the brother of Judas, had encountered Nicanor, but had been temporarily^f checked because of the sudden consternation created by the enemy.

¹⁸ Nevertheless Nicanor, hearing of the valor of Judas and his troops and their courage in battle for their country, shrank from deciding the issue by bloodshed.¹⁹ Therefore he sent Posidonius, Theodotus, and Mattathias to give and receive pledges of friendship.

²⁰ When the terms had been fully considered,

and the leader had informed the people, and it had appeared that they were of one mind, they agreed to the covenant.²¹ The leaders^d set a day on which to meet by themselves. A chariot came forward from each army; seats of honor were set in place;²² Judas posted armed men in readiness at key places to prevent sudden treachery on the part of the enemy; so they duly held the consultation.

²³ Nicanor stayed on in Jerusalem and did nothing out of the way, but dismissed the flocks of people that had gathered.²⁴ And he kept Judas always in his presence; he was warmly attached to the man.²⁵ He urged him to marry and have children; so Judas^e married, settled down, and shared the common life.

²⁶ But when Alcimus noticed their goodwill for one another, he took the covenant that had been made and went to Demetrius. He told him that Nicanor was disloyal to the government, since he had appointed that conspirator against the kingdom, Judas, to be his successor.²⁷ The king became excited and, provoked by the false accusations of that depraved man, wrote to Nicanor, stating that he was displeased with the covenant and commanding him to send Maccabeus to Antioch as a prisoner without delay.

²⁸ When this message came to Nicanor, he was troubled and grieved that he had to annul their agreement when the man had done no wrong.²⁹ Since it was not possible to oppose the king, he watched for an opportunity to accomplish this by a stratagem.³⁰ But Maccabeus, noticing that Nicanor was more aus-

^a Gk of the Friends

^b Gk greatest

^c Meaning of Gk uncertain

^d Gk they

^e Gk he

^f Other ancient authorities read slowly

smarter, more violent, Hasmoneans. Cf. 15.27n. 11: Friends, see 1.14n. 14: Cf. 8.11. 15: Dust, see 10.25n. 16: Dessau, precise location uncertain. 17: As at 10.20, Simon is something of a foil for Judas, although not condemned. 18: Country, lit. “fatherland”; see 7.2n. 23–25: Idyllic relations between Nicanor and Judas. The author again portrays mutual respect between Jew and Gentile, as long as troublemakers do not interfere; see 4.35–36n.

14.26–15.36: Alcimus and Nicanor, continued. As elsewhere (3.4; 12.2), the idyll is destroyed, and so the story resumes, with a heavy “But.” Alcimus again misrepresents the good relations between Nicanor and Judas to Demetrius, and the king responds by renewing his orders to Nicanor to assert royal rule and arrest Judas.

tere in his dealings with him and was meeting him more rudely than had been his custom, concluded that this austerity did not spring from the best motives. So he gathered not a few of his men, and went into hiding from Nicanor.³¹ When the latter became aware that he had been cleverly outwitted by the man, he went to the great^a and holy temple while the priests were offering the customary sacrifices, and commanded them to hand the man over.³² When they declared on oath that they did not know where the man was whom he wanted,³³ he stretched out his right hand toward the sanctuary, and swore this oath: “If you do not hand Judas over to me as a prisoner, I will level this shrine of God to the ground and tear down the altar, and build here a splendid temple to Dionysus.”

³⁴ Having said this, he went away. Then the priests stretched out their hands toward heaven and called upon the constant Defender of our nation, in these words: ³⁵ “O Lord of all, though you have need of nothing, you were pleased that there should be a temple for your habitation among us; ³⁶ so now, O holy One, Lord of all holiness, keep undefiled forever this house that has been so recently purified.”

³⁷ A certain Razis, one of the elders of Jerusalem, was denounced to Nicanor as a man who loved his compatriots and was very well thought of and for his goodwill was called father of the Jews.³⁸ In former times, when there was no mingling with the Gentiles, he had been accused of Judaism, and he had most zealously risked body and life for Judaism.

³⁹ Nicanor, wishing to exhibit the enmity that he had for the Jews, sent more than five hundred soldiers to arrest him;⁴⁰ for he thought that by arresting^b him he would do them an injury.⁴¹ When the troops were about to capture the tower and were forcing the door of the courtyard, they ordered that fire be brought and the doors burned. Being surrounded, Razis^c fell upon his own sword,⁴² preferring to die nobly rather than to fall into the hands of sinners and suffer outrages unworthy of his noble birth.⁴³ But in the heat of the struggle he did not hit exactly, and the crowd was now rushing in through the doors. He courageously ran up on the wall, and bravely threw himself down into the crowd.⁴⁴ But as they quickly drew back, a space opened and he fell in the middle of the empty space.⁴⁵ Still alive and aflame with anger, he rose, and though his blood gushed forth and his wounds were severe he ran through the crowd; and standing upon a steep rock,⁴⁶ with his blood now completely drained from him, he tore out his entrails, took them in both hands and hurled them at the crowd, calling upon the Lord of life and spirit to give them back to him again. This was the manner of his death.

15 When Nicanor heard that Judas and his troops were in the region of Samaria, he made plans to attack them with complete safety on the day of rest.² When the Jews who were compelled to follow him said, “Do not destroy so savagely and barbarously, but show respect for the day that he who sees all things has honored and hallowed above other

^a Gk greatest

^b Meaning of Gk uncertain

^c Gk he

Nicanor has no choice but to obey, and so the way is paved for a new clash. 28–33: Cf. 1 Macc 7.30–38. 30: Cf. Gen 31.2. 33: Stretched out his right hand, usually a gesture of prayer (3.20; 15.12), but here it is a threat, apparently modeled on Isa 10.32, where it is ascribed to an Assyrian king leading an army against Jerusalem. The threatening gesture is answered first in the next verse and then, conclusively, at 15.32. 34: Toward heaven, to protect the Temple, as in 3.39. 35: In contrast to the parallel in 1 Macc 7.36–38, the Diaspora theology of 2 Macc emphasizes that God resides in heaven, not in what the Bible calls “the house of God.” 36: Been so recently purified, see 10.1–8; 13.11.

14.37–46: Martyrdom of Razis. This account of martyrdom functions similarly to those in chs 6–7. It is the premise of the victory over Nicanor depicted in the next chapter. 37: Father of the Jews, honorifically; compare 11.1n. 38: Risked body and life for Judaism, the reference to Judaism shows that Razis fought, in his way, for the same cause as did Judas and his men in theirs (2.21; 8.1). 42: Die nobly, like Eleazar (6.28). 43–44: Courageously . . . bravely: the Diaspora author emphasizes that martyrs share the same qualities as heroic soldiers. 46: See 7.9n.

15.1–36: Death of Nicanor. 1: Attack . . . on the day of rest, cf. 5.25; 8.26. 3: Thrice-cursed Nicanor, as 8.34.

days,”³ the thrice-cursed wretch asked if there were a sovereign in heaven who had commanded the keeping of the sabbath day.

⁴When they declared, “It is the living Lord himself, the Sovereign in heaven, who ordered us to observe the seventh day,”⁵ he replied, “But I am a sovereign also, on earth, and I command you to take up arms and finish the king’s business.” Nevertheless, he did not succeed in carrying out his abominable design.

⁶This Nicanor in his utter boastfulness and arrogance had determined to erect a public monument of victory over Judas and his forces.⁷ But Maccabeus did not cease to trust with all confidence that he would get help from the Lord.⁸ He exhorted his troops not to fear the attack of the Gentiles, but to keep in mind the former times when help had come to them from heaven, and so to look for the victory that the Almighty would give them.⁹ Encouraging them from the law and the prophets, and reminding them also of the struggles they had won, he made them the more eager.¹⁰ When he had aroused their courage, he issued his orders, at the same time pointing out the perfidy of the Gentiles and their violation of oaths.¹¹ He armed each of them not so much with confidence in shields and spears as with the inspiration of brave words, and he cheered them all by relating a dream, a sort of vision,^a which was worthy of belief.

¹²What he saw was this: Onias, who had been high priest, a noble and good man, of modest bearing and gentle manner, one who spoke fittingly and had been trained from childhood in all that belongs to excellence, was praying with outstretched hands for the whole body of the Jews.¹³ Then in the same fashion another appeared, distinguished by his gray hair and dignity, and of marvelous majesty and authority.¹⁴ And Onias spoke, saying, “This is a man who loves the family of Israel and prays much for the people and the holy city—Jeremiah, the prophet of God.”

¹⁵Jeremiah stretched out his right hand and gave to Judas a golden sword, and as he gave it he addressed him thus:¹⁶ “Take this holy sword, a gift from God, with which you will strike down your adversaries.”

¹⁷Encouraged by the words of Judas, so noble and so effective in arousing valor and awaking courage in the souls of the young, they determined not to carry on a campaign^b but to attack bravely, and to decide the matter by fighting hand to hand with all courage, because the city and the sanctuary and the temple were in danger.¹⁸ Their concern for wives and children, and also for brothers and sisters^c and relatives, lay upon them less heavily; their greatest and first fear was for the consecrated sanctuary.¹⁹ And those who had to remain in the city were in no little distress, being anxious over the encounter in the open country.

²⁰When all were now looking forward to the coming issue, and the enemy was already close at hand with their army drawn up for battle, the elephants^d strategically stationed and the cavalry deployed on the flanks,²¹ Maccabeus, observing the masses that were in front of him and the varied supply of arms and the savagery of the elephants, stretched out his hands toward heaven and called upon the Lord who works wonders; for he knew that it is not by arms, but as the Lord^e decides, that he gains the victory for those who deserve it.²² He called upon him in these words: “O Lord, you sent your angel in the time of King Hezekiah of Judea, and he killed fully one hundred eighty-five thousand in the camp of Sennacherib.”²³ So now, O Sovereign of the heavens, send a good angel to spread terror and trembling before us.²⁴ By the

^a Meaning of Gk uncertain

^b Or to remain in camp

^c Gk for brothers

^d Gk animals

^e Gk he

4–5: Sovereign in heaven . . . sovereign also, on earth, see 3.22–23n. 8–9: Cf. v. 22 and 8.19. 9: The law and the prophets, the Torah (Pentateuch) and the prophetic books were now regarded as scripture (see Prologue to Sirach). 10: Violation of oaths, 11.27–32; 14.18–29. 12–16: Judas receives the support of both priest (Onias) and prophet (Jeremiah) to defend the Jews on the Sabbath; compare the treatment of the sabbath question in 1 Macc 2.39–41. 12: On Onias’s qualities, see 4.37n. Was praying, as a priest invoking God’s blessing upon a congregation; see Lev 9.22 and Sir 50.20. 20: Elephants . . . cavalry, compare 1 Macc 6.34–38. 22: See 8.19n. 23: Good angel, as at might of your arm may these blasphemers who come against your holy people be struck down.” With these words he ended his prayer.

²⁵ Nicanor and his troops advanced with trumpets and battle songs, ²⁶ but Judas and his troops met the enemy in battle with invocations to God and prayers. ²⁷ So, fighting with their hands and praying to God in their hearts, they laid low at least thirty-five thousand, and were greatly gladdened by God’s manifestation.

²⁸ When the action was over and they were returning with joy, they recognized Nicanor, lying dead, in full armor. ²⁹ Then there was shouting and tumult, and they blessed the Sovereign Lord in the language of their ancestors. ³⁰ Then the man who was ever in body and soul the defender of his people, the man who maintained his youthful goodwill toward his compatriots, ordered them to cut off Nicanor’s head and arm and carry them to Jerusalem. ³¹ When he arrived there and had called his compatriots together and stationed the priests before the altar, he sent for those who were in the citadel. ³² He showed them the vile Nicanor’s head and that profane man’s arm, which had been boastfully stretched out against the holy house of the Almighty. ³³ He cut out the tongue of the ungodly Nicanor and said that he would feed it piecemeal to the birds and would hang up these rewards of his folly opposite the sanctuary. ³⁴ And they all, looking to heaven, blessed the Lord who had manifested himself, saying, “Blessed is he who has kept his own place undefiled!” ³⁵ Judas^a hung Nicanor’s head from the citadel, a clear and conspicuous sign to everyone of the help of the Lord. ³⁶ And they all decreed by public vote never to let this day go unobserved, but to celebrate the thirteenth day of the twelfth month—which is called Adar in the Aramaic language—the day before Mordecai’s day.

³⁷ This, then, is how matters turned out with Nicanor, and from that time the city has been in the possession of the Hebrews. So I will here end my story.

³⁸ If it is well told and to the point, that is what I myself desired; if it is poorly done and mediocre, that was the best I could do. ³⁹ For just as it is harmful to drink wine alone, or, again, to drink water alone, while wine mixed with water is sweet and delicious and enhances one’s enjoyment, so also the style of the story delights the ears of those who read the work. And here will be the end.

^a Gk He

11.6. 24: Might of your arm, Ex 15.16. 27: Fighting with their hands and praying, Ps 149.6. 29: Shouting and tumult, words that usually bespeak fear; see 3.30; 10.30; 11.25; 12.37; 13.16. Indeed, some fear is expected among those who witness divine intervention, even on their behalf; compare Ex 14.30–31; Ps 52.6; Mk 4.41; Lk 1.65. Language of their ancestors, i.e., Hebrew; Palestinian Jews spoke Aramaic, but formal prayer, using the language of scripture, was typically in Hebrew. 30–36: Disposition of Nicanor’s corpse; cf. 1 Macc 7.47–49. 31: The citadel, the garrison north of the Temple was still held by the Syrians (1 Macc 1.33; 6.18), but the Jews had built another fort (1 Macc 4.60). 32: See 14.33. 34: Who has kept his own place undefiled, answering, verbatim, the prayer of 14.36. 35: 1 Sam 31.9; Jdt 14.1; 1 Macc 7.47. 36: Decreed by public vote, as at 10.8. Compare 1 Macc 7.48–49. Adar, February/March. Aramaic, the contemporary vernacular, as opposed to Hebrew, “the language of their ancestors” (12.37; 15.29; cf. 7.8, 21, 27). Mordecai’s day, the festival of Purim, celebrated on the fourteenth day of Adar (Esth 9.21). There is evidence for the celebration of Nicanor’s Day even centuries later.

15.37–39: Conclusion. 37: So I will here end, by using the first person the author reintroduces himself and thus announces the conclusion of his work, clearly explaining that it is the restoration of Jerusalem that ends his story, thus closing the circle that began with the idyllic Jerusalem of 3.1–3. The fact that the city was under Seleucid rule in ch 3 and now it was in the possession of the Hebrews does not interest the Diaspora author. For the history of Jerusalem, and the revolt, from this point on, see 1 Macc 8ff. 39: Harmful to drink wine alone, in the Greco-Roman world it was usual to drink wine mixed with water; only barbarians, famously the Scythians (see 4.47n.), drank it undiluted. As at 2.29, the author emphasizes that his job was only to beautify Jason of Cyrene’s work, making it more palatable and enjoyable.

(b) The books from 1 Esdras through 3 Maccabees are recognized as Deuterocanonical Scripture by the Greek and the Russian Orthodox Churches. They are not so recognized by the Roman Catholic Church, but 1 Esdras and the Prayer of Manasseh (together with 2 Esdras) are placed in an appendix to the Latin Vulgate Bible.

1 ESDRAS

NAME AND CANONICAL STATUS

First Esdras (the Greek form of Ezra) is one of several books bearing the name of Ezra. It is included in the canon by Greek and Russian Orthodox churches. Known in the early Greek mss as Esdras Apocrypha or 1 Esdras; the book is called 3 Esdras in the Latin Vulgate Bible, where it was often placed in an appendix after the New Testament.

DATE OF COMPOSITION AND LITERARY HISTORY

The book has been preserved in Greek and reflects Hellenistic values and vocabulary. Although the latest events it narrates are from the mid-fifth century, it probably dates in its current form to the second century BCE. It is unclear whether the book is a translation of an earlier Hebrew or Aramaic version (possibly as ancient as Ezra-Nehemiah) or a late adaptation of 2 Chronicles and Ezra-Nehemiah composed originally in Greek. The work in Greek was used by the late first-century CE historian Josephus for his account of the return from the exile.

With one significant exception, the book repeats, with minor (yet often significant) variations, sections from the books of 2 Chronicles and Ezra-Nehemiah. First Esdras begins with King Josiah's Passover celebration in Jerusalem in 622 BCE, reproducing the substance of 2 Chr 35.1–36.21. It continues directly with all of the canonical book of Ezra (with a few changes), which describes the return to Judea beginning in 538 BCE, followed by Nehemiah 8, which describes events that ostensibly (in 1 Esdras) transpired in 458–457 BCE in which Ezra participated. The only material unique to 1 Esdras is the story of the three young bodyguards in the court of King Darius (3.1–5.6).

STRUCTURE AND CONTENTS

Although the book largely overlaps other biblical books, its compositional pattern offers a distinct perspective on the history it recounts. It traces a trajectory between Josiah's Passover (1.1–24) and an unnamed holy day in the time of Ezra (9.49–55 || Neh 8:1–13). The destruction of Jerusalem, exile, and rebuilding that it narrates are framed by celebrations, which imply complete restoration and a return to the “good old days.” It thereby depicts a more positive historical development than the longer report in Ezra-Nehemiah, which begins and concludes with challenges rather than festivities. The main divisions of the book are:

1.1–24	An ideal state of affairs: Josiah's Passover celebration (=2 Chr 35.1–27)
1.25–58	Decline and destruction (=2 Chr 36.1–21)
2.1–9.55 [except 3.1–5.6]	Stages of return and restoration (=Ezra 1–10 and Neh 8):
2.1–30	Initial preparations for a return and rebuilding (Ezra 1 and 4.7–24)
3.1–5.6	The three bodyguards and the commissioning of Zerubbabel
5.7–7.15	Zerubbabel leads the rebuilding of the altar and the temple (Ezra 2:1–4:6 and 5.1–6.22)
8.1–9.55	Ezra leads the reforms and introduces the law (Ezra 7–9; Neh 8.1–13a)

INTERPRETATION AND GUIDE TO READING

The book begins and concludes with a ceremony in Jerusalem in front of the Temple—highlighting the unquestioned centrality of the Temple. The troubled time between the ceremonies—namely, the destruction of the Temple and Jerusalem, and the exile to Babylon—is treated as a brief period, followed immediately by a gradual but effective restoration of the altar, the Temple, and the community. Whereas the book of Ezra-Nehemiah contrasts the preexilic period with that of the return from exile, 1 Esdras, like Chronicles, underscores continuities between them. First Esdras also contrasts with the accounts in Ezra-Nehemiah in glorifying leaders, especially King David's descendant Zerubbabel, whose role it expands significantly. In particular, the lengthy story (unique to 1 Esdras) of the three bodyguards in Darius's court focuses on Zerubbabel's achievements. This story portrays Zerubbabel as the wise hero who wins Darius's support for the reconstruction of the Temple and successfully accomplishes his goal. Ezra the priest also rises to a higher level than in Ezra-Nehemiah, explicitly called a chief priest (but see Ezra 7.5n.). Ezra's prominence is further increased by the absence of collaboration with Nehemiah (who is portrayed in Nehemiah 1–13 as a governor responsible for rebuilding Jerusalem's walls). In First Esdras, Ezra is the dominant figure in the final stages of the restoration and the climax of the entire story (8.1–9.55).

Tamara Cohn Eskenazi

1 Josiah kept the passover to his Lord in Jerusalem; he killed the passover lamb on the fourteenth day of the first month, ² having placed the priests according to their divisions, arrayed in their vestments, in the temple of the Lord. ³ He told the Levites, the temple servants of Israel, that they should sanctify themselves to the Lord and put the holy ark of the Lord in the house that King Solomon, son of David, had built; ⁴ and he said, "You need no longer carry it on your shoulders. Now worship the Lord your God and serve his people Israel; prepare yourselves by your families and kindred, ⁵ in accordance with the directions of King David of Israel and the magnificence of his son Solomon. Stand in order in the temple according to the groupings of the ancestral houses of you Levites, who minister before your kindred the people of Israel, ⁶ and kill the passover lamb and prepare the sacrifices for your kindred, and keep the passover according to the commandment of the Lord that was given to Moses."

⁷ To the people who were present Josiah gave thirty thousand lambs and kids, and three thousand calves; these were given from the king's possessions, as he promised, to the people and the priests and Levites. ⁸ Hilkiah, Zechariah, and Jehiel, ^a the chief officers of the temple, gave to the priests for the passover two thousand six hundred sheep and three hundred calves. ⁹ And Jeconiah and Shemaiah and his brother Nethanel, and Hashabiah and Ochiel and Joram, captains over thousands, gave the Levites for the passover five thousand sheep and seven hundred calves.

¹⁰ This is what took place. The priests and the Levites, having the unleavened bread, stood in proper order according to kindred ¹¹ and the grouping of the ancestral houses, before the people, to make the offering to the Lord as it is written in the book of Moses; this they did in the morning. ¹² They roasted the passover lamb with fire, as required; and they boiled the sacrifices in bronze pots and caldrons, with a pleasing odor, ¹³ and carried them to all the people. Afterward they prepared the passover for themselves and for their kindred the priests, the sons of Aaron, ¹⁴ because the priests were offering the fat until nightfall; so the Levites prepared it for themselves and for their kindred the priests, the sons of Aaron. ¹⁵ The temple singers, the sons of Asaph, were in their place according to the arrangement made by David, and also Asaph, Zechariah, and Eddinus, who represented the king. ¹⁶ The gatekeepers were at each gate; no one needed to interrupt his

^a Gk Esyelus

1.1–24: An ideal state of affairs: Josiah's Passover celebration (2 Chr 35.1–19). This event constitutes a high point just prior to the destruction of Jerusalem and its Temple. According to 2 Kings 23.21–23 and 2 Chr 34.14–33, the Passover celebration of 622 BCE was the culmination of the religious reforms of Josiah, king of Judah (640–609 BCE). First Esdras does not include an account of the reforms. The author of 1 Esdras is interested in the continuity between the First and Second Temples, and thus shapes its narrative as a movement from one high point (Passover celebration under Josiah) to another, at the time of Ezra (1 Esdras 9), with the destruction and exile but a brief interlude (1 Esdras 1.25–58), followed directly by return and restoration. 3: The Levites were religious functionaries; the priests (v.2) were a subgroup of Levites who, according to tradition, were descended from Aaron, the first priest (see Ex 28.1) with unique responsibilities for the sanctuary. For rules concerning Levites, see 1 Chr 3.1–5.1. 5: For an understanding of David's role, see 1 Chr 23; 28.13,21; 2 Chr 8.14. 6: For Passover rules, see Ex 12.1–13; Deut 16.1–8. 7–9: The list of offerings differs slightly from that in 2 Chr 35.7–9.

daily duties, for their kindred the Levites prepared the passover for them.

¹⁷ So the things that had to do with the sacrifices to the Lord were accomplished that day: the passover was kept ¹⁸ and the sacrifices were offered on the altar of the Lord, according to the command of King Josiah. ¹⁹ And the people of Israel who were present at that time kept the passover and the festival of unleavened bread seven days. ²⁰ No passover like it had been kept in Israel since the times of the prophet Samuel; ²¹ none of the kings of Israel had kept such a passover as was kept by Josiah and the priests and Levites and the people of Judah and all of Israel who were living in Jerusalem. ²² In the eighteenth year of the reign of Josiah this passover was kept.

²³ And the deeds of Josiah were upright in the sight of the Lord, for his heart was full of godliness. ²⁴ In ancient times the events of his reign have been recorded—concerning those who sinned and acted wickedly toward the Lord beyond any other people or kingdom, and how they grieved the Lord^a deeply, so that the words of the Lord fell upon Israel.

²⁵ After all these acts of Josiah, it happened that Pharaoh, king of Egypt, went to make war at Carchemish on the Euphrates, and Josiah went out against him. ²⁶ And the king of Egypt sent word to him saying, “What have we to do with each other, O king of Judea? ²⁷ I was not sent against you by the Lord God, for my war is at the Euphrates. And now the Lord is with me! The Lord is with me, urging me on! Stand aside, and do not oppose the Lord.”

²⁸ Josiah, however, did not turn back to his chariot, but tried to fight with him, and did not heed the words of the prophet Jeremiah from the mouth of the Lord. ²⁹ He joined battle with him in the plain of Megiddo, and the commanders came down against King Josiah. ³⁰ The king said to his servants, “Take me away from the battle, for I am very weak.” And immediately his servants took him out of the line of battle. ³¹ He got into his second chariot; and after he was brought back to Jerusalem he died, and was buried in the tomb of his ancestors.

³² In all Judea they mourned for Josiah. The prophet Jeremiah lamented for Josiah, and the principal men, with the women,^b have made lamentation for him to this day; it was ordained that this should always be done throughout the whole nation of Israel. ³³ These things are written in the book of the histories of the kings of Judea; and every one of the acts of Josiah, and his splendor, and his understanding of the law of the Lord, and the things that he had done before, and these that are now told, are recorded in the book of the kings of Israel and Judah.

³⁴ The men of the nation took Jeconiah^c son of Josiah, who was twenty-three years old, and made him king in succession to his father Josiah. ³⁵ He reigned three months in Judah and Jerusalem. Then the king of Egypt deposed him from reigning in Jerusalem, ³⁶ and fined the nation one hundred talents of silver and one talent of gold. ³⁷ The king of Egypt made his brother Jehoiakim king of Judea and Jerusalem. ³⁸ Jehoiakim put the nobles in prison, and seized his brother Zarius and brought him back from Egypt.

^a Gk him

^b Or their wives

^c 2 Kings 23.30; 2 Chr 36.1 Jehoahaz

12: See 2 Chr 35.13n. 20: Cf. 2 Kings 23.22. 22: The eighteenth year, 622 BCE. 23–24: The evaluation of Josiah in 1 Esdras elaborates on Chronicles.

1.25–58: Decline and destruction. 25–33: Josiah's death and the beginning of decline in 1 Esdras largely follow the account in 2 Chr 35.20–27, omitting the report that Josiah disguised himself, and that he was struck by an arrow. 28: The author of 1 Esdras probably found the Chronicler's account difficult because it depicts the Pharaoh as a prophet, and revised it to suggest that Josiah's death resulted from ignoring the warning of Jeremiah, though no passage in the book of Jeremiah explicitly relates to the battle in which Josiah died. 33: Josiah is the last good king in the books of Kings and Chronicles, and his death in 609 BCE marks the end of an era.

1.34–49: The last kings of Judah (2 Chr 36.1–14). The good king Josiah is followed by evil kings. 34: Jeconiah as successor to Josiah does not appear in 2 Chr or 2 Kings, and is probably an error for Jehoahaz (ruled briefly in 609 BCE; see 2 Kings 23.30–31; 2 Chr 36.1–2). Jeconiah is an alternate form of the name of Jehoiachin (see v. 43); see Jer 28.4; cf. Jer 22.24. Men of the nation, this corresponds to “the people of the land” of 2 Chr 36.1; in preexilic times these were probably landowners who often came to the support of reforming kings or who themselves

³⁹ Jehoiakim was twenty-five years old when he began to reign in Judea and Jerusalem; he did what was evil in the sight of the Lord. ⁴⁰ King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon came up against him; he bound him with a chain of bronze and took him away to Babylon. ⁴¹ Nebuchadnezzar also took some holy vessels of the Lord, and carried them away, and stored them in his temple in Babylon. ⁴² But the things that are reported about Jehoiakim,^a and his uncleanness and impiety, are written in the annals of the kings.

⁴³ His son Jehoiachin^b became king in his place; when he was made king he was eighteen years old, ⁴⁴ and he reigned three months and ten days in Jerusalem. He did what was evil in the sight of the Lord. ⁴⁵ A year later Nebuchadnezzar sent and removed him to Babylon, with the holy vessels of the Lord, ⁴⁶ and made Zedekiah king of Judea and Jerusalem.

Zedekiah was twenty-one years old, and he reigned eleven years. ⁴⁷ He also did what was evil in the sight of the Lord, and did not heed the words that were spoken by the prophet Jeremiah from the mouth of the Lord. ⁴⁸ Although King Nebuchadnezzar had made him swear by the name of the Lord, he broke his oath and rebelled; he stiffened his neck and hardened his heart and transgressed the laws of the Lord, the God of Israel. ⁴⁹ Even the leaders of the people and of the priests committed many acts of sacrilege and lawlessness beyond all the unclean deeds of all the nations, and polluted the temple of the Lord in Jerusalem—the temple that God had made holy. ⁵⁰ The God of their ancestors sent his messenger to call them back, because he would have spared them and his dwelling place. ⁵¹ But they mocked his messengers, and whenever the Lord spoke, they scoffed at his prophets, ⁵² until in his anger against his people because of their ungodly acts he gave command to bring against them the kings of the Chaldeans. ⁵³ These killed their young men with the sword around their holy temple, and did not spare young man or young woman,^c old man or child, for he gave them all into their hands. ⁵⁴ They took all the holy vessels of the Lord, great and small, the treasure chests of the Lord, and the royal stores, and carried them away to Babylon. ⁵⁵ They burned the house of the Lord, broke down the walls of Jerusalem, burned their towers with fire, ⁵⁶ and utterly destroyed all its glorious things. The survivors he led away to Babylon with the sword, ⁵⁷ and they were servants to him and to his sons until the Persians began to reign, in fulfillment of the word of the Lord by the mouth of Jeremiah, ⁵⁸ saying, “Until the land has enjoyed its sabbaths, it shall keep sabbath all the time of its desolation until the completion of seventy years.”

2 In the first year of Cyrus as king of the Persians, so that the word of the Lord by the mouth of Jeremiah might be accomplished—² the Lord stirred up the spirit of

^a Gk him

^b Gk Jehoiakim

^c Gk virgin

instituted reforms (2 Kings 12.18,20; 21.24; 23.30). 36: A talent weighed about 75 lb (34 kg). 38: The author recasts 2 Chr 36.4, in which Neco of Egypt removed Jehoahaz from the throne and installed Josiah's elder son Eliakim as king, changing his name to Jehoiakim. Jehoahaz was taken to Egypt, where presumably he died (Jer 22.10–12). In 1 Esdras, Jehoiakim brings up his brother Zarius from Egypt; the name Zarius may be a corruption of Jehoahaz or of Zedekiah, both of whom were brothers of Jehoiakim (2 Kings 24.17; 2 Chr 36.4,10). 39: According to 2 Chr 36.5, Jehoiakim reigned eleven years (608–598). 43: 1 Esdras (in contrast to 2 Chr and 2 Kings) gives the name Jehoiakim rather than Jehoiachin to this king's son and successor; but the king's age at the beginning of his reign is more credible (eighteen years; not eight, as in 2 Chr 36.9; cf. 2 Kings 24.8); he ruled in 597. 46: Zedekiah, the last king of Judah, ruled 597–586.

1.50–58: Jerusalem falls to the Babylonians (2 Chr 36.15–21). 52: Chaldeans, a late biblical name for the Babylonians. 58: To keep sabbath means here that the land is to lie untended, as in the seventh or sabbatical years, until the exiles return (Jer 25.11–12; 29.10; cf. Lev 25.1–7; 26.27–39,43). Like Chronicles, 1 Esdras stresses the temporary nature of exile, in contrast to 2 Kings 25 and Jer 52, which present it as a tragedy with only a glimmer of hope.

2.1–9.55: Stages of return and restoration. Except for the new material in 3.1–5.6, from here on 1 Esdras

King Cyrus of the Persians, and he made a proclamation throughout all his kingdom and also put it in writing:

³“Thus says Cyrus king of the Persians: The Lord of Israel, the Lord Most High, has made me king of the world, ⁴and he has commanded me to build him a house at Jerusalem, which is in Judea. ⁵If any of you, therefore, are of his people, may your Lord be with you; go up to Jerusalem, which is in Judea, and build the house of the Lord of Israel—he is the Lord who dwells in Jerusalem— ⁶and let each of you, wherever you may live, be helped by the people of your place with gold and silver, ⁷with gifts and with horses and cattle, besides the other things added as votive offerings for the temple of the Lord that is in Jerusalem.”

⁸Then arose the heads of families of the tribes of Judah and Benjamin, and the priests and the Levites, and all whose spirit the Lord had stirred to go up to build the house in Jerusalem for the Lord; ⁹their neighbors helped them with everything, with silver and gold, with horses and cattle, and with a very great number of votive offerings from many whose hearts were stirred.

¹⁰King Cyrus also brought out the holy vessels of the Lord that Nebuchadnezzar had carried away from Jerusalem and stored in his temple of idols. ¹¹When King Cyrus of the Persians brought these out, he gave them to Mithridates, his treasurer, ¹²and by him they were given to Sheshbazzar,^a the governor of Judea. ¹³The number of these was: one thousand gold cups, one thousand silver cups, twenty-nine silver censers, thirty gold bowls, two thousand four hundred ten silver bowls, and one thousand other vessels. ¹⁴All the vessels were handed over, gold and silver, five thousand four hundred sixty-nine, ¹⁵and they were carried back by Sheshbazzar with the returning exiles from Babylon to Jerusalem.

¹⁶In the time of King Artaxerxes of the Persians, Bishlam, Mithridates, Tabeel, Rehum,

^a Gk Sanabassaros

follows Ezra 1–10 and Neh 8, reshaping the material through artful composition that shifts the emphases from the community to exceptional leaders, mostly Zerubbabel the governor and Ezra the priest and scribe. Some changes in sequence highlight these emphases (see 2.16–30).

2.1–15: Cyrus, king of Persia permits the exiles to return (Ezra 1.1–11). The text is almost identical with the end of 2 Chr and the beginning of Ezra, which are also nearly identical. 1: First year of Cyrus, 538 BCE; the year after he conquered Babylon. 3–7: The substance of the decree is consistent with Persian religious and political policy; ancient inscriptions depict Cyrus as the restorer of several temples. Jeremiah lived through the destruction of Judah and repeatedly promised a restoration; see, e.g., Jer 29.10. 8–9: These verses sum up the enthusiastic response by the people to the decree, a response that leads to the reconstruction described in 5.47–7.15. 8: Judah and Benjamin, these tribes had constituted the Southern Kingdom of Judah. They now represent the sole remnant of the twelve tribes of ancient Israel. According to 2 Kings 17, the other tribes were deported, and their land was repopulated by foreigners. 10–15: The return of the sacred vessels symbolizes continuity with the destroyed Temple, whose looting is described in 1.54. The inventory of the sacred vessels is smoother in 1 Esdras than in Ezra. 12: Sheshbazzar, a Jewish leader and the first governor of the province of Yehud (Judea) appointed by the Persians. He may have been a descendant of David.

2.16–30: Opposition to the rebuilding of the Temple and the city walls (Ezra 4.7–24). This account in Ezra 4 represents a later stage in the process of return and reconstruction, describing opposition to rebuilding the walls of Jerusalem in the time of Artaxerxes I (465–424 BCE), after the Temple had been founded (Ezra 3). Its location in the Ezra narrative is out of chronological order and seeks to explain why Zerubbabel and Joshua were unable to finish rebuilding the Temple. Here it serves to explain why nothing was accomplished until the hero Zerubbabel took charge. The sequence is still out of chronological order because it presents Artaxerxes (who ruled after Darius I) as preceding Darius. The fact that the Persian Empire had several kings with the same names may have facilitated this error. As in Ezra 4, adversaries led by Samaritans (from the former Northern Kingdom of Israel) allege seditious activities by the returnees and successfully halt the rebuilding of Jerusalem. Historical records show that Cyrus was followed by Cambyses (530–522) and after him by Darius I (522–486). Josephus (Ant. 11.2.1–3), who typically follows 1 Esdras, substitutes Cambyses for Artaxerxes, thus providing the correct sequence of Persian kings. 16–20: The opponents' letter claims that rebuilding the Temple and city

Beltethmus, the scribe Shimshai, and the rest of their associates, living in Samaria and other places, wrote him the following letter, against those who were living in Judea and Jerusalem:

¹⁷“To King Artaxerxes our lord, your servants the recorder Rehum and the scribe Shimshai and the other members of their council, and the judges in Coelesyria and Phoenicia: ¹⁸Let it now be known to our lord the king that the Jews who came up from you to us have gone to Jerusalem and are building that rebellious and wicked city, repairing its market places and walls and laying the foundations for a temple. ¹⁹Now if this city is built and the walls finished, they will not only refuse to pay tribute but will even resist kings. ²⁰Since the building of the temple is now going on, we think it best not to neglect such a matter, ²¹but to speak to our lord the king, in order that, if it seems good to you, search may be made in the records of your ancestors. ²²You will find in the annals what has been written about them, and will learn that this city was rebellious, troubling both kings and other cities, ²³and that the Jews were rebels and kept setting up blockades in it from of old. That is why this city was laid waste. ²⁴Therefore we now make known to you, O lord and king, that if this city is built and its walls finished, you will no longer have access to Coelesyria and Phoenicia.”

²⁵Then the king, in reply to the recorder Rehum, Beltethmus, the scribe Shimshai, and the others associated with them and living in Samaria and Syria and Phoenicia, wrote as follows:

²⁶“I have read the letter that you sent me. So I ordered search to be made, and it has been found that this city from of old has fought against kings, ²⁷that the people in it were given to rebellion and war, and that mighty and cruel kings ruled in Jerusalem and exacted tribute from Coelesyria and Phoenicia. ²⁸Therefore I have now issued orders to prevent these people from building the city and to take care that nothing more be done ²⁹and that such wicked proceedings go no further to the annoyance of kings.”

³⁰Then, when the letter from King Artaxerxes was read, Rehum and the scribe Shimshai and their associates went quickly to Jerusalem, with cavalry and a large number of armed troops, and began to hinder the builders. And the building of the temple in Jerusalem stopped until the second year of the reign of King Darius of the Persians.

3 Now King Darius gave a great banquet for all that were under him, all that were born in his house, and all the nobles of Media walls will lead to rebellion. 16: The name Beltethmus is an awkward Greek transliteration of the Aramaic title (“be’el te’em”) of the office (“royal deputy”) held by Rehum. 17: Rehum, designated “the royal deputy” in Ezra 4.8; the title is supported by Josephus. The persons named are officials of the region called “Beyond the River” (Ezra 4.10), which included the lands of (Coele-) Syria, Phoenicia, Samaria, and Judah. 20: The account differs from that in Ezra 4.14, which contains no reference to the rebuilding of the Temple at this point. However, Ezra 4.24 states that work on the Temple stopped. This revision and reworking of material is consistent with the focus of 1 Esdras on the Temple. 21: Records of your ancestors, the Assyrians and Babylonians kept careful records, and the Persians inherited and enlarged their bureaucracy. Here, as in ch 8, written records play a crucial role in establishing authority. 24: Revolt in Jerusalem will endanger Persian rule throughout the western region of the empire. 25–30: The king’s investigation confirms the danger inherent in the rebuilding of the city, and he issues an order to stop it. 29: Ezra 4.21 includes “until I make a decree,” setting the stage for a reversal at a later date. 30: Until the second year of . . . Darius, King Darius I (522–486), the ruler in the subsequent narrative, is identified also in Haggai and Zechariah as the Persian king during whose reign the Temple was rebuilt. 1 Esdras (like Ezra 1–6) does not allow for the prospect that work on the Temple stopped because of Judean inertia (as Haggai and Zechariah indicate) but rather attributes the neglect to external opposition.

3.1–7.15: Zerubbabel leads the return and restoration. In 1 Esdras, Samaritan opponents successfully stop rebuilding before any restoration takes place (in contrast to Ezra 3–6, where Zerubbabel and Joshua lead in laying the Temple’s foundation before being stopped). This arrangement of the narrative magnifies the accomplishments of Zerubbabel, making him responsible for the very first successful return. Here, then, Zerubbabel wins King Darius’s favor and as a result receives permission to go and restore the Temple.

3.1–5.6: The three young bodyguards in the court of Darius. This lively story, unique to 1 Esdras, describes and Persia,² and all the satraps and generals and governors that were under him in the hundred twenty-seven satrapies from India to Ethiopia.³ They ate and drank, and when they were satisfied they went away, and King Darius went to his bedroom; he went to sleep, but woke up again.

⁴Then the three young men of the bodyguard, who kept guard over the person of the king, said to one another,⁵ “Let each of us state what one thing is strongest; and to the one whose statement seems wisest, King Darius will give rich gifts and great honors of victory.⁶ He shall be clothed in purple, and drink from gold cups, and sleep on a gold bed,^a and have a chariot with gold bridles, and a turban of fine linen, and a necklace around his neck;⁷ and because of his wisdom he shall sit next to Darius and shall be called Kinsman of Darius.”

⁸Then each wrote his own statement, and they sealed them and put them under the pillow of King Darius,⁹ and said, “When the king wakes, they will give him the writing; and to the one whose statement the king and the three nobles of Persia judge to be wisest the victory shall be given according to what is written.”¹⁰ The first wrote, “Wine is strongest.”¹¹ The second wrote, “The king is strongest.”¹² The third wrote, “Women are strongest, but above all things truth is victor.”^b ¹³When the king awoke, they took the writing and gave it to him, and he read it.

¹⁴Then he sent and summoned all the nobles of Persia and Media and the satraps and generals and governors and prefects,¹⁵ and he took his seat in the council chamber, and the writing was read in their presence.¹⁶ He said, “Call the young men, and they shall explain their statements.” So they were summoned, and came in.¹⁷ They said to them, “Explain to us what you have written.”

Then the first, who had spoken of the strength of wine, began and said:¹⁸ “Gentlemen, how is wine the strongest? It leads astray the minds of all who drink it.¹⁹ It makes equal the mind of the king and the orphan, of the slave and the free, of the poor and the rich.²⁰ It turns every thought to feasting and mirth, and forgets all sorrow and debt.²¹ It makes all hearts feel rich, forgets kings and satraps, and makes everyone talk in millions.^c ²²When people drink they forget to be friendly with friends and kindred, and

^a Gk on gold

^b Or but truth is victor over all things

^c Gk talents

how Zerubbabel found favor in King Darius's eyes. It magnifies the role of Zerubbabel, the last Davidic heir to have political power, making him the first great hero of the restoration. In Ezra-Nehemiah, Zerubbabel is no more prominent than his co-worker, Jeshua the priest. Although Zerubbabel the governor is a key figure in Haggai and Zechariah, along with the high priest Joshua (Jeshua in Ezra-Nehemiah and 1 Esdras), no other text suggests direct contact between him and the king. The story probably originated as a secular tale praising the relative strength of kings, wine, and women, to which praise of truth was added (4.33–41); it has close parallels in Greek literature. The author of 1 Esdras adopted the story, identified the third, wisest youth with Zerubbabel (4.13), and added a sequel to the tale, relating how Darius rewarded Zerubbabel by supporting the rebuilding of Jerusalem and its Temple (4.42–5.6). Josephus, who includes this story (Ant. 11.3.2–9), has a slightly different version of it.

3.1–17a: The three royal bodyguards plan a contest. The royal banquet scene is a favorite Hellenistic motif, though this case is unusual in that the bodyguards, not the king, choose the entertainment. 1–3: Although the location is not explicitly mentioned, the Persian capital Susa may be implied (cf. Esth. 1.2–3). Media, one of the two main original kingdoms of the Persian Empire, in northern Iran. 2: Satraps, high officials in the Persian government, usually provincial governors. There were only about twenty provinces (satrapies) during Darius's reign (522–486 BCE); this number was later increased, and the total one hundred twenty-seven became conventional in later Jewish literature (Esth. 1.1; Josephus, Ant. 11.3.2). 4–12: The three bodyguards decide of their own initiative to entertain the king, thereby bringing riches and honor to one of them. In Josephus (Ant. 11.3.2), the king proposes the contest. 13–17a: The entire court is assembled to hear the three men defend their respective answers; the scene accurately depicts court practices in the ancient world.

3.17b–24: The first guard praises the strength of wine. As the great equalizer of society, wine takes away the capacity for discernment and remembrance, overpowering king and commoner alike.

before long they draw their swords. ²³ And when they recover from the wine, they do not remember what they have done. ²⁴ Gentlemen, is not wine the strongest, since it forces people to do these things?" When he had said this, he stopped speaking.

4 Then the second, who had spoken of the strength of the king, began to speak: ² "Gentlemen, are not men strongest, who rule over land and sea and all that is in them? ³ But the king is stronger; he is their lord and master, and whatever he says to them they obey. ⁴ If he tells them to make war on one another, they do it; and if he sends them out against the enemy, they go, and conquer mountains, walls, and towers. ⁵ They kill and are killed, and do not disobey the king's command; if they win the victory, they bring everything to the king—whatever spoil they take and everything else. ⁶ Likewise those who do not serve in the army or make war but till the soil; whenever they sow and reap, they bring some to the king; and they compel one another to pay taxes to the king. ⁷ And yet he is only one man! If he tells them to kill, they kill; if he tells them to release, they release; ⁸ if he tells them to attack, they attack; if he tells them to lay waste, they lay waste; if he tells them to build, they build; ⁹ if he tells them to cut down, they cut down; if he tells them to plant, they plant. ¹⁰ All his people and his armies obey him. Furthermore, he reclines, he eats and drinks and sleeps, ¹¹ but they keep watch around him, and no one may go away to attend to his own affairs, nor do they disobey him. ¹² Gentlemen, why is not the king the strongest, since he is to be obeyed in this fashion?" And he stopped speaking.

¹³ Then the third, who had spoken of women and truth (and this was Zerubbabel), began to speak: ¹⁴ "Gentlemen, is not the king great, and are not men many, and is not wine strong? Who is it, then, that rules them, or has the mastery over them? Is it not women? ¹⁵ Women gave birth to the king and to every people that rules over sea and land. ¹⁶ From women they came; and women brought up the very men who plant the vineyards from which comes wine. ¹⁷ Women make men's clothes; they bring men glory; men cannot exist without women. ¹⁸ If men gather gold and silver or any other beautiful thing, and then see a woman lovely in appearance and beauty, ¹⁹ they let all those things go, and gape at her, and with open mouths stare at her, and all prefer her to gold or silver or any other beautiful thing. ²⁰ A man leaves his own father, who brought him up, and his own country, and clings to his wife. ²¹ With his wife he ends his days, with no thought of his father or his mother or his country. ²² Therefore you must realize that women rule over you!

"Do you not labor and toil, and bring everything and give it to women? ²³ A man takes his sword, and goes out to travel and rob and steal and to sail the sea and rivers; ²⁴ he faces lions, and he walks in darkness, and when he steals and robs and plunders, he brings it back to the woman he loves. ²⁵ A man loves his wife more than his father or his mother. ²⁶ Many men have lost their minds because of women, and have become slaves because of them. ²⁷ Many have perished, or stumbled, or sinned because of women. ²⁸ And now do you not believe me?

"Is not the king great in his power? Do not all lands fear to touch him? ²⁹ Yet I have seen him with Apame, the king's concubine, the daughter of the illustrious Bartacus; she would sit at the king's right hand ³⁰ and take the crown from the king's head and put it on her own, and slap the king with her left hand. ³¹ At this the king would gaze at her with mouth agape. If she smiles at him, he laughs; if she loses her temper with him, he flatters

4.1–12: The second guard praises the strength of kings. The unchecked power of ancient kings is accurately portrayed here, but this passage should not be viewed as a polemic against kingship.

4.13–32: The third guard praises the strength of women as well as wisdom. He first depicts women as those who give birth to kings, who receive from men the treasures won in warfare through heroic deeds, who can humiliate their masters, including kings, and yet are sought after and fawned upon even by those whom they humiliate. 13: The third . . . (and this was Zerubbabel), according to 1 Chr 3.19, Zerubbabel is a descendant of David. His name is added here as the traditional tale is incorporated into 1 Esdras (see 3.1–5.6n.). 20: Clings to his wife, see Gen 2.24. 29: Apame, the king's concubine, is not mentioned in other ancient sources.

her, so that she may be reconciled to him.

³² Gentlemen, why are not women strong, since they do such things?"

³³ Then the king and the nobles looked at one another; and he began to speak about truth: ³⁴ "Gentlemen, are not women strong? The earth is vast, and heaven is high, and the sun is swift in its course, for it makes the circuit of the heavens and returns to its place in one day. ³⁵ Is not the one who does these things great? But truth is great, and stronger than all things. ³⁶ The whole earth calls upon truth, and heaven blesses it. All God's works^a quake and tremble, and with him there is nothing unrighteous. ³⁷ Wine is unrighteous, the king is unrighteous, women are unrighteous, all human beings are unrighteous, all their works are unrighteous, and all such things. There is no truth in them and in their unrighteousness they will perish. ³⁸ But truth endures and is strong forever, and lives and prevails forever and ever. ³⁹ With it there is no partiality or preference, but it does what is righteous instead of anything that is unrighteous or wicked. Everyone approves its deeds, ⁴⁰ and there is nothing unrighteous in its judgment. To it belongs the strength and the kingship and the power and the majesty of all the ages. Blessed be the God of truth!"

⁴¹ When he stopped speaking, all the people shouted and said, "Great is truth, and strongest of all!"

⁴² Then the king said to him, "Ask what you wish, even beyond what is written, and we will give it to you, for you have been found to be the wisest. You shall sit next to me, and

be called my Kinsman."⁴³ Then he said to the king, "Remember the vow that you made on the day when you became king, to build Jerusalem,⁴⁴ and to send back all the vessels that were taken from Jerusalem, which Cyrus set apart when he began^b to destroy Babylon, and vowed to send them back there. ⁴⁵ You also vowed to build the temple, which the Edomites burned when Judea was laid waste by the Chaldeans. ⁴⁶ And now, O lord the king, this is what I ask and request of you, and this befits your greatness. I pray therefore that you fulfill the vow whose fulfillment you vowed to the King of heaven with your own lips."

⁴⁷ Then King Darius got up and kissed him, and wrote letters for him to all the treasurers and governors and generals and satraps, that they should give safe conduct to him and to all who were going up with him to build Jerusalem. ⁴⁸ And he wrote letters to all the governors in Coele Syria and Phoenicia and to those in Lebanon, to bring cedar timber from Lebanon to Jerusalem, and to help him build the city. ⁴⁹ He wrote in behalf of all the Jews who were going up from his kingdom to Judea, in the interest of their freedom, that no officer or satrap or governor or treasurer should forcibly enter their doors; ⁵⁰ that all the country that they would occupy should be theirs without tribute; that the Idumeans should give up the villages of the Jews that they held; ⁵¹ that twenty talents a year should

^a Gk All the works

^b Cn: Gk vowed

4.33–41: Zerubbabel adds praise of truth. This addition to the original story was probably made prior to the story's adaptation to the Jewish author's purpose. Truth is portrayed in imagery familiar in Greek literature, although the Jewish adapter of the story may have modified the original to conform to the meaning of the Hebrew word for truth, which conveys firmness and reliability. 40: A clever maneuver by a Jewish adapter of the story to suggest that truth is virtually equivalent to the will of God. 41: The Latin Vulgate translation of the people's response, "Magna est veritas et praevallet," became a famous proverb.

4.42–57: Zerubbabel's reward. At Zerubbabel's request, Darius agrees to authorize Zerubbabel to return to Jerusalem and rebuild the Temple, with generous support from the Persian treasury. 43: This improbable vow of Darius to rebuild Jerusalem and its Temple upon his accession to kingship is not otherwise attested and is likely the creation of the author. 45: Edomites, this group is not mentioned in 1.55 as having burned the Temple, but see Ob 11–14 and Ps 137.7. 48–57: Darius magnificently supports the program outlined by Zerubbabel. The extravagant royal support depicted here is improbable. A more plausible version is found in the decree Darius issues later after receiving a report about building activities (Ezra 6.1–13; 1 Esd 6.23–34). 50: Idumeans, a later designation of the Edomites. The demand that they give back their villages to the returning exiles implies that Edomites encroached upon Judean land during the exile.

be given for the building of the temple until it was completed,⁵² and an additional ten talents a year for burnt offerings to be offered on the altar every day, in accordance with the commandment to make seventeen offerings;⁵³ and that all who came from Babylonia to build the city should have their freedom, they and their children and all the priests who came.⁵⁴ He wrote also concerning their support and the priests' vestments in which^a they were to minister.⁵⁵ He wrote that the support for the Levites should be provided until the day when the temple would be finished and Jerusalem built.⁵⁶ He wrote that land and wages should be provided for all who guarded the city.⁵⁷ And he sent back from Babylon all the vessels that Cyrus had set apart; everything that Cyrus had ordered to be done, he also commanded to be done and to be sent to Jerusalem.

⁵⁸ When the young man went out, he lifted up his face to heaven toward Jerusalem, and praised the King of heaven, saying,⁵⁹ "From you comes the victory; from you comes wisdom, and yours is the glory. I am your servant.⁶⁰ Blessed are you, who have given me wisdom; I give you thanks, O Lord of our ancestors."

⁶¹ So he took the letters, and went to Babylon and told this to all his kindred.

⁶² And they praised the God of their ancestors, because he had given them release and permission⁶³ to go up and build Jerusalem and the temple that is called by his name; and they feasted, with music and rejoicing, for seven days.

5 After this the heads of ancestral houses were chosen to go up, according to their tribes, with their wives and sons and daughters, and their male and female servants, and their livestock.² And Darius sent with them a thousand cavalry to take them back to Jerusalem in safety, with the music of drums and flutes;³ all their kindred were making merry. And he made them go up with them.

⁴ These are the names of the men who went up, according to their ancestral houses in the tribes, over their groups:⁵ the priests, the descendants of Phinehas son of Aaron; Jeshua son of Jozadak son of Seraiah and Joakim son of Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, of the house of David, of the lineage of Phares, of the tribe of Judah,⁶ who spoke wise words before King Darius of the Persians, in the second year of his reign, in the month of Nisan, the first month.

⁷ These are the Judeans who came up out of their sojourn in exile, whom King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon had carried away to Babylon⁸ and who returned to Jerusalem and the rest of Judea, each to his own town. They came with Zerubbabel and Jeshua, Nehe-miah, Seraiah, Resaiah, Eneueus, Mordecai, Beelsarus, Aspharasus, Reeliah, Rehum, and Baanah, their leaders.

⁹ The number of those of the nation and their leaders: the descendants of Parosh, two thousand one hundred seventy-two. The descendants of Shephathiah, four hundred seventy-two.¹⁰ The descendants of Arah, seven hundred fifty-six.¹¹ The descendants of Pahath-moab, of the descendants of Jeshua and Joab, two thousand eight hundred twelve.¹² The descendants of Elam, one thousand two hundred fifty-four. The descendants of Zattu, nine hundred forty-five. The descendants of Chorbe, seven hundred five. The descendants of Bani, six hundred forty-eight.¹³ The descendants of Bebai, six hundred twenty-three. The descendants of 4.58–60: Zerubbabel's prayer. The language of this prayer resembles a prayer of Daniel (Dan 2.20–23) and may be dependent upon it.

^a Gk in what priestly vestments

4.61–5.6: Preparations for the return to Judah. Zerubbabel journeys (perhaps from Susa) to Babylon and there recruits leaders from the priestly and royal families for the returning exiles (5.4–6). The genealogies of the leaders are hopelessly confused. The material unique to 1 Esdras concludes here, with the rest of the book paralleling Ezra 2–10 and Neh 8.

5.7–46: A list of the returning exiles (Ezra 2.1–70 and Neh 7.6–73a). The list in 1 Esdras differs somewhat from that in Ezra 2 and Nehemiah 7, both in the names and numbers listed. The totals, however, are identical, and the numbers of the priests and Levites are almost identical in the three lists, an indication that priestly and levitical genealogies were more carefully preserved than others. 6: Nisan, March–April. 9–23: Lay Israelites are Azgad, one thousand three hundred twenty-two.¹⁴ The descendants of Adonikam, six hundred sixty-seven. The descendants of Bigvai, two thousand sixty-six. The descendants of Adin, four hundred fifty-four.¹⁵ The descendants of Ater, namely of Hezekiah, ninety-two. The descendants of Kilan and Azetas, sixty-seven. The descendants of Azaru, four hundred thirty-two.¹⁶ The descendants of Annias, one hundred one. The descendants of Arom. The descendants of Bezai, three hundred twenty-three. The descendants of Arsiphurith, one hundred twelve.¹⁷ The descendants of Baiterus, three thousand five. The descendants of Bethlomon, one hundred twenty-three.¹⁸ Those from Netophah, fifty-five. Those from Anathoth, one hundred fifty-eight. Those from Bethasmoth, forty-two.¹⁹ Those from Kiriatharim, twenty-five. Those from Chephirah and Beeroth, seven hundred forty-three.²⁰ The Chadiasans and Ammidians, four hundred twenty-two. Those from Kirama and Geba, six hundred twenty-one.²¹ Those from Macalon, one hundred twenty-two. Those from Betolio, fifty-two. The descendants of Niphish, one hundred fifty-six.²² The descendants of the other Calamolalus and Ono, seven hundred twenty-five. The descendants of Jerechus, three hundred forty-five.²³ The descendants of Senaah, three thousand three hundred thirty.

²⁴The priests: the descendants of Jedaiah son of Jeshua, of the descendants of Anasib, nine hundred seventy-two. The descendants of Immer, one thousand and fifty-two.²⁵ The descendants of Pashhur, one thousand two hundred forty-seven. The descendants of Charne, one thousand seventeen.

²⁶The Levites: the descendants of Jeshua and Kadmiel and Bannas and Sudias, seventy-four.²⁷ The temple singers: the descendants of Asaph, one hundred twenty-eight.²⁸ The gatekeepers: the descendants of Shalum, the descendants of Ater, the descendants of Talmon, the descendants of Akkub, the descendants of Hatita, the descendants of Shobai, in all one hundred thirty-nine.

²⁹The temple servants: the descendants of Esau, the descendants of Hasupha, the descendants of Tabbaoth, the descendants of Keros, the descendants of Sua, the descendants of Padon, the descendants of Lebanah, the descendants of Hagabah,³⁰ the descendants of Akkub, the descendants of Uthai, the descendants of Ketab, the descendants of Hagab, the descendants of Subai, the descendants of Hana, the descendants of Cathua, the descendants of Geddur,³¹ the descendants of Jairus, the descendants of Daisan, the descendants of Noeba, the descendants of Chezib, the descendants of Gazera, the descendants of Uzza, the descendants of Phinoe, the descendants of Hasrah, the descendants of Basthai, the descendants of Asnah, the descendants of Maani, the descendants of Nephisim, the descendants of Acuph,^a the descendants of Hakupha, the descendants of Pharakim, the descendants of Bazluth,³² the descendants of Mehida, the descendants of Cutha, the descendants of Charea, the descendants of Barkos, the descendants of Serar, the descendants of Temah, the descendants of Neziah, the descendants of Hatipha.

³³The descendants of Solomon's servants: the descendants of Assaphioth, the descendants of Peruda, the descendants of Jaalah, the descendants of Lozon, the descendants of Isdael, the descendants of Shephatiah,³⁴ the descendants of Agia, the descendants of Pochereth-hazzebaim, the descendants of Sarothie, the descendants of Masiah, the descendants of Gas, the descendants of Addus, the descendants of Subas, the descendants of Apherra, the descendants of Barodis, the descendants of Shaphat, the descendants of Allon.

³⁵All the temple servants and the descendants of Solomon's servants were three hundred seventy-two.

³⁶The following are those who came up from Tel-melah and Tel-harsha, under the leadership of Cherub, Addan, and Immer,

^a Other ancient authorities read Acub or Acum

listed by family ancestral names (vv. 9–17, 21b–23) and towns of origin (vv. 18–21a). 24–25: Priests include four families claiming descent from Aaron (cf. 1 Chr 24). 26–27: Levites are listed according to their Temple functions in the postexilic period. 29–35: Other Temple personnel and miscellaneous groups. 36–37: The inability of some ³⁷ though they could not prove by their ancestral houses or lineage that they belonged to Israel: the descendants of Delaiah son of Tobiah, and the descendants of Nekoda, six hundred fifty-two.

³⁸ Of the priests the following had assumed the priesthood but were not found registered: the descendants of Habaiah, the descendants of Hakkoz, and the descendants of Jaddus who had married Agia, one of the daughters of Barzillai, and was called by his name. ³⁹ When a search was made in the register and the genealogy of these men was not found, they were excluded from serving as priests. ⁴⁰ And Nehemiah and Atharias^a told them not to share in the holy things until a high priest should appear wearing Urim and Thummim.^b

⁴¹ All those of Israel, twelve or more years of age, besides male and female servants, were forty-two thousand three hundred sixty; ⁴² their male and female servants were seven thousand three hundred thirty-seven; there were two hundred forty-five musicians and singers. ⁴³ There were four hundred thirty-five camels, and seven thousand thirty-six horses, two hundred forty-five mules, and five thousand five hundred twenty-five donkeys.

⁴⁴ Some of the heads of families, when they came to the temple of God that is in Jerusalem, vowed that, to the best of their ability, they would erect the house on its site, ⁴⁵ and that they would give to the sacred treasury for the work a thousand minas of gold, five thousand minas of silver, and one hundred priests' vestments.

⁴⁶ The priests, the Levites, and some of the people^c settled in Jerusalem and its vicinity; and the temple singers, the gatekeepers, and all Israel in their towns.

⁴⁷ When the seventh month came, and the Israelites were all in their own homes,

^a Or the governor

^b Gk Manifestation and Truth

^c Or those who were of the people

returnees to prove their Israelite ancestry is recorded, but without mention of any repercussions. 38–40: Proof of legitimate priestly genealogies is needed for any who may serve in the Temple in order to preserve the holiness of the Temple and protect the community from danger. Priests whose credentials are in question cannot serve until a mechanism for verification becomes available. 38: Barzillai, see 2 Sam 17.27; 19.31. The adoption of the father-in-law's name suggests that Barzillai did not have a male heir. 40: The name Nehemiah, not found in the parallel in Ezra–Nehemiah, is added here to compensate for the fact that 1 Esdras omits the story of Nehemiah (who, according to Neh 5.14 and 8.9 was the governor at the time of Ezra) in order to focus on Zerubbabel as governor and Ezra as high priest. Atharias, in Neh 8:9 a similar word, understood as the title “governor,” describes Nehemiah. Urim and Thummim are the sacred lots used by the priests to receive oracular decisions (Ex 28.30; Lev 8.8; Deut 33.8; 1 Sam 14.41). This type of divine communication was a means of verification in the absence of other sources. 41: The total of 42,360 returnees exceeds the sum total of the several groups listed but is identical with that in Ezra 2.66 and Neh 7.64. This larger number may include women and older children. Twelve or more years, this detail, which marks a boy's entry into formal standing in the community. is unique to 1 Esdras (see Luke 2:42 for a later allusion to this life stage). 45: The precise monetary value of this contribution to the Temple (for which different amounts are given in Ezra 2.69) is uncertain because the value of the mina fluctuated. Nevertheless, the passage suggests that the community invested a great deal in restoring its Temple. The priests' vestments are specialized garments for official service.

5.47–73: Work on the Temple commences and is interrupted (Ezra 3.1–4.5; cf. Josephus, Ant. 11.4.1–3). Ezra 3–6 places the building of the Temple in both the reign of Cyrus (539–530 BCE) and that of Darius (522–486), merging several returns of exiles in a chronologically confusing fashion. First Esdras offers a more coherent and historically credible sequence, with Sheshbazzar beginning the work under Cyrus, and Zerubbabel working only under Darius. The likely sequence of events is that Sheshbazzar returned to Yehud shortly after 538, restored the sacrificial altar, reestablished public worship and perhaps even attempted to start building the Temple by laying its foundation, but with little success. The work on the Temple only resumed around 520 with Zerubbabel and Jeshua (during King Darius's reign). The prophets Haggai and Zechariah encouraged the community to complete the Temple, and the Temple was finally dedicated in 515.

5.47–55: Building the altar and resumption of sacrifices. The restoration of the altar and a functioning they gathered with a single purpose in the square before the first gate toward the east. ⁴⁸Then Jeshua son of Jozadak, with his fellow priests, and Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, with his kinsmen, took their places and prepared the altar of the God of Israel, ⁴⁹to offer burnt offerings upon it, in accordance with the directions in the book of Moses the man of God. ⁵⁰And some joined them from the other peoples of the land. And they erected the altar in its place, for all the peoples of the land were hostile to them and were stronger than they; and they offered sacrifices at the proper times and burnt offerings to the Lord morning and evening. ⁵¹They kept the festival of booths, as it is commanded in the law, and offered the proper sacrifices every day, ⁵²and thereafter the regular offerings and sacrifices on sabbaths and at new moons and at all the consecrated feasts. ⁵³And all who had made any vow to God began to offer sacrifices to God, from the new moon of the seventh month, though the temple of God was not yet built. ⁵⁴They gave money to the masons and the carpenters, and food and drink ⁵⁵and carts^a to the Sidonians and the Tyrians, to bring cedar logs from Lebanon and convey them in rafts to the harbor of Joppa, according to the decree that they had in writing from King Cyrus of the Persians.

⁵⁶In the second year after their coming to the temple of God in Jerusalem, in the second month, Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel and Jeshua son of Jozadak made a beginning, together with their kindred and the levitical priests and all who had come back to Jerusalem from exile; ⁵⁷and they laid the foundation of the temple of God on the new moon of the second month in the second year after they came to Judea and Jerusalem. ⁵⁸They appointed the Levites who were twenty or more years of age to have charge of the work of the Lord. And Jeshua arose, and his sons and kindred and his brother Kadmiel and the sons of Jeshua Emadabun and the sons of Joda son of Iliadun, with their sons and kindred, all the Levites, pressing forward the work on the house of God with a single purpose.

So the builders built the temple of the Lord. ⁵⁹And the priests stood arrayed in their vestments, with musical instruments and trumpets, and the Levites, the sons of Asaph, with cymbals, ⁶⁰praising the Lord and blessing him, according to the directions of King David of Israel; ⁶¹they sang hymns, giving thanks to the Lord, "For his goodness and his glory are forever upon all Israel." ⁶²And all the people sounded trumpets and shouted with a great shout, praising the Lord for the erection of the house of the Lord. ⁶³Some of the levitical priests and heads of ancestral houses, old men who had seen the former house, came to the building of this one with outcries and loud weeping, ⁶⁴while many priesthood indicates the resumption of sacrificial worship, a central means of religious expression in the ancient world. Here 1 Esdras credits Zerubbabel and Jeshua (v. 48) with the successful rebuilding, beginning with the altar itself, now during the reign of Darius. Ezra 3 places this event earlier, still at the time of Cyrus. 47: The seventh month, Tishri (September–October). 49: The book of Moses, the Torah. Conformity to God's teachings embodied in the Torah plays a major role in accounts of the restoration period. 50: Although the returnees elsewhere oppose marriages with peoples of the land, they do allow persons to join the community under certain conditions that are not specified in this text. This phrase does not appear in the parallel in Ezra 3, but the idea appears in Ezra 6.21. 51: The festival of booths is celebrated in autumn, beginning on the fifteenth day of the seventh month (Lev 23.34). 52: New moons, see Num 29.6. 55: Sidon and Tyre helped build Solomon's Temple (1 Kings 5–7).

^a Meaning of Gk uncertain

5.56–65: The Temple's foundation is laid (Ezra 3.8–13). 56: Ezra 3 implies the second year of Cyrus, but 1 Esdras implies the second year of Darius (520 BCE), a date which more closely conforms to material in Haggai and Zechariah. 59–62: Celebration of temple-foundings is a common ancient Near Eastern practice. 61: The quoted words paraphrase a frequently occurring refrain in late Psalms (e.g., 106.1; 107.1; 118.1, 136.1). 63: The former house, Solomon's Temple, destroyed in 586. Loud weeping, the founding of the Temple is an emotionally charged event. It is unclear whether the tears of the old result from sorrow about what had been lost (since the new Temple is presumably smaller than the one they remember) or from joy at seeing the beginning of restoration and the fulfillment of earlier hopes.

came with trumpets and a joyful noise,⁶⁵ so that the people could not hear the trumpets because of the weeping of the people.

For the multitude sounded the trumpets loudly, so that the sound was heard far away;⁶⁶ and when the enemies of the tribe of Judah and Benjamin heard it, they came to find out what the sound of the trumpets meant.⁶⁷ They learned that those who had returned from exile were building the temple for the Lord God of Israel.⁶⁸ So they approached Zerubbabel and Jeshua and the heads of the ancestral houses and said to them, “We will build with you.⁶⁹ For we obey your Lord just as you do and we have been sacrificing to him ever since the days of King Esar-haddon^a of the Assyrians, who brought us here.”⁷⁰ But Zerubbabel and Jeshua and the heads of the ancestral houses in Israel said to them, “You have nothing to do with us in building the house for the Lord our God,⁷¹ for we alone will build it for the Lord of Israel, as Cyrus, the king of the Persians, has commanded us.”⁷² But the peoples of the land pressed hard^b upon those in Judea, cut off their supplies, and hindered their building;⁷³ and by plots and demagoguery and uprisings they prevented the completion of the building as long as King Cyrus lived. They were kept from building for two years, until the reign of Darius.

6 Now in the second year of the reign of Darius, the prophets Haggai and Zechariah son of Iddo prophesied to the Jews who were in Judea and Jerusalem; they prophesied to them in the name of the Lord God of Israel.² Then Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel and Jeshua son of Jozadak began to build the house of the Lord that is in Jerusalem, with the help of the prophets of the Lord who were with them.

³ At the same time Sisinnus the governor of Syria and Phoenicia and Sathrabuzanes and their associates came to them and said,⁴ “By whose order are you building this house and this roof and finishing all the other things? And who are the builders that are finishing these things?”⁵ Yet the elders of the Jews were dealt with kindly, for the providence of the Lord was over the captives;⁶ they were not prevented from building until word could be sent to Darius concerning them and a report made.

⁷ A copy of the letter that Sisinnus the governor of Syria and Phoenicia, and Sathrabuzanes, and their associates the local rulers in Syria and Phoenicia, wrote and sent to Darius:

⁸ “To King Darius, greetings. Let it be fully known to our lord the king that, when we went to the country of Judea and entered the city of Jerusalem, we found the elders of the Jews, who had been in exile,⁹ building in the city of Jerusalem a great new house for the Lord, of hewn stone, with costly timber laid in the walls.¹⁰ These operations are going on rapidly, and the work is prospering in their hands and being completed with all splendor and care.¹¹ Then we asked these elders, ‘At whose command are you build-

^a Gk Asbasareth

^b Meaning of Gk uncertain

5.66–73: Enemies interrupt the work of the returned exiles (Ezra 4.1–5). The returnees refuse to rebuild the Temple with outsiders who by their own admission did not belong to the Israelite community. 2 Kings 17 describes the resettling of non-Israelites in the territory of Samaria after its destruction by Assyria in 722 BCE. 69: Instead of Esar-haddon, the Assyrian king who ruled 681–669 BCE, Josephus (Ant. 11.4.3) has Shalmaneser (727–722) as in 2 Kings 17:3; 18.9. 73: This verse smoothes over the more problematic sequence in Ezra 3–6 (which inserts material from the reign of later kings, Xerxes and Artaxerxes, at this point; see Ezra 4.6–24).

6.1–34: Temple work resumes (Ezra 5.1–6.12). The prophets Haggai and Zechariah encourage the resumption of work on the Temple and succeed in gaining support for Zerubbabel and Jeshua (Joshua; cf. Hag 1.1–4; 2.1–4; Zech 4.9; 6.15). Although investigated by the governor of the entire Persian province Beyond the River (west of Babylon and encompassing Judah as well as Lebanon and Syria), the Judeans nonetheless are able to work with no interruption. 3: Sisinnus the governor of Syria and Phoenicia is Tattenai in Ezra 5.3, and governor of the province Beyond the River, namely the Persian province west of Babylon, including Judah; Phoenicia corresponds to modern Lebanon. Sathrabuzanes is Shethar-bozenai in Ezra 5.3.

6.7–22: The governor’s report and request. In this letter, the provincial governor seeks to find out whether King Darius will confirm and authorize the permission to build the Temple first granted by Cyrus. The report is

ing this house and laying the foundations of this structure?’¹² In order that we might inform you in writing who the leaders are, we questioned them and asked them for a list of the names of those who are at their head.¹³ They answered us, ‘We are the servants of the Lord who created the heaven and the earth.’¹⁴ The house was built many years ago by a king of Israel who was great and strong, and it was finished.¹⁵ But when our ancestors sinned against the Lord of Israel who is in heaven, and provoked him, he gave them over into the hands of King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon, king of the Chaldeans;¹⁶ and they pulled down the house, and burned it, and carried the people away captive to Babylon.¹⁷ But in the first year that Cyrus reigned over the country of Babylonia, King Cyrus wrote that this house should be rebuilt.¹⁸ And the holy vessels of gold and of silver, which Nebuchadnezzar had taken out of the house in Jerusalem and stored in his own temple, these King Cyrus took out again from the temple in Babylon, and they were delivered to Zerubbabel and Sheshbazzar^a the governor¹⁹ with the command that he should take all these vessels back and put them in the temple at Jerusalem, and that this temple of the Lord should be rebuilt on its site.²⁰ Then this Sheshbazzar, after coming here, laid the foundations of the house of the Lord that is in Jerusalem. Although it has been in process of construction from that time until now, it has not yet reached completion.’²¹ Now therefore, O king, if it seems wise to do so, let search be made in the royal archives of our lord^b the king that are in Babylon;²² if it is found that the building of the house of the Lord in Jerusalem was done with the consent of King Cyrus, and if it is approved by our lord the king, let him send us directions concerning these things.”

²³ Then Darius commanded that search be made in the royal archives that were deposited in Babylon. And in Ecbatana, the fortress that is in the country of Media, a scroll^c was found in which this was recorded:²⁴ “In the first year of the reign of King Cyrus, he ordered the building of the house of the Lord in Jerusalem, where they sacrifice with perpetual fire;²⁵ its height to be sixty cubits and its width sixty cubits, with three courses of hewn stone and one course of new native timber; the cost to be paid from the treasury of King Cyrus;²⁶ and that the holy vessels of the house of the Lord, both of gold and of silver, which Nebuchadnezzar took out of the house in Jerusalem and carried away to Babylon, should be restored to the house in Jerusalem, to be placed where they had been.”

²⁷ So Darius^d commanded Sinnes the governor of Syria and Phoenicia, and Sathrabuzanes, and their associates, and those who were appointed as local rulers in Syria and Phoenicia, to keep away from the place, and to permit Zerubbabel, the servant of the Lord and governor of Judea, and the elders of the Jews to build this house of the Lord on its site.²⁸ “And I command that it be built completely, and that full effort be made to help those who have returned from the exile of Judea, until the house of the Lord is finished;²⁹ and that out of the tribute of Coelestria and Phoenicia a portion be scrupulously given to these men, that is, to Zerubbabel the governor, for sacrifices to the Lord, for bulls and rams and lambs,³⁰ and likewise wheat and salt and wine and oil, regularly every

^a Gk Sanabassarus

^b Other ancient authorities read of Cyrus

^c Other authorities read passage

^d Gk he

neutral in tone. 14: A king of Israel, namely Solomon (1 Kings 6). 15: Chaldeans, the Babylonians; see 1.52n. 18: Zerubbabel, who is more prominent in 1 Esdras than in Ezra 3–6, is added here and in vv. 27, 29; only Sheshbazzar is mentioned in Ezra 5.14 and in Josephus (Ant. 11.4.4).

6.23–34: Darius’s authorization of rebuilding and generous support for the Temple. The king’s investigation recovers a copy of Cyrus’s memorandum, which King Darius then confirms, thus adding his support to the Judeans’ rebuilding efforts. In following the account in Ezra 5–6, 1 Esdras ignores the earlier report (1 Esd 5.42–57) in which Darius authorizes the bodyguard Zerubbabel to build the Temple; this reflects the complicated history of composition of 1 Esdras. 23: Ecbatana was the summer residence of Persian kings, now Hamadan in Iran. 24–26: The discovered copy of Cyrus’s authorization confirms the claims of the Judean builders. See year, without quibbling, for daily use as the priests in Jerusalem may indicate,³¹ in order that libations may be made to the Most High God for the king and his children, and prayers be offered for their lives.”

³² He commanded that if anyone should transgress or nullify any of the things herein written,^a a beam should be taken out of the house of the perpetrator, who then should be impaled upon it, and all property forfeited to the king.

³³ “Therefore may the Lord, whose name is there called upon, destroy every king and nation that shall stretch out their hands to hinder or damage that house of the Lord in Jerusalem.

³⁴ “I, King Darius, have decreed that it be done with all diligence as here prescribed.”

7 Then Sisinnus the governor of Coelesyria and Phoenicia, and Sathrabuzanes, and their associates, following the orders of King Darius,² supervised the holy work with very great care, assisting the elders of the Jews and the chief officers of the temple.³ The holy work prospered, while the prophets Haggai and Zechariah prophesied;⁴ and they completed it by the command of the Lord God of Israel. So with the consent of Cyrus and Darius and Artaxerxes, kings of the Persians,⁵ the holy house was finished by the twenty-third day of the month of Adar, in the sixth year of King Darius.⁶ And the people of Israel, the priests, the Levites, and the rest of those who returned from exile who joined them, did according to what was written in the book of Moses.⁷ They offered at the dedication of the temple of the Lord one hundred bulls, two hundred rams, four hundred lambs,⁸ and twelve male goats for the sin of all Israel, according to the number of the twelve leaders of the tribes of Israel;⁹ and the priests and the Levites stood arrayed in their vestments, according to kindred, for the services of the Lord God of Israel in accordance with the book of Moses; and the gatekeepers were at each gate.

¹⁰ The people of Israel who came from exile kept the passover on the fourteenth day of the first month, after the priests and the Levites were purified together.¹¹ Not all of the returned captives were purified, but the Levites were all purified together,^b¹² and they sacrificed the passover lamb for all the returned captives and for their kindred the priests and for themselves.¹³ The people of Israel who had returned from exile ate it, all those who had separated themselves from the abominations of the peoples of the land and sought the Lord.¹⁴ They also kept the festival of unleavened bread seven days, rejoicing before the Lord,¹⁵ because he had changed the will of the king of the Assyrians concerning them, to strengthen their hands for the service of the Lord God of Israel.

8 After these things, when Artaxerxes, the king of the Persians, was reigning, Ezra came, the son of Seraiah, son of Aza-

^a Other authorities read stated above or added in writing

^b Meaning of Gk uncertain

Ezra 6.3–5n. 25: A cubit is about 18 in (45 cm). 27–34: Darius’s own support exceeds that of Cyrus. 32: Ezra 6.11 prescribes further that the houses of violators of the decree be made a dunghill.

7.1–9: The Temple is completed (Ezra 6.13–18). At last, the builders are able to complete work on the Temple in 516 BCE and celebrate their success. 4: Artaxerxes I (465–424 BCE) appears here anachronistically (see 8.1–9.36). This reference to him is taken from Ezra 6.14, where it functions ideologically, linking all the stages of the return. The verse is more problematic in 1 Esdras because, unlike Ezra–Nehemiah (see Neh 1–6), this book does not depict any Temple-building activities under Artaxerxes; Josephus omits the name. 5: February–March, 516 BCE. 7–8: Compare the account of the dedication of the first Temple (1 Kings 8.8, 63). 9: Compare Ezra 6.18.

7.10–15: The Passover celebration (Ezra 6.19–22). The celebration marks the restoration of Jewish life, resuming life and practices that were first disrupted with Josiah’s death in ch 1. 11: Not all . . . were purified, this comment is not in Ezra 6, but is perhaps borrowed from 2 Chr 30.18. 13: Contrary to Ezra 6.21, the account here suggests that only the returned exiles participated in the Passover. But see 5.50. 15: The king of the Assyrians, an anachronistic reference to the Persian king, alluding to the earliest exile by Assyria, which is now reversed. Josephus (Ant. 11.4.8) refers to the Persian king.

8.1–9.55: Final return and restoration under Ezra (Ezra 7.1–10.44; Neh 7.73–8.12). Ezra, who like Zerubbabel is a key figure in 1 Esdras, is first introduced here. 1 Esdras closely parallels Ezra–Nehemiah on the matters they

riah, son of Hilkiah, son of Shallum,² son of Zadok, son of Ahitub, son of Amariah, son of Uzzi, son of Bukki, son of Abishua, son of Phineas, son of Eleazar, son of Aaron the high^a priest.³ This Ezra came up from Babylon as a scribe skilled in the law of Moses, which was given by the God of Israel;⁴ and the king showed him honor, for he found favor before the king^b in all his requests.⁵ There came up with him to Jerusalem some of the people of Israel and some of the priests and Levites and temple singers and gatekeepers and temple servants,⁶ in the seventh year of the reign of Artaxerxes, in the fifth month (this was the king's seventh year); for they left Babylon on the new moon of the first month and arrived in Jerusalem on the new moon of the fifth month, by the prosperous journey that the Lord gave them.^c ⁷ For Ezra possessed great knowledge, so that he omitted nothing from the law of the Lord or the commandments, but taught all Israel all the ordinances and judgments.

⁸ The following is a copy of the written commission from King Artaxerxes that was delivered to Ezra the priest and reader of the law of the Lord:

⁹ "King Artaxerxes to Ezra the priest and reader of the law of the Lord, greeting. ¹⁰ In accordance with my gracious decision, I have given orders that those of the Jewish nation and of the priests and Levites and others in our realm, those who freely choose to do so, may go with you to Jerusalem. ¹¹ Let as many as are so disposed, therefore, leave with you, just as I and the seven Friends who are my counselors have decided, ¹² in order to look into matters in Judea and Jerusalem, in accordance with what is in the law of the Lord, ¹³ and to carry to Jerusalem the gifts for the Lord of Israel that I and my Friends have vowed, and to collect for the Lord in Jerusalem all the gold and silver that may be found in the country of Babylonia, ¹⁴ together with what is given by the nation for the temple of their Lord that is in Jerusalem, both gold and silver for bulls and rams and lambs and what goes with them, ¹⁵ so as to offer sacrifices on the altar of their Lord that is in Jerusalem. ¹⁶ Whatever you and your kindred are minded to do with the gold and silver, perform it in accordance with the will of your God; ¹⁷ deliver the holy vessels of the Lord that are given you for the use of the temple of your God that is in Jerusalem. ¹⁸ And whatever else occurs to

^a Gk the first

^b Gk him

^c Other authorities add for him or upon him

both discuss, although its author ignores the work of Nehemiah (Neh 1–7), as Sirach ignores the work of Ezra (Sir 49.13). Given the interest of the author of 1 Esdras in the Temple and its personnel, it is not surprising that Ezra the priest, rather than Nehemiah the governor, is highlighted. For the author of 1 Esdras, the restoration was accomplished by a descendant of King David—Zerubbabel—and by the priest Ezra. Both 1 Esdras and Ezra 7 set the mission of Ezra at the time of King Artaxerxes of Persia, most likely Artaxerxes I (465–424 BCE), although some scholars have suggested that it was at the time of the later king, Artaxerxes II (404–358 BCE).

8.1–7: Ezra's credentials and mission (Ezra 7.1–10). 1–2: The genealogy is briefer than that in Ezra 7.1–5 but establishes the impeccable credentials of Ezra as belonging to the most important priestly line. 3: Scribe, a highly educated person, often in an important advisory position to kings. 6: The seventh year . . . of Artaxerxes was 458 BCE if Artaxerxes I is meant. The fifth month, Ab (July–August). The new moon of the first month, i.e., Nisan (March–April), two weeks before Passover. The dates may be symbolic, reflecting the Exodus from Egypt in the first month (Ex 12.2; Num 33.3) and the destruction of the Temple in the fifth (2 Kings 25.8). However, five months would be a reasonable time for a journey from Babylon to Jerusalem. 7: A paraphrase of Ezra 7.10 defining Ezra's qualifications as scribe and teacher. Law of the Lord, the book of Torah ("the law of Moses," v. 3), some early version of the Pentateuch. Law, Gk "nomos," an equivalent term for Hebrew "torah," a term that can refer to a specific work as well as to authoritative, normative teachings.

8.8–24: The letter of Artaxerxes authorizing Ezra (Ezra 7.12–26). Ezra is authorized to lead a return to Judah, bring extensive gifts for the Temple, and teach the law of Ezra's God, namely the distinctive Jewish tradition that now has the backing of the king. 11: The seven Friends or counselors of the king (see Ezra 7.14) are referred to in Esth 1.14 and Herodotus, Histories 3.84. 13–17: The royal privileges include financial support for the Temple by the king himself, voluntary contributions from Babylonian Jews for the Temple, and a free hand to use the suryou as necessary for the temple of your God, you may provide out of the royal treasury.

¹⁹“I, King Artaxerxes, have commanded the treasurers of Syria and Phoenicia that whatever Ezra the priest and reader of the law of the Most High God sends for, they shall take care to give him, ²⁰up to a hundred talents of silver, and likewise up to a hundred cors of wheat, a hundred baths of wine, and salt in abundance. ²¹Let all things prescribed in the law of God be scrupulously fulfilled for the Most High God, so that wrath may not come upon the kingdom of the king and his sons. ²²You are also informed that no tribute or any other tax is to be laid on any of the priests or Levites or temple singers or gatekeepers or temple servants or persons employed in this temple, and that no one has authority to impose any tax on them.

²³“And you, Ezra, according to the wisdom of God, appoint judges and justices to judge all those who know the law of your God, throughout all Syria and Phoenicia; and you shall teach it to those who do not know it. ²⁴All who transgress the law of your God or the law of the kingdom shall be strictly punished, whether by death or some other punishment, either fine or imprisonment.”

²⁵Then Ezra the scribe said,^a “Blessed be the Lord alone, who put this into the heart of the king, to glorify his house that is in Jerusalem, ²⁶and who honored me in the sight of the king and his counselors and all his Friends and nobles. ²⁷I was encouraged by the help of the Lord my God, and I gathered men from Israel to go up with me.”

²⁸These are the leaders, according to their ancestral houses and their groups, who went up with me from Babylon, in the reign of King Artaxerxes: ²⁹Of the descendants of Phineas, Gershom. Of the descendants of Ithamar, Gamael. Of the descendants of David, Hattush son of Shecaniah. ³⁰Of the descendants of Parosh, Zechariah, and with him a hundred fifty men enrolled. ³¹Of the descendants of Pahath-moab, Eliehoenai son of Zerariah, and with him two hundred men. ³²Of the descendants of Zattu, Shecaniah son of Jahaziel, and with him three hundred men. Of the descendants of Adin, Obed son of Jonathan, and with him two hundred fifty men. ³³Of the descendants of Elam, Jeshaiah son of Gotholiah, and with him seventy men. ³⁴Of the descendants of Shephatiah, Zeraiah son of Michael, and with him seventy men. ³⁵Of the descendants of Joab, Obadiah son of Jehiel, and with him two hundred twelve men. ³⁶Of the descendants of Bani, Shelomith son of Josiphiah, and with him a hundred sixty men. ³⁷Of the descendants of Bebai, Zechariah son of Bebai, and with him twenty-eight men. ³⁸Of the descendants of Azgad, Johanan son of Hakkatan, and with him a hundred ten men. ³⁹Of the descendants of Adonikam, the last ones, their names being Eliphelet, Jeuel, and Shemaiah, and with them seventy men. ⁴⁰Of the descendants of Bigvai, Uthai son of Istalcurus, and with him seventy men.

⁴¹I assembled them at the river called Theras, and we encamped there three days,

^a Other ancient authorities lack Then Ezra the scribe said

plus. 18: Artaxerxes virtually gives Ezra a blank check, showing great trust in Ezra. 19–22: Artaxerxes assures a generous year’s supply of provisions for the Temple. 19: Additional support is to come from local officials. 20: A talent was 75 lb (34 kg); a cor 6.5 bu (230 L); and a bath about 6 gal (23 L). 22: Temple personnel are exempt from all taxes. 23–24: Ezra is given authority to appoint judges throughout the entire province in order to maintain Jewish law. 24: The law of your God or the law of the kingdom, the imperial authorization of the specific Jewish Law is important in that it grants the Jewish community the ability to preserve its distinctive religious heritage. The king’s letter presents royal law and Jewish law as equally binding.

8.25–60: Ezra’s report: leading the exiles to Jerusalem (Ezra 7.27–8.30). In a first-person account (sometimes called “the Ezra memoir”), Ezra describes his response to the royal letter, his prayer of thanks, and preparations for the journey to Jerusalem. 25–27: Ezra’s first words are a prayer of thanksgiving. 28–40: Having thanked God, Ezra lists the names of exiles who went to Jerusalem with him. The list differs only slightly from the parallel in Ezra, although the numbers are higher, with a total of about 1,700 males. 29: Hattush, several persons with this name appear in the Hebrew Bible but here and in the parallel in Ezra 8.2 only this Hattush is identified as a descendant of David.

8.41–60: Communal preparations (Ezra 8.15–30) include surveying the company, fasting, and commis-

and I inspected them. ⁴²When I found there none of the descendants of the priests or of the Levites, ⁴³I sent word to Eliezar, Iduel, Maasmas, ⁴⁴Elnathan, Shemaiah, Jarib, Nathan, Elnathan, Zechariah, and Meshullam, who were leaders and men of understanding; ⁴⁵I told them to go to Iddo, who was the leading man at the place of the treasury, ⁴⁶and ordered them to tell Iddo and his kindred and the treasurers at that place to send us men to serve as priests in the house of our Lord. ⁴⁷And by the mighty hand of our Lord they brought us competent men of the descendants of Mahli son of Levi, son of Israel, namely Sherebiah^a with his descendants and kinsmen, eighteen; ⁴⁸also Hashabiah and Annunus and his brother Jeshaiiah, of the descendants of Hananiah, and their descendants, twenty men; ⁴⁹and of the temple servants, whom David and the leaders had given for the service of the Levites, two hundred twenty temple servants; the list of all their names was reported.

⁵⁰There I proclaimed a fast for the young men before our Lord, to seek from him a prosperous journey for ourselves and for our children and the livestock that were with us. ⁵¹For I was ashamed to ask the king for foot soldiers and cavalry and an escort to keep us safe from our adversaries; ⁵²for we had said to the king, "The power of our Lord will be with those who seek him, and will support them in every way." ⁵³And again we prayed to our Lord about these things, and we found him very merciful.

⁵⁴Then I set apart twelve of the leaders of the priests, Sherebiah and Hashabiah, and ten of their kinsmen with them; ⁵⁵and I

weighed out to them the silver and the gold and the holy vessels of the house of our Lord, which the king himself and his counselors and the nobles and all Israel had given. ⁵⁶I weighed and gave to them six hundred fifty talents of silver, and silver vessels worth a hundred talents, and a hundred talents of gold, ⁵⁷and twenty golden bowls, and twelve bronze vessels of fine bronze that glittered like gold. ⁵⁸And I said to them, "You are holy to the Lord, and the vessels are holy, and the silver and the gold are vowed to the Lord, the Lord of our ancestors. ⁵⁹Be watchful and on guard until you deliver them to the leaders of the priests and the Levites, and to the heads of the ancestral houses of Israel, in Jerusalem, in the chambers of the house of our Lord." ⁶⁰So the priests and the Levites who took the silver and the gold and the vessels that had been in Jerusalem carried them to the temple of the Lord.

⁶¹We left the river Theras on the twelfth day of the first month; and we arrived in Jerusalem by the mighty hand of our Lord, which was upon us; he delivered us from every enemy on the way, and so we came to Jerusalem. ⁶²When we had been there three days, the silver and the gold were weighed and delivered in the house of our Lord to the priest Meremoth son of Uriah; ⁶³with him was Eleazar son of Phinehas, and with them were Jozabad son of Jeshua and Moeth son of Binnui,^b the Levites. ⁶⁴The whole was counted and weighed, and the weight of everything was recorded at that very time. ⁶⁵And those sioning cult personnel as conveyers of vessels for the Temple. 41: The river . . . Theras is probably a tributary of the Euphrates. 42–49: Because neither priests nor Levites were among the group first assembled by Ezra, special measures had to be taken to secure the required number of both (Ezra 8 mentions only missing Levites). 45: The treasury, Ezra 8.17 mentions a place name, Casiphia, of unknown location. The treasure may be derived from interpretation of Casiphia, a word related to silver (Heb "kesep"). 50: Fasting prior to an important undertaking was common, especially in the postexilic period (2 Chr 20.3; Esth 4.16). 56: Talents weighed about 34 kg (75 lb) each. 58: Holy objects could be entrusted only to those who were holy themselves.

^a Gk Asbebias

^b Gk Sabannus

8.61–67: Arrival in Jerusalem (Ezra 8.31–36). Upon arriving, Ezra ensured that the treasures were turned over to the Jerusalem Temple personnel. This is followed by sacrifices to God and delivering the king's orders to the provincial officers, who are given no choice but to respect Ezra's mission. 61: Twelfth day of the first month (Nisan [March–April]), two days before the Passover commemorating the Exodus. A new Exodus may be implicit; however, for reasons of weather, spring was the season for expeditions (see 2 Sam 11.1).

who had returned from exile offered sacrifices to the Lord, the God of Israel, twelve bulls for all Israel, ninety-six rams, ⁶⁶ seventy-two lambs, and as a thank offering twelve male goats—all as a sacrifice to the Lord. ⁶⁷ They delivered the king's orders to the royal stewards and to the governors of Coele Syria and Phoenicia; and these officials^a honored the people and the temple of the Lord.

⁶⁸ After these things had been done, the leaders came to me and said, ⁶⁹ "The people of Israel and the rulers and the priests and the Levites have not put away from themselves the alien peoples of the land and their pollutions, the Canaanites, the Hittites, the Perizzites, the Jebusites, the Moabites, the Egyptians, and the Edomites. ⁷⁰ For they and their descendants have married the daughters of these people,^b and the holy race has been mixed with the alien peoples of the land; and from the beginning of this matter the leaders and the nobles have been sharing in this iniquity."

⁷¹ As soon as I heard these things I tore my garments and my holy mantle, and pulled out hair from my head and beard, and sat down in anxiety and grief. ⁷² And all who were ever moved at^c the word of the Lord of Israel gathered around me, as I mourned over this iniquity, and I sat grief-stricken until the evening sacrifice. ⁷³ Then I rose from my fast, with my garments and my holy mantle torn, and kneeling down and stretching out my hands to the Lord ⁷⁴ I said,

"O Lord, I am ashamed and confused before your face. ⁷⁵ For our sins have risen higher than our heads, and our mistakes have mounted up to heaven ⁷⁶ from the times of our ancestors, and we are in great sin to this day. ⁷⁷ Because of our sins and the sins of our ancestors, we with our kindred and our kings and our priests were given over to the kings of the earth, to the sword and exile and plundering, in shame until this day. ⁷⁸ And now in some measure mercy has come to us from you, O Lord, to leave to us a root and a name in your holy place, ⁷⁹ and to uncover a light for us in the house of the Lord our God, and to give us food in the time of our servitude. ⁸⁰ Even in our bondage we were not forsaken by our Lord, but he brought us into favor with the kings of the Persians, so that they have given us food ⁸¹ and glorified the temple of our Lord, and raised Zion from desolation, to give us a stronghold in Judea and Jerusalem.

⁸² "And now, O Lord, what shall we say, when we have these things? For we have transgressed your commandments, which you gave by your servants the prophets, saying, ⁸³ "The land that you are entering to take possession of is a land polluted with the pollution of the aliens of the land, and they have filled it with their uncleanness. ⁸⁴ Therefore do not give your daughters in marriage to their de-

^a Gk they

^b Gk their daughters

^c Or zealous for

8.68–9.36: The crisis of mixed marriages in Judah (Ezra 9.1–10.44). Ezra records that he was told about marriages of Judeans and "alien people of the land," which he viewed as violation of God's commandments. It appears that Ezra and his supporters considered the ethnic and religious cohesiveness of the returned exiles to be in danger when living as a minority in the land, among more numerous ethnicities and groups. This best explains the harsh, separatist measures that Ezra and his supporters take to protect communal boundaries. 1 Esdras follows the parallel in Ezra 9–10 with but a few, albeit important, differences.

8.68–70: The nature of the crisis (Ezra 9.1–2). Some members of the community, including leaders, have married women from the residents of the land, who are described as "alien." The parallel in Ezra 9.1–2 charges that the objectionable people's practices were like the ancient Canaanites, Moabites, and other groups mentioned in Deuteronomy as proscribed (see Deut 7.1–5 and 23.4–7). 1 Esdras gives the impression that the peoples of the land are in fact these earlier proscribed groups. 70: Holy, that is dedicated to God. Race, lit. "seed" (offspring).

8.71–90: Ezra's response to the crisis: mourning and prayer (Ezra 9.3–15). Ezra interprets for the community the significance of mixed marriages, noting that they may again cause an exile. 71: Holy, Ezra 9.3 does not ascribe holiness to Ezra's mantle; the addition in 1 Esdras stresses Ezra's significant position as high priest (see note on 9.39). 82–85: The prophetic books contain no such statement; the author may have in mind such passages as Lev 18.24–30 and Deut 7.3–4, attributed to Moses as a prophet.

scendants, and do not take their daughters for your descendants;⁸⁵ do not seek ever to have peace with them, so that you may be strong and eat the good things of the land and leave it for an inheritance to your children forever.’⁸⁶ And all that has happened to us has come about because of our evil deeds and our great sins. For you, O Lord, lifted the burden of our sins⁸⁷ and gave us such a root as this; but we turned back again to transgress your law by mixing with the uncleanness of the peoples of the land.⁸⁸ Were you not angry enough with us to destroy us without leaving a root or seed or name?⁸⁹ O Lord of Israel, you are faithful; for we are left as a root to this day.⁹⁰ See, we are now before you in our iniquities; for we can no longer stand in your presence because of these things.”

⁹¹While Ezra was praying and making his confession, weeping and lying on the ground before the temple, there gathered around him a very great crowd of men and women and youths from Jerusalem; for there was great weeping among the multitude.⁹² Then Shecaniah son of Jehiel, one of the men of Israel, called out, and said to Ezra, “We have sinned against the Lord, and have married foreign women from the peoples of the land; but even now there is hope for Israel.⁹³ Let us take an oath to the Lord about this, that we will put away all our foreign wives, with their children,⁹⁴ as seems good to you and to all who obey the law of the Lord.⁹⁵ Rise up^a and take action, for it is your task, and we are with you to take strong measures.”⁹⁶ Then Ezra rose up and made the leaders of the priests and Levites of all Israel swear that they would do this. And they swore to it.

9 Then Ezra set out and went from the court of the temple to the chamber of Jehohanan son of Eliashib,² and spent the night there; and he did not eat bread or drink water, for he was mourning over the great iniquities of the multitude.³ And a proclamation was made throughout Judea and Jerusalem to all who had returned from exile that they should assemble at Jerusalem,⁴ and that if any did not meet there within two or three days, in accordance with the decision of the ruling elders, their livestock would be seized for sacrifice and the men themselves^b expelled from the multitude of those who had returned from the captivity.

⁵Then the men of the tribe of Judah and Benjamin assembled at Jerusalem within three days; this was the ninth month, on the twentieth day of the month.⁶ All the multitude sat in the open square before the temple, shivering because of the bad weather that prevailed.⁷ Then Ezra stood up and said to them, “You have broken the law and married foreign women, and so have increased the sin of Israel.⁸ Now then make confession and give glory to the Lord the God of our ancestors,⁹ and do his will; separate yourselves from the peoples of the land and from your foreign wives.”

¹⁰Then all the multitude shouted and said with a loud voice, “We will do as you have said.¹¹ But the multitude is great and it is winter, and we are not able to stand in the open air. This is not a work we can do in one day or two, for we have sinned too much in these things.¹² So let the leaders of the multitude stay, and let all those in our settlements who have foreign wives come at the time appointed,¹³ with the elders and judges of each place,

^a Other ancient authorities read as seems good to you. And all who obeyed the law of the Lord rose and said to Ezra,⁹⁵ “Rise up

^b Gk he himself

8.91–9.36: The people repent and dismiss their foreign wives (Ezra 10.1–44). As in Ezra 10, the account switches from a first-person report (“the Ezra Memoirs”) to a third-person report about Ezra’s reforms. 8.91–96: A proposal to remove foreign wives is made. 9.3: The children of such marriages are to be sent away as well, thereby not being separated from their mothers. 9.1–17: Ezra leads the communal process toward dismissing foreign wives. 1: The chamber, an office within the Temple complex that as a priest, Ezra may use. 4: The ruling elders issue orders for the entire community to assemble; Ezra exercises religious, not political, authority in the land. 7: The law, an allusion to Deut 7.3. 8: To give glory to the Lord is to acknowledge themselves to be in the wrong (cf. Josh 7.19). 5–6: Cold weather and heavy rains are typical of the ninth month, Chislew (November–December). 11–13: Because of the severe winter weather and the complexity of the task, it is agreed that the separation should be handled by a committee, with the help of leaders from various districts. The multitude until we are freed from the wrath of the Lord over this matter.”

¹⁴Jonathan son of Asahel and Jahzeiah son of Tikvah^a undertook the matter on these terms, and Meshullam and Levi and Shabbethai served with them as judges. ¹⁵And those who had returned from exile acted in accordance with all this.

¹⁶Ezra the priest chose for himself the leading men of their ancestral houses, all of them by name; and on the new moon of the tenth month they began their sessions to investigate the matter. ¹⁷And the cases of the men who had foreign wives were brought to an end by the new moon of the first month.

¹⁸Of the priests, those who were brought in and found to have foreign wives were: ¹⁹of the descendants of Jeshua son of Jozadak and his kindred, Maaseiah, Eliezar, Jarib, and Jordan. ²⁰They pledged themselves to put away their wives, and to offer rams in expiation of their error. ²¹Of the descendants of Immer: Hanani and Zebadiah and Maaseiah and Shemaiah and Jehiel and Azariah. ²²Of the descendants of Pashhur: Elioenai, Maaseiah, Ishmael, and Nathanael, and Gedaliah, and Salthas.

²³And of the Levites: Jozabad and Shimei and Kelaiah, who was Kelita, and Pethahiah and Judah and Jonah. ²⁴Of the temple singers: Eliashib and Zaccur.^b ²⁵Of the gatekeepers: Shallum and Telem.^c

²⁶Of Israel: of the descendants of Parosh: Ramiah, Izziah, Malchijah, Mijamin, and

Eleazar, and Asibias, and Benaiah. ²⁷Of the descendants of Elam: Mattaniah and Zechariah, Jezrielus and Abdi, and Jeremoth and Elijah. ²⁸Of the descendants of Zamoth: Eliadas, Eliashib, Othoniah, Jeremoth, and Zabad and Zerdaiah. ²⁹Of the descendants of Bebai: Jehohanan and Hananiah and Zabbai and Emathis. ³⁰Of the descendants of Mani: Olamus, Mamuchus, Adaiah, Jashub, and Sheal and Jeremoth. ³¹Of the descendants of Addi: Naathus and Moossias, Laccunus and Naidus, and Bescaspmys and Sesthel, and Belnuus and Manasseas. ³²Of the descendants of Annan, Elionas and Asaias and Melchias and Sabbaias and Simon Chosamaeus. ³³Of the descendants of Hashum: Mattenai and Mattattah and Zabad and Eliphelet and Manasseh and Shimei. ³⁴Of the descendants of Bani: Jeremai, Momdius, Maerus, Joel, Mamdai and Bedeiah and Vaniah, Carabasion and Eliashib and Mamitanemus, Eliasis, Bin-nui, Elialis, Shimei, Shelemiah, Nethaniah. Of the descendants of Ezora: Shashai, Azarel, Azael, Samatus, Zambris, Joseph. ³⁵Of the descendants of Nooma: Mazitias, Zabad, Iddo, Joel, Benaiah. ³⁶All these had married foreign women, and they put them away together with their children.

³⁷The priests and the Levites and the Israelites settled in Jerusalem and in the

^a Gk Thocanos

^b Gk Bacchurus

^c Gk Tolbanes

is dismissed. 16–17: Investigating the cases of intermarriage takes three months, from the first of the tenth month, Tebet (December-January) to the first of the first month, Nisan (March-April). 18–36: Ezra 10.18–44. The list of those who put away foreign wives, which includes priests, Levites, and the laity, may have been preserved in the Temple archives. 20: The priests, whose violation of genealogical purity endangers the sanctity of the Temple, are required to make a guilt offering in expiation of the sin. 36: They put them away, only 1 Esdras specifies that the women and children were expelled. The parallel in Ezra 10.44 does not; verses 18–44 only indicate that priests put away their wives. Many translators, however, append 1 Esd 9.36 to Ezra 10.44.

9.37–55: The restoration is complete with Ezra’s public reading of the law (Neh 7.73–8.12). First Esdras concludes with a grand celebration, reminiscent of the Passover celebration with which the book began (see ch 1), thereby rendering the destruction and exile as a temporary crisis that has been fully overcome by the end of the book; 1 Esdras departs markedly from Ezra-Nehemiah at this juncture. In Ezra-Nehemiah the reading of the Torah (NRSV “law”; see 8.7n.) follows the rebuilding of Jerusalem’s walls under Nehemiah’s leadership (Neh 1–6). For the author of 1 Esdras, the only important leaders are David’s descendant Zerubbabel and Ezra the priest, who together restore (rather than transform) Israel’s institutions and communal life. The celebrative, public reading of the book constitutes the completion of the restoration. Thus the ceremony recalls Sinai as the receiving of God’s teachings by the entire people, transforming them into “the people of the Book.” 37: The new moon or first day of the seventh month, Tishri (September-October), was a day of holy convocation (Lev 23.23– country. On the new moon of the seventh month, when the people of Israel were in their settlements,³⁸ the whole multitude gathered with one accord in the open square before the east gate of the temple;³⁹ they told Ezra the chief priest and reader to bring the law of Moses that had been given by the Lord God of Israel.⁴⁰ So Ezra the chief priest brought the law, for all the multitude, men and women, and all the priests to hear the law, on the new moon of the seventh month.⁴¹ He read aloud in the open square before the gate of the temple from early morning until midday, in the presence of both men and women; and all the multitude gave attention to the law.⁴² Ezra the priest and reader of the law stood on the wooden platform that had been prepared;⁴³ and beside him stood Mattathiah, Shema, Ananias, Azariah, Uriah, Hezekiah, and Baalsamus on his right,⁴⁴ and on his left Pedaiah, Mishael, Malchijah, Lothasubus, Nabariah, and Zechariah.⁴⁵ Then Ezra took up the book of the law in the sight of the multitude, for he had the place of honor in the presence of all.⁴⁶ When he opened the law, they all stood erect. And Ezra blessed the Lord God Most High, the God of hosts, the Almighty,⁴⁷ and the multitude answered, "Amen." They lifted up their hands, and fell to the ground and worshiped the Lord.⁴⁸ Jeshua and Anniuth and Sherebiah, Jadinus, Akkub, Shabbethai, Hodiah, Maiannas and Kelita, Azariah and Jozabad, Hanan, Pelaiah, the Levites, taught the law of the Lord,^a at the same time explaining what was read.

⁴⁹Then Attharates^b said to Ezra the chief priest and reader, and to the Levites who were teaching the multitude, and to all,⁵⁰ "This day is holy to the Lord"—now they were all weeping as they heard the law—⁵¹"so go your way, eat the fat and drink the sweet, and send portions to those who have none;⁵² for the day is holy to the Lord; and do not be sorrowful, for the Lord will exalt you."⁵³ The Levites commanded all the people, saying, "This day is holy; do not be sorrowful."⁵⁴ Then they all went their way, to eat and drink and enjoy themselves, and to give portions to those who had none, and to make great rejoicing;⁵⁵ because they were inspired by the words which they had been taught. And they came together.^c

^a Other ancient authorities add and read the law of the Lord to the multitude

^b Or the governor

^c The Greek text ends abruptly: compare Neh 8.13

24; Num 29.1). The date for the ceremony is September 444 (or perhaps 443). 38: The east gate of the temple, Neh 8 does not mention the Temple and includes no other priests except Ezra in this ceremony of reading. 39: They told Ezra, the people, not Ezra, initiate the ceremony. Ezra is not identified elsewhere as the chief priest. The law of Moses, i.e., the Torah. From the people's reaction and other details in Ezra-Nehemiah, scholars conclude that some form of today's Pentateuch, especially Deuteronomy, is being used. 40–41: Both men and women participate in this ceremony of hearing and receiving the Torah (see Deut 31.12). 42: The platform erected for Ezra probably continued the tradition whereby kings would appear before the people to reaffirm the covenant law on the festal occasion (cf. 2 Chr 20.5; 23.13; 29.4). It also served a practical need: to make the book of the Torah visible and audible to all. 43: Beside him stood . . . Ezra's assistants include laity, as well as Levites, who are elsewhere connected to the study of the law. Their participation expresses broadened access to the authoritative teachings, a move away from exclusive control by priests (see Jer 18.18). 48: The Levites explained the law to the people or possibly translated it into Aramaic for those who may not have been familiar with Hebrew.

9.49–55: The concluding celebration. 49: Attharates (see also 5.40) is a corruption of "tirshatha" (governor) in Neh 8.9. The author of 1 Esdras does not intend to indicate that Nehemiah, the named governor in Neh 8.9, was a participant in the festivity. 50–55: The people are to rejoice even though the words of the law cause them to recognize their sin, because the law is associated with joy. 55: They came together, some consider the ending abrupt, with the continuation in the parallel in Neh 8 (a second gathering and the feast of booths in Neh 8.13–18) a more fitting conclusion. Nevertheless, coming together as a community around the law and celebrating in the Temple in Jerusalem constitute an appropriate ending for a book that began with a celebration under Josiah in the same location.

THE PRAYER OF MANASSEH

NAME AND DATE

Manasseh, the idolatrous seventh-century BCE king of Judah, uttered a prayer, according to 2 Chr 33, while lying in shackles as a captive of Babylon. The Chronicler suggests that he had before him a text containing the king's actual words; the Prayer of Manasseh purports to be that very source. In reality, this composition was most likely written around the turn of the Common Era, perhaps even in Greek rather than in Hebrew.

CANONICAL STATUS AND LOCATION

Evidence for the Prayer of Manasseh is first found in a Syriac translation of a third-century CE Greek work, the Didascalia Apostolorum, and in the fourth-century Greek work The Apostolic Constitutions. It is appended to the Psalter in a few manuscripts of the Septuagint, and though beloved by many Christian communities, became canonical only in the Eastern Orthodox churches.

STRUCTURE, CONTENTS, AND INTERPRETATION

This prayer for forgiveness follows a typical structure: praise of God (vv. 1–8), lament (vv. 9–10), petition (vv. 11–13), and vow of additional praise (vv. 14–15). Like other late biblical prayers (Ezra 9.1–15; Neh 1.4–11; 9.6–37; Dan 9.4–19; Bar 1.15–3.8), it dwells on sin in order to emphasize the extent of the need for divine intervention. Such sin must be removed for the petitioner to be released from suffering. The way the prayer uses an emergent doctrine of repentance is novel. With his power, God has “made heaven and earth with all their order” (v. 2), and, in his mercy, he has “appointed repentance for sinners” (v. 7). Manasseh praises God for his creation of the world and thereby gains an opportunity to remind him that he also “created” repentance at that time. He establishes the basis, as a penitent, on which he can expect, even demand, to have his petition favorably received.

The distinctive theology of repentance found in the prayer may be profitably compared to a variety of late Hebrew and Greek texts. Nehemiah 1.8–9 and Bar 3.5–7 allude to a divine promise based on the book of Deuteronomy to redeem those who turn away from sin, but the focus of these texts is on the nation, not individuals. With its interest in the individual sinner, the Prayer of Manasseh resembles rabbinic texts with their interpretation of Deuteronomy's promise as applying to individuals and their view that repentance was established at the time of creation. The notion that repentance is a grant (“promised,” v. 7; “appointed,” vv. 8–9) probably comes from Greek military terminology; amnesty is granted to those who repent of their rebellion. The sense of repentance as having an established existence is also found in such Greek texts as the pagan *Tabula of Cebe*s, the Hellenistic Jewish Joseph and Aseneth and the Christian Shepherd of Hermas.

David Lambert

¹O Lord Almighty,
God of our ancestors,
of Abraham and Isaac and Jacob and of their righteous offspring; ²you who made heaven and earth with all their order; ³who shackled the sea by your word of command,
who confined the deep and sealed it with your terrible and glorious name;

⁴at whom all things shudder,
and tremble before your power, ⁵for your glorious splendor cannot be borne,
and the wrath of your threat to sinners is unendurable;
⁶yet immeasurable and unsearchable

1–8: Praise of the creator. 1: God of our ancestors, Ex 3.15–16; Dan 2.23; cf. Acts 3.13. Their righteous offspring, an unusual phrase, which may indicate that the prayer was meant to be uttered by a convert. 3: The restraining of the sea by the creator is a common poetic theme of the Bible (Pss 29.10; 104.7–9; 148.5–6; Job 38.8–11). 5: God's power, exemplified by creation and his mastery over the deep, naturally leads to the utter destruction of

is your promised mercy, ⁷ for you are the Lord Most High,
 of great compassion, long-suffering, and very merciful,
 and you relent at human suffering.
 O Lord, according to your great goodness you have promised repentance and forgiveness
 to those who have sinned against you,
 and in the multitude of your mercies you have appointed repentance for sinners,
 so that they may be saved.^a ⁸ Therefore you, O Lord, God of the righteous,
 have not appointed repentance for the
 righteous,
 for Abraham and Isaac and Jacob, who did not sin against you,
 but you have appointed repentance for me,
 who am a sinner.
⁹ For the sins I have committed are more in number than the sand of the sea;
 my transgressions are multiplied, O Lord,
 they are multiplied!
 I am not worthy to look up and see the height of heaven
 because of the multitude of my iniquities.
¹⁰ I am weighted down with many an iron fetter,
 so that I am rejected^b because of my sins,
 and I have no relief;

for I have provoked your wrath
 and have done what is evil in your sight, setting up abominations and multiplying offenses.
¹¹ And now I bend the knee of my heart,
 imploring you for your kindness.
¹² I have sinned, O Lord, I have sinned,
 and I acknowledge my transgressions.
¹³ I earnestly implore you,
 forgive me, O Lord, forgive me!
 Do not destroy me with my transgressions!
 Do not be angry with me forever or store up evil for me;
 do not condemn me to the depths of the earth.
 For you, O Lord, are the God of those who
 repent,
¹⁴ and in me you will manifest your goodness;
 for, unworthy as I am, you will save me
 according to your great mercy, ¹⁵ and I will praise you continually all the days of my life.
 For all the host of heaven sings your praise,
 and yours is the glory forever. Amen.

^a Other ancient authorities lack O Lord, according . . . be saved

^b Other ancient authorities read so that I cannot lift up my head

sinner. 6–7: His power is tempered by equally boundless mercy. In late biblical texts (e.g. 2 Chr 30.9), the “turn away from sin” enables divine mercy to operate. In the Prayer, God’s establishment of repentance as a perennial opportunity is itself an expression of his mercy. 7: Cf. Ex 34.6–7; the Greek is very close to the LXX translation of Joel 2.13 and Jon 4.21.

9–10: Lament. A presentation of the central problem: the petitioner’s sin has ruined him. 10: An iron fetter, cf. 2 Chr 33.11. I . . . have done what is evil in your sight, Ps 51.4 (LXX 50.6).

11–13: Petition. 11: And now, the dramatic climax. I bend the knee, usually an act of supplication. Of my heart probably serves as an indication of the supplicant’s inner sincerity. That Manasseh is bound in fetters (v. 10), makes “bending the knee of the heart” ironically the only method of prostration available.

14–15: Vow of praise. Reminder of how heeding the petitioner’s request will benefit God. Such a vow is often found at the end of laments in the Psalms (e.g., 22.22–31; 80.18). 15: Host of heaven, the multitude of angelic beings (Job 38.7; Neh 9.6; cf. Lk 2.13).

PSALM 151

CANONICAL STATUS, ANCIENT VERSIONS, AND DATE OF COMPOSITION

Although Psalm 151 does not appear in the Masoretic Text, it is the final psalm in the book of Psalms in the Greek Septuagint (LXX). One manuscript of the Septuagint contains a postscript to Psalm 151 that reads “the 151 Psalms of David,” thus attributing the entire collection to King David. Other Septuagint manuscripts, however, contain a superscription to the psalm that indicates it is “outside the number” (of 150 psalms). A more expansive version of Psalm 151 was discovered among the Dead Sea Scrolls toward the end of the long psalms scroll from Cave 11 (11QPsa). This version comprises two distinct psalms, referred to as Psalm 151A (roughly LXX Ps 151) and 151B (fragmentary), each with its own superscription. The psalm also appears in somewhat expanded form as the first of five additional psalms in the Syriac translation. Psalm 151 is part of the canon of Orthodox churches and is included in the Apocrypha.

Psalm 151 was likely composed no later than the third century BCE when the exact content and ordering of the book of Psalms was not yet fixed. Such fluidity in form and content suggests that the psalms were used, memorized, and transmitted orally.

CONTENTS

In contrast to the final psalms of the canonical Psalter (146–150), which all offer praise to the LORD, Psalm 151 focuses on David, making explicit reference to incidents from David’s life as described in 1 Samuel 16–17.

Verses 1 and 4b–5 of the psalm form a unit (with framed references to “brothers,” “father’s sheep”) before the transition in vv. 6–7 to David’s conflict with Goliath.

Judith H. Newman

This psalm is ascribed to David as his own composition (though it is outside the number^a), after he had fought in single combat with Goliath.

¹ I was small among my brothers, and the youngest in my father’s house;
I tended my father’s sheep.

² My hands made a harp;
my fingers fashioned a lyre.

³ And who will tell my Lord?
The Lord himself; it is he who hears.^b

⁴ It was he who sent his messenger^c and took me from my father’s sheep, and anointed me with his anointing oil.

⁵ My brothers were handsome and tall,
but the Lord was not pleased with them.

⁶ I went out to meet the Philistine,^d and he cursed me by his idols.

⁷ But I drew his own sword;
I beheaded him, and took away disgrace
from the people of Israel.

^a Other ancient authorities add of the one hundred fifty (psalms)

^b Other ancient authorities add everything; others add me; others read who will hear me

^c Or angel

^d Or foreigner

1: The youngest, cf. 1 Sam 16.11; 17.14. 2: David’s ability to play the lyre allowed him to soothe Saul’s “evil spirit” (1 Sam 16.14–23; 18.10). Such musical ability was closely associated with the gift of poetry in antiquity and likely contributed to David’s reputation as the author of the psalms. 4: His messenger, specified in 11QPsa as the prophet Samuel; see 1 Sam 16.1–13. 6–7: The focus of the psalm shifts to David’s feat of slaying “the Philistine” Goliath (1 Sam 17). Idols, see 1 Sam 17.43. On Israel’s subjugation by Goliath as a “disgrace” see Sir 47.4.

3 MACCABEES

NAME AND CANONICAL STATUS

The title of the book known as 3 Maccabees is a misnomer, for it is not a historical account of the Maccabees but a fictional story about Egyptian Jews under Ptolemy IV Philopator (221–204 BCE), half a century before the Maccabean period. The book is preserved in the Greek Septuagint (LXX) and the Syriac Peshitta, as well as in most manuscripts of the Armenian Bible. It is not, however, included in the Latin Vulgate. This may explain why it was not included in the canon of the Roman Catholic Church or in the traditional Protestant Apocrypha. It is included in the canon of the Eastern Orthodox churches.

CONTENTS

Third Maccabees begins with a brief account of how Ptolemy was saved from assassination at the battle of Raphia by the intervention of a Jew (1.1–5). This brief story of Jewish loyalty provides a foil against which the king's hostility to the Jews must be seen. The second episode (1.6–2.24) tells of the king's unsuccessful attempt to enter the holy of holies in the Jerusalem Temple. The desecration is averted by divine intervention in response to the prayer of the high priest Simon. The third episode, which takes up most of the book, describes the persecution of the Jews in Egypt. Upon his return there, the king determines to take vengeance upon the Jews for his humiliation in Jerusalem. He radically alters their legal status and attempts to force them to worship the Greek god Dionysus, promising to those who comply full citizenship in Alexandria (2.25–33). The vast majority of Jews resist, and with great cruelty they are herded together to be registered, tortured, and put to death. Again divine intervention averts disaster; after forty days the writing materials have been exhausted, and the registration cannot be completed (3.1–4.21). Finally, the king decrees that drugged elephants be turned upon the Jews, who have been detained in the city's arena. Twice this is providentially delayed, and the third miracle occurs in answer to the prayer of the aged priest Eleazar, paralleling the prayer of the high priest in the second episode. The elephants turn on the king's forces, and he repents, allowing the Jews to return to their homes (5.1–6.21). The book ends with a royal letter decreeing protection for the Jews, who punish those of their number who had apostatized, and rejoice at the providential deliverance (ch 7).

DATE AND HISTORICAL CONTEXT

The work was originally written in Greek by an unknown Egyptian Jew. The date of composition is disputed. Some scholars argue that the language of the book and its familiarity with the terminology of the Ptolemaic court argue for a date about 100 BCE. Others hold that the threatened change in the status of the Jews, and the promise of Alexandrian citizenship to those who abandoned their religion, reflect the situation of the Alexandrian Jews after Rome conquered Egypt in 30 BCE. Non-Jews were subjected to a new tax, called the "laographia" (the word used in connection with the change of status in 3 Macc 2.28). Citizenship normally required the worship of other gods, and so was unacceptable to most Jews, but some Jews who abandoned their religion rose to prominence in Roman service (most notably Tiberius Julius Alexander, nephew of the philosopher Philo). The book is not a historical account, although it does depict some earlier historical events, such as the battle of Raphia, known from other sources.

Although the book is written in a bombastic style, it provides a colorful drama of danger and deliverance. It also conveys a strict message of the need for solidarity in the Jewish community.

GUIDE TO READING

Third Maccabees belongs to a narrative genre that was especially popular among Jews who lived in the Diaspora, outside the land of Israel. Other examples are found in the book of Esther and in Daniel 2–6. These stories tell of some great danger that threatens the Jewish community, which is then averted, either through heroic action (Esther) or, more typically, through divine intervention. Such stories provided both entertainment and edification, allowing the Jewish readers to confront their fears of destruction and then allaying those fears by the happy ending.

John J. Collins

1 When Philopator learned from those who returned that the regions that he had controlled had been seized by Antiochus, he gave orders to all his forces, both infantry and cavalry, took with him his sister Arsinoë, and marched out to the region near Raphia, where the army of Antiochus was encamped. ² But a certain Theodotus, determined to carry out the plot he had devised, took with him the best of the Ptolemaic arms that had been previously issued to him,³ and crossed over by night to the tent of Ptolemy, intending single-handed to kill him and thereby end the war. ³ But Dositheus, known as the son of Drimylus, a Jew by birth who later changed his religion and apostatized from the ancestral traditions, had led the king away and arranged that a certain insignificant man should sleep in the tent; and so it turned out that this man incurred the vengeance meant for the king.^b ⁴ When a bitter fight resulted, and matters were turning out rather in favor of Antiochus, Arsinoë went to the troops with wailing and tears, her locks all disheveled, and exhorted them to defend themselves and their children and wives bravely, promising to give them each two minas of gold if they won the battle. ⁵ And so it came about that the enemy was routed in the action, and many captives also were taken. ⁶ Now that he had foiled the plot, Ptolemy^c decided to visit the neighboring cities and encourage them. ⁷ By doing this, and by endowing their sacred enclosures with gifts, he strengthened the morale of his subjects.

⁸ Since the Jews had sent some of their council and elders to greet him, to bring him gifts of welcome, and to congratulate him on what had happened, he was all the more eager to visit them as soon as possible. ⁹ After he had arrived in Jerusalem, he offered sacrifice to the supreme God^d and made thank offerings and did what was fitting for the holy place.^e Then, upon entering the place and being impressed by its excellence and its beauty,¹⁰ he marveled at the good order of the temple, and conceived a desire to enter the sanctuary. ¹¹ When they said that this was not permitted, because not even members of their own nation were allowed to enter,

^a Or the best of the Ptolemaic soldiers previously put under his command

^b Gk that one

^c Gk he

^d Gk the greatest God

^e Gk the place

1.1–7: The battle of Raphia (217 BCE). The abruptness with which the book opens and the use of the Greek conjunctive particle “de” may indicate that the introduction to 3 Maccabees has not survived (see also 2.25n.). Alternatively, the account of the battle may have been excerpted from a historical source. It resembles the account given by the second-century BCE historian Polybius (book 5), who also reports a plot to kill the king, but not the role of Dositheus in foiling it. 1: Ptolemy IV [Philopator] was king of Egypt 221–204. From those who returned, fugitives who had escaped. Antiochus III, later called the Great, was king of Syria 223–187. Raphia, a city of Palestine, three miles from Gaza and not far from the Egyptian frontier. Arsinoë, Ptolemy’s sister, who became his wife, was later put to death at the instigation of her husband. 2: Theodotus had been chief commander of the Egyptian forces in Syria, but subsequently became disaffected and deserted to Antiochus III (Polybius, 5.40). 3: Dositheus is mentioned in Hibeh papyrus 90 as priest of Alexander in 222 BCE, a very exalted position, and he is also mentioned in earlier papyri as a Ptolemaic administrator. The papyri, however, do not identify him as Jewish. A certain insignificant man, Polybius identifies the man as Andreas, the king’s physician. 4: Two minas, ca. 2.5 lb (1.1 kg). 5: According to Polybius (5.86.5–6), Antiochus lost nearly 10,000 infantry, 300 cavalry, and 4,000 prisoners; Ptolemy lost 1,500 infantry and 700 cavalry.

1.8–15: Ptolemy attempts to enter the sanctuary at Jerusalem. 9: Reference to the supreme God, Greek “megistos theos,” occurs frequently in 3 Maccabees (1.9,16; 3.11; 4.16; 5.25; 7.22) as well as in 2 Maccabees (3.36). The God of the Jews was often known as The Most High God in antiquity. It was customary for kings to show respect to local deities. According to Josephus (Ant. 11.336), Alexander the Great had offered sacrifice in the Jerusalem Temple. The holy place, an alternative term for “the Temple” in 3 Maccabees and other Jewish literature. 10: No attempt by a Ptolemy to enter the holy of holies is otherwise known. The Roman general Pompey did enter it in 63 BCE, but the closest parallel to 3 Maccabees on this point is found in the story of Heliodorus in 2 Macc 3, although the details of the stories are different (Heliodorus was attempting to seize the Temple treasure). 11: High priest . . . once a year, Lev 16.2,34.

not even all of the priests, but only the high priest who was pre-eminent over all—and he only once a year—the king was by no means persuaded. ¹² Even after the law had been read to him, he did not cease to maintain that he ought to enter, saying, “Even if those men are deprived of this honor, I ought not to be.”

¹³ And he inquired why, when he entered every other temple,^a no one there had stopped him. ¹⁴ And someone answered thoughtlessly that it was wrong to take that as a portent.^b

¹⁵ “But since this has happened,” the king^c said, “why should not I at least enter, whether they wish it or not?”

¹⁶ Then the priests in all their vestments prostrated themselves and entreated the supreme God^d to aid in the present situation and to avert the violence of this evil design, and they filled the temple with cries and tears; ¹⁷ those who remained behind in the city were agitated and hurried out, supposing that something mysterious was occurring. ¹⁸ Young women who had been secluded in their chambers rushed out with their mothers, sprinkled their hair with dust,^e and filled the streets with groans and lamentations. ¹⁹ Those women who had recently been arrayed for marriage abandoned the bridal chambers^f prepared for wedded union, and, neglecting proper modesty, in a disorderly rush flocked together in the city. ²⁰ Mothers and nurses abandoned even newborn children here and there, some in houses and some in the streets, and without a backward look they crowded together at the most high temple. ²¹ Various were the supplications of those gathered there because of what the king was profanely plotting. ²² In addition, the bolder of the citizens would not tolerate the completion of his plans or the fulfillment of his intended purpose.

²³ They shouted to their compatriots to take arms and die courageously for the ancestral law, and created a considerable disturbance in the holy place;^g and being barely restrained by the old men and the elders,^h they resorted to the same posture of supplication as the others. ²⁴ Meanwhile the crowd, as before, was engaged in prayer, ²⁵ while the elders near the king tried in various ways to change his arrogant mind from the plan that he had conceived. ²⁶ But he, in his arrogance, took heed of nothing, and began now to approach, determined to bring the aforesaid plan to a conclusion. ²⁷ When those who were around him observed this, they turned, together with our people, to call upon him who has all power to defend them in the present trouble and not to overlook this unlawful and haughty deed. ²⁸ The continuous, vehement, and concerted cry of the crowdsⁱ resulted in an immense uproar; ²⁹ for it seemed that not only the people but also the walls and the whole earth around echoed, because indeed all at that time^j preferred death to the profanation of the place.

2 Then the high priest Simon, facing the sanctuary, bending his knees and extending his hands with calm dignity, prayed as

^a Or entered the temple precincts

^b Or to boast of this

^c Gk he

^d Gk the greatest God

^e Other ancient authorities add and ashes

^f Or the canopies

^g Gk the place

^h Other ancient authorities read priests

ⁱ Other ancient authorities read vehement cry of the assembled crowds

^j Other ancient authorities lack at that time

1.16–29: Jewish reaction to Ptolemy’s determination to enter the sanctuary. Compare the reaction to the attempt of Heliodorus in 2 Macc 3.14–21, and also the historical episodes when Pontius Pilate introduced the sacrilegious Roman standards into Jerusalem (Josephus, War 1.169–74; Ant. 18.55–59) and when Caligula attempted to have his statue installed in the Temple (War 2.184–203; Ant. 18.269–72). 18: Young women were not permitted to appear in public before marriage; cf. 2 Macc 3.19. 19: For other references to bridal chambers see Joel 2.16; 2 Esd 16.33–34; Bar 2.23. 23: Die courageously for the ancestral law, 1 Macc 2.40; 3.21; 13.3–4; 2 Macc 8.21. It is noteworthy that the militants are restrained by the elders here, in contrast to the Maccabean rebellion and to the later Jewish revolt against Rome.

2.1–20: The prayer of Simon, the high priest. Simon II, son of Onias II and called “the Just,” was high priest about 219–196 BCE (see Sir 50.1n.). The prayer is in a classic Jewish form that, like Eleazar’s prayer in 6.1–15, follows the pattern of Ps 105 and 106 in confessing the sins of the people but calling on God to deliver them as he follows:^a ²“Lord, Lord, king of the heavens, and sovereign of all creation, holy among the holy ones, the only ruler, almighty, give attention to us who are suffering grievously from an impious and profane man, puffed up in his audacity and power. ³ For you, the creator of all things and the governor of all, are a just Ruler, and you judge those who have done anything in insolence and arrogance. ⁴ You destroyed those who in the past committed injustice, among whom were even giants who trusted in their strength and boldness, whom you destroyed by bringing on them a boundless flood. ⁵ You consumed with fire and sulfur the people of Sodom who acted arrogantly, who were notorious for their vices;^b and you made them an example to those who should come afterward. ⁶ You made known your mighty power by inflicting many and varied punishments on the audacious Pharaoh who had enslaved your holy people Israel. ⁷ And when he pursued them with chariots and a mass of troops, you overwhelmed him in the depths of the sea, but carried through safely those who had put their confidence in you, the Ruler over the whole creation. ⁸ And when they had seen works of your hands, they praised you, the Almighty. ⁹ You, O King, when you had created the boundless and immeasurable earth, chose this city and sanctified this place for your name, though you have no need of anything; and when you had glorified it by your magnificent manifestation,^c you made it a firm foundation for the glory of your great and honored name. ¹⁰ And because you love the house of Israel, you promised that if we should have reverses and tribulation should overtake us, you would listen to our petition when we come to this place and pray.

¹¹ And indeed you are faithful and true. ¹² And because oftentimes when our fathers were oppressed you helped them in their humiliation, and rescued them from great evils, ¹³ see now, O holy King, that because of our many and great sins we are crushed with suffering, subjected to our enemies, and overtaken by helplessness. ¹⁴ In our downfall this audacious and profane man undertakes to violate the holy place on earth dedicated to your glorious name. ¹⁵ For your dwelling is the heaven of heavens, unapproachable by human beings. ¹⁶ But because you graciously bestowed your glory on your people Israel, you sanctified this place. ¹⁷ Do not punish us for the defilement committed by these men, or call us to account for this profanation, otherwise the transgressors will boast in their wrath and exult in the arrogance of their tongue, saying, ¹⁸ ‘We have trampled down the house of the sanctuary as the houses of the abominations are trampled down.’ ¹⁹ Wipe away our sins and disperse our errors, and reveal your mercy at this hour. ²⁰ Speedily let your mercies overtake us, and put praises in the mouth of those who are downcast and broken in spirit, and give us peace.”

²¹ Thereupon God, who oversees all things, the first Father of all, holy among the holy ones, having heard the lawful supplication, scourged him who had exalted himself in insolence and audacity. ²² He shook him on this side and that as a reed is shaken by the wind, so that he lay helpless on the ground and, besides being paralyzed in his limbs, was unable even to speak, since

^a Other ancient authorities lack verse 1

^b Other ancient authorities read secret in their vices

^c Or epiphany

did in the past. 2: Holy among the holy ones, Isa 57.15 LXX. The holy ones are members of the divine council (see Deut 33.2; Ps 89.5), in this period understood as angels. 3: Ex 18.11; Ps 31.23. 4: Giants, the race of heroes whose origins are described in Gen 6.1–4, also mentioned in Wis 14.6; Sir 16.7; Bar 3.26; 1 Enoch 7.2; 15.8. 5: Sodom, Gen 19.24; Deut 29.23; Wis 10.7. An example, cf. 2 Pet 2.6. 6: Exodus 5–12. Your holy people Israel, Ex 19.6; Wis 10.15. 7: Overwhelmed him, Exodus 14. 8: They praised, Ex 15.1–21; Wis 19.8–9. 9: This city, Jerusalem. Place, see 1.9n. No need of anything, 2 Macc 14.35–36. 10: Promised . . . you would listen, Deut 30.1–6; 1 Kings 8.33–34, 48–50. 12: Our fathers . . . you . . . rescued, 1 Sam 12.10–11; Pss 22.4–5; 106.43; Neh 9.28. 13: Because of our many and great sins, even though the Jewish community has done nothing wrong in this instance, such confession of sin was a standard element in prayers of this type. 14: Glorious name, Jdt 9.8. 15: The heaven of heavens, 1 Kings 8.27; Isa 66.1. 18: Trampled down, Isa 63.18; Dan 8.13; 1 Macc 3.45. 19: Wipe away our sins, Ps 51.2, 9. 20: Mercies, Ps 79.8, 13.

2.21–24: The punishment of Ptolemy. 21: Holy ones, v. 2n. 22: Paralyzed, compare the punishment of Heli-

he was smitten^a by a righteous judgment. ²³ Then both friends and bodyguards, seeing the severe punishment that had overtaken him, and fearing that he would lose his life, quickly dragged him out, panic-stricken in their exceedingly great fear. ²⁴ After a while he recovered, and though he had been punished, he by no means repented, but went away uttering bitter threats.

²⁵ When he arrived in Egypt, he increased in his deeds of malice, abetted by the previously mentioned drinking companions and comrades, who were strangers to everything just. ²⁶ He was not content with his uncounted licentious deeds, but even continued with such audacity that he framed evil reports in the various localities; and many of his friends, intently observing the king's purpose, themselves also followed his will. ²⁷ He proposed to inflict public disgrace on the Jewish community,^b and he set up a stone^c on the tower in the courtyard with this inscription: ²⁸ "None of those who do not sacrifice shall enter their sanctuaries, and all Jews shall be subjected to a registration involving poll tax and to the status of slaves. Those who object to this are to be taken by force and put to death;²⁹ those who are registered are also to be branded on their bodies by fire with the ivy-leaf symbol of Dionysus, and they shall also be reduced to their former limited status."³⁰ In order that he might not appear to be an enemy of all, he inscribed below: "But if any of them prefer to join those who have been initiated into the mysteries, they shall have equal citizenship with the Alexandrians."

³¹ Now some, however, with an obvious abhorrence of the price to be exacted for maintaining the religion of their city,^d readily gave themselves up, since they expected to enhance their reputation by their future association with the king. ³² But the majority acted firmly with a courageous spirit and did not abandon their religion; and by paying money in exchange for life they confidently attempted to save themselves from the registration. ³³ They remained resolutely hopeful of obtaining help, and they abhorred those who separated themselves from them, considering them to be enemies of the Jewish nation,^b and depriving them of companionship and mutual help.

3 When the impious king comprehended this situation, he became so infuriated that not only was he enraged against those Jews who lived in Alexandria, but was still

^a Other ancient authorities read pierced

^b Gk the nation

^c Gk stele

^d Meaning of Gk uncertain

odoros (2 Macc 3.24–30) and of Antiochus (2 Macc 9.5–6). 23: Friends, the higher officers and courtiers of the king (4 Macc 8.5n.). Lose his life, cf. 2 Macc 3.31. 24: By no means repented, compare Antiochus Epiphanes in 2 Macc 9.7 (Antiochus is subsequently forced to repent).

2.25–33: Hostile measures against the Jews of Egypt. 25: These companions have not, in fact, been previously mentioned in the present text of 3 Maccabees; this is additional evidence that the opening section has been lost (see 1.1–7n.). 26: Friends, see v. 23n. 28: The Jews are forbidden to enter their sanctuaries, that is, their synagogues. Synagogue worship was disrupted during a pogrom in Alexandria in 38 CE. Registration, for which the Greek term, "laographia," literally means census, is often used in connection with taxation. It is especially associated with the poll tax imposed by the Romans in 24 BCE. This is the only tax that is known to have entailed a reduction of the status of the Jews, since it classified them with the Egyptians, not with the Greeks. 29: Ptolemy Philopator was in fact a devotee of the Greek god Dionysus. Branding was associated with the worship of Dionysus, and the king himself may have been branded. Judaism was sometimes thought by Gentile observers to be a form of the worship of Dionysus (see especially Plutarch, Table Talk 4.6.1–2). According to 2 Macc 6.7, Antiochus Epiphanes tried to make the people of Jerusalem observe the festival of Dionysus. Branding was also used to identify slaves in case they ran away. 3 Maccabees seems to confuse the two kinds of branding. Their former limited status, perhaps referring to the status of Jewish captives before they were released by Ptolemy II (see Letter of Aristeas 22). 32: Paying money, as bribes. 33: Enemies of the Jewish nation, renegade Jews are viewed with even greater opprobrium than the Gentile persecutors.

3.1–10: The Jews and their neighbors. 1: The distinction between Jews in Alexandria and those in the countryside is made also in 4.11–12. The emphasis on Jews from the countryside is odd and may reflect a historical more bitterly hostile toward those in the countryside; and he ordered that all should promptly be gathered into one place, and put to death by the most cruel means.² While these matters were being arranged, a hostile rumor was circulated against the Jewish nation by some who conspired to do them ill, a pretext being given by a report that they hindered others³ from the observance of their customs.³ The Jews, however, continued to maintain goodwill and unswerving loyalty toward the dynasty;⁴ but because they worshiped God and conducted themselves by his law, they kept their separateness with respect to foods. For this reason they appeared hateful to some;⁵ but since they adorned their style of life with the good deeds of upright people, they were established in good repute with everyone.⁶ Nevertheless those of other races paid no heed to their good service to their nation, which was common talk among all;⁷ instead they gossiped about the differences in worship and foods, alleging that these people were loyal neither to the king nor to his authorities, but were hostile and greatly opposed to his government. So they attached no ordinary reproach to them.

⁸The Greeks in the city, though wronged in no way, when they saw an unexpected tumult around these people and the crowds that suddenly were forming, were not strong enough to help them, for they lived under tyranny. They did try to console them, being grieved at the situation, and expected that matters would change;⁹ for such a great community ought not be left to its fate when it had committed no offense.¹⁰ And already some of their neighbors and friends and business associates had taken some of them aside privately and were pledging to protect them and to exert more earnest efforts for their assistance.

¹¹Then the king, boastful of his present good fortune, and not considering the might of the supreme God,^b but assuming that he would persevere constantly in his same purpose, wrote this letter against them:

¹²“King Ptolemy Philopator to his generals and soldiers in Egypt and all its districts, greetings and good health:

¹³“I myself and our government are faring well.¹⁴ When our expedition took place in Asia, as you yourselves know, it was brought to conclusion, according to plan, by the gods’ deliberate alliance with us in battle,¹⁵ and we considered that we should not rule the nations inhabiting Coelesyria and Phoenicia by the power of the spear, but should cherish them with clemency and great benevolence, gladly treating them well.¹⁶ And when we had granted very great revenues to the temples in the cities, we came on to Jerusalem also, and went up to honor the temple of those wicked people, who never cease from their folly.¹⁷ They accepted our presence by word, but insincerely by deed, because when we proposed to enter their inner temple and honor it with magnificent and most beautiful offerings,¹⁸ they were carried away by their traditional arrogance, and excluded us from entering; but they were spared the exercise of attempt by Ptolemy to take a census of the Jews in rural areas. 2: The rumor maliciously represents the Jews as hostile to the best interests of the state (cf. Esth 3.8), whereas the author insists on their loyalty. Some scholars think 3 Maccabees was written by a Jew from the countryside. His Greek is less sophisticated than that of Alexandrian Jews, such as Philo. 4: Separateness with respect to foods was one of the barriers between Jew and Gentile, cf. 1 Macc 1.62–63; 2 Macc 11.30–31. Many Hellenistic Jewish writings avoid the subject. For a defense of the observance of Jewish dietary rules, by explaining them allegorically, see the Letter of Aristeas, 128–66. 5: Deut 4.5–6. 7: For similar charges see Esth 3.8; Add Esth 13.4–5. 8: The Greeks, the elite, cultivated class, in distinction from those of other races (v. 6). The Alexandrian Greeks were bitter enemies of the Jews in the Roman period, but the author portrays a relationship of support and respect between the two groups, even though the king and his friends were obviously Greek.

^a Gk them

^b Gk the greatest God

3.11–30: Ptolemy orders the arrest of all Jews in his kingdom. 11: The king is boastful, and therefore guilty of “hubris,” the sin that leads to disaster in Greek tragedy. Assuming that he would persevere, an anticipatory reference to the calamity that came upon him by which he forgot his own previous commands (5.27–28). 15: Coelesyria, western Syria. Phoenicia, modern Lebanon. Benevolence, Greek “philanthropia” (see vv. 18,20), was our power because of the benevolence that we have toward all.¹⁹ By maintaining their manifest ill-will toward us, they become the only people among all nations who hold their heads high in defiance of kings and their own benefactors, and are unwilling to regard any action as sincere.

²⁰ “But we, when we arrived in Egypt victorious, accommodated ourselves to their folly and did as was proper, since we treat all nations with benevolence.²¹ Among other things, we made known to all our amnesty toward their compatriots here, both because of their alliance with us and the myriad affairs liberally entrusted to them from the beginning; and we ventured to make a change, by deciding both to deem them worthy of Alexandrian citizenship and to make them participants in our regular religious rites.^a ²² But in their innate malice they took this in a contrary spirit, and disdained what is good. Since they incline constantly to evil,²³ they not only spurn the priceless citizenship, but also both by speech and by silence they abominate those few among them who are sincerely disposed toward us; in every situation, in accordance with their infamous way of life, they secretly suspect that we may soon alter our policy.²⁴ Therefore, fully convinced by these indications that they are ill-disposed toward us in every way, we have taken precautions so that, if a sudden disorder later arises against us, we shall not have these impious people behind our backs as traitors and barbarous enemies.²⁵ Therefore we have given orders that, as soon as this letter arrives, you are to send to us those who live among you, together with their wives and children, with insulting and harsh treatment, and bound securely with iron fetters, to suffer the sure and shameful death that befits enemies.²⁶ For when all of these have been punished, we are sure that for the remaining time the government will be established for ourselves in good order and in the best state.²⁷ But those who shelter any of the Jews, whether old people or children or even infants, will be tortured to death with the most hateful torments, together with their families.²⁸ Any who are willing to give information will receive the property of those who incur the punishment, and also two thousand drachmas from the royal treasury, and will be awarded their freedom.^b ²⁹ Every place detected sheltering a Jew is to be made unapproachable and burned with fire, and shall become useless for all time to any mortal creature.”³⁰ The letter was written in the above form.

4 In every place, then, where this decree arrived, a feast at public expense was arranged for the Gentiles with shouts and gladness, for the inveterate enmity that had long ago been in their minds was now made evident and outspoken.² But among the Jews there was incessant mourning, lamentation, and tearful cries; everywhere their hearts were burning, and they groaned because of the unexpected destruction that had suddenly been decreed for them.³ What district or city, or what habitable place at all, or what streets were not filled with mourning and wailing for them?⁴ For with such a harsh and ruthless spirit were they being sent off, all together, by the generals in the several cities, that at the sight of their unusual punishments, even some of their enemies, perceiving the common object of pity before their eyes, reflected regarded as a major political virtue during the Hellenistic period. 21: For the confidence placed in Jews, see 6.25 and Josephus, Ag. Ap. 2.49, who says that Ptolemy VI Philometor gave two Jewish generals, Onias and Dositheus, command of his whole army. Jews were often employed in Egypt as mercenaries. Alexandrian citizenship normally entailed participation in Greek religious ceremonies. Alexandrian Greeks, such as the first-century CE scholar Apion, complained that the Jews wanted the privileges of citizenship but were unwilling to fulfill the religious obligations that it usually entailed. 24: Behind our backs, cf. Ex 1.10. 28: Awarded their freedom, another rendering is “crowned at the Eleutheria” (a festival of Dionysus; see 2.29n.). 29: Useless for all time, cf. Add Esth 16.24.

^a Other ancient authorities read partners of our regular priests

^b Gk crowned with freedom

4.1–21: The Jews brought to Alexandria and imprisoned. 1: Enmity on the part of native-born Egyptians for the Jews is assumed in 3 Maccabees; contrast the depiction of the Greeks in 3.8. 2: Mourning, lamentation, and on the uncertainty of life and shed tears at the most miserable expulsion of these people.

⁵For a multitude of gray-headed old men, sluggish and bent with age, was being led away, forced to march at a swift pace by the violence with which they were driven in such a shameful manner. ⁶And young women who had just entered the bridal chamber^a to share married life exchanged joy for wailing, their myrrh-perfumed hair sprinkled with ashes, and were carried away unveiled, all together raising a lament instead of a wedding song, as they were torn by the harsh treatment of the heathen.^b ⁷In bonds and in public view they were violently dragged along as far as the place of embarkation. ⁸Their husbands, in the prime of youth, their necks encircled with ropes instead of garlands, spent the remaining days of their marriage festival in lamentations instead of good cheer and youthful revelry, seeing death immediately before them.^c ⁹They were brought on board like wild animals, driven under the constraint of iron bonds; some were fastened by the neck to the benches of the boats, others had their feet secured by unbreakable fetters,¹⁰ and in addition they were confined under a solid deck, so that, with their eyes in total darkness, they would undergo treatment befitting traitors during the whole voyage.

¹¹When these people had been brought to the place called Schedia, and the voyage was concluded as the king had decreed, he commanded that they should be enclosed in the hippodrome that had been built with a monstrous perimeter wall in front of the city, and that was well suited to make them an obvious spectacle to all coming back into the city and to those from the city^d going out into the country, so that they could neither communicate with the king's forces nor in any way claim to be inside the circuit of the city.^e ¹²And when this had happened, the king, hearing that the Jews' compatriots from the city frequently went out in secret to lament bitterly the ignoble misfortune of their kindred,¹³ ordered in his rage that these people be dealt with in precisely the same fashion as the others, not omitting any detail of their punishment. ¹⁴The entire race was to be registered individually, not for the hard labor that has been briefly mentioned before, but to be tortured with the outrages that he had ordered, and at the end to be destroyed in the space of a single day. ¹⁵The registration of these people was therefore conducted with bitter haste and zealous intensity from the rising of the sun until its setting, coming to an end after forty days but still uncompleted.

¹⁶The king was greatly and continually filled with joy, organizing feasts in honor of all his idols, with a mind alienated from truth and with a profane mouth, praising speechless things that are not able even to communicate or to come to one's help, and uttering improper words against the supreme God.^f

¹⁷But after the previously mentioned interval of time the scribes declared to the king that they were no longer able to take the census of the Jews because of their immense number,¹⁸ though most of them were still in the country, some still residing in their homes, and some at the place;⁹ the task was impossible for all the generals in Egypt. ¹⁹After he had threatened them severely, charging that they had been bribed to contrive a means of escape, he was clearly convinced about the matter²⁰ when they said and proved that

^a Or the canopy

^b Other ancient authorities read as though torn by heathen whelps

^c Gk seeing Hades already lying at their feet

^d Gk those of them

^e Or claim protection of the walls; meaning of Gk uncertain

^f Gk the greatest God

⁹ Other ancient authorities read on the way

tearful cries, cf. Esth 4.3. 11: Schedia, a promontory about three miles from Alexandria. The hippodrome (arena) was situated at the east or Canobic gate of Alexandria; according to Strabo (17.1.10,16) a canal joined Schedia and the Canobic gate. Inside . . . the city, implies that Jews living in Alexandria (see v. 12, compatriots from the city) had been thus far unmolested (but cf. 3.1). 14: Mentioned before, see 2.28. The registration for poll tax and slave status is transformed into an instrument for the execution of the entire race of Jews. 16: Speechless things, see Ps 115.3-7; Jer 10.5; Hab 2.18; Bar 6.7. Supreme God, see 1.9n. 17: Their immense number, an obvious hyperbole. 19: Bribed, see 2.32.

both the paper^a and the pens they used for writing had already given out.²¹ But this was an act of the invincible providence of him who was aiding the Jews from heaven.

5 Then the king, completely inflexible, was filled with overpowering anger and wrath; so he summoned Hermon, keeper of the elephants,² and ordered him on the following day to drug all the elephants—five hundred in number—with large handfuls of frankincense and plenty of unmixed wine, and to drive them in, maddened by the lavish abundance of drink, so that the Jews might meet their doom.³ When he had given these orders he returned to his feasting, together with those of his Friends and of the army who were especially hostile toward the Jews.⁴ And Hermon, keeper of the elephants, proceeded faithfully to carry out the orders.⁵ The servants in charge of the Jews^b went out in the evening and bound the hands of the wretched people and arranged for their continued custody through the night, convinced that the whole nation would experience its final destruction.⁶ For to the Gentiles it appeared that the Jews were left without any aid,⁷ because in their bonds they were forcibly confined on every side. But with tears and a voice hard to silence they all called upon the Almighty Lord and Ruler of all power, their merciful God and Father, praying⁸ that he avert with vengeance the evil plot against them and in a glorious manifestation rescue them from the fate now prepared for them.⁹ So their entreaty ascended fervently to heaven.

¹⁰ Hermon, however, when he had drugged the pitiless elephants until they had been filled with a great abundance of wine and satiated with frankincense, presented himself at the courtyard early in the morning to report to the king about these preparations.¹¹ But the Lord^c sent upon the king a portion of sleep, that beneficence that from the

beginning, night and day, is bestowed by him who grants it to whomever he wishes.¹² And by the action of the Lord he was overcome by so pleasant and deep a sleep^d that he quite failed in his lawless purpose and was completely frustrated in his inflexible plan.¹³ Then the Jews, since they had escaped the appointed hour, praised their holy God and again implored him who is easily reconciled to show the might of his all-powerful hand to the arrogant Gentiles.

¹⁴ But now, since it was nearly the middle of the tenth hour, the person who was in charge of the invitations, seeing that the guests were assembled, approached the king and nudged him.¹⁵ And when he had with difficulty roused him, he pointed out that the hour of the banquet was already slipping by, and he gave him an account of the situation.¹⁶ The king, after considering this, returned to his drinking, and ordered those present for the banquet to recline opposite him.¹⁷ When this was done he urged them to give themselves over to revelry and to make the present^e portion of the banquet joyful by celebrating all the more.¹⁸ After the party had been going on for some time, the king summoned Hermon and with sharp threats demanded to know why the Jews had been allowed to remain alive through the present day.¹⁹ But when he, with the corroboration of the king's^f Friends, pointed out that while it was still night he had carried out completely the order given him,²⁰ the king,^c possessed by a savagery

^a Or paper factory

^b Gk them

^c Gk he

^d Other ancient authorities add from evening until the ninth hour

^e Other ancient authorities read delayed (Gk untimely)

^f Gk his

5:1–51: Ptolemy orders the execution of the Jews, but is thwarted. A variant of this story is told in Josephus, Ag. Ap. 2.53–55, but there the Ptolemy is Ptolemy VIII Euergetes II Physcon (144–117 BCE). 1: Hermon, the name of the keeper of the elephants, recalls the figure of Haman in Esther. 2: Elephants—five hundred is an exaggeration; according to Polybius, Ptolemy had seventy-three elephants at the battle of Raphia. After Alexander the Great encountered them in India, war-elephants were often a component of Hellenistic armies; see 1 Macc 1.17. Similar stimulation of war-elephants is reported in 1 Macc 6.34. 3: Returned to his feasting, 4.16. 7: Father, see Isa 63.16; Mal 2.10; Tob 13.4; Wis 11.10. 11: The divine gift of sleep is extolled by Roman poets (e.g., Seneca, Hercules Furens 1065–78; Statius, Silvae 5.4); see Ps 127.2. 14: Middle of the tenth hour, 3:30 pm. 19: Friends, see 2.23n. 20: Phalaris, worse than that of Phalaris, said that the Jews^a were benefited by today's sleep, "but," he added, "tomorrow without delay prepare the elephants in the same way for the destruction of the lawless Jews!"²¹ When the king had spoken, all those present readily and joyfully with one accord gave their approval, and all went to their own homes.²² But they did not so much employ the duration of the night in sleep as in devising all sorts of insults for those they thought to be doomed.

²³ Then, as soon as the cock had crowed in the early morning, Hermon, having equipped^b the animals, began to move them along in the great colonnade.²⁴ The crowds of the city had been assembled for this most pitiful spectacle and they were eagerly waiting for daybreak.²⁵ But the Jews, at their last gasp—since the time had run out—stretched their hands toward heaven and with most tearful supplication and mournful dirges implored the supreme God^c to help them again at once.²⁶ The rays of the sun were not yet shed abroad, and while the king was receiving his Friends, Hermon arrived and invited him to come out, indicating that what the king desired was ready for action.²⁷ But he, on receiving the report and being struck by the unusual invitation to come out—since he had been completely overcome by incomprehension—inquired what the matter was for which this had been so zealously completed for him.²⁸ This was the act of God who rules over all things, for he had implanted in the king's mind a forgetfulness of the things he had previously devised.²⁹ Then Hermon and all the king's Friends^d pointed out that the animals and the armed forces were ready, "O king, according to your eager purpose."^e ³⁰ But at these words he was filled with an overpowering wrath, because by the providence of God his whole mind had been deranged concerning these matters; and with a threatening look he said, ³¹ "If your parents or children were present, I would have prepared them to be a rich feast for the savage animals instead of the Jews, who give me no ground for complaint and have exhibited to an extraordinary degree a full and firm loyalty to my ancestors.³² In fact you would have been deprived of life instead of these, if it were not for an affection arising from our nurture in common and your usefulness."³³ So Hermon suffered an unexpected and dangerous threat, and his eyes wavered and his face fell.³⁴ The king's Friends one by one sullenly slipped away and dismissed^f the assembled people to their own occupations.³⁵ Then the Jews, on hearing what the king had said, praised the manifest Lord God, King of kings, since this also was his aid that they had received.

³⁶ The king, however, reconvened the party in the same manner and urged the guests to return to their celebrating.³⁷ After summoning Hermon he said in a threatening tone, "How many times, you poor wretch, must I give you orders about these things?³⁸ Equip^g the elephants now once more for the destruction of the Jews tomorrow!"³⁹ But the officials who were at table with him, wondering at his instability of mind, remonstrated as follows:⁴⁰ "O king, how long will you put us to the test, as though we are idiots, ordering now for a third time that they be destroyed, and again revoking your decree in the matter?"^h ⁴¹ As a result the city is in a tumult because of its expectation; it is crowded with masses of people, and also in constant danger of being plundered."

⁴² At this the king, a Phalaris in everything and filled with madness, took no account of the changes of mind that had come about within him for the protection of the Jews, and he firmly swore an irrevocable oath that he would send them to deathⁱ without

^a Gk they

^b Or armed

^c Gk the greatest God

^d Gk all the Friends

^e Other ancient authorities read pointed to the beasts and the armed forces, saying, "They are ready, O king, according to your eager purpose."

^f Other ancient authorities read he dismissed

^g Or Arm

^h Other ancient authorities read when the matter is in hand

ⁱ Gk Hades

tyrant of Agrigentum in Sicily (ca. 570–554 BCE) whose cruelty was proverbial (Polybius 12.25). 28: The act of God, cf. Prov 21.1. 29: An addition in several Greek manuscripts indicates that though Ptolemy was moved by compassion and determined to release the Jews, Hermon influenced him to proceed with his plans to destroy delay, mangled by the knees and feet of the animals,⁴³ and would also march against Judea and rapidly level it to the ground with fire and spear, and by burning to the ground the temple inaccessible to him^a would quickly render it forever empty of those who offered sacrifices there.⁴⁴ Then the Friends and officers departed with great joy, and they confidently posted the armed forces at the places in the city most favorable for keeping guard.

⁴⁵ Now when the animals had been brought virtually to a state of madness, so to speak, by the very fragrant draughts of wine mixed with frankincense and had been equipped with frightful devices, the elephant keeper⁴⁶ entered at about dawn into the courtyard—the city now being filled with countless masses of people crowding their way into the hippodrome—and urged the king on to the matter at hand.⁴⁷ So he, when he had filled his impious mind with a deep rage, rushed out in full force along with the animals, wishing to witness, with invulnerable heart and with his own eyes, the grievous and pitiful destruction of the aforementioned people.

⁴⁸ When the Jews saw the dust raised by the elephants going out at the gate and by the following armed forces, as well as by the trampling of the crowd, and heard the loud and tumultuous noise,⁴⁹ they thought that this was their last moment of life, the end of their most miserable suspense, and giving way to lamentation and groans they kissed each other, embracing relatives and falling into one another's arms^b—parents and children, mothers and daughters, and others with babies at their breasts who were drawing their last milk.

⁵⁰ Not only this, but when they considered the help that they had received before from heaven, they prostrated themselves with one accord on the ground, removing the babies from their breasts,⁵¹ and cried out in a very loud voice, imploring the Ruler over every power to manifest himself and be merciful to them, as they stood now at the gates of death.^c

6 Then a certain Eleazar, famous among the priests of the country, who had attained a ripe old age and throughout his life had been adorned with every virtue, directed the elders around him to stop calling upon the holy God, and he prayed as follows:
² “King of great power, Almighty God Most High, governing all creation with mercy,
³ look upon the descendants of Abraham, O Father, upon the children of the sainted Jacob, a people of your consecrated portion who are perishing as foreigners in a foreign land.
⁴ Pharaoh with his abundance of chariots, the former ruler of this Egypt, exalted with lawless insolence and boastful tongue, you destroyed together with his arrogant army by drowning them in the sea, manifesting the light of your mercy on the nation of Israel.
⁵ Sennacherib exulting in his countless forces, oppressive king of the Assyrians, who had already gained control of the whole world by the spear and was lifted up against your holy city, speaking grievous words with boasting and insolence, you, O Lord, broke in pieces, showing your power to many nations.
⁶ The three companions in Babylon who had

^a Gk us

^b Gk falling upon their necks

^c Gk Hades

them. 42: Phalaris, see v. 20n. 45: The frightful devices were probably scythes, knives, and other military equipment attached to different parts of the bodies of the elephants. 49: Embracing, but according to 6.27 they are still bound. 50–51: The author continues to build up his thesis that God was the only resort for the captives, and that their hope would not be frustrated. 51: Gates of death, Pss 9.13; 107.18.

6.1–15: The prayer of Eleazar. Like Simon's prayer in 2.1–20, it is plainly Jewish in form and style, containing doxology, thanksgiving for God's earlier interventions in Israel's history, and petition for a new miracle. The emphasis is on the exclusiveness and separate standing of Israel before God (v. 3). Eleazar expects God's intervention, not on account of Israel's virtues or merits, but because of divine mercy. Unlike many Jewish prayers from this period, however, there is little confession of sin (but see v. 10). 1: Eleazar, the name of one of Aaron's sons (Ex 6.23), of a martyr in 2 Macc 6 and 4 Macc 5–6, and of a high priest in the Letter of Aristeas. Priests were always numerous in the Jewish community. There was a Jewish temple at Leontopolis in Egypt, erected by an exiled high priest (Onias IV) in the second century BCE, in defiance of Deuteronomistic law (Deut 12). 4: Pharaoh, Ex 14.28. 5: Sennacherib, 2 Kings 18.13; 19.35–37. 6: Three companions in Babylon, Dan 3.22,27; Song of Thr 22–27.

voluntarily surrendered their lives to the flames so as not to serve vain things, you rescued unharmed, even to a hair, moistening the fiery furnace with dew and turning the flame against all their enemies. ⁷ Daniel, who through envious slanders was thrown down into the ground to lions as food for wild animals, you brought up to the light unharmed. ⁸ And Jonah, wasting away in the belly of a huge, sea-born monster, you, Father, watched over and restored^a unharmed to all his family. ⁹ And now, you who hate insolence, all-merciful and protector of all, reveal yourself quickly to those of the nation of Israel^b—who are being outrageously treated by the abominable and lawless Gentiles.

¹⁰ “Even if our lives have become entangled in impieties in our exile, rescue us from the hand of the enemy, and destroy us, Lord, by whatever fate you choose. ¹¹ Let not the vain-minded praise their vanities^c at the destruction of your beloved people, saying, ‘Not even their god has rescued them.’ ¹² But you, O Eternal One, who have all might and all power, watch over us now and have mercy on us who by the senseless insolence of the lawless are being deprived of life in the manner of traitors. ¹³ And let the Gentiles cower today in fear of your invincible might, O honored One, who have power to save the nation of Jacob. ¹⁴ The whole throng of infants and their parents entreat you with tears. ¹⁵ Let it be shown to all the Gentiles that you are with us, O Lord, and have not turned your face from us; but just as you have said, ‘Not even when they were in the land of their enemies did I neglect them,’ so accomplish it, O Lord.”

¹⁶ Just as Eleazar was ending his prayer, the king arrived at the hippodrome with the animals and all the arrogance of his forces. ¹⁷ And when the Jews observed this they raised great cries to heaven so that even the nearby valleys resounded with them and brought an uncontrollable terror upon the army. ¹⁸ Then the

most glorious, almighty, and true God revealed his holy face and opened the heavenly gates, from which two glorious angels of fearful aspect descended, visible to all but the Jews. ¹⁹ They opposed the forces of the enemy and filled them with confusion and terror, binding them with immovable shackles. ²⁰ Even the king began to shudder bodily, and he forgot his sullen insolence. ²¹ The animals turned back upon the armed forces following them and began trampling and destroying them.

²² Then the king’s anger was turned to pity and tears because of the things that he had devised beforehand. ²³ For when he heard the shouting and saw them all fallen headlong to destruction, he wept and angrily threatened his Friends, saying, ²⁴ “You are committing treason and surpassing tyrants in cruelty; and even me, your benefactor, you are now attempting to deprive of dominion and life by secretly devising acts of no advantage to the kingdom. ²⁵ Who has driven from their homes those who faithfully kept our country’s fortresses, and foolishly gathered every one of them here? ²⁶ Who is it that has so lawlessly encompassed with outrageous treatment those who from the beginning differed from^d all nations in their goodwill toward us and often have accepted willingly the worst of human dangers? ²⁷ Loose and untie their unjust bonds! Send them back to their homes in peace, begging pardon for your former actions!^e ²⁸ Release the children of the almighty and living God of heaven, who from the time of our ancestors until now has granted an unimpeded and notable sta-

^a Other ancient authorities read rescued and restored; others, mercifully restored

^b Other ancient authorities read to the saints of Israel

^c Or bless their vain gods

^d Or excelled above

^e Other ancient authorities read revoking your former commands

7: Daniel, Dan 6.22. 8: Jonah, Jon 2.10. 11: Ps 115.2. 13: Let the Gentiles cower, the prayer overlooks the exception made for the Greeks in 3.8. 15: As you have said, Lev 26.44.

6.16–29: The Jews are delivered, and the king now favors them. 18: Most glorious, Greek “megalodoxos,” compare 1 Enoch 14.20 and Testament of Levi 3.4, where God is called “the Great Glory.” Angels of fearful aspect, for similar terror-inspiring apparitions, see 2 Macc 3.25–29; 10.29. 21: The animals turned upon the king’s own forces, a detail found also in Josephus’s account (Ag. Ap. 2.5). For the principle, see Pss 7.15–16; 9.15–16; 35.8; 57.6. 25: Faithfully, see 3.21n.; contrast the king’s language in 3.24. 28: Children of . . . God, Wis 18.13.

bility to our government.”²⁹ These then were the things he said; and the Jews, immediately released, praised their holy God and Savior, since they now had escaped death.

³⁰ Then the king, when he had returned to the city, summoned the official in charge of the revenues and ordered him to provide to the Jews both wines and everything else needed for a festival of seven days, deciding that they should celebrate their rescue with all joyfulness in that same place in which they had expected to meet their destruction.

³¹ Accordingly those disgracefully treated and near to death,^a or rather, who stood at its gates, arranged for a banquet of deliverance instead of a bitter and lamentable death, and full of joy they apportioned to celebrants the place that had been prepared for their destruction and burial.³² They stopped their chanting of dirges and took up the song of their ancestors, praising God, their Savior and worker of wonders.^b Putting an end to all mourning and wailing, they formed choruses^c as a sign of peaceful joy.

³³ Likewise also the king, after convening a great banquet to celebrate these events, gave thanks to heaven unceasingly and lavishly for the unexpected rescue that he^d had experienced.³⁴ Those who had previously believed that the Jews would be destroyed and become food for birds, and had joyfully registered them, groaned as they themselves were overcome by disgrace, and their fire-breathing boldness was ignominiously^e quenched.

³⁵ The Jews, as we have said before, arranged the aforementioned choral group^f and passed the time in feasting to the accompaniment of joyous thanksgiving and psalms.³⁶ And when they had ordained a public rite for these things in their whole community and for their descendants, they instituted the observance of the aforesaid days as a festival, not for drinking and gluttony, but because of the deliverance that had come to them through God.³⁷ Then they petitioned the king, asking for dismissal to their homes.³⁸ So their registration was carried out from the twenty-fifth of Pachon to the fourth of Epeiph,^g for forty days; and their destruction was set for the fifth to the seventh of Epeiph,^h the three days³⁹ on which the Lord of all most gloriously revealed his mercy and rescued them all together and unharmed.⁴⁰ Then they feasted, being provided with everything by the king, until the fourteenth day,ⁱ on which also they made the petition for their dismissal.⁴¹ The king granted their request at once and wrote the following letter for them to the generals in the cities, magnanimously expressing his concern:

7 “King Ptolemy Philopator to the generals in Egypt and all in authority in his government, greetings and good health:

² “We ourselves and our children are faring well, the great God guiding our affairs according to our desire.³ Certain of our friends, frequently urging us with malicious intent, persuaded us to gather together the Jews of the kingdom in a body and to punish them

^a Gk Hades

^b Other ancient authorities read praising Israel and the wonder-working God; or praising Israel's Savior, the wonder-working God

^c Or dances

^d Other ancient authorities read they

^e Other ancient authorities read completely

^f Or dance

^g July 7—August 15

^h August 16—18

ⁱ August 25

6.30–41: The Jews celebrate their deliverance. 32: The song of their ancestors, perhaps Ps 136, which often was used earlier as a hymn of thanksgiving (1 Chr 16.41; 2 Chr 5.13; 7.3; Ezra 3.11). 34: Food for birds, Gen 40.19; Deut 28.26; Ezek 39.4; 2 Macc 9.15. 36: The institution of Jewish festivals is a common feature in this period (Esth 9.20–23; 1 Macc 4.59; 7.49; 13.51–52).

7.1–9: Ptolemy's letter on behalf of the Jews. Compare the letters of Ahasuerus (Esth 8; Add Esth 16.1–24), of Nebuchadnezzar (Dan 4), and of Antiochus Epiphanes (2 Macc 9.19–27). 2: Children, Philopator had only one legitimate son, born in 210 BCE, who reigned later as Ptolemy V Epiphanes (204–180). Either the author had no knowledge of Philopator's family life, or the king is using a general term for the members of his court. 3: The with barbarous penalties as traitors;⁴ for they declared that our government would never be firmly established until this was accomplished, because of the ill-will that these people had toward all nations.⁵ They also led them out with harsh treatment as slaves, or rather as traitors, and, girding themselves with a cruelty more savage than that of Scythian custom, they tried without any inquiry or examination to put them to death.⁶ But we very severely threatened them for these acts, and in accordance with the clemency that we have toward all people we barely spared their lives. Since we have come to realize that the God of heaven surely defends the Jews, always taking their part as a father does for his children,⁷ and since we have taken into account the friendly and firm goodwill that they had toward us and our ancestors, we justly have acquitted them of every charge of whatever kind.⁸ We also have ordered all people to return to their own homes, with no one in any place^a doing them harm at all or reproaching them for the irrational things that have happened.⁹ For you should know that if we devise any evil against them or cause them any grief at all, we always shall have not a mortal but the Ruler over every power, the Most High God, in everything and inescapably as an antagonist to avenge such acts. Farewell.”

¹⁰ On receiving this letter the Jews^b did not immediately hurry to make their departure, but they requested of the king that at their own hands those of the Jewish nation who had willfully transgressed against the holy God and the law of God should receive the punishment they deserved.¹¹ They declared that those who for the belly’s sake had transgressed the divine commandments would never be favorably disposed toward the king’s government.¹² The king^c

then, admitting and approving the truth of what they said, granted them a general license so that freely, and without royal authority or supervision, they might destroy those everywhere in his kingdom who had transgressed the law of God.¹³ When they had applauded him in fitting manner, their priests and the whole multitude shouted the Hallelujah and joyfully departed.¹⁴ And so on their way they punished and put to a public and shameful death any whom they met of their compatriots who had become defiled.¹⁵ In that day they put to death more than three hundred men; and they kept the day as a joyful festival, since they had destroyed the profaners.¹⁶ But those who had held fast to God even to death and had received the full enjoyment of deliverance began their departure from the city, crowned with all sorts of very fragrant flowers, joyfully and loudly giving thanks to the one God of their ancestors, the eternal Savior^d of Israel, in words of praise and all kinds of melodious songs.

¹⁷ When they had arrived at Ptolemais, called “rose-bearing” because of a characteristic of the place, the fleet waited for them, in accordance with the common desire, for seven days.¹⁸ There they celebrated their deliverance,^e for the king had generously provided all things to them for their journey until all of them arrived at their own houses.¹⁹ And when they had all landed in peace with appropriate thanksgiving, there too in

^a Other ancient authorities read way

^b Gk they

^c Gk He

^d Other ancient authorities read the holy Savior; others, the holy one

^e Gk they made a cup of deliverance

king seeks to exonerate himself, blaming others (see 6.24). 4: Ill-will, 3.2,7. 5: Scythian custom, see 2 Macc 4.47n.; 4 Macc 10.7n. The Scythians were known for barbarism. 6: Threatened them, that is, the enemies of the Jews. Father, 5.7n.; Ps 103.13. 8: In any place through which the Jews might pass on their return.

7.10–23: The Jews punish the renegades and return home. 10: They requested of the king, in the Hellenistic and Roman periods the Jews were often obliged to seek permission from their foreign rulers to carry out their own laws pertaining to capital punishment (Deut 13.6–18; Esth 8.8–11). 13: Hallelujah, see Ps 105n.; Tob 13.18. 17: This Ptolemais was probably not the city of this name near Thebes in Upper Egypt, but “Ptolemais at the harbor” in the Arsinoite nome (province), about twelve miles from present-day Cairo. Rose-bearing is not elsewhere applied to Ptolemais. 22–23: The book closes with a benediction to the supreme God; cf. 4 Macc 18.24.

like manner they decided to observe these days as a joyous festival during the time of their stay.²⁰ Then, after inscribing them as holy on a pillar and dedicating a place of prayer at the site of the festival, they departed unharmed, free, and overjoyed, since at the king's command they had all of them been brought safely by land and sea and river to their own homes.²¹ They also possessed greater prestige among their enemies, being held in honor and awe; and they were not subject at all to confiscation of their belongings by anyone.²² Besides, they all recovered all of their property, in accordance with the registration, so that those who held any of it restored it to them with extreme fear.^a So the supreme God perfectly performed great deeds for their deliverance.²³ Blessed be the Deliverer of Israel through all times! Amen.

^a Other ancient authorities read with a very large supplement

This page intentionally left blank

(c) The following book is included in the Slavonic Bible as 3 Esdras, but is not found in the Greek. It is included in the Appendix to the Latin Vulgate Bible as 4 Esdras.

2 ESDRAS

NAME

The book known as 2 Esdras is actually a composite work made up of three separate writings: 5 Ezra (chs 1–2), 4 Ezra (chs 3–14), and 6 Ezra (chs 15–16). “Esdras” is the Greek form of the name “Ezra.”

CANONICAL STATUS

2 Esdras is considered “apocryphal”—that is, noncanonical but instructive—in both the Roman Catholic and Protestant traditions. Since the Council of Trent (1546), it has been placed, together with 1 Esdras and the Prayer of Manasseh, in an appendix to the Latin Vulgate Bible. 2 Esdras is not included in the Septuagint or in any Jewish canon.

AUTHORSHIP

Traditionally, 2 Esdras has been considered a writing of the biblical figure Ezra. For modern scholars, however, “Ezra” is a pseudonym, and all three components of 2 Esdras are thought to be of unknown authorship. It should be noted that 6 Ezra, as it stands, is anonymous.

DATE AND HISTORICAL CONTEXT

Fourth Ezra, the longest and most complex of the three parts of 2 Esdras, is also the earliest. Written in Hebrew by an anonymous Jew in Israel near the end of the first century CE, it sets forth its author’s anguished reflections on the destruction of Jerusalem and its Temple by the Romans in 70 CE. Sometime in the second century CE, 4 Ezra was translated into Greek and, subsequently, into many other languages. Although both the original Hebrew text and the Greek translation were lost over time, the book is known in no less than eight versions: Latin, Syriac, Ethiopic, Georgian, Armenian, two independent Arabic versions, and a fragmentary Coptic version. This large number of translations attests to the book’s immense popularity in the many Christian churches of the early Middle Ages.

Fifth Ezra, a Christian writing of the second or third century CE, is also attributed to Ezra. It was composed in either Greek or Latin; its place of composition is uncertain.

Sixth Ezra is a Christian composition of the third century, probably from Asia Minor. Although 6 Ezra survives in full only in Latin, a fourth-century Greek parchment fragment of 15:57–59 found at Oxyrhynchus, Egypt, indicates that the book was composed in Greek.

Some time before 400 CE, a Latin form of 6 Ezra was appended to the end of 4 Ezra. In turn, a Latin form of 5 Ezra was later added to the end of that composite, probably before 450. Then, prior to 800, 5 Ezra was moved to the beginning of the collection, resulting in the form of the book known today.

STRUCTURE AND CONTENTS

The author of 4 Ezra adopts the pseudonym “Ezra,” whom he presents as living after the destruction of the First Temple by the Babylonians in 586 BCE, and the author also refers to Rome by the pseudonym “Babylon.” Thus he writes on two levels, comparing his own situation with that of his biblical hero. The book’s central concern is the issue of theodicy: How could a just God allow such misfortunes to happen to God’s chosen people?

The author of 4 Ezra is a deeply reflective and highly imaginative thinker, who with skill and sophistication presents divergent theological viewpoints in different parts of the book. In the first three of the book’s seven “visions,” Ezra, the book’s spirited and loquacious hero, persuasively argues a profoundly humanistic viewpoint that stresses the ideals of God’s mercy, justice, and care for humanity, especially Israel. Ezra is rebuffed time and again, however, by an angel, who emphasizes the limitations of human reasoning.

In the fourth vision, the book’s central and pivotal section, Ezra experiences a profound psychological shift from his previous attitude to a state of unquestioning acceptance of God’s will. As a sign of this transition he receives a mystical vision of the heavenly Jerusalem. Equipped with his newly acquired state of mind, Ezra in the last section of the book receives two further mystical visions (the fifth and sixth), both indicating that the true solution to the problem of God's justice is an apocalyptic one: The suffering righteous will receive their reward at the end of the world. Finally, in the climactic seventh vision, the inspired Ezra is granted permission by God to rewrite the scriptures that had been burned by the "Babylonians," but with one variation: In addition to the traditional books of the Hebrew canon, he writes seventy secret books meant for the "wise" among his people. Fourth Ezra's author thus displays his penchant for mystical, esoteric, and apocalyptic modes of thinking, and his conviction that these hold the answers to the ethical and theological dilemmas of Israel, and indeed of all humankind.

Fifth Ezra reflects the growing tension between Christian and Jewish communities. It indicts the people of Israel for their sins and "predicts" the coming of a new people (the Christians) who will inherit the promises originally made to Israel. One is best advised to read the book as a pseudonymous effort by an anonymous Christian author to place a "prophecy" of the coming of Christianity in the mouth of a respected Jewish figure of the fifth century BCE. The "prophecy" is made more convincing by the fact that the author strives to be historically authentic, never referring to "Christianity" explicitly and never mentioning Jesus by name.

In 6 Ezra, an anonymous prophet predicts terrible catastrophes that will afflict the whole earth as a result of human iniquity and warns God's "elect" to abstain from sin if they wish to escape the calamities. The book reflects a situation in which its Christian community was experiencing persecution and strives to convince its audience to stand firm. The author seeks to make sense of the severe persecution threatening the Christian community, and, as in the case of 4 Ezra, 6 Ezra's eschatology is presented as a solution to a situation of extreme social and religious challenge.

INTERPRETATION

Because of its position on the margins of the canon, 2 Esdras has not received a great deal of interpretive attention. Traditional exegetes have generally interpreted 2 Esdras as a genuine prophecy of future events by the biblical figure Ezra. Modern scholars, however, tend to regard it as prophecy formulated after the fact, or as inspired by historical exigencies of the periods in which the book's components were written.

Theodore A. Bergren

COMPRISING WHAT IS SOMETIMES CALLED 5 EZRA (CHAPTERS 1–2), 4 EZRA (CHAPTERS 3–14), AND 6 EZRA (CHAPTERS 15–16)

1 The book^a of the prophet Ezra son of Seraiah, son of Azariah, son of Hilkiah, son of Shallum, son of Zadok, son of Ahitub, ² son of Ahijah, son of Phinehas, son of Eli, son of Amariah, son of Azariah, son of Meraimoth, son of Arna, son of Uzzi, son of Borith, son of Abishua, son of Phinehas, son of Eleazar, ³ son of Aaron, of the tribe of Levi, who was a captive in the country of the Medes in the reign of Artaxerxes, king of the Persians.^b

⁴The word of the Lord came to me, saying, ⁵"Go, declare to my people their evil deeds, and to their children the iniquities that they have committed against me, so that they may tell^c their children's children ⁶that the sins of their parents have increased in them, for they have forgotten me and have offered sacrifices to strange gods. ⁷Was it not I who brought them out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage? But they have angered me and despised my counsels. ⁸Now you,

^a Other ancient authorities read The second book

^b Other ancient authorities, which place chapters 1 and 2 after 16.78, lack verses 1-3 and begin the chapter: The word of the Lord that came to Ezra son of Chusi in the days of King Nebuchadnezzar, saying, "Go,

^c Other ancient authorities read nourish

Chapters 1–2 comprise a separate literary composition also known as 5 Ezra (see Introduction).

1.1–3: Ascription. Ezra is given a high-priestly genealogy similar to Ezra 7.1–5 and 1 Esd 8.1–2, but with several differences (cf. 1 Sam 14.3). 1: Prophet is unusual; Ezra is usually called "priest" or "scribe" (Ezra 7.6,11; see 2 Esd 12.42n.). 3: Probably Artaxerxes I (465–424 BCE).

1.4–2.9: A prophetic indictment against Israel. 1.4–23: Prophetic historical recital of God's benefits during the Exodus (cf. Pss 78; 106; Neh 9). 4: The word of the Lord came . . ., a typical expression in narratives about prophets. 5: Isa 58.1; Ezek 23.36; Joel 1.3. 6: Strange gods, cf. Deut 32.16. 7: Was it not I . . . ?, the Exodus was God's pull out the hair of your head and hurl^a all evils upon them, for they have not obeyed my law—they are a rebellious people. ⁹How long shall I endure them, on whom I have bestowed such great benefits? ¹⁰For their sake I have overthrown many kings; I struck down Pharaoh with his servants and all his army. ¹¹I destroyed all nations before them, and scattered in the east the peoples of two provinces,^b Tyre and Sidon; I killed all their enemies.

¹²“But speak to them and say, Thus says the Lord: ¹³Surely it was I who brought you through the sea, and made safe highways for you where there was no road; I gave you Moses as leader and Aaron as priest; ¹⁴I provided light for you from a pillar of fire, and did great wonders among you. Yet you have forgotten me, says the Lord.

¹⁵“Thus says the Lord Almighty:^c The quails were a sign to you; I gave you camps for your protection, and in them you complained. ¹⁶You have not exulted in my name at the destruction of your enemies, but to this day you still complain. ^d¹⁷Where are the benefits that I bestowed on you? When you were hungry and thirsty in the wilderness, did you not cry out to me, ¹⁸saying, ‘Why have you led us into this wilderness to kill us? It would have been better for us to serve the Egyptians than to die in this wilderness.’ ¹⁹I pitied your groanings and gave you manna for food; you ate the bread of angels. ²⁰When you were thirsty, did I not split the rock so that waters flowed in abundance? Because of the heat I clothed you with the leaves of trees.^e ²¹I divided fertile lands among you; I drove out the Canaanites, the Perizzites, and the Philistines^f before you. What more can I do for you? says the Lord. ²²Thus says the Lord Almighty:^c When you were in the wilderness, at the bitter stream, thirsty and blaspheming my name, ²³I did not send fire on you for your blasphemies, but threw a tree into the water and made the stream sweet.

²⁴“What shall I do to you, O Jacob? You, Judah, would not obey me. I will turn to other nations and will give them my name, so that they may keep my statutes. ²⁵Because you have forsaken me, I also will forsake you. When you beg mercy of me, I will show you no mercy. ²⁶When you call to me, I will not listen to you; for you have defiled your hands with blood, and your feet are swift to commit murder. ²⁷It is not as though you had forsaken me; you have forsaken yourselves, says the Lord.

²⁸“Thus says the Lord Almighty: Have I not entreated you as a father entreats his sons or a mother her daughters or a nurse her children, ²⁹so that you should be my people and I should be your God, and that you should be my children and I should be your father? ³⁰I gathered you as a hen gath-

^a Other ancient authorities read and shake out

^b Other ancient authorities read Did I not destroy the city of Bethsaida because of you, and to the south burn two cities . . . ?

^c Other ancient authorities lack Almighty

^d Other ancient authorities read verse 16, Your pursuer with his army I sank in the sea, but still the people complain also concerning their own destruction.

^e Other ancient authorities read I made for you trees with leaves

^f Other ancient authorities read Perizzites and their children

paradigmatic mighty act for Israel. 8: Ezra is to pull out his hair as a prophetic sign signaling his disgust with the people (see Ezra 9.3; Neh 13.25; Jer 6.19). Rebellious people, see Deut 28.50; Isa 30.9. 9: How long shall I endure them . . . ? Frequent rhetorical questions like this highlight God’s exasperation (see Num 14.27). 10: Ex 14.28; Pss 135.9–11; 136.17. 11: The scattering of the peoples of Tyre and Sidon is not recorded in other Exodus traditions. 13: Ex 14.21–22, 29; Num 33.1; Pss 77.20; 78.13. 14: Ex 13.21. You have forgotten me, God indicts the people. 15: Ex 16.13; Num 11.1, 31–34; Deut 1.27; Ps 105.40; Wis 15.2–3. 17–18: Num 14.3; Ps 77.11. 19: The bread of angels, manna; Ps 78.24–25; Ex 16.13–16; Num 11.4–9; Wis 16.20. 20: Split the rock, Num 20.11; Wis 11.4. I clothed you with the leaves, this is not mentioned in other Exodus traditions; protection from the heat is sometimes attributed to the pillar of cloud (Ex 13.21). 22–23: Ex 15.22–25; Sir 38.5.

1.24–34: Pronouncement of judgment against Israel. 24: Isa 43.22. I will turn to other nations, the pivotal point of 5 Ezra, in which God decisively rejects the former nation (see Mt 21.43). See also Ex 32.10; Num 14.12. 25: Jer 13.14. 26: Prov 1.28; Isa 1.15; 59.3, 7; Jer 7.16. 29: Lev 26.12; Jer 7.23 24.7; 2 Cor 6.16–18; Heb 8.10. 30–33: Compare ers her chicks under her wings. But now, what shall I do to you? I will cast you out from my presence.³¹ When you offer oblations to me, I will turn my face from you; for I have rejected your^a festal days, and new moons, and circumcisions of the flesh.^b ³² I sent you my servants the prophets, but you have taken and killed them and torn their bodies^c in pieces; I will require their blood of you, says the Lord.^d

³³ “Thus says the Lord Almighty: Your house is desolate; I will drive you out as the wind drives straw; ³⁴ and your sons will have no children, because with you^e they have neglected my commandment and have done what is evil in my sight. ³⁵ I will give your houses to a people that will come, who without having heard me will believe. Those to whom I have shown no signs will do what I have commanded. ³⁶ They have seen no prophets, yet will recall their former state.^f ³⁷ I call to witness the gratitude of the people that is to come, whose children rejoice with gladness;^g though they do not see me with bodily eyes, yet with the spirit they will believe the things I have said.

³⁸ “And now, father,^h look with pride and see the people coming from the east; ³⁹ to them I will give as leaders Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and Hosea and Amos and Micah and Joel and Obadiah and Jonah⁴⁰ and Nahum and Habakkuk, Zephaniah, Haggai, Zechariah and Malachi, who is also called the messenger of the Lord.ⁱ

2 “Thus says the Lord: I brought this people out of bondage, and I gave them commandments through my servants the prophets; but they would not listen to them, and made my counsels void. ² The mother who bore them^j says to them, ‘Go, my children, because I am a widow and forsaken. ³ I brought you up with gladness; but with mourning and sorrow I have lost you, because you have sinned before the Lord God and have done what is evil in my sight.^k ⁴ But now what can I do for you? For I am a widow and forsaken. Go, my children, and ask for mercy from the Lord.’ ⁵ Now I call upon you, father, as a witness in addition to the mother of the

^a Other ancient authorities read I have not commanded for you

^b Other ancient authorities lack of the flesh

^c Other ancient authorities read the bodies of the apostles

^d Other ancient authorities add Thus says the Lord Almighty: Recently you also laid hands on me, crying out before the judge's seat for him to deliver me to you. You took me as a sinner, not as a father who freed you from slavery, and you delivered me to death by hanging me on the tree; these are the things you have done. Therefore, says the Lord, let my Father and his angels return and judge between you and me; if I have not kept the commandment of the Father, if I have not nourished you, if I have not done the things my Father commanded, I will contend in judgment with you, says the Lord.

^e Other ancient authorities lack with you

^f Other ancient authorities read their iniquities

^g Other ancient authorities read The apostles bear witness to the coming people with joy

^h Other ancient authorities read brother

ⁱ Other ancient authorities read and Jacob, Elijah and Enoch, Zechariah and Hosea, Amos, Joel, Micah, Obadiah, Zephaniah, ⁴⁰*Nahum, Jonah, Mattia (or Mattathias), Habakkuk, and twelve angels with flowers*

^j Other ancient authorities read They begat for themselves a mother who

^k Other ancient authorities read in his sight

Mt 23.30–38. This is the closest New Testament parallel in 5 Ezra, and it suggests Christian authorship. See also Lk 11.49–51; 13.34–35. 31: Isa 1.11–15. The rejection of circumcision also reveals the Christian identity of the author. 32: Jer 7.25; 25.4. 33: Job 21.18; Ps 1.4; Jer 13.24.

1.35–40: Description and vision of the coming people. Emphasis is placed on the untutored goodness of the people that will come. 35: A people that will come, that is, the Gentile Christians. Signs, cf. Num 14.11. 36–37: Heb 2.3–4; 1 Pet 1.8–12. With bodily eyes, Jn 20.29. 38: God addresses Ezra as father, a term of respect. The people coming from the east suggests a return from exile (see Bar 4.36–37; 5.5). 39–40: The three patriarchs, and the twelve minor prophets arranged in the order of the Septuagint (see Mt 8.11–12; Lk 13.28–29).

2.1–9: Further pronouncement of judgment. The “mother” of the old people is consigned to destruction. 1: Jer 7.25–26; Ezra 9.10–11; Dan 9.10. 2: The mother who bore them, Jerusalem (Isa 49.21; 54.1). 2–4: This section, like 1.38, draws on the last chapters of the book of Baruch (Bar 4.8–23). 5: This time it is God who is invoked as children, because they would not keep my covenant, ⁶ so that you may bring confusion on them and bring their mother to ruin, so that they may have no offspring. ⁷ Let them be scattered among the nations; let their names be blotted out from the earth, because they have despised my covenant.

⁸ “Woe to you, Assyria, who conceal the unrighteous within you! O wicked nation, remember what I did to Sodom and Gomorrah, ⁹ whose land lies in lumps of pitch and heaps of ashes.^a That is what I will do to those who have not listened to me, says the Lord Almighty.”

¹⁰ Thus says the Lord to Ezra: “Tell my people that I will give them the kingdom of Jerusalem, which I was going to give to Israel. ¹¹ Moreover, I will take back to myself their glory, and will give to these others the everlasting habitations, which I had prepared for Israel.^b ¹² The tree of life shall give them fragrant perfume, and they shall neither toil nor become weary. ¹³ Go^c and you will receive; pray that your days may be few, that they may be shortened. The kingdom is already prepared for you; be on the watch! ¹⁴ Call, O call heaven and earth to witness: I set aside evil and created good; for I am the Living One, says the Lord.

¹⁵ “Mother, embrace your children; bring them up with gladness, as does a dove; strengthen their feet, because I have chosen you, says the Lord. ¹⁶ And I will raise up the dead from their places, and bring them out from their tombs, because I recognize my name

in them. ¹⁷ Do not fear, mother of children, for I have chosen you, says the Lord. ¹⁸ I will send you help, my servants Isaiah and Jeremiah. According to their counsel I have consecrated and prepared for you twelve trees loaded with various fruits,¹⁹ and the same number of springs flowing with milk and honey, and seven mighty mountains on which roses and lilies grow; by these I will fill your children with joy.

²⁰ “Guard the rights of the widow, secure justice for the ward, give to the needy, defend the orphan, clothe the naked, ²¹ care for the injured and the weak, do not ridicule the lame, protect the maimed, and let the blind have a vision of my splendor. ²² Protect the old and the young within your walls. ²³ When you find any who are dead, commit them to the grave and mark it,^d and I will give you the first place in my resurrection. ²⁴ Pause and be quiet, my people, because your rest will come.

²⁵ “Good nurse, nourish your children; strengthen their feet. ²⁶ Not one of the servants^e whom I have given you will perish, for I will require them from among your number. ²⁷ Do not be anxious, for when the day of tribulation and anguish comes, others

^a Other ancient authorities read Gomorrah, whose land descends to hell

^b Lat for those

^c Other ancient authorities read Seek

^d Or seal it; or mark them and commit them to the grave

^e Or slaves

father, in conjunction with Jerusalem as mother (cf. 1.38). 6: Bring their mother to ruin, a reference to the fall of Jerusalem in 70 or 135 CE (cf. Mt 22.1–14). 7: Let them be scattered, as punishment, see Lev 26.33; Deut 4.27; Ps 44.11; Jer 9.16. The endurance of names is a form of immortality (see Sir 41:11–13). 8–9: Woe against Assyria. The exact significance of this reference is uncertain; some scholars view Assyria as a reference to Rome. Here Assyria is cursed for concealing the Jews (cf. Zeph 2.13–3.5). Sodom and Gomorrah, Gen 19.

2.10–41: Prophetic exhortation of the new people. 10–14: Blessing and instruction; listing of eschatological delights. 10: My people, the newly chosen Christians. See Mt 21.43. 11: Everlasting habitations, dwelling places in the world to come; see Lk 16.9; Jn 14.2–3; 2 Cor 5.1,4; Rev 21.3. 12: Tree of life, Gen 2.9; 3.17–19,22; Rev 2.7; 22.2,14; 1 Enoch 24.4–25.7. 13: Mt 7.7–8; 13.20,33–37; 14.34–38; 24.22; 25.34; Mk 13.37; Jn 16.24. 14: Heaven and earth, Deut 4.26; Isa 1.2. Living One, Rev 1.18.

2.15–32: Exhortation of the mother. In distinction to 2.2–6, it is now the church, not Jerusalem, that is addressed as mother. 15: Dove, Song 2.13–14. Chosen, Isa 44.1–2; 49.7; 16: Resurrection is promised; see Isa 26.19; Ezek 37.12; Rev 3.12; 14.1; 22.4. 18–19: 1 Enoch 24–25; 31–32; 48; Hermas Sim. 9. 18: Twelve trees, Rev 22.2. 19: Springs . . . mountains, 1 Enoch 18.6; 24.2–3; 32.1; 48.1. 20–23: A recital of the traditional “works of mercy” of the church (see Isa 58.6–10; Tob 1.17–19; Mt 25.35–45; Hermas Mand. 8.10). 22: The old and the young, Joel 2.16. 23: Concern for proper burial, cf. Ezek 39.15; Sir 38.16. 24: Rest, an eschatological reward; cf. Dan 12.13; Heb 3.18–19.

shall weep and be sorrowful, but you shall rejoice and have abundance. ²⁸The nations shall envy you, but they shall not be able to do anything against you, says the Lord. ²⁹My power will protect^a you, so that your children may not see hell.^b

³⁰“Rejoice, O mother, with your children, because I will deliver you, says the Lord. ³¹Remember your children that sleep, because I will bring them out of the hiding places of the earth, and will show mercy to them; for I am merciful, says the Lord Almighty. ³²Embrace your children until I come, and proclaim mercy to them; because my springs run over, and my grace will not fail.”

³³I, Ezra, received a command from the Lord on Mount Horeb to go to Israel. When I came to them they rejected me and refused the Lord’s commandment. ³⁴Therefore I say to you, O nations that hear and understand, “Wait for your shepherd; he will give you everlasting rest, because he who will come at the end of the age is close at hand. ³⁵Be ready for the rewards of the kingdom, because perpetual light will shine on you forevermore. ³⁶Flee from the shadow of this age, receive the joy of your glory; I publicly call on my savior to witness.^c ³⁷Receive what the Lord has entrusted to you and be joyful, giving thanks to him who has called you to the celestial kingdoms. ³⁸Rise, stand erect and see the number of those who have been sealed at the feast of the Lord. ³⁹Those who have departed from the shadow of this age have received glorious garments from the Lord. ⁴⁰Take again your full number, O Zion, and close the list of your people who are clothed in white, who have fulfilled the law of the Lord. ⁴¹The number of your children, whom you desired, is now complete; implore the Lord’s authority that your people, who have been called from the beginning, may be made holy.”

⁴²I, Ezra, saw on Mount Zion a great multitude that I could not number, and they all were praising the Lord with songs. ⁴³In their midst was a young man of great stature, taller than any of the others, and on the head of each of them he placed a crown, but he was more exalted than they. And I was held spellbound. ⁴⁴Then I asked an angel, “Who are these, my lord?” ⁴⁵He answered and said to me, “These are they who have put off mortal clothing and have put on the immortal, and have confessed the name of God. Now they are being crowned, and receive palms.” ⁴⁶Then I said to the angel, “Who is that young man who is placing crowns on them and putting palms in their hands?” ⁴⁷He answered and said to me, “He is the Son of God, whom they confessed in the world.” So I began to praise those who had stood valiantly for the name of the Lord.^d ⁴⁸Then the angel said to me, “Go, tell my people how great and how many are the wonders of the Lord God that you have seen.”

3 In the thirtieth year after the destruction of the city, I was in Babylon—I, Salathiel, who am also called Ezra. I was troubled as I

^a Lat hands will cover

^b Lat Gehenna

^c Other ancient authorities read I testify that my savior has been commissioned by the Lord

^d Other ancient authorities read to praise and glorify the Lord

25: Nurse, the church; cf. 2.15; Num 11.12. 26: Jn 17.12; 18.9. 27–32: The author emphasizes eschatology and resurrection. 31: Sleep, i.e., death; Dan 12.2. Hiding places, cf. 1 Enoch 22. 32: See 2.15n.

2.33–41: Description of the glorified state to be enjoyed by God’s newly chosen people. 33: On Mount Horeb, depicting Ezra as a second Moses; see 14.1–4, 30, 37–38; Ex 3.1. Rejected me, Acts 13.46. 34: Nations, Gentiles; Shepherd, Christ; cf. 1 Pet 5.4. 35: Light will shine, cf. Isa 9.2; 60.19–20; Rev 21.23–25; 22.5. 38: Sealed, Rev 7.4. 39: Glorious garments, 1 Enoch 62.15–16. See also Bar 5.1–3; Rev 3.4–5. 40: Full number, see 4.36–37; Rev 6.11; Clothed in white, Rev 3.4; 6.11; 7.14; 1 Enoch 71.1. 41: 1 Enoch 47.4.

2.42–48: Ezra’s vision of a great multitude (cf. Rev 7.9–17). 42: Mount Zion, contrasted here with the Mount Horeb of 2.33. Great multitude, 13.5, 12, 35; Rev 7.9; 14.1; 2 Bar 40; 1 Enoch 39.12–40.1. Songs, Rev 14.1–5; 15.2–4. 43: Young man, a messianic figure, here referring to Jesus. See 13.5, 35; Rev 14.1; Gospel of Peter 40; Hermas Sim. 9.6.1. Crown, 2 Tim 4.8; 1 Pet 5.4; Rev 2.10; 3.11. Spellbound, 13.11; Rev 17.6–7. 44–47: Rev 7.13–14. 45: Put off mortal clothing, 1 Cor 15.53–54; 2 Cor 5.2–4. Palms, Rev 7.9. 47: Son of God, here a Christian designation, can also be Jewish (see 7.28–29; 13.32, 37, 52). Confessed in the world, signifying Christian martyrs.

lay on my bed, and my thoughts welled up in my heart, ²because I saw the desolation of Zion and the wealth of those who lived in Babylon. ³My spirit was greatly agitated, and I began to speak anxious words to the Most High, and said, ⁴“O sovereign Lord, did you not speak at the beginning when you planted^a the earth—and that without help—and commanded the dust^b ⁵and it gave you Adam, a lifeless body? Yet he was the creation of your hands, and you breathed into him the breath of life, and he was made alive in your presence. ⁶And you led him into the garden that your right hand had planted before the earth appeared. ⁷And you laid upon him one commandment of yours; but he transgressed it, and immediately you appointed death for him and for his descendants. From him there sprang nations and tribes, peoples and clans without number. ⁸And every nation walked after its own will; they did ungodly things in your sight and rejected your commands, and you did not hinder them. ⁹But again, in its time you brought the flood upon the inhabitants of the world and destroyed them. ¹⁰And the same fate befell all of them: just as death came upon Adam, so the flood upon them. ¹¹But you left one of them, Noah with his household, and all the righteous who have descended from him.

¹²“When those who lived on earth began to multiply, they produced children and peoples and many nations, and again they began to be more ungodly than were their ancestors. ¹³And when they were committing iniquity in your sight, you chose for yourself one of them, whose name was Abraham; ¹⁴you loved him, and to him alone you revealed the end of the times, secretly by night. ¹⁵You made an everlasting covenant with him, and promised him that you would never forsake his descendants; and you gave him Isaac, and to Isaac you gave Jacob and Esau. ¹⁶You set apart Jacob for yourself, but Esau you rejected; and Jacob became a great multitude. ¹⁷And when you led his descendants out of Egypt, you brought them to Mount Sinai. ¹⁸You bent down the heavens and shook^c the earth, and moved the world, and caused the depths to tremble, and troubled the times. ¹⁹Your glory passed through the four gates of fire and earthquake and wind and ice, to give

^a Other ancient authorities read formed

^b Syr Ethiop: Lat people or world

^c Syr Ethiop Arab 1 Georg: Lat set fast

Chapters 3–14 comprise a separate literary composition also known as 4 Ezra (see Introduction).

3.1–5.20: The first vision. 3.1–3: Introduction. 1: The thirtieth year after the destruction of Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar in 586 BCE (2 Kings 25.1–21) would be 556. The date specified may imply that the author was writing about 100 CE (i.e., thirty years after the fall of Jerusalem in 70 CE). The historical Ezra lived almost a century after the claimed setting of the book. Babylon, the historical Ezra was born in Babylon, then led a group of exiled Jews returning to Jerusalem about 458 BCE; see Ezra 7.7n. Salathiel is the Greek form of “Shealtiel” (Ezra 3.2; 5.2; Neh 12.1), appropriately meaning in Hebrew, “I asked God.” The identification of Salathiel with Ezra has never been adequately explained. On my bed, cf. Dan 7.1. 2: Zion, Jerusalem. 3: My spirit was greatly agitated, the author immediately signals Ezra’s emotional sensitivity.

3.4–36: Addressing God, the author raises perplexing questions. What is the origin of sin with its consequent misery? How can Israel’s continuing affliction be reconciled with God’s justice? Each of the first four visions opens with a long, reflective prayer of Ezra addressed to God (see 5.23–30; 6.38–59; 9.29–37). Here Ezra presents a historical review of God’s interactions with humanity and with Israel. 4–5: The creation of Adam, based on Gen 2.7, draws on the concept of creation by divine speech in Gen 1. 6–8: Adam’s disobedience (see Gen 2.16–17; 3.1–13) gives rise to sin and death for all humans. 7: The words immediately you appointed death imply that Adam was not originally intended to be mortal (see Gen 3.22; cf. Wis 1.13–14; 2.23–24). Death for him and his descendants, see also 3.21,26; 4.30; 7.116–118. Similar ideas are expressed by Paul in Rom 5.12–21; 1 Cor 15.21–22. 8: Gen 6.12. 9–11: The flood (Gen 6.11–8.22). 12–15: The choice of and covenant with Abraham (Gen 12.1; 17.5). 14: The end of the times is not the topic of Gen 15. See, however, The Apocalypse of Abraham, roughly contemporary with chs 3–14. By night, Gen 15.5,12,17. 15–16: Jacob and Esau, Gen 25.19–26. 17–19: The Exodus and the giving of the law. 18: Compare Ex 19.16–18; Ps 68.7–8. 19: Four gates, according to certain early Jewish cosmological models, meteorological phenomena passed from heaven to earth through gates in the heavenly firmament, here enumerated as four. See 1 Enoch 36.1,76; cf. Ps 78.23; 1 Kings 19.11–12. Here God’s

the law to the descendants of Jacob, and your commandment to the posterity of Israel.

²⁰ “Yet you did not take away their evil heart from them, so that your law might produce fruit in them. ²¹ For the first Adam, burdened with an evil heart, transgressed and was overcome, as were also all who were descended from him. ²² Thus the disease became permanent; the law was in the hearts of the people along with the evil root; but what was good departed, and the evil remained. ²³ So the times passed and the years were completed, and you raised up for yourself a servant, named David. ²⁴ You commanded him to build a city for your name, and there to offer you oblations from what is yours. ²⁵ This was done for many years; but the inhabitants of the city transgressed, ²⁶ in everything doing just as Adam and all his descendants had done, for they also had the evil heart. ²⁷ So you handed over your city to your enemies.

²⁸ “Then I said in my heart, Are the deeds of those who inhabit Babylon any better? Is that why it has gained dominion over Zion? ²⁹ For when I came here I saw ungodly deeds without number, and my soul has seen many sinners during these thirty years. ^a And my heart failed me, ³⁰ because I have seen how you endure those who sin, and have spared those who act wickedly, and have destroyed your people, and protected your enemies, ³¹ and have not shown to anyone how your way may be comprehended. ^b Are the deeds of Babylon better than those of Zion? ³² Or has another nation known you besides Israel? Or what tribes have so believed the covenants as these tribes of Jacob? ³³ Yet their reward has not appeared and their labor has borne no fruit. For I have traveled widely among the nations and have seen that they abound in wealth, though they are unmindful of your commandments. ³⁴ Now therefore weigh in a balance our iniquities and those of the inhabitants of the world; and it will be found which way the turn of the scale will incline. ³⁵ When have the inhabitants of the earth not sinned in your sight? Or what nation has kept your commandments so well? ³⁶ You may indeed find individuals who have kept your commandments, but nations you will not find.”

4 Then the angel that had been sent to me, whose name was Uriel, answered ² and said to me, “Your understanding has utterly failed regarding this world, and do you think you can comprehend the way of the Most High?” ³ Then I said, “Yes, my lord.” And he replied to me, “I have been sent to show you three ways, and to put before you three problems. ⁴ If you can solve one of them for me, then I will show you the way you desire to see, and will teach you why the heart is evil.”

⁵ I said, “Speak, my lord.”

^a Ethiop Arab 1 Arm: Lat Syr in this thirtieth year

^b Syr; compare Ethiop: Lat how this way should be forsaken glory descends through these gates to give the law on Mount Sinai. 20–27: The tendency to sin is universal and permanent. 20: You did not take away, here, as in 3.8 (you did not hinder them), Ezra implies that God bears some responsibility for human sinfulness. Evil heart, possibly, in the Hebrew (now lost), the evil “yetser,” an inclination or tendency to sin (Gen 6.5; 2 Esd 4.30–31). The “yetser” can also be an inclination to good (Isa 26.3; 1 Chr 29.18). Fruit, see 8.6. 22: Contrast 9.34–37. Evil root, cf. 8.53. 23–27: David, see 1 Sam 16.1–13; 2 Sam 7.1–17; Ps 89.19–29. The city is Jerusalem. 27: Handed over your city, the Babylonian conquest of Jerusalem in 586 BCE (2 Kings 25.1–21). 28–36: Ezra questions whether the deeds of Babylon are any better than those of Israel. 28: Babylon, here, as regularly in the book, stands for Rome (compare Rev 14.8). 30–31: Here the author expresses the essence of the problem: God permits evildoers to continue in their wickedness, does not spare the suffering people of God, and does not let anyone understand why this should be so. 33–36: Ezra claims that God’s judgment regarding the present world order has been faulty. 34: Scale, see Job 31.6; Dan 5.27; 1 Enoch 4.1; 61.8. 36: Individuals among the Gentiles.

4.1–25: Dialogic dispute between Ezra and the angel Uriel. The message is that God’s ways are beyond human understanding. 1–12: Three riddles illustrate the limitations of human knowledge. 1: Angel, representing the viewpoint of God. The name Uriel in Hebrew means “God is my fire” (or “my light”). According to 1 Enoch 20.2, Uriel is a watcher over both the world and Tartaros, the lowest part of hell (cf. 2 Pet 2.4, textual note e). 5: The angel’s method of instructing Ezra regularly employs analogies drawn from nature;

And he said to me, “Go, weigh for me the weight of fire, or measure for me a blast^a of wind, or call back for me the day that is past.”

⁶I answered and said, “Who of those that have been born can do that, that you should ask me about such things?”

⁷And he said to me, “If I had asked you, ‘How many dwellings are in the heart of the sea, or how many streams are at the source of the deep, or how many streams are above the firmament, or which are the exits of Hades, or which are the entrances^b of paradise?’

⁸perhaps you would have said to me, ‘I never went down into the deep, nor as yet into Hades, neither did I ever ascend into heaven.’

⁹But now I have asked you only about fire and wind and the day—things that you have experienced and from which you cannot be separated, and you have given me no answer about them.” ¹⁰He said to me, “You cannot understand the things with which you have grown up; ¹¹how then can your mind comprehend the way of the Most High? And how can one who is already worn out^c by the corrupt world understand incorruption?”^d When I heard this, I fell on my face^e ¹²and said to him, “It would have been better for us not to be here than to come here and live in ungodliness, and to suffer and not understand why.”

¹³He answered me and said, “I went into a forest of trees of the plain, and they made a plan ¹⁴and said, ‘Come, let us go and make war against the sea, so that it may recede before us and so that we may make for ourselves more forests.’ ¹⁵In like manner the waves of the sea also made a plan and said, ‘Come, let us go up and subdue the forest of the plain so that there also we may gain more territory for ourselves.’ ¹⁶But the plan of the forest was in vain, for the fire came and consumed it; ¹⁷likewise also the plan of the waves of the sea was in vain,^f for the sand stood firm and blocked it. ¹⁸If now you were a judge between them, which would you undertake to justify, and which to condemn?”

¹⁹I answered and said, “Each made a foolish plan, for the land has been assigned to the forest, and the locale of the sea a place to carry its waves.”

²⁰He answered me and said, “You have judged rightly, but why have you not judged so in your own case? ²¹For as the land has been assigned to the forest and the sea to its waves, so also those who inhabit the earth can understand only what is on the earth, and he who is^g above the heavens can understand what is above the height of the heavens.”

²²Then I answered and said, “I implore you, my lord, why^h have I been endowed with the power of understanding? ²³For I did not wish to inquire about the ways above, but about those things that we daily experience: why Israel has been given over to the Gentiles in disgrace; why the people whom you loved has been given over to godless tribes, and the law of our ancestors has been brought to destruction and the written covenants no longer exist. ²⁴We pass from the world like locusts, and our life is like a mist,ⁱ and we are not worthy to obtain mercy. ²⁵But what will he do for his^j name that is invoked over us? It is about these things that I have asked.”

^a Syr Ethiop Arab 1 Arab 2 Georg a measure

^b Syr Compare Ethiop Arab 2 Arm: Lat lacks of Hades, or which are the entrances

^c Meaning of Lat uncertain

^d Syr Ethiop the way of the incorruptible?

^e Syr Ethiop Arab 1: Meaning of Lat uncertain

^f Lat lacks was in vain

^g Or those who are

^h Syr Ethiop Arm: Meaning of Lat uncertain

ⁱ Syr Ethiop Arab Georg: Lat a trembling

^j Ethiop adds holy

see 4.13–21, 28–32, 40–42, 48–50; 5.36–37, 46–55. 7: How many dwellings . . . ? In many apocalypses, these types of questions are in fact issues of proper concern. 8: See Deut 30.11–13. Hades, the underworld. 10–11: See Job 38–41; Jn 3.12. 12: For the seer, to live without understanding of life’s meaning is intolerable. 13–21: Parable of the conflict between the forest and the sea. 18–19: As a skillful teacher, the angel leads Ezra to answer his own question; see also 5.36–40, 46–47; 7.52–58. 21: Isa 55.8–9. 22–25: Ezra protests that he is inquiring only about the meaning of earthly, historical happenings, not about cosmic events. 24: Ps 109.23; Wis 2.4.

4.26–52: Dialogic prediction regarding the future. 26–32: The angel’s concern shifts to the end of the present, evil age and the distinction between this age and the next. This section marks the beginning of the ²⁶He answered me and said, “If you are alive, you will see, and if you live long,^a you will often marvel, because the age is hurrying swiftly to its end.²⁷ It will not be able to bring the things that have been promised to the righteous in their appointed times, because this age is full of sadness and infirmities.²⁸ For the evil about which^b you ask me has been sown, but the harvest of it has not yet come.

²⁹If therefore that which has been sown is not reaped, and if the place where the evil has been sown does not pass away, the field where the good has been sown will not come.³⁰ For a grain of evil seed was sown in Adam’s heart from the beginning, and how much ungodliness it has produced until now—and will produce until the time of threshing comes!

³¹Consider now for yourself how much fruit of ungodliness a grain of evil seed has produced.

³²When heads of grain without number are sown, how great a threshing floor they will fill!”

³³Then I answered and said, “How long?^b When will these things be? Why are our years few and evil?”³⁴ He answered me and said, “Do not be in a greater hurry than the Most High. You, indeed, are in a hurry for yourself,^c but the Highest is in a hurry on behalf of many.³⁵ Did not the souls of the righteous in their chambers ask about these matters, saying, ‘How long are we to remain here?’^d And when will the harvest of our reward come?”

³⁶And the archangel Jeremiel answered and said, “When the number of those like yourselves is completed;^e for he has weighed the age in the balance,³⁷ and measured the times by measure, and numbered the times by number; and he will not move or arouse them until that measure is fulfilled.”

³⁸Then I answered and said, “But, O sovereign Lord, all of us also are full of ungodliness.³⁹ It is perhaps on account of us that the time of threshing is delayed for the righteous—on account of the sins of those who inhabit the earth.”

⁴⁰He answered me and said, “Go and ask a pregnant woman whether, when her nine months have been completed, her womb can keep the fetus within her any longer.”

⁴¹And I said, “No, lord, it cannot.”

He said to me, “In Hades the chambers of the souls are like the womb.⁴² For just as a woman who is in labor makes haste to escape the pangs of birth, so also do these places hasten to give back those things that were committed to them from the beginning.⁴³ Then the things that you desire to see will be disclosed to you.”

⁴⁴I answered and said, “If I have found favor in your sight, and if it is possible, and if I am worthy,⁴⁵ show me this also: whether more time is to come than has passed, or whether for us the greater part has gone by.⁴⁶ For I know what has gone by, but I do not know what is to come.”

⁴⁷And he said to me, “Stand at my right side, and I will show you the interpretation of a parable.”

⁴⁸So I stood and looked, and lo, a flaming furnace passed by before me, and when the

^a Syr: Lat live

^b Syr Ethiop: Meaning of Lat uncertain

^c Syr Ethiop Arab Arm: Meaning of Lat uncertain

^d Syr Ethiop Arab 2 Georg: Lat How long do I hope thus?

^e Syr Ethiop Arab 2: Lat number of seeds is completed for you

angel’s esoteric eschatological teaching, the main focus of 4 Ezra. 28–32: Harvest, the time of judgment. Cf. Mt 3.12; 13.24–30. 29: Cf. the fourth vision, 9.26–10.59. 30: The grain of evil seed, or evil “yetser” (see 3.20n.) sown in Adam’s heart, introduced in 3.7–27, must ripen and be harvested before the coming, righteous age can appear. 33–52: Ezra’s questions concerning the time of the end. 33: How long?, the question is a prophetic and apocalyptic commonplace; see 4.35; 6.59; Isa 6.11; Dan 8.13; 12.6; Zech 1.12; Rev 6.10. Ezra’s concerns, like the angel’s, also move to the end of the age. 34: An exhortation to patience in the face of coming judgment. 35–37: This passage is similar to Rev 6.9–11. 35: Souls of the righteous in their chambers, according to Jewish thought of the time, the souls of the righteous dead are placed in “chambers,” or “treasuries,” to await the last judgment (see 2.31; 4.41; 7.32,80,95,101; 1 Enoch 22; 2 Apoc. Bar. 21.23). 36: Archangel Jeremiel, see 1 Enoch 20.8, Apoc. Zeph. 6.11–17; 2 Bar. 53–74. In 1 Enoch 20.8 the angel, called Remiel, is “in charge of those who rise.” When the number . . . is completed, cf. 2.40–41; Rev 6.11. 36–37: Weighed . . . measured . . . numbered, God has determined the times and periods of history (see Sir 36.10). 40–43: The analogy of a woman who is in labor explains the inevitability of the end (cf. 5.46–55; 16.38–39; 1 Thess 5.3). 41: Hades, the underworld. Chambers, see v. 35n. 44–50: The seer flame had gone by I looked, and lo, the smoke remained.⁴⁹ And after this a cloud full of water passed before me and poured down a heavy and violent rain, and when the violent rainstorm had passed, drops still remained in the cloud.^a ⁵⁰ He said to me, “Consider it for yourself; for just as the rain is more than the drops, and the fire is greater than the smoke, so the quantity that passed was far greater; but drops and smoke remained.”

⁵¹ Then I prayed and said, “Do you think that I shall live until those days? Or who will be alive in those days?”

⁵² He answered me and said, “Concerning the signs about which you ask me, I can tell you in part; but I was not sent to tell you concerning your life, for I do not know.

5 “Now concerning the signs: lo, the days are coming when those who inhabit the earth shall be seized with great terror,^b and the way of truth shall be hidden, and the land shall be barren of faith.² Unrighteousness shall be increased beyond what you yourself see, and beyond what you heard of formerly.³ And the land that you now see ruling shall be a trackless waste, and people shall see it desolate.⁴ But if the Most High grants that you live, you shall see it thrown into confusion after the third period;^c and the sun shall suddenly begin to shine at night, and the moon during the day.

⁵ Blood shall drip from wood,
and the stone shall utter its voice;
the peoples shall be troubled,
and the stars shall fall.^d

⁶ And one shall reign whom those who inhabit the earth do not expect, and the birds shall fly away together;⁷ and the Dead Sea^e shall cast up fish; and one whom the many do not know shall make his voice heard by night, and all shall hear his voice.^f ⁸ There shall be chaos also in many places, fire shall often break out, the wild animals shall roam beyond their haunts, and menstruous women shall bring forth monsters.⁹ Salt waters shall be found in the sweet, and all friends shall conquer one another; then shall reason hide itself, and wisdom shall withdraw into its chamber,¹⁰ and it shall be sought by many but shall not be found, and unrighteousness and unrestraint shall increase on earth.¹¹ One country shall ask its neighbor, ‘Has righteousness, or anyone who does right, passed through you?’ And it will answer, ‘No.’¹² At that time people shall hope but not obtain; they shall labor, but their ways shall not prosper.¹³ These are the signs that I am permitted to tell you, and if you pray again, and weep as you do now, and fast for seven days, you shall hear yet greater things than these.”

¹⁴ Then I woke up, and my body shuddered violently, and my soul was so troubled that it fainted.¹⁵ But the angel who had come and talked with me held me and strengthened me and set me on my feet.

^a Lat in it

^b Syr Ethiop: Meaning of Lat uncertain

^c Literally after the third; Ethiop after three months; Arm after the third vision; Georg after the third day

^d Ethiop Compare Syr and Arab: Meaning of Lat uncertain

^e Lat Sea of Sodom

^f Cn: Lat fish; and it shall make its voice heard by night, which the many have not known, but all shall hear its voice.

asks what proportion of time remains; he is told by a parable that the end is near (see 5.50–55; 14.10–12). 48: Flaming furnace . . . smoke, see also Gen 15.17; Zech 12.6.

5.1–13: Direct prediction of the future by the angel, who uses classical apocalyptic “signs” to describe the end of this age (cf. the “synoptic apocalypse” in Mt 24.4–31; Mk 13.5–27; Lk 21.8–28). Each of the first three visions contains similar lists of apocalyptic signs (see 6.11–29; 7.26–44; 8.63–9.13). 2: Mt 24.12. 3: Rome will be destroyed. 4–9: The natural order, mirroring the moral order, will be confused and overturned (cf. Joel 2.10; Mt 24.3–35; Mk 13.3–31; Lk 21.7–28). 4: The reference to the third period is cryptic (cf. 14.10–12). 5: The stone shall utter its voice, Hab 2.11; Lk 19.40. 7: Cf. Ezek 47.8–10. 8a: Syriac, “There shall be chasms also in many places” (cf. Zech 14.4). 8: Menstruous women, cf. 6.21; Mt 24.19; Mk 13.17. 9–11: Wisdom, personified as in the wisdom literature, shall withdraw, another classic apocalyptic theme (cf. Isa 59.14–15; 2 Apoc. Bar. 48.36). 13: For the author, fasting, prayer, and mourning prepared one to receive a divine revelation; he refers to four such preparatory periods of seven days (5.20; 6.35; 9.23–25; 12.51).

5.14–20: Transition to the second vision. 14: Then I woke up, from the dream vision. My soul . . . fainted, cf.

¹⁶ Now on the second night Phaltiel, a chief of the people, came to me and said, “Where have you been? And why is your face sad?

¹⁷ Or do you not know that Israel has been entrusted to you in the land of their exile?

¹⁸ Rise therefore and eat some bread, and do not forsake us, like a shepherd who leaves the flock in the power of savage wolves.”

¹⁹ Then I said to him, “Go away from me and do not come near me for seven days; then you may come to me.”

He heard what I said and left me. ²⁰ So I fasted seven days, mourning and weeping, as the angel Uriel had commanded me.

²¹ After seven days the thoughts of my heart were very grievous to me again. ²² Then my soul recovered the spirit of understanding, and I began once more to speak words in the presence of the Most High. ²³ I said, “O sovereign Lord, from every forest of the earth and from all its trees you have chosen one vine, ²⁴ and from all the lands of the world you have chosen for yourself one region,^a and from all the flowers of the world you have chosen for yourself one lily, ²⁵ and from all the depths of the sea you have filled for yourself one river, and from all the cities that have been built you have consecrated Zion for yourself, ²⁶ and from all the birds that have been created you have named for yourself one dove, and from all the flocks that have been made you have provided for yourself one sheep, ²⁷ and from all the multitude of peoples you have gotten for yourself one people; and to this people, whom you have loved, you have given the law that is approved by all. ²⁸ And now, O Lord, why have you handed the one over to the many, and dishonored^b the one root beyond the others, and scattered your only one among the many? ²⁹ And those who opposed your promises have trampled on those who believed your covenants. ³⁰ If you really hate your people, they should be punished at your own hands.”

³¹ When I had spoken these words, the angel who had come to me on a previous night was sent to me. ³² He said to me, “Listen to me, and I will instruct you; pay attention to me, and I will tell you more.”

³³ Then I said, “Speak, my lord.” And he said to me, “Are you greatly disturbed in mind over Israel? Or do you love him more than his Maker does?”

³⁴ I said, “No, my lord, but because of my grief I have spoken; for every hour I suffer agonies of heart, while I strive to understand the way of the Most High and to search out some part of his judgment.”

³⁵ He said to me, “You cannot.” And I said, “Why not, my lord? Why then was I born? Or why did not my mother’s womb become my grave, so that I would not see the travail of Jacob and the exhaustion of the people of Israel?”

³⁶ He said to me, “Count up for me those who have not yet come, and gather for me the scattered raindrops, and make the withered flowers bloom again for me; ³⁷ open for me the closed chambers, and bring out for me the winds shut up in them, or show me the picture of a voice; and then I will explain to you the travail that you ask to understand.”^c

^a Ethiop: Lat pit

^b Syr Ethiop Arab: Lat prepared

^c Lat see

Dan 7.28; 8.27; 10.9–10,17b–19. 16–19: Phaltiel, a chief of the people, named only here, tries unsuccessfully to dissuade Ezra from his solitary visionary quest. See also 12.40–51.

5.21–6.34: The second vision. 5.21–22: Introduction; cf. 3.1–3.

5.23–30: Addressing God, the seer reiterates his complaints of divine injustice in dealing with Israel. 23–28: In this series of comparisons, most of the chosen elements are biblical figures representing Israel: the vine (v. 23), Ps 80.8–15; Jer 2.21; the lily (v. 24), Song 2.2 (interpreted allegorically); Hos 14.5; the river (v. 25), Isa 8.6; the city of Zion (v. 25), Ps 132.13; the dove (v. 26), Ps 74.19; the sheep (v. 26), Ps 79.13; Isa 53.7; the root (v. 28), 1 Enoch 93.8. The author has a penchant for compiling similar, long lists of synonymous or analogous elements (see 5.36–37; 6.1–5; 8.52–54; 10.21–23). 27: The claim that God has loved Israel (see Deut 7.8) is contrasted with the idea of hate in v. 30. 30: Ezra wishes that punishment would come directly from God, not human agents; see also 2 Sam 24.14; Sir 2.18.

5.31–40: Dialogic dispute with the angel. The issue of contention is the same as in the first vision. 31: The angel who had come to me, see 4.1n. 33: The angel answers Ezra’s concern for God’s love for Israel. 35: Job 3.11;

³⁸ I said, “O sovereign Lord, who is able to know these things except him whose dwelling is not with mortals? ³⁹ As for me, I am without wisdom, and how can I speak concerning the things that you have asked me?”

⁴⁰ He said to me, “Just as you cannot do one of the things that were mentioned, so you cannot discover my judgment, or the goal of the love that I have promised to my people.”

⁴¹ I said, “Yet, O Lord, you have charge of those who are alive at the end, but what will those do who lived before me, or we, ourselves, or those who come after us?”

⁴² He said to me, “I shall liken my judgment to a circle;^a just as for those who are last there is no slowness, so for those who are first there is no haste.”

⁴³ Then I answered and said, “Could you not have created at one time those who have been and those who are and those who will be, so that you might show your judgment the sooner?”

⁴⁴ He replied to me and said, “The creation cannot move faster than the Creator, nor can the world hold at one time those who have been created in it.”

⁴⁵ I said, “How have you said to your servant that you^b will certainly give life at one time to your creation? If therefore all creatures will live at one time^c and the creation will sustain them, it might even now be able to support all of them present at one time.”

⁴⁶ He said to me, “Ask a woman’s womb, and say to it, ‘If you bear ten^d children, why one after another?’ Request it therefore to produce ten at one time.”

⁴⁷ I said, “Of course it cannot, but only each in its own time.”

⁴⁸ He said to me, “Even so I have given the womb of the earth to those who from time to time are sown in it. ⁴⁹ For as an infant does not bring forth, and a woman who has become old does not bring forth any longer, so I have made the same rule for the world that I created.”

⁵⁰ Then I inquired and said, “Since you have now given me the opportunity, let me speak before you. Is our mother, of whom you have told me, still young? Or is she now approaching old age?”

⁵¹ He replied to me, “Ask a woman who bears children, and she will tell you. ⁵² Say to her, ‘Why are those whom you have borne recently not like those whom you bore before, but smaller in stature?’ ⁵³ And she herself will answer you, ‘Those born in the strength of youth are different from those born during the time of old age, when the womb is failing.’ ⁵⁴ Therefore you also should consider that you and your contemporaries are smaller in stature than those who were before you, ⁵⁵ and those who come after you will be smaller than you, as born of a creation that already is aging and passing the strength of youth.”

⁵⁶ I said, “I implore you, O Lord, if I have found favor in your sight, show your servant through whom you will visit your creation.”

6 He said to me, “At the beginning of the circle of the earth, before^e the portals of the world were in place, and before the

^a Or crown

^b Syr Ethiop Arab 1: Meaning of Lat uncertain

^c Lat lacks If . . . one time

^d Syr Ethiop Arab 2 Arm: Meaning of Lat uncertain

^e Meaning of Lat uncertain: Compare Syr The beginning by the hand of humankind, but the end by my own hands. For as before the land of the world existed there, and before; Ethiop: At first by the Son of Man, and afterwards I myself. For before the earth and the lands were created, and before

10.18–19; Jer 20.17. 36–40: As in the first vision (4.5), the angel poses unanswerable riddles from nature. 40: My . . . I, the angel speaks in God’s name.

5.41–6.10: Dialogic prediction concerning the future. 5.41–49: Ezra’s concern is for fair treatment of all at the judgment. 41: You have charge, Ezra immediately resumes his questioning about the details of the end. The problem of the faithful who die before the end time was also an issue in early Christianity (1 Thess 4.13–15). 45: How have you said . . . ? Ezra points out an apparent contradiction in the logic: All . . . will live at one time, namely at the resurrection. 48: The womb of the earth, see Job 1.21. 50–55: As in the first vision (4.44–46), Ezra asks about the timing of the end. 54: Ezra’s generation being smaller in stature shows that the end is near. Various traditions refer to an ancient race of giants (Gen 6.4; Num 13.33; Deut 3.11; 1 Enoch 6–11). 5.56–6.6: To Ezra’s question concerning an eschatological agent, the angel responds that God alone will act. 6.1: Portals of the assembled winds blew,² and before the rumblings of thunder sounded, and before the flashes of lightning shone, and before the foundations of paradise were laid,³ and before the beautiful flowers were seen, and before the powers of movements^a were established, and before the innumerable hosts of angels were gathered together,⁴ and before the heights of the air were lifted up, and before the measures of the firmaments were named, and before the footstool of Zion was established,⁵ and before the present years were reckoned and before the imaginations of those who now sin were estranged, and before those who stored up treasures of faith were sealed—⁶ then I planned these things, and they were made through me alone and not through another; just as the end shall come through me alone and not through another.”

⁷ I answered and said, “What will be the dividing of the times? Or when will be the end of the first age and the beginning of the age that follows?”

⁸ He said to me, “From Abraham to Isaac,^b because from him were born Jacob and Esau, for Jacob’s hand held Esau’s heel from the beginning.⁹ Now Esau is the end of this age, and Jacob is the beginning of the age that follows.¹⁰ The beginning of a person is the hand, and the end of a person is the heel;^c seek for nothing else, Ezra, between the heel and the hand, Ezra!”

¹¹ I answered and said, “O sovereign Lord, if I have found favor in your sight,¹² show your servant the last of your signs of which you showed me a part on a previous night.”

¹³ He answered and said to me, “Rise to your feet and you will hear a full, resounding voice.¹⁴ And if the place where you are standing is greatly shaken¹⁵ while the voice is speaking, do not be terrified; because the word concerns the end, and the foundations of the earth will understand¹⁶ that the speech concerns them. They will tremble and be shaken, for they know that their end must be changed.”

¹⁷ When I heard this, I got to my feet and listened; a voice was speaking, and its sound was like the sound of mighty^d waters.¹⁸ It said, “The days are coming when I draw near to visit the inhabitants of the earth,¹⁹ and when I require from the doers of iniquity the penalty of their iniquity, and when the humiliation of Zion is complete.²⁰ When the seal is placed upon the age that is about to pass away, then I will show these signs: the books shall be opened before the face of the firmament, and all shall see my judgment^e together.²¹ Children a year old shall speak with their voices, and pregnant women shall give birth to premature children at three and four months, and these shall live and leap about.²² Sown places shall suddenly appear unsown, and full storehouses shall suddenly be found to be empty;²³ the trumpet shall sound aloud, and when all hear it, they shall suddenly be terrified.²⁴ At that time friends shall make war on friends like enemies, the earth and those who inhabit it shall be terrified, and the springs of the fountains shall stand still, so that for three hours they shall not flow.

²⁵ “It shall be that whoever remains after all that I have foretold to you shall be saved

^a Or earthquakes

^b Other ancient authorities read to Abraham

^c Syr: Meaning of Lat uncertain

^d Lat many

^e Syr: Lat lacks my judgment

world, here, as elsewhere, the author shows a fascination with natural phenomena and their origins (vv. 1–5). 4: Footstool, see Pss 99.5; 132.7. 7–10: The division of the ages. In allegorical language the seer is told that the present corrupt age (symbolized by Esau) will be followed immediately, without a break, by the glorious age to come (symbolized by Jacob). 8: Heel, see Gen 25.26.

6.11–29: Direct prediction of the future, this time in response to Ezra’s query (6.11–12). As in 5.1–13, the author uses classical apocalyptic signs. 14–16: God’s appearance causes the very foundations of the earth to shake; see Joel 3.16. 17: A voice . . . like the sound of mighty waters signifies direct address by God. The image is developed from the vision of Ezekiel (Ezek 1.24–25). Compare Rev 1.15; 14.2; 19.6. 18: Visit, bring judgment. 20: The books shall be opened, the heavenly books in which are written the deeds of humankind (Dan 7.10; 12.1; Mal 3.16; cf. Ex 32.32; Ps 69.28). The motif is also common in Christian writings roughly contemporary with chs 3–14 (Lk 10.20; Heb 12.23; Rev 20.12). 23: The trumpet shall sound, a common eschatological motif (1 Cor 15.52; 1 Thess and shall see my salvation and the end of my world.²⁶ And they shall see those who were taken up, who from their birth have not tasted death; and the heart of the earth's^a inhabitants shall be changed and converted to a different spirit.²⁷ For evil shall be blotted out, and deceit shall be quenched;²⁸ faithfulness shall flourish, and corruption shall be overcome, and the truth, which has been so long without fruit, shall be revealed."

²⁹ While he spoke to me, little by little the place where I was standing began to rock to and fro.^b ³⁰ And he said to me, "I have come to show you these things this night.^c ³¹ If therefore you will pray again and fast again for seven days, I will again declare to you greater things than these,^d ³² because your voice has surely been heard by the Most High; for the Mighty One has seen your uprightness and has also observed the purity that you have maintained from your youth.³³ Therefore he sent me to show you all these things, and to say to you: 'Believe and do not be afraid! ³⁴ Do not be quick to think vain thoughts concerning the former times; then you will not act hastily in the last times.'"

³⁵ Now after this I wept again and fasted seven days in the same way as before, in order to complete the three weeks that had been prescribed for me.³⁶ Then on the eighth night my heart was troubled within me again, and I began to speak in the presence of the Most High.³⁷ My spirit was greatly aroused, and my soul was in distress.

³⁸ I said, "O Lord, you spoke at the beginning of creation, and said on the first day, 'Let heaven and earth be made,' and your word accomplished the work.³⁹ Then the spirit was blowing, and darkness and silence embraced everything; the sound of human voices was not yet there.^e ⁴⁰ Then you commanded a ray of light to be brought out from your store-chambers, so that your works could be seen.

⁴¹ "Again, on the second day, you created the spirit of the firmament, and commanded it to divide and separate the waters, so that one part might move upward and the other part remain beneath.

⁴² "On the third day you commanded the waters to be gathered together in a seventh part of the earth; six parts you dried up and kept so that some of them might be planted and cultivated and be of service before you.

⁴³ For your word went forth, and at once the work was done.⁴⁴ Immediately fruit came forth in endless abundance and of varied appeal to the taste, and flowers of inimitable color, and odors of inexpressible fragrance. These were made on the third day.

⁴⁵ "On the fourth day you commanded the brightness of the sun, the light of the moon, and the arrangement of the stars to come into being;⁴⁶ and you commanded them to serve humankind, about to be formed.

⁴⁷ "On the fifth day you commanded the seventh part, where the water had been gathered together, to bring forth living creatures, birds, and fishes; and so it was done.⁴⁸ The dumb and lifeless water produced living creatures, as it was commanded, so that therefore the nations might declare your wondrous works.

^a Syr Compare Ethiop Arab 1 Arm: Lat lacks earth's

^b Syr Ethiop Compare Arab Arm: Meaning of Lat uncertain

^c Syr Compare Ethiop: Meaning of Lat uncertain

^d Syr Ethiop Arab 1 Arm: Lat adds by day

^e Syr Ethiop: Lat was not yet from you

4.16). 25: See my salvation, see 7.27; 9.8; 13.48,50; Ps 98.3; Isa 52.10; Lk 2.30. 26: Those who were taken up, such as Enoch (Gen 5.24; Sir 44.16) and Elijah (2 Kings 2.11–12); cf. 8.19; 14.9. 26–28: The transition from evil to truth.

6.30–34: The conclusion of the vision (compare 5.14–20). 34: The seer is cautioned against being presumptuous.

6.35–9.25: The third vision. 6.35–7.44: The first section of the third vision. 6.35–37: Introduction (cf. 3.1–3 and 5.21–22). 35: I . . . fasted seven days, see 5.13n. The three weeks (cf. Dan 10.2–3), so far only two fasts of seven days have been mentioned (here and at 5.20). The author may be referring to this as Ezra's third vision.

6.38–59: Addressing God, the seer recounts God's work in six days of creation. If the world was created for Israel (v. 55), why has the nation not possessed its inheritance? This is similar in theme and content to the addresses in 3.4–36 and 5.23–30. 38–54: A summary of creation, roughly following Gen 1. 42: A seventh part . . . six parts, although there is no exact parallel to this division in Genesis or other literature, explorers like Christopher

⁴⁹ “Then you kept in existence two living creatures;^a the one you called Behemoth^b and the name of the other Leviathan. ⁵⁰ And you separated one from the other, for the seventh part where the water had been gathered together could not hold them both. ⁵¹ And you gave Behemoth^b one of the parts that had been dried up on the third day, to live in it, where there are a thousand mountains; ⁵² but to Leviathan you gave the seventh part, the watery part; and you have kept them to be eaten by whom you wish, and when you wish.

⁵³ “On the sixth day you commanded the earth to bring forth before you cattle, wild animals, and creeping things; ⁵⁴ and over these you placed Adam, as ruler over all the works that you had made; and from him we have all come, the people whom you have chosen.

⁵⁵ “All this I have spoken before you, O Lord, because you have said that it was for us that you created this world.^c ⁵⁶ As for the other nations that have descended from Adam, you have said that they are nothing, and that they are like spittle, and you have compared their abundance to a drop from a bucket. ⁵⁷ And now, O Lord, these nations, which are reputed to be as nothing, domineer over us and devour us. ⁵⁸ But we your people, whom you have called your firstborn, only begotten, zealous for you,^d and most dear, have been given into their hands. ⁵⁹ If the world has indeed been created for us, why do we not possess our world as an inheritance? How long will this be so?”

7 When I had finished speaking these words, the angel who had been sent to me on the former nights was sent to me again.

² He said to me, “Rise, Ezra, and listen to the words that I have come to speak to you.”

³ I said, “Speak, my lord.” And he said to me, “There is a sea set in a wide expanse so that it is deep and vast,⁴ but it has an entrance set in a narrow place, so that it is like a river. ⁵ If there are those who wish to reach the sea, to look at it or to navigate it, how can they come to the broad part unless they pass through the narrow part? ⁶ Another example: There is a city built and set on a plain, and it is full of all good things; ⁷ but the entrance to it is narrow and set in a precipitous place, so that there is fire on the right hand and deep water on the left. ⁸ There is only one path lying between them, that is, between the fire and the water, so that only one person can walk on the path. ⁹ If now the city is given to someone as an inheritance, how will the heir receive the inheritance unless by passing through the appointed danger?”

¹⁰ I said, “That is right, lord.” He said to me, “So also is Israel’s portion. ¹¹ For I made the world for their sake, and when Adam transgressed my statutes, what had been made was judged. ¹² And so the entrances of this world were made narrow and sorrowful and toilsome; they are few and evil, full of dangers and involved in great hardships. ¹³ But the entrances of the greater world are broad and safe, and yield the fruit of immortality. ¹⁴ Therefore unless the living pass through the difficult and futile experiences, they can never receive those things that have been reserved for them. ¹⁵ Now therefore why are you disturbed, seeing that you are to perish? Why are you moved, seeing that you are mortal? ¹⁶ Why have you not considered in your mind what is to come, rather than what is now present?”

^a Syr Ethiop: Lat two souls

^b Other Lat authorities read Enoch

^c Syr Ethiop Arab 2: Lat the firstborn world Compare Arab 1 first world

^d Meaning of Lat uncertain

Columbus took this verse as an indicator of the world’s layout. 49–52: The land creature Behemoth and the sea creature Leviathan are two primeval monsters frequently found in Israelite mythology (see Job 7:12; 26:12–13; Pss 74:12–15; 89:10–11; Isa 30:7; 51:9–10). Their eschatological function is to serve as food for the elect (2 Apoc. Bar. 29.4; 1 Enoch 60.7–10). 55: For us (Israel) that you created this world, a notion developed from such passages as Ex 4:22; Deut 10:15; 14:2. See 7:11. 56: A drop from a bucket, Isa 40:15 (note especially the Septuagint version).

7:1–25: Dispute between Ezra and the angel. It is necessary first to undergo the trials of this world before one can receive the rewards of the next. 1: The former nights, 4:1; 5:31. 3–9: The angel tells two parables, of a sea and a city, to illustrate his point. 3: Sea, the world to come. 4: Narrow place, see also Mt 7:13–14; Lk 13:24. 11: By implication, the world was created entirely good for Israel’s sake, and when Adam transgressed, that inheritance

¹⁷Then I answered and said, “O sovereign Lord, you have ordained in your law that the righteous shall inherit these things, but that the ungodly shall perish. ¹⁸The righteous, therefore, can endure difficult circumstances while hoping for easier ones; but those who have done wickedly have suffered the difficult circumstances and will never see the easier ones.”

¹⁹He said to me, “You are not a better judge than the Lord,^a or wiser than the Most High!

²⁰Let many perish who are now living, rather than that the law of God that is set before them be disregarded! ²¹For the Lord^b strictly commanded those who came into the world, when they came, what they should do to live, and what they should observe to avoid punishment. ²²Nevertheless they were not obedient, and spoke against him;

they devised for themselves vain thoughts,^c ²³and proposed to themselves wicked frauds;

they even declared that the Most High does not exist,
 and they ignored his ways.

²⁴They scorned his law,
 and denied his covenants;
 they have been unfaithful to his statutes,
 and have not performed his works.

²⁵That is the reason, Ezra, that empty things are for the empty, and full things are for the full.

²⁶“For indeed the time will come, when the signs that I have foretold to you will come to pass, that the city that now is not seen shall appear,^c and the land that now is hidden shall be disclosed. ²⁷Everyone who has been delivered from the evils that I have foretold shall see my wonders. ²⁸For my son the Messiah^d shall be revealed with those who are with him, and those who remain shall rejoice four hundred years. ²⁹After those years my son the Messiah shall die, and all who draw human breath.^e

³⁰Then the world shall be turned back to primeval silence for seven days, as it was at the first beginnings, so that no one shall be left. ³¹After seven days the world that is not yet awake shall be roused, and that which is corruptible shall perish. ³²The earth shall give up those who are asleep in it, and the dust those who rest there in silence; and the chambers shall give up the souls that have been committed to them. ³³The Most High shall be revealed on the seat of judgment, and compassion shall pass away, and patience shall be withdrawn.^f ³⁴Only judgment shall remain, truth shall stand, and faithfulness shall grow strong. ³⁵Recompense shall follow, and the reward shall be manifested; righteous deeds shall awake, and unrighteous deeds shall not sleep.^g ³⁶The pit^h of torment shall appear,

^a Other ancient authorities read God; Ethiop Georg the only One

^b Other ancient authorities read God

^c Arm: Lat Syr that the bride shall appear, even the city appearing

^d Syr Arab 1: Ethiop my Messiah; Arab 2 the Messiah; Arm the Messiah of God; Lat my son Jesus

^e Arm all who have continued in faith and in patience

^f Lat shall gather together

^g The passage from verse 36 to verse 105, formerly missing, has been restored to the text

^h Syr Ethiop: Lat place

was despoiled (see 3.7,21). 12–13: This world . . . evil is contrasted with the greater world to come. 17: Cf. Deut 8.1; Ps 37.9. 17–18: The seer exhibits a heartfelt, characteristic concern for the ungodly but is told that their punishment is deserved (vv. 19–25). 21: Commanded, Deut 30:15–19.

7.26–44: Direct prediction of the future by the angel, again using classical apocalyptic signs (cf. 5.1–13; 6.11–29). In this section the focus is on God’s judgment (cf. Mt 25.31–46). 26: The city, the heavenly Jerusalem; see 10.25–54. 28: My son the Messiah, a term used often in this book (see 13.32,37,52; 14.9). The precise connection between this term and Christian notions of Jesus “the Messiah” as “son of God” is uncertain, and in any event is indirect. Those who are with him, 13.52; 14.9. 29: My son the Messiah shall die, this idea is unparalleled in Jewish sources. 30: Primeval silence, as before creation. See 6.39. 32: Dan 12.2. Chambers, see 4.35n. Resurrection precedes the day of judgment. 33–34: On the day of judgment, only judgment shall remain; mercy is put aside (see 7.104–5). 36–105: These verses are lacking from the standard editions of the Latin Vulgate, and from the King James Version. They are present in the Syriac, Ethiopic, Arabic, and Armenian versions, and in seven Latin manuscripts. The section was probably deliberately cut out of an ancestor of most surviving Latin manuscripts for dogmatic reasons, because the passage contains an emphatic denial of the value of prayers for the dead (v. 105). 36–38: There exist only two possible destinations for those who are judged: a place of reward and a place and opposite it shall be the place of rest; and the furnace of hell^a shall be disclosed, and opposite it the paradise of delight. ³⁷Then the Most High will say to the nations that have been raised from the dead, ‘Look now, and understand whom you have denied, whom you have not served, whose commandments you have despised. ³⁸Look on this side and on that; here are delight and rest, and there are fire and torments.’ Thus he will^b speak to them on the day of judgment—³⁹a day that has no sun or moon or stars, ⁴⁰or cloud or thunder or lightning, or wind or water or air, or darkness or evening or morning, ⁴¹or summer or spring or heat or winter^c or frost or cold, or hail or rain or dew, ⁴²or noon or night, or dawn or shining or brightness or light, but only the splendor of the glory of the Most High, by which all shall see what has been destined. ⁴³It will last as though for a week of years. ⁴⁴This is my judgment and its prescribed order; and to you alone I have shown these things.”

⁴⁵I answered and said, “O sovereign Lord, I said then and^d I say now: Blessed are those who are alive and keep your commandments! ⁴⁶But what of those for whom I prayed? For who among the living is there that has not sinned, or who is there among mortals that has not transgressed your covenant? ⁴⁷And now I see that the world to come will bring delight to few, but torments to many. ⁴⁸For an evil heart has grown up in us, which has alienated us from God,^e and has brought us into corruption and the ways of death, and has shown us the paths of perdition and removed us far from life—and that not merely for a few but for almost all who have been created.”

⁴⁹He answered me and said, “Listen to me, Ezra,^f and I will instruct you, and will admonish you once more. ⁵⁰For this reason the Most High has made not one world but two. ⁵¹Inasmuch as you have said that the righteous are not many but few, while the ungodly abound, hear the explanation for this.

⁵²“If you have just a few precious stones, will you add to them lead and clay?”^g ⁵³I said, “Lord, how could that be?” ⁵⁴And he said to me, “Not only that, but ask the earth and she will tell you; defer to her, and she will declare it to you. ⁵⁵Say to her, ‘You produce gold and silver and bronze, and also iron and lead and clay; ⁵⁶but silver is more abundant than gold, and bronze than silver, and iron than bronze, and lead than iron, and clay than lead.’

⁵⁷Judge therefore which things are precious and desirable, those that are abundant or those that are rare?”

⁵⁸I said, “O sovereign Lord, what is plentiful is of less worth, for what is more rare is more precious.”

⁵⁹He answered me and said, “Consider within yourself^h what you have thought, for the person who has what is hard to get rejoices more than the person who has what is plentiful. ⁶⁰So also will be the judgmentⁱ that I have promised; for I will rejoice over the few who shall be saved, because it is they who have made my glory to prevail now, and through them my name has now been honored. ⁶¹I will not grieve over the great number of those who perish; for it is they who are now like a mist, and are similar to a flame and

^a Lat Syr Ethiop Gehenna

^b Syr Ethiop Arab 1: Lat you shall

^c Or storm

^d Syr: Lat And I answered, “I said then, O Lord, and

^e Cn: Lat Syr Ethiop from these

^f Syr Arab 1 Georg: Lat Ethiop lack Ezra

^g Arab 1: Meaning of Lat Syr Ethiop uncertain

^h Syr Ethiop Arab 1: Meaning of Lat uncertain

ⁱ Syr Arab 1: Lat creation of punishment. See also 7.79–99. 36: Pit, Isa 38.17–18; Rev 9.2. 39–43: A description of the day of judgment; cf. Gen 8.22; Zech 14.6–7. 42: Isa 60.19–20; Rev 21.23. 42: The glory of the Most High is the revelation of God’s appearance, see 3.19; 7.60,112,122. 43: A week of years, seven years; cf. Dan 9.24,26.

7.45–8.3: The second section of the third vision. 45–74: Dispute between Ezra and the angel. God rejoices over the few who will be saved and does not lament the many wicked who perish. 45–48: Ezra again bemoans the fate of sinners. 46: Cf. 1 Kings 8.46; Prov 20.9. 48: An evil heart, see 3.20n. The ways of death affect nearly all; see 3.7–11. 52–57: Precious, that is, the righteous, as opposed to common metals and substances; see the smoke—they are set on fire and burn hotly, and are extinguished.”

⁶² I replied and said, “O earth, what have you brought forth, if the mind is made out of the dust like the other created things?

⁶³ For it would have been better if the dust itself had not been born, so that the mind might not have been made from it. ⁶⁴ But now the mind grows with us, and therefore we are tormented, because we perish and we know it. ⁶⁵ Let the human race lament, but let the wild animals of the field be glad; let all who have been born lament, but let the cattle and the flocks rejoice. ⁶⁶ It is much better with them than with us; for they do not look for a judgment, and they do not know of any torment or salvation promised to them after death. ⁶⁷ What does it profit us that we shall be preserved alive but cruelly tormented? ⁶⁸ For all who have been born are entangled in^a iniquities, and are full of sins and burdened with transgressions. ⁶⁹ And if after death we were not to come into judgment, perhaps it would have been better for us.”

⁷⁰ He answered me and said, “When the Most High made the world and Adam and all who have come from him, he first prepared the judgment and the things that pertain to the judgment. ⁷¹ But now, understand from your own words—for you have said that the mind grows with us. ⁷² For this reason, therefore, those who live on earth shall be tormented, because though they had understanding, they committed iniquity; and though they received the commandments, they did not keep them; and though they obtained the law, they dealt unfaithfully with what they received. ⁷³ What, then, will they have to say in the judgment, or how will they answer in the last times? ⁷⁴ How long the Most High has been patient with those who inhabit the world!—and not for their sake, but because of the times that he has foreordained.”

⁷⁵ I answered and said, “If I have found favor in your sight, O Lord, show this also to your servant: whether after death, as soon as everyone of us yields up the soul, we shall be kept in rest until those times come when you will renew the creation, or whether we shall be tormented at once?”

⁷⁶ He answered me and said, “I will show you that also, but do not include yourself with those who have shown scorn, or number yourself among those who are tormented.

⁷⁷ For you have a treasure of works stored up with the Most High, but it will not be shown to you until the last times. ⁷⁸ Now concerning death, the teaching is: When the decisive decree has gone out from the Most High that a person shall die, as the spirit leaves the body to return again to him who gave it, first of all it adores the glory of the Most High. ⁷⁹ If it is one of those who have shown scorn and have not kept the way of the Most High, who have despised his law and hated those who fear God—⁸⁰ such spirits shall not enter into habitations, but shall immediately wander about in torments, always grieving and sad, in seven ways. ⁸¹ The first way, because they have scorned the law of the Most High. ⁸² The second way, because they cannot now make a good repentance so that they may live. ⁸³ The third way, they shall see the reward laid up for those who have trusted the covenants of the Most High. ⁸⁴ The fourth way, they shall consider the torment laid up for themselves in the last days. ⁸⁵ The fifth way, they shall see how the habitations of the others are guarded by angels in profound quiet. ⁸⁶ The sixth way, they shall see how some of them will cross similar arguments in 8.1–3. 62–69: Ezra’s heated lament (better if . . . had not been born) is typical of his reactions to the angel’s arguments (see 4.12; 5.35). 64–68: The human race, aware of their sins and their fate, are worse off than the blissfully ignorant wild animals. Knowledge has adverse effects; cf. Gen 3.7. 72: Humans who are sinful deserve their fate.

^a Syr defiled with

7.75–101: Dialogic prediction of the future. The state of souls after death and before the judgment. 76–77: Do not include yourself, the angel repeatedly asserts that Ezra is specially favored by God (see 6.32–33; 7.44; 8.19,47–54; 13.53–56; 14.9). 77: A treasure of works, 8.33,36. Cf. Mt 6.20; Mk 10.21; Lk 12.33. 79–99: The fates of two different types of souls, good and evil, are laid out in parallel fashion. 80–87: Seven kinds of torment for the wicked; cf. Lk 16.19–31. 80: Habitations, elsewhere called “chambers,” see 4.35n. 85: Guarded by angels, see v.

over^a into torments. ⁸⁷The seventh way, which is worse^b than all the ways that have been mentioned, because they shall utterly waste away in confusion and be consumed with shame,^c and shall wither with fear at seeing the glory of the Most High in whose presence they sinned while they were alive, and in whose presence they are to be judged in the last times.

⁸⁸“Now this is the order of those who have kept the ways of the Most High, when they shall be separated from their mortal body.^d ⁸⁹During the time that they lived in it,^c they laboriously served the Most High, and withstood danger every hour so that they might keep the law of the Lawgiver perfectly. ⁹⁰Therefore this is the teaching concerning them: ⁹¹First of all, they shall see with great joy the glory of him who receives them, for they shall have rest in seven orders. ⁹²The first order, because they have striven with great effort to overcome the evil thought that was formed with them, so that it might not lead them astray from life into death. ⁹³The second order, because they see the perplexity in which the souls of the ungodly wander and the punishment that awaits them. ⁹⁴The third order, they see the witness that he who formed them bears concerning them, that throughout their life they kept the law with which they were entrusted. ⁹⁵The fourth order, they understand the rest that they now enjoy, being gathered into their chambers and guarded by angels in profound quiet, and the glory waiting for them in the last days. ⁹⁶The fifth order, they rejoice that they have now escaped what is corruptible and shall inherit what is to come; and besides they see the straits and toil^e from which they have been delivered, and the spacious liberty that they are to receive and enjoy in immortality. ⁹⁷The sixth order, when it is shown them how their face is to shine like the sun, and how they are to be made like the light of the stars, being incorruptible from then on. ⁹⁸The seventh order, which is greater than all that have been mentioned, because they shall rejoice with boldness, and shall be confident without confusion, and shall be glad without fear, for they press forward to see the face of him whom they served in life and from whom they are to receive their reward when glorified. ⁹⁹This is the order of the souls of the righteous, as henceforth is announced;^f and the previously mentioned are the ways of torment that those who would not give heed shall suffer hereafter.”

¹⁰⁰ Then I answered and said, “Will time therefore be given to the souls, after they have been separated from the bodies, to see what you have described to me?”

¹⁰¹ He said to me, “They shall have freedom for seven days, so that during these seven days they may see the things of which you have been told, and afterwards they shall be gathered in their habitations.”

¹⁰² I answered and said, “If I have found favor in your sight, show further to me, your servant, whether on the day of judgment the righteous will be able to intercede for the ungodly or to entreat the Most High for them—¹⁰³ fathers for sons or sons for parents, brothers for brothers, relatives for their kindred, or friends for those who are most dear.”

¹⁰⁴ He answered me and said, “Since you have found favor in my sight, I will show you this also. The day of judgment is decisive^g and displays to all the seal of truth. Just as now a father does not send his son, or a son his father, or a master his servant, or a friend his dearest friend, to be ill^a or sleep or eat or

^a Cn: Meaning of Lat uncertain

^b Lat Syr Ethiop greater

^c Syr Ethiop: Meaning of Lat uncertain

^d Lat the corruptible vessel

^e Syr Ethiop: Lat fullness

^f Syr: Meaning of Lat uncertain

^g Lat bold

95; 1 Enoch 100.5. 87: Glory, see 6.14–16; 7.42n. 88–99: Seven kinds of joyous rest for the righteous. Compare the teaching regarding death in Dan 12.2–3; Wis 3–5. 92: The evil thought, the evil “yetser” (see 3.20n.). 95: Chambers, see 4.35n. 97: Sun . . . stars, v. 125; Dan 12.3; Mt 13.43; 2 Bar. 51. 98: To see the face of God (Ex 33.20; 1 Jn 3.2; Rev 22.4). Reward, cf. Rev 22.12. 99–101: The souls of the righteous are gathered in their habitations (see 4.35n.), while the souls of the unjust wander aimlessly.

7.102–115: Dispute between Ezra and the angel, mainly concerning the idea that there will be no interces-be healed in his place,¹⁰⁵ so no one shall ever pray for another on that day, neither shall anyone lay a burden on another;^b for then all shall bear their own righteousness and unrighteousness.”

³⁶ ¹⁰⁶ I answered and said, “How then do we find that first Abraham prayed for the people of Sodom, and Moses for our ancestors who sinned in the desert,³⁷ ¹⁰⁷ and Joshua after him for Israel in the days of Achan,³⁸ ¹⁰⁸ and Samuel in the days of Saul,^c and David for the plague, and Solomon for those at the dedication,³⁹ ¹⁰⁹ and Elijah for those who received the rain, and for the one who was dead, that he might live,⁴⁰ ¹¹⁰ and Hezekiah for the people in the days of Sennacherib, and many others prayed for many?⁴¹ ¹¹¹ So if now, when corruption has increased and unrighteousness has multiplied, the righteous have prayed for the ungodly, why will it not be so then as well?”

⁴² ¹¹² He answered me and said, “This present world is not the end; the full glory does not^d remain in it;^e therefore those who were strong prayed for the weak.⁴³ ¹¹³ But the day of judgment will be the end of this age and the beginning^f of the immortal age to come, in which corruption has passed away,⁴⁴ ¹¹⁴ sinful indulgence has come to an end, unbelief has been cut off, and righteousness has increased and truth has appeared.⁴⁵ ¹¹⁵ Therefore no one will then be able to have mercy on someone who has been condemned in the judgment, or to harm^g someone who is victorious.”

⁴⁶ ¹¹⁶ I answered and said, “This is my first and last comment: it would have been better if the earth had not produced Adam, or else, when it had produced him, had restrained him from sinning.⁴⁷ ¹¹⁷ For what good is it to all that they live in sorrow now and expect punishment

after death?⁴⁸ ¹¹⁸ O Adam, what have you done? For though it was you who sinned, the fall was not yours alone, but ours also who are your descendants.⁴⁹ ¹¹⁹ For what good is it to us, if an immortal time has been promised to us, but we have done deeds that bring death?⁵⁰ ¹²⁰ And what good is it that an everlasting hope has been promised to us, but we have miserably failed?⁵¹ ¹²¹ Or that safe and healthful habitations have been reserved for us, but we have lived wickedly?⁵² ¹²² Or that the glory of the Most High will defend those who have led a pure life, but we have walked in the most wicked ways?⁵³ ¹²³ Or that a paradise shall be revealed, whose fruit remains unspoiled and in which are abundance and healing, but we shall not enter it⁵⁴ ¹²⁴ because we have lived in perverse ways?⁵⁵ ¹²⁵ Or that the faces of those who practiced self-control shall shine more than the stars, but our faces shall be blacker than darkness?⁵⁶ ¹²⁶ For while we lived and committed iniquity we did not consider what we should suffer after death.”

⁵⁷ ¹²⁷ He answered and said, “This is the significance of the contest that all who are born on earth shall wage:⁵⁸ ¹²⁸ if they are defeated they shall suffer what you have said, but if they are victorious they shall receive what I have said.⁵⁹ ¹²⁹ For this is the way of which Moses, while he was alive, spoke to the peo-

^a Syr Ethiop Arm: Lat to understand

^b Syr Ethiop: Lat lacks on that . . . another

^c Syr Ethiop Arab 1: Lat Arab 2 Arm lack in the days of Saul

^d Lat lacks not

^e Or the glory does not continuously abide in it

^f Syr Ethiop: Lat lacks the beginning

^g Syr Ethiop: Lat overwhelm

^h Cn: Lat Syr places

ⁱ Syr Ethiop Arab 1: Lat what I say

sion for the evil on the day of judgment (cf. Deut 24.16; Jer 31.30; Ezek 18.1–32). 104: Decisive, 7.33–34. 106: At v. 106 we come to the continuation of ch 7 as preserved in the standard editions of the Latin Vulgate (see. vv. 36–105n.); NRSV resumes the Latin numbering here, designating verses 106–140 as 36–70, but with the numbers 106–140 in italics added as well. 106: Abraham, Gen 18.23; Moses, Ex 32.11. 107: Joshua, Josh 7.6–7. 108: Samuel, 1 Sam 7.9; 12.23. David, 2 Sam 24.17. Solomon, 1 Kings 8.22–23,30. 109: Elijah, 1 Kings 18.42,45; 17.20–21. 110: Hezekiah, 2 Kings 19.15–19. 112–115: The angel again contrasts the present and future ages. 7.116–8.3: Further dispute between Ezra and the angel, returning to the issue of the seeming unfairness of the human condition. 7.116–126: Ezra again laments the fate of humans (cf. 4.12,22–24; 5.35; 7.62–69). 116: My first . . . comment, 3.5–7. See also Job 3. 118: 3.7–10; 4.30–31. 123: Fruit, cf. Ezek 47.12; Rev 22.2. 125: Shine more than the stars, see 7.97n. Darkness, 1 Enoch 62.10. 127–131: The idea of life as a contest, in which one can be defeated or victorious. 129: Moses, Deut 30.19. 130: Prophets, 2 Chr 36.15–16; cf. Mt 5.17; 23.31–37. 132–140: As the angel had quoted scripture

ple, saying, ‘Choose life for yourself, so that you may live!’^{60 130} But they did not believe him or the prophets after him, or even myself who have spoken to them.^{61 131} Therefore there shall not be^a grief at their destruction, so much as joy over those to whom salvation is assured.”

^{62 132} I answered and said, “I know, O Lord, that the Most High is now called merciful, because he has mercy on those who have not yet come into the world,^{63 133} and gracious, because he is gracious to those who turn in repentance to his law;^{64 134} and patient, because he shows patience toward those who have sinned, since they are his own creatures;^{65 135} and bountiful, because he would rather give than take away,^{b 66 136} and abundant in compassion, because he makes his compassions abound more and more to those now living and to those who are gone and to those yet to come—^{67 137} for if he did not make them abound, the world with those who inhabit it would not have life—^{68 138} and he is called the giver, because if he did not give out of his goodness so that those who have committed iniquities might be relieved of them, not one ten-thousandth of humankind could have life;^{69 139} and the judge, because if he did not pardon those who were created by his word and blot out the multitude of their sins,^{c 70 140} there would probably be left only very few of the innumerable multitude.”

8 He answered me and said, “The Most High made this world for the sake of many, but the world to come for the sake of only a few.² But I tell you a parable, Ezra. Just as, when you ask the earth, it will tell you that it provides a large amount of clay from which earthenware is made, but only a little dust from which gold comes, so is the course of the present world.³ Many have been created, but only a few shall be saved.”

⁴ I answered and said, “Then drink your fill of understanding,^d O my soul, and drink wisdom, O my heart.⁵ For not of your own will did you come into the world,^e and against your will you depart, for you have been given only a short time to live.⁶ O Lord above us, grant to your servant that we may pray before you, and give us a seed for our heart and cultivation of our understanding so that fruit may be produced, by which every mortal who bears the likeness^f of a human being may be able to live.⁷ For you alone exist, and we are a work of your hands, as you have declared.⁸ And because you give life to the body that is now fashioned in the womb, and furnish it with members, what you have created is preserved amid fire and water, and for nine months the womb⁹ endures your creature that has been created in it.⁹ But that which keeps and that which is kept shall both be kept by your keeping.^e And when the womb gives up again what has been created in it,¹⁰ you have commanded that from the members themselves (that is, from the breasts) milk, the fruit of the breasts, should be supplied,¹¹ so that what has been fashioned may be nourished for a time; and afterwards you will still guide it in your mercy.¹² You have nurtured it in your righteousness, and instructed it in your law, and reprovéd it in your wisdom.¹³ You put it to death as your creation, and make it live as your work.¹⁴ If then you will suddenly and quickly^h destroy what with so great labor was fashioned by your command, to what purpose was it made?¹⁵ And now I will speak

^a Syr: Lat there was not

^b Or he is ready to give according to requests

^c Lat contempts

^d Syr: Lat Then release understanding

^e Syr: Meaning of Lat uncertain

^f Syr: Lat place

^g Lat what you have formed

^h Syr: Lat will with a light command

(Deut 30.19), the seer responds with a rabbinic-like exegesis, or “midrash,” of Ex 34.6–7. He pleads that God is now called merciful . . . and gracious . . . and patient. 138: Life, eternal life. 8.1–3: The angel repeats the arguments and parable used in 7.52–61. 3: Cf. Mt 22.14.

8.4–9.25: The third section of the third vision. 8.4–19a: Monologue of Ezra: Why should God wonderfully fashion and sustain all humankind, only to destroy a great majority? 6: Ezra seeks a seed . . . so that fruit may be produced that will counteract the effect of the evil seed . . . sown in Adam's heart (4.30). 7: You alone exist, a confession of God's sovereignty, see Deut 4.35; 6.4; Isa 44.6; 45.11; 60.21. 8–14: The enigma of God's creative activity

out: About all humankind you know best; but I will speak about your people, for whom I am grieved,¹⁶ and about your inheritance, for whom I lament, and about Israel, for whom I am sad, and about the seed of Jacob, for whom I am troubled.¹⁷ Therefore I will pray before you for myself and for them, for I see the failings of us who inhabit the earth;¹⁸ and now also^a I have heard of the swiftness of the judgment that is to come.¹⁹ Therefore hear my voice and understand my words, and I will speak before you.”

The beginning of the words of Ezra's prayer,^b before he was taken up. He said:²⁰ “O Lord, you who inhabit eternity,^c whose eyes are exalted^d and whose upper chambers are in the air,²¹ whose throne is beyond measure and whose glory is beyond comprehension, before whom the hosts of angels stand trembling²² and at whose command they are changed to wind and fire,^e whose word is sure and whose utterances are certain, whose command is strong and whose ordinance is terrible,²³ whose look dries up the depths and whose indignation makes the mountains melt away, and whose truth is established^f forever—²⁴ hear, O Lord, the prayer of your servant, and give ear to the petition of your creature; attend to my words.²⁵ For as long as I live I will speak, and as long as I have understanding I will answer.²⁶ O do not look on the sins of your people, but on those who serve you in truth.²⁷ Do not take note of the endeavors of those who act wickedly, but of the endeavors of those who have kept your covenants amid afflictions.²⁸ Do not think of those who have lived wickedly in your sight, but remember those who have willingly acknowledged that you are to be feared.²⁹ Do not will the destruction of those who have the ways of cattle, but regard those who have gloriously taught your law.³⁰ Do not be angry with those who are deemed worse than wild animals, but love those who have always put their trust in your glory.³¹ For we and our ancestors have passed our lives in ways that bring death;^h but it is because of us sinners that you are called merciful.³² For if you have desired to have pity on us, who have no works of righteousness, then you will be called merciful.³³ For the righteous, who have many works laid up with you, shall receive their reward in consequence of their own deeds.³⁴ But what are mortals, that you are angry with them; or what is a corruptible race, that you are so bitter against it? ³⁵ For in truth there is no one among those who have been born who has not acted wickedly; among those who have existedⁱ there is no one who has not done wrong.³⁶ For in this, O Lord, your righteousness and goodness will

^a Syr: Lat but

^b Syr Ethiop; Lat beginning of Ezra's words

^c Or you who abide forever

^d Another Lat text reads whose are the highest heavens

^e Syr: Lat they whose service takes the form of wind and fire

^f Arab 2: Other authorities read truth bears witness

^g Syr have received the brightness of your law

^h Syr Ethiop: Meaning of Lat uncertain

ⁱ Syr: Meaning of Lat uncertain and providential care followed by destruction recalls Job 10.8–13. 15–16: The seer leaves the fate of humankind in God's hands, and speaks particularly about Israel, God's inheritance (Ps 28.9). 17: I will pray, in 8.19b–36.

8.19b–36: Ezra's prayer, a beautiful and liturgically structured piece (invocation to God, whose attributes are recalled, vv. 20–23; petitions, interspersed with confession and intercessions, vv. 24–35; concluding ascription of praise, v. 36). This prayer also occurs separately, with the title “Confessio Esdrae,” in the section of canticles and hymns contained in many manuscripts of the Latin Vulgate Bible. This circumstance probably accounts for the presence (in v. 19b) of a superscription in the third person. 19b: The words before he was taken up point to the belief that Ezra, like Enoch and Elijah, was taken up to heaven without dying (see 6.26n.). 20: Upper chambers, see Ps 104.3; Amos 9.6. 21: Hosts of angels are a traditional element in the description of the heavenly throne room; see 1 Kings 22.19; Isa 6.2–3; Dan 7.9–10; Rev 5.11–12; 7.11–12. 22: Wind and fire, Ps 104.4; Heb 1.7. 23: Dries up, Isa 50.2; 51.10. Mountains melt, Mic 1.4; Sir 16.18–19. 26–36: A strikingly developed series of rhetorical contrasts between sinners and the righteous introduces an appeal to the mercy of God, the quality highlighted in the influential liturgical formula found in Ex 34.6–7. See also 7.132–140n. 33–36: Ezra is concerned not for those who have many works laid up with God (see 7.77), but for those who have no store of good works (v. 36). 34: Cf. Ps 8.4.

be declared, when you are merciful to those who have no store of good works.”

³⁷ He answered me and said, “Some things you have spoken rightly, and it will turn out according to your words. ³⁸ For indeed I will not concern myself about the fashioning of those who have sinned, or about their death, their judgment, or their destruction; ³⁹ but I will rejoice over the creation of the righteous, over their pilgrimage also, and their salvation, and their receiving their reward. ⁴⁰ As I have spoken, therefore, so it shall be.

⁴¹ “For just as the farmer sows many seeds in the ground and plants a multitude of seedlings, and yet not all that have been sown will come up^a in due season, and not all that were planted will take root; so also those who have been sown in the world will not all be saved.”

⁴² I answered and said, “If I have found favor in your sight, let me speak. ⁴³ If the farmer’s seed does not come up, because it has not received your rain in due season, or if it has been ruined by too much rain, it perishes.^b

⁴⁴ But people, who have been formed by your hands and are called your own image because they are made like you, and for whose sake you have formed all things—have you also made them like the farmer’s seed? ⁴⁵ Surely not, O Lord^c above! But spare your people and have mercy on your inheritance, for you have mercy on your own creation.”

⁴⁶ He answered me and said, “Things that are present are for those who live now, and things that are future are for those who will live hereafter. ⁴⁷ For you come far short of being able to love my creation more than I love it. But you have often compared yourself^d to the unrighteous. Never do so! ⁴⁸ But even in this respect you will be praiseworthy before the Most High, ⁴⁹ because you have humbled yourself, as is becoming for you, and have not considered yourself to be among the righteous. You will receive the greatest glory,⁵⁰ for many miseries will affect those who inhabit the world in the last times, because they have walked in great pride. ⁵¹ But think of your own case, and inquire concerning the glory of those who are like yourself, ⁵² because it is for you that paradise is opened, the tree of life is planted, the age to come is prepared, plenty is provided, a city is built, rest is appointed,^e goodness is established and wisdom perfected beforehand. ⁵³ The root of evil^f is sealed up from you, illness is banished from you, and death^g is hidden; Hades has fled and corruption has been forgotten,^h ⁵⁴ sorrows have passed away, and in the end the treasure of immortality is made manifest. ⁵⁵ Therefore do not ask any more questions about the great number of those who perish. ⁵⁶ For when they had opportunity to choose, they despised the Most High, and were contemptuous of his law, and abandoned his ways. ⁵⁷ Moreover, they have even trampled on his righteous ones, ⁵⁸ and said in their hearts that there is no God—though they knew well that they must die. ⁵⁹ For just as the things that I have predicted awaitⁱ you, so the thirst and torment that are prepared await them. For the Most High did not intend that anyone should be destroyed; ⁶⁰ but those who were created have themselves defiled the name of him who made them, and have been ungrateful to him

^a Syr Ethiop will live; Lat will be saved

^b Cn: Compare Syr Arab 1 Arm Georg 2: Meaning of Lat uncertain

^c Ethiop Arab Compare Syr: Lat lacks O Lord

^d Syr Ethiop: Lat brought yourself near

^e Syr Ethiop: Lat allowed

^f Lat lacks of evil

^g Syr Ethiop Arm: Lat lacks death

^h Syr: Lat Hades and corruption have fled into oblivion; or corruption has fled into Hades to be forgotten

ⁱ Syr: Lat will receive

8.37–62a: Dispute between Ezra and the angel. 37–40: God’s reply to Ezra’s prayer is characteristic (see 7.60–61; 7.127–131). As after 7.132–140, Ezra’s plea for mercy goes unacknowledged. In stating that God will not concern himself with sinners but will rejoice over . . . the righteous, the angel playfully admits that Ezra has ironically spoken rightly about some things, namely, in Ezra’s plea (vv. 26–36) that God ignore the wicked and pay attention only to the righteous. 41–45: To God’s analogy of seeds (cf. Mt 13.3–9), Ezra protests that surely humans are more valuable than plants. 46–62a: The final divine reply: The seer is assured that his lot is with the blessed and is advised to think no more about sinners, who deserve their doom because they have despised the Most High (v. 56). 46: 7.14–18, 25. 47: See 5.33; 7.76–77n. 48–54: The angel praises Ezra’s character and offers a list of delights awaiting those who are like him (see 14.9). 52: Paradise, 7.123; tree of life, Gen 2.9; Rev 2.7; 22.2. City, the who prepared life for them now.⁶¹ Therefore my judgment is now drawing near; ⁶²I have not shown this to all people, but only to you and a few like you.”

Then I answered and said, ⁶³“O Lord, you have already shown me a great number of the signs that you will do in the last times, but you have not shown me when you will do them.”

9 He answered me and said, “Measure carefully in your mind, and when you see that some of the predicted signs have occurred, ²then you will know that it is the very time when the Most High is about to visit the world that he has made. ³So when there shall appear in the world earthquakes, tumult of peoples, intrigues of nations, wavering of leaders, confusion of princes, ⁴then you will know that it was of these that the Most High spoke from the days that were of old, from the beginning. ⁵For just as with everything that has occurred in the world, the beginning is evident,^a and the end manifest; ⁶so also are the times of the Most High: the beginnings are manifest in wonders and mighty works, and the end in penalties^b and in signs.

⁷“It shall be that all who will be saved and will be able to escape on account of their works, or on account of the faith by which they have believed, ⁸will survive the dangers that have been predicted, and will see my salvation in my land and within my borders, which I have sanctified for myself from the beginning. ⁹Then those who have now abused my ways shall be amazed, and those who have rejected them with contempt shall live in torments. ¹⁰For as many as did not acknowledge me in their lifetime, though they received my benefits, ¹¹and as many as scorned my law while they still had freedom, and did not understand but despised it^c while an opportunity of repentance was still open to them, ¹²these must in torment acknowledge it^c after death. ¹³Therefore, do not continue to be curious about how the ungodly will be punished; but inquire how the righteous will be saved, those to whom the age belongs and for whose sake the age was made.”^d

¹⁴I answered and said, ¹⁵“I said before, and I say now, and will say it again: there are more who perish than those who will be saved, ¹⁶as a wave is greater than a drop of water.”

¹⁷He answered me and said, “As is the field, so is the seed; and as are the flowers, so are the colors; and as is the work, so is the product; and as is the farmer, so is the threshing floor. ¹⁸For there was a time in this age when I was preparing for those who now exist, before the world was made for them to live in, and no one opposed me then, for no one existed; ¹⁹but now those who have been created in this world, which is supplied both with an unailing table and an inexhaustible pasture,^e have become corrupt in their ways. ²⁰So I considered my world, and saw that it was lost. I saw that my earth was in peril because of the devices of those who^f had come into it. ²¹And I saw and spared some^g with great difficulty, and saved for myself one grape out of a cluster, and one plant out of a great forest.^h ²²So let the multitude perish that has been born in vain, but let my grape

^a Syr: Ethiop is in the word; Meaning of Lat uncertain

^b Syr: Lat Ethiop in effects

^c Or me

^d Syr: Lat saved, and whose is the age and for whose sake the age was made and when

^e Cn: Lat law

^f Cn: Lat devices that

^g Lat them

^h Syr Ethiop Arab 1: Lat tribe

heavenly Jerusalem; see 7.26; 10.27,44,54. 53: Hades, the realm of the dead. 58: Cf. Pss 14.1; 53.1. 59: Torment, 7.80–87. 61: Drawing near, see 4.50; 5.55. 62: Only to you, see 7.44. A few like you, see 8.51; 14.9,46.

8.62b–9.22: Direct prediction of the future by the angel, now in response to Ezra’s request, and again using the key word signs (v. 63) (cf. 5.1–13; 6.11–29; 7.26–44). 8.63: When, see 4.33; Mk 13.4. 9.1–4: The author uses classical apocalyptic signs (see Mk 13.7–8,29). 7: Able to escape, cf. 13.23; Mk 13.14–16. The author counts both works and faith as valid criteria for salvation. 8: See my salvation, cf. Mk 13.13. Within my borders, 12.34; 13.48. 9: Torments, 7.79–87. 11: Scorned . . . despised, 7.22–24,37,72,79–81; 8.56–60. 13: 8.38–39,55. For whose sake, 6.59; 7.11. 14–22: The final explanation of why so few are saved: The many have become corrupt in their ways. Cf. Gen 6.5, where the corruption of humankind provokes the flood, which kills all but Noah and his family. 22: Let the multitude perish, God disclaims responsibility for the fates of the mass of humanity.

and my plant be saved, because with much labor I have perfected them.

²³ “Now, if you will let seven days more pass—do not, however, fast during them, ²⁴ but go into a field of flowers where no house has been built, and eat only of the flowers of the field, and taste no meat and drink no wine, but eat only flowers—²⁵ and pray to the Most High continually, then I will come and talk with you.”

²⁶ So I went, as he directed me, into the field that is called Ardat;^a there I sat among the flowers and ate of the plants of the field, and the nourishment they afforded satisfied me. ²⁷ After seven days, while I lay on the grass, my heart was troubled again as it was before. ²⁸ Then my mouth was opened, and I began to speak before the Most High, and said, ²⁹ “O Lord, you showed yourself among us, to our ancestors in the wilderness when they came out from Egypt and when they came into the untrodden and unfruitful wilderness; ³⁰ and you said, ‘Hear me, O Israel, and give heed to my words, O descendants of Jacob. ³¹ For I sow my law in you, and it shall bring forth fruit in you, and you shall be glorified through it forever.’ ³² But though our ancestors received the law, they did not keep it and did not observe the^b statutes; yet the fruit of the law did not perish—for it could not, because it was yours. ³³ Yet those who received it perished, because they did not keep what had been sown in them. ³⁴ Now this is the general rule that, when the ground has received seed, or the sea a ship, or any dish food or drink, and when it comes about that what was sown or what was launched or what was put in is destroyed, ³⁵ they are destroyed, but the things that held them remain; yet with us it has not been so. ³⁶ For we who have received the law and sinned will perish, as well as our hearts that received it; ³⁷ the law, however, does not perish but survives in its glory.”

³⁸ When I said these things in my heart, I looked around,^c and on my right I saw a woman; she was mourning and weeping with a loud voice, and was deeply grieved at heart; her clothes were torn, and there were ashes on her head. ³⁹ Then I dismissed the thoughts with which I had been engaged, and turned to her ⁴⁰ and said to her, “Why are you weeping, and why are you grieved at heart?”

⁴¹ She said to me, “Let me alone, my lord, so that I may weep for myself and continue to mourn, for I am greatly embittered in spirit and deeply distressed.”

⁴² I said to her, “What has happened to you? Tell me.”

⁴³ And she said to me, “Your servant was barren and had no child, though I lived with my husband for thirty years. ⁴⁴ Every hour and every day during those thirty years I prayed to the Most High, night and day. ⁴⁵ And after thirty years God heard your servant, and looked upon my low estate, and considered my distress, and gave me a son. I rejoiced greatly over him, I and my husband

^a Syr Ethiop Arpad; Arm Ardab

^b Lat my

^c Syr Arab Arm: Lat I looked about me with my eyes

9.23–25: Conclusion and injunctions. Ezra’s prescribed diet of flowers recalls Dan 1.8–16 (cf. 2 Macc 5.27). 24: Where no house has been built, see 10.51–54.

9.26–10.59: The fourth vision. 9.26–28: Introduction. 26: Ardat, an unknown location. 27: As it was before, before each of the first three visions.

9.29–37: Ezra’s address. Instead of challenging God, as he had done in the first three visions, Ezra praises the law, which survives in its glory despite the perishing of humankind, its vessel. 29: An allusion to the theophany at Mount Sinai, Ex 19.9; 24.10; Deut 4.12. 30–37: Unlike the normal case, where the container outlasts what is placed in it, with humankind it is just the opposite: We perish, while God’s law, implanted within us, survives intact. 30: Hear me, O Israel, Deut 6.4. 31: See 3.20.

9.38–10.4: The first part of the vision. Ezra converses with a disconsolate woman. The sudden departure from the pattern of the first three visions, wherein the angel had appeared, signals a shift in tone. 9.38: Clothes were torn, ashes, signs of mourning; Josh 7.6; Job 2.12–13. 39: I dismissed the thoughts, for the first time in the book, Ezra turns his attention from his own concerns to those of another (see also 10.5). 40: Now it is the woman who is weeping and grieved, as Ezra had been during the first three visions. 45: After thirty years, see 3.1. Like Sarah (Gen 18.11–14), Hannah (1 Sam 1.20), and Elizabeth (Lk 1.24), the woman conceives a child in her old and all my neighbors;^a and we gave great glory to the Mighty One. ⁴⁶ And I brought him up with much care. ⁴⁷ So when he grew up and I came to take a wife for him, I set a day for the marriage feast.

10 “But it happened that when my son entered his wedding chamber, he fell down and died. ² So all of us put out our lamps, and all my neighbors^a attempted to console me; I remained quiet until the evening of the second day. ³ But when all of them had stopped consoling me, encouraging me to be quiet, I got up in the night and fled, and I came to this field, as you see. ⁴ And now I intend not to return to the town, but to stay here; I will neither eat nor drink, but will mourn and fast continually until I die.”

⁵ Then I broke off the reflections with which I was still engaged, and answered her in anger and said, ⁶ “You most foolish of women, do you not see our mourning, and what has happened to us? ⁷ For Zion, the mother of us all, is in deep grief and great distress. ⁸ It is most appropriate to mourn now, because we are all mourning, and to be sorrowful, because we are all sorrowing; you are sorrowing for one son, but we, the whole world, for our mother.^b ⁹ Now ask the earth, and she will tell you that it is she who ought to mourn over so many who have come into being upon her. ¹⁰ From the beginning all have been born of her, and others will come; and, lo, almost all go^c to perdition, and a multitude of them will come to doom. ¹¹ Who then ought to mourn the more, she who lost so great a multitude, or you who are grieving for one alone? ¹² But if you say to me, ‘My lamentation is not like the earth’s, for I have lost the fruit of my womb, which I brought forth in pain and bore in sorrow; ¹³ but it is with the earth according to the way of the earth—the multitude that is now in it goes as it came’; ¹⁴ then I say to you, ‘Just as you brought forth in sorrow, so the earth also has from the beginning given her fruit, that is, humankind, to him who made her.’ ¹⁵ Now, therefore, keep your sorrow to yourself, and bear bravely the troubles that have come upon you. ¹⁶ For if you acknowledge the decree of God to be just, you will receive your son back in due time, and will be praised among women. ¹⁷ Therefore go into the town to your husband.”

¹⁸ She said to me, “I will not do so; I will not go into the city, but I will die here.”

¹⁹ So I spoke again to her, and said, ²⁰ “Do not do that, but let yourself be persuaded—for how many are the adversities of Zion?—and be consoled because of the sorrow of Jerusalem. ²¹ For you see how our sanctuary has been laid waste, our altar thrown down, our temple destroyed; ²² our harp has been laid low, our song has been silenced, and our rejoicing has been ended; the light of our lampstand has been put out, the ark of our covenant has been plundered, our holy things have been polluted, and the name by which we are called has been almost profaned; our

^a Literally all my citizens

^b Compare Syr: Meaning of Lat uncertain

^c Literally walk

age. 10.1: Cf. Tob 7:11; 8.10. 4: Mourn and fast, as Ezra had done previously.

10.5–24: The second part of the vision. Ezra tries to convince the woman of the relative insignificance of her own sorrows in relation to the broader concerns of the whole world (v. 8), just as the angel had done with Ezra in the earlier visions. 5: Broke off the reflections, as before (dismissed the thoughts, 9.39), Ezra is forced to leave aside his prior concerns. 5–6: In anger . . . you most foolish, Ezra’s highly emotional disposition, evident in the first three visions, continues here, but is redirected. 7: Zion, the mother of us all, Isa 50.1; Jer 50.12; Bar 4.8–5.9; Gal 4.26. For Zion in deep grief, see Lam 1.12–22. 9–10: Ezra’s arguments recall those of the angel in the first three visions. 9: Ask the earth, who is also the mother of all humankind (v. 10). Thus, the figure of the mother functions on three levels: Ezra’s interlocutor, Zion (Jerusalem), and the whole earth. 10: This is the perspective Ezra refused to accept in the third vision. 16: If you acknowledge, as the angel had earlier encouraged Ezra to do. You will receive your son back in due time, perhaps in the resurrection; Heb 11.35; 2 Macc 7.23,29. 18: I will not, the woman’s stubbornness recalls Ezra’s earlier attitude. 21–23: Ezra sadly recalls the desolation of Jerusalem (cf. Lam 1.10; 2.7; 1 Macc 1.36–40; 2.7–13); ultimately, this refers to the destruction of the city in 70 ce. 22: Harp symbolizes the service of praise. The extinction of the perpetually burning lamp marked the cessation of Temple services. Our holy things are enumerated in 1 Macc 4.49–51. The name “Israel” was bestowed by God (Gen 32.28).

children^a have suffered abuse, our priests have been burned to death, our Levites have gone into exile, our virgins have been defiled, and our wives have been ravished; our righteous men^b have been carried off, our little ones have been cast out, our young men have been enslaved and our strong men made powerless.²³ And, worst of all, the seal of Zion has been deprived of its glory, and given over into the hands of those that hate us.²⁴ Therefore shake off your great sadness and lay aside your many sorrows, so that the Mighty One may be merciful to you again, and the Most High may give you rest, a respite from your troubles.”

²⁵ While I was talking to her, her face suddenly began to shine exceedingly; her countenance flashed like lightning, so that I was too frightened to approach her, and my heart was terrified. While^c I was wondering what this meant,²⁶ she suddenly uttered a loud and fearful cry, so that the earth shook at the sound.²⁷ When I looked up, the woman was no longer visible to me, but a city was being built,^d and a place of huge foundations showed itself. I was afraid, and cried with a loud voice and said,²⁸ “Where is the angel Uriel, who came to me at first? For it was he who brought me into this overpowering bewilderment; my end has become corruption, and my prayer a reproach.”

²⁹ While I was speaking these words, the angel who had come to me at first came to me, and when he saw me³⁰ lying there like a corpse, deprived of my understanding, he grasped my right hand and strengthened me and set me on my feet, and said to me,³¹ “What is the matter with you? And why are you troubled? And why are your understanding and the thoughts of your mind troubled?”

³² I said, “It was because you abandoned me. I did as you directed, and went out into the field, and lo, what I have seen and can still see, I am unable to explain.”

³³ He said to me, “Stand up like a man, and I will instruct you.”

³⁴ I said, “Speak, my lord; only do not forsake me, so that I may not die before my time.^e ³⁵ For I have seen what I did not know, and I hear^f what I do not understand³⁶—or is my mind deceived, and my soul dreaming?³⁷ Now therefore I beg you to give your servant an explanation of this bewildering vision.”

³⁸ He answered me and said, “Listen to me, and I will teach you, and tell you about the things that you fear; for the Most High has revealed many secrets to you.³⁹ He has seen your righteous conduct, and that you have sorrowed continually for your people and mourned greatly over Zion.⁴⁰ This therefore is the meaning of the vision.⁴¹ The woman who appeared to you a little while ago, whom you saw mourning and whom you began to console⁴² (you do not now see the form of a woman, but there appeared to you a city being built)^g⁴³ and who

^a Ethiop free men

^b Syr our seers

^c Syr Ethiop Arab 1: Lat lacks I was too . . . terrified. While

^d Lat: Syr Ethiop Arab 1 Arab 2 Arm but there was an established city

^e Syr Ethiop Arab: Lat die to no purpose

^f Other ancient authorities read have heard

^g Lat: Syr Ethiop Arab 1 Arab 2 Arm an established city

23: The seal . . . has been deprived of its glory, i.e., the city is under enemy control. 24: In Ezra’s final words to the woman, he has fully become a consoler to her, just as the angel earlier had been to him.

10.25–27a: A vision of the transformed Jerusalem. 25: Suddenly began to shine, the figure of the woman had only been a foil for the inner transformation of Ezra, who is now worthy to receive the vision. 27: A city was being built, Zech 2.1–5; Rev 21.9–21. Jerusalem, whose destruction was movingly described in vv. 21–23, is being transformed or rebuilt in a way open only to visionary experience.

10.27b–37: The appearance of the angel. 28: At first, 4.1. Although the angel (Uriel; 4.1) has had no part in this vision, it is he upon whom Ezra immediately calls for guidance. 30: Like a corpse, cf. Dan 8.18; 10.9; Rev 1.17. 32: And can still see, the vision is still before the seer’s eyes. The seer is unable to explain the vision, much as he had earlier been unable to come to terms with the angel’s more rational explanations. 33: Cf. Job 38.3; 40.7; see 5.15; 6.13,17; 7.2. 34–37: Cf. 12.3b–9; 13.13b–15. 34: Do not forsake me, Ezra’s plea is ironic. See 5.18 and 12.41, where Ezra’s compatriots beg him not to “forsake” them.

10.38–54: Interpretation of the vision. 38–39: See 7.76–77n. 44: Zion, the transformed Jerusalem. 45: Three

told you about the misfortune of her son—this is the interpretation: ⁴⁴The woman whom you saw is Zion, which you now behold as a city being built. ^a ⁴⁵And as for her telling you that she was barren for thirty years, the reason is that there were three thousand^b years in the world before any offering was offered in it. ^c ⁴⁶And after three thousand^d years Solomon built the city, and offered offerings; then it was that the barren woman bore a son. ⁴⁷And as for her telling you that she brought him up with much care, that was the period of residence in Jerusalem. ⁴⁸And as for her saying to you, ‘My son died as he entered his wedding chamber,’ and that misfortune had overtaken her, ^e this was the destruction that befell Jerusalem. ⁴⁹So you saw her likeness, how she mourned for her son, and you began to console her for what had happened. ^f ⁵⁰For now the Most High, seeing that you are sincerely grieved and profoundly distressed for her, has shown you the brilliance of her glory, and the loveliness of her beauty. ⁵¹Therefore I told you to remain in the field where no house had been built, ⁵²for I knew that the Most High would reveal these things to you. ⁵³Therefore I told you to go into the field where there was no foundation of any building, ⁵⁴because no work of human construction could endure in a place where the city of the Most High was to be revealed.

⁵⁵“Therefore do not be afraid, and do not let your heart be terrified; but go in and see the splendor or^g the vastness of the building, as far as it is possible for your eyes to see it, ⁵⁶and afterward you will hear as much as your ears can hear. ⁵⁷For you are more blessed than many, and you have been called to be with^h the Most High as few have been.

thousand years, the time between the creation of the world and construction of the Temple. 46: A son, the historical Jerusalem. Solomon, although David established Jerusalem as an Israelite city, Solomon built the Temple (1 Kings 5–6). 48: The destruction, see 10.21–23 and note. In its context, this passage refers to the destruction of Jerusalem in 586 BCE. 49: Zion, in the universal sense, mourned for the destruction of her physical manifestation, the earthly city. 49–50: Ezra’s vision is a direct reward for his sincere consolation of the mourning woman (see 10.41).

10.55–59: Conclusion and injunctions. 55–56: Go in and see, the city is conceived as still present to Ezra (see vv. 32, 42, 44). 59: The remainder of the book will consist of dream visions rather than argumentation.

11.1–12.51: The fifth vision (the eagle vision). 11.1–12.3a: Description of the vision. 11.1: The interpretation of the fifth vision that is set forth in the notes to 11.1–12.3a anticipates that given in the text of 2 Esdras itself in 12.10–36. From the sea, Dan 7.3; Rev 13.1. An eagle, symbol of the Roman Empire, used on the standards of Roman legions 2: Spread its wings, asserted its dominion. The winds, 13.2; Dan 7.2. At the time of 4 Ezra’s composition, the Romans ruled almost the whole inhabited earth. 3: Opposing wings, symbolizing usurpers who revolted

⁵⁸But tomorrow night you shall remain here, ⁵⁹and the Most High will show you in those dream visions what the Most High will do to those who inhabit the earth in the last days.”

So I slept that night and the following one, as he had told me.

11 On the second night I had a dream: I saw rising from the sea an eagle that had twelve feathered wings and three heads. ²I saw it spread its wings overⁱ the whole earth, and all the winds of heaven blew upon it, and the clouds were gathered around it. ³I saw that out of its wings there grew opposing wings; but they became little, puny wings. ⁴But its heads were at rest; the middle head was larger than the other heads, but it too was at rest with them. ⁵Then I saw that the eagle flew with its wings, and it reigned over the earth and over those who inhabit it. ⁶And I saw how all things under heaven were subjected to it, and no one spoke against it—not a single creature that was on the earth. ⁷Then I saw the eagle rise upon its talons, and it uttered a cry to its wings, saying, ⁸“Do not all watch at the same time; let each sleep in its

^a Cn: Lat an established city

^b Most Lat Mss read three

^c Cn: Lat Syr Arab Arm her

^d Syr Ethiop Arab Arm: Lat three

^e Or him

^f Most Lat Mss and Arab 1 add These were the things to be opened to you

^g Other ancient authorities read and

^h Or been named by

ⁱ Arab 2 Arm: Lat Syr Ethiop in

^j Syr: Compare Ethiop Arab: Lat lacks the clouds and around it own place, and watch in its turn; ⁹ but let the heads be reserved for the last.”

¹⁰ I looked again and saw that the voice did not come from its heads, but from the middle of its body. ¹¹ I counted its rival wings, and there were eight of them. ¹² As I watched, one wing on the right side rose up, and it reigned over all the earth. ¹³ And after a time its reign came to an end, and it disappeared, so that even its place was no longer visible. Then the next wing rose up and reigned, and it continued to reign a long time. ¹⁴ While it was reigning its end came also, so that it disappeared like the first. ¹⁵ And a voice sounded, saying to it, ¹⁶ “Listen to me, you who have ruled the earth all this time; I announce this to you before you disappear. ¹⁷ After you no one shall rule as long as you have ruled, not even half as long.”

¹⁸ Then the third wing raised itself up, and held the rule as the earlier ones had done, and it also disappeared. ¹⁹ And so it went with all the wings; they wielded power one after another and then were never seen again. ²⁰ I kept looking, and in due time the wings that followed^a also rose up on the right^b side, in order to rule. There were some of them that ruled, yet disappeared suddenly; ²¹ and others of them rose up, but did not hold the rule.

²² And after this I looked and saw that the twelve wings and the two little wings had disappeared, ²³ and nothing remained on the eagle’s body except the three heads that were at rest and six little wings.

²⁴ As I kept looking I saw that two little wings separated from the six and remained under the head that was on the right side; but four remained in their place. ²⁵ Then I saw that these little wings^c planned to set themselves up and hold the rule. ²⁶ As I kept looking, one was set up, but suddenly disappeared; ²⁷ a second also, and this disappeared more quickly than the first. ²⁸ While I continued to look the two that remained were planning between themselves to reign together; ²⁹ and while they were planning, one of the heads that were at rest (the one that was in the middle) suddenly awoke; it was greater than the other two heads. ³⁰ And I saw how it allied the two heads with itself, ³¹ and how the head turned with those that were with it and devoured the two little wings^c that were planning to reign. ³² Moreover this head gained control of the whole earth, and with much oppression dominated its inhabitants; it had greater power over the world than all the wings that had gone before.

³³ After this I looked again and saw the head in the middle suddenly disappear, just as the wings had done. ³⁴ But the two heads remained, which also in like manner ruled over the earth and its inhabitants. ³⁵ And while I looked, I saw the head on the right side devour the one on the left.

³⁶ Then I heard a voice saying to me, “Look in front of you and consider what you see.” ³⁷ When I looked, I saw what seemed to be a lion roused from the forest, roaring; and I heard how it uttered a human voice to the eagle, and spoke, saying, ³⁸ “Listen and I will speak to you. The Most High says to you, ³⁹ ‘Are you not the one that remains of the four beasts that I had made to reign in my world, so that the end of my times might come through them?’ ⁴⁰ You, the fourth that has come, have conquered all the beasts that have gone before; and you have held sway over the world with great terror, and over all the earth with grievous oppression; and for so long you have lived on the earth with deceit. ⁴¹ You have judged the earth, but not with truth, ⁴² for you have oppressed the meek and injured the peaceable; you have hated those who tell the truth, and have loved liars; you have destroyed the homes of those who brought forth fruit, and have laid low the walls of those who did you no harm.

^a Syr Arab 2 the little wings

^b Some Ethiop Mss read left

^c Syr: Lat underwings

^d Syr Arab Arm: Lat Ethiop The fourth came, however, and conquered... and held sway... and for so long lived against the Roman emperors. But they became little, they were subdued. 11: Rival wings, the “opposing wings” of v. 3. 13: Its reign came to an end, the ruler symbolized by the wing perished. 35: At this point, only the head on the right and the two little wings under it remain. 37: The lion is a symbol of the messiah; cf. Rev 5.5. 39: Four beasts, Dan 7. In Daniel, however, the fourth beast is not an eagle but a horned monster. 40: With grievous oppression, at this time in history, after the Romans had destroyed Jerusalem and its Temple, they were considered evil op-

⁴³Your insolence has come up before the Most High, and your pride to the Mighty One.

⁴⁴The Most High has looked at his times; now they have ended, and his ages have reached completion. ⁴⁵Therefore you, eagle, will surely disappear, you and your terrifying wings, your most evil little wings, your malicious heads, your most evil talons, and your whole worthless body, ⁴⁶so that the whole earth, freed from your violence, may be refreshed and relieved, and may hope for the judgment and mercy of him who made it.”

12 While the lion was saying these words to the eagle, I looked ²and saw that the remaining head had disappeared. The two wings that had gone over to it rose up and ³set themselves up to reign, and their reign was brief and full of tumult. ³When I looked again, they were already vanishing. The whole body of the eagle was burned, and the earth was exceedingly terrified.

Then I woke up in great perplexity of mind and great fear, and I said to my spirit, ⁴“You have brought this upon me, because you search out the ways of the Most High. ⁵I am still weary in mind and very weak in my spirit, and not even a little strength is left in me, because of the great fear with which I have been terrified tonight. ⁶Therefore I will now entreat the Most High that he may strengthen me to the end.”

⁷Then I said, “O sovereign Lord, if I have found favor in your sight, and if I have been accounted righteous before you beyond many others, and if my prayer has indeed come up before your face, ⁸strengthen me and show me, your servant, the interpretation and meaning of this terrifying vision so that you may fully comfort my soul. ⁹For you have judged me worthy to be shown the end of the times and the last events of the times.”

¹⁰He said to me, “This is the interpretation of this vision that you have seen: ¹¹The eagle that you saw coming up from the sea is the fourth kingdom that appeared in a vision to your brother Daniel. ¹²But it was not explained to him as I now explain to you or have explained it. ¹³The days are coming when a kingdom shall rise on earth, and it shall be more terrifying than all the kingdoms that have been before it. ¹⁴And twelve kings shall reign in it, one after another. ¹⁵But the second that is to reign shall hold sway for a longer time than any other one of the twelve. ¹⁶This is the interpretation of the twelve wings that you saw.

¹⁷“As for your hearing a voice that spoke, coming not from the eagle’s^b heads but from the midst of its body, this is the interpretation: ¹⁸In the midst of^c the time of that kingdom great struggles shall arise, and it shall be in danger of falling; nevertheless it shall not fall then, but shall regain its former power.^d ¹⁹As for your seeing eight little wings^e clinging to its wings, this is the interpretation: ²⁰Eight kings shall arise in it, whose times shall be short and their years swift; ²¹two of them shall perish when the middle of its time draws near; and four shall be kept for the time when its end approaches, but two shall be kept until the end.

²²“As for your seeing three heads at rest, this is the interpretation: ²³In its last days the Most High will raise up three kings,^f and

^a Ethiop: Lat lacks rose up and

^b Lat his

^c Syr Arm: Lat After

^d Ethiop Arab 1 Arm: Lat Syr its beginning

^e Syr: Lat underwings

^f Syr Ethiop Arab Arm: Lat kingdoms

pressors by the Jews. 44: God’s judgment of the fourth beast is a sign that the ages have reached completion (see 11.39). 12.3a: This is the beginning of the end times.

12.3b–9: The seer’s response. Ezra, terrified, seeks an explanation of the vision (cf. 10.27–37; 13.13b–20).

12.10–36: The interpretation. 11: The fourth kingdom in Daniel’s vision (Dan 7.7) symbolized the Greek or Macedonian Empire; here, however, it is reinterpreted (cf. v. 12) to refer to the Roman Empire (see 11.1n.; 11.39n.). 13: The days are coming, since the seer is represented as prophesying during the exile, the rise of the Roman Empire is depicted as a future event. 14: Kings, the Roman emperors. 15: The second king is Augustus (ruled 27 BCE–14 CE); cf. 11.17. 18: There is nothing in the vision that corresponds to what is said in this verse. The author may refer to the time of . . . great struggles for power that followed the death of Nero in 68 CE. 19: Little wings, 11.3, 11. 20–21: These apparently represent imperial usurpers or pretenders; they cannot be identified precisely.

they^a shall renew many things in it, and shall rule the earth²⁴ and its inhabitants more oppressively than all who were before them. Therefore they are called the heads of the eagle,²⁵ because it is they who shall sum up his wickedness and perform his last actions.²⁶ As for your seeing that the large head disappeared, one of the kings^b shall die in his bed, but in agonies.²⁷ But as for the two who remained, the sword shall devour them.²⁸ For the sword of one shall devour him who was with him; but he also shall fall by the sword in the last days.

²⁹“As for your seeing two little wings^c passing over to^d the head which was on the right side,³⁰ this is the interpretation: It is these whom the Most High has kept for the eagle’s^e end; this was the reign which was brief and full of tumult, as you have seen.

³¹“And as for the lion whom you saw rousing up out of the forest and roaring and speaking to the eagle and reproving him for his unrighteousness, and as for all his words that you have heard,³² this is the Messiah^f whom the Most High has kept until the end of days, who will arise from the offspring of David, and will come and speak^g with them. He will denounce them for their ungodliness and for their wickedness, and will display before them their contemptuous dealings.³³ For first he will bring them alive before his judgment seat, and when he has reproved them, then he will destroy them.³⁴ But in mercy he will set free the remnant of my people, those who have been saved throughout my borders, and he will make them joyful until the end comes, the day of judgment, of which I spoke to you at the beginning.³⁵ This is the dream that you saw, and this is its interpretation.³⁶ And you alone were worthy to learn this secret of the

Most High.³⁷ Therefore write all these things that you have seen in a book, put it^h in a hidden place;³⁸ and you shall teach them to the wise among your people, whose hearts you know are able to comprehend and keep these secrets.³⁹ But as for you, wait here seven days more, so that you may be shown whatever it pleases the Most High to show you.” Then he left me.

⁴⁰When all the people heard that the seven days were past and I had not returned to the city, they all gathered together, from the least to the greatest, and came to me and spoke to me, saying,⁴¹ “How have we offended you, and what harm have we done you, that you have forsaken us and sit in this place?”⁴² For of all the prophets you alone are left to us, like a cluster of grapes from the vintage, and like a lamp in a dark place, and like a haven for a ship saved from a storm.⁴³ Are not the disasters that have befallen us enough?⁴⁴ Therefore if you forsake us, how much better it would have been for us if we also had been consumed in the burning of Zion.⁴⁵ For we are no better than those who died there.” And they wept with a loud voice.

Then I answered them and said,⁴⁶ “Take courage, O Israel; and do not be sorrowful, O house of Jacob;⁴⁷ for the Most High has you in remembrance, and the Mighty One has not forgotten you in your struggle.⁴⁸ As for me, I have neither forsaken you nor withdrawn

^a Syr Ethiop Arm: Lat he

^b Lat them

^c Arab 1: Lat underwings

^d Syr Ethiop: Lat lacks to

^e Lat his

^f Literally anointed one

^g Syr: Lat lacks of days . . . and speak

^h Ethiop Arab 1 Arab 2 Arm: Lat Syr them

22: Three heads, the Flavian emperors (Vespasian, 69–79 CE; Titus, 79–81; and Domitian, 81–96). 23–25: 11.30–32.

26: The large head, Vespasian. Vespasian did die in his bed, perhaps a rarity for Roman emperors, but the attendant agonies are otherwise unattested. 30: As you have seen, vv. 2–3. 32: Messiah, 7.28–29n.; 1 Enoch 62.7. 33–34: See 2 Bar. 40. 33: Here, unlike earlier in the book (6.6; 7.28–44), the Messiah functions as eschatological judge. 34: Throughout my borders, 9.8; 13.48. He will make them joyful, 7.28. This verse envisions a second day of judgment after that described in v. 33.

12.37–39: Conclusion and injunctions. 37–38: The angel’s command to write a secret book for the wise anticipates 14.23–26, 37–48 (cf. Isa 8.16; Dan 12.3–4; Rev 1.11; 22.10).

12.40–51: The seer comforts those who were grieved because of his absence (cf. 5.16–19). 40: The seven days, 9.23, 27. 42: Only here and in 1.1 in biblical and apocryphal literature is Ezra called a prophet. Cluster of grapes, see 9.21. 44–45: The people’s lament recalls Ezra’s earlier words (4.12; 5.35; 7.63). 46–47: Ezra’s reply in from you; but I have come to this place to pray on account of the desolation of Zion, and to seek mercy on account of the humiliation of our^a sanctuary. ⁴⁹ Now go to your homes, every one of you, and after these days I will come to you.” ⁵⁰ So the people went into the city, as I told them to do. ⁵¹ But I sat in the field seven days, as the angel^b had commanded me; and I ate only of the flowers of the field, and my food was of plants during those days.

13 After seven days I dreamed a dream in the night. ² And lo, a wind arose from the sea and stirred up^c all its waves. ³ As I kept looking the wind made something like the figure of a man come up out of the heart of the sea. And I saw^d that this man flew^e with the clouds of heaven; and wherever he turned his face to look, everything under his gaze trembled, ⁴ and whenever his voice issued from his mouth, all who heard his voice melted as wax melts^f when it feels the fire.

⁵ After this I looked and saw that an innumerable multitude of people were gathered together from the four winds of heaven to make war against the man who came up out of the sea. ⁶ And I looked and saw that he carved out for himself a great mountain, and flew up on to it. ⁷ And I tried to see the region or place from which the mountain was carved, but I could not.

⁸ After this I looked and saw that all who had gathered together against him, to wage war with him, were filled with fear, and yet they dared to fight. ⁹ When he saw the onrush of the approaching multitude, he neither lifted his hand nor held a spear or any weapon of war; ¹⁰ but I saw only how he sent forth from his mouth something like a stream of fire, and from his lips a flaming breath, and from his tongue he shot forth a storm of sparks.^g ¹¹ All these were mingled together, the stream of fire and the flaming breath and the great storm, and fell on the onrushing multitude that was prepared to fight, and burned up all of them, so that suddenly nothing was seen of the innumerable multitude but only the dust of ashes and the smell of smoke. When I saw it, I was amazed.

¹² After this I saw the same man come down from the mountain and call to himself another multitude that was peaceable. ¹³ Then many people^h came to him, some of whom were joyful and some sorrowful; some of them were bound, and some were bringing others as offerings.

Then I woke up in great terror, and prayed to the Most High, and said, ¹⁴ “From the beginning you have shown your servant these wonders, and have deemed me worthy to have my prayer heard by you; ¹⁵ now show me the interpretation of this dream also. ¹⁶ For as I consider it in my mind, alas for those who will be left in those days! And still more, alas for those who are not left! ¹⁷ For those who are not left will be sad ¹⁸ because they understand the things that are reserved for the last days, but cannot attain them. ¹⁹ But alas for those also who are left, and for that very reason! For they shall see great dangers and much distress, as these dreams show. ²⁰ Yet it is betterⁱ to come into these things,^j though

^a Syr Ethiop: Lat your

^b Literally he

^c Other ancient authorities read I saw a wind arise from the sea and stir up

^d Syr: Lat lacks the wind. . . I saw

^e Syr Ethiop Arab Arm: Lat grew strong

^f Syr: Lat burned as the earth rests

^g Meaning of Lat uncertain

^h Lat Syr Arab 2 literally the faces of many people

ⁱ Ethiop Compare Arab 2: Lat easier

^j Syr: Lat this

turn recalls the earlier encouragement of the angel. 51: 9.24–26. Ezra’s vegetarian diet is clearly linked to the onset of his dream visions.

13.1–58: The sixth vision (the man from the sea). 1–13a: Description of the vision. 2: A wind . . . from the sea, 11.1–2; Dan 7.2. 3: Something like the figure of a man, a messianic figure (cf. Dan 7.13), later in the vision called God’s Son (13.32; Ezek 1.26). Flew with the clouds, Isa 19.1; Dan 7.13; Mk 13.26; Rev 1.7. 4: As wax melts, Mic 1.4; Jdt 16.15. 5: Innumerable multitude, see 13.33–34n. Four winds of heaven, Dan 7.2. 6: Carved out, Dan 2.45. 10: Cf. Isa 11.4; 2 Thess 2.8. 11: Burned up, 12.3; cf. Rev 20.9. 12: See 2 Bar. 40.2. 13a: Some . . . were bound, Jews who came from captivity. Others as offerings, cf. Isa 66.20.

13.13b–20a: The seer prays that God will interpret the vision to him. See 7.116–126n.; 10.34–37n. 14: My prayer, 9.25–37. 20: Contrast 4.12.

incurring peril, than to pass from the world like a cloud, and not to see what will happen in the last days.”

He answered me and said, ²¹“I will tell you the interpretation of the vision, and I will also explain to you the things that you have mentioned. ²²As for what you said about those who survive, and concerning those who do not survive,^a this is the interpretation: ²³The one who brings the peril at that time will protect those who fall into peril, who have works and faith toward the Almighty. ²⁴Understand therefore that those who are left are more blessed than those who have died.

²⁵“This is the interpretation of the vision: As for your seeing a man come up from the heart of the sea, ²⁶this is he whom the Most High has been keeping for many ages, who will himself deliver his creation; and he will direct those who are left. ²⁷And as for your seeing wind and fire and a storm coming out of his mouth, ²⁸and as for his not holding a spear or weapon of war, yet destroying the onrushing multitude that came to conquer him, this is the interpretation: ²⁹The days are coming when the Most High will deliver those who are on the earth. ³⁰And bewilderment of mind shall come over those who inhabit the earth. ³¹They shall plan to make war against one another, city against city, place against place, people against people, and kingdom against kingdom. ³²When these things take place and the signs occur that I showed you before, then my Son will be revealed, whom you saw as a man coming up from the sea.^b people, prepared and built, as you saw the mountain carved out without hands. ³⁷Then he, my Son, will reprove the assembled nations for their ungodliness (this was symbolized by the storm), ³⁸and will reproach them to their face with their evil thoughts and the torments with which they are to be tortured (which were symbolized by the flames), and will destroy them without effort by means of the law^c (which was symbolized by the fire).

³³“Then, when all the nations hear his voice, all the nations shall leave their own lands and the warfare that they have against one another; ³⁴and an innumerable multitude shall be gathered together, as you saw, wishing to come and conquer him. ³⁵But he shall stand on the top of Mount Zion. ³⁶And Zion shall come and be made manifest to all

³⁹“And as for your seeing him gather to himself another multitude that was peaceable, ⁴⁰these are the nine^d tribes that were taken away from their own land into exile in the days of King Hoshea, whom Shalmaneser, king of the Assyrians, made captives; he took them across the river, and they were taken into another land. ⁴¹But they formed this plan for themselves, that they would leave the multitude of the nations and go to a more distant region, where no human beings had ever lived, ⁴²so that there at least they might keep their statutes that they had not kept in their own land. ⁴³And they went in by the narrow passages of the Euphrates river. ⁴⁴For at that time the Most High performed signs for them, and stopped the channels of the river until they had crossed over. ⁴⁵Through that region there was a long way to go, a journey of a year and a half; and that country is called Arzareth.^e

⁴⁶“Then they lived there until the last times; and now, when they are about to come again, ⁴⁷the Most High will stop^f the channels of the river again, so that they may be able to cross over. Therefore you saw the multitude

^a Syr Arab 1: Lat lacks and . . . not survive

^b Syr and most Lat Mss lack from the sea

^c Syr: Lat effort and the law

^d Other Lat Mss ten; Syr Ethiop Arab 1 Arm nine and a half

^e That is Another Land

^f Syr: Lat stops

13.20b–55: The interpretation. 21: Things . . . mentioned, in vv. 16–20. 23: The one who brings the peril, the Messiah; vv. 3–13a. Works and faith, see 9.7n. 24: Contrast 5.41–42. 26: He whom the Most High has been keeping for many ages, the Messiah, v. 52; 12.32. 31: Cf. Isa 19.2; Mt 24.7. 32: Cf. 6.20; 7.26–28; 9.1–2; Mk 13.29. 33–34: Cf. Rev 16.14–16; 19.19; 20.7–9. 35: Cf. Heb 12.22–24; Rev 14.1; 2 Bar. 40. 36: Zion shall come and be made manifest, 7.26; 10.25–54; Rev 21.2,9–14. Without hands, Dan 2.34,45. 37–38: Reprove . . . reproach . . . destroy, as in 11.37–46; 12.31–33. 40: 2 Kings 17.1–6. The nine tribes, the northern kingdom of Israel (usually “ten tribes”; see textual note d). The river, the Euphrates. 44: Stopped . . . the river, cf. Josh 3.14–16. 45: Arzareth, Heb for “Another Land” (cf.

gathered together in peace.⁴⁸ But those who are left of your people, who are found within my holy borders, shall be saved.^a ⁴⁹ Therefore when he destroys the multitude of the nations that are gathered together, he will defend the people who remain.⁵⁰ And then he will show them very many wonders.”

⁵¹ I said, “O sovereign Lord, explain this to me: Why did I see the man coming up from the heart of the sea?”

⁵² He said to me, “Just as no one can explore or know what is in the depths of the sea, so no one on earth can see my Son or those who are with him, except in the time of his day.^b ⁵³ This is the interpretation of the dream that you saw. And you alone have been enlightened about this,⁵⁴ because you have forsaken your own ways and have applied yourself to mine, and have searched out my law;⁵⁵ for you have devoted your life to wisdom, and called understanding your mother.⁵⁶ Therefore I have shown you these things; for there is a reward laid up with the Most High. For it will be that after three more days I will tell you other things, and explain weighty and wondrous matters to you.”

⁵⁷ Then I got up and walked in the field, giving great glory and praise to the Most High for the wonders that he does^c from time to time,⁵⁸ and because he governs the times and whatever things come to pass in their seasons. And I stayed there three days.

14 On the third day, while I was sitting under an oak, suddenly a voice came out of a bush opposite me and said, “Ezra, Ezra!”² And I answered, “Here I am, Lord,” and I rose to my feet.³ Then he said to me, “I revealed myself in a bush and spoke to Moses when my people were in bondage in Egypt;⁴ and I sent him and led^d my people out of Egypt; and I led him up on Mount Sinai, where I kept him with me many days.⁵ I told him many wondrous things, and showed him the secrets of the times and declared to him^e the end of the times.

Then I commanded him, saying, “These words you shall publish openly, and these you shall keep secret.”⁷ And now I say to you:⁸ Lay up in your heart the signs that I have shown you, the dreams that you have seen, and the interpretations that you have heard;⁹ for you shall be taken up from among humankind, and henceforth you shall live with my Son and with those who are like you, until the times are ended.

¹⁰ The age has lost its youth, and the times begin to grow old.¹¹ For the age is divided into twelve parts, and nine^f of its parts have already passed,¹² as well as half of the tenth part; so two of its parts remain, besides half of the tenth part.⁹

¹³ Now therefore, set your house in order, and reprove your people; comfort the lowly among them, and instruct those that are wise.^h And now renounce the life that is corruptible,¹⁴ and put away from you mortal thoughts; cast away from you the burdens of humankind, and divest yourself now of your weak nature;¹⁵ lay to one side the thoughts that are most grievous to you, and hurry to escape from these times.¹⁶ For evils worse than those that you have now seen

^a Syr: Lat lacks shall be saved

^b Syr: Ethiop except when his time and his day have come. Lat lacks his

^c Lat did

^d Syr Arab 1 Arab 2 he led

^e Syr Ethiop Arab Arm: Lat lacks declared to him

^f Cn: Lat Ethiop ten

^g Syr lacks verses 11, 12: Ethiop For the world is divided into ten parts, and has come to the tenth, and half of the tenth remains. Now ...

^h Lat lacks and ... wise

Deut 29.28). 47: Will stop ... the river, cf. Isa 11.15–16. 48: Within my ... borders, presumably the borders of Israel (cf. 9.8; 12.34). This answers the seer’s previous questions about the fate of Israel. 52: Those who are with him, perhaps “those who were taken up,” 6.26. Cf. 8.51; 14.9. 53–55: See 7.76–77n.

13.56–58: Conclusion and injunctions. Ezra’s giving great glory and praise to God shows the change in attitude that he has experienced since his earlier petulance.

14.1–48: The seventh vision (the legend of Ezra and the holy scriptures). 1–18: God speaks to Ezra. 1–2: A bush ... “Here I am,” cf. Ex 3.4. 2: I rose, in contrast to previous occasions, when Ezra was asked to rise (6.13; 7.2; 10.33). 3: This chapter explicitly draws a parallel between Ezra and Moses. 4: Cf. Ex 34.28. 5–6: The biblical Moses was never instructed to keep some teachings secret. Further, see 12.37–38; 14.26,45–47. 5: Secrets ... the end of the times, see 3.14n. 9: You shall be taken up, see 6.26n. My Son, the Messiah (7.28–29; 13.32,37,52). Those who are like you, 8.51; cf. 13.52. 10: 4.44–50n.; 5.50–55. 11: See 2 Bar. 53–70 for a similar division of world history into happen shall take place hereafter. ¹⁷For the weaker the world becomes through old age, the more shall evils be increased upon its inhabitants. ¹⁸Truth shall go farther away, and falsehood shall come near. For the eagle^a that you saw in the vision is already hurrying to come.”

¹⁹Then I answered and said, “Let me speak^b in your presence, Lord. ²⁰For I will go, as you have commanded me, and I will improve the people who are now living; but who will warn those who will be born hereafter? For the world lies in darkness, and its inhabitants are without light. ²¹For your law has been burned, and so no one knows the things which have been done or will be done by you. ²²If then I have found favor with you, send the holy spirit into me, and I will write everything that has happened in the world from the beginning, the things that were written in your law, so that people may be able to find the path, and that those who want to live in the last days may do so.”

²³He answered me and said, “Go and gather the people, and tell them not to seek you for forty days. ²⁴But prepare for yourself many writing tablets, and take with you Sarea, Dabria, Selemia, Ethanus, and Asiel—these five, who are trained to write rapidly; ²⁵and you shall come here, and I will light in your heart the lamp of understanding, which shall not be put out until what you are about to write is finished. ²⁶And when you have finished, some things you shall make public, and some you shall deliver in secret to the wise; tomorrow at this hour you shall begin to write.”

²⁷Then I went as he commanded me, and I gathered all the people together, and said, ²⁸“Hear these words, O Israel. ²⁹At first our ancestors lived as aliens in Egypt, and they were liberated from there ³⁰and received the law of life, which they did not keep, which you also have transgressed after them. ³¹Then land was given to you for a possession in the land of Zion; but you and your ancestors committed iniquity and did not keep the ways that the Most High commanded you. ³²And since he is a righteous judge, in due time he took from you what he had given. ³³And now you are here, and your people^c are farther in the interior. ³⁴If you, then, will rule over your minds and discipline your hearts, you shall be kept alive, and after death you shall obtain mercy. ³⁵For after death the judgment will come, when we shall live again; and then the names of the righteous shall become manifest, and the deeds of the ungodly shall be disclosed. ³⁶But let no one come to me now, and let no one seek me for forty days.”

³⁷So I took the five men, as he commanded me, and we proceeded to the field, and remained there. ³⁸And on the next day a voice called me, saying, “Ezra, open your mouth and drink what I give you to drink.” ³⁹So I opened my mouth, and a full cup was offered to me; it was full of something like water, but its color was like fire. ⁴⁰I took it and drank; and when I had drunk it, my heart poured forth understanding, and wisdom increased in my breast, for my spirit retained its memory, ⁴¹and my mouth was opened and was no longer closed. ⁴²Moreover, the Most High gave understanding to the five men, and

^a Syr Ethiop Arab Arm: Meaning of Lat uncertain

^b Most Lat Mss lack Let me speak

^c Lat brothers

^d Syr Ethiop Arm: Lat are among you

twelve parts. 16–18: Mk 13.7–8. 18: 5.9–11. The eagle, chs 11–12.

14.19–26: Ezra’s prayer for inspiration to restore the holy scriptures is granted. 20: Who will warn?, Ezra’s characteristic concern for his fellow Jews finally bears fruit in his desire to rewrite the scriptures. Without light, without the light of God’s law (cf. Ps 19.8b). 21: According to one tradition, the law had been burned by the Babylonians when they destroyed Jerusalem in 586 BCE (4.23). 22: The holy spirit will guide Ezra in rewriting the law. 23: Forty days, cf. Ex 24.18; 34.28; Deut 9.9,18. 26: Some things . . . make public, namely, the rewritten books of the Jewish scriptures. Some . . . deliver in secret, namely, some extracanonical books (see 12.37–38; 14.5–6,45–47).

14.27–36: Ezra reproves the people (14.13,20), reminding them of the reasons for their state of exile. 28: See 9.30; Deut 6.4. 33: Farther, apparently referring to the ten northern tribes (13.39–45).

14.37–48: The revelation of scriptures. 37: The five men, v. 24. The field, the same one in which Ezra has received the fourth through the seventh visions (see 9.24). 39: A full cup of inspiration, containing the fire of the spirit (v. 22). 42: Using characters that they did not know, in a new script for Hebrew, the Aramaic square

by turns they wrote what was dictated, using characters that they did not know.^a They sat forty days; they wrote during the daytime, and ate their bread at night.⁴³ But as for me, I spoke in the daytime and was not silent at night.⁴⁴ So during the forty days, ninety-four^b books were written.⁴⁵ And when the forty days were ended, the Most High spoke to me, saying, “Make public the twenty-four^c books that you wrote first, and let the worthy and the unworthy read them; ⁴⁶but keep the seventy that were written last, in order to give them to the wise among your people.⁴⁷ For in them is the spring of understanding, the fountain of wisdom, and the river of knowledge.”⁴⁸ And I did so.^d

15^e Speak in the ears of my people the words of the prophecy that I will put in your mouth, says the Lord,² and cause them to be written on paper; for they are trustworthy and true.³ Do not fear the plots against you, and do not be troubled by the unbelief of those who oppose you.⁴ For all unbelievers shall die in their unbelief.^f

⁵ Beware, says the Lord, I am bringing evils upon the world, the sword and famine, death and destruction,⁶ because iniquity has spread throughout every land, and their harmful doings have reached their limit.⁷ Therefore, says the Lord,⁸ I will be silent no longer concerning their ungodly acts that they impiously commit, neither will I tolerate their wicked practices. Innocent and righteous blood cries out to me, and the souls of the righteous cry out continually.⁹ I will surely avenge them, says the Lord, and will receive to myself all the innocent blood from among them.¹⁰ See, my people are being led like a flock to the slaughter; I will not allow them to live any longer in the land of Egypt,¹¹ but I will bring them out with a mighty hand and with an uplifted arm, and will strike Egypt with plagues, as before, and will destroy all its land.

¹² Let Egypt mourn, and its foundations, because of the plague of chastisement and castigation that the Lord will bring upon it.¹³ Let the farmers that till the ground mourn, because their seed shall fail to grow⁹ and their trees shall be ruined by blight and hail and by a terrible tempest.¹⁴ Alas for the world and for those who live in it!¹⁵ For the sword and misery draw near them, and nation shall rise up to fight against nation, with swords in their

^a Syr Compare Ethiop Arab 2 Arm: Meaning of Lat uncertain

^b Syr Ethiop Arab 1 Arm: Meaning of Lat uncertain

^c Syr Arab 1: Lat lacks twenty-four

^d Syr adds in the seventh year of the sixth week, five thousand years and three months and twelve days after creation. At that time Ezra was caught up, and taken to the place of those who are like him, after he had written all these things. And he was called the scribe of the knowledge of the Most High for ever and ever. Ethiop Arab 1 Arm have a similar ending

^e Chapters 15 and 16 (except 15.57-59, which has been found in Greek) are extant only in Lat

^f Other ancient authorities add and all who believe shall be saved by their faith

^g Lat lacks to grow characters. 45: Twenty-four books is one traditional reckoning of the Hebrew canon: the five books of the Law (Gen, Ex, Lev, Num, Deut), eight books of the Prophets (the former prophets: Josh; Judg; 1 and 2 Sam [as one book]; 1 and 2 Kings [as one book]; the latter prophets: Isa; Jer; Ezek; and the Twelve [as one book]), and eleven books of the Writings (Ps; Prov; Job; Song; Ruth; Lam; Eccl; Esth; Dan; Ezra-Neh [as one book]; 1 and 2 Chr [as one book]). 46: The seventy are esoteric, apocryphal books (see 12.37–38; 14.26). 48: The original version of 4 Ezra probably ended with an account of Ezra’s being taken up into heaven and functioning as a heavenly scribe (see textual note d; cf. 8.19bn.; 14.9). This ending was apparently dropped from the Latin version to make way for the prophecies of chs 15–16 when they were added at a later time.

Chapters 15–16 comprise a separate literary composition also known as 6 Ezra (see Introduction).

15.1–4: The commissioning of the prophet, who in this context is not named. See Jer 1.7–9; 26.2; Hab 2.2. 2: Cf. Rev 21.5, 22b. 3: Cf. Jer 18.20–23.

15.5–16.34: Prediction of worldwide catastrophes. 15.5–27: God will destroy the world because of human sinfulness. 8: Innocent and righteous blood cries out, cf. Gen 4.10; Rev 6.9–10. 9: Cf. Deut 32.43. 10–11: Egypt and the plagues are probably symbols for the author’s own situation of crisis. Cf. Ps 44.22; Isa 53.7. See also Deut 4.34; 26.8; Jer 51.40. 13: Joel 1.11. 14: The destruction will be universal. 15–17: Cf. 2 Chr 15.5–6. 15: Nation . . .

hands.¹⁶ For there shall be unrest among people; growing strong against one another, they shall in their might have no respect for their king or the chief of their leaders.¹⁷ For a person will desire to go into a city, and shall not be able to do so.¹⁸ Because of their pride the cities shall be in confusion, the houses shall be destroyed, and people shall be afraid.¹⁹ People shall have no pity for their neighbors, but shall make an assault upon^a their houses with the sword, and plunder their goods, because of hunger for bread and because of great tribulation.

²⁰ See how I am calling together all the kings of the earth to turn to me, says God, from the rising sun and from the south, from the east and from Lebanon; to turn and repay what they have given them.²¹ Just as they have done to my elect until this day, so I will do, and will repay into their bosom. Thus says the Lord God:²² My right hand will not spare the sinners, and my sword will not cease from those who shed innocent blood on earth.²³ And a fire went forth from his wrath, and consumed the foundations of the earth and the sinners, like burnt straw.²⁴ Alas for those who sin and do not observe my commandments, says the Lord;^b ²⁵ I will not spare them. Depart, you faithless children! Do not pollute my sanctuary.²⁶ For God^c knows all who sin against him; therefore he will hand them over to death and slaughter.²⁷ Already calamities have come upon the whole earth, and you shall remain in them; God^c will not deliver you, because you have sinned against him.

²⁸ What a terrifying sight, appearing from the east!²⁹ The nations of the dragons of Arabia shall come out with many chariots, and from the day that they set out, their hissing shall spread over the earth, so that all who hear them will fear and tremble.³⁰ Also the Carmonians, raging in wrath, shall go forth like wild boars^d from the forest, and with great power they shall come and engage them in battle, and with their tusks they shall devastate a portion of the land of the Assyrians with their teeth.³¹ And then the dragons,^e remembering their origin, shall become still stronger; and if they combine in great power and turn to pursue them,³² then these shall be disorganized and silenced by their power, and shall turn and flee.^f ³³ And from the land of the Assyrians an enemy in ambush shall attack them and destroy one of them, and fear and trembling shall come upon their army, and indecision upon their kings.

³⁴ See the clouds from the east, and from the north to the south! Their appearance is exceedingly threatening, full of wrath and storm.³⁵ They shall clash against one another and shall pour out a heavy tempest on the earth, and their own tempest;^g and there shall be blood from the sword as high as a horse's belly³⁶ and a man's thigh and a camel's hock.³⁷ And there shall be fear and great trembling on the earth; those who see that wrath shall be horror-stricken, and they shall be seized with trembling.³⁸ After that, heavy storm clouds shall be stirred up from the south, and from the north, and another part from the west.³⁹ But the winds from the east shall prevail over the cloud that was^h raised in wrath, and shall dispel it; and the tempest^g that was to cause destruction by the east wind shall be driven violently toward the south and west.⁴⁰ Great and mighty

^a Cn: Lat shall empty

^b Other ancient authorities read God

^c Other ancient authorities read the Lord

^d Other ancient authorities lack like wild boars

^e Cn: Lat dragon

^f Other ancient authorities read turn their face to the north

^g Meaning of Lat uncertain

^h Literally that he

against nation, cf. Mk 13.8. 18: Cf. Lk 21.26. Confusion and social unrest is the result of pride; cf. Gen 11.7–8. 20: Ps 72.11. 21: Isa 65.6. 22–27: Woes against sinners. 23: Cf. Jer 4.4.

15.28–33: A vision of warfare in the east. This section may reflect conflicts between Odenathus of Palmyra (dragons of Arabia) and Shapur I of Persia (Carmonians) that took place on the eastern borders of the Roman Empire between 261 and 267 CE. 30: The Carmonians, from Carmania (Kerman in modern Iran), a southern province of the Parthian Empire.

15.34–63: A vision of destructive storm clouds. The exact historical referents of this section, if any, are un-clouds, full of wrath and tempest, shall rise and destroy all the earth and its inhabitants, and shall pour out upon every high and lofty place^a a terrible tempest,⁴¹ fire and hail and flying swords and floods of water, so that all the fields and all the streams shall be filled with the abundance of those waters.⁴² They shall destroy cities and walls, mountains and hills, trees of the forests, and grass of the meadows, and their grain.⁴³ They shall go on steadily to Babylon and blot it out.⁴⁴ They shall come to it and surround it; they shall pour out on it the tempest^b and all its fury;^c then the dust and smoke shall reach the sky, and all who are around it shall mourn for it.⁴⁵ And those who survive shall serve those who have destroyed it.

⁴⁶ And you, Asia, who share in the splendor of Babylon and the glory of her person—⁴⁷ woe to you, miserable wretch! For you have made yourself like her; you have decked out your daughters for prostitution to please and glory in your lovers, who have always lusted after you.⁴⁸ You have imitated that hateful one in all her deeds and devices.^d Therefore God^e says,⁴⁹ I will send evils upon you: widowhood, poverty, famine, sword, and pestilence, bringing ruin to your houses, bringing destruction and death.⁵⁰ And the glory of your strength shall wither like a flower when the heat shall rise that is sent upon you.⁵¹ You shall be weakened like a wretched woman who is beaten and wounded, so that you cannot receive your mighty lovers.⁵² Would I have dealt with you so violently, says the Lord,⁵³ if you had not killed my chosen people continually, exulting and clapping your hands and talking about their death when you were drunk?

⁵⁴ Beautify your face!⁵⁵ The reward of a prostitute is in your lap; therefore you shall receive your recompense.⁵⁶ As you will do to my chosen people, says the Lord, so God will do to you, and will hand you over to adversi-ties.⁵⁷ Your children shall die of hunger, and you shall fall by the sword; your cities shall be wiped out, and all your people who are in the open country shall fall by the sword.⁵⁸ Those who are in the mountains and highlands^f shall perish of hunger, and they shall eat their own flesh in hunger for bread and drink their own blood in thirst for water.⁵⁹ Unhappy above all others, you shall come and suffer fresh miseries.⁶⁰ As they pass by they shall crush the hateful^g city, and shall destroy a part of your land and abolish a portion of your glory, when they return from devastated Babylon.⁶¹ You shall be broken down by them like stubble,^h and they shall be like fire to you.⁶² They shall devour you and your cities, your land and your mountains; they shall burn with fire all your forests and your fruitful trees.⁶³ They shall carry your children away captive, plunder your wealth, and mar the glory of your countenance.

16 Woe to you, Babylon and Asia! Woe to you, Egypt and Syria!² Bind on sackcloth and cloth of goats' hair,ⁱ and wail for your children, and lament for them; for your destruction is at hand.³ The sword has been sent upon you, and who is there to turn it back? ⁴ A fire has been sent upon you, and who is there to quench it? ⁵ Calamities have been sent upon you, and who is there to drive

^a Or eminent person

^b Meaning of Lat uncertain

^c Other ancient authorities add until they destroy it to its foundations

^d Other ancient authorities read devices, and you have followed after that one about to gratify her magnates and leaders so that you may be made proud and be pleased by her fornications

^e Other ancient authorities read the Lord

^f Gk: Lat omits and highlands

^g Another reading is idle or unprofitable

^h Other ancient authorities read like dry straw

ⁱ Other ancient authorities lack cloth of goats' hair

clear. 35: As high as . . ., cf. Rev 14.20. 43: Babylon, Rome. 43–44: Cf. Rev 18.9–10,15; 19.3. 46–63: Polemic against Asia, imitator of the corrupt splendor of Babylon (Rome). Asia, here and in 16.1, probably designates the whole of Asia Minor. 47–48: Cf. Ezek 16.33; Rev 14.8; 17.2–5; 18.3. 49: Cf. Rev 18.7–8. 50: Cf. Rev 17.16. 51: Cf. Jer 3.1; etc.; Rev 18.9–10. 52–53: Cf. Rev 17.6; 18.24. 56: Cf. Rev 19.2. 57–59: This section survives in Greek in a parchment fragment from Oxyrhynchus, Egypt. 57: Cf. Jer 18.21. 60: Cf. Rev 18.21. The hateful city, Babylon/Rome. 63: Cf. Rev 18.14.

16.1–17: The inevitability of God's judgment (cf. Am 3.3–8). 1–2: A reprise of ch 15. 2: Sackcloth and cloth of them away? ⁶Can one drive off a hungry lion in the forest, or quench a fire in the stubble once it has started to burn?^a ⁷Can one turn back an arrow shot by a strong archer? ⁸The Lord God sends calamities, and who will drive them away? ⁹Fire will go forth from his wrath, and who is there to quench it? ¹⁰He will flash lightning, and who will not be afraid? He will thunder, and who will not be terrified? ¹¹The Lord will threaten, and who will not be utterly shattered at his presence? ¹²The earth and its foundations quake, the sea is churned up from the depths, and its waves and the fish with them shall be troubled at the presence of the Lord and the glory of his power. ¹³For his right hand that bends the bow is strong, and his arrows that he shoots are sharp and when they are shot to the ends of the world will not miss once. ¹⁴Calamities are sent forth and shall not return until they come over the earth. ¹⁵The fire is kindled, and shall not be put out until it consumes the foundations of the earth. ¹⁶Just as an arrow shot by a mighty archer does not return, so the calamities that are sent upon the earth shall not return. ¹⁷Alas for me! Alas for me! Who will deliver me in those days?

¹⁸The beginning of sorrows, when there shall be much lamentation; the beginning of famine, when many shall perish; the beginning of wars, when the powers shall be terrified; the beginning of calamities, when all shall tremble. What shall they do, when the calamities come? ¹⁹Famine and plague, tribulation and anguish are sent as scourges for the correction of humankind. ²⁰Yet for all this they will not turn from their iniquities, or ever be mindful of the scourges. ²¹Indeed, provisions will be so cheap upon earth that people will imagine that peace is assured for them, and then calamities shall spring up on the earth—the sword, famine, and great confusion. ²²For many of those who live on the earth shall perish by famine; and those who survive the famine shall die by the sword. ²³And the dead shall be thrown out like dung, and there shall be no one to console them; for the earth shall be left desolate, and its cities shall be demolished. ²⁴No one shall be left to cultivate the earth or to sow it. ²⁵The trees shall bear fruit, but who will gather it? ²⁶The grapes shall ripen, but who will tread them? For in all places there shall be great solitude; ²⁷a person will long to see another human being, or even to hear a human voice. ²⁸For ten shall be left out of a city; and two, out of the field, those who have hidden themselves in thick groves and clefts in the rocks. ²⁹Just as in an olive orchard three or four olives may be left on every tree, ³⁰or just as, when a vineyard is gathered, some clusters may be left^b by those who search carefully through the vineyard, ³¹so in those days three or four shall be left by those who search their houses with the sword. ³²The earth shall be left desolate, and its fields shall be plowed up,^c and its roads and all its paths shall bring forth thorns, because no sheep will go along them. ³³Virgins shall mourn because they have no bridegrooms; women shall mourn because they have no husbands; their daughters shall mourn, because they have no help. ³⁴Their bridegrooms shall be killed in war, and their husbands shall perish of famine.

³⁵Listen now to these things, and understand them, you who are servants of the Lord. ³⁶This is the word of the Lord; receive it and do not disbelieve what the Lord says.^d ³⁷The calamities draw near, and are not delayed. ³⁸Just as a pregnant woman, in the ninth month when the time of her delivery draws near, has great pains around her womb for two or three hours beforehand, but when the child comes forth from the womb, there will not be a moment's delay, ³⁹so the calamities will not

^a Other ancient authorities read fire when dry straw has been set on fire

^b Other ancient authorities read a cluster may remain exposed

^c Other ancient authorities read be for briars

^d Cn: Lat do not believe the gods of whom the Lord speaks

goats' hair, signs of mourning. 9: Cf. Jer 4.4. 12–13: 6.14–16n.; 2 Sam 22.8,16; Pss 7.3; 18.7,14–15; Isa 51.15; Sir 16.19. 14: Cf. Jer 30.23–24. 15: Cf. Deut 32.22; 2 Pet 3.10. 17: A plaintive, personal interlude by the prophet.

16.18–34: Prediction of desolation on the earth. 19: Calamity is for the correction of humankind, see Amos 4.6–12. 20: Cf. Hag 2.17; Rev 9.20–21. 23: Cf. Jer 9.22. 28: Cf. Am 5.3. 29–31: Cf. Isa 17.6. 30: Clusters, see 9.21; 12.42. 32: Cf. Isa 7.23–25. 33: Cf. Isa 33.8. 34: Cf. Joel 1.8.

16.35–78: Exhortation of God's people. 35–52: Advice and instruction. 38–39: 4.40–42; cf. 1 Thess 5.3. 40– delay in coming upon the earth, and the world will groan, and pains will seize it on every side.

⁴⁰Hear my words, O my people; prepare for battle, and in the midst of the calamities be like strangers on the earth. ⁴¹Let the one who sells be like one who will flee; let the one who buys be like one who will lose; ⁴²let the one who does business be like one who will not make a profit; and let the one who builds a house be like one who will not live in it; ⁴³let the one who sows be like one who will not reap; so also the one who prunes the vines, like one who will not gather the grapes; ⁴⁴those who marry, like those who will have no children; and those who do not marry, like those who are widowed. ⁴⁵Because of this, those who labor, labor in vain; ⁴⁶for strangers shall gather their fruits, and plunder their goods, overthrow their houses, and take their children captive; for in captivity and famine they will produce their children.^a ⁴⁷Those who conduct business, do so only to have it plundered; the more they adorn their cities, their houses and possessions, and their persons, ⁴⁸the more angry I will be with them for their sins, says the Lord. ⁴⁹Just as a respectable and virtuous woman abhors a prostitute, ⁵⁰so righteousness shall abhor iniquity, when she decks herself out, and shall accuse her to her face when he comes who will defend the one who searches out every sin on earth.

⁵¹Therefore do not be like her or her works. ⁵²For in a very short time iniquity will be removed from the earth, and righteousness will reign over us. ⁵³Sinners must not say that they have not sinned;^b for God^c will burn coals of fire on the head of everyone who says, “I have not sinned before God and his glory.” ⁵⁴The Lord^d certainly knows everything that people do; he knows their imaginations and their thoughts and their hearts. ⁵⁵He said, “Let the earth be made,” and it was made, and “Let the heaven be made,” and it was made. ⁵⁶At his word the stars were fixed in their places, and he knows the number of the stars. ⁵⁷He

searches the abyss and its treasures; he has measured the sea and its contents; ⁵⁸he has confined the sea in the midst of the waters;^e and by his word he has suspended the earth over the water. ⁵⁹He has spread out the heaven like a dome and made it secure upon the waters; ⁶⁰he has put springs of water in the desert, and pools on the tops of the mountains, so as to send rivers from the heights to water the earth. ⁶¹He formed human beings and put a heart in the midst of each body, and gave each person breath and life and understanding ⁶²and the spirit^f of Almighty God,^g who surely made all things and searches out hidden things in hidden places. ⁶³He knows your imaginations and what you think in your hearts! Woe to those who sin and want to hide their sins! ⁶⁴The Lord will strictly examine all their works, and will make a public spectacle of all of you. ⁶⁵You shall be put to shame when your sins come out before others, and your own iniquities shall stand as your accusers on that day. ⁶⁶What will you do? Or how will you hide your sins before the Lord and his glory? ⁶⁷Indeed, God^h is the judge; fear him! Cease from your sins, and forget your iniquities, never to commit them again; so God^h will lead you forth and deliver you from all tribulation.

⁶⁸The burning wrath of a great multitude is kindled over you; they shall drag some of you away and force you to eat what was sacri-

^a Other ancient authorities read therefore those who are married may know that they will produce children for captivity and famine

^b Other ancient authorities add or the unjust done injustice

^c Lat for he

^d Other ancient authorities read Lord God

^e Other ancient authorities read confined the world between the waters and the waters

^f Or breath

^g Other ancient authorities read of the Lord Almighty

^h Other ancient authorities read the Lord

47: Every form of worldly activity is useless. See Deut 28.30–33,38–42; 1 Cor 7.29–31. 46: Cf. Lev 26.16; Deut 28.33.

16.53–67: The impossibility of hiding sins from God. 53: Cf. Prov 25.22. 54: Cf. Ps 33.15; Sir 15.18–19; 39.19. 55–62: This recital of God’s acts of creation underscores God’s omniscience; cf. Job 38; Sir 43. 55: See Gen 1.6,9. 56: Cf. Ps 147.4. 58–59: Cf. Ps 136.6; Prov 8.29; Isa 44.24. 59: Cf. Isa 40.22; Ps 104.2. 60: Cf. Ps 107.35; Isa 41.18. 61–62: Cf. Job 32.8; 33.4. 62: Cf. Rev 2.23.

16.68–73: Prediction of persecutions. These descriptions have close parallels with third- and early fourth-

ficed to idols. ⁶⁹ And those who consent to eat shall be held in derision and contempt, and shall be trampled under foot. ⁷⁰ For in many places^a and in neighboring cities there shall be a great uprising against those who fear the Lord. ⁷¹ They shall^b be like maniacs, sparing no one, but plundering and destroying those who continue to fear the Lord. ^c ⁷² For they shall destroy and plunder their goods, and drive them out of house and home. ⁷³ Then the tested quality of my elect shall be manifest, like gold that is tested by fire.

⁷⁴ Listen, my elect ones, says the Lord; the days of tribulation are at hand, but I will deliver you from them. ⁷⁵ Do not fear or doubt, for God^d is your guide. ⁷⁶ You who keep my commandments and precepts, says the Lord God, must not let your sins weigh you down, or your iniquities prevail over you. ⁷⁷ Woe to those who are choked by their sins and overwhelmed by their iniquities! They are like a field choked with underbrush and its path^e overwhelmed with thorns, so that no one can pass through. ⁷⁸ It is shut off and given up to be consumed by fire.

^a Meaning of Lat uncertain

^b Other ancient authorities read For people, because of their misfortunes, shall

^c Other ancient authorities read fear God

^d Other ancient authorities read the Lord

^e Other ancient authorities read seed

century Roman persecutions of Christians. 68: Eating food sacrificed to idols was forbidden for many Jewish and early Christian groups. See Ex 34.15; Acts 15.20,29; 1 Cor 8.1–13; 10.14–22; Rev 2.14,20; 4 Macc 5.2. 73: Cf. Zech 13.9; 1 Pet 1.7. 74: Cf. Dan 12.1.

16.74–78: Concluding instructions to the elect. 77–78: Cf. 2 Sam 23.6–7; Heb 6.8. 77: Cf. Prov 5.22.

(d) The following book appears in an appendix to the Greek Bible.

4 MACCABEES

NAME

This book is linked with 1 and 2 Maccabees on the basis of its focus on the events also related in them, the conflict between Jewish factions that eventually precipitated the persecution by the Seleucid king Antiochus IV Epiphanes (reigned 175–164 BCE) and the Jewish revolt led by Judas Maccabeus. In 4 Maccabees, however, the family of Judas Maccabeus and its exploits are never mentioned. The focus is rather on the torture and death of the martyrs (see 2 Macc 7). The work was also known as On the Supremacy of Reason in the early church (Eusebius, Hist. eccl. 3.10.6; Jerome, De vir. ill. 13).

CANONICAL STATUS

No modern religious community regards the work as strictly canonical, although it is included in two important copies of the Bible from the fourth and fifth century Christian Church.

AUTHORSHIP

The anonymous author is a Torah-observant Jew who exhibits a greater mastery of Greek language, philosophy, literature, and rhetoric than any canonical author. The church fathers Eusebius and Jerome both attributed the work to Josephus, the first-century CE Jewish historian, though it does not suit his style, greater historical accuracy, and more indulgent attitude toward assimilation.

DATE AND HISTORICAL CONTEXT

Plausible arguments have been made for a date of composition anywhere between 20 and 130 CE, with a date later in that range more likely. Many earlier scholars thought that 4 Maccabees was written in Alexandria in Egypt, the generally assumed place of origin for Hellenistic Jewish literature. But the interest in these martyrs in Antioch (in northern Syria), and the fact that the literary epitaph in 17.9–10 reflects the wording of actual Jewish epitaphs in Cilicia (in southeast Turkey), point to an origin in the northeast Mediterranean basin. The author does not write in response to any known crisis affecting the Jewish community, but instead addresses the everyday challenge of maintaining pride in, and commitment to, the Jewish way of life in an often hostile environment.

LITERARY HISTORY

4 Maccabees is a thoroughly original composition rather than the product of editing various sources. The author has read 2 Macc 3–7, but completely recasts the story in keeping with his own interests and goals. The work appears to have been written, in Greek, for oral delivery on a particular occasion (1.10; 3.20), perhaps during a celebration of Hanukkah, which celebrates the reconsecration of the Temple in 164 BCE, or a festival connected with the giving of the Torah (e.g., the Feast of Weeks).

STRUCTURE AND CONTENTS

The author presents the work as a philosophical demonstration of the popular maxim that reason is able to master the passions, with the added dimension that Torah observance provides the most effective training to achieve this goal. The work has two main parts: a more deductive development of the thesis (1.13–3.18), and a narrative demonstration of the thesis focused on the historical example of nine martyrs (3.19–17.6). The combination of logical argumentation and extended examples is found in other Greek and Roman ethical works. The author prepares the hearers for this two-part structure (1.1,7–8,12), and the two parts of the work are thoroughly integrated, as its outline shows:

4 MACCABEES

1:1–12	Introduction
1:13–3:18	Development of the thesis
1:13–30a	Definitions of terms and relationships
1:30b–3:18	Evidence from the scriptures
3:19–17:24	Narrative demonstration of the thesis
3:19–4:26	Historical background
5:1–6:30	The example of Eleazar
6:31–7:23	Reflection on Eleazar's example
8:1–12:19	The example of the seven brothers
13:1–14:10	Reflection on the seven brothers' example
14:11–17:6	The example of the mother and reflection
17:7–18:24	Epilogue
17:7–18:5	Summary of the martyrs' accomplishments and exhortation
18:6–19	The mother's testimony to feminine virtue and additional exhortation
18:20–24	Conclusion

INTERPRETATION

Fourth Maccabees is one of several texts from the Second Temple period interpreting the Jewish law and way of life in terms of Greco-Roman philosophy. Rather than using an allegorical approach, as did Philo of Alexandria, this author casts the Torah as a training program in the right exercise of reason and the cultivation of the cardinal virtues of justice, courage, self-control, and wisdom. It belongs thus to a larger literary movement promoting the Jewish way of life in close dialogue with the Greek cultural milieu.

As with other Jewish writings composed in Greek, it was not influential in the rabbinic Judaism that emerged in the wake of the disastrous revolts against Rome (66–70 and 132–35 CE). While early Christian authors recognized its philosophical dimensions, 4 Maccabees exercised its most enduring influence in the development of Christian martyrology during the second through fourth centuries.

GUIDE TO READING

The author gives several cues concerning how the work is to be read. He uses the language of “demonstration” (1.1; 3.19), suggesting that it can be read as an essay marshaling evidence for an ethical thesis: reason can rise above the passions and choose the path of virtue. He uses the language of praise or eulogy (1.10), suggesting that it can also be read as a celebration of the achievement of particular individuals, whose virtue is therefore to be imitated by all who strive for a praiseworthy remembrance. His exhortations to the audience (1.1, 18.1) and his interest in demonstrating that the Jewish law provides the surest path to ethical virtue add a third dimension, that of the “protreptic speech” that promotes a particular philosophy or way of life as worth following. Finally, the work can be read as resistance literature, both within the frame of the story of the martyrdoms and from the vantage point of an author who has mastered the dominant culture's tools as resources for promoting a minority culture's way of life.

David A. deSilva

1 The subject that I am about to discuss is most philosophical, that is, whether devout reason is sovereign over the emotions. So it is right for me to advise you to pay earnest attention to philosophy. ² For the subject is essential to everyone who is seeking knowledge, and in addition it includes the praise of the highest virtue—I mean, of course, rational judgment. ³ If, then, it is evident that reason rules over those emotions that hinder self-control, namely, gluttony and lust, ⁴ it is also clear that it masters the emotions that hinder one from justice, such as malice, and those that stand in the way of courage, namely anger, fear, and pain. ⁵ Some might perhaps ask, “If reason rules the emotions, why is it not sovereign over forgetfulness and ignorance?” Their attempt at argument is ridiculous!^a ⁶ For reason does not rule its own emotions, but those that are opposed to justice, courage, and self-control;^b and it is not for the purpose of destroying them, but so that one may not give way to them.

⁷ I could prove to you from many and various examples that reason^c is dominant over the emotions, ⁸ but I can demonstrate it best from the noble bravery of those who died for the sake of virtue, Eleazar and the seven brothers and their mother. ⁹ All of these, by

despising sufferings that bring death, demonstrated that reason controls the emotions. ¹⁰ On this anniversary^d it is fitting for me to praise for their virtues those who, with their mother, died for the sake of nobility and goodness, but I would also call them blessed for the honor in which they are held. ¹¹ All people, even their torturers, marveled at their courage and endurance, and they became the cause of the downfall of tyranny over their nation. By their endurance they conquered the tyrant, and thus their native land was purified through them. ¹² I shall shortly have an opportunity to speak of this; but, as my custom is, I shall begin by stating my main principle, and then I shall turn to their story, giving glory to the all-wise God.

¹³ Our inquiry, accordingly, is whether reason is sovereign over the emotions. ¹⁴ We shall decide just what reason is and what emotion is, how many kinds of emotions there are, and whether reason rules over all these.

^a Or They are attempting to make my argument ridiculous!

^b Other ancient authorities add and rational judgment

^c Other ancient authorities read devout reason

^d Gk At this time

1.1–12: Introduction. 1: Reason . . . emotions, the Greek word translated “emotions” includes desires and drives, emotional responses, and physical sensations. Greco-Roman philosophical writers regularly promoted mastery of these experiences, or self-mastery, as the path to lead a consistently virtuous life. Devout reason, the mind shaped by training in and obedience to the Jewish Torah (2.21–23; 5.19–26; 18.1–2). The author will claim for Judaism the status of a philosophy (as do the first-century CE Jewish writers Josephus and Philo), and argue for its superiority for achieving the Greek ideal of virtue. 3–4: These topics are covered sequentially in 1.30–2.6a, 2.6b–3.18, and 5.1–17.6. 4: Anger is more properly an obstacle to justice, not to courage, and is so treated in 2.6b,16–20. 5–6a: The first-century CE Roman writer Cicero (Fin. 5.1.3.36), as well as Philo (Migr. 206), made similar distinctions between voluntary and involuntary defects or passions, holding the individual morally responsible only for the former. 6b: The author, aware of this larger debate, aligns himself with philosophers promoting mastery and moderation of the emotions, drives, and sensations rather than with hard-line Stoics who sought to eliminate such experiences; see also 3.2–18. 7: Examples function here, as in Greek rhetoric generally, as a form of inductive proof. The extreme case of the martyrs will prove the general rule. 8: See 2 Macc 6.18–7.42. 10: Those who are most committed to the Jewish law thus achieve nobility and goodness, the highest Greek ideal. 11: The author avoids all mention of the Maccabean revolutionaries throughout the speech and locates the cause for Judea’s liberation squarely in the martyrs’ effective, nonviolent resistance to imperialism.

1.13–3.18: Development of the thesis. 1.13–30a: Definitions of terms. 13: The author is not, strictly speaking, concerned with whether, but rather what enables reason to achieve such mastery. 16–17: The author shares this definition of wisdom with Greco-Roman philosophers but reveals his particular allegiance to the Jewish “philosophy” by naming the Torah, the law, as the path to this wisdom (Sir 1:26; 19:20; Wis 6:17–20). Education (Gk “paideia”) was what distinguished the civilized Greeks from the barbarians; the author claims for Torah-

¹⁵ Now reason is the mind that with sound logic prefers the life of wisdom. ¹⁶ Wisdom, next, is the knowledge of divine and human matters and the causes of these. ¹⁷ This, in turn, is education in the law, by which we learn divine matters reverently and human affairs to our advantage. ¹⁸ Now the kinds of wisdom are rational judgment, justice, courage, and self-control. ¹⁹ Rational judgment is supreme over all of these, since by means of it reason rules over the emotions. ²⁰ The two most comprehensive types^a of the emotions are pleasure and pain; and each of these is by nature concerned with both body and soul. ²¹ The emotions of both pleasure and pain have many consequences. ²² Thus desire precedes pleasure and delight follows it. ²³ Fear precedes pain and sorrow comes after. ²⁴ Anger, as a person will see by reflecting on this experience, is an emotion embracing pleasure and pain. ²⁵ In pleasure there exists even a malevolent tendency, which is the most complex of all the emotions. ²⁶ In the soul it is boastfulness, covetousness, thirst for honor, rivalry, and malice; ²⁷ in the body, indiscriminate eating, gluttony, and solitary gormandizing. ²⁸ Just as pleasure and pain are two plants growing from the body and the soul, so there are many offshoots of these plants,^b ²⁹ each of which the master cultivator, reason, weeds and prunes and ties up and waters and thoroughly irrigates, and so tames the jungle of habits and emotions. ³⁰ For reason is the guide of the virtues, but over the emotions it is sovereign.

observance the status and fruits of such education. 18–19: The four cardinal virtues of Platonic and Stoic ethics. The elevation of rational judgment as supreme emerges from the focus on the contest between reason and the emotions. 20: The author follows Aristotle's twofold classification of the emotions based on pleasure and pain (Rh. 2.1–11) rather than the fourfold Stoic classification of desire, pain, pleasure, and fear; but see 1.22–23. 24: The definition of anger as a mixture of pleasure and pain is particularly Aristotelian (Rh. 2.2.1–2). 28–29: The author employs common agricultural analogies for the cultivation of the soul. Habits, predispositions particularly associated with the stages of life like youth, adulthood, and old age. The author treats the mastery of these challenges specifically in 2.3; 7.13–14.

1.30b–3.18: Evidence from the scriptures. 1.33–34: The author offers the ability of Jews to observe the dietary restrictions of the Torah (here, Lev 11.4–23, 41–42; Deut 14.4–21) as proof of the power of self-control over desire. The commandments, however, also provide the training necessary to develop self-control (2.6b–9; 5.22–26). This represents a significant defense against Gentile ridicule of the Torah's restrictions as barbaric or superstitious (Josephus, Ag. Ap. 2.137; Tacitus, Hist. 5.4.3; Juvenal, Sat. 14.98–99; Plutarch, Mor. 169C). 2.2: Joseph (Gen 39.7–12) is a model of temperance also in T. Jos. 2.7–10.4. 3: Young, see 1.29n. 5: Ex 20.17; Deut 5.21. 6a: Contrast Paul's claim that the commandment awakens sin, rather than proves that sin can be mastered (Rom 7.7–24). 6b: Justice involves giving to each person his or her due, which includes giving

Observe now, first of all, that rational judgment is sovereign over the emotions by virtue of the restraining power of self-control. ³¹ Self-control, then, is dominance over the desires. ³² Some desires are mental, others are physical, and reason obviously rules over both. ³³ Otherwise, how is it that when we are attracted to forbidden foods we abstain from the pleasure to be had from them? Is it not because reason is able to rule over appetites? I for one think so. ³⁴ Therefore when we crave seafood and fowl and animals and all sorts of foods that are forbidden to us by the law, we abstain because of domination by reason. ³⁵ For the emotions of the appetites are restrained, checked by the temperate mind, and all the impulses of the body are bridled by reason.

2 And why is it amazing that the desires of the mind for the enjoyment of beauty are rendered powerless? ² It is for this reason, certainly, that the temperate Joseph is praised, because by mental effort^c he overcame sexual desire. ³ For when he was young and in his prime for intercourse, by his reason he nullified the frenzy^d of the passions. ⁴ Not only is reason proved to rule over the frenzied urge of sexual desire, but also over every desire. ⁵ Thus the law says, “You shall not covet your neighbor’s wife or

^a Or sources

^b Other ancient authorities read these emotions

^c Other ancient authorities add in reasoning

^d Or gadfly

^e Or all covetousness

anything that is your neighbor's." ⁶In fact, since the law has told us not to covet, I could prove to you all the more that reason is able to control desires.

Just so it is with the emotions that hinder one from justice. ⁷Otherwise how could it be that someone who is habitually a solitary gormandizer, a glutton, or even a drunkard can learn a better way, unless reason is clearly lord of the emotions? ⁸Thus, as soon as one adopts a way of life in accordance with the law, even though a lover of money, one is forced to act contrary to natural ways and to lend without interest to the needy and to cancel the debt when the seventh year arrives. ⁹If one is greedy, one is ruled by the law through reason so that one neither gleans the harvest nor gathers the last grapes from the vineyard.

In all other matters we can recognize that reason rules the emotions. ¹⁰For the law prevails even over affection for parents, so that virtue is not abandoned for their sakes. ¹¹It is superior to love for one's wife, so that one rebukes her when she breaks the law. ¹²It takes precedence over love for children, so that one punishes them for misdeeds. ¹³It is sovereign over the relationship of friends, so that one rebukes friends when they act wickedly. ¹⁴Do not consider it paradoxical when reason, through the law, can prevail even over enmity. The fruit trees of the enemy are not cut down, but one preserves the property of enemies from marauders and helps raise up what has fallen.^a ¹⁵It is evident that reason rules even^b the more violent emotions: lust for power, vain-glory, boasting, arrogance, and malice. ¹⁶For the temperate mind repels all these malicious emotions, just as it repels anger—for it is sovereign over even this. ¹⁷When Moses was angry with Dathan and Abiram, he did nothing against them in anger, but controlled his anger by reason. ¹⁸For, as I have said, the temperate mind is able to get the better of the emotions, to correct some, and to render others powerless. ¹⁹Why else did Jacob, our most wise father, censure the households of Simeon and Levi for their irrational slaughter of the entire tribe of the Shechemites, saying, "Cursed be their anger"? ²⁰For if reason could not control anger, he would not have spoken thus. ²¹Now when God fashioned human beings, he planted in them emotions and inclinations, ²²but at the same time he enthroned the mind among the senses as a sacred governor over them all. ²³To the mind he gave the law; and one who lives subject to this will rule a kingdom that is temperate, just, good, and courageous.

^a Or the beasts that have fallen

^b Other ancient authorities read through

God God's due by honoring God's right thus to regulate human relationships. 8–9: Lend without interest, Ex 22:25; Deut 23:19–20; the seventh year, Deut 15:1–2,9; neither gleans, so as to leave something for the poor, Ex 23:10–11; Lev 19:9–10. Specific commandments of the Torah provide ways to remedy specific vices. 10–13: Commitment to virtue must outweigh even positive emotions like love for one's family and friends (cf. Deut 13.6–11). The author will return to this topic at length (13.19–14.1; 14.13–20; 15.4–23). 12: See Prov 13.24; 19.18; 23.13–14; 29.15,17. 14: Ex 23.4–5; Deut 20.19–20,24. Far from being a law that promotes hatred of foreigners (a frequent criticism; Diod. Sic. 34/35.1.1–4; Tacitus, Hist. 5.5; Josephus, Ag. Ap. 2.121), the Torah teaches kindness and humaneness toward one's enemies. 17: When challenged by Dathan and Abiram, Moses acted justly by submitting the matter to God's adjudication (Num 16.1–35). 19–20: Jacob's deathbed censure of Simeon and Levi (Gen 49:7) for their refusal to reconcile with the inhabitants of Shechem after the seduction of their sister Dinah (see Gen 34:1–31) indicates that reason should be expected to master anger. Other Jewish authors praise Simeon and Levi for this act, suggesting that Jacob was at fault (Jdt 8.2–4; T. Levi 5–6). 21–23: The author regards inclinations and emotions to be part of God's design of the human being, and therefore aligns with the schools that seek to master rather than eliminate them. Diligent observance of the Torah promises the enjoyment of the "kingship" familiar from Stoic discourse, the exercise of perfect rule over the passions and enjoyment of the fruits of virtuous self-governance. 2.24–3.2: See 1.5–6a n. 3.2–5: See 1.6b n. 6–18: The story of David's thirst (2 Sam 23.13–17; 1 Chr 11.15–19) provides a proof from example of the position taken in 3.2. David regards the water as blood (v. 15) because the soldiers risked their lives. Although he still experiences thirst at the close (hence does not eliminate his craving), David does not allow it to lead him

²⁴ How is it then, one might say, that if reason is master of the emotions, it does not control forgetfulness and ignorance?

3 ¹ But this argument is entirely ridiculous; for it is evident that reason rules not over its own emotions, but over those of the body. ² No one of us^a can eradicate that kind of desire, but reason can provide a way for us not to be enslaved by desire. ³ No one of us can eradicate anger from the mind, but reason can help to deal with anger. ⁴ No one of us can eradicate malice, but reason can fight at our side so that we are not overcome by malice. ⁵ For reason does not uproot the emotions but is their antagonist.

⁶ Now this can be explained more clearly by the story of King David's thirst. ⁷ David had been attacking the Philistines all day long, and together with the soldiers of his nation had killed many of them. ⁸ Then when evening fell, he^b came, sweating and quite exhausted, to the royal tent, around which the whole army of our ancestors had encamped. ⁹ Now all the rest were at supper, ¹⁰ but the king was extremely thirsty, and though springs were plentiful there, he could not satisfy his thirst from them. ¹¹ But a certain irrational desire for the water in the enemy's territory tormented and inflamed him, undid and consumed him. ¹² When his guards complained bitterly because of the king's craving, two staunch young soldiers, respecting^c the king's desire, armed themselves fully, and taking a pitcher climbed over the enemy's ramparts. ¹³ Eluding the sentinels at the gates, they went searching throughout the enemy camp ¹⁴ and found the spring, and from it boldly brought the king a drink. ¹⁵ But David,^d though he was burning with thirst, considered it an altogether fearful danger to his soul to drink what was regarded as equivalent to blood. ¹⁶ Therefore, opposing reason to desire, he poured out the drink as an offering to God. ¹⁷ For the temperate mind can conquer the drives of the emotions and quench the flames of frenzied desires; ¹⁸ it can overthrow bodily agonies even when they are extreme, and by nobility of reason spurn all domination by the emotions.

¹⁹ The present occasion now invites us to a narrative demonstration of temperate reason.

²⁰ At a time when our ancestors were enjoying profound peace because of their observance of the law and were prospering, so that even Seleucus Nicanor, king of Asia, had both appropriated money to them for the temple service and recognized their commonwealth—²¹ just at that time certain persons attempted a revolution against the public harmony and caused many and various disasters.

4 Now there was a certain Simon, a political opponent of the noble and good man, Onias, who then held the high priesthood for life. When despite all manner of slander he was unable to injure Onias in the eyes of the nation, he fled the country with the purpose of betraying it. ² So he came to Apollonius, governor of Syria, Phoenicia, and Cilicia, and said, ³ "I have come here because I am loyal to the king's government, to report that in the Jerusalem treasuries there are deposited tens of thousands in private funds, which are not the property of the temple but belong to

^a Gk you

^b Other ancient authorities read he hurried and

^c Or embarrassed because of

^d Gk he

into an act of pride (hence he masters his craving). The author modifies the story to underscore the severity of David's thirst and the irrational element of his desire for water beyond his reach (3.10 has no parallel in the biblical narratives).

3.19–17.24: Narrative demonstration of the thesis. 3.19–4.26: Historical background. A highly condensed version of 2 Macc 3:1–6:11. 3.19: The martyrdoms provide the primary proof from historical example for the author's thesis, a connection made explicit in 6.31–35; 13.1–5; 16.1–2. 20–21: Seleucus Nicanor, Seleucus IV Philopator (king of Syria, 187–175 BCE), not Seleucus I Nicator (305–281). Jerusalem is portrayed as the ideal Greek city-state, exhibiting peace, lawful observance, and public harmony through observing its native way of life; ironically, the Hellenization of the city will destroy this ideal. 4.1: Simon, see 2 Macc 3.4; 4.1–6. Onias III was the legitimate high priest (son of the Simon celebrated in Sir 50.1–21). 3: Private funds were deposited in temples for safekeeping. 5: In 2 Macc 3.7–8 Heliiodorus, not Apollonius, is put in command. 7: Burdensome tribute imposed by Rome led the Seleucid kings to raid several temple treasur-

King Seleucus.”⁴ When Apollonius learned the details of these things, he praised Simon for his service to the king and went up to Seleucus to inform him of the rich treasure.⁵ On receiving authority to deal with this matter, he proceeded quickly to our country accompanied by the accursed Simon and a very strong military force.⁶ He said that he had come with the king’s authority to seize the private funds in the treasury.⁷ The people indignantly protested his words, considering it outrageous that those who had committed deposits to the sacred treasury should be deprived of them, and did all that they could to prevent it.⁸ But, uttering threats, Apollonius went on to the temple.⁹ While the priests together with women and children were imploring God in the temple to shield the holy place that was being treated so contemptuously,¹⁰ and while Apollonius was going up with his armed forces to seize the money, angels on horseback with lightning flashing from their weapons appeared from heaven, instilling in them great fear and trembling.¹¹ Then Apollonius fell down half dead in the temple area that was open to all, stretched out his hands toward heaven, and with tears begged the Hebrews to pray for him and propitiate the wrath of the heavenly army.¹² For he said that he had committed a sin deserving of death, and that if he were spared he would praise the blessedness of the holy place before all people.¹³ Moved by these words, the high priest Onias, although otherwise he had scruples about doing so, prayed for him so that King Seleucus would not suppose that Apollonius had been overcome by human treachery and not by divine justice.¹⁴ So Apollonius,^a having been saved beyond all expectations, went away to report to the king what had happened to him.

¹⁵When King Seleucus died, his son Antiochus Epiphanes succeeded to the throne, an arrogant and terrible man,¹⁶ who removed Onias from the priesthood and appointed Onias’s^b brother Jason as high priest.¹⁷ Jason^c agreed that if the office were conferred on him he would pay the king three thousand six hundred sixty talents annually.¹⁸ So the king appointed him high priest and ruler of the nation.¹⁹ Jason^c changed the nation’s way of life and altered its form of government in complete violation of the law,²⁰ so that not only was a gymnasium constructed at the very citadel^d of our native land, but also the temple service was abolished.²¹ The divine justice was angered by these acts and caused Antiochus himself to make war on them.²² For when he was warring against Ptolemy in Egypt, he heard that a rumor of his death had spread and that the people of Jerusalem

^a Gk he

^b Gk his

^c Gk He

^d Or high place

ies (see 1 Macc 6.9–13; 2 Macc 1.11–17; 9.1–2,13–16), despite the taboos against sacrilege. 9–12: As long as the people adhere to the Torah, they enjoy God’s patronage and protection from their enemies (compare 3 Macc 1.8–2.24). 13: Perhaps better, “Moved by these words, although in other respects concerned so that King Seleucus would not suppose that Apollonius had been overcome . . . , the high priest Onias prayed for him.” Onias is not scrupulous about offering prayers for Apollonius. 15: Antiochus IV Epiphanes (reigned 175–164 BCE) was in fact the son of Antiochus III (the Great) and the brother of Seleucus IV. 16–17: Jason, Onias’s younger brother and an avid reformer. The (exaggerated) sum he offers as a bribe signals the breadth of his support among Jerusalem’s elite. 19–20: Like many cities following Alexander the Great’s conquests in the late fourth century BCE, Jerusalem’s plan is now altered to conform to the pattern of the Greek city. Gymnasium, a center for Greek education and enculturation as well as athletic contests. According to 2 Macc 4.10–15, the temple service was not abolished under Jason, only neglected. 21: God uses the Gentile king Antiochus IV to punish the people who turned from the covenant (see Deut 28.49–50), as for example he had used Nebuchadnezzar in 586 BCE. The author affirms Deuteronomy’s theology of history, encouraging the hearers to follow the Torah as the means to advance the peace and prosperity of the Jewish community. 22–23: Ptolemy VI Philometor (180–145 BCE). 2 Macc 5.5–12 cites rumors of an insurrection in Jerusalem as the reason for Antiochus’s response. This author, by contrast, portrays Antiochus’s persecution of the Jews as an irrational, heated response to their joy at the rumor of his death; cf. 8.2; 9.10–11.

had rejoiced greatly. He speedily marched against them,²³ and after he had plundered them he issued a decree that if any of them were found observing the ancestral law they should die.²⁴ When, by means of his decrees, he had not been able in any way to put an end to the people's observance of the law, but saw that all his threats and punishments were being disregarded²⁵—even to the extent that women, because they had circumcised their sons, were thrown headlong from heights along with their infants, though they had known beforehand that they would suffer this—²⁶ when, I say, his decrees were despised by the people, he himself tried through torture to compel everyone in the nation to eat defiling foods and to renounce Judaism.

5 The tyrant Antiochus, sitting in state with his counselors on a certain high place, and with his armed soldiers standing around him,² ordered the guards to seize each and every Hebrew and to compel them to eat pork and food sacrificed to idols.³ If any were not willing to eat defiling food, they were to be broken on the wheel and killed.⁴ When many persons had been rounded up, one man, Eleazar by name, leader of the flock, was brought^a before the king. He was a man of priestly family, learned in the law, advanced in age, and known to many in the tyrant's court because of his philosophy.^b

⁵ When Antiochus saw him he said, ⁶“Before I begin to torture you, old man, I would advise you to save yourself by eating pork, ⁷for I respect your age and your gray hairs. Although you have had them for so long a time, it does not seem to me that you are a philosopher when you observe the religion of the Jews.⁸ When nature has granted it to us, why should you abhor eating the very excellent meat of this animal?⁹ It is senseless not to enjoy delicious things that are not shameful, and wrong to spurn the gifts of nature.¹⁰ It seems to me that you will do something even more senseless if, by holding a vain opinion concerning the truth, you continue to despise me to your own hurt.¹¹ Will you not awaken from your foolish philosophy, dispel your futile reasonings, adopt a mind appropriate to your years, philosophize according to the truth of what is beneficial,¹² and have compassion on your old age by honoring my humane advice?¹³ For consider this: if there is some power watching over this religion of yours, it will excuse you from any transgression that arises out of compulsion.”

¹⁴ When the tyrant urged him in this fashion to eat meat unlawfully, Eleazar asked to have a word.¹⁵ When he had received permission to speak, he began to address the people as follows: ¹⁶“We, O Antiochus, who have been persuaded to govern our lives by the divine law, think that there is no compulsion more powerful than our obedience to the law.¹⁷ Therefore we consider that we should not transgress it in any respect.¹⁸ Even if, as you suppose, our law were not truly divine and we had wrongly held it to be divine, not even so would it be right for us to invalidate our reputation for piety.¹⁹ Therefore do not suppose that it would be a petty sin if we were to eat defiling food;²⁰ to transgress the law in

^a Or was the first of the flock to be brought

^b Other ancient authorities read his advanced age

5.1–6.30: The example of Eleazar. 5.1–4: Antiochus is presented throughout the book as a stereotypical tyrant, inventing cruel torments, displaying arrogance, and suppressing time-honored, local laws. The scene of the tyrant confronting the sage is familiar in Greco-Roman philosophical texts, except that here an aged Jewish priest is cast in the role of the sage. 5–38: The “speech duel” between Antiochus and Eleazar gives the author an opportunity to state and refute the dominant culture’s case against Judaism. 7–8: Philosophers claimed that the universal law of nature trumped the imperfect, particularistic laws of any one people. The prohibition of pork (see Lev 11.7; Deut 14.8) was frequently targeted for ridicule as a barbaric peculiarity that flew in the face of nature. 9: Antiochus critiques the avoidance of pork as unjust, as it shows ingratitude toward the gifts of nature, and a sign of ignorance concerning what is truly permissible and what is truly shameful. 13: Transgression of a law under compulsion was excusable according to Greek philosophers. 15: Eleazar addresses not only the tyrant, but also the audience, which includes the other Jewish captives. He seeks as much to encourage the latter as to answer the former. 19–21: Like the Stoics, Eleazar considers all sins to be of equal seriousness since all show matters either small or great is of equal seriousness,²¹ for in either case the law is equally despised.²² You scoff at our philosophy as though living by it were irrational,²³ but it teaches us self-control, so that we master all pleasures and desires, and it also trains us in courage, so that we endure any suffering willingly;²⁴ it instructs us in justice, so that in all our dealings we act impartially,^a and it teaches us piety, so that with proper reverence we worship the only living God.

²⁵ “Therefore we do not eat defiling food; for since we believe that the law was established by God, we know that in the nature of things the Creator of the world in giving us the law has shown sympathy toward us.²⁶ He has permitted us to eat what will be most suitable for our lives,^b but he has forbidden us to eat meats that would be contrary to this.²⁷ It would be tyrannical for you to compel us not only to transgress the law, but also to eat in such a way that you may deride us for eating defiling foods, which are most hateful to us.²⁸ But you shall have no such occasion to laugh at me,²⁹ nor will I transgress the sacred oaths of my ancestors concerning the keeping of the law,³⁰ not even if you gouge out my eyes and burn my entrails.³¹ I am not so old and cowardly as not to be young in reason on behalf of piety.³² Therefore get your torture wheels ready and fan the fire more vehemently!³³ I do not so pity my old age as to break the ancestral law by my own act.³⁴ I will not play false to you, O law that trained me, nor will I renounce you, beloved self-control.³⁵ I will not put you to shame, philosophical reason, nor will I reject you, honored priesthood and knowledge of the law.³⁶ You, O king,^c shall not defile the honorable mouth of my old age, nor my long life lived lawfully.³⁷ My ancestors will receive me as pure, as one who does not fear your violence even to death.³⁸ You may tyrannize the ungodly, but you shall not dominate my religious principles, either by words or through deeds.”

6 When Eleazar in this manner had made eloquent response to the exhortations of the tyrant, the guards who were standing by dragged him violently to the instruments of torture.² First they stripped the old man, though he remained adorned with the gracefulness of his piety.³ After they had tied his arms on each side they flogged him,⁴ while a herald who faced him cried out, “Obey the king’s commands!”⁵ But the courageous and noble man, like a true Eleazar, was unmoved, as though being tortured in a dream;⁶ yet while the old man’s eyes were raised to heaven, his flesh was being torn by scourges, his blood flowing, and his sides were being cut to pieces.⁷ Although he fell to the ground because his body could not endure the agonies, he kept his reason upright and unswerving.⁸ One of the cruel guards rushed at him and began to kick him in the side to make him get up again after he fell.⁹ But he bore the pains and scorned the punishment and endured the tortures.¹⁰ Like a noble athlete the old man, while being beaten, was victorious over his torturers;¹¹ in fact, with his face bathed in sweat, and gasping heavily for breath, he amazed even his torturers by his courageous spirit.

^a Or so that we hold in balance all our habitual inclinations

^b Or souls

^c Gk lacks O king

equal affront to God, whether or not an outsider like Antiochus considers the particular issue weighty. 22–24: Eleazar counters Antiochus’s challenge to Judaism’s status as a worthy philosophy (5.7,11) with the functional proof that obedience to the Torah nurtures the cardinal virtues prized by Platonic and Stoic philosophers (piety replaces “rational judgment” here; see 1.18). 25–26: In the nature of things, lit., “according to nature.” Stoics sought to live in accordance with the divine order inherent in creation. Eleazar counters Antiochus’s criticism that the Torah contradicts nature (5.8–9) by affirming the Torah’s origin in the mind of the Creator of nature, thus providing an even more reliable guide to virtue. 29: Sacred oaths, Ex 24.3,7; Josh 24.18,21,24. 38: Eleazar exhibits the freedom of the sage prized by Stoic philosophy. 6.2: Eleazar’s honor was not diminished by the degrading treatment he received. 5: Like a true Eleazar, “Eleazar” means “God has helped,” hence, “like someone truly helped by God.” 7: Keeping reason upright is the goal of the sage, even as it is for Eleazar. 10: The victim becomes the victor by being able to endure, without capitulation, more than the torturers can inflict. Comparing Eleazar to a noble athlete reflects widespread philosophical usage of athletic imagery to transform passive

¹² At that point, partly out of pity for his old age, ¹³ partly out of sympathy from their acquaintance with him, partly out of admiration for his endurance, some of the king's retinue came to him and said, ¹⁴ "Eleazar, why are you so irrationally destroying yourself through these evil things?" ¹⁵ We will set before you some cooked meat; save yourself by pretending to eat pork."

¹⁶ But Eleazar, as though more bitterly tormented by this counsel, cried out: ¹⁷ "Never may we, the children of Abraham,^a think so basely that out of cowardice we feign a role unbecoming to us! ¹⁸ For it would be irrational if having lived in accordance with truth up to old age and having maintained in accordance with law the reputation of such a life, we should now change our course ¹⁹ and ourselves become a pattern of impiety to the young by setting them an example in the eating of defiling food. ²⁰ It would be shameful if we should survive for a little while and during that time be a laughingstock to all for our cowardice, ²¹ and be despised by the tyrant as unmanly by not contending even to death for our divine law. ²² Therefore, O children of Abraham, die nobly for your religion! ²³ And you, guards of the tyrant, why do you delay?"

²⁴ When they saw that he was so courageous in the face of the afflictions, and that he had not been changed by their compassion, the guards brought him to the fire. ²⁵ There they burned him with maliciously contrived instruments, threw him down, and poured stinking liquids into his nostrils. ²⁶ When he was now burned to his very bones and about to expire, he lifted up his eyes to God and said, ²⁷ "You know, O God, that though I might have saved myself, I am dying in burning torments

for the sake of the law. ²⁸ Be merciful to your people, and let our punishment suffice for them. ²⁹ Make my blood their purification, and take my life in exchange for theirs." ³⁰ After he said this, the holy man died nobly in his tortures; even in the tortures of death he resisted, by virtue of reason, for the sake of the law.

³¹ Admittedly, then, devout reason is sovereign over the emotions. ³² For if the emotions had prevailed over reason, we would have testified to their domination. ³³ But now that reason has conquered the emotions, we properly attribute to it the power to govern. ³⁴ It is right for us to acknowledge the dominance of reason when it masters even external agonies. It would be ridiculous to deny it.^b ³⁵ I have proved not only that reason has mastered agonies, but also that it masters pleasures and in no respect yields to them.

7 For like a most skillful pilot, the reason of our father Eleazar steered the ship of religion over the sea of the emotions, ² and though buffeted by the stormings of the tyrant and overwhelmed by the mighty waves of tortures, ³ in no way did he turn the rudder of religion until he sailed into the haven of immortal victory. ⁴ No city besieged with many ingenious war machines has ever held out as did that most holy man. Although his sacred life was consumed by tortures and racks, he conquered the besiegers with the shield of his devout reason. ⁵ For in setting his mind firm like a jutting cliff, our father Eleazar broke the maddening waves of the emotions. ⁶ O priest, worthy of the priesthood, you neither defiled your sacred teeth

^a Or O children of Abraham

^b Syr: Meaning of Gk uncertain

endurance into active resistance. This imagery recurs in 9.23; 11.20; 12.11,14; 13.13,15; 16.16; 17.11–16. 12–23: See 2 Macc 6.21–22. Eleazar's rejection of the ruse recalls Socrates' rejection of the escape planned by his friends. Neither consented to purchasing a few more years of life at the cost of preserving the virtue of that life unblemished (5.36; 6.18–21; Plato, Cri. 52A–54C). Eleazar cannot maintain his private integrity without also preserving his public witness and example. 28–29: The author combines the belief that a display of covenant obedience would bring an end to God's wrath upon the disobedient nation (Deut 30.1–5) with the sacrificial practice of using a victim's blood to atone for a life (Lev 17.11) to interpret the significance of the martyrdoms (cf. 17.21–22). This is an instructive parallel development to early Christian reflection on the death of Jesus as an act of atonement for the unrighteous. Greek drama also frequently features voluntary deaths as sacrifices that allow others to live or a nation to survive.

6.31–7.23: Reflection on Eleazar's example. 6.31–35: See 3.19n. 7.1–5: The author uses a series of images familiar from popular ethical philosophy to praise Eleazar's achievement of mastery over emotions and sensanor profaned your stomach, which had room only for reverence and purity, by eating defiling foods. ⁷ O man in harmony with the law and philosopher of divine life! ⁸ Such should be those who are administrators of the law, shielding it with their own blood and noble sweat in sufferings even to death.

⁹ You, father, strengthened our loyalty to the law through your glorious endurance, and you did not abandon the holiness that you praised, but by your deeds you made your words of divine^a philosophy credible.

¹⁰ O aged man, more powerful than tortures; O elder, fiercer than fire; O supreme king over the passions, Eleazar! ¹¹ For just as our father Aaron, armed with the censer, ran through the multitude of the people and conquered the fiery^b angel, ¹² so the descendant of Aaron, Eleazar, though being consumed by the fire, remained unmoved in his reason.

¹³ Most amazing, indeed, though he was an old man, his body no longer tense and firm,^c his muscles flabby, his sinews feeble, he became young again ¹⁴ in spirit through reason; and by reason like that of Isaac he rendered the many-headed rack ineffective. ¹⁵ O man of blessed age and of venerable gray hair and of law-abiding life, whom the faithful seal of death has perfected!

¹⁶ If, therefore, because of piety an aged man despised tortures even to death, most certainly devout reason is governor of the emotions. ¹⁷ Some perhaps might say, “Not all have full command of their emotions, because not all have prudent reason.” ¹⁸ But as many as attend to religion with a whole heart, these alone are able to control the passions of the flesh, ¹⁹ since they believe that they, like our patriarchs Abraham and Isaac and Jacob, do not die to God, but live to God. ²⁰ No contradiction therefore arises when some persons appear to be dominated by their emotions because of the weakness of their reason. ²¹ What person who lives as a philosopher by the whole rule of philosophy, and trusts in God, ²² and knows that it is blessed to endure any suffering for the sake of virtue, would not be able to overcome the emotions through godliness? ²³ For only the wise and courageous are masters of their emotions.

8 For this is why even the very young, by following a philosophy in accordance with devout reason, have prevailed over the most painful instruments of torture. ² For when the tyrant was conspicuously defeated in his first attempt, being unable to compel an aged man to eat defiling foods, then in violent rage he commanded that others of the Hebrew captives be brought, and that any who ate defiling food would be freed after eating, but if any were to refuse, they would be tortured even more cruelly.

³ When the tyrant had given these orders, seven brothers—handsome, modest, noble, and accomplished in every way—were brought before him along with their aged mother. ⁴ When the tyrant saw them, grouped about their mother as though a chorus, he was pleased with them. And struck by

^a Other ancient authorities lack divine

^b Other ancient authorities lack fiery

^c Gk the tautness of the body already loosed

tions. 6: Far from devaluing his body, Eleazar honors it in his choice of endurance over capitulation. 9: Consistency in word and speech is the test of the value of one's philosophy, or way of life. 11–12: Aaron, see Num 16.41–50; Wis 18.20–25. Both priests courageously took a stand in a place of great danger for the sake of the nation in order to perform an act of expiation. 14: Isaac, see Gen 22.1–19. 15: The faithful seal of death . . . perfected, because Eleazar preserved his honor and virtue intact to the end, and they are now unassailable forever. 18: Religion, specifically Judaism, is here affirmed as essential to achieving the ethical goal of the Greco-Roman philosophers. 19: Freedom from the fear of death is essential if one is to be free to make the sacrifices that virtue sometimes demands.

8.1–12.19: The example of the seven brothers. 8.2: Conspicuously defeated, Antiochus is aware that the martyrs' effective resistance unto death publicly shames him. In violent rage, Antiochus fails to master his own emotions, giving them instead the upper hand. The Greco-Syrian king falls short of the Greek ideal so fully embodied by the non-Greek martyrs (see 9.10–11), and is indeed unfit to rule others (Plato, Gorg. 491D; Dio Chrys., Or. 62.1). 3–5: Embodying the Greek ideal of male beauty and skill, the brothers do not lack the potential for success in the Greek world. 4: Chorus, an image from the Greek stage, often speaking in unison and represent-their appearance and nobility, he smiled at them, and summoned them nearer and said, ⁵ “Young men, with favorable feelings I admire each and every one of you, and greatly respect the beauty and the number of such brothers. Not only do I advise you not to display the same madness as that of the old man who has just been tortured, but I also exhort you to yield to me and enjoy my friendship. ⁶ Just as I am able to punish those who disobey my orders, so I can be a benefactor to those who obey me. ⁷ Trust me, then, and you will have positions of authority in my government if you will renounce the ancestral tradition of your national life. ⁸ Enjoy your youth by adopting the Greek way of life and by changing your manner of living. ⁹ But if by disobedience you rouse my anger, you will compel me to destroy each and every one of you with dreadful punishments through tortures. ¹⁰ Therefore take pity on yourselves. Even I, your enemy, have compassion for your youth and handsome appearance. ¹¹ Will you not consider this, that if you disobey, nothing remains for you but to die on the rack?”

¹² When he had said these things, he ordered the instruments of torture to be brought forward so as to persuade them out of fear to eat the defiling food. ¹³ When the guards had placed before them wheels and joint-dislocators, rack and hooks^a and catapults^b and caldrons, braziers and thumbscrews and iron claws and wedges and bellows, the tyrant resumed speaking: ¹⁴ “Be afraid, young fellows; whatever justice you revere will be merciful to you when you transgress under compulsion.”

¹⁵ But when they had heard the inducements and saw the dreadful devices, not only were they not afraid, but they also opposed the tyrant with their own philosophy, and by their right reasoning nullified his tyranny.

¹⁶ Let us consider, on the other hand, what arguments might have been used if some of them had been cowardly and unmanly. Would they not have been the following?

¹⁷ “O wretches that we are and so senseless! Since the king has summoned and exhorted us to accept kind treatment if we obey him, ¹⁸ why do we take pleasure in vain resolves and venture upon a disobedience that brings death? ¹⁹ O men and brothers, should we not fear the instruments of torture and consider the threats of torments, and give up this vain opinion and this arrogance that threatens to destroy us? ²⁰ Let us take pity on our youth and have compassion on our mother’s age; ²¹ and let us seriously consider that if we disobey we are dead! ²² Also, divine justice will excuse us for fearing the king when we are under compulsion. ²³ Why do we banish ourselves from this most pleasant life and deprive ourselves of this delightful world? ²⁴ Let us not struggle against compulsion^c or take hollow pride in being put to the rack. ²⁵ Not even the law itself would arbitrarily put us to death for fearing the instruments of torture. ²⁶ Why does such contentiousness excite us and such a fatal stubbornness please us, when we can live in peace if we obey the king?”

²⁷ But the youths, though about to be tortured, neither said any of these things nor even seriously considered them. ²⁸ For they were contemptuous of the emotions and sovereign over agonies, ²⁹ so that as soon as the tyrant had ceased counseling them to eat defiling food, all with one voice together, as from one mind, said:

9 “Why do you delay, O tyrant? For we are ready to die rather than transgress our ancestral commandments; ² we are obviously putting our forebears to shame unless we should practice ready obedience to the

^a Meaning of Gk uncertain

^b Here and elsewhere in 4 Macc an instrument of torture

^c Or fate

ing a single role. The image underscores their harmonious agreement (see 8.29–9.9; 13.8–18; 17.23). 5: Friendship here indicates personal patronage and the promise of holding offices in the king’s government (see 8.7). 9: You will compel me, the king is less free than his victims, who cannot be compelled by his most coercive tortures. 14: See 5.13n. 16–26: The author creates a hypothetical response to throw the brothers’ actual resolve into sharper relief. While it may seem reasonable enough, it is also laced with expressions of cowardice found elsewhere (e.g., Aristotle, Virt. 6.5–6; Sophocles, Ant. 58–68). If members of the audience have similarly rationalized the loosening of adherence to the Torah’s commandments, the effect will be to shame and challenge them. 29:

law and to Moses^a our counselor. ³Tyrant and counselor of lawlessness, in your hatred for us do not pity us more than we pity ourselves.^b ⁴For we consider this pity of yours, which insures our safety through transgression of the law, to be more grievous than death itself. ⁵You are trying to terrify us by threatening us with death by torture, as though a short time ago you learned nothing from Eleazar. ⁶And if the aged men of the Hebrews because of their religion lived piously^c while enduring torture, it would be even more fitting that we young men should die despising your coercive tortures, which our aged instructor also overcame. ⁷Therefore, tyrant, put us to the test; and if you take our lives because of our religion, do not suppose that you can injure us by torturing us. ⁸For we, through this severe suffering and endurance, shall have the prize of virtue and shall be with God, on whose account we suffer; ⁹but you, because of your bloodthirstiness toward us, will deservedly undergo from the divine justice eternal torment by fire.”

¹⁰When they had said these things, the tyrant was not only indignant, as at those who are disobedient, but also infuriated, as at those who are ungrateful. ¹¹Then at his command the guards brought forward the eldest, and having torn off his tunic, they bound his hands and arms with thongs on each side. ¹²When they had worn themselves out beating him with scourges, without accomplishing anything, they placed him upon the wheel. ¹³When the noble youth was stretched out around this, his limbs were dislocated, ¹⁴and with every member disjointed he denounced the tyrant, saying, ¹⁵“Most abominable tyrant, enemy of heavenly justice, savage of mind, you are mangling me in this manner, not because I am a murderer, or as one who acts impiously, but because I protect the divine law.” ¹⁶And when the guards said, “Agree to eat so that you may be released from the tortures,” ¹⁷he replied, “You abominable lackeys, your wheel is not so powerful as to strangle my reason. Cut my limbs, burn my flesh, and twist my joints; ¹⁸through all these tortures I will convince you that children of the Hebrews alone are invincible where virtue is concerned.” ¹⁹While he was saying these things, they spread fire under him, and while fanning the flames^b they tightened the wheel further. ²⁰The wheel was completely smeared with blood, and the heap of coals was being quenched by the drippings of gore, and pieces of flesh were falling off the axles of the machine. ²¹Although the ligaments joining his bones were already severed, the courageous youth, worthy of Abraham, did not groan, ²²but as though transformed by fire into immortality, he nobly endured the rackings. ²³“Imitate me, brothers,” he said. “Do not leave your post in my struggle^d or renounce our courageous family ties. ²⁴Fight the sacred and noble battle for religion. Thereby the just Providence of our ancestors may become merciful to our nation and take vengeance on the accursed tyrant.” ²⁵When he had said this, the saintly youth broke the thread of life.

²⁶While all were marveling at his courageous spirit, the guards brought in the next eldest, and after fitting themselves with iron gauntlets having sharp hooks, they bound

^a Other ancient authorities read knowledge

^b Meaning of Gk uncertain

^c Other ancient authorities read died

^d Other ancient authorities read post forever

With one voice, see 8.4n. 9.6: More fitting, because the young were deemed stronger and more courageous than the elderly. 7: The ideal sage acknowledges no injury from outside, but fears only self-inflicted injury to his or her moral determination. 8–9: Expectation of reward or punishment after death underlies the martyrs' commitment to the Law throughout the work. 10–11: See 8.2n. 12: See 6.10n. 15: The first brother refuses to accept the deviant status that the tortures are meant to inscribe on him: he is in the right, and the imperial power is acting unjustly. 17–18: The sage refuses to allow physical maltreatment to give an enemy leverage against his or her will, thus remaining invincible (also 11.21,27). The claim that children of the Hebrews alone achieve the Greek philosophical ideal encourages the audience to prize their own distinctive heritage in the context of Greek cultural imperialism (see 7.18–19). 21: Did not groan, a familiar topic of fortitude (e.g., Plutarch, Mor. 234A, 498E). 23–24: Military imagery transforms the endurance of degrading torture into the battle line against the enemy that must be held at all costs, hence an opportunity to display courage. 25: Thread of life, an image from Greek him to the torture machine and catapult.

²⁷ Before torturing him, they inquired if he were willing to eat, and they heard his noble decision. ^a ²⁸ These leopard-like beasts tore out his sinews with the iron hands, flayed all his flesh up to his chin, and tore away his scalp. But he steadfastly endured this agony and said, ²⁹ “How sweet is any kind of death for the religion of our ancestors!” ³⁰ To the tyrant he said, “Do you not think, you most savage tyrant, that you are being tortured more than I, as you see the arrogant design of your tyranny being defeated by our endurance for the sake of religion? ³¹ I lighten my pain by the joys that come from virtue, ³² but you suffer torture by the threats that come from impiety. You will not escape, you most abominable tyrant, the judgments of the divine wrath.”

10 When he too had endured a glorious death, the third was led in, and many repeatedly urged him to save himself by tasting the meat. ² But he shouted, “Do you not know that the same father begot me as well as those who died, and the same mother bore me, and that I was brought up on the same teachings? ³ I do not renounce the noble kinship that binds me to my brothers.” ^b ⁵ Enraged by the man’s boldness, they disjointed his hands and feet with their instruments, dismembering him by prying his limbs from their sockets, ⁶ and breaking his fingers and arms and legs and elbows. ⁷ Since they were not able in any way to break his spirit, ^c they abandoned the instruments ^d and scalped him with their fingernails in a Scythian fashion. ⁸ They immediately brought him to the wheel, and while his vertebrae were being dislocated by this, he saw his own flesh torn all around and drops of blood flowing from his entrails. ⁹ When he was about to die, he said, ¹⁰ “We, most abominable tyrant, are suffering because of our godly training and virtue, ¹¹ but you, because of your impiety and bloodthirstiness, will undergo unceasing torments.”

¹² When he too had died in a manner worthy of his brothers, they dragged in the fourth, saying, ¹³ “As for you, do not give way to the same insanity as your brothers, but obey the king and save yourself.” ¹⁴ But he said to them, “You do not have a fire hot enough to make me play the coward. ¹⁵ No—by the blessed death of my brothers, by the eternal destruction of the tyrant, and by the everlasting life of the pious, I will not renounce our noble family ties. ¹⁶ Contrive tortures, tyrant, so that you may learn from them that I am a brother to those who have just now been tortured.” ¹⁷ When he heard this, the bloodthirsty, murderous, and utterly abominable Antiochus gave orders to cut out his tongue. ¹⁸ But he said, “Even if you remove my organ of speech, God hears also those who are mute. ¹⁹ See, here is my tongue; cut it off, for in spite of this you will not make our reason speechless. ²⁰ Gladly, for the sake of God, we let our bodily members be mutilated. ²¹ God will visit you swiftly, for you are cutting out a tongue that has been melodious with divine hymns.”

11 When he too died, after being cruelly tortured, the fifth leaped up, saying, ² “I will not refuse, tyrant, to be tortured for the sake of virtue. ³ I have come of my own accord, so that by murdering me you will incur punishment from the heavenly justice for even

^a Other ancient authorities read having heard his noble decision, they tore him to shreds

^b Other ancient authorities add verse 4, So if you have any instrument of torture, apply it to my body; for you cannot touch my soul, even if you wish.

^c Gk to strangle him

^d Other ancient authorities read they tore off his skin

mythology. 28: The representatives of Greek civilization become more and more like barbarians and beasts as the speech progresses. 29: Compare Horace, Odes 3.2.13: “Sweet and fitting it is to die for one’s country.” 31–32: Plato taught that virtue brought its own sweetness, and vice its own punishment (Gorg. 470E–471A; 507B; also Plutarch, Mor. 498C–E). 10.5: Boldness was an ideal of Greek democracy, especially important as a means of critique where democracy was threatened or replaced by tyranny or monarchy. Enraged, Antiochus’s lackeys share in the king’s failure to master their own passions (8.2; 9.10–11). 7: The representatives of Greek culture show themselves to be the true barbarians; the Scythians, in the vicinity of the Black Sea, had a reputation for cruelty (2 Macc 4.47; 3 Macc 7.5). 15: The fourth brother rejects the torturers’ assessment of his brothers’ conduct as “madness” (Gk “manian,” 10.13), asserting instead that they died a blessed (Gk “makarion”) death because they maintained their integrity to the end. 11.1, 3: Of my own accord, by seizing what little initiative is available, the more crimes.⁴ Hater of virtue, hater of human-kind, for what act of ours are you destroying us in this way?⁵ Is it because^a we revere the Creator of all things and live according to his virtuous law?⁶ But these deeds deserve honors, not tortures.^{7b} While he was saying these things, the guards bound him and dragged him to the catapult;¹⁰ they tied him to it on his knees, and fitting iron clamps on them, they twisted his back^c around the wedge on the wheel,^d so that he was completely curled back like a scorpion, and all his members were disjointed.¹¹ In this condition, gasping for breath and in anguish of body,¹² he said, “Tyrant, they are splendid favors that you grant us against your will, because through these noble sufferings you give us an opportunity to show our endurance for the law.”

¹³When he too had died, the sixth, a mere boy, was led in. When the tyrant inquired whether he was willing to eat and be released, he said,¹⁴ “I am younger in age than my brothers, but I am their equal in mind.¹⁵ Since to this end we were born and bred, we ought likewise to die for the same principles.¹⁶ So if you intend to torture me for not eating defiling foods, go on torturing!”¹⁷ When he had said this, they led him to the wheel.¹⁸ He was carefully stretched tight upon it, his back was broken, and he was roasted^e from underneath.¹⁹ To his back they applied sharp spits that had been heated in the fire, and pierced his ribs so that his entrails were burned through.²⁰ While being tortured he said, “O contest befitting holiness, in which so many of us brothers have been summoned to an arena of sufferings for religion, and in which we have not been defeated!²¹ For religious knowledge, O tyrant, is invincible.²² I also, equipped with nobility, will die with my brothers,²³ and I myself will bring a great avenger upon you, you inventor of tortures and enemy of those who are truly devout.²⁴ We six boys have paralyzed your tyranny.²⁵ Since you have not been able to persuade us to change our mind or to force us to eat defiling foods, is not this your downfall?²⁶ Your fire is cold to us, and the catapults painless, and your violence powerless.²⁷ For it is not the guards of the tyrant but those of the divine law that are set over us; therefore, unconquered, we hold fast to reason.”

12 When he too, thrown into the caldron, had died a blessed death, the seventh and youngest of all came forward.² Even though the tyrant had been vehemently reproached by the brothers, he felt strong compassion for this child when he saw that he was already in fetters. He summoned him to come nearer and tried to persuade him, saying,³ “You see the result of your brothers’ stupidity, for they died in torments because of their disobedience.⁴ You too, if you do not obey, will be miserably tortured and die before your time,⁵ but if you yield to persuasion you will be my friend and a leader in the government of the kingdom.”⁶ When he had thus appealed to him, he sent for the boy’s mother to show compassion on her who had been bereaved of so many sons and to influence her to persuade the surviving son to obey and save himself.

^a Other ancient authorities read Or does it seem evil to you that

^b Other authorities add verses 7 and 8, “If you but understood human feelings and had hope of salvation from God—⁸but, as it is, you are a stranger to God and persecute those who serve him.”

^c Gk loins

^d Meaning of Gk uncertain

^e Other ancient authorities add by fire

fifth brother comes forward as a contender rather than a victim. 4: The charge of hatred of humanity, frequently leveled against the Jews by those who held the Jewish law to be xenophobic (see 2.14n.), is turned back upon those who would persecute the Jews on account of their different religion and way of life. 6: See 9.15n. 12: The ideal sage engages hardships as a means of demonstrating commitment to virtue. These are the only favors the pious Jews will accept from Antiochus (contrast 8.6–7). 20: Contest . . . arena, see 6.10n. Not been defeated, since their wills could not be corrupted. 24–25: Antiochus has failed in his primary goal of forcing assimilation. 26: Fire is cold, in the sense of powerless or ineffective to subvert the Judeans’ will. The martyrs have not, however, extinguished the awareness of pain, as a Stoic might strive to do (11.11; 14.9–10). 12.2: Vehemently reproached, better, “frightfully abused.” With skillful irony, the author suggests that Antiochus is the one who has been beaten down here. 6: Although the author presents Antiochus as acting out of compassion here, persuading the last brother to surrender would also effectively cancel his previous seven defeats. 7: The use of the Hebrew

⁷But when his mother had exhorted him in the Hebrew language, as we shall tell a little later, ⁸he said, “Let me loose, let me speak to the king and to all his friends that are with him.” ⁹Extremely pleased by the boy’s declaration, they freed him at once. ¹⁰Running to the nearest of the braziers, ¹¹he said, “You profane tyrant, most impious of all the wicked, since you have received good things and also your kingdom from God, were you not ashamed to murder his servants and torture on the wheel those who practice religion? ¹²Because of this, justice has laid up for you intense and eternal fire and tortures, and these throughout all time^a will never let you go. ¹³As a man, were you not ashamed, you most savage beast, to cut out the tongues of men who have feelings like yours and are made of the same elements as you, and to maltreat and torture them in this way? ¹⁴Surely they by dying nobly fulfilled their service to God, but you will wail bitterly for having killed without cause the contestants for virtue.” ¹⁵Then because he too was about to die, he said, ¹⁶“I do not desert the excellent example^b of my brothers, ¹⁷and I call on the God of our ancestors to be merciful to our nation;^c ¹⁸but on you he will take vengeance both in this present life and when you are dead.” ¹⁹After he had uttered these imprecations, he flung himself into the braziers and so ended his life.^d

13 Since, then, the seven brothers despised sufferings even unto death, everyone must concede that devout reason is sovereign over the emotions. ²For if they had been slaves to their emotions and had eaten defiling food, we would say that they had been conquered by these emotions. ³But in fact it was not so. Instead, by reason, which is praised before God, they prevailed over their emotions. ⁴The supremacy of the mind over these cannot be overlooked, for the brothers^e mastered both emotions and pains. ⁵How then can one fail to confess the sovereignty of right reason over emotion in those who were not turned back by fiery agonies? ⁶For just as towers jutting out over harbors hold back the threatening waves and make it calm for those who sail into the inner basin, ⁷so the seven-towered right reason of the youths, by fortifying the harbor of religion, conquered the tempest of the emotions. ⁸For they constituted a holy chorus of religion and encouraged one another, saying, ⁹“Brothers, let us die like brothers for the sake of the law; let us imitate the three youths in Assyria who despised the same ordeal of the furnace. ¹⁰Let us not be cowardly in the demonstration of our piety.” ¹¹While one said, “Courage, brother,” another said, “Bear up nobly,” ¹²and another reminded them, “Remember whence you came, and the father by whose hand Isaac would have submitted to being slain for the sake of religion.” ¹³Each of them and all of them together looking at one another, cheerful and undaunted, said, “Let us with all our hearts consecrate

^a Gk throughout the whole age

^b Other ancient authorities read the witness

^c Other ancient authorities read my race

^d Gk and so gave up; other ancient authorities read gave up his spirit or his soul

^e Gk they

language here both hides the meaning of her speech from the king and is an act of resistance to Greek imperialism. When the speech is actually recounted a little later, however, the mother speaks to all her sons during Eleazar’s ordeal (16.15–25). 11, 13: The last brother charges Antiochus with injustice against the God who gave him his authority (cf. Dan 4:25), since he has used that power to harm God’s loyal clients rather than benefit them and serve God’s cause. He also condemns Antiochus for violating the universal bond of humanity that unites all people by brutally torturing fellow human beings. The charges that Jews do not give the gods their due and violate the universal bond of humanity are thus again turned back upon the dominant culture. 19: The youngest brother seizes what little control he can by committing suicide; see 17.1n. Contrast 2 Macc 7.39–40.

13.1–14.10: Reflection on the seven brothers’ example. 13.1–5: See 3.19n. 8: The brothers’ harmony in their collective commitment to the Torah helps each individually to remain steadfast. Such harmony (see 8.4n.) was considered a valuable civic virtue, since it enhanced social reinforcement of the group’s norms. 9: Dan 3 (esp. 3.17–18). The three youths, together with Daniel himself (Dan 6), were prototypes of resistance against a tyrant’s coercive threats and laws for the sake of maintaining their piety; see also 16.21; 18.12–13. 12: Gen 22.1–19. The mother will also be compared to Abraham, with whom she shared a willingness to put obedience to God’s command above the life of her children (14.20; 15.28). 13: The brothers regard obedience to God to the point of death ourselves to God, who gave us our lives,³ and let us use our bodies as a bulwark for the law.¹⁴ Let us not fear him who thinks he is killing us,¹⁵ for great is the struggle of the soul and the danger of eternal torment lying before those who transgress the commandment of God.¹⁶ Therefore let us put on the full armor of self-control, which is divine reason.¹⁷ For if we so die,^b Abraham and Isaac and Jacob will welcome us, and all the fathers will praise us.”¹⁸ Those who were left behind said to each of the brothers who were being dragged away, “Do not put us to shame, brother, or betray the brothers who have died before us.”

¹⁹You are not ignorant of the affection of family ties, which the divine and all-wise Providence has bequeathed through the fathers to their descendants and which was implanted in the mother’s womb.²⁰ There each of the brothers spent the same length of time and was shaped during the same period of time; and growing from the same blood and through the same life, they were brought to the light of day.²¹ When they were born after an equal time of gestation, they drank milk from the same fountains. From such embraces brotherly-loving souls are nourished;²² and they grow stronger from this common nurture and daily companionship, and from both general education and our discipline in the law of God.

²³Therefore, when sympathy and brotherly affection had been so established, the brothers were the more sympathetic to one another.²⁴ Since they had been educated by the same law and trained in the same virtues and brought up in right living, they loved one another all the more.²⁵ A common zeal for nobility strengthened their goodwill toward one another, and their concord,²⁶ because they could make their brotherly love more fervent with the aid of their religion.²⁷ But although nature and companionship and virtuous habits had augmented the affection of family ties, those who were left endured for the sake of religion, while watching their brothers being maltreated and tortured to death.

14 Furthermore, they encouraged them to face the torture, so that they not only despised their agonies, but also mastered the emotions of brotherly love.

²O reason,^c more royal than kings and freer than the free!³ O sacred and harmonious concord of the seven brothers on behalf of religion!⁴ None of the seven youths proved coward or shrank from death,⁵ but all of them, as though running the course toward immortality, hastened to death by torture.⁶ Just as the hands and feet are moved in harmony with the guidance of the mind, so those holy youths, as though moved by an immortal spirit of devotion, agreed to go to death for its sake.⁷ O most holy seven, brothers in harmony! For just as the seven days of creation move in choral dance around religion,⁸ so these youths, forming a chorus, encircled the sevenfold fear of tortures and dissolved it.⁹ Even now, we ourselves shudder as we hear of the suffering of these young men; they not only saw what was happening, not only heard the direct word of threat, but also bore the sufferings patiently, and in agonies of fire at that.¹⁰ What could

^a Or souls

^b Other ancient authorities read suffer

^c Or O minds

a fitting return of gratitude for the gift of life itself; see also 16.18–19. 14: Who thinks he is killing, see 9.7n.; cf. Mt 10.28. 19–26: Almost every detail in the author’s discussion of the love between siblings has a counterpart in Greco-Roman philosophical discussions of this topic, another indication of how immersed the author was in Greek culture and learning while remaining fully committed to the Jewish way of life. 13.27–14.1: Because of their training in the Torah, the brothers are able to strengthen rather than weaken each other’s resolve, enabling one another to walk in line with virtue, thus fulfilling the Aristotelian ideal of friendship. 14.2: The sage cannot be compelled to sacrifice virtue, bowing to any external pressure, and so remains free and exercises royal self-governance. 7: Seven was mystically associated with the harmony of God’s creation and created order (Philo, Opif. 90–128). 8: Chorus, see 8.4n. and 13.8n. 9: The author has justifiable confidence in his power of vivid description to make his audience squirm. He has used this rhetorical technique in order to heighten the audience’s appreciation of the sensations the martyrs withstood, so as to embolden them to remain steadfast in their commitment to the Jewish way of life in the face of far less daunting difficulties.

be more excruciatingly painful than this? For the power of fire is intense and swift, and it consumed their bodies quickly.

¹¹Do not consider it amazing that reason had full command over these men in their tortures, since the mind of woman despised even more diverse agonies, ¹²for the mother of the seven young men bore up under the rackings of each one of her children.

¹³Observe how complex is a mother's love for her children, which draws everything toward an emotion felt in her inmost parts.

¹⁴Even unreasoning animals, as well as human beings, have a sympathy and parental love for their offspring. ¹⁵For example, among birds, the ones that are tame protect their young by building on the housetops, ¹⁶and the others, by building at the tops of mountains and the depths of chasms, in holes of trees, and on tree-tops, hatch the nestlings and ward off the intruder. ¹⁷If they are not able to keep the intruder^a away, they do what they can to help their young by flying in circles around them in the anguish of love, warning them with their own calls. ¹⁸And why is it necessary to demonstrate sympathy for children by the example of unreasoning animals, ¹⁹since even bees at the time for making honeycombs defend themselves against intruders and, as though with an iron dart, sting those who approach their hive and defend it even to the death? ²⁰But sympathy for her children did not sway the mother of the young men; she was of the same mind as Abraham.

15 O reason of the children, tyrant over the emotions! O religion, more desirable to the mother than her children! ²Two courses were open to this mother, that of religion, and that of preserving her seven sons for a time, as the tyrant had promised. ³She loved religion more, the religion that preserves them for eternal life according to God's promise.^b

⁴In what manner might I express the emotions of parents who love their children? We impress upon the character of a small child a wondrous likeness both of mind and of form.

Especially is this true of mothers, who because of their birth pangs have a deeper sympathy toward their offspring than do the fathers.

⁵Considering that mothers are the weaker sex and give birth to many, they are more devoted to their children. ⁶The mother of the seven boys, more than any other mother, loved her children. In seven pregnancies she had implanted in herself tender love toward them,

⁷and because of the many pains she suffered with each of them she had sympathy for them;

⁸yet because of the fear of God she disdained the temporary safety of her children. ⁹Not only so, but also because of the nobility of her sons and their ready obedience to the law, she felt a greater tenderness toward them.

¹⁰For they were righteous and self-controlled and brave and magnanimous, and loved their brothers and their mother, so that they obeyed her even to death in keeping the ordinances.

¹¹Nevertheless, though so many factors influenced the mother to suffer with them out of love for her children, in the case of none of them were the various tortures strong enough to pervert her reason. ¹²But each child separately and all of them together the mother urged on to death for religion's sake.

¹³O sacred nature and affection of parental love, yearning of parents toward offspring, nurture and indomitable suffering by mothers!

¹⁴This mother, who saw them tortured and burned one by one, because of religion

^a Gk it

^b Gk according to God

^c Or For to the degree that mothers are weaker and the more children they bear, the more they are devoted to their children.

14.11–17.6: The example of the mother and reflection. The climactic example of the Torah's ability to empower the mind for mastery of the emotions is the mother of the seven brothers. 14.11: Since the mind of woman, perhaps more accurately, "since even the mind of a woman." Women were generally held to be more prone to yield to the emotions and sensations than men (Aristotle, Pol. 1.13; Philo, Leg. all. 2.44–50), with the result that a female's mastery of such overwhelming experiences proves the efficacy of the Torah as a philosophical way of life beyond contradiction. 13–20: The author's description of love for offspring once again shares many details with Greco-Roman writings on the topic; see 13.19–26n. 20: See 13.12n. 15.1: O reason . . . O religion . . .! The author makes extensive use of "apostrophe" (direct address to some ideal or person not physically present) throughout his oration in order to heighten its emotionally evocative power. 2–3: For a time . . . for eternal did not change her attitude. ¹⁵ She watched the flesh of her children being consumed by fire, their toes and fingers scattered^a on the ground, and the flesh of the head to the chin exposed like masks.

¹⁶ O mother, tried now by more bitter pains than even the birth pangs you suffered for them! ¹⁷ O woman, who alone gave birth to such complete devotion! ¹⁸ When the firstborn breathed his last, it did not turn you aside, nor when the second in torments looked at you piteously nor when the third expired; ¹⁹ nor did you weep when you looked at the eyes of each one in his tortures gazing boldly at the same agonies, and saw in their nostrils the signs of the approach of death.

²⁰ When you saw the flesh of children burned upon the flesh of other children, severed hands upon hands, scalped heads upon heads, and corpses fallen on other corpses, and when you saw the place filled with many spectators of the torturings, you did not shed tears. ²¹ Neither the melodies of sirens nor the songs of swans attract the attention of their hearers as did the voices of the children in torture calling to their mother. ²² How great and how many torments the mother then suffered as her sons were tortured on the wheel and with the hot irons! ²³ But devout reason, giving her heart a man's courage in the very midst of her emotions, strengthened her to disregard, for the time, her parental love.

²⁴ Although she witnessed the destruction of seven children and the ingenious and various rackings, this noble mother disregarded all these^b because of faith in God. ²⁵ For as in the council chamber of her own soul she saw mighty advocates—nature, family, parental love, and the rackings of her children—²⁶ this mother held two ballots, one bearing death and the other deliverance for her children.

²⁷ She did not approve the deliverance that would preserve the seven sons for a short time, ²⁸ but as the daughter of God-fearing Abraham she remembered his fortitude.

²⁹ O mother of the nation, vindicator of the law and champion of religion, who carried away the prize of the contest in your heart!

³⁰ O more noble than males in steadfastness, and more courageous than men in endurance! ³¹ Just as Noah's ark, carrying the world in the universal flood, stoutly endured the waves, ³² so you, O guardian of the law, overwhelmed from every side by the flood of your emotions and the violent winds, the torture of your sons, endured nobly and withstood the wintry storms that assail religion.

16 If, then, a woman, advanced in years and mother of seven sons, endured seeing her children tortured to death, it must be admitted that devout reason is sovereign over the emotions. ² Thus I have demonstrated not only that men have ruled over the emotions, but also that a woman has despised the fiercest tortures. ³ The lions surrounding Daniel were not so savage, nor was the raging fiery furnace of Mishael so intensely hot, as was her innate parental love, inflamed as she saw her seven sons tortured in such varied ways. ⁴ But the mother quenched so many and such great emotions by devout reason.

⁵ Consider this also: If this woman, though a mother, had been fainthearted, she would

^a Or quivering

^b Other ancient authorities read having bidden them farewell, surrendered them

life, see 9.8–9n. 4–7: See 14.11n.; 14.13–20n. 8: See 9.8–9n. 16–17: O mother . . . O woman, see 15.1n. 18–22: The author provides a concentrated summary of the brothers' sufferings to sharpen the audience's impression of the assaults that tortured the mother, pressing upon her to cry out and beg her sons to save themselves (see 12.6; 16.12). 19: Gazing boldly, literally, "gazing bull-like," a classical Greek expression (Aristophanes, Ran. 804; Plato, Phaed. 1176). 21: The melodies of sirens were so irresistible they lured sailors to their death (Homer, Od. 12.44–52), and swans (which do not sing) were believed to sing a beautiful song just before they died. 26: Two ballots, a judicial image, one for acquittal, one for condemnation. 28: See 13.12n. 30: More courageous than men, an especially poignant pun in Greek where "courageous" ("andreaia") is derived from the noun for "male human being" ("aner, andros"), like English "manly." See also 15.23; 16.14. Plutarch celebrates the stories of women who exemplified courage greater than or equal to men ("On the Bravery of Women," Mor. 242E–263C), with whose stories the mother's story shares several traits. 31–32: See 7.1–3n. Philo gives a similar interpretation of Noah's ark (Quaest. in Gen. 2.18). 16.1–4: See 3.19n. 2: Not only that men . . . but also that a woman, see 14.11n. 3:

have mourned over them and perhaps spoken as follows: ⁶“O how wretched am I and many times unhappy! After bearing seven children, I am now the mother of none! ⁷O seven childbirths all in vain, seven profitless pregnancies, fruitless nurturings and wretched nursings! ⁸In vain, my sons, I endured many birth pangs for you, and the more grievous anxieties of your upbringing. ⁹Alas for my children, some unmarried, others married and without offspring. ⁹ I shall not see your children or have the happiness of being called grandmother. ¹⁰ Alas, I who had so many and beautiful children am a widow and alone, with many sorrows. ^b ¹¹ And when I die, I shall have none of my sons to bury me.”

¹² Yet that holy and God-fearing mother did not wail with such a lament for any of them, nor did she dissuade any of them from dying, nor did she grieve as they were dying. ¹³ On the contrary, as though having a mind like adamant and giving rebirth for immortality to the whole number of her sons, she implored them and urged them on to death for the sake of religion. ¹⁴ O mother, soldier of God in the cause of religion, elder and woman! By steadfastness you have conquered even a tyrant, and in word and deed you have proved more powerful than a man. ¹⁵ For when you and your sons were arrested together, you stood and watched Eleazar being tortured, and said to your sons in the Hebrew language, ¹⁶ “My sons, noble is the contest to which you are called to bear witness for the nation. Fight zealously for our ancestral law. ¹⁷ For it would be shameful if, while an aged man endures such agonies for the sake of religion, you young men were to be terrified by tortures. ¹⁸ Remember that it is through God that you have had a share in the world and have enjoyed life, ¹⁹ and therefore you ought to endure any suffering for the sake of God. ²⁰ For his sake also our father Abraham was zealous to sacrifice his son Isaac, the ancestor of our nation; and when Isaac saw his father’s hand wielding a knife^c and descending upon him, he did not cower. ²¹ Daniel the righteous was thrown to the lions, and Hananiah, Azariah, and Mishael were hurled into the fiery furnace and endured it for the sake of God. ²² You too must have the same faith in God and not be grieved. ²³ It is unreasonable for people who have religious knowledge not to withstand pain.”

²⁴ By these words the mother of the seven encouraged and persuaded each of her sons to die rather than violate God’s commandment. ²⁵ They knew also that those who die for the sake of God live to God, as do Abraham and Isaac and Jacob and all the patriarchs.

17 Some of the guards said that when she also was about to be seized and put to death she threw herself into the flames so that no one might touch her body.

² O mother, who with your seven sons nullified the violence of the tyrant, frustrated his evil designs, and showed the courage of your faith! ³ Nobly set like a roof on the pillars of your sons, you held firm and unswerving against the earthquake of the tortures. ⁴ Take courage, therefore, O holy-minded mother,

^a Gk without benefit

^b Or much to be pitied

^c Gk sword

Daniel, Dan 6.1–24. Mishael, also called Meshach, Dan 1.7; 3.1–30. 5–11: As for the brothers (8.16–26), the author provides a speech reflective of the mind-set that the mother refused to adopt. Almost every element in the hypothetical lament composed for the mother reflects the laments of bereaved mothers in the tragedies of Euripides (see especially Tro. 380–82, 473–88, 503–505, 758–60). Having raised many children only to lose them in a single struggle, the mother is worthy of comparison with Queen Hecuba of Troy. 12–13: The author stresses, however, that despite similar loss she did not grieve like Hecuba, since she considered the faithful deaths of her sons the best course for them and for her. Her pregnancies were not profitless (v. 7) since she gave rebirth for immortality to all her sons. Dissuade, see 12.6–7. Adamant, here a hard metal or diamond. 15: Hebrew, see 12.7n. 16: Noble . . . contest, see 6.10n. The martyrs bear witness in this public arena to the value of the Jewish way of life and the nation’s character. Fight zealously, again turning the passive experience of victimization into active resistance. 18–19: See 13.12–13n. 20: Abraham . . . Isaac, Gen 22.1–19. 21: Daniel . . . Mishael, see 13.9n.; 16.3n. 22: Have the same faith, or “show the same loyalty toward God.” 25: See 7.19n.; 9.8–9n. 17.1: The mother commits suicide rather than allow herself to be inappropriately handled by other men. Suicide under such circumstances maintaining firm an enduring hope in God.⁵ The moon in heaven, with the stars, does not stand so august as you, who, after lighting the way of your star-like seven sons to piety, stand in honor before God and are firmly set in heaven with them.⁶ For your children were true descendants of father Abraham.^a

⁷If it were possible for us to paint the history of your religion as an artist might, would not those who first beheld it have shuddered as they saw the mother of the seven children enduring their varied tortures to death for the sake of religion?⁸ Indeed it would be proper to inscribe on their tomb these words as a reminder to the people of our nation.^b

⁹“Here lie buried an aged priest and an aged woman and seven sons, because of the violence of the tyrant who wished to destroy the way of life of the Hebrews.¹⁰ They vindicated their nation, looking to God and enduring torture even to death.”

¹¹Truly the contest in which they were engaged was divine,¹² for on that day virtue gave the awards and tested them for their endurance. The prize was immortality in endless life.¹³ Eleazar was the first contestant, the mother of the seven sons entered the competition, and the brothers contended.¹⁴ The tyrant was the antagonist, and the world and the human race were the spectators.¹⁵ Reverence for God was victor and gave the crown to its own athletes.¹⁶ Who did not admire the athletes of the divine^c legislation? Who were not amazed?

¹⁷The tyrant himself and all his council marveled at their^d endurance,¹⁸ because of which they now stand before the divine throne and live the life of eternal blessedness.

¹⁹For Moses says, “All who are consecrated are under your hands.”²⁰ These, then, who have been consecrated for the sake of God,^e are honored, not only with this honor, but also by the fact that because of them our enemies did not rule over our nation,²¹ the tyrant was punished, and the homeland purified—they having become, as it were, a ransom for the sin of our nation.²² And through the blood of those devout ones and their death as an atoning sacrifice, divine Providence preserved Israel that previously had been mistreated.

²³For the tyrant Antiochus, when he saw the courage of their virtue and their endurance under the tortures, proclaimed them to his soldiers as an example for their own endurance,²⁴ and this made them brave and courageous for infantry battle and siege, and he ravaged and conquered all his enemies.

18 O Israelite children, offspring of the seed of Abraham, obey this law and exercise piety in every way,² knowing that devout reason is master of all emotions, not only of sufferings from within, but also of those from without.

^a Gk For your childbearing was from Abraham the father; other ancient authorities read For . . . Abraham the servant

^b Or as a memorial to the heroes of our people

^c Other ancient authorities read true

^d Other ancient authorities add virtue and

^e Other ancient authorities lack for the sake of God

(see also 12.19) was considered noble (1 Sam 31.1–6; 2 Macc 14.41–46; Josephus, J.W. 7.324–34, 377; Plutarch, Mor. 253D–E). 5: The hearers are invited to imagine the martyrs enjoying their eternal reward, confirming their hope.

17.7–18.24: Epilogue. 17.7–18.5: Summary of the martyrs’ accomplishments and exhortation. 17.7: Jurists were known to bring a painting of the crime into a courtroom to sway a jury’s emotions (Quintilian, Inst. 6.1.32), although the author does not regard this as possible here, whether because of scruples about images (Ex 20.4) or good taste. Religion, better “piety.” 8–10: Literary epitaphs often appear in Greek speeches about the dead. 11–16: See 6.10n. 20–22: The martyrs’ deaths are ennobled further by stressing the benefit they brought to their nation (see also 1.11; 18.4). 19: Deut 33.3. 21–22: Atoning sacrifice translates the Greek “hilasterion” (perhaps better “propitiation”), a term also used in Rom 3.25 to interpret the significance of a violent death in obedience to God’s covenant. See 6.28–29n. 23–24: The idea of becoming an example that even one’s enemies would recognize and admire appears elsewhere; while historically improbable in this case, it is nevertheless rhetorically effective. Ravaged and conquered, a rhetorical flourish meant to underscore the power of the martyrs’ example of courage. In fact, Antiochus suffered crushing defeat in the East shortly after leaving Jerusalem (see 1 Macc 6.1–4; 2 Macc 9.1), as 18.5 implies. 18.1–2: The philosophical demonstration (18.2) ultimately serves a protreptic goal, namely promoting continued or intensified commitment to the Jewish way of life, particular the commandments of the Torah. An exhortation to imitate the virtuous conduct of the fallen is common in eulogistic speeches.

³Therefore those who gave over their bodies in suffering for the sake of religion were not only admired by mortals, but also were deemed worthy to share in a divine inheritance. ⁴Because of them the nation gained peace, and by reviving observance of the law in the homeland they ravaged the enemy. ⁵The tyrant Antiochus was both punished on earth and is being chastised after his death. Since in no way whatever was he able to compel the Israelites to become pagans and to abandon their ancestral customs, he left Jerusalem and marched against the Persians.

⁶The mother of seven sons expressed also these principles to her children: ⁷“I was a pure virgin and did not go outside my father’s house; but I guarded the rib from which woman was made.^a ⁸No seducer corrupted me on a desert plain, nor did the destroyer, the deceitful serpent, defile the purity of my virginity. ⁹In the time of my maturity I remained with my husband, and when these sons had grown up their father died. A happy man was he, who lived out his life with good children, and did not have the grief of bereavement. ¹⁰While he was still with you, he taught you the law and the prophets. ¹¹He read to you about Abel slain by Cain, and Isaac who was offered as a burnt offering, and about Joseph in prison. ¹²He told you of the zeal of Phinehas, and he taught you about Hananiah, Azariah, and Mishael in the fire.

¹³He praised Daniel in the den of the lions and blessed him. ¹⁴He reminded you of the scripture of Isaiah, which says, ‘Even though you go through the fire, the flame shall not consume you.’ ¹⁵He sang to you songs of the psalmist David, who said, ‘Many are the afflictions of the righteous.’ ¹⁶He recounted to you Solomon’s proverb, ‘There is a tree of life for those who do his will.’ ¹⁷He confirmed the query of Ezekiel, ‘Shall these dry bones live?’ ¹⁸For he did not forget to teach you the song that Moses taught, which says, ¹⁹‘I kill and I make alive: this is your life and the length of your days.’”

²⁰O bitter was that day—and yet not bitter—when that bitter tyrant of the Greeks quenched fire with fire in his cruel caldrons, and in his burning rage brought those seven sons of the daughter of Abraham to the catapult and back again to more^b tortures, ²¹pierced the pupils of their eyes and cut out their tongues, and put them to death with various tortures. ²²For these crimes divine justice pursued and will pursue the accursed tyrant. ²³But the sons of Abraham with their victorious mother are gathered together into the chorus of the fathers, and have received pure and immortal^c souls from God, ²⁴to whom be glory forever and ever. Amen.

^a Gk the rib that was built

^b Other ancient authorities read to all his

^c Other ancient authorities read victorious

18.6–19: The mother’s testimony to feminine virtue and additional exhortation. This second speech of the mother is possibly a later addition, but nevertheless one well crafted to suit the larger text. 7–9a: Though celebrated mainly for her courage, the mother here reflects on her careful preservation throughout her life of her modesty and chastity, quintessential female virtues in the ancient world. 7: Rib, Gen 2.22. 8: Desert plain, Deut 22.25–27. Serpent, Gen 3.13; cf. 2 Cor 11.2–3. 10: The father laudably fulfilled the obligations to teach his children (Deut 4.9; 6.7; 11.19) the scriptures (the law and the prophets). 11: As Abel was attacked by Cain (Gen 4.8), so the ungodly continue to assault the pious. Isaac, Gen 22.1–19. Joseph endured prison rather than transgress virtue (Gen 39.1–23). 12a: Phinehas exemplified zeal for the Torah and watchfulness against assimilation (Num 25.1–9; Sir 45.23–24; 1 Macc 2.26, 54). 12b: Hananiah . . . Daniel, see 13.9n. 14–19: The quotations from scripture encourage perseverance in hardship for the sake of covenant loyalty. 14: Isa 43.2. The firm conviction in an afterlife allows the promise to remain true in an ultimate sense. 15: Ps 34.19. The context may be important and assumed, as the constant refrain of this psalm speaks of God’s deliverance of the righteous from every trial (Ps 34.4, 6, 7, 17, 19). 16: Prov 3.18, slightly altered. 17: Ezek 37.2–3, as appropriate a question in Ezekiel’s valley as in the courtyard where the tortures occurred. Even those who were “burned to the very bones” (6.26) will not fail to enjoy God’s reward. 18: Song, Deut 31.30–32.44. 19: Deut 32.39; 30.20. The word order is crucial and climactic: God will make alive those righteous whom he has permitted to be killed. Length of your days is now transferred to eternity.

18.20–24: Conclusion. 18.20: Speaking of a tyrant of the Greeks is a bitterly ironic criticism of the imperialism of Alexander the Great and his successors, since the Greeks prized themselves on perfecting democracy. 22–24: The fates after death of martyrs and tyrant, foundational to the martyrs’ resistance, are here confirmed in the author’s closing sentences. Now the chorus (see 8.4n.) is in heaven.

This page intentionally left blank

This page intentionally left blank

THE NEW TESTAMENT

The new covenant commonly called
The New Testament of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ

New Revised Standard Version

This page intentionally left blank

INTRODUCTION TO THE GOSPELS

THE LITERARY GENRE OF THE GOSPELS

The English word “gospel” originally meant “good news,” and it is an exact translation of the Gk word euangelion (from which the English word “evangelist” is derived). The opening of Mark’s Gospel, “The beginning of the good news [or “gospel”] of Jesus Christ, the Son of God” (1.1), uses the word “gospel” for the message about salvation through Jesus. In the New Testament the word “gospel” (Gk euangelion) refers either to the act of preaching (1 Thess 1.5, NRSV: “our message of the gospel”) or its content (Acts 15.7, NRSV: “message of the good news”; 20.24, NRSV: “good news”). Outside the New Testament and other early Christian writings, the term is used for happy announcements, such as a military victory, the birth of a son, or a wedding. An inscription from 9 BCE uses the noun (in the plural) to refer to the past event of the birth of the Roman emperor Augustus: “the birthday of the god was for the world the beginning of ‘joyful messages’ which have gone forth because of him.” The idea that an emperor’s birth, coming of age, and ascent to the throne was “good news” for the world would have come to mind when Christian missionaries came preaching “good news.” Not until the mid-second century CE was the word for “gospel” used of a literary genre (Justin Martyr, Dialogue with Trypho 10.2; Irenaeus, Adv. Haer. 50.26.6).

The use of the word “gospel” in Mark’s introduction presumably led to its being adopted as the designation for written accounts of the ministry, teaching, death, and resurrection of Jesus. Short formulas in Paul’s letters show that the “good news” of early preaching focused on the death, resurrection, and exaltation of Jesus (1 Thess 1.9–10; Rom 1.2–4; 1 Cor 15.3–5). Mark expanded this to include Jesus’ own preaching of the kingdom of God (Mk 1.14–15). So far as we know, Mark was the first to create a distinctive literary form by combining early Christian preaching about Jesus with a narrative account of Jesus’ life and ministry. Writings that some scholars date earlier than Mark are collections of sayings with little or no narrative framework.

By presenting a narrative about Jesus as the basis of Christian preaching (see Lk 1.1–4), the Gospel writers (the “evangelists”) assume that the life of Jesus provides evidence to support Christian beliefs about him. By providing an account of Jesus from the time of his emergence on the public stage through his trial and death, Mark presents a “life” (Gk bios) of his subject. The ancient bios should not be confused with a modern biography, which explicates the subject’s origins, family, cultural influences, and character development, and tends to emphasize uniqueness and individuality. Ancient writers often characterized persons as types, and the narratives of their lives reflected a view that individuals had fixed characters from birth rather than personalities that developed through life.

Still, scholars disagree over the extent to which the Gospels follow conventions of ancient biography. Because the story of Jesus concerns a figure with a crucial place in the history of God’s relationship with Israel, it is closer to Jewish accounts of Moses or a prophet like Elijah than to typical Greek and Roman biographies of rulers or philosophers (e.g., Xenophon, Agésilas; Isocrates, Evagoras; Tacitus, Agricola; Lucian, Demonax), which had a wider scope, including an account of the preliminary education of the subject of the biography. Greco-Roman biographies were addressed to a social and literary elite, which may explain why the Gospels, addressed to a much broader audience, do not match them very closely. Philo’s Life of Moses adopts a Hellenistic-style laudatory biography for a Jewish subject. Echoes of the life of Moses as related in the book of Exodus and other Jewish sources appear in Matthew’s version of the birth and infancy of Jesus (Mt 1–2).

Since the genre “biography” emerged from Greek historical writing, the question of whether the Gospels belong to this genre often involves a prior judgment concerning their historical plausibility. Scholars who reject biography as a description of the Gospels often overemphasize the ideological or legendary elements found in the narratives. They prefer to read the Gospels as etiological legends that explain the emergence of a new religion or as ideological representations of the Christology of particular early Christian communities. Such writings do not intend to provide historical information about their subject. Rather, they operate like myths and symbols to support Christian beliefs and practices.

Second-century CE authors, on the other hand, both adherents of Christianity like Justin Martyr and opponents like Celsus, presumed that the evangelists intended to provide information. Justin Martyr's designation of the Gospels as "memoirs" (Gk hypomnemata; 1 Apology 1.67.3) suggests something less than a full literary biography, something more like a gathering of notes about the subject and his teaching. This perception may have been enhanced by the fact that early Christians disseminated their writings using a codex (similar to a bound book) rather than a scroll. Though some modern readers think of the codex as a technological advance over the scroll, the ancients did not. Serious literary works were copied onto scrolls. Notes, preliminary drafts, and all sorts of records were kept in codices. Thus their physical appearance would suggest to an ancient reader that the Gospels were more educational handbooks than examples of high literary art. Papias's comment that Mark is "not in order" (Eusebius, Hist. eccl. 3.39.5) shows that even some Christian readers considered it an unfinished composition. Papias also noted that Matthew was a more polished work (Eusebius, Hist. eccl. 3.39.16). Luke's prologue states that he intends to correct the deficiencies in earlier accounts (1.1–4). Such comments indicate that Mark's earliest readers treated the Gospel as a rough life of Jesus. A "biography" of this type naturally invited expansions in content and revisions of style like those that Matthew and Luke subsequently undertook.

THE SOURCES OF THE GOSPELS

A historical genre does not necessarily guarantee historical accuracy or reliability, and neither the evangelists nor their first readers engaged in historical analysis. Their aim was to confirm Christian faith (Lk 1.4; Jn 20.31). Scholars generally agree that the Gospels were written forty to sixty years after the death of Jesus. They thus do not present eyewitness or contemporary accounts of Jesus' life and teaching. Even the language has changed. Though Greek had become the common language used between groups whose primary languages were different in the eastern Roman Empire, and inscriptions and fragments of Greek translations of the Hebrew Bible show that Greek was used even among Jews within Judea, Jesus, his disciples, and the crowds would have spoken Aramaic, a Semitic language closely related to Hebrew, which it had replaced as the principal spoken language of Palestine. Despite scholarly efforts to detect an underlying Aramaic original for Mark or Matthew, it is probable that all the evangelists wrote in the common ("koine") Greek of their day. Further, the vast majority of Hebrew Bible citations in the New Testament are taken from the Greek translation of the Hebrew Bible (the Septuagint).

Large sections of Matthew, Mark, and Luke repeat stories about and sayings of Jesus in nearly identical words. Hence these three Gospels are referred to as the "Synoptic" Gospels (from Gk synoptikos, "viewed together"). On a linguistic level, both Luke and Matthew improve on Mark's style, smoothing out inelegant expressions and repetitions. Luke eliminates Mark's characteristic use of parataxis (one short phrase following another without indicating how they are related) by employing balancing particles and subordinate clauses. Matthew follows Mark's outline, though the insertion of considerable sections of discourse material may obscure that relationship for the casual reader. Luke knows most of Mark but has no parallels to Mk 6.45–8.26; whether Luke chose to omit this section or had a different version of Mark remains unclear. Detailed analysis of the traditions shared by Matthew, Mark, and Luke provides strong support for the view that Mark was the earliest Gospel. But, given its rough, draftlike composition, both Matthew and Luke revised it extensively.

Further study of additional material shared by Matthew and Luke shows a number of close verbal parallels in passages such as the temptation of Jesus (Mt 4.2–11; Lk 4.2–13), the Beatitudes (Lk 6.20–23; Mt 5.3,6,4,11–12), the parable of the lost sheep (Lk 15.4–7; Mt 18.12–14), and the Lord's Prayer (Lk 11.2–4; Mt 6.9–13). These parallels include various types of sayings, controversy stories, and parables. Scholars have hypothesized that a collection of such material must have been circulating in the early churches, and they have designated it with the symbol "Q," from the German Quelle ("source"). In 1945, a library of religious treatises in Coptic was discovered near Nag Hammadi in Egypt. They included just such a "sayings book," the Gospel of Thomas. Subsequently, sayings from a variant tradition of this Gospel in Greek were identified among Greek papyri. The Gospel of Thomas is not "Q": Some of its sayings and parables appear to have been taken from the Synoptic Gospels rather than from earlier oral tradition. But its discovery provides evidence that such sayings collections existed.

Scholars presume that the Gospel writers may have had other such notebook-like collections of material such as parables and miracle stories. Presumably additional items, such as genealogies, hymnic prayers, and legends in the infancy narratives of Matthew and Luke, were not created by the evangelists but come from earlier tradition. Similarly, some of the material found only in Matthew or in Luke is not likely to be the author's creation. The following diagram shows the understanding of a majority of scholars about the sources and literary relationships of the Synoptic Gospels.

Four Source Hypothesis. In composing their Gospels, both Matthew and Luke independently used two earlier sources: the gospel of Mark, and “Q,” the collection of sayings of Jesus. Each also used other sources specific to each of them

There may also have been an earlier narrative of the passion and death of Jesus; some scholars think that most of Mark's narrative came from such a source, while others maintain that there is no evidence for such an account. The origin of the story of Jesus' passion is unclear, and some details may have been based on biblical descriptions of the suffering righteous one.

While the Synoptic Gospels have a close relationship based on their literary connections, the Fourth Gospel, the Gospel of John, presents a much greater puzzle. Its chronology of Jesus' ministry is quite different from that of the Synoptics, as are many narrative details. Jesus spends three years preaching, during which he journeys between Galilee and Jerusalem; in the Synoptic Gospels he visits Jerusalem only once, at the end of a ministry that apparently lasted less than a year. The episode denouncing the sellers in the Temple, which enrages the religious authorities and leads to his death in the Synoptics, occurs near the beginning of the three-year ministry in John (Jn 2.13–22). John claims that Jesus' popularity with Jerusalem crowds after he dramatically restored Lazarus to life awakened political fears for the safety of the nation (Jn 11.45–57; 12.9–11). John's account of the passion also differs markedly: There is no agony. Conscious of his unity with the Father and the cross as his exaltation and return to preexistent glory, Jesus controls all the events; he engages Pilate, the Roman governor, in an ironic discussion of kingship; and John has a disciple-witness, a resident of Jerusalem, who does not flee with the others. Is this unnamed “disciple whom Jesus loved” (Jn 21.7,20; cf. 19.26; 20.2) a symbolic creation of the Evangelist? Some scholars think so; others suggest that he was a historical individual, the source of much of the Fourth Gospel's unique tradition and theology, as the text alleges (19.35; 21.24). What led the author of the Gospel of John to compose such a unique variant on an outline of Jesus' life that still has a recognizable similarity to Mark (and in some instances to Luke)? Some scholars use the parallels as indications of a shorter sketch of Jesus' life known to both authors. Others think that the Gospel of Mark, and perhaps also Luke, were already circulating in the Evangelist's area. He assumed that readers knew some other account of Jesus' life and teaching, and formulated a different version of who Jesus is and what he taught based on the insight that Jesus of Nazareth was not just a miracle-worker, a prophet, or a charismatic Jewish teacher, but the incarnate Son of God. That claim constitutes the flash point between Jesus and the Jewish authorities throughout the narrative.

The Evangelists did more than compile a notebook of traditions about Jesus. Rather, each shaped the narrative to emphasize particular features of Jesus and his teaching. Readers may approach every Gospel in a similar way, asking what are the special characteristics of Jesus and of his followers in each Evangelist's presentation of Jesus and of those who follow Jesus.

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO MATTHEW

LOCATION IN CANON

Matthew is the first book of the New Testament. Its primacy of place is appropriate for several reasons. As the Gospel that draws most extensively on the Hebrew Scriptures, Matthew functions as a bridge between the two Testaments by showing how prophetic “fulfillment citations” from the Hebrew Bible were fulfilled in the person of Jesus. Matthew was also the Gospel most frequently employed by the early church. Its arrangement of the teaching of Jesus into five prominent discourses, including the Sermon on the Mount, made it easy to use it for the catechetical instruction of recent converts. Further, the Gospel’s inclusion of the accounts of the birth and resurrection of Jesus offered a more comprehensive biographical shape to Jesus’ life than is found in the Gospel of Mark, which follows Matthew in the canonical order.

AUTHORSHIP, DATE, AND PLACE OF COMPOSITION

Some scholars have seen the Gospel’s replacement of Mark’s tax-collector Levi (Mk 2.13–17) with Matthew (9.9–13) as a sort of authorial signature. Yet, the fact that the Evangelist was so reliant upon Mark and a collection of Jesus’ sayings (“Q”) seems to point to a later, unknown, author. The Gospel’s time of writing is likewise unknown. As it appears to be familiar with events of the first Jewish Revolt (66–70 CE; see 22.7), Matthew must have been composed sometime afterward. Since, however, Christian writers show a broad familiarity with the Gospel from an early period, it cannot date from much beyond the final decade of the first century. Scholars usually settle on the 80s CE as a likely decade for the Gospel’s composition.

Evidence for the Gospel’s place of composition is also largely conjectural. The author’s familiarity with Judaism and his acquaintance with the geography of Palestine are two of the chief considerations. Thus, large cities proximate to Palestine with a substantial Jewish presence are the most plausible locales. Syrian Antioch, the third largest city in the Roman Empire, has the added distinction of being associated with Matthew in church tradition. Nevertheless, other sites continue to be proposed, such as Caesarea Maritima or Sepphoris, a Greco-Roman city located near Nazareth. Certainty is hardly possible.

LITERARY FORM

A proper reading of the Gospel requires being attuned to its literary form. For instance, it is important to remember that the division into chapters and verses is a relatively recent modification (1551 CE) and occasionally overlooks natural divisions in the Gospel. Temporarily disregarding chapter and verse numbers will bring out the literary contours of the text and allow one to approximate the experience of the Gospel’s first readers.

Without doubt, the most distinctive of these literary contours are the Gospel’s five discourses. More of Matthew is devoted to Jesus’ teaching than any other Gospel (estimates are Matthew 43 percent; Mark 20 percent; Luke 37 percent; and John 34 percent).

The Evangelist has assembled five discourses comprising different aspects of Jesus’ teaching, probably a deliberate parallel to the five books of the Torah/Pentateuch. Each of these discourses ends with the phrase, “when Jesus had finished saying these things . . .” The first, the Sermon on the Mount (chs 5–7), is justly famous as an encapsulation of the “entry requirements of the kingdom,” while a number of “parables of the kingdom” can be found in ch 13’s “parable discourse.” Taken together, the discourses afford an overview of the progress of the kingdom: it begins with teaching about the kingdom (chs 5–7), moves to the preaching of the kingdom (ch 10), its mysteries (ch 13), its application to the church (ch 18), and finally, its implications for the last days and final judgment (chs 24–25).

That the last discourse contains parables of judgment is characteristic of Matthew as a whole; in fact, each of his discourses ends with references to judgment. His view of the world is highly polarized. One either walks according to Jesus’ “way of righteousness” and produces spiritual fruit, or one does not. For Matthew, the consequences of this decision are momentous: the coming judgment will be swift, unexpected, and inexorable.

Another of the Gospel's literary contours is the way in which it approximates the ancient Greek literary form of the bios ("life"). The bios differs from modern biography in its concern to provide episodes that reveal the underlying character of its subject. Rather than display the psychological development of Jesus, Matthew depicts him as the humble and compassionate Messiah over the entirety of his Gospel. Jesus acts throughout the Gospel as the exemplar for every Christian.

INTERPRETATION

Matthew's utility for the Christian church is no coincidence. The issues of his own church and community were of pressing importance to the Evangelist; Matthew's is the only Gospel to use the word "church" expressly (Gk ekklesia, 16.18; 18.17) and to include issues of church authority and discipline (ch 18). Matthew's Gospel gives vivid insights into the concerns of his own church. The evangelist has telescoped the experiences of Christians in his day with the story of Jesus so that Jesus' words and actions apply to both the time of Jesus and that of Matthew a half century later.

This procedure explains some of the Gospel's apparent anomalies. One of the most striking is the narrative's conflicted portrayal of Jewish piety and religious leaders. Its high regard for the Jewish Torah (5.17–20; 23.1–3) is noteworthy, as is the extensive use of prophecies from the Hebrew Bible, and its occasional disdain for non-Jews (5.47; 6.7,32; 16.17). These features suggest a positive assessment of Judaism. On the other hand, the Gospel displays a strident and unrelenting condemnation of the Jewish leadership—the chief priests, elders, Sadducees, Pharisees, and scribes. These groups are indiscriminately paired with each other in a manner inconsistent with the historical distinctions between these groups in Jesus' day. The Gospel's treatment of the Pharisees, routinely condemned as hypocrites (e.g., 23.5–7), in particular, has led many scholars to suggest that their portrayal reflects later tensions between Matthew's church and emergent Rabbinic Judaism. In other words, the conflict between Jesus and the Pharisees reflects tensions that emerged fifty years after Jesus' death.

The crucifixion narrative also displays this telescoping of perspective. Responsibility for Jesus' passion is shifted from Pontius Pilate and the Romans to the Jewish people and their leadership (27.20–25). The horrific pronouncement "His blood be on us and on our children!" (27.25) is Matthew's way of attributing the destruction of Jerusalem and the Temple in 70 CE to Israel's rejection of Jesus. The vehemence with which the evangelist expresses such sentiments was likely intended to shock both Jewish Christians and their Jewish neighbors into reconsidering the claims made by the Gospel, and discounting rival claims being advanced by the leadership of emergent Rabbinic Judaism, such as the Jewish explanation for the resurrection of Jesus (Matt 27.52–66; 28.11–15).

While such deliberately shocking rhetoric was characteristic of debates between groups in the first century CE, its long-term consequences have been disastrous. Subsequent non-Jewish Christians interpreted the Gospel as a warrant to exact retribution from Jews for the death of Jesus and persecution of his first followers. A proper reading of the Gospel, therefore, requires being attuned to the polemical context in which it was written, and recognizing that the conflict between emerging Rabbinic Judaism and the smaller Jewish Christian minority ceased being relevant nearly two millennia ago.

What remains unchanged about the Gospel of Matthew, however, is its place as one of the richest and most fascinating documents within the Christian Bible—one that will reward long and detailed study with treasures both new and old (13.52).

J. R. C. Cousland

1 An account of the genealogy^a of Jesus the Messiah,^b the son of David, the son of Abraham.

² Abraham was the father of Isaac, and Isaac the father of Jacob, and Jacob the father of Judah and his brothers,³ and Judah the father of Perez and Zerah by Tamar, and Perez the father of Hezron, and Hezron the father of Aram,⁴ and Aram the father of Aminadab, and Aminadab the father of Nahshon, and Nahshon the father of Salmon,⁵ and Salmon the father of Boaz by Rahab, and Boaz the father of Obed by Ruth, and Obed the father of Jesse,⁶ and Jesse the father of King David.

And David was the father of Solomon by the wife of Uriah,⁷ and Solomon the father of Rehoboam, and Rehoboam the father of Abijah, and Abijah the father of Asaph,^{c 8} and Asaph^c the father of Jehoshaphat, and Jehoshaphat the father of Joram, and Joram the father of Uzziah,⁹ and Uzziah the father of Jotham, and Jotham the father of Ahaz, and Ahaz the father of Hezekiah,¹⁰ and Hezekiah the father of Manasseh, and Manasseh the father of Amos,^d and Amos^d the father of Josiah,¹¹ and Josiah the father of Jechoniah and his brothers, at the time of the deportation to Babylon.

¹² And after the deportation to Babylon: Jechoniah was the father of Salathiel, and Salathiel the father of Zerubbabel,¹³ and Zerubbabel the father of Abiud, and Abiud

the father of Eliakim, and Eliakim the father of Azor,¹⁴ and Azor the father of Zadok, and Zadok the father of Achim, and Achim the father of Eliud,¹⁵ and Eliud the father of Eleazar, and Eleazar the father of Matthan, and Matthan the father of Jacob,¹⁶ and Jacob the father of Joseph the husband of Mary, of whom Jesus was born, who is called the Messiah.^e

¹⁷ So all the generations from Abraham to David are fourteen generations; and from David to the deportation to Babylon, fourteen generations; and from the deportation to Babylon to the Messiah,^e fourteen generations.

¹⁸ Now the birth of Jesus the Messiah^b took place in this way. When his mother Mary had been engaged to Joseph, but before they lived together, she was found to be with child from the Holy Spirit.¹⁹ Her husband Joseph, being a righteous man and unwilling to expose her to public disgrace, planned to dismiss her quietly.²⁰ But just when he had resolved to do this, an angel of the Lord appeared to him in a dream and said, “Joseph, son of David, do not be afraid to take Mary as your wife, for

^a Or birth

^b Or Jesus Christ

^c Other ancient authorities read Asa

^d Other ancient authorities read Amon

^e Or the Christ

1.1–17: Jesus’ genealogy (Lk 3.23–38). 1: Jesus, “Jeshua” (Heb “Yeshua”) is a later, abbreviated, form of the name “Joshua,” meaning “The Lord (YHWH) is help (or salvation).” Messiah, Gk “Christos,” “Anointed One.” Those anointed by God—typically kings or priests—were set apart by God for a specific purpose (1 Sam 10.1). The designation son indicates Jesus’ familial descent. That he is both the son of David, the king, and son of Abraham, the patriarch, demonstrates that Jesus is a scion of the royal family of David, and a true Israelite. 2–17: The genealogy continues the “descent” motif by furnishing a stylized ancestral tree consisting of roughly three groups of fourteen: from Abraham to David, from David to the deportation to Babylon in 586 BCE (2 Kings 24.8–16), and from the deportation to Jesus. The numerical value of David’s name in Hebrew is fourteen, which may account for this arrangement. While this genealogy is not complete (cf. 1 Chr 3.11–12), it establishes that David and Abraham were Jesus’ forebears. Genealogies are common in the Hebrew Bible (e.g., 1 Chr 1–9) and were a matter of pride and importance for demonstrating one’s status as true Israelites (Neh 7.61–4). Jesus’ genealogy is unusual, however, not simply because it includes women, but also because it features non-Israelite (i.e., Gentile) women, some of questionable repute: Tamar (v. 3; Gen 38), Rahab (v. 5; Josh 2.1–21; 6.22–25), Ruth (v. 5; Ruth 2–4), and Bathsheba, the wife of Uriah (v. 6; 2 Sam 11–12). Their inclusion may prefigure Mary’s own marital dilemma (vv. 18–19), and the coming mission to the Gentiles (28.18–20).

1.18–25: The conception and birth of Jesus Christ (Lk 2.1–7). Chapter 1 stresses that Jesus was of the line of David, but then indicates that Mary was a virgin and Joseph was not his father. This apparent difficulty is resolved by Joseph’s formal adoption of Jesus, which legally situates Jesus within Joseph’s line. 20: Dreams are the child conceived in her is from the Holy Spirit. ²¹She will bear a son, and you are to name him Jesus, for he will save his people from their sins.” ²²All this took place to fulfill what had been spoken by the Lord through the prophet:

²³“Look, the virgin shall conceive and bear a son,
and they shall name him Emmanuel,”

which means, “God is with us.” ²⁴When Joseph awoke from sleep, he did as the angel of the Lord commanded him; he took her as his wife, ²⁵but had no marital relations with her until she had borne a son;^a and he named him Jesus.

2 In the time of King Herod, after Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judea, wise men^b from the East came to Jerusalem, ²asking, “Where is the child who has been born king of the Jews? For we observed his star at its rising,^c and have come to pay him homage.” ³When King Herod heard this, he was frightened, and all Jerusalem with him; ⁴and calling together all the chief priests and scribes of the people, he inquired of them where the Messiah^d was to be born. ⁵They told him, “In Bethlehem of Judea; for so it has been written by the prophet:

⁶“And you, Bethlehem, in the land of Judah, are by no means least among the rulers of Judah;

for from you shall come a ruler
who is to shepherd^e my people Israel.”

⁷Then Herod secretly called for the wise men^b and learned from them the exact time when the star had appeared. ⁸Then he sent them to Bethlehem, saying, “Go and search diligently for the child; and when you have found him, bring me word so that I may also go and pay him homage.” ⁹When they had heard the king, they set out; and there, ahead of them, went the star that they had seen at its rising,^c until it stopped over the place where the child was. ¹⁰When they saw that the star had stopped,^f they were overwhelmed with joy. ¹¹On entering the house, they saw the child with Mary his mother; and they knelt down and paid him homage. Then, opening their treasure chests, they offered him gifts of gold, frankincense, and myrrh. ¹²And having been warned in a dream not to return to Herod, they left for their own country by another road.

¹³Now after they had left, an angel of the Lord appeared to Joseph in a dream and said, “Get up, take the child and his mother, and flee to Egypt, and remain there until I

^a Other ancient authorities read her firstborn son

^b Or astrologers; Gk magi

^c Or in the East

^d Or the Christ

^e Or rule

^f Gk saw the star

a common means of revelation in Matthew (2.12,13,19–20,22; 27.19). 21: The angel’s reference to Jesus “saving his people” probably alludes to Jesus’ name (see v. 1n.). 23: The first of Matthew’s fulfillment citations (Isa 7.14), showing how Jesus’ life conforms to prophecies of the Hebrew Bible.

2.1–12: The visit of the wise men. 1: King Herod is Herod the Great (ruled 37–4 BCE), who was confirmed as the client king of Judea by the emperor Augustus (31 BCE–14 CE). Herod was only partly Jewish and was notorious for reacting savagely to potential rivals, particularly Jewish rivals. Bethlehem was David’s hometown and where he was anointed king of Israel (1 Sam 16.1–13). The wise men or Magi were a class of Parthian (Persian) priests, renowned as astrologers. 2: As Gentiles, the Magi do not ask for the king of Israel, but for the king of the Jews (27.11,37). The star has been variously explained as a supernova, a comet, or a notable conjunction of the planets, but its meaning is probably symbolic; see Num 24.17. 4: The chief priests would have included the current high priest and a larger priestly college, based in Jerusalem. The scribes were lawyers, teachers, and interpreters of the Torah (Sir 39.1–11). 5–6: Mic 5.1,3; cf. 2 Sam 5.2. 11: Frankincense and myrrh were costly, resinous gums derived from trees and shrubs (Isa 60.6; Song 3.6). Because of their aromatic qualities they were often employed in religious rituals. The mention of three gifts is probably the origin of the postbiblical tradition that there were three wise men.

2.13–23: The escape to Egypt and return. 15: A fulfillment citation from Hos 11.1, where son refers to the people of Israel (Ex 4.22). The citation calls to mind Israel’s sojourn in Egypt and God’s mighty deliverance of Israel tell you; for Herod is about to search for the child, to destroy him.”¹⁴ Then Joseph^a got up, took the child and his mother by night, and went to Egypt,¹⁵ and remained there until the death of Herod. This was to fulfill what had been spoken by the Lord through the prophet, “Out of Egypt I have called my son.”

¹⁶When Herod saw that he had been tricked by the wise men,^b he was infuriated, and he sent and killed all the children in and around Bethlehem who were two years old or under, according to the time that he had learned from the wise men.^b¹⁷ Then was fulfilled what had been spoken through the prophet Jeremiah:

¹⁸“A voice was heard in Ramah, wailing and loud lamentation,
Rachel weeping for her children;
she refused to be consoled, because they are no more.”

¹⁹When Herod died, an angel of the Lord suddenly appeared in a dream to Joseph in Egypt and said,²⁰ “Get up, take the child and his mother, and go to the land of Israel, for those who were seeking the child’s life are dead.”²¹ Then Joseph^a got up, took the child and his mother, and went to the land of Israel.²² But when he heard that Archelaus was ruling over Judea in place of his father Herod, he was afraid to go there. And after being warned in a dream, he went away to the district of Galilee.²³ There he made his home in a town called Nazareth, so that what had been spoken through the prophets might be fulfilled, “He will be called a Nazorean.”

3 In those days John the Baptist appeared in the wilderness of Judea, proclaiming,² “Repent, for the kingdom of heaven has come near.”^c³ This is the one of whom the prophet Isaiah spoke when he said,

“The voice of one crying out in the wilderness:

‘Prepare the way of the Lord,
make his paths straight.’”

⁴Now John wore clothing of camel’s hair with a leather belt around his waist, and his food was locusts and wild honey.⁵ Then the people of Jerusalem and all Judea were going out to him, and all the region along the Jordan,⁶ and they were baptized by him in the river Jordan, confessing their sins.

⁷But when he saw many Pharisees and Sadducees coming for baptism, he said to them, “You brood of vipers! Who warned you to flee from the wrath to come?”⁸ Bear

^a Gk he

^b Or astrologers; Gk magi

^c Or is at hand

through Moses. 16: Herod’s action recalls the command of the king of Egypt in Ex 1.16. 18: A fulfillment citation from Jer 31.15. The tomb of Rachel, the wife of Jacob, the father of the twelve “tribes” of Israel, was near Bethlehem (Gen 35.16–20). 20: Cf. Ex 4.19. 22: Upon Herod’s death in 4 BCE, his kingdom was divided among his sons Archelaus (4 BCE–6 CE), ethnarch (prince) over Judea, Samaria, and Idumea; Herod Antipas (4 BCE–39 CE), tetrarch (minor prince) over Galilee and Perea; and Philip (4 BCE–33/34 CE), tetrarch of smaller territories northeast of the Sea of Galilee. 23: Nazareth in Jesus’ day was not so much a “city” (NRSV town) as a village. Nazorean, this fulfillment citation does not explicitly correspond to any passage in the Hebrew Bible, though it echoes passages such as Isa 11.12 and Judg 13.5.

3.1–12: The preaching of John the Baptist (Mk 1.1–8; Lk 3.1–9,15–17; Jn 1.19–28; Josephus, Ant. 18.116–19). 1: In those days, a general reference to the time when Jesus began his public ministry. John the Baptist, the prophetic forerunner of Jesus. In Matthew, although John is subordinate to Jesus, their ministries display strong parallels (compare 3.2 with 4.17). Wilderness of Judea, the barren eastern slopes of the Judean mountains that face the Dead Sea and lower Jordan valley. 2: Kingdom of heaven is Matthew’s circumlocution for kingdom of God, one that avoids mentioning the name of God directly (though the phrase “kingdom of God” remains unchanged at 6.33; 12.28; 21.31,43). The kingdom of heaven (or God) refers to the absolute rule of God over human affairs. Its establishment marks the onset of the new age and God’s ultimate dominion. 3: A fulfillment citation from Isa 40.3 (Mk 1.2–3; cf. CD 10.16; 16.15). John acts as a herald announcing the coming of the king. 4: John’s manner of dress recalled the prophet Elijah (2 Kings 1.8) while his food was that of an ascetic; locusts are one of the few types of insects not regarded as unclean (Lev 11.20–23). In Matthew, John is more closely identified with Elijah than in the other Gospels (17.11–13). 7: The Pharisees and Sadducees were two of the most important groups of fruit worthy of repentance. ⁹Do not presume to say to yourselves, ‘We have Abraham as our ancestor’; for I tell you, God is able from these stones to raise up children to Abraham. ¹⁰Even now the ax is lying at the root of the trees; every tree therefore that does not bear good fruit is cut down and thrown into the fire.

¹¹“I baptize you with^a water for repentance, but one who is more powerful than I is coming after me; I am not worthy to carry his sandals. He will baptize you with^a the Holy Spirit and fire. ¹²His winnowing fork is in his hand, and he will clear his threshing floor and will gather his wheat into the granary; but the chaff he will burn with unquenchable fire.”

¹³Then Jesus came from Galilee to John at the Jordan, to be baptized by him. ¹⁴John would have prevented him, saying, “I need to be baptized by you, and do you come to me?” ¹⁵But Jesus answered him, “Let it be so now; for it is proper for us in this way to fulfill all righteousness.” Then he consented. ¹⁶And when Jesus had been baptized, just as he came up from the water, suddenly the heavens were opened to him and he saw the Spirit of God descending like a dove and alighting on him. ¹⁷And a voice from heaven said, “This is my Son, the Beloved,^b with whom I am well pleased.”

4 Then Jesus was led up by the Spirit into the wilderness to be tempted by the devil. ²He fasted forty days and forty nights, and afterwards he was famished. ³The tempter came and said to him, “If you are the Son of God, command these stones to become loaves of bread.” ⁴But he answered, “It is written,

‘One does not live by bread alone, but by every word that comes from the mouth of God.’”

⁵Then the devil took him to the holy city and placed him on the pinnacle of the temple, ⁶saying to him, “If you are the Son of God, throw yourself down; for it is written, ‘He will command his angels concerning you,’ and ‘On their hands they will bear you up, so that you will not dash your foot against a stone.’”

⁷Jesus said to him, “Again it is written, ‘Do not put the Lord your God to the test.’”

⁸Again, the devil took him to a very high mountain and showed him all the kingdoms of the world and their splendor; ⁹and he said to him, “All these I will give you, if you will fall down and worship me.” ¹⁰Jesus said to him, “Away with you, Satan! for it is written,

‘Worship the Lord your God, and serve only him.’”

^a Or in

^b Or my beloved Son

the Second Temple period, though little can be said with certainty about membership in either. The Pharisees appear to have been a reform movement in Judaism, advocating stringent observance of the Law and their own “oral Torah.” The Sadducees may have been the aristocratic descendants of Zadok the priest (2 Sam 8:17), who considered the written, but not the “oral Torah” binding on Israel. In contrast to the Pharisees (Acts 23:6–10), they did not believe in resurrection (22:22–23). 8: Repentance, the beginning of a new relationship with God. 12: A winnowing fork was a forked shovel that was used to toss the threshed grain into the wind, separating the kernels of wheat from the husks and straw, the chaff, which was blown away.

3:13–17: The baptism of Jesus (Mk 1.9–11; Lk 3.21–22; Jn 1.31–34). 15: Righteousness is a central theme in Matthew, and means acting in accordance with the will of God. It furnishes the justification for the greater (Jesus) being baptized by the lesser (the Baptist; 11:11). 16: Spirit, 28:19; Gen 1.2; Isa 61.1. 17: My beloved Son (see textual note b), 17:5; Ps 2.7; Isa 42.1.

4.1–11: The temptation of Jesus (Mk 1.12–13; Lk 4.1–13). 1: The devil, a transcendent evil being, also described in this chapter as the tempter (v. 3) and Satan (“the enemy”; v. 10). 2: The forty days recall the testing of Israel in the wilderness (Ex 34:28), and Elijah’s forty-day journey into the Sinai wilderness (1 Kings 19:8). 3: Son of God, the most comprehensive christological designation for Jesus in Matthew (3:17; 16:16; 17:5; 27:54; 28:19). 4: Deut 8.3. 5: Holy city, Jerusalem; cf. 27:53; pinnacle, possibly the southeast corner of the Temple’s terrace where there was a steep drop to the Kidron Valley below. 6: Ps 91.11–12. 7: Deut 6.16. 8: Mountains figure prominently in Matthew as places of revelation (5:1; 14:23; 15:29; 17:1; 24:3; 28:16). 10: Deut 6.13. All of Jesus’ responses to Satan are ¹¹Then the devil left him, and suddenly angels came and waited on him.

¹²Now when Jesus^a heard that John had been arrested, he withdrew to Galilee. ¹³He left Nazareth and made his home in Capernaum by the sea, in the territory of Zebulun and Naphtali, ¹⁴so that what had been spoken through the prophet Isaiah might be fulfilled:

¹⁵“Land of Zebulun, land of Naphtali, on the road by the sea, across the Jordan, Galilee of the Gentiles—

¹⁶the people who sat in darkness have seen a great light, and for those who sat in the region and shadow of death light has dawned.”

¹⁷From that time Jesus began to proclaim, “Repent, for the kingdom of heaven has come near.”^b

¹⁸As he walked by the Sea of Galilee, he saw two brothers, Simon, who is called Peter, and Andrew his brother, casting a net into the sea—for they were fishermen. ¹⁹And he said to them, “Follow me, and I will make you fish for people.” ²⁰Immediately they left their nets and followed him. ²¹As he went from there, he saw two other brothers, James son of Zebedee and his brother John, in the boat with their father Zebedee, mending their nets, and he called them. ²²Immediately they left the boat and their father, and followed him.

²³Jesus^c went throughout Galilee, teaching in their synagogues and proclaiming the good news^d of the kingdom and curing every disease and every sickness among the people. ²⁴So his fame spread throughout all Syria, and they brought to him all the sick, those who were afflicted with various diseases and pains, demoniacs, epileptics, and paralytics, and he cured them. ²⁵And great crowds followed him from Galilee, the Decapolis, Jerusalem, Judea, and from beyond the Jordan.

5 When Jesus^a saw the crowds, he went up the mountain; and after he sat down, his disciples came to him. ²Then he began to speak, and taught them, saying:

³“Blessed are the poor in spirit, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.

⁴“Blessed are those who mourn, for they will be comforted.

^a Gk he

^b Or is at hand

^c Gk He

^d Gk gospel

citations from Deuteronomy. 11: The angels feed Jesus as they had once fed Elijah (1 Kings 19.5–8).

4.12–25: The beginning of the Galilean ministry (Mk 1.14–20; Lk 4.14–15; 5.1–11; 6.17–19). 12: Galilee was a region in northern Israel, one of the chief areas of Jesus’ activity. It was separated from Judea (and Jerusalem) by Samaria. 13: Capernaum, a village on the northwest shore of the Sea of Galilee. Fishing was an important and lucrative economic activity in the region. 15–16: Fulfillment citation of Isa 9.1–2. The name “Galilee” is derived from the Hebrew phrase “circle of the Gentiles” (Isa 8.23). After the fall of the Northern Kingdom of Israel to Assyria (722 BCE), much of the area had been repopulated by Gentiles, although by Jesus’ day it was predominantly Jewish. 17: Some scholars argue that the phrase from that time marks the beginning of the second of three major divisions in the Gospel; cf. 16.21. 18: Sea of Galilee, not a sea but a fresh-water lake, also known as Gennesaret (Lk 5.1) and the Lake of Tiberias (Jn 21.1). 24: Syria is mentioned in no other Gospel; many scholars think that its capital, Antioch-on-the-Orontes, was the location of Matthew’s church. Demoniacs, those thought to be possessed by demons. 25: The crowds generally represent the Jewish people as distinguished from their leaders. Decapolis: A league of some ten cities with all but Scythopolis (earlier Beth-shan) situated east of the Jordan River. Their populations were largely Gentile, though they also contained substantial Jewish minorities.

5.1–7.29: The first discourse: The Sermon on the Mount. Matthew postpones his account of the Galilean ministry in order to introduce Jesus’ teaching in the Sermon on the Mount, the first and longest of Jesus’ five discourses in Matthew (compare the much briefer “Sermon on the Plain” in Lk 6.20–49). Its prominence within Matthew testifies to its importance for understanding Jesus and the requirements for “entering the kingdom.” Whether the Sermon advocates an idealized or a realizable ethic continues to be debated. 1: Mountain, recalling the figure of Moses giving the law to Israel (Ex 19–24). Just as the Law of Moses had five books, the Gospel of Matthew contains five discourses of Jesus. He sat down, the posture normally assumed by Jewish teachers.

⁵ “Blessed are the meek, for they will inherit the earth.

⁶ “Blessed are those who hunger and thirst for righteousness, for they will be filled.

⁷ “Blessed are the merciful, for they will receive mercy.

⁸ “Blessed are the pure in heart, for they will see God.

⁹ “Blessed are the peacemakers, for they will be called children of God.

¹⁰ “Blessed are those who are persecuted for righteousness’ sake, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.

¹¹ “Blessed are you when people revile you and persecute you and utter all kinds of evil against you falsely^a on my account.

¹² Rejoice and be glad, for your reward is great in heaven, for in the same way they persecuted the prophets who were before you.

¹³ “You are the salt of the earth; but if salt has lost its taste, how can its saltiness be restored? It is no longer good for anything, but is thrown out and trampled under foot.

¹⁴ “You are the light of the world. A city built on a hill cannot be hid. ¹⁵ No one after lighting a lamp puts it under the bushel basket, but on the lampstand, and it gives light to all in the house. ¹⁶ In the same way, let your light shine before others, so that they may see your good works and give glory to your Father in heaven.

¹⁷ “Do not think that I have come to abolish the law or the prophets; I have come not to abolish but to fulfill. ¹⁸ For truly I tell you, until heaven and earth pass away, not one letter,^b not one stroke of a letter, will pass from the law until all is accomplished. ¹⁹ Therefore, whoever breaks^c one of the least of these commandments, and teaches others to do the same, will be called least in the kingdom of heaven; but whoever does them and teaches them will be called great in the kingdom of heaven. ²⁰ For I tell you, unless your righteousness exceeds that of the scribes and Pharisees, you will never enter the kingdom of heaven.

²¹ “You have heard that it was said to those of ancient times, ‘You shall not murder’; and ‘whoever murders shall be liable to judgment.’

²² But I say to you that if you are angry with a brother or sister,^d you will be liable to judgment; and if you insult^e a brother or sister,^f you will be liable to the council; and if you say, ‘You fool,’ you will be liable to the hell!^g

^a Other ancient authorities lack falsely

^b Gk one iota

^c Or annuls

^d Gk a brother; other ancient authorities add without cause

^e Gk say Raca to (an obscure term of abuse)

^f Gk a brother

^g Gk Gehenna

Disciples, for Jesus’ named disciples, see 9.9–13; 10.2. 5.3–12: The Beatitudes (Lk 6.20–23). Luke has only four beatitudes to Matthew’s nine, and his four have a more this-worldly focus. 3: The term “Beatitudes” is derived from the Latin word “beatus,” meaning “blessed” or “favored by God.” Matthew’s beatitudes emphasize that God’s blessings will be bestowed on believers in the new age (Isa 61.2). The poor in spirit, Lk 6.20 has “the poor.” 4: Mourn, perhaps for one’s sins. 5: Meek, Ps 37.11. 8: Pure in heart, Pss 24.4; 73.1. 12: Persecuted the prophets, Matthew assumes that all true prophets were persecuted (1 Kings 19.10; Neh 9.26), John the Baptist and Jesus among them.

5.13–16: Salt and light (Mk 9.50; Lk 14.34–35). 13: Lost its taste, genuine salt can leach away from impure salt, leaving only a tasteless residue. 16: Father is one of Jesus’ favorite expressions for God in Matthew.

5.17–20: Teaching about the law. The rest of ch 5 deals with issues relating to the Torah. 17: Prophets, the second of the three divisions of the Hebrew Bible. 18: The phrase truly (“amen”) I tell you in Jesus’ mouth frequently involves pronouncements pertaining to the end time. Until . . . all: both temporal clauses refer to the end of the present age and the onset of the eschatological age. The verse suggests that the Torah remained in force among Jewish Christians in Matthew’s church.

5.21–48: The outworking of the law (Lk 6.27–36; cf. Lev 19.18; m. Abot 1.12). The phrase “you have heard that it was said” occurs six times in ch 5, each followed by a reference to one of the commandments in the Hebrew Bible. In three of these “antitheses,” Jesus’ purpose is not to abrogate the Law, but to express the deeper significance of God’s commandments. 21: Ex 20.13; Deut 5.17. 22: I say to you occurs twelve other times in the Sermon, and emphasizes Jesus’ unprecedented authority to determine God’s will (7.29; 28.18). Council, the Sanhedrin; of fire.²³ So when you are offering your gift at the altar, if you remember that your brother or sister^a has something against you,²⁴ leave your gift there before the altar and go; first be reconciled to your brother or sister,^a and then come and offer your gift.²⁵ Come to terms quickly with your accuser while you are on the way to court^b with him, or your accuser may hand you over to the judge, and the judge to the guard, and you will be thrown into prison.²⁶ Truly I tell you, you will never get out until you have paid the last penny.

²⁷ “You have heard that it was said, ‘You shall not commit adultery.’²⁸ But I say to you that everyone who looks at a woman with lust has already committed adultery with her in his heart.²⁹ If your right eye causes you to sin, tear it out and throw it away; it is better for you to lose one of your members than for your whole body to be thrown into hell.^c ³⁰ And if your right hand causes you to sin, cut it off and throw it away; it is better for you to lose one of your members than for your whole body to go into hell.^c

³¹ “It was also said, ‘Whoever divorces his wife, let him give her a certificate of divorce.’³² But I say to you that anyone who divorces his wife, except on the ground of unchastity, causes her to commit adultery; and whoever marries a divorced woman commits adultery.

³³ “Again, you have heard that it was said to those of ancient times, ‘You shall not swear falsely, but carry out the vows you have made to the Lord.’³⁴ But I say to you, Do not swear at all, either by heaven, for it is the throne of God,³⁵ or by the earth, for it is his footstool, or by Jerusalem, for it is the city of the great King.³⁶ And do not swear by your head, for you cannot make one hair white or black.

³⁷ Let your word be ‘Yes, Yes’ or ‘No, No’; anything more than this comes from the evil one.^d

³⁸ “You have heard that it was said, ‘An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth.’³⁹ But I say to you, Do not resist an evil-doer. But if anyone strikes you on the right cheek, turn the other also;⁴⁰ and if anyone wants to sue you and take your coat, give your cloak as well;⁴¹ and if anyone forces you to go one mile, go also the second mile.⁴² Give to everyone who begs from you, and do not refuse anyone who wants to borrow from you.

⁴³ “You have heard that it was said, ‘You shall love your neighbor and hate your enemy.’⁴⁴ But I say to you, Love your enemies and pray for those who persecute you,⁴⁵ so that you may be children of your Father in heaven; for he makes his sun rise on the evil and on the good, and sends rain on the righteous and on the unrighteous.⁴⁶ For if you love those who love you, what reward do you have? Do not even the tax collectors do the same?⁴⁷ And if you greet only your brothers and sisters,^e what more are you doing than others? Do not even the Gentiles do the same?⁴⁸ Be perfect, therefore, as your heavenly Father is perfect.

^a Gk your brother

^b Gk lacks to court

^c Gk Gehenna

^d Or evil

^e Gk your brothers

see 26.59n. 24: Gift, true worship of God requires full reconciliation with one's neighbors. 25: Imprisonment for debt was a Gentile, not a Jewish, practice. 27: For the remaining three antitheses, Jesus proposes a different ethic for his followers. Adultery, cf. Ex. 20.14; Deut 5.18; cf. 5.32; 15.19; 19.9. Jesus not only condemns adultery but even entertaining thoughts that would lead to adultery. 31: Divorce, Deut 24.1–4; cf. 19.7–9. Jesus indicates that the only justification for divorcing one's wife is sexual infidelity; otherwise the divorce is invalid, and any future marriages adulterous. 33: Lev 19.12; Num 30.2; Deut 23.21. 34–36: Heaven, earth, and Jerusalem are all circumlocutions for “God;” they, along with one's head, are in God's keeping and, therefore, not under humans' dominion. 35: Isa 66.1; Ps 48.2. 38: Jesus qualifies the law of retaliation, the “lex talionis” (“an eye for an eye . . .,” Ex 21.23–24; Lev 24.19–20; Deut 19.21), by advocating the return of good for evil. 40: Cf. Ex 22.26–27; Deut 24.12–13. 43: Love your neighbor quotes Lev 19.18, but hate your enemy is not found in the Hebrew Bible. 44: Those who persecute you, Matthew's version (cf. Lk 6.27–28) may refer to actual persecution experienced by his church, demonstrating the radical nature of the commandment (cf. 10.17). 46: Tax collectors though Jewish, were popularly regarded as unclean, Roman collaborators. 47: Gentiles occasionally have a negative connotation in the Gospel

6 “Beware of practicing your piety before others in order to be seen by them; for then you have no reward from your Father in heaven.

² “So whenever you give alms, do not sound a trumpet before you, as the hypocrites do in the synagogues and in the streets, so that they may be praised by others. Truly I tell you, they have received their reward. ³ But when you give alms, do not let your left hand know what your right hand is doing, ⁴ so that your alms may be done in secret; and your Father who sees in secret will reward you.^a

⁵ “And whenever you pray, do not be like the hypocrites; for they love to stand and pray in the synagogues and at the street corners, so that they may be seen by others. Truly I tell you, they have received their reward. ⁶ But whenever you pray, go into your room and shut the door and pray to your Father who is in secret; and your Father who sees in secret will reward you.^a ⁷ “When you are praying, do not heap up empty phrases as the Gentiles do; for they think that they will be heard because of their many words. ⁸ Do not be like them, for your Father knows what you need before you ask him.

⁹ “Pray then in this way:
Our Father in heaven,
hallowed be your name.

¹⁰ Your kingdom come.
Your will be done,

on earth as it is in heaven.

¹¹ Give us this day our daily bread.^b

¹² And forgive us our debts,
as we also have forgiven our debtors.

¹³ And do not bring us to the time of trial,^c

but rescue us from the evil one.^d

¹⁴ For if you forgive others their trespasses, your heavenly Father will also forgive you;

¹⁵ but if you do not forgive others, neither will your Father forgive your trespasses.

¹⁶ “And whenever you fast, do not look dismal, like the hypocrites, for they disfigure their faces so as to show others that they are fasting. Truly I tell you, they have received their reward. ¹⁷ But when you fast, put oil on your head and wash your face, ¹⁸ so that your fasting may be seen not by others but by your Father who is in secret; and your Father who sees in secret will reward you.^a ¹⁹ “Do not store up for yourselves treasures on earth, where moth and rust^e consume and where thieves break in and steal; ²⁰ but store up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust^e consumes and where thieves do not break in and steal. ²¹ For where your treasure is, there your heart will be also.

²² “The eye is the lamp of the body. So, if your eye is healthy, your whole body will be

^a Other ancient authorities add openly

^b Or our bread for tomorrow

^c Or us into temptation

^d Or from evil. Other ancient authorities add, in some form, For the kingdom and the power and the glory are yours forever. Amen.

^e Gk eating

(5.47; 6.7,32; 15.26; 16.17). 48: The word perfect occurs only here and at 19.21 in the Gospels. This understanding of “perfection” is closely linked with the love commandment (19.19).

6.1–18: Almsgiving, prayer, and fasting. 1: This segment opens with a general principle, followed by three particular applications. True piety or righteousness, which is inconspicuous, is contrasted with false piety, which is motivated by ostentation. 2: Giving alms involved not only the donation of money but also the performance of other merciful and charitable actions. Sounding a trumpet is probably metaphorical (as in “blow your own horn”). Hypocrites originally signified “actors.” Here the word takes on some of that sense; elsewhere in Matthew it is used more pejoratively, particularly of the Pharisees and scribes, in the sense of “frauds,” not the outstanding examples of piety people thought them to be. 5: Performance of the daily Jewish prayers in the morning, at noon, and in the evening (Lk 11.2–4). Stand, standing with the face directed toward Jerusalem was the typical Jewish posture for prayer (1 Kings 8.35–48; Mk 11.25; Lk 18.13). 9: Pray, Matthew’s version of the Lord’s Prayer is considerably longer than Luke’s (11.2–4). The final doxology (see textual note d) appears to have been added later under the influence of 1 Chr 29.1–13. 17: Oil on your head, anointing and washing oneself were a feature of day-to-day hygiene and not necessarily a sign of festivity.

6.19–34: Life and livelihood (Lk 12.22–34; 11.34–36). This section illustrates how to live in the world, without full of light;²³ but if your eye is unhealthy, your whole body will be full of darkness. If then the light in you is darkness, how great is the darkness!

²⁴ “No one can serve two masters; for a slave will either hate the one and love the other, or be devoted to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and wealth.^a ²⁵ “Therefore I tell you, do not worry about your life, what you will eat or what you will drink,^b or about your body, what you will wear. Is not life more than food, and the body more than clothing? ²⁶ Look at the birds of the air; they neither sow nor reap nor gather into barns, and yet your heavenly Father feeds them. Are you not of more value than they? ²⁷ And can any of you by worrying add a single hour to your span of life?^c ²⁸ And why do you worry about clothing? Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow; they neither toil nor spin, ²⁹ yet I tell you, even Solomon in all his glory was not clothed like one of these. ³⁰ But if God so clothes the grass of the field, which is alive today and tomorrow is thrown into the oven, will he not much more clothe you—you of little faith? ³¹ Therefore do not worry, saying, ‘What will we eat?’ or ‘What will we drink?’ or ‘What will we wear?’ ³² For it is the Gentiles who strive for all these things; and indeed your heavenly Father knows that you need all these things. ³³ But strive first for the kingdom of God^d and his^e righteousness, and all these things will be given to you as well.

³⁴ “So do not worry about tomorrow, for tomorrow will bring worries of its own. Today’s trouble is enough for today.

7 “Do not judge, so that you may not be judged. ² For with the judgment you make you will be judged, and the measure you give will be the measure you get. ³ Why do you see the speck in your neighbor’s^f eye, but do not notice the log in your own eye?⁴ Or how can you say to your neighbor,⁹ ‘Let me take the speck out of your eye,’ while the log is in your own eye?⁵ You hypocrite, first take the log out of your own eye, and then you will see clearly to take the speck out of your neighbor’s^f eye.

⁶ “Do not give what is holy to dogs; and do not throw your pearls before swine, or they will trample them under foot and turn and maul you.

⁷ “Ask, and it will be given you; search, and you will find; knock, and the door will be opened for you. ⁸ For everyone who asks receives, and everyone who searches finds, and for everyone who knocks, the door will be opened. ⁹ Is there anyone among you who, if your child asks for bread, will give a stone? ¹⁰ Or if the child asks for a fish, will give a snake? ¹¹ If you then, who are evil, know how to give good gifts to your children, how much more will your Father in heaven give good things to those who ask him!

¹² “In everything do to others as you would have them do to you; for this is the law and the prophets.

¹³ “Enter through the narrow gate; for the gate is wide and the road is easy^h that leads to destruction, and there are many who take it. ¹⁴ For the gate is narrow and the road is hard that leads to life, and there are few who find it.

^a Gk mammon

^b Other ancient authorities lack or what you will drink

^c Or add one cubit to your height

^d Other ancient authorities lack of God

^e Or its

^f Gk brother's

^g Gk brother

^h Other ancient authorities read for the road is wide and easy

being subject to it. 22–23: A sincere eye is healthy and has no hidden agenda, while an “unhealthy” or insincere eye was thought to occlude the entry of light. 26–30: These verses demonstrate a “less to greater” (“a fortiori”) argument, where one establishes a greater premise from a lesser one (cf. 12.9–11). 29: Solomon, 1 Kings 10; 2 Chr 1. 30: Thrown into the oven, grass was used to fire baking ovens. 32: 5.47n.

7:1–6: Judging others (Lk 6.37–38,41–42). 1: Be judged, by God. 6: Holy, meat from the sacrifice or possibly the deeper truths of the Gospel; dogs were considered scavengers and swine were unclean animals.

7:7–23: The way of righteousness (Lk 11.9–13; 6.43–44; 13.24–27). The following sayings from Q embody Matthew’s ethic of righteousness. 12: The “Golden Rule” epitomizing Jesus’ ethical teaching. A similar principle is attributed to the Pharisee Hillel (b. Shabb 31a; cf. Tob 4.15). 13: Narrow gate, a metaphor for entering

¹⁵ “Beware of false prophets, who come to you in sheep’s clothing but inwardly are ravenous wolves. ¹⁶ You will know them by their fruits. Are grapes gathered from thorns, or figs from thistles? ¹⁷ In the same way, every good tree bears good fruit, but the bad tree bears bad fruit. ¹⁸ A good tree cannot bear bad fruit, nor can a bad tree bear good fruit. ¹⁹ Every tree that does not bear good fruit is cut down and thrown into the fire. ²⁰ Thus you will know them by their fruits.

²¹ “Not everyone who says to me, ‘Lord, Lord,’ will enter the kingdom of heaven, but only the one who does the will of my Father in heaven. ²² On that day many will say to me, ‘Lord, Lord, did we not prophesy in your name, and cast out demons in your name, and do many deeds of power in your name?’ ²³ Then I will declare to them, ‘I never knew you; go away from me, you evildoers.’

²⁴ “Everyone then who hears these words of mine and acts on them will be like a wise man who built his house on rock. ²⁵ The rain fell, the floods came, and the winds blew and beat on that house, but it did not fall, because it had been founded on rock. ²⁶ And everyone who hears these words of mine and does not act on them will be like a foolish man who built his house on sand. ²⁷ The rain fell, and the floods came, and the winds blew and beat against that house, and it fell—and great was its fall!”

²⁸ Now when Jesus had finished saying these things, the crowds were astounded at his teaching, ²⁹ for he taught them as one having authority, and not as their scribes.

8 When Jesus^a had come down from the mountain, great crowds followed him; ² and there was a leper^b who came to him and knelt before him, saying, “Lord, if you choose, you can make me clean.” ³ He stretched out his hand and touched him, saying, “I do choose. Be made clean!” Immediately his leprosy^b was cleansed. ⁴ Then Jesus said to him, “See that you say nothing to anyone; but go, show yourself to the priest, and offer the gift that Moses commanded, as a testimony to them.”

⁵ When he entered Capernaum, a centurion came to him, appealing to him ⁶ and saying, “Lord, my servant is lying at home paralyzed, in terrible distress.” ⁷ And he said to him, “I will come and cure him.” ⁸ The cen-

^a Gk he

^b The terms leper and leprosy can refer to several diseases

the kingdom of God. 15: False prophets, possibly itinerant Christian prophets 7.22; 23.34; Did. 11.7–12. 16: Fruits, repentance and righteous behavior. 22: That day, the day of judgment. In your name, “on behalf of” or “with the authority of.” 23: Evildoers, Ps 6.8.

7.24–29: The two foundations (Lk 6.47–49). 24: These words of mine, obedience to Jesus’ words, as to the will of God (7.21), is the only way to achieve righteousness and enter the kingdom. In the Sermon, Jesus has provided his hearers with a solid foundation of rock (16.18). 28: The crowds, not mentioned at the beginning of the discourse, appear as the audience beyond the inner circle of disciples. Their presence suggests that Jesus’ words are directed not only to the disciples but to all followers of Jesus. 29: Scribes, 2.4n. All five of Matthew’s discourses close with a reference to judgment.

8.1–9.38: The deeds of the Messiah. Matthew follows his epitome of Jesus’ teaching with a collection of Jesus’ miracles: the Messiah of word is succeeded by the Messiah of deed. While Matthew conforms to the order of Mark in a general way, he has made considerable use of Q and his own traditions (two of which are doublets; see 9.27–31 and 9.32–34). To create the Messiah of deed sequence Matthew has introduced five miracle stories so that chs 8–9 form a composite of ten miracle accounts interleaved with two discipleship narratives (8.18–22; 9.9–17).

8.1–4: The cleansing of a leper (Mk 1.40–45; Lk 5.12–16). Matthew emphasizes Jesus’ divine calm by eliminating Mark’s reference to Jesus’ emotions (1.41,43). 2: Make me clean, the skin condition of lepers rendered them ceremonially unclean (Lev 13.1–59; Num 5.1–4). 3: Leprosy was a serious skin disease, including what we describe as leprosy (Hansen’s disease), as well as many other disorders such as psoriasis, lupus, ringworm, and favus. 4: The gift that Moses commanded, offerings for the cleansing of a leper (Lev. 14.10–32). This leper heeds Jesus’ command to tell no one (contrast Mk 1.40–5).

8.5–17: Many healings (Lk 7.1–10; Jn 4.43–54; Mk 1.29–34; Lk 4.38–41). 5: Centurion, a Roman officer comturion answered, “Lord, I am not worthy to have you come under my roof; but only speak the word, and my servant will be healed.”⁹ For I also am a man under authority, with soldiers under me; and I say to one, ‘Go,’ and he goes, and to another, ‘Come,’ and he comes, and to my slave, ‘Do this,’ and the slave does it.”¹⁰ When Jesus heard him, he was amazed and said to those who followed him, “Truly I tell you, in no one^a in Israel have I found such faith.”¹¹ I tell you, many will come from east and west and will eat with Abraham and Isaac and Jacob in the kingdom of heaven,¹² while the heirs of the kingdom will be thrown into the outer darkness, where there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth.”¹³ And to the centurion Jesus said, “Go; let it be done for you according to your faith.” And the servant was healed in that hour.

¹⁴ When Jesus entered Peter’s house, he saw his mother-in-law lying in bed with a fever;¹⁵ he touched her hand, and the fever left her, and she got up and began to serve him.¹⁶ That evening they brought to him many who were possessed with demons; and he cast out the spirits with a word, and cured all who were sick.¹⁷ This was to fulfill what had been spoken through the prophet Isaiah, “He took our infirmities and bore our diseases.”

¹⁸ Now when Jesus saw great crowds around him, he gave orders to go over to the other side.¹⁹ A scribe then approached and said, “Teacher, I will follow you wherever you go.”²⁰ And Jesus said to him, “Foxes have holes, and birds of the air have nests; but the Son of Man has nowhere to lay his head.”

²¹ Another of his disciples said to him, “Lord, first let me go and bury my father.”²² But Jesus said to him, “Follow me, and let the dead bury their own dead.”

²³ And when he got into the boat, his disciples followed him.²⁴ A windstorm arose on the sea, so great that the boat was being swamped by the waves; but he was asleep.²⁵ And they went and woke him up, saying, “Lord, save us! We are perishing!”²⁶ And he said to them, “Why are you afraid, you of little faith?” Then he got up and rebuked the winds and the sea; and there was a dead calm.²⁷ They were amazed, saying, “What sort of man is this, that even the winds and the sea obey him?”

²⁸ When he came to the other side, to the country of the Gadarenes,^b two demoniacs coming out of the tombs met him. They were so fierce that no one could pass that way.²⁹ Suddenly they shouted, “What have you to do with us, Son of God? Have you come here to torment us before the time?”³⁰ Now a large herd of swine was feeding at some distance from them.³¹ The demons begged him, “If you cast us out, send us into the herd of swine.”³² And he said to them, “Go!” So they came out and entered the swine; and

^a Other ancient authorities read Truly I tell you, not even

^b Other ancient authorities read Gergesenes; others, Gerasenes

mandating about a hundred men. 6: Servant, or “child.” 8: I am not worthy, contact with Gentiles could make Jews ceremonially unclean (Acts 10.28; m. Avoda Zara) 10: Faith, in Matthew the two figures commended by Jesus for their faith are Gentiles (cf. 15.28). 11: Eat . . . in the kingdom, the messianic banquet (22.1–10; Isa 25.6). 12: 1 Enoch 10.4–6; 62.11. Gnashing of teeth, an indication of sharp pain or vexation. This phrase, which occurs six times in Matthew, expresses the dire consequences of exclusion from the kingdom (13.42,50; 22.13; 24.51; 25.30; cf. Lk 12.47; 13.28). 17: A fulfillment citation of Isaiah 53.4. Matthew’s form of the citation emphasizes physical rather than spiritual healing.

8.18–22: Would-be followers of Jesus (Lk 9.57–62). 18: Other side, the eastern shore of the Sea of Galilee. 20: Son of Man, an enigmatic self-designation used by Jesus that has at least three senses in Matthew: Jesus as a human being; Jesus as a figure who must suffer and die; Jesus as divine judge at the end of days (cf. Dan 7.13–14). The first sense is in view here. 21: Bury my father, although the burial of kinsmen was among the most pressing of sacred duties for Jews (Tob 1.18–19), it is entirely eclipsed by the call to follow Jesus.

8.23–34: The calming of a storm and the healing of two demoniacs (Mk 4.35–5.20; Lk 8.22–39). 26: This nature miracle is Jesus’ only nonhealing miracle in the first half of the Gospel. 28: Gadarenes, Matthew situates the healing in Gadara, instead of Gerasa (Mk 5.1), which was located ca. 35 mi (56 km) from the sea. Gadara’s territory was far closer to the Sea of Galilee. 29: Before the time, the day of judgment. 30: Swine suggest a Gentile region (7.6n.).

suddenly, the whole herd rushed down the steep bank into the sea and perished in the water.³³ The swineherds ran off, and on going into the town, they told the whole story about what had happened to the demoniacs.

³⁴ Then the whole town came out to meet Jesus; and when they saw him, they begged 9 him to leave their neighborhood.¹ And after getting into a boat he crossed the sea and came to his own town.

² And just then some people were carrying a paralyzed man lying on a bed. When Jesus saw their faith, he said to the paralytic, “Take heart, son; your sins are forgiven.”³ Then some of the scribes said to themselves, “This man is blaspheming.”⁴ But Jesus, perceiving their thoughts, said, “Why do you think evil in your hearts?⁵ For which is easier, to say, ‘Your sins are forgiven,’ or to say, ‘Stand up and walk’?⁶ But so that you may know that the Son of Man has authority on earth to forgive sins”—he then said to the paralytic—“Stand up, take your bed and go to your home.”⁷ And he stood up and went to his home.⁸ When the crowds saw it, they were filled with awe, and they glorified God, who had given such authority to human beings.

⁹ As Jesus was walking along, he saw a man called Matthew sitting at the tax booth; and he said to him, “Follow me.” And he got up and followed him.

¹⁰ And as he sat at dinner^a in the house, many tax collectors and sinners came and were sitting^b with him and his disciples.

¹¹ When the Pharisees saw this, they said to his disciples, “Why does your teacher eat with tax collectors and sinners?”¹² But when he heard this, he said, “Those who are well have no need of a physician, but those who are sick.¹³ Go and learn what this means, ‘I desire mercy, not sacrifice.’ For I have come to call not the righteous but sinners.”

¹⁴ Then the disciples of John came to him, saying, “Why do we and the Pharisees fast often,^c but your disciples do not fast?”¹⁵ And Jesus said to them, “The wedding guests cannot mourn as long as the bridegroom is with them, can they? The days will come when the bridegroom is taken away from them, and then they will fast.¹⁶ No one sews a piece of unshrunk cloth on an old cloak, for the patch pulls away from the cloak, and a worse tear is made.¹⁷ Neither is new wine put into old wineskins; otherwise, the skins burst, and the wine is spilled, and the skins are destroyed; but new wine is put into fresh wineskins, and so both are preserved.”

¹⁸ While he was saying these things to them, suddenly a leader of the synagogue^d came in and knelt before him, saying, “My daughter has just died; but come and lay your hand on her, and she will live.”¹⁹ And Jesus got up and followed him, with his disciples.²⁰ Then suddenly a woman who had been suffering from hemorrhages for twelve years came up behind him and touched the fringe of his cloak,²¹ for she said to herself, “If I only touch his cloak, I will be made well.”²² Jesus turned, and seeing her he said, “Take heart, daughter; your faith has made you well.” And instantly the woman was made well.²³ When Jesus came to the leader’s house and saw the flute players and the crowd making a commotion,²⁴ he said, “Go away; for the girl is not dead but sleeping.” And they laughed at him.²⁵ But when the crowd had been put outside, he went in and took her by the hand, and the girl got up.²⁶ And the report of this spread throughout that district.

^a Gk reclined

^b Gk were reclining

^c Other ancient authorities lack often

^d Gk lacks of the synagogue

9.1–17: The ministry in Capernaum (Mk 2.1–22; Lk 5.17–39). 1: His own town, Capernaum. 3: Blaspheming, they accuse Jesus of dishonoring God’s name because he claims that he, like God, can forgive sins. 8: To human beings, Jesus’ own authority to forgive has been bequeathed to Matthew’s church. 9: The change of Levi’s name (Mk 2.14) has led some scholars to consider “Matthew” to be the evangelist’s own signature; see also 5.46n. 13: Jesus cites Hos. 6.6 here and again at 12.7. 15: Bridegroom, Jesus’ association with the coming of the kingdom makes him a festal figure like a bridegroom (cf. 22.1–14).

9.18–34: Four healings (Mk 5.21–43; Lk 8.40–56). 21: Touch his cloak, if the hemorrhage was menstrual, the woman was ritually impure and would have made Jesus impure by touching him. 23: Flute players were a feature of funeral rites. 27–31: This healing narrative is a doublet of 20.29–34. The evangelist frequently doubles

²⁷ As Jesus went on from there, two blind men followed him, crying loudly, “Have mercy on us, Son of David!” ²⁸ When he entered the house, the blind men came to him; and Jesus said to them, “Do you believe that I am able to do this?” They said to him, “Yes, Lord.” ²⁹ Then he touched their eyes and said, “According to your faith let it be done to you.” ³⁰ And their eyes were opened. Then Jesus sternly ordered them, “See that no one knows of this.” ³¹ But they went away and spread the news about him throughout that district.

³² After they had gone away, a demoniac who was mute was brought to him. ³³ And when the demon had been cast out, the one who had been mute spoke; and the crowds were amazed and said, “Never has anything like this been seen in Israel.” ³⁴ But the Pharisees said, “By the ruler of the demons he casts out the demons.”^a

³⁵ Then Jesus went about all the cities and villages, teaching in their synagogues, and proclaiming the good news of the kingdom, and curing every disease and every sickness. ³⁶ When he saw the crowds, he had compassion for them, because they were harassed and helpless, like sheep without a shepherd. ³⁷ Then he said to his disciples, “The harvest is plentiful, but the laborers are few; ³⁸ therefore ask the Lord of the harvest to send out laborers into his harvest.”

10 Then Jesus^b summoned his twelve disciples and gave them authority over unclean spirits, to cast them out, and to cure every disease and every sickness. ² These are the names of the twelve apostles: first, Simon, also known as Peter, and his brother Andrew; James son of Zebedee, and his brother John; ³ Philip and Bartholomew; Thomas and Matthew the tax collector; James son of Alphaeus, and Thaddaeus;^c ⁴ Simon the Cananaean, and Judas Iscariot, the one who betrayed him.

⁵ These twelve Jesus sent out with the following instructions: “Go nowhere among the Gentiles, and enter no town of the Samaritans, ⁶ but go rather to the lost sheep of the house of Israel. ⁷ As you go, proclaim the good news, ‘The kingdom of heaven has come near.’^d ⁸ Cure the sick, raise the dead, cleanse the lepers,^e cast out demons. You received without payment; give without payment. ⁹ Take no gold, or silver, or copper in your belts, ¹⁰ no bag for your journey, or two tunics, or sandals, or a staff; for laborers deserve their food. ¹¹ What-

^a Other ancient authorities lack this verse

^b Gk he

^c Other ancient authorities read Lebbaeus, or Lebbaeus called Thaddaeus

^d Or is at hand

^e The terms leper and leprosy can refer to several diseases

the number of figures in his sources (8.28–34; 9.27–31), possibly in keeping with the Jewish legal tradition of furnishing double witnesses to testify to the truth of something (Deut 19.15). 27: The sick and marginalized often address Jesus as Son of David (1.1) in order to be healed. In the other Gospels the title does not have such therapeutic associations. 32–34: A doublet of 12.22–24. 34: Ruler of the demons: cf. 12.24–32.

9.35–38: The compassion of Jesus. 35: Their synagogues may indicate that Jewish Christians in Matthew’s day were no longer participants in Jewish synagogues. In Jesus’ day, synagogue buildings were well established as places of worship. 36: Jesus’ compassion for the leaderless people of Israel is a defining feature of Matthew’s Jesus; cf. Num 27.17; Ezek 34.5. 37: Normally a symbol for the final judgment, the harvest appears here as a metaphor for Jesus’ mission, and forms a fitting introduction to the mission discourse.

10.1–11.1: The second (mission) discourse. This discourse appears to reflect both the time of Jesus and that of the early church. While Jesus delimits the disciples’ mission to the people of Israel (10.5–6), the discourse goes on to speak of a later phase where the disciples were dragged before governors and provided testimony to the Gentiles (10.18).

10.1–15: The commissioning of the twelve (Mk 3.13–19; Lk 6.12–16; Mk 6.7–13; Lk 9.1–6). The miraculous acts performed by Jesus now become a feature of the disciples’ own ministry. 2: Twelve apostles, this is the first time Matthew explicitly names the twelve; their number reflects the twelve tribes of Israel (19.28). 3: Matthew has added tax collector. 4: Iscariot may mean “from Kerioth,” a town in southern Judea. 5: Gentiles, only Matthew has Jesus delimit his own and his disciples’ ministry to Israel. Samaritans were the inhabitants of Samaria, a region that had been part of the Northern Kingdom of Israel until its defeat by the Assyrians in 722 BCE. Those Jews who were not deported were thought to have intermarried with Gentiles, and their descendants, the Samari-

ever town or village you enter, find out who in it is worthy, and stay there until you leave.¹² As you enter the house, greet it.¹³ If the house is worthy, let your peace come upon it; but if it is not worthy, let your peace return to you.¹⁴ If anyone will not welcome you or listen to your words, shake off the dust from your feet as you leave that house or town.¹⁵ Truly I tell you, it will be more tolerable for the land of Sodom and Gomorrah on the day of judgment than for that town.

¹⁶“See, I am sending you out like sheep into the midst of wolves; so be wise as serpents and innocent as doves.¹⁷ Beware of them, for they will hand you over to councils and flog you in their synagogues;¹⁸ and you will be dragged before governors and kings because of me, as a testimony to them and the Gentiles.¹⁹ When they hand you over, do not worry about how you are to speak or what you are to say; for what you are to say will be given to you at that time;²⁰ for it is not you who speak, but the Spirit of your Father speaking through you.²¹ Brother will betray brother to death, and a father his child, and children will rise against parents and have them put to death;²² and you will be hated by all because of my name. But the one who endures to the end will be saved.²³ When they persecute you in one town, flee to the next; for truly I tell you, you will not have gone through all the towns of Israel before the Son of Man comes.

²⁴“A disciple is not above the teacher, nor a slave above the master;²⁵ it is enough for the disciple to be like the teacher, and the slave like the master. If they have called the master of the house Beelzebul, how much more will they malign those of his household!

²⁶“So have no fear of them; for nothing is covered up that will not be uncovered, and nothing secret that will not become known.²⁷ What I say to you in the dark, tell in the light; and what you hear whispered, proclaim from the housetops.²⁸ Do not fear those who kill the body but cannot kill the soul; rather fear him who can destroy both soul and body in hell.^a²⁹ Are not two sparrows sold for a penny? Yet not one of them will fall to the ground apart from your Father.³⁰ And even the hairs of your head are all counted.³¹ So do not be afraid; you are of more value than many sparrows.

³²“Everyone therefore who acknowledges me before others, I also will acknowledge before my Father in heaven;³³ but whoever denies me before others, I also will deny before my Father in heaven.

³⁴“Do not think that I have come to bring peace to the earth; I have not come to bring peace, but a sword.

³⁵ For I have come to set a man against his father, and a daughter against her mother,
and a daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law;

³⁶ and one’s foes will be members of one’s own household.

³⁷ Whoever loves father or mother more than me is not worthy of me; and whoever loves son or daughter more than me is not worthy of me;³⁸ and whoever does not take up the cross and follow me is not worthy of me.

³⁹ Those who find their life will lose it, and those who lose their life for my sake will find it.

⁴⁰ “Whoever welcomes you welcomes me, and whoever welcomes me welcomes the one who sent me.⁴¹ Whoever welcomes a tans, were reviled by Jews (see Jn 4.9). 6: Lost sheep of the house of Israel, see 9.36n. 15: Sodom and Gomorrah, Gen 18.16–19.39.

^a Gk Gehenna

10.16–25: Coming persecutions (Mk 13.9–13; Lk 21.12–17). 17: Their synagogues, see 9.35n. 18: Governors, Roman officials, including prefects and procurators. Gentiles, an anticipation of the post-resurrection mission (28.19). 23: Son of Man, most scholars interpret this difficult verse as a reference to Jesus’ return (the Second Coming or Parousia). 25: They, the Pharisees (9.34; 12.24). Beelzebul, a ruler of demons often identified with Satan; originally the name for the Canaanite deity Baal-zebul, “Baal (or “Lord”) the Prince” (2 Kings 1.2–6). See 9.34; 12.24.

10.26–11.1: The consequences of mission (Lk 12.2–9; 12.51–53; 14.26–27; Mk 9.41). 26: Them, the scribes and Pharisees. 29: Sparrows, the least expensive of edible birds. 34–39: The affliction and pain that must come prior to the messianic age of peace. 38: Cross, a Roman punishment reserved for slaves and rebels. The condemned prophet in the name of a prophet will receive a prophet's reward; and whoever welcomes a righteous person in the name of a righteous person will receive the reward of the righteous;⁴² and whoever gives even a cup of cold water to one of these little ones in the name of a disciple—truly I tell you, none of these will lose their reward.”

11 Now when Jesus had finished instructing his twelve disciples, he went on from there to teach and proclaim his message in their cities.

²When John heard in prison what the Messiah^a was doing, he sent word by his^b disciples³ and said to him, “Are you the one who is to come, or are we to wait for another?”⁴ Jesus answered them, “Go and tell John what you hear and see:⁵ the blind receive their sight, the lame walk, the lepers^c are cleansed, the deaf hear, the dead are raised, and the poor have good news brought to them.⁶ And blessed is anyone who takes no offense at me.”

⁷As they went away, Jesus began to speak to the crowds about John: “What did you go out into the wilderness to look at? A reed shaken by the wind?⁸ What then did you go out to see? Someone^d dressed in soft robes? Look, those who wear soft robes are in royal palaces.⁹ What then did you go out to see? A prophet?^e Yes, I tell you, and more than a prophet.¹⁰ This is the one about whom it is written,

‘See, I am sending my messenger ahead of you,
who will prepare your way before you.’

¹¹Truly I tell you, among those born of women no one has arisen greater than John the Baptist; yet the least in the kingdom of heaven is greater than he.¹² From the days of John the Baptist until now the kingdom of heaven has suffered violence,^f and the violent take it by force.¹³ For all the prophets and the law prophesied until John came;¹⁴ and if you are willing to accept it, he is Elijah who is to come.¹⁵ Let anyone with ears^g listen!

¹⁶“But to what will I compare this generation? It is like children sitting in the marketplaces and calling to one another,

¹⁷‘We played the flute for you, and you did not dance;
we wailed, and you did not mourn.’

¹⁸For John came neither eating nor drinking, and they say, ‘He has a demon’;¹⁹ the Son of Man came eating and drinking, and they say, ‘Look, a glutton and a drunkard, a friend of tax collectors and sinners!’ Yet wisdom is vindicated by her deeds.”^h

²⁰Then he began to reproach the cities in which most of his deeds of power had been done, because they did not repent.²¹ “Woe

^a Or the Christ

^b Other ancient authorities read two of his

^c The terms leper and leprosy can refer to several diseases

^d Or Why then did you go out? To see someone

^e Other ancient authorities read Why then did you go out? To see a prophet?

^f Or has been coming violently

^g Other ancient authorities add to hear

^h Other ancient authorities read children were forced to carry their cross to the place of execution (27.32). 41: In the name of a prophet, i.e., because he is a prophet. 42: Little ones, those disciples occupying a humble or lowly position (18.6).

11.2–19: The messengers from John the Baptist (Lk 7.18–35). 2: Prison, Herod's stronghold Machaerus, 5 mi (8 km) east of the Dead Sea (see 14.1–12). 3: The one who is to come, the Messiah. 5: The blind . . . to them, the deeds predicted of the Messiah (Isa 35.5–6; 61.1). 5: Lepers: 8.3n. 11: The least: The least are greater through having witnessed the kingdom's arrival in Jesus and through having been given the opportunity to act on that knowledge (5.19; 18.4). 12: As had happened with many true prophets, violence would soon be visited on John and Jesus. 14: John is the Elijah to come before the day of the Lord: he ushers in the kingdom (Mal 3.1; cf. 17.12–13). 15: 13.9. 16: This generation, the entire generation of Israel contemporaneous with Jesus. 19: Son of Man, 8.20n. Wisdom, Jesus, like John, embodies wisdom, and is justified by his actions (11.4–5).

11.20–24: Woes to unrepentant cities (Lk 10.13–15). 21: A woe oracle against Galilean towns for failing to respond to Jesus. Chorazin has been identified with Kerazeh, a town situated close to Capernaum. After Jerusalem and Capernaum, Bethsaida is the place most commonly associated with Jesus' ministry in the Gospels (Mk 8.22–6). Sackcloth, a rough fabric worn as a symbol of mourning and repentance. 21–23: Tyre and Sidon, on the Mediterranean coast north of Israel, were often linked in prophetic oracles (Isa 23; Jer 25.22; 27.3–7; 47.4; Ezek to you, Chorazin! Woe to you, Bethsaida! For if the deeds of power done in you had been done in Tyre and Sidon, they would have repented long ago in sackcloth and ashes.

²² But I tell you, on the day of judgment it will be more tolerable for Tyre and Sidon than for you. ²³ And you, Capernaum, will you be exalted to heaven?

No, you will be brought down to Hades.

For if the deeds of power done in you had been done in Sodom, it would have remained until this day. ²⁴ But I tell you that on the day of judgment it will be more tolerable for the land of Sodom than for you.”

²⁵ At that time Jesus said, “I thank^a you, Father, Lord of heaven and earth, because you have hidden these things from the wise and the intelligent and have revealed them to infants; ²⁶ yes, Father, for such was your gracious will. ^b ²⁷ All things have been handed over to me by my Father; and no one knows the Son except the Father, and no one knows the Father except the Son and anyone to whom the Son chooses to reveal him.

²⁸ “Come to me, all you that are weary and are carrying heavy burdens, and I will give you rest. ²⁹ Take my yoke upon you, and learn from me; for I am gentle and humble in heart, and you will find rest for your souls. ³⁰ For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light.”

12 At that time Jesus went through the grainfields on the sabbath; his disciples were hungry, and they began to pluck heads of grain and to eat. ² When the Pharisees saw it, they said to him, “Look, your disciples are doing what is not lawful to do on the sabbath.” ³ He said to them, “Have you not read what

David did when he and his companions were hungry? ⁴ He entered the house of God and ate the bread of the Presence, which it was not lawful for him or his companions to eat, but only for the priests. ⁵ Or have you not read in the law that on the sabbath the priests in the temple break the sabbath and yet are guiltless? ⁶ I tell you, something greater than the temple is here. ⁷ But if you had known what this means, ‘I desire mercy and not sacrifice,’ you would not have condemned the guiltless. ⁸ For the Son of Man is lord of the sabbath.”

⁹ He left that place and entered their synagogue; ¹⁰ a man was there with a withered hand, and they asked him, “Is it lawful to cure on the sabbath?” so that they might accuse him. ¹¹ He said to them, “Suppose one of you has only one sheep and it falls into a pit on the sabbath; will you not lay hold of it and lift it out? ¹² How much more valuable is a human being than a sheep! So it is lawful to do good on the sabbath.” ¹³ Then he said to the man, “Stretch out your hand.” He stretched it out, and it was restored, as sound as the other. ¹⁴ But the Pharisees went out and conspired against him, how to destroy him.

¹⁵ When Jesus became aware of this, he departed. Many crowds^c followed him, and he cured all of them, ¹⁶ and he ordered them not to make him known. ¹⁷ This was to fulfill what had been spoken through the prophet Isaiah:

¹⁸ “Here is my servant, whom I have chosen,

^a Or praise

^b Or for so it was well-pleasing in your sight

^c Other ancient authorities lack crowds

28.11–23; Joel 3.4–8), while Sodom was a stock example of an evil and unrepentant city (see 10.15n.).

11.25–30: Come to me and rest (Lk 11.21–22). 28: Heavy burdens, 23.4. Rest, a defining feature of the new age (1 Enoch 63.6). 29: Yoke, either Jesus’ way of life or his teaching of the Torah’s requirements. Jesus may be addressing his disciples here, but it is more likely the crowds of Israel (v. 7).

12.1–8: Plucking grain on the sabbath (Mk 2.23–28; Lk 6.1–5). 1: Grainfields, wheat or barley. Sabbath, Ex 20.8–11; 34.21. Plucking grain was considered to be “work.” 3: David, 1 Sam 21.1–6. 4: Priests were permitted to eat the bread of the Presence once it had been replaced with freshly consecrated loaves (Ex 25.30; Lev 24.5–9). 7: A second citation (see 9.13) of Hos 6.6. For God, acts of mercy outweigh ritual observances. 8: Lord of the sabbath, Jesus’ authority exceeds even that of divinely established institutions.

12.9–21: The healing Messiah (Mk 3.1–6; Lk 6.6–11). 10: Healing would be permitted if the afflicted person was unlikely to survive the sabbath. See also 6.26–30n. 11: One sheep, most authorities permitted the rescue of animals on the sabbath (cf. m. Shabb 18.3; for a ruling against doing so, see CD 11.13–14). 15–21: Isa 42.1–4, the longest fulfillment citation in Matthew. Here the servanthood of Jesus is strongly emphasized.

my beloved, with whom my soul is well pleased.

I will put my Spirit upon him, and he will proclaim justice to the Gentiles.

¹⁹ He will not wrangle or cry aloud, nor will anyone hear his voice in the streets.

²⁰ He will not break a bruised reed or quench a smoldering wick until he brings justice to victory.

²¹ And in his name the Gentiles will hope.”

²² Then they brought to him a demoniac who was blind and mute; and he cured him, so that the one who had been mute could speak and see. ²³ All the crowds were amazed and said, “Can this be the Son of David?”

²⁴ But when the Pharisees heard it, they said,
“It is only by Beelzebul, the ruler of the demons, that this fellow casts out the demons.”

²⁵ He knew what they were thinking and said to them, “Every kingdom divided against itself is laid waste, and no city or house divided against itself will stand. ²⁶ If Satan casts out Satan, he is divided against himself; how then will his kingdom stand? ²⁷ If I cast out demons by Beelzebul, by whom do your own exorcists^a cast them out? Therefore they will be your judges. ²⁸ But if it is by the Spirit of God that I cast out demons, then the kingdom of God has come to you. ²⁹ Or how can one enter a strong man’s house and plunder his property, without first tying up the strong man? Then indeed the house can be plundered. ³⁰ Whoever is not with me is against me, and whoever does not gather with me scatters. ³¹ Therefore I tell you, people will be forgiven for every sin and blasphemy, but blasphemy against the Spirit will not be forgiven. ³² Whoever speaks a word against the Son of Man will be forgiven, but whoever speaks against the Holy Spirit will not be forgiven, either in this age or in the age to come.

³³ “Either make the tree good, and its fruit good; or make the tree bad, and its fruit bad;
for the tree is known by its fruit. ³⁴ You brood of vipers! How can you speak good things, when you are evil? For out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaks. ³⁵ The good person brings good things out of a good treasure, and the evil person brings evil things out of an evil treasure. ³⁶ I tell you, on the day of judgment you will have to give an account for every careless word you utter; ³⁷ for by your words you will be justified, and by your words you will be condemned.”

³⁸ Then some of the scribes and Pharisees said to him, “Teacher, we wish to see a sign from you.” ³⁹ But he answered them, “An evil and adulterous generation asks for a sign, but no sign will be given to it except the sign of the prophet Jonah. ⁴⁰ For just as Jonah was three days and three nights in the belly of the sea monster, so for three days and three nights the Son of Man will be in the heart of the earth. ⁴¹ The people of Nineveh will rise up at the judgment with this generation and condemn it, because they repented at the proclamation of Jonah, and see, something greater than Jonah is here! ⁴² The queen of the South will rise up at the judgment with this generation and condemn it, because she came from the ends of the earth to listen to the wisdom of Solomon, and see, something greater than Solomon is here!

⁴³ “When the unclean spirit has gone out of a person, it wanders through waterless regions looking for a resting place, but it finds none. ⁴⁴ Then it says, ‘I will return to my house from which I came.’ When it comes,
it finds it empty, swept, and put in order.

^a Gk sons

12.22–37: Jesus and Beelzebul (Mk 3.20–30; Lk 11.14–23; 12.10; 6.43–45). 22–24: A doublet of 9.32–34. 23: The title Son of David is synonymous with the Messiah of Israel (1.1; 9.27n.; Ezek 34; Pss. Sol. 17). The crowds merely broach the question of Jesus’ identity, but their question is framed in such a way as to expect a negative answer: “This isn’t . . . , is it?” 24: Beelzebul, 10.25n. 31: Blasphemy, impious denigration. 33: 7.17. 34: 3.7. 37: Jas 3.1–12.

12.38–45: The demand for a sign (Mk 8.11–12; Lk 11.29–32; 11.24–26). 38: 16.1n. 39: Adulterous, unfaithful to God. Sign of the prophet Jonah, Jesus’ resurrection after three days and nights. 41: Nineveh, capital of the Assyrian empire, proverbial for its size and power. It was the subject of numerous prophetic oracles (Jon; Nah; Zeph 2.13; Tob 14). 42: Queen of the South, the queen of Sheba (1 Kings 10.1–13; 2 Chr 9.1–12). 43: Waterless regions, demons

⁴⁵ Then it goes and brings along seven other spirits more evil than itself, and they enter and live there; and the last state of that person is worse than the first. So will it be also with this evil generation.”

⁴⁶ While he was still speaking to the crowds, his mother and his brothers were standing outside, wanting to speak to him.

⁴⁷ Someone told him, “Look, your mother and your brothers are standing outside, wanting to speak to you.”^a ⁴⁸ But to the one who had told him this, Jesus^b replied, “Who is my mother, and who are my brothers?”

⁴⁹ And pointing to his disciples, he said, “Here are my mother and my brothers!

⁵⁰ For whoever does the will of my Father in heaven is my brother and sister and mother.”

13 That same day Jesus went out of the house and sat beside the sea. ² Such great crowds gathered around him that he got into a boat and sat there, while the whole crowd stood on the beach. ³ And he told them many things in parables, saying: “Listen! A sower went out to sow. ⁴ And as he sowed, some seeds fell on the path, and the birds came and ate them up. ⁵ Other seeds fell on rocky ground, where they did not have much soil, and they sprang up quickly, since they had no depth of soil. ⁶ But when the sun rose, they were scorched; and since they had no root, they withered away. ⁷ Other seeds fell among thorns, and the thorns grew up and choked them. ⁸ Other seeds fell on good soil and brought forth grain, some a hundredfold, some sixty, some thirty. ⁹ Let anyone with ears^c listen!”

¹⁰ Then the disciples came and asked him, “Why do you speak to them in parables?”

¹¹ He answered, “To you it has been given to know the secrets^d of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it has not been given. ¹² For to those who have, more will be given, and they will have an abundance; but from those who have nothing, even what they have will be taken away. ¹³ The reason I speak to them in parables is that ‘seeing they do not perceive, and hearing they do not listen, nor do they understand.’ ¹⁴ With them indeed is fulfilled the prophecy of Isaiah that says:

‘You will indeed listen, but never understand, and you will indeed look, but never perceive.

¹⁵ For this people’s heart has grown dull, and their ears are hard of hearing, and they have shut their eyes; so that they might not look with their eyes, and listen with their ears, and understand with their heart and turn—

and I would heal them.’

¹⁶ But blessed are your eyes, for they see, and your ears, for they hear. ¹⁷ Truly I tell you, many prophets and righteous people longed

^a Other ancient authorities lack verse 47

^b Gk he

^c Other ancient authorities add to hear

^d Or mysteries

were thought to reside in deserts (4.1; Tob 8.3). 45: Seven often symbolizes “completeness,” here suggesting complete possession. This evil generation, 11.16n.

12.46–50: The mother and brothers of Jesus (Mk 3.31–35; Lk 8.19–21). Obedience to God the Father is not only the most fundamental of familial obligations (8.21n.), it is also the ultimate basis of kinship.

13.1–53: The third discourse (the parable discourse). The word “parable” is derived from Gk “parabole,” “a placing beside,” where a literary figure or story illumines something “placed beside” it—here, the nature of the kingdom of heaven: “It is the same with the kingdom of heaven as when . . .” In ch 13, only the parable of the sower is not introduced as a “kingdom” parable (but see v. 19). Four of the parables in this chapter and one of the interpretations (vv. 36–43) are unique to Matthew. The theme of growth in the first four parables emphasizes the inexorable expansion of the kingdom.

13.1–23: The parable of the sower and its interpretation (Mk 4.1–20; Lk 8.4–15). 1: Sea, of Galilee. Sat, 5.1n. 2: Crowds, 4.25n. 8: These yields are exceptional, but not impossible. 11: Secrets, the mysteries of the end of days (Dan 2.28). 13: Where Mk 4.12 suggests that the purpose of Jesus’ parabolic speech is to promote incomprehension, Matthew indicates that Jesus speaks in parables as a consequence of incomprehension by Jesus’ audience. 14–15: Isa 6.9–10. 16: The disciples are blessed because, unlike “this people” (v. 15), they comprehend Jesus and to see what you see, but did not see it, and to hear what you hear, but did not hear it.

¹⁸ “Hear then the parable of the sower.

¹⁹ When anyone hears the word of the kingdom and does not understand it, the evil one comes and snatches away what is sown in the heart; this is what was sown on the path.

²⁰ As for what was sown on rocky ground, this is the one who hears the word and immediately receives it with joy; ²¹ yet such a person has no root, but endures only for a while, and when trouble or persecution arises on account of the word, that person immediately falls away.^a ²² As for what was sown among thorns, this is the one who hears the word, but the cares of the world and the lure of wealth choke the word, and it yields nothing.

²³ But as for what was sown on good soil, this is the one who hears the word and understands it, who indeed bears fruit and yields, in one case a hundredfold, in another sixty, and in another thirty.”

²⁴ He put before them another parable:

“The kingdom of heaven may be compared to someone who sowed good seed in his field;

²⁵ but while everybody was asleep, an enemy came and sowed weeds among the wheat, and then went away. ²⁶ So when the plants came up and bore grain, then the weeds appeared as well. ²⁷ And the slaves of the householder came and said to him, ‘Master, did you not sow good seed in your field? Where, then, did these weeds come from?’ ²⁸ He answered, ‘An enemy has done this.’ The slaves said to him, ‘Then do you want us to go and gather them?’ ²⁹ But he replied, ‘No; for in gathering the weeds you would uproot the wheat along with them. ³⁰ Let both of them grow together until the harvest; and at harvest time I will tell the reapers, Collect the weeds first and bind them in bundles to be burned, but gather the wheat into my barn.”

³¹ He put before them another parable:

“The kingdom of heaven is like a mustard seed that someone took and sowed in his field; ³² it is the smallest of all the seeds, but when it has grown it is the greatest of shrubs and becomes a tree, so that the birds of the air come and make nests in its branches.”

³³ He told them another parable: “The kingdom of heaven is like yeast that a woman took and mixed in with^b three measures of flour until all of it was leavened.”

³⁴ Jesus told the crowds all these things in parables; without a parable he told them nothing. ³⁵ This was to fulfill what had been spoken through the prophet:^c

“I will open my mouth to speak in parables;

I will proclaim what has been hidden from the foundation of the world.”^d

³⁶ Then he left the crowds and went into the house. And his disciples approached him, saying, “Explain to us the parable of the weeds of the field.” ³⁷ He answered, “The one who sows the good seed is the Son of Man; ³⁸ the field is the world, and the good seed are the children of the kingdom; the weeds are the children of the evil one, ³⁹ and the enemy who sowed them is the devil; the harvest is the end of the age, and the reapers are angels. ⁴⁰ Just as the weeds are collected and burned up with fire, so will it be at the end of the age. ⁴¹ The Son of Man will send his angels, and

^a Gk stumbles

^b Gk hid in

^c Other ancient authorities read the prophet Isaiah

^d Other ancient authorities lack of the world

his message. 18–23: In the Gospels only a few of Jesus’ parables are provided with interpretations. 19: Does not understand it, a characteristic Matthean addition.

13.24–33: Three parables of growth (Mk 4.30–32; Lk 13.18–21). 25: Weeds, perhaps dandelion, a weed resembling wheat. 31: Mustard seed, the precise species cannot be determined, though mustard seed was popularly regarded as the smallest of seeds planted by farmers. 32: Tree, actually a shrub growing to a height of ca. 10 ft (3 m). Birds, Ezek 17.23; Dan 4.10–12. 33: Yeast, not yeast but leaven, a remnant of fermented dough used as a “starter” for raising a new batch of dough. Three measures, ca. 2/3 bu (21 L).

13.34–35: The use of parables (Mk 4.33–34). A fulfillment citation (Ps 78.2) attributed to Asaph the seer (2 Chr 29.30). In this half of the discourse Jesus’ teaching is reserved for the disciples.

13.36–43: The parable of the weeds explained. 36: House, 13.1. 38: Children of the kingdom, those worthy of the kingdom. 41: Out of his kingdom, some scholars have identified the kingdom with the church, but in view they will collect out of his kingdom all causes of sin and all evildoers,⁴² and they will throw them into the furnace of fire, where there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth.⁴³ Then the righteous will shine like the sun in the kingdom of their Father. Let anyone with ears^a listen!

⁴⁴ “The kingdom of heaven is like treasure hidden in a field, which someone found and hid; then in his joy he goes and sells all that he has and buys that field.

⁴⁵ “Again, the kingdom of heaven is like a merchant in search of fine pearls;⁴⁶ on finding one pearl of great value, he went and sold all that he had and bought it.

⁴⁷ “Again, the kingdom of heaven is like a net that was thrown into the sea and caught fish of every kind;⁴⁸ when it was full, they drew it ashore, sat down, and put the good into baskets but threw out the bad.⁴⁹ So it will be at the end of the age. The angels will come out and separate the evil from the righteous⁵⁰ and throw them into the furnace of fire, where there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

⁵¹ “Have you understood all this?” They answered, “Yes.”⁵² And he said to them, “Therefore every scribe who has been trained for the kingdom of heaven is like the master of a household who brings out of his treasure what is new and what is old.”⁵³ When Jesus had finished these parables, he left that place.

⁵⁴ He came to his hometown and began to teach the people^b in their synagogue, so that they were astounded and said, “Where did this man get this wisdom and these deeds of power?⁵⁵ Is not this the carpenter’s son? Is not his mother called Mary? And are not his brothers James and Joseph and Simon and Judas?⁵⁶ And are not all his sisters with us? Where then did this man get all this?”

⁵⁷ And they took offense at him. But Jesus said to them, “Prophets are not without honor except in their own country and in their own house.”⁵⁸ And he did not do many deeds of power there, because of their unbelief.

14 At that time Herod the ruler^c heard reports about Jesus;² and he said to his servants, “This is John the Baptist; he has been raised from the dead, and for this reason these powers are at work in him.”³ For Herod had arrested John, bound him, and put him in prison on account of Herodias, his brother Philip’s wife,^d because John had been telling him, “It is not lawful for you to have her.”⁵ Though Herod^e wanted to put him to death, he feared the crowd, because they regarded him as a prophet.⁶ But when Herod’s birthday came, the daughter of Herodias danced before the company, and she pleased Herod⁷ so much that he promised on oath to grant her whatever she might ask.⁸ Prompted by her mother, she said, “Give me the head of John the Baptist here on a platter.”⁹ The king was grieved, yet out of regard for his oaths and for the guests, he

^a Other ancient authorities add to hear

^b Gk them

^c Gk tetrarch

^d Other ancient authorities read his brother’s wife

^e Gk he

of v. 38 it is better understood as the world. Causes of sin, 16.23; 18.7. Evildoers, 7.23. 42: 8.12n. 43: Shine like the sun, Dan 12.3.

13.44–53: Four more parables. 44: Field, in the absence of banks, valuables were often buried for safekeeping (25.25). 47: Net, a seine net. 51: The final parable in the chapter. Understood, in contrast to Jesus’ disciples in Mk 4.13,33–34, here the disciples confirm their understanding of Jesus’ teaching. 52: Scribe, perhaps a self-portrait of the Gospel’s author, or an indication of early Christian scribes (23.34). His treasure, the storeroom from which he draws his understanding of Jesus’ ministry (the new) and of the Jewish Scriptures (the old).

13.54–58: The rejection of Jesus at Nazareth (Mk 6.1–6; Lk 4.16–30). 54: His hometown, Nazareth. 55: Carpenter’s son contrasts with “carpenter” (Mk 6.3). The word translated here as “carpenter” can also mean “builder” or “stonemason.” What Mk 6.5 describes as an inability to perform mighty deeds becomes, in Matthew, an unwillingness to do so in the face of the Nazarenes’ disbelief (13.58). His brothers, Mk 6.3; Jude 1.

14.1–12: The death of John the Baptist (Mk 6.14–29; Lk 9.7–9). 1: Herod, Matthew uses the correct designation “Herod the Tetrarch” (see textual note c) for Herod Antipas (2.22n.) in contrast to the “King Herod” of Mk 6.14. 4: Lev 18.16; 20.21. 6: Daughter of Herodias, Josephus identifies her as Salome (Ant. 18.136; for Josephus’s account of John’s death, see Ant. 18.116–19). Compare Esth 2.9.

commanded it to be given;¹⁰ he sent and had John beheaded in the prison.¹¹ The head was brought on a platter and given to the girl, who brought it to her mother.¹² His disciples came and took the body and buried it; then they went and told Jesus.

¹³ Now when Jesus heard this, he withdrew from there in a boat to a deserted place by himself. But when the crowds heard it, they followed him on foot from the towns.¹⁴ When he went ashore, he saw a great crowd; and he had compassion for them and cured their sick.¹⁵ When it was evening, the disciples came to him and said, “This is a deserted place, and the hour is now late; send the crowds away so that they may go into the villages and buy food for themselves.”¹⁶ Jesus said to them, “They need not go away; you give them something to eat.”¹⁷ They replied, “We have nothing here but five loaves and two fish.”¹⁸ And he said, “Bring them here to me.”¹⁹ Then he ordered the crowds to sit down on the grass. Taking the five loaves and the two fish, he looked up to heaven, and blessed and broke the loaves, and gave them to the disciples, and the disciples gave them to the crowds.²⁰ And all ate and were filled; and they took up what was left over of the broken pieces, twelve baskets full.²¹ And those who ate were about five thousand men, besides women and children.

²² Immediately he made the disciples get into the boat and go on ahead to the other side, while he dismissed the crowds.²³ And after he had dismissed the crowds, he went up the mountain by himself to pray. When evening came, he was there alone,²⁴ but by this time the boat, battered by the waves, was far from the land,^a for the wind was against them.²⁵ And early in the morning he came walking toward them on the sea.²⁶ But when the disciples saw him walking on the sea, they were terrified, saying, “It is a ghost!” And they cried out in fear.²⁷ But immediately Jesus spoke to them and said, “Take heart, it is I; do not be afraid.”

²⁸ Peter answered him, “Lord, if it is you, command me to come to you on the water.”²⁹ He said, “Come.” So Peter got out of the boat, started walking on the water, and came toward Jesus.³⁰ But when he noticed the strong wind,^b he became frightened, and beginning to sink, he cried out, “Lord, save me!”³¹ Jesus immediately reached out his hand and caught him, saying to him, “You of little faith, why did you doubt?”³² When they got into the boat, the wind ceased.³³ And those in the boat worshiped him, saying, “Truly you are the Son of God.”

³⁴ When they had crossed over, they came to land at Gennesaret.³⁵ After the people of that place recognized him, they sent word throughout the region and brought all who were sick to him,³⁶ and begged him that they might touch even the fringe of his cloak; and all who touched it were healed.

15 Then Pharisees and scribes came to Jesus from Jerusalem and said,² “Why do your disciples break the tradition of the elders? For they do not wash their hands before they eat.”³ He answered them, “And why do you break the commandment of God for the sake of your tradition?⁴ For God said,^c ‘Honor your father and your mother,’ and ‘Whoever speaks evil of father or mother must surely die.’⁵ But you say that whoever tells father or mother, ‘Whatever support you might have had from me is given to God,’^d

^a Other ancient authorities read was out on the sea

^b Other ancient authorities read the wind

^c Other ancient authorities read commanded, saying

^d Or is an offering

14.13–36: The feeding of the five thousand and the walking on the water (Mk 6.30–56; Lk 9.10–17; Jn 6.1–21). These are the only miracles found in all four Gospels. There is a doublet for the feeding in 15.32–38; cf. also 1 Kings 17.8–16; 2 Kings 4.42–44. 19: Looked . . . blessed . . . broke . . . gave . . ., the language suggests a liturgical action; cf. 26.26. 21: Matthew increases the magnitude of the miracle by adding besides women and children. 22: The other side of the Sea of Galilee. 25: Early in the morning, lit., “in the fourth watch of the night,” i.e., between 3 and 6 AM. 27: It is I, lit., “I am,” a reference to the divine name (Ex 3.14). 28: Peter’s walking on the water is unique to Matthew and brings out both the role of Peter as the representative of the disciples, and his—and their—need for faith. 34: Gennesaret, either a narrow plain on the west side of the Sea, or a town on that plain; 4.18n.

15.1–20: The tradition of the elders (Mk 7.1–23). 2: Tradition of the elders, Pharisaic oral law designed to elucidate and protect the law of Moses (3.8n.). Wash, eat food in a state of ritual purity. 3: Hand-washing was a

then that person need not honor the father.^a ⁶ So, for the sake of your tradition, you make void the word^b of God. ⁷ You hypocrites! Isaiah prophesied rightly about you when he said:

⁸ “This people honors me with their lips, but their hearts are far from me; ⁹ in vain do they worship me, teaching human precepts as doctrines.”^c

¹⁰ Then he called the crowd to him and said to them, “Listen and understand: ¹¹ it is not what goes into the mouth that defiles a person, but it is what comes out of the mouth that defiles.” ¹² Then the disciples approached and said to him, “Do you know that the Pharisees took offense when they heard what you said?” ¹³ He answered, “Every plant that my heavenly Father has not planted will be uprooted. ¹⁴ Let them alone; they are blind guides of the blind.^c And if one blind person guides another, both will fall into a pit.” ¹⁵ But Peter said to him, “Explain this parable to us.” ¹⁶ Then he said, “Are you also still without understanding? ¹⁷ Do you not see that whatever goes into the mouth enters the stomach, and goes out into the sewer? ¹⁸ But what comes out of the mouth proceeds from the heart, and this is what defiles. ¹⁹ For out of the heart come evil intentions, murder, adultery, fornication, theft, false witness, slander. ²⁰ These are what defile a person, but to eat with unwashed hands does not defile.”

²¹ Jesus left that place and went away to the district of Tyre and Sidon. ²² Just then a Canaanite woman from that region came out and started shouting, “Have mercy on me, Lord, Son of David; my daughter is tormented by a demon.” ²³ But he did not answer her at all. And his disciples came and urged him, saying, “Send her away, for she keeps shouting after us.” ²⁴ He answered, “I was sent only to the lost sheep of the house of Israel.”

²⁵ But she came and knelt before him, saying, “Lord, help me.” ²⁶ He answered, “It is not fair to take the children’s food and throw it to the dogs.” ²⁷ She said, “Yes, Lord, yet even the dogs eat the crumbs that fall from their masters’ table.” ²⁸ Then Jesus answered her, “Woman, great is your faith! Let it be done for you as you wish.” And her daughter was healed instantly.

²⁹ After Jesus had left that place, he passed along the Sea of Galilee, and he went up the mountain, where he sat down. ³⁰ Great crowds came to him, bringing with them the lame, the maimed, the blind, the mute, and many others. They put them at his feet, and he cured them, ³¹ so that the crowd was amazed when they saw the mute speaking, the maimed whole, the lame walking, and the blind seeing. And they praised the God of Israel.

³² Then Jesus called his disciples to him and said, “I have compassion for the crowd, because they have been with me now for three days and have nothing to eat; and I do not want to send them away hungry, for they might faint on the way.” ³³ The disciples said to him, “Where are we to get enough bread in the desert to feed so great a crowd?” ³⁴ Jesus asked them, “How many loaves have you?” They said, “Seven, and a few small fish.” ³⁵ Then ordering the crowd to sit down on the ground, ³⁶ he took the seven loaves and the fish; and after giving thanks he broke them and gave them to the disciples, and the disciples gave them to the crowds. ³⁷ And all

^a Other ancient authorities add or the mother

^b Other ancient authorities read law; others, commandment

^c Other ancient authorities lack of the blind

Pharisaic tradition, not stipulated by the Torah. 4: God said, Ex 20.12; 21.17; Lev 20.9; Deut 5.16. 7–9: Isa 29.13. 11: Defiles, renders one ritually unclean. 14: Blind guides, 23.16,24. 15: Significantly, Matthew stops short of Mark’s conclusion, “Thus he declared all foods clean” (Mk 7.19).

15.21–28: The Canaanite woman’s faith (Mk 7.24–30). 21: District, perhaps the largely Jewish enclave in Syria bordering on northwest Galilee. 22: Canaanite replaces Mark’s more accurate, political designation “Syro-phenician.” The archaic term “Canaanite” may be designed to recall Israel’s traditional enemies (Deut 7.1). Son of David, see 9.27n. 24: The limited mission to Israel enjoined on the disciples at 10.5–6 also applies to Jesus’ own ministry. 27: Dogs, “little dogs” or household pets as metaphors for Gentiles. 28: Like the Roman centurion (8.5–10), the Gentile woman is praised for exemplary faith.

15.29–39: The feeding and healing of many people (Mk 8.1–10). There is a doublet to the feeding in 14.13–23.

of them ate and were filled; and they took up the broken pieces left over, seven baskets full.³⁸ Those who had eaten were four thousand men, besides women and children.³⁹ After sending away the crowds, he got into the boat and went to the region of Magadan.^a 16 The Pharisees and Sadducees came, and to test Jesus^b they asked him to show them a sign from heaven.² He answered them, “When it is evening, you say, ‘It will be fair weather, for the sky is red.’³ And in the morning, ‘It will be stormy today, for the sky is red and threatening.’ You know how to interpret the appearance of the sky, but you cannot interpret the signs of the times.^c ⁴ An evil and adulterous generation asks for a sign, but no sign will be given to it except the sign of Jonah.” Then he left them and went away.

⁵ When the disciples reached the other side, they had forgotten to bring any bread.⁶ Jesus said to them, “Watch out, and beware of the yeast of the Pharisees and Sadducees.”⁷ They said to one another, “It is because we have brought no bread.”⁸ And becoming aware of it, Jesus said, “You of little faith, why are you talking about having no bread?⁹ Do you still not perceive? Do you not remember the five loaves for the five thousand, and how many baskets you gathered?¹⁰ Or the seven loaves for the four thousand, and how many baskets you gathered?¹¹ How could you fail to perceive that I was not speaking about bread? Beware of the yeast of the Pharisees and Sadducees!”¹² Then they understood that he had not told them to beware of the yeast of bread, but of the teaching of the Pharisees and Sadducees.

¹³ Now when Jesus came into the district of Caesarea Philippi, he asked his disciples, “Who do people say that the Son of Man is?”¹⁴ And they said, “Some say John the Baptist, but others Elijah, and still others Jeremiah or one of the prophets.”¹⁵ He said to them, “But who do you say that I am?”¹⁶ Simon Peter answered, “You are the Messiah,^d the Son of the living God.”¹⁷ And Jesus answered him, “Blessed are you, Simon son of Jonah! For flesh and blood has not revealed this to you, but my Father in heaven.¹⁸ And I tell you, you are Peter,^e and on this rock^f I will build my church, and the gates of Hades will not prevail against it.¹⁹ I will give you the keys of the kingdom of heaven, and whatever you bind on earth will be bound

^a Other ancient authorities read Magdala or Magdalan

^b Gk him

^c Other ancient authorities lack ²*When it is . . . of the times*

^d Or the Christ

^e Gk Petros

^f Gk petra

30: 9.35–36n. 38: The four thousand may be Gentiles but are more likely Israelites. 39: Magadan (see textual note a) replaces Mark’s “district of Dalmanutha” (Mk 8.10); both locales are unknown.

16.1–12: The Pharisees and Sadducees (Mk 8.11–21; Lk 12.54–56). 1: 3.7n. Sign, probably a cosmic event. 4: Sign of Jonah, see 12.38–41. 6: Here yeast (leaven) is a metaphor for teaching, but teaching that has the capacity to corrupt everything with which it comes into contact. At 13.33 the metaphor is used positively. 8: 14.28n. 9: 14.13–21. 10: 15.32–39.

16.13–20: Peter’s confession about Jesus (Mk 8.27–30; Lk 9.18–21). 13: Caesarea Philippi, a city 25 mi (40 km) north of the Sea of Galilee, formerly Baneas and renamed by Philip in honor of Augustus. It is to be distinguished from Caesarea Maritima, the Hellenistic city redesigned and expanded by Herod the Great on the Mediterranean coast that served as the headquarters of the Roman governor (Acts 8.40; 21.8,16). Son of Man, 8.20n. 14: Jeremiah, Matthew’s inclusion of Jeremiah among the prophets emphasizes the parallels between Jesus and Jeremiah (also mentioned in Mt 2.17; 27.9). 16: Son of the living God is found only in Matthew’s version of Peter’s confession (cf. 26.63; Ps 42.2). The title has strong messianic overtones (4Q174.10–14). 17: Son of Jonah, either a variant of “son of John” (Jn 1.42) or an indication that Peter has a prophetic gift like Jonah’s. Flesh and blood, humans. 18: This promise to Peter is found only in Matthew. Peter . . . rock, Jesus’ nickname for Simon (Gk “petros”) means “stone” or “rock.” The same pun works with its Aramaic equivalent, Kephias (1 Cor 1.12; 15.5; Gal 1.18). Church, the only occurrences of the word “church” (“ekklesia”) in the Gospels are here and at 18.17. Hades is the Greek term for both the god of the dead and his realm, the latter roughly equivalent to Heb Sheol, the shadowy domain of all the dead. The gates of Hades may mean the “powers of death.” 19: Keys, a symbolic ascription of power (see Isa 22.22), bequeathing Peter the authority to oversee admission to the church (cf. 18.18).

in heaven, and whatever you loose on earth will be loosed in heaven.”²⁰ Then he sternly ordered the disciples not to tell anyone that he was^a the Messiah.^b

²¹ From that time on, Jesus began to show his disciples that he must go to Jerusalem and undergo great suffering at the hands of the elders and chief priests and scribes, and be killed, and on the third day be raised.²² And Peter took him aside and began to rebuke him, saying, “God forbid it, Lord! This must never happen to you.”²³ But he turned and said to Peter, “Get behind me, Satan! You are a stumbling block to me; for you are setting your mind not on divine things but on human things.”

²⁴ Then Jesus told his disciples, “If any want to become my followers, let them deny themselves and take up their cross and follow me.²⁵ For those who want to save their life will lose it, and those who lose their life for my sake will find it.²⁶ For what will it profit them if they gain the whole world but forfeit their life? Or what will they give in return for their life?

²⁷ “For the Son of Man is to come with his angels in the glory of his Father, and then he will repay everyone for what has been done.²⁸ Truly I tell you, there are some standing here who will not taste death before they see the Son of Man coming in his kingdom.”

17 Six days later, Jesus took with him Peter and James and his brother John and led them up a high mountain, by themselves.² And he was transfigured before them, and his face shone like the sun, and his clothes became dazzling white.³ Suddenly there appeared to them Moses and Elijah, talking with him.⁴ Then Peter said to Jesus, “Lord, it is good for us to be here; if you wish, I^c will make three dwellings^d here, one for you, one for Moses, and one for Elijah.”⁵ While he was still speaking, suddenly a bright cloud overshadowed them, and from the cloud a voice said, “This is my Son, the Beloved;^e with him I am well pleased; listen to him!”⁶ When the disciples heard this, they fell to the ground and were overcome by fear.⁷ But Jesus came and touched them, saying, “Get up and do not be afraid.”⁸ And when they looked up, they saw no one except Jesus himself alone.

⁹ As they were coming down the mountain, Jesus ordered them, “Tell no one about the vision until after the Son of Man has been raised from the dead.”¹⁰ And the disciples asked him, “Why, then, do the scribes say that Elijah must come first?”¹¹ He replied, “Elijah is indeed coming and will restore all things;¹² but I tell you that Elijah has already come, and they did not recognize him, but they did to him whatever they pleased. So also the Son of Man is about to suffer at their hands.”¹³ Then the disciples understood that he was speaking to them about John the Baptist.

¹⁴ When they came to the crowd, a man came to him, knelt before him,¹⁵ and said, “Lord, have mercy on my son, for he is an epileptic and he suffers terribly; he often falls into the fire and often into the water.¹⁶ And I brought him to your disciples, but they could not cure him.”¹⁷ Jesus answered, “You faithless and perverse generation, how much longer must I be with you? How much longer must

^a Other ancient authorities add Jesus

^b Or the Christ

^c Other ancient authorities read we

^d Or tents

^e Or my beloved Son

16.21–28: Jesus foretells his death and resurrection (Mk 8.31–9.1; Lk 9.22–27). 21: The phrase from that time on may be a marker signaling the last third of the Gospel (4.17n.). The first of three passion predictions (17.22–23; 20.17–19; cf. 26.1–2). 23: Stumbling block or obstacle. 24: 10.38n. 28: Some standing here, possibly a reference to Jesus’ transfiguration (17.1–13).

17.1–13: The transfiguration of Jesus (Mk 9.2–13; Lk 9.28–36). 1: High mountain, traditionally identified with Mount Tabor or, because of its proximity to Caesarea Philippi, with Mount Hermon. The setting is reminiscent of God’s revelation to Moses, and later Elijah, on Sinai (Horeb) (Ex 34.1–9; 1 Kings 19.1–18). 3: Moses and Elijah symbolize, respectively, the Law and the prophets, the first two divisions of the Hebrew Bible. 5: My Son, 3.17n. 10: Elijah must come first, according to the traditional interpretation of Mal 4.5, Elijah would come “before the day of the Lord.” 12: Elijah has already come in the person of John the Baptist.

17.14–21: The healing of a boy with a demon (Mk 9.14–29; Lk 9.37–43). 17: Faithless and perverse generation,

I put up with you? Bring him here to me.”

¹⁸ And Jesus rebuked the demon,^a and it^b came out of him, and the boy was cured instantly.

¹⁹ Then the disciples came to Jesus privately and said, “Why could we not cast it out?” ²⁰ He said to them, “Because of your little faith. For truly I tell you, if you have faith the size of a^c mustard seed, you will say to this mountain, ‘Move from here to there,’ and it will move; and nothing will be impossible for you.”^d

²² As they were gathering^e in Galilee, Jesus said to them, “The Son of Man is going to be betrayed into human hands, ²³ and they will kill him, and on the third day he will be raised.” And they were greatly distressed.

²⁴ When they reached Capernaum, the collectors of the temple tax^f came to Peter and said, “Does your teacher not pay the temple tax?”^f ²⁵ He said, “Yes, he does.” And when he came home, Jesus spoke of it first, asking, “What do you think, Simon? From whom do kings of the earth take toll or tribute? From their children or from others?” ²⁶ When Peter^g said, “From others,” Jesus said to him, “Then the children are free. ²⁷ However, so that we do not give offense to them, go to the sea and cast a hook; take the first fish that comes up; and when you open its mouth, you will find a coin;^h take that and give it to them for you and me.”

18 At that time the disciples came to Jesus and asked, “Who is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven?” ² He called a child, whom he put among them,³ and said, “Truly I tell you, unless you change and become like children, you will never enter the kingdom of heaven. ⁴ Whoever becomes humble like this child is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven. ⁵ Whoever welcomes one such child in my name welcomes me.

⁶ “If any of you put a stumbling block before one of these little ones who believe in me, it would be better for you if a great millstone were fastened around your neck and you were drowned in the depth of the sea. ⁷ Woe to the world because of stumbling blocks! Occasions for stumbling are bound to come, but woe to the one by whom the stumbling block comes!

⁸ “If your hand or your foot causes you to stumble, cut it off and throw it away; it is better for you to enter life maimed or lame than to have two hands or two feet and to be thrown into the eternal fire. ⁹ And if your eye causes you to stumble, tear it out and throw it away; it is better for you to enter life with one

^a Gk it or him

^b Gk the demon

^c Gk faith as a grain of

^d Other ancient authorities add verse 21, But this kind does not come out except by prayer and fasting

^e Other ancient authorities read living

^f Gk didrachma

^g Gk he

^h Gk stater; the stater was worth two didrachmas

Jesus’ disciples; cf. Deut 32.5, 20. 20: Little faith is the main problem besetting Jesus’ disciples in Matthew. Mustard seed, 13.31n.

17.22–23: Jesus’ second prediction of his death and resurrection (Mk 9.30–32; Lk 9.43–45). 22: Were gathering, in order to visit Jerusalem for Passover. 23: Whereas in Mk 9.32 the disciples are perplexed, Matthew’s disciples are greatly distressed.

17.24–27: Payment of the temple tax. 24: Temple tax, lit., “the didrachma.” This “double drachma” was equivalent to half a shekel, an amount enjoined on all Israel (Ex 30.11–16). Used in Jesus’ day for sacrifices and the upkeep of the Temple, the tax (the “fiscus judaicus”) continued to be levied by Rome after the Temple’s destruction in 70 CE, as a penalty for the Jewish people’s revolt. 26: The children are free, just as a king’s children are tax-exempt, so too are God’s children, i.e., Jesus and his brothers and sisters (12.50). 27: Give offense, offend the devout people who collect the tax.

18.1–35: The fourth discourse, on community or church. This discourse focuses on community interrelations and church discipline—specifically the need for the church to care for their disadvantaged and forgive one another.

18.1–9: The greatest in the kingdom and temptations to sin (Mk 9.33–37; 42–48; Lk 9.46–48; 17.1–2). 3–6: Children and little ones, humble Christian disciples. 6: Great millstone, a stone harnessed to a donkey to grind grain. Sea, millstones were sometimes used as anchors (cf. Rev 18.21). 9: Hell, lit., “Gehenna,” the valley of Ben Hinnom to the immediate south of Jerusalem, formerly a place of child sacrifice (Jer 7.31), used in Jesus’ day as eye than to have two eyes and to be thrown into the hell^a of fire.

¹⁰ “Take care that you do not despise one of these little ones; for, I tell you, in heaven their angels continually see the face of my Father in heaven.^b ¹² What do you think? If a shepherd has a hundred sheep, and one of them has gone astray, does he not leave the ninety-nine on the mountains and go in search of the one that went astray? ¹³ And if he finds it, truly I tell you, he rejoices over it more than over the ninety-nine that never went astray. ¹⁴ So it is not the will of your^c Father in heaven that one of these little ones should be lost.

¹⁵ “If another member of the church^d sins against you,^e go and point out the fault when the two of you are alone. If the member listens to you, you have regained that one.^f

¹⁶ But if you are not listened to, take one or two others along with you, so that every word may be confirmed by the evidence of two or three witnesses. ¹⁷ If the member refuses to listen to them, tell it to the church; and if the offender refuses to listen even to the church, let such a one be to you as a Gentile and a tax collector. ¹⁸ Truly I tell you, whatever you bind on earth will be bound in heaven, and whatever you loose on earth will be loosed in heaven. ¹⁹ Again, truly I tell you, if two of you agree on earth about anything you ask, it will be done for you by my Father in heaven. ²⁰ For where two or three are gathered in my name, I am there among them.”

²¹ Then Peter came and said to him, “Lord, if another member of the church^g sins against me, how often should I forgive? As many as seven times?” ²² Jesus said to him, “Not seven times, but, I tell you, seventy-seven^h times.

a garbage dump and incinerator.

18.10–20: Lost sheep and sinning brothers (Lk 15.3–7; 17.3). 10: Their angels, both individuals and nations were thought to have guardian angels (Dan 10.20–21; Acts 12.15). Face of my Father, receive God’s special attention. 12: Luke’s parable varies considerably; in Matthew the emphasis is not on the shepherd’s joy at finding the lost sheep, but on his responsibility not to lose a straying sheep. 15: Alone, to avoid publicly shaming the church member. Witnesses, 9.27–31n. 17: Gentile . . . tax collector, 5.46,47n. 18: 16.16. This authority is extended to the church as a whole.

18.21–35: The parable of the unforgiving servant. 21–22: Seven, 12.45n.; cf. Gen 4.24. 23: A king, God. 24: Ten thousand talents, a vast sum amounting to more than the entire tribute paid by Galilee to Rome over a fifteen-year period. A talent was equivalent to six thousand denarii (a denarius was a day-laborer’s wage). 25: Ordered him to be sold, slaves, their families and possessions were chattel. 28: A hundred denarii, roughly three month’s

²³ “For this reason the kingdom of heaven may be compared to a king who wished to settle accounts with his slaves. ²⁴ When he began the reckoning, one who owed him ten thousand talentsⁱ was brought to him; ²⁵ and, as he could not pay, his lord ordered him to be sold, together with his wife and children and all his possessions, and payment to be made. ²⁶ So the slave fell on his knees before him, saying, ‘Have patience with me, and I will pay you everything.’ ²⁷ And out of pity for him, the lord of that slave released him and forgave him the debt. ²⁸ But that same slave, as he went out, came upon one of his fellow slaves who owed him a hundred denarii;^j and seizing him by the throat, he said, ‘Pay what you owe.’ ²⁹ Then his fellow slave fell down and pleaded with him, ‘Have patience with me, and I will pay you.’ ³⁰ But he refused; then he went and threw him into prison until he would pay the debt. ³¹ When his fellow slaves saw what had happened, they were greatly distressed, and they went and reported to their lord all that had taken place. ³² Then his lord summoned him and said to him, ‘You wicked slave! I forgave you all that debt because you pleaded with me. ³³ Should you not have had mercy

^a Gk Gehenna

^b Other ancient authorities add verse 11, For the Son of Man came to save the lost

^c Other ancient authorities read my

^d Gk If your brother

^e Other ancient authorities lack against you

^f Gk the brother

^g Gk if my brother

^h Or seventy times seven

ⁱ A talent was worth more than fifteen years’ wages of a laborer

^j The denarius was the usual day’s wage for a laborer

on your fellow slave, as I had mercy on you?”

³⁴ And in anger his lord handed him over to be tortured until he would pay his entire debt.

³⁵ So my heavenly Father will also do to every one of you, if you do not forgive your brother or sister^a from your heart.”

19 When Jesus had finished saying these things, he left Galilee and went to the region of Judea beyond the Jordan. ² Large crowds followed him, and he cured them there.

³ Some Pharisees came to him, and to test him they asked, “Is it lawful for a man to divorce his wife for any cause?” ⁴ He answered, “Have you not read that the one who made them at the beginning ‘made them male and female,’ ⁵ and said, ‘For this reason a man shall leave his father and mother and be joined to his wife, and the two shall become one flesh’? ⁶ So they are no longer two, but one flesh. Therefore what God has joined together, let no one separate.” ⁷ They said to him, “Why then did Moses command us to give a certificate of dismissal and to divorce her?” ⁸ He said to them, “It was because you were so hard-hearted that Moses allowed you to divorce your wives, but from the beginning it was not so. ⁹ And I say to you, whoever divorces his wife, except for unchastity, and marries another commits adultery.”^b

¹⁰ His disciples said to him, “If such is the case of a man with his wife, it is better not to marry.” ¹¹ But he said to them, “Not everyone can accept this teaching, but only those to whom it is given. ¹² For there are eunuchs who have been so from birth, and there are eunuchs who have been made eunuchs by others, and there are eunuchs who have made themselves eunuchs for the sake of the kingdom of heaven. Let anyone accept this who can.”

¹³ Then little children were being brought to him in order that he might lay his hands on them and pray. The disciples spoke sternly to those who brought them; ¹⁴ but Jesus said, “Let the little children come to me, and do not stop them; for it is to such as these that the kingdom of heaven belongs.” ¹⁵ And he laid his hands on them and went on his way.

¹⁶ Then someone came to him and said, “Teacher, what good deed must I do to have eternal life?” ¹⁷ And he said to him, “Why do you ask me about what is good? There is only one who is good. If you wish to enter into life, keep the commandments.” ¹⁸ He said to him, “Which ones?” And Jesus said, “You shall not murder; You shall not commit adultery; You shall not steal; You shall not bear false witness; ¹⁹ Honor your father and mother; also, You shall love your neighbor as yourself.” ²⁰ The young man said to him, “I have kept all these;^c what do I still lack?” ²¹ Jesus said to him, “If you wish to be perfect, go, sell your possessions, and give the money^d to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven; then come, follow me.” ²² When the young man heard this word, he went away grieving, for he had many possessions.

²³ Then Jesus said to his disciples, “Truly I tell you, it will be hard for a rich person to enter the kingdom of heaven. ²⁴ Again I tell

^a Gk brother

^b Other ancient authorities read except on the ground of unchastity, causes her to commit adultery; others add at the end of the verse and he who marries a divorced woman commits adultery

^c Other ancient authorities add from my youth

^d Gk lacks the money

wages. 30: 5.25n. 34: Tortured, to ascertain the location of the slave’s money or to coerce money from his family.

19.1–20.34: Jesus moves from Galilee to Judea. In Matthew, this transition marks Jesus’ first (and final) trip to Judea.

19.1–12: Teaching about divorce (Mk 10.1–12). 1: Beyond the Jordan, the Transjordan or Perea, regions on the east side of the Jordan river. Galileans traveling to Jerusalem for Passover would often cross over the Jordan to bypass Samaria (Lk 9.51–56). 2: Large crowds, 4.25n. 3: The Pharisaic schools of Hillel and Shammai both permitted divorce but differed over the appropriate grounds. 4–5: Gen 1.27; 2.24. 7: Moses, Deut 24.1–4. 9: Except for unchastity, this exception clause has been added by Matthew. 12: Made themselves eunuchs, hyperbole for the voluntary practice of celibacy; a eunuch is a castrated male.

19.13–30: Little children and the rich young man (Mk 10.13–31; Lk 18.15–30). 13–15: Cf. 18.1–5. 17: Only one, God; Mk 10.18. To enter into life means both “to enter the kingdom” and “to gain eternal life” (vv. 16,23,24). 19: Ex 20.12–16; Deut 5.16–20; Matthew adds the love commandment from Lev 19.18 (cf. 22.39). 21: Perfect, 5.48. 22:

you, it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for someone who is rich to enter the kingdom of God.”²⁵ When the disciples heard this, they were greatly astounded and said, “Then who can be saved?”²⁶ But Jesus looked at them and said, “For mortals it is impossible, but for God all things are possible.”

²⁷ Then Peter said in reply, “Look, we have left everything and followed you. What then will we have?”²⁸ Jesus said to them, “Truly I tell you, at the renewal of all things, when the Son of Man is seated on the throne of his glory, you who have followed me will also sit on twelve thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel.”²⁹ And everyone who has left houses or brothers or sisters or father or mother or children or fields, for my name’s sake, will receive a hundredfold,³ and will inherit eternal life.³⁰ But many who are first will be last, and the last will be first.

20 “For the kingdom of heaven is like a landowner who went out early in the morning to hire laborers for his vineyard.² After agreeing with the laborers for the usual daily wage,^b he sent them into his vineyard.³ When he went out about nine o’clock, he saw others standing idle in the marketplace;⁴ and he said to them, ‘You also go into the vineyard, and I will pay you whatever is right.’ So they went.⁵ When he went out again about noon and about three o’clock, he did the same.⁶ And about five o’clock he went out and found others standing around; and he said to them, ‘Why are you standing here idle all day?’⁷ They said to him, ‘Because no one has hired us.’ He said to them, ‘You also go into the vineyard.’⁸ When evening came, the owner of the vineyard said to his manager, ‘Call the laborers and give them their pay, beginning with the last and then going to the first.’⁹ When those hired about five o’clock came, each of them received the usual daily wage.^{b 10} Now when the first came, they thought they would receive more; but each of them also received the usual daily wage.^b¹¹ And when they received it, they grumbled against the landowner,¹² saying, “These last worked only one hour, and you have made them equal to us who have borne the burden of the day and the scorching heat.”¹³ But he replied to one of them, ‘Friend, I am doing you no wrong; did you not agree with me for the usual daily wage?’^{b 14} Take what belongs to you and go; I choose to give to this last the same as I give to you.¹⁵ Am I not allowed to do what I choose with what belongs to me? Or are you envious because I am generous?’^c¹⁶ So the last will be first, and the first will be last.”^d

¹⁷ While Jesus was going up to Jerusalem, he took the twelve disciples aside by themselves, and said to them on the way,¹⁸ “See, we are going up to Jerusalem, and the Son of Man will be handed over to the chief priests and scribes, and they will condemn him to death;¹⁹ then they will hand him over to the Gentiles to be mocked and flogged and crucified; and on the third day he will be raised.”

²⁰ Then the mother of the sons of Zebedee came to him with her sons, and kneeling before him, she asked a favor of him.²¹ And he said to her, “What do you want?” She said to him, “Declare that these two sons of mine will sit, one at your right hand and one at your left, in your kingdom.”²² But Jesus answered, “You do not know what you are asking. Are you able to drink the cup that I

^a Other ancient authorities read manifold

^b Gk a denarius

^c Gk is your eye evil because I am good?

^d Other ancient authorities add for many are called but few are chosen

Young, only found in Matthew. 24: Camel, the largest animal in the region (23.24). 28: Renewal, the new age on earth, featuring a general resurrection. Thrones, Dan 7.9–14. 30: 20.16.

20.1–16: The workers in the vineyard. 2: 18.28n. 15: Envious, lit., “Is your eye evil?” (cf. 6.22–23n.). 16: See 19.30.

20.17–19: A third time Jesus foretells his death and resurrection (Mk 10.32–34; Lk 18.31–34). 17–19: Cf. 16.21–28; 17.22–23. This prediction explicitly indicts the Gentiles in Jesus’ death.

20.20–28: The request of James and John (Mk 10.35–45). In contrast to Mark, the request here originates with their mother. 21: Right . . . left, indicates those figures who, flanking a monarch, would rank as second and am about to drink?”^a They said to him, “We are able.”²³ He said to them, “You will indeed drink my cup, but to sit at my right hand and at my left, this is not mine to grant, but it is for those for whom it has been prepared by my Father.”

²⁴ When the ten heard it, they were angry with the two brothers. ²⁵ But Jesus called them to him and said, “You know that the rulers of the Gentiles lord it over them, and their great ones are tyrants over them. ²⁶ It will not be so among you; but whoever wishes to be great among you must be your servant, ²⁷ and whoever wishes to be first among you must be your slave; ²⁸ just as the Son of Man came not to be served but to serve, and to give his life a ransom for many.”

²⁹ As they were leaving Jericho, a large crowd followed him. ³⁰ There were two blind men sitting by the roadside. When they heard that Jesus was passing by, they shouted, “Lord,^b have mercy on us, Son of David!” ³¹ The crowd sternly ordered them to be quiet; but they shouted even more loudly, “Have mercy on us, Lord, Son of David!” ³² Jesus stood still and called them, saying, “What do you want me to do for you?” ³³ They said to him, “Lord, let our eyes be opened.” ³⁴ Moved with compassion, Jesus touched their eyes. Immediately they regained their sight and followed him.

21 When they had come near Jerusalem and had reached Bethphage, at the Mount of Olives, Jesus sent two disciples, third in authority. 23: My cup, Acts 12.2 mentions James’ martyrdom; according to postbiblical tradition, his brother John was also martyred. 28: Ransom, the price paid to liberate a slave.

20.29–34: The healing of two blind men (Mk 10.46–52; Lk 18.35–43); a doublet of 9.27–31. 29: Jericho, city and oasis 15 mi (24 km) east of Jerusalem and 8 mi (13 km) north of the Dead Sea. 30: Two blind men, in Mk 10.46 the single blind man is identified as Bartimaeus, son of Timaeus. 31: Son of David, see 9.27n.

21.1–11: The triumphal entry into Jerusalem (Mk 11.1–11; Lk 19.28–38; Jn 12.12–19). 1: Bethphage (“House of Figs”), a village on the Mount of Olives ca. 1 mi (1.6 km) east of the Jerusalem Temple. 2: Village, perhaps Bethany (see v. 17; Mk 11.1). Donkey, instead of a warhorse connoting a military leader (Pss. Sol. 17), Jesus rides a donkey symbolizing peace (Zech 9.9–10). 4–5: A composite fulfillment citation of Isa 62.11 and Zech 9.9. Daughter of Zion, Jerusalem and its residents. 7: Colt, while Zechariah refers to only one donkey, expressed by poetic parallelism, Matthew’s fulfillment citation interprets the expression as two: a donkey and its foal. 8: Cloaks, an act of royal homage; 2 Kings 9.13. 9: The cry Hosanna (lit., in Heb “Help” or “Save, I pray”) had become by Jesus’ day an exclamation of praise. Blessed, a citation of Ps 118.26, which was used as a traditional greeting for pilgrims arriving in Jerusalem for the great festivals. 11: Prophet, 21.46. Not a reference to the prophet resembling Moses (Deut 18.18).

21.12–27: The Temple and the fig tree (Mk 11.12–24; 27–33; Lk 19.45–48; 20.1–8). 12: In Jn 2.13–22 this episode

² saying to them, “Go into the village ahead of you, and immediately you will find a donkey tied, and a colt with her; untie them and bring them to me. ³ If anyone says anything to you, just say this, ‘The Lord needs them.’ And he will send them immediately.”^c ⁴ This took place to fulfill what had been spoken through the prophet, saying,

⁵ “Tell the daughter of Zion,

Look, your king is coming to you,
humble, and mounted on a donkey,
and on a colt, the foal of a donkey.”

⁶ The disciples went and did as Jesus had directed them; ⁷ they brought the donkey and the colt, and put their cloaks on them, and he sat on them. ⁸ A very large crowd^d spread their cloaks on the road, and others cut branches from the trees and spread them on the road. ⁹ The crowds that went ahead of him and that followed were shouting, “Hosanna to the Son of David!

Blessed is the one who comes in the name of the Lord!

Hosanna in the highest heaven!”

¹⁰ When he entered Jerusalem, the whole city was in turmoil, asking, “Who is this?” ¹¹ The crowds were saying, “This is the prophet Jesus from Nazareth in Galilee.”

^a Other ancient authorities add or to be baptized with the baptism that I am baptized with?

^b Other ancient authorities lack Lord

^c Or ‘The Lord needs them and will send them back immediately.’

^d Or Most of the crowd

The geography of the Gospel of Matthew.

¹² Then Jesus entered the temple^a and drove out all who were selling and buying in the temple, and he overturned the tables of the money changers and the seats of those who sold doves. ¹³ He said to them, “It is written, ‘My house shall be called a house of prayer’; but you are making it a den of robbers.” ¹⁴ The blind and the lame came to him in the temple, and he cured them. ¹⁵ But when the chief priests and the scribes saw the amazing things that he did, and heard^b the children crying out in the temple, “Hosanna to the Son of David,” they became angry ¹⁶ and said to him, “Do you hear what these are saying?” Jesus said to them, “Yes; have you never read, ‘Out of the mouths of infants and nursing babies you have prepared praise for yourself?’” ¹⁷ He left them, went out of the city to Bethany, and spent the night there.

^a Other ancient authorities add of God
^b Gk lacks heard

is situated early in Jesus’ ministry, in Mk 11:11–19 on the day after Jesus’ arrival in Jerusalem. Selling and buying, animals for sacrifice. Money changers, Roman money had to be changed into Tyrian shekels, the only currency acceptable for use within the Temple. Doves, offerings typical of the poor (Lev 5:7–10). Business transactions took place in the large outer Court of the Gentiles; it was here that Jesus’ “cleansing” took place. 13: Written, Isa 56:7; Jer 7:11. 14: Jesus’ cleansing culminates in the healing of the blind and the lame, who were normally excluded

¹⁸ In the morning, when he returned to the city, he was hungry. ¹⁹ And seeing a fig tree by the side of the road, he went to it and found nothing at all on it but leaves. Then he said to it, “May no fruit ever come from you again!” And the fig tree withered at once. ²⁰ When the disciples saw it, they were amazed, saying, “How did the fig tree wither at once?” ²¹ Jesus answered them, “Truly I tell you, if you have faith and do not doubt, not only will you do what has been done to the fig tree, but even if you say to this mountain, ‘Be lifted up and thrown into the sea,’ it will be done. ²² Whatever you ask for in prayer with faith, you will receive.”

²³ When he entered the temple, the chief priests and the elders of the people came to him as he was teaching, and said, “By what authority are you doing these things, and who gave you this authority?” ²⁴ Jesus said to them, “I will also ask you one question; if you tell me the answer, then I will also tell you by what authority I do these things. ²⁵ Did the baptism of John come from heaven, or was it of human origin?” And they argued with one another, “If we say, ‘From heaven,’ he will say to us, ‘Why then did you not believe him?’ ²⁶ But if we say, ‘Of human origin,’ we are afraid of the crowd; for all regard John as a prophet.” ²⁷ So they answered Jesus, “We do not know.” And he said to them, “Neither will I tell you by what authority I am doing these things.

²⁸ “What do you think? A man had two sons; he went to the first and said, ‘Son, go and work in the vineyard today.’ ²⁹ He answered, ‘I will not’; but later he changed his mind and went. ³⁰ The father^a went to the second and said the same; and he answered, ‘I go, sir’; but he did not go. ³¹ Which of the two did the will of his father?” They said, “The first.” Jesus said to them, “Truly I tell you, the tax collectors and the prostitutes are going into the kingdom of God ahead of you.

³² For John came to you in the way of righteousness and you did not believe him, but the tax collectors and the prostitutes believed him; and even after you saw it, you did not change your minds and believe him.

³³ “Listen to another parable. There was a landowner who planted a vineyard, put a fence around it, dug a wine press in it, and built a watchtower. Then he leased it to tenants and went to another country. ³⁴ When the harvest time had come, he sent his slaves to the tenants to collect his produce. ³⁵ But the tenants seized his slaves and beat one, killed another, and stoned another. ³⁶ Again he sent other slaves, more than the first; and they treated them in the same way. ³⁷ Finally he sent his son to them, saying, ‘They will respect my son.’ ³⁸ But when the tenants saw the son, they said to themselves, ‘This is the heir; come, let us kill him and get his inheritance.’ ³⁹ So they seized him, threw him out of the vineyard, and killed him. ⁴⁰ Now when the owner of the vineyard comes, what will he do to those tenants?” ⁴¹ They said to him, “He will put those wretches to a miserable death, and lease the vineyard to other tenants who will give him the produce at the harvest time.”

⁴² Jesus said to them, “Have you never read in the scriptures:

‘The stone that the builders rejected has become the cornerstone;’^b

this was the Lord’s doing, and it is amazing in our eyes’?

⁴³ Therefore I tell you, the kingdom of God will be taken away from you and given to a people that produces the fruits of the

^a Gk He

^b Or keystone

from the Temple (Lev 21.16–23). 16: Ps 8.2. 19: Fig tree, “it was not the season for figs” (Mk 11.13) is omitted. As fig trees often symbolized Jerusalem or the Temple, Jesus’ action is best understood as a prophecy of judgment (23.37–24.2). 23: Authority, 7.29; 9.6–8. 25: From heaven, from God.

21.28–22.14: Three parables (Mk 12.1–12; Lk 20.9–19; Lk 14.15–24). 21.28–32: The first of three consecutive parables condemning the Jewish religious leadership. 31: The tax collectors and the prostitutes, the people who were presumed to have the lowest morals (5.46n.). 33–37: The second parable is an allegory based on Isa 5.1–7, outlining the history of God and Israel. The vineyard is a metaphor for Israel, with God as the landowner, the Jewish leadership as the tenants, the prophets as the slaves, and Jesus as the son. 42: Ps 118.22–23; cornerstone, the keystone of an arch. 43: A people that produces the fruits, a reference to the Christian church and its practice kingdom.^a ⁴⁴The one who falls on this stone will be broken to pieces; and it will crush anyone on whom it falls.”^b

⁴⁵When the chief priests and the Pharisees heard his parables, they realized that he was speaking about them. ⁴⁶They wanted to arrest him, but they feared the crowds, because they regarded him as a prophet.

22 Once more Jesus spoke to them in parables, saying: ²“The kingdom of heaven may be compared to a king who gave a wedding banquet for his son. ³He sent his slaves to call those who had been invited to the wedding banquet, but they would not come. ⁴Again he sent other slaves, saying, “Tell those who have been invited: Look, I have prepared my dinner, my oxen and my fat calves have been slaughtered, and everything is ready; come to the wedding banquet.” ⁵But they made light of it and went away, one to his farm, another to his business, ⁶while the rest seized his slaves, mistreated them, and killed them. ⁷The king was enraged. He sent his troops, destroyed those murderers, and burned their city. ⁸Then he said to his slaves, “The wedding is ready, but those invited were not worthy. ⁹Go therefore into the main streets, and invite everyone you find to the wedding banquet.” ¹⁰Those slaves went out into the streets and gathered all whom they found, both good and bad; so the wedding hall was filled with guests.

¹¹“But when the king came in to see the guests, he noticed a man there who was not wearing a wedding robe, ¹²and he said to him, ‘Friend, how did you get in here without a wedding robe?’ And he was speechless. ¹³Then the king said to the attendants, ‘Bind him hand and foot, and throw him into the outer darkness, where there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth.’ ¹⁴For many are called, but few are chosen.”

¹⁵Then the Pharisees went and plotted to entrap him in what he said. ¹⁶So they sent their disciples to him, along with the Herodians, saying, “Teacher, we know that you are sincere, and teach the way of God in accordance with truth, and show deference to no one; for you do not regard people with partiality. ¹⁷Tell us, then, what you think. Is it lawful to pay taxes to the emperor, or not?” ¹⁸But Jesus, aware of their malice, said, “Why are you putting me to the test, you hypocrites? ¹⁹Show me the coin used for the tax.” And they brought him a denarius. ²⁰Then he said to them, “Whose head is this, and whose title?” ²¹They answered, “The emperor’s.” Then he said to them, “Give therefore to the emperor the things that are the emperor’s, and to God the things that are God’s.” ²²When they heard this, they were amazed; and they left him and went away.

²³The same day some Sadducees came to him, saying there is no resurrection;^c and they asked him a question, saying, ²⁴“Teacher, Moses said, ‘If a man dies childless, his brother shall marry the widow, and raise up children for his brother.’ ²⁵Now there were seven brothers among us; the first married, and died childless, leaving the widow to his brother. ²⁶The second did the same, so also the third, down to the seventh. ²⁷Last of all, the woman herself died. ²⁸In the resurrection, then, whose wife of the seven will she be? For all of them had married her.”

²⁹Jesus answered them, “You are wrong, because you know neither the scriptures nor the power of God. ³⁰For in the resurrection

^a Gk the fruits of it

^b Other ancient authorities lack verse 44

^c Other ancient authorities read who say that there is no resurrection of righteousness. 44: If this verse is Matthean (see textual note b), it refers to the dire consequences of misunderstanding who Jesus is. 46: Prophet, v. 11. 22.1–14: The third parable. 7: Burned their city, an allusion to the destruction of Jerusalem in 70 CE. 11–14: These four verses are a Matthean addition to the parable. 11: A wedding robe may suggest the righteous deeds necessary for believers to enter the kingdom (see Mt 7.21–23). 13: 8.12n.

22.15–46: Attempts to ensnare Jesus (Mk 12.13–37; Lk 20.20–44; 10.25–28). The preceding three parables are followed by three trick questions meant to entrap Jesus in his own words. 16: Herodians, possibly supporters of Herod Antipas and his family. 17: Taxes, on agricultural yield and personal property amounting to about a denarius a year. Emperor, Tiberius Caesar (14–37 CE). 18: Hypocrites, 6.2n. 20: A typical silver denarius of Tiberias’ day would have his portrait on the obverse and the Latin inscription “Tiberius Caesar Augustus, Son of the Divine Augustus” on the reverse. 23: Sadducees, 3.7n. 24: Moses said, Deut 25.5; cf. Gen 38.7–11. 30: Marry, they neither marry nor are given in marriage, but are like angels^a in heaven. ³¹ And as for the resurrection of the dead, have you not read what was said to you by God, ³² ‘I am the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob?’ He is God not of the dead, but of the living.” ³³ And when the crowd heard it, they were astounded at his teaching.

³⁴ When the Pharisees heard that he had silenced the Sadducees, they gathered together, ³⁵ and one of them, a lawyer, asked him a question to test him. ³⁶ “Teacher, which commandment in the law is the greatest?”

³⁷ He said to him, “ ‘You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart, and with all your soul, and with all your mind.’ ³⁸ This is the greatest and first commandment. ³⁹ And a second is like it: ‘You shall love your neighbor as yourself.’ ⁴⁰ On these two commandments hang all the law and the prophets.”

⁴¹ Now while the Pharisees were gathered together, Jesus asked them this question: ⁴² “What do you think of the Messiah?^b Whose son is he?” They said to him, “The son of David.” ⁴³ He said to them, “How is it then that David by the Spirit^c calls him Lord, saying,

⁴⁴ ‘The Lord said to my Lord,
“Sit at my right hand,
until I put your enemies under your feet”?’

⁴⁵ If David thus calls him Lord, how can he be his son?” ⁴⁶ No one was able to give him an answer, nor from that day did anyone dare to ask him any more questions.

23 Then Jesus said to the crowds and to his disciples, ² “The scribes and the Pharisees sit on Moses’ seat; ³ therefore, do whatever they teach you and follow it; but do not do as they do, for they do not practice what they teach. ⁴ They tie up heavy burdens, hard to bear,^d and lay them on the shoulders of others; but they themselves are unwilling to lift a finger to move them. ⁵ They do all their deeds to be seen by others; for they make their phylacteries broad and their fringes long. ⁶ They love to have the place of honor at banquets and the best seats in the synagogues,⁷ and to be greeted with respect in the marketplaces, and to have people call them rabbi. ⁸ But you are not to be called rabbi, for you have one teacher, and you are all students.^e ⁹ And call no one your father on earth, for you have one Father—the one in heaven. ¹⁰ Nor are you to be called instructors, for you have one instructor, the Messiah.^f ¹¹ The greatest among you will be your servant. ¹² All who exalt themselves will be humbled, and all who humble themselves will be exalted.

¹³ “But woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you lock people out of the

^a Other ancient authorities add of God

^b Or Christ

^c Gk in spirit

^d Other ancient authorities lack hard to bear

^e Gk brothers

^f Or the Christ

in the coming age men no longer marry and women are no longer given in marriage. Like angels, since angels are eternal, they do not need to reproduce; the same holds true for the resurrected dead. 32: Ex 3.6. Otherwise God would have said, “I was the God of Abraham.” 34–40: For Matthew, the love commandment is preeminent; all other commandments are subsidiary and to be interpreted and performed out of love for God and one’s neighbor. 37: Deut 6.5. 39: 19.19; Lev 19.18. 44–45: Jesus replies with a query of his own. In Ps 110.1 David (reputed author of the Psalms) describes the Lord (God) as speaking to my Lord (the Messiah). How can David’s Lord be his son, since it is invariably sons who call their fathers “my lord”?

23.1–39: The denunciation of the scribes and Pharisees (Mk 12.38–40; Lk 11.37–52; 13.34–35; 20.45–47). This chapter contains the harshest and most sustained criticism of the scribes and Pharisees in the Gospels. Some scholars regard ch 23 as part of Matthew’s fifth discourse (chs 24–25), but Matthew shifts the latter to a new setting (see 24.1). 2: Moses’ seat, a stone seat for synagogue leaders or a receptacle for the Torah scroll. 3: Do whatever they teach you, a surprising directive from Matthew’s Jesus. It may mean, “Follow their guidelines if you must, but by no means follow their example.” 4: Heavy burdens, contrast 11.30. 5: Phylacteries, small cases, often made of leather, containing scriptural passages such as Deut 6.4–9. They were strapped to the left arm and forehead during prayer (Deut 6.8). Fringes, tassels (“tsitsit”) attached to the corners of an outer garment or prayer shawl (Num 15.38). 6: Place of honor, normally, the place nearest the host. 7: Rabbi, a designation of respect; lit., “my great one” or “my teacher.” 9: Father, do not use “father” as an honorific title. 13: Woe, lit., “Alas!”

kingdom of heaven. For you do not go in yourselves, and when others are going in, you stop them.^a ¹⁵ Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you cross sea and land to make a single convert, and you make the new convert twice as much a child of hell^b as yourselves.

¹⁶ “Woe to you, blind guides, who say, ‘Whoever swears by the sanctuary is bound by nothing, but whoever swears by the gold of the sanctuary is bound by the oath.’ ¹⁷ You blind fools! For which is greater, the gold or the sanctuary that has made the gold sacred? ¹⁸ And you say, ‘Whoever swears by the altar is bound by nothing, but whoever swears by the gift that is on the altar is bound by the oath.’ ¹⁹ How blind you are! For which is greater, the gift or the altar that makes the gift sacred? ²⁰ So whoever swears by the altar, swears by it and by everything on it; ²¹ and whoever swears by the sanctuary, swears by it and by the one who dwells in it; ²² and whoever swears by heaven, swears by the throne of God and by the one who is seated upon it.

²³ “Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you tithe mint, dill, and cummin, and have neglected the weightier matters of the law: justice and mercy and faith. It is these you ought to have practiced without neglecting the others. ²⁴ You blind guides! You strain out a gnat but swallow a camel!

²⁵ “Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you clean the outside of the cup and of the plate, but inside they are full of greed and self-indulgence. ²⁶ You blind Pharisee! First clean the inside of the cup,^c so that the outside also may become clean.

²⁷ “Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you are like whitewashed tombs, which on the outside look beautiful, but inside they are full of the bones of the dead and of all kinds of filth. ²⁸ So you also on the outside look righteous to others, but inside you are full of hypocrisy and lawlessness.

²⁹ “Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you build the tombs of the prophets and decorate the graves of the righteous,³⁰ and you say, ‘If we had lived in the days of our ancestors, we would not have taken part with them in shedding the blood of the prophets.’

³¹ Thus you testify against yourselves that you are descendants of those who murdered the prophets. ³² Fill up, then, the measure of your ancestors. ³³ You snakes, you brood of vipers! How can you escape being sentenced to hell?^b ³⁴ Therefore I send you prophets, sages, and scribes, some of whom you will kill and crucify, and some you will flog in your synagogues and pursue from town to town,³⁵ so that upon you may come all the righteous blood shed on earth, from the blood of righteous Abel to the blood of Zechariah son of Barachiah, whom you murdered between the sanctuary and the altar. ³⁶ Truly I tell you, all this will come upon this generation.

³⁷ “Jerusalem, Jerusalem, the city that kills the prophets and stones those who are sent to it! How often have I desired to gather your children together as a hen gathers her brood under her wings, and you were not willing! ³⁸ See, your house is left to you, desolate.^d ³⁹ For I tell you, you will not see me again until you say, ‘Blessed is the one who comes in the name of the Lord.’”

^a Other authorities add here (or after verse 12) verse 14, Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you devour widows' houses and for the sake of appearance you make long prayers; therefore you will receive the greater condemnation

^b Gk Gehenna

^c Other ancient authorities add and of the plate

^d Other ancient authorities lack desolate

The seven woes given here contrast with the beatitudes at 5.3–12. 15: Hypocrites, 6.2n. You cross sea and land, “you do everything possible.” New convert, a proselyte, or Gentile convert to Judaism. 16: Gold of the sanctuary, perhaps the Temple treasury, which was also used as a bank. 25: Cup . . . plate may symbolize the Pharisees themselves. 27: Tombs were whitewashed during festivals to prevent pilgrims from touching them and polluting themselves by contact with the dead. 34: Prophets . . . scribes, Christian missionaries. Synagogues, see 9.35n. 35: Abel, Gen 4.8–11. The allusion to Zechariah, son of Barachiah likely conflates Zechariah the martyr (son of Jehoiada, 2 Chr 24.20–22) with Zechariah the prophet (son of Berechiah, Zech 1.1). 38: Your house, Jerusalem. 39: Ps 118.26; cf. Mt 21.9.

24.1–51: The fifth (apocalyptic) discourse. As with the mission discourse (ch 10), it is not clear whether

24 As Jesus came out of the temple and was going away, his disciples came to point out to him the buildings of the temple. ²Then he asked them, “You see all these, do you not? Truly I tell you, not one stone will be left here upon another; all will be thrown down.”

³When he was sitting on the Mount of Olives, the disciples came to him privately, saying, “Tell us, when will this be, and what will be the sign of your coming and of the end of the age?” ⁴Jesus answered them, “Beware that no one leads you astray. ⁵For many will come in my name, saying, ‘I am the Messiah!’^a and they will lead many astray. ⁶And you will hear of wars and rumors of wars; see that you are not alarmed; for this must take place, but the end is not yet. ⁷For nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom, and there will be famines^b and earthquakes in various places: ⁸all this is but the beginning of the birth pangs.

⁹“Then they will hand you over to be tortured and will put you to death, and you will be hated by all nations because of my name. ¹⁰Then many will fall away,^c and they will betray one another and hate one another. ¹¹And many false prophets will arise and lead many astray. ¹²And because of the increase of lawlessness, the love of many will grow cold. ¹³But the one who endures to the end will be saved. ¹⁴And this good news^d of the kingdom will be proclaimed throughout the world, as a testimony to all the nations; and then the end will come.

¹⁵“So when you see the desolating sacrilege standing in the holy place, as was spoken of by the prophet Daniel (let the reader understand), ¹⁶then those in Judea must flee to the mountains; ¹⁷the one on the housetop must not go down to take what is in the house; ¹⁸the one in the field must not turn back to get a coat. ¹⁹Woe to those who are pregnant and to those who are nursing infants in those days! ²⁰Pray that your flight may not be in winter or on a sabbath. ²¹For at that time there will be great suffering, such as has not been from the beginning of the world until now, no, and never will be. ²²And if those days had not been cut short, no one would be saved; but for the sake of the elect those days will be cut short. ²³Then if anyone says to you, ‘Look! Here is the Messiah!’^a or ‘There he is!’—do not believe it. ²⁴For false messiahs^e and false prophets will appear and produce great signs and omens, to lead astray, if possible, even the elect. ²⁵Take note, I have told you beforehand. ²⁶So, if they say to you, ‘Look! He is in the wilderness,’ do not go out. If they say, ‘Look! He is in the inner rooms,’ do not believe it. ²⁷For as the lightning comes from the east and flashes as far as the west, so will be the coming of the Son of Man. ²⁸Wherever the corpse is, there the vultures will gather.

^a Or the Christ

^b Other ancient authorities add and pestilences

^c Or stumble

^d Or gospel

^e Or *christ*s

these prophetic words speak of events that are imminent or had already occurred when the Gospel was written; probably they combine both perspectives. Matthew regards some of the tribulations as consequent upon the destruction of Jerusalem in 70 CE and others as the prelude to the Second Coming.

24.1–14: The Temple’s destruction and the beginning of woes (Mk 13.1–13; Lk 21.5–19). 2: Buildings of the temple, the Jerusalem Temple was one of the most magnificent sanctuaries of the ancient world. The reconstruction begun by Herod the Great spanned eighty years (20 BCE–63 CE) and came to include separate courtyards for Gentiles, Jewish women, Jewish males, and priests. 3: Mount of Olives, a low mountain facing the east side of the Temple from across the Kidron Valley. Jesus and his disciples may have camped here during the crowded Passover festival. Zech 14.1–10 indicates that the Messiah would appear here. 8: Birth pangs, a metaphor for the onset of the end-time woes. 14: See 28.19–20.

24.15–28: The great tribulation (Mk 13.14–23; Lk 21.20–24). 15: Desolating sacrilege standing in the holy place, the image of Zeus Olympios erected in the Temple by Antiochus Epiphanes in 167 BCE (Dan 9.27; 11.31; 12.11; 1 Macc 1.54; 6.7). The phrase may also refer to Gaius Caligula’s attempt in 40 CE to install an image of himself in the Jerusalem Temple. The reader, either an editorial aside (as it is translated above) or Jesus’ reference to the readers of Daniel. 16: Mountains had caves where one might hide. 19: Lk.23.28–31. 20: Winter or on a sabbath, times when travel was difficult or prohibited.

²⁹ “Immediately after the suffering of those days

the sun will be darkened,
and the moon will not give its light;
the stars will fall from heaven,
and the powers of heaven will be shaken.

³⁰ Then the sign of the Son of Man will appear in heaven, and then all the tribes of the earth will mourn, and they will see ‘the Son of Man coming on the clouds of heaven’ with power and great glory. ³¹ And he will send out his angels with a loud trumpet call, and they will gather his elect from the four winds, from one end of heaven to the other.

³² “From the fig tree learn its lesson: as soon as its branch becomes tender and puts forth its leaves, you know that summer is near. ³³ So also, when you see all these things, you know that he^a is near, at the very gates.

³⁴ Truly I tell you, this generation will not pass away until all these things have taken place. ³⁵ Heaven and earth will pass away, but my words will not pass away.

³⁶ “But about that day and hour no one knows, neither the angels of heaven, nor the Son,^b but only the Father. ³⁷ For as the days of Noah were, so will be the coming of the Son of Man. ³⁸ For as in those days before the flood they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, until the day Noah entered the ark, ³⁹ and they knew nothing until the flood came and swept them all away, so too will be the coming of the Son of Man. ⁴⁰ Then two will be in the field; one will be taken and one will be left. ⁴¹ Two women will be grinding meal together; one will be taken and one will be left. ⁴² Keep awake therefore, for you do not know on what day^c your Lord is coming. ⁴³ But understand this: if the owner of the house had known in what part of the night the thief was coming, he would have stayed awake and would not have let his house be broken into. ⁴⁴ Therefore you also must be ready, for the Son of Man is coming at an unexpected hour.

⁴⁵ “Who then is the faithful and wise slave, whom his master has put in charge of his household, to give the other slaves^d their allowance of food at the proper time?

⁴⁶ Blessed is that slave whom his master will find at work when he arrives. ⁴⁷ Truly I tell you, he will put that one in charge of all his possessions. ⁴⁸ But if that wicked slave says to himself, ‘My master is delayed,’ ⁴⁹ and he begins to beat his fellow slaves, and eats and drinks with drunkards, ⁵⁰ the master of that slave will come on a day when he does not expect him and at an hour that he does not know. ⁵¹ He will cut him in pieces^e and put him with the hypocrites, where there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

25 “Then the kingdom of heaven will be like this. Ten bridesmaids^f took their lamps and went to meet the bridegroom.^g ² Five of them were foolish, and five were wise. ³ When the foolish took their lamps, they took no oil with them; ⁴ but the wise took flasks of oil with their lamps. ⁵ As the bridegroom was delayed, all of them became drowsy and slept. ⁶ But at midnight there was a shout, ‘Look! Here is the bridegroom! Come out to meet him.’ ⁷ Then all those bridesmaids^f got up and trimmed their lamps. ⁸ The foolish said to the wise, ‘Give us some of your oil, for our lamps are going out.’ ⁹ But the wise replied, ‘No! there will not be enough for you and for us; you had better go to the dealers and buy some for yourselves.’ ¹⁰ And while they went to buy it, the bridegroom came, and those who were ready went with him into the wedding banquet; and the door was shut.

^a Or it

^b Other ancient authorities lack nor the Son

^c Other ancient authorities read at what hour

^d Gk to give them

^e Or cut him off

^f Gk virgins

^g Other ancient authorities add and the bride

24.29–51: The coming of the Son of Man (Mk 13.24–37; Lk 21.25–33; Lk 17.26–30, 34–36; Lk 12.41–48). 29: Isa 13.1; 34.4. 30: The Son of Man is himself the sign; see Dan 7.13. 31: Trumpet, see Isa 27.13; Zech 9.14; 1 Thess 4.16. 35: Cf. 5.18. 38: Noah, Gen 7.7. 51: Cut him in pieces, perhaps a figurative expression for “cut off from the community” (1QS 2.16–17).

25.1–30: Two parables of the end-times (Lk 19.11–27). 1: Lamps, torches made from rags wrapped around the end of a pole and soaked in olive oil. Bridegroom, 9.15n. 2: Foolish . . . wise, 7.24–27. 7: Trimmed their lamps, cut

¹¹ Later the other bridesmaids^a came also, saying, ‘Lord, lord, open to us.’ ¹² But he replied, ‘Truly I tell you, I do not know you.’ ¹³ Keep awake therefore, for you know neither the day nor the hour.^b

¹⁴ “For it is as if a man, going on a journey, summoned his slaves and entrusted his property to them; ¹⁵ to one he gave five talents,^c to another two, to another one, to each according to his ability. Then he went away.

¹⁶ The one who had received the five talents went off at once and traded with them, and made five more talents. ¹⁷ In the same way, the one who had the two talents made two more talents. ¹⁸ But the one who had received the one talent went off and dug a hole in the ground and hid his master’s money. ¹⁹ After a long time the master of those slaves came and settled accounts with them. ²⁰ Then the one who had received the five talents came forward, bringing five more talents, saying, ‘Master, you handed over to me five talents; see, I have made five more talents.’ ²¹ His master said to him, ‘Well done, good and trustworthy slave; you have been trustworthy in a few things, I will put you in charge of many things; enter into the joy of your master.’ ²² And the one with the two talents also came forward, saying, ‘Master, you handed over to me two talents; see, I have made two more talents.’ ²³ His master said to him, ‘Well done, good and trustworthy slave; you have been trustworthy in a few things, I will put you in charge of many things; enter into the joy of your master.’ ²⁴ Then the one who had received the one talent also came forward, saying, ‘Master, I knew that you were a harsh man, reaping where you did not sow, and gathering where you did not scatter seed; ²⁵ so I was afraid, and I went and hid your talent in the ground. Here you have what is yours.’ ²⁶ But his master replied, ‘You wicked and lazy slave! You knew, did you, that I reap where I did not sow, and gather where I did not scatter?’ ²⁷ Then you ought to have invested my money with the bankers, and on my return I would have received what was my own with interest. ²⁸ So take the talent from him, and give it to the one with the ten talents. ²⁹ For to all those who have, more will be given, and they will have an abundance; but from those who have nothing, even what they have will be taken away. ³⁰ As for this worthless slave, throw him into the outer darkness, where there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth.’

³¹ “When the Son of Man comes in his glory, and all the angels with him, then he will sit on the throne of his glory. ³² All the nations will be gathered before him, and he will separate people one from another as a shepherd separates the sheep from the goats, ³³ and he will put the sheep at his right hand and the goats at the left. ³⁴ Then the king will say to those at his right hand, ‘Come, you that are blessed by my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world; ³⁵ for I was hungry and you gave me food, I was thirsty and you gave me something to drink, I was a stranger and you welcomed me, ³⁶ I was naked and you gave me clothing, I was sick and you took care of me, I was in prison and you visited me.’ ³⁷ Then the righteous will answer him, ‘Lord, when was it that we saw you hungry and gave you food, or thirsty and gave you something to drink? ³⁸ And when was it that we saw you a stranger and welcomed you, or naked and gave you clothing? ³⁹ And when was it that we saw you sick or in prison and visited you?’ ⁴⁰ And the

^a Gk virgins

^b Other ancient authorities add in which the Son of Man is coming

^c A talent was worth more than fifteen years’ wages of a laborer away the charred cloth wicks and added more oil. 13: 24.42. 14: Slaves, in Jesus’ day, it was not unusual to entrust slaves with large amounts of money and responsibility. 15: Talents, 18.24n. This parable furnishes the basis for the English word “talent.” 18: 13.44n. 19: The delay of the parousia (Jesus’ return). 23: Joy of your master, possibly the messianic banquet (8.11n.). 29: Cf. 13.12.

25.31–46: The judgment of the nations. 31: The Son of Man, 8.20n. 32: 24.9; 28.19; Isa 66.18; Joel 3.2. 33: Right, the auspicious side, while left was the bad or unlucky side. The distinction between sheep and goats may reside in the fabrics the two produce: goats produce dark hair, which was used to make ill-omened sackcloth (11.21n.), while white wool was a sign of prosperity.

king will answer them, “Truly I tell you, just as you did it to one of the least of these who are members of my family,^a you did it to me.’⁴¹ Then he will say to those at his left hand, ‘You that are accursed, depart from me into the eternal fire prepared for the devil and his angels;⁴² for I was hungry and you gave me no food, I was thirsty and you gave me nothing to drink,⁴³ I was a stranger and you did not welcome me, naked and you did not give me clothing, sick and in prison and you did not visit me.’⁴⁴ Then they also will answer, ‘Lord, when was it that we saw you hungry or thirsty or a stranger or naked or sick or in prison, and did not take care of you?’⁴⁵ Then he will answer them, “Truly I tell you, just as you did not do it to one of the least of these, you did not do it to me.’⁴⁶ And these will go away into eternal punishment, but the righteous into eternal life.”

26 When Jesus had finished saying all these things, he said to his disciples,² “You know that after two days the Passover is coming, and the Son of Man will be handed over to be crucified.”

³ Then the chief priests and the elders of the people gathered in the palace of the high priest, who was called Caiaphas,⁴ and they conspired to arrest Jesus by stealth and kill him.⁵ But they said, “Not during the festival, or there may be a riot among the people.”

⁶ Now while Jesus was at Bethany in the house of Simon the leper,^b ⁷ a woman came to him with an alabaster jar of very costly ointment, and she poured it on his head as he sat at the table.⁸ But when the disciples saw it, they were angry and said, “Why this waste?⁹ For this ointment could have been sold for a large sum, and the money given to the poor.”¹⁰ But Jesus, aware of this, said to them,

“Why do you trouble the woman? She has performed a good service for me.¹¹ For you always have the poor with you, but you will not always have me.¹² By pouring this ointment on my body she has prepared me for burial.¹³ Truly I tell you, wherever this good news^c is proclaimed in the whole world, what she has done will be told in remembrance of her.”

¹⁴ Then one of the twelve, who was called Judas Iscariot, went to the chief priests¹⁵ and said, “What will you give me if I betray him to you?” They paid him thirty pieces of silver.¹⁶ And from that moment he began to look for an opportunity to betray him.

¹⁷ On the first day of Unleavened Bread the disciples came to Jesus, saying, “Where do you want us to make the preparations for you to eat the Passover?”¹⁸ He said, “Go into the city to a certain man, and say to him, ‘The Teacher says, My time is near; I will keep the Passover at your house with my disciples.’”

¹⁹ So the disciples did as Jesus had directed them, and they prepared the Passover meal.

²⁰ When it was evening, he took his place with the twelve;^d ²¹ and while they were eating, he said, “Truly I tell you, one of you will betray me.”²² And they became greatly distressed and began to say to him one after another, “Surely not I, Lord?”²³ He answered, “The one who has dipped his hand into the bowl with me will betray me.²⁴ The Son of Man goes as it is written of him, but woe to that one by whom the Son of Man is betrayed! It would have been better for that one not to have been born.”²⁵ Judas, who

^a Gk these my brothers

^b The terms leper and leprosy can refer to several diseases

^c Or gospel

^d Other ancient authorities add disciples

26.1–16: Preliminaries to the Passover (Mk 14.3–11; Lk 22.3–6; Jn 12.1–8). 1: The conclusion of Jesus’ final discourse. 2: Passover, the annual Jewish festival celebrating Israel’s exodus from Egypt (Ex 12.1–20). 3: Caiaphas, high priest ca.18–36 CE, was the son-in-law of the high priest Annas (6–15 CE; 26.57). 5: Riots were always a possibility during the major festivals. 6: Bethany, a village on the Mount of Olives just east of Jerusalem. 7: Alabaster jar, a small vial or bottle called an alabastron. 14: Judas Iscariot, 10.4n. Thirty pieces of silver, tetradrachmas worth about one hundred and twenty denarii, a third of a year’s wages; cf. Zech 11.12.

26.17–35: The Passover and Lord’s Supper (Mk 14.12–31; Lk 22.7–23,31–34 Jn 13.21–30, 36–38; cf. 1 Cor 11.23–25). 17: First day, the fourteenth of Nisan (March–April), sometimes described as “the preparation of the Passover.” It marks the beginning of the week-long festival. 25: Rabbi, a title for Jesus that is typically used by non-disciples in Matthew (23.7n.); Judas is the only disciple to use the title in Matthew. You have said so means betrayed him, said, “Surely not I, Rabbi?” He replied, “You have said so.”

²⁶ While they were eating, Jesus took a loaf of bread, and after blessing it he broke it, gave it to the disciples, and said, “Take, eat; this is my body.” ²⁷ Then he took a cup, and after giving thanks he gave it to them, saying, “Drink from it, all of you; ²⁸ for this is my blood of the^a covenant, which is poured out for many for the forgiveness of sins. ²⁹ I tell you, I will never again drink of this fruit of the vine until that day when I drink it new with you in my Father’s kingdom.”

³⁰ When they had sung the hymn, they went out to the Mount of Olives.

³¹ Then Jesus said to them, “You will all become deserters because of me this night; for it is written,

‘I will strike the shepherd,
and the sheep of the flock will be scattered.’

³² But after I am raised up, I will go ahead of you to Galilee.” ³³ Peter said to him, “Though all become deserters because of you, I will never desert you.” ³⁴ Jesus said to him, “Truly I tell you, this very night, before the cock crows, you will deny me three times.” ³⁵ Peter said to him, “Even though I must die with you, I will not deny you.” And so said all the disciples.

³⁶ Then Jesus went with them to a place called Gethsemane; and he said to his disciples, “Sit here while I go over there and pray.”

³⁷ He took with him Peter and the two sons of Zebedee, and began to be grieved and agitated. ³⁸ Then he said to them, “I am deeply grieved, even to death; remain here, and stay awake with me.” ³⁹ And going a little farther, he threw himself on the ground and prayed, “My Father, if it is possible, let this cup pass from me; yet not what I want but what you want.” ⁴⁰ Then he came to the disciples and found them sleeping; and he said to Peter, “So, could you not stay awake with me one hour? ⁴¹ Stay awake and pray that you may not come into the time of trial;^b the spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak.” ⁴² Again he went away for the second time and prayed, “My Father, if this cannot pass unless I drink it, your will be done.” ⁴³ Again he came and found them sleeping, for their eyes were heavy. ⁴⁴ So leaving them again, he went away and prayed for the third time, saying the same words. ⁴⁵ Then he came to the disciples and said to them, “Are you still sleeping and taking your rest? See, the hour is at hand, and the Son of Man is betrayed into the hands of sinners. ⁴⁶ Get up, let us be going. See, my betrayer is at hand.”

⁴⁷ While he was still speaking, Judas, one of the twelve, arrived; with him was a large crowd with swords and clubs, from the chief priests and the elders of the people. ⁴⁸ Now the betrayer had given them a sign, saying, “The one I will kiss is the man; arrest him.”

⁴⁹ At once he came up to Jesus and said, “Greetings, Rabbi!” and kissed him. ⁵⁰ Jesus said to him, “Friend, do what you are here to do.” Then they came and laid hands on Jesus and arrested him. ⁵¹ Suddenly, one of those with Jesus put his hand on his sword, drew it, and struck the slave of the high priest, cutting off his ear. ⁵² Then Jesus said to him, “Put your sword back into its place; for all who take the sword will perish by the sword. ⁵³ Do you think that I cannot appeal to my Father, and he will at once send me more than twelve legions of angels? ⁵⁴ But how then would the scriptures be fulfilled, which say it must happen in this way?” ⁵⁵ At that hour Jesus said to the crowds, “Have you come out with swords and clubs to arrest me as though I were a bandit? Day after day I sat in the temple teaching, and you did not arrest me. ⁵⁶ But all

^a Other ancient authorities add new

^b Or into temptation

“Yes.” 26: Cf. 14.19; 15.36. 28: Blood of the covenant, Ex 24.8. 30: The hymn, the second half of the Hallel Psalms (113–18). 31: I will strike . . ., Zech 13.7. 32: See 28.7,10,16–20.

26.36–56: The arrest in Gethsemane (Mk 14.32–50; Lk 22.39–53; Jn 18.3–12). 36: Gethsemane, the name means “garden of oil,” so the site was likely an olive grove on the Mount of Olives (Lk 22.39) with olive presses nearby. 37: Sons of Zebedee, James and John (4.21; 17.1; 20.20–23n.). 38: Cf. Ps 42.6; Jon 4.9. 39: Cup, see 20.22. 49: Rabbi, see 26.25n. 53: In the Roman army a legion was about five thousand soldiers. 56: Scriptures, not individual passages, but the Jewish scriptures as a whole.

this has taken place, so that the scriptures of the prophets may be fulfilled.” Then all the disciples deserted him and fled.

⁵⁷ Those who had arrested Jesus took him to Caiaphas the high priest, in whose house the scribes and the elders had gathered. ⁵⁸ But Peter was following him at a distance, as far as the courtyard of the high priest; and going inside, he sat with the guards in order to see how this would end. ⁵⁹ Now the chief priests and the whole council were looking for false testimony against Jesus so that they might put him to death, ⁶⁰ but they found none, though many false witnesses came forward. At last two came forward ⁶¹ and said, “This fellow said, ‘I am able to destroy the temple of God and to build it in three days.’” ⁶² The high priest stood up and said, “Have you no answer? What is it that they testify against you?” ⁶³ But Jesus was silent. Then the high priest said to him, “I put you under oath before the living God, tell us if you are the Messiah,^a the Son of God.” ⁶⁴ Jesus said to him, “You have said so. But I tell you,

From now on you will see the Son of Man seated at the right hand of Power and coming on the clouds of heaven.”

⁶⁵ Then the high priest tore his clothes and said, “He has blasphemed! Why do we still need witnesses? You have now heard his blasphemy. ⁶⁶ What is your verdict?” They answered, “He deserves death.” ⁶⁷ Then they spat in his face and struck him; and some slapped him, ⁶⁸ saying, “Prophecy to us, you Messiah!^a Who is it that struck you?”

⁶⁹ Now Peter was sitting outside in the courtyard. A servant-girl came to him and said, “You also were with Jesus the Galilean.” ⁷⁰ But he denied it before all of them, saying, “I do not know what you are talking about.” ⁷¹ When he went out to the porch, another servant-girl saw him, and she said to the bystanders, “This man was with Jesus of Nazareth.”^b ⁷² Again he denied it with an oath, “I do not know the man.” ⁷³ After a little while the bystanders came up and said to Peter, “Certainly you are also one of them, for your accent betrays you.” ⁷⁴ Then he began to curse, and he swore an oath, “I do not know the man!” At that moment the cock crowed. ⁷⁵ Then Peter remembered what Jesus had said: “Before the cock crows, you will deny me three times.” And he went out and wept bitterly.

27 When morning came, all the chief priests and the elders of the people conferred together against Jesus in order to bring about his death. ² They bound him, led him away, and handed him over to Pilate the governor.

³ When Judas, his betrayer, saw that Jesus^c was condemned, he repented and brought back the thirty pieces of silver to the chief priests and the elders. ⁴ He said, “I have sinned by betraying innocent^d blood.” But they said, “What is that to us? See to it yourself.” ⁵ Throwing down the pieces of silver in the temple, he departed; and he went and hanged himself. ⁶ But the chief priests, taking the pieces of silver, said, “It is not lawful to put them into the treasury, since they are blood money.” ⁷ After conferring together, they used them to buy the potter’s field as a place to bury foreigners. ⁸ For this reason that field has been called the Field of Blood to this day. ⁹ Then was fulfilled what had been spoken through the prophet Jeremiah,^e “And they took^f the thirty pieces of silver, the price of the one on whom a price had been set,^g on whom some of the people of

^a Or Christ

^b Gk the Nazorean

^c Gk he

^d Other ancient authorities read righteous

^e Other ancient authorities read Zechariah or Isaiah

^f Or I took

^g Or the price of the precious One

26.57–27.2: Jesus before the council and Pilate (Mk 14.53–15.1; Lk 22.54–23.2; Jn 18.13–27). 26.59: Whole council, the Sanhedrin, the highest council of the Jews, possessing judicial authority in noncapital cases. 61: Cf. 24.2. 63: Messiah, the Son of God, 16.16n. 64: You have said so: Jesus’ response confirms the high priest’s identification (25.25n.; 27.11). Son of Man, 8.20n. Cf. Ps 110.1; Dan 7.13. 75: 26.34. 27.2: Pilate the governor, Roman administrator of Judea, 26–36 CE.

27.3–10: The death of Judas. Compare Acts 1:18–20. 9–10: A fulfillment citation from Zech 11.12–13, with echoes of Jer 32.6–9.

Israel had set a price,¹⁰ and they gave^a them for the potter's field, as the Lord commanded me.”

¹¹ Now Jesus stood before the governor; and the governor asked him, “Are you the King of the Jews?” Jesus said, “You say so.”¹² But when he was accused by the chief priests and elders, he did not answer. ¹³ Then Pilate said to him, “Do you not hear how many accusations they make against you?”¹⁴ But he gave him no answer, not even to a single charge, so that the governor was greatly amazed.

¹⁵ Now at the festival the governor was accustomed to release a prisoner for the crowd, anyone whom they wanted. ¹⁶ At that time they had a notorious prisoner, called Jesus^b Barabbas. ¹⁷ So after they had gathered, Pilate said to them, “Whom do you want me to release for you, Jesus^b Barabbas or Jesus who is called the Messiah?”^c ¹⁸ For he realized that it was out of jealousy that they had handed him over. ¹⁹ While he was sitting on the judgment seat, his wife sent word to him, “Have nothing to do with that innocent man, for today I have suffered a great deal because of a dream about him.”²⁰ Now the chief priests and the elders persuaded the crowds to ask for Barabbas and to have Jesus killed. ²¹ The governor again said to them, “Which of the two do you want me to release for you?” And they said, “Barabbas.” ²² Pilate said to them, “Then what should I do with Jesus who is called the Messiah?”^c All of them said, “Let him be crucified!” ²³ Then he asked, “Why, what evil has he done?” But they shouted all the more, “Let him be crucified!”

²⁴ So when Pilate saw that he could do nothing, but rather that a riot was beginning, he took some water and washed his hands before the crowd, saying, “I am innocent of this man's blood;^d see to it yourselves.”

²⁵ Then the people as a whole answered, “His blood be on us and on our children!”²⁶ So he released Barabbas for them; and after flogging Jesus, he handed him over to be crucified.

²⁷ Then the soldiers of the governor took Jesus into the governor's headquarters,^e and they gathered the whole cohort around him. ²⁸ They stripped him and put a scarlet robe on him,²⁹ and after twisting some thorns into a crown, they put it on his head. They put a reed in his right hand and knelt before him and mocked him, saying, “Hail, King of the Jews!”³⁰ They spat on him, and took the reed and struck him on the head. ³¹ After mocking him, they stripped him of the robe and put his own clothes on him. Then they led him away to crucify him.

³² As they went out, they came upon a man from Cyrene named Simon; they compelled this man to carry his cross.³³ And when they came to a place called Golgotha (which means Place of a Skull),³⁴ they offered him wine to drink, mixed with gall; but when he tasted it, he would not drink it. ³⁵ And when they had crucified him, they divided his clothes among themselves by casting lots;^f ³⁶ then they sat down there and kept watch over him. ³⁷ Over his head they put the charge against him, which read, “This is Jesus, the King of the Jews.”

³⁸ Then two bandits were crucified with him, one on his right and one on his left.

^a Other ancient authorities read I gave

^b Other ancient authorities lack Jesus

^c Or the Christ

^d Other ancient authorities read this righteous blood, or this righteous man's blood

^e Gk the praetorium

^f Other ancient authorities add in order that what had been spoken through the prophet might be fulfilled, “They divided my clothes among themselves, and for my clothing they cast lots.”

27.11–31: Jesus on trial before Pilate (Mk 15.2–20; Lk 23.3–5,13–25; Jn 18.33–19.16). 11: 26.64n. 16: Barabbas, (“son of the Father”) was a common name in Israel. 19: Judgment seat, a raised, paved area outside Pilate's residence. Dream, this episode is unique to Matthew. 24: Washed his hands, Deut 21.6; Ps 73.13. 25: Children, an indication that the next generation would experience the destruction of Jerusalem in 70 CE. 27: The governor's headquarters (see textual note e), Pilate's residence (Jn 19.13). Whole cohort, ca. 600–1,000 men.

27.32–56: The crucifixion and death of Jesus (Mk 15.21–41; Lk 23.26–49; Jn 19.17–30). 32: Simon, Mk 15.21. 34: Gall, a bitter, poisonous plant (see Ps 69.21). 35: See Ps 22.18. 37: King of the Jews, the official charge against

³⁹ Those who passed by derided^a him, shaking their heads ⁴⁰ and saying, “You who would destroy the temple and build it in three days, save yourself! If you are the Son of God, come down from the cross.” ⁴¹ In the same way the chief priests also, along with the scribes and elders, were mocking him, saying, ⁴² “He saved others; he cannot save himself.^b He is the King of Israel; let him come down from the cross now, and we will believe in him. ⁴³ He trusts in God; let God deliver him now, if he wants to; for he said, ‘I am God’s Son.’” ⁴⁴ The bandits who were crucified with him also taunted him in the same way.

⁴⁵ From noon on, darkness came over the whole land^c until three in the afternoon.

⁴⁶ And about three o’clock Jesus cried with a loud voice, “Eli, Eli, lema sabachthani?” that is, “My God, my God, why have you forsaken me?” ⁴⁷ When some of the bystanders heard it, they said, “This man is calling for Elijah.” ⁴⁸ At once one of them ran and got a sponge, filled it with sour wine, put it on a stick, and gave it to him to drink. ⁴⁹ But the others said, “Wait, let us see whether Elijah will come to save him.”^d

⁵⁰ Then Jesus cried again with a loud voice and breathed his last.^e ⁵¹ At that moment the curtain of the temple was torn in two, from top to bottom. The earth shook, and the rocks were split. ⁵² The tombs also were opened, and many bodies of the saints who had fallen asleep were raised. ⁵³ After his resurrection they came out of the tombs and entered the holy city and appeared to many. ⁵⁴ Now when the centurion and those with him, who were keeping watch over Jesus, saw the earthquake and what took place, they were terrified and said, “Truly this man was God’s Son!”^f

⁵⁵ Many women were also there, looking on from a distance; they had followed

Jesus from Galilee and had provided for him. ⁵⁶ Among them were Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James and Joseph, and the mother of the sons of Zebedee.

⁵⁷ When it was evening, there came a rich man from Arimathea, named Joseph, who was also a disciple of Jesus. ⁵⁸ He went to Pilate and asked for the body of Jesus; then Pilate ordered it to be given to him. ⁵⁹ So Joseph took the body and wrapped it in a clean linen cloth ⁶⁰ and laid it in his own new tomb, which he had hewn in the rock. He then rolled a great stone to the door of the tomb and went away. ⁶¹ Mary Magdalene and the other Mary were there, sitting opposite the tomb.

⁶² The next day, that is, after the day of Preparation, the chief priests and the Pharisees gathered before Pilate ⁶³ and said, “Sir, we remember what that impostor said while he was still alive, ‘After three days I will rise again.’ ⁶⁴ Therefore command the tomb to be made secure until the third day; otherwise his disciples may go and steal him away, and tell the people, ‘He has been raised from the dead,’ and the last deception would be worse than the first.” ⁶⁵ Pilate said to them, “You have a guard^g of soldiers; go, make it as secure as you can.”^h ⁶⁶ So they went with the guard and made the tomb secure by sealing the stone.

^a Or blasphemed

^b Or is he unable to save himself?

^c Or earth

^d Other ancient authorities add And another took a spear and pierced his side, and out came water and blood

^e Or gave up his spirit

^f Or a son of God

^g Or Take a guard

^h Or you know how

Jesus was inscribed on a tablet. The charge suggests that he was considered a political threat (2.2). 46: Eli . . ., an Aramaic translation of Ps 22.1. The invocation to God (“Eli,” “my God”) sounds similar to the name Elijah (“The Lord is my God”). 47: Elijah was popularly regarded as a helper to those in need. 51: The curtain of the temple, a large tapestry that hung in front of the Holy of Holies, the innermost room of the Temple. The earth shook, 28.2. 53: The holy city, Jerusalem. 54: God’s Son, the first acclamation of Jesus as Son of God by a Gentile. 56: Mary Magdalene, 27.61; 28.1; Mk 16.9; Lk 8.2. Magdala was a fishing town on the west coast of the Sea of Galilee, northwest of Tiberias. Sons of Zebedee, see 26.37n.

27.57–66: The burial of Jesus and the guard at the tomb. (Mk 15.42–47; Lk 23.50–56; Jn 19.38–42). 61: Other Mary, the mother of James and Joseph (27.56; 28.1). 62: After the day of Preparation, the sabbath (Saturday). Friday was the day of Preparation. The Pharisees, last mentioned at 23.29, were not involved in Jesus’ crucifixion. 65: Guard of soldiers, Roman soldiers, not the Temple police.

28 After the sabbath, as the first day of the week was dawning, Mary Magdalene and the other Mary went to see the tomb. ² And suddenly there was a great earthquake; for an angel of the Lord, descending from heaven, came and rolled back the stone and sat on it. ³ His appearance was like lightning, and his clothing white as snow. ⁴ For fear of him the guards shook and became like dead men. ⁵ But the angel said to the women, “Do not be afraid; I know that you are looking for Jesus who was crucified. ⁶ He is not here; for he has been raised, as he said. Come, see the place where he^a lay. ⁷ Then go quickly and tell his disciples, ‘He has been raised from the dead,^b and indeed he is going ahead of you to Galilee; there you will see him.’ This is my message for you.” ⁸ So they left the tomb quickly with fear and great joy, and ran to tell his disciples. ⁹ Suddenly Jesus met them and said, “Greetings!” And they came to him, took hold of his feet, and worshiped him. ¹⁰ Then Jesus said to them, “Do not be afraid; go and tell my brothers to go to Galilee; there they will see me.”

¹¹ While they were going, some of the guard went into the city and told the chief priests

everything that had happened. ¹² After the priests^c had assembled with the elders, they devised a plan to give a large sum of money to the soldiers, ¹³ telling them, “You must say, ‘His disciples came by night and stole him away while we were asleep.’” ¹⁴ If this comes to the governor’s ears, we will satisfy him and keep you out of trouble.” ¹⁵ So they took the money and did as they were directed. And this story is still told among the Jews to this day.

¹⁶ Now the eleven disciples went to Galilee, to the mountain to which Jesus had directed them. ¹⁷ When they saw him, they worshiped him; but some doubted. ¹⁸ And Jesus came and said to them, “All authority in heaven and on earth has been given to me. ¹⁹ Go therefore and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, ²⁰ and teaching them to obey everything that I have commanded you. And remember, I am with you always, to the end of the age.”^d

^a Other ancient authorities read the Lord

^b Other ancient authorities lack from the dead

^c Gk they

^d Other ancient authorities add Amen

28.1–15: The resurrection of Jesus and the guards’ report (Mk 16.1–8; Lk 24.1–12; Jn 20.1–10). 1: First day of the week, Sunday. The other Mary, 27.61n. 2: 27.51. 7: Galilee, 26.32; Mk 16.7; contrast Acts 1.4; Jn 20.19. 9: Here, as in the other Gospels, Jesus’ women disciples are the first to witness the risen Jesus. 10: My brothers, Jesus identifies his disciples as “brothers,” indicating his ongoing love for them despite their lapses. 14: Governor’s ears, an investigation before Pilate. 15: Not among the Jews but “among Jews,” i.e., among Jews who had not accepted the Christian message.

28.16–20: The commissioning of the disciples (Mk 16.14–18; Lk 24.36–49; Jn 20.19–23; Acts 1.6–8). 17: Some doubted, doubt still characterizes some of the disciples in Matthew. 18: All authority, 7.29n.; 9.6. 19: All nations, all people, including the Jews. I am with you, 18.20; cf. 1.23.

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO MARK

AUTHORSHIP AND DATE

Although the Gospel is anonymous, an ancient tradition ascribes it to John Mark (mentioned in Acts 12:12; 15:37), who is supposed to have composed it at Rome as a summary of Peter's preaching (see 1 Pet 5:13). Modern scholars find little first-century CE evidence to support this tradition. Mark is the shortest of the four canonical Gospels and is generally thought to be the earliest and to have been used as a source for both Matthew and Luke. The vague references to the destruction of Jerusalem in Mark 13 (contrast Mt 22:7; Lk 19:43) could be clues that the Gospel was composed just prior to the Jewish revolt that began in 66 CE and the Roman reconquest and destruction of Jerusalem and the Temple in 70 CE.

STYLE AND CONTENT

The language of the Gospel is that of popular spoken Greek. Its style features rapid sequences of brief and vivid concrete episodes linked simply by "and" or "and immediately," frequently omitted in translation for less awkward reading in English. The narrative often shifts from the past tense into the present tense, enlivening the action. The content of the Gospel consists mostly of stories about Jesus' actions and disputes with scribes and Pharisees, including some of Jesus' sayings, with two speeches (one mostly of parables) interrupting the rapid flow of episodes. Mark appears to have drawn upon a rich variety of oral traditions of Jesus' actions and teachings, including chains of miracle stories, sets of parables, and stories of controversies with the Pharisees. Some scholars think that the Gospel may have been a text that was still performed orally by Christian storytellers. The overall narrative weaves sequences of episodes together into a complex plot with several interrelated themes and conflicts. In the earliest manuscripts, Mark ends abruptly at 16:8. This (apparently original) open ending invites the reader to continue the story of Jesus and the kingdom. In some later manuscripts Mark's story was "completed" with resurrection appearances of amalgamated elements from the other canonical Gospels, to make it conform to their common pattern.

STRUCTURE

The Gospel story unfolds in an escalating series of steps. After Jesus' baptism by John, he proclaims the kingdom of God and manifests its miraculous power in rural Galilee as the renewal of Israel, over against the Jerusalem priestly establishment and its representatives, the scribes and Pharisees (chs 1–3). In the first long speech of the Gospel, Jesus then teaches the mysterious plan of the kingdom in parables to large audiences and especially to his disciples (4:1–34). Jesus continues his program of the renewal of Israel in a sustained program of sea crossings, exorcisms, healings, and wilderness feedings reminiscent of the activities of Moses and Elijah (the great prophets of the past who, respectively, founded and renewed Israel), along with continuing disputes with the scribes and Pharisees (4:35–8:21). In the next step of the story, one framed by healings of blind men that highlight the disciples' misunderstanding, Jesus repeatedly makes clear that, besides being a new prophet equal in significance to Moses and Elijah in his restoration of covenantal Israel, it is necessary that he carry out the agenda of a martyr-messiah of Israel who must be condemned by the rulers, be killed, and rise again (8:22–10:52). After his dramatic messianic entry into Jerusalem and his provocative prophetic condemnation of the Temple, Jesus confronts the Jerusalem priestly establishment and its representatives (chs 11–12). In a second major speech, Jesus warns the disciples about fanatical misinterpretation of the coming political struggles (ch 13). In the final section of the Gospel, following Jesus' last meal with the disciples and his betrayal and arrest by the rulers' posse, he is accused of treason, blasphemy, and insurrection, condemned, and turned over to Pilate, the Roman governor, who orders him executed by crucifixion (chs 14–15). The Gospel then ends abruptly with the story of the empty tomb and the women's fear (16:1–8).

INTERPRETATION

Modern readers often hear the Gospel as a story of Christian discipleship, but it is much more than that. Mark is a story of multiple conflicts, exciting to read and with a compelling message. In the dominant conflict that builds to a climax throughout the Gospel, Jesus' challenge to the Jewish religious leaders and their Roman imperial overlords escalates from his preaching and practice of the kingdom of God in the village gatherings of Galilee to his dramatic demonstration against the Temple and confrontation with the rulers in Jerusalem. That results in his torturous death by crucifixion at the hands of the Romans as an insurrectionary. In Jesus' exorcisms, moreover, God is winning the struggle with Satan and the demonic "unclean spirits" (1.27; 5.10–12) that have taken possession of the people like an occupying Roman legion. Surprisingly, a conflict between Jesus and the very disciples he designates as representative of the renewed people of Israel also develops in the course of the story. Although Jesus teaches them the mystery of the kingdom, they persistently fail to understand what he is teaching and doing, and at the end they betray, deny, and desert him. By contrast with the misunderstanding and faithless disciples, women, who play an increasingly prominent role in Mark's story, serve as models of faithfulness.

The Gospel of Mark presents Jesus' preaching and manifestation of the kingdom of God as a decisive new development in the history of Israel, not as the beginning of a new religion. Indeed, in this story religion is inseparable from the social, political, economic, even the physiological aspects of life. Throughout the Gospel, Jesus is portrayed in terms of popular Israelite memories of the great prophets, especially Moses, who had led Israel's Exodus from subjection to alien rule in Egypt; Elijah, who had led the renewal of Israel in resistance to oppressive monarchs; and Jeremiah, who had proclaimed God's judgment on the Temple and the rulers based there. At the beginning, in the middle, and toward the end, Mark also presents Jesus as a specially designated son of God, or king. Jesus, however, turns out to be a messiah (anointed one) who is a martyr, in contrast to the disciples' expectations that Jesus would be invested with political power in Jerusalem. And Jesus' role as both prophet and martyr-messiah is pointedly distinguished from the expectations of the Jewish elite, such as the scribes (see esp. 9.11–13; 12.35–37).

GUIDE TO READING

Because the Gospel presents a sustained narrative of escalating conflicts, it should be read as a whole so its components are understood in their connection with the overall story—a story that did not end at the tomb, as the prophecy of a new encounter between Jesus and his disciples reminds the audience (14.27–28; 16.7).

Richard A. Horsley

1 The beginning of the good news^a of Jesus Christ, the Son of God.^b

² As it is written in the prophet Isaiah,^c “See, I am sending my messenger ahead of you,^d

who will prepare your way;

³ the voice of one crying out in the wilderness:

‘Prepare the way of the Lord,
make his paths straight.’”

⁴ John the baptizer appeared^e in the wilderness, proclaiming a baptism of repentance for the forgiveness of sins. ⁵ And people from the whole Judean countryside and all

^a Or gospel

^b Other ancient authorities lack the Son of God

^c Other ancient authorities read in the prophets

^d Gk before your face

^e Other ancient authorities read John was baptizing

1.1–13: Preparing the way of the Lord. 1: In the context of the Roman Empire, the good news (gospel) of Jesus Christ, i.e., Jesus the “anointed” king of Israel, a people subject to Rome, would have been understood over against the “gospel” of Caesar as the “Savior” who brought peace to the world. Son of God is missing in the earliest manuscripts.

1.2–8: John's baptism of repentance (Mt 3.1–12; Lk 3.1–20; Jn 1.6–15, 19–28) preparing the way as the new Exodus and covenant renewal. 2–3: See Ex 23.20; Mal 3.1 (cf. Mt 11.10; Lk 7.27); Isa 40.3. That this is not all a quotation from Isaiah suggests that it is rooted in a popular (non-scribal) oral conflation of “prophecies.” It is not clear whether my messenger ahead of you refers to John sent ahead of Jesus, or Jesus sent ahead of the addressees. “Prepare the way of the Lord” proclaims a new Exodus, as in Isa 40. The wilderness, also suggestive of a new Exodus, was a place where other popular prophets and movements often originated (e.g., Acts 5.36; cf. Josephus, Ant. 20.5.1). 4–5: Acts 13.24. Baptism of repentance for the forgiveness of sins, John proclaims and performs a ritual of entrance into God's renewed covenant with Israel in which those ready to change their ways are baptized as forgiven for having broken the covenantal laws. 5: The whole Judean countryside and all the people of Jerusalem, i.e., all the people of Israel, from the capital city as well as from the villages, were baptized. 6: John's garb evokes an image of the prophet Elijah, as in 2 Kings 1.8; cf. 9.11–13. Jesus is also taken to be Elijah in 6.15; 8.28; 15.35–36. 7–8: John also proclaims one . . . more powerful who will bring the enabling divine power of the Holy Spirit.

the people of Jerusalem were going out to him, and were baptized by him in the river Jordan, confessing their sins. ⁶ Now John was clothed with camel's hair, with a leather belt around his waist, and he ate locusts and wild honey. ⁷ He proclaimed, "The one who is more powerful than I is coming after me; I am not worthy to stoop down and untie the thong of his sandals. ⁸ I have baptized you with^a water; but he will baptize you with^a the Holy Spirit."

⁹ In those days Jesus came from Nazareth of Galilee and was baptized by John in the Jordan. ¹⁰ And just as he was coming up out of the water, he saw the heavens torn apart and the Spirit descending like a dove on him. ¹¹ And a voice came from heaven, "You are my Son, the Beloved;^b with you I am well pleased."

¹² And the Spirit immediately drove him out into the wilderness. ¹³ He was in the wilderness forty days, tempted by Satan; and he was with the wild beasts; and the angels waited on him.

¹⁴ Now after John was arrested, Jesus came to Galilee, proclaiming the good news^c of God,^d ¹⁵ and saying, "The time is fulfilled, and the kingdom of God has come near;^e repent, and believe in the good news."^c

¹⁶ As Jesus passed along the Sea of Galilee, he saw Simon and his brother Andrew casting a net into the sea—for they were fishermen. ¹⁷ And Jesus said to them, "Follow me and I will make you fish for people." ¹⁸ And immediately they left their nets and followed him. ¹⁹ As he went a little farther, he saw James son of Zebedee and his brother John, who were in their boat mending the nets. ²⁰ Immediately he called them; and they left their father Zebedee in the boat with the hired men, and followed him.

²¹ They went to Capernaum; and when the sabbath came, he entered the synagogue and taught. ²² They were astounded at his teaching, for he taught them as one having authority, and not as the scribes. ²³ Just then there was in their synagogue a man with an

^a Or in

^b Or my beloved Son

^c Or gospel

^d Other ancient authorities read of the kingdom

^e Or is at hand

1.9–11: Jesus' baptism (Mt 3.13–17; Lk 3.21–22; Jn 1.29–34). Jesus himself is baptized into the renewal movement that began before him. From Nazareth of Galilee, a small village about 25 km (16 mi) west of the Sea of Galilee in the district now governed by "King" Herod Antipas (see 6.14), son of Herod the Great. 10–11: The heavens torn apart, as the divine Spirit breaks through empowering Jesus as the anointed king of Israel. A traditional designation for the king was "son of God," as in 2 Sam 7.14; Pss 2.7; 89.26 (cf. Lk 9.35). Beloved, cf. Isa 42.1.

1.12–13: Jesus' testing (cf. the particular "temptations" added in Mt 4.1–11; Lk 4.1–13). Jesus undergoes a forty-day time of trial and testing in the wilderness for a prophet, such as Elijah in 1 Kings 19.8; cf. Ex 24.18. The battle against Satan (see 3.23–27) is already engaged.

1.14–3.35: Proclaiming and manifesting the kingdom of God as the renewal of Israel, over against the Jerusalem priestly rulers.

1.14–15: Jesus' opening proclamation of the kingdom of God (Mt 4.12–17; Lk 4.14–15). 14: John was arrested (see 6.17) indicates the ominous situation as Jesus begins his mission centered in Galilee, a remote area of a country subjected to Rome. 15: A summary of Jesus' program and of the Gospel according to Mark. At the right time, in fulfillment of long-standing yearnings and hopes, God is finally acting to reestablish his beneficent will for the people. Repent, return to God's way, in response to the good news of God's action.

1.16–20: Call of disciples (Mt 4.18–22; Lk 5.1–11; Jn 1.35–42). Sea of Galilee or the Lake of Gennesaret is a large lake in a deep basin mostly surrounded by high hills. Simon, also called Peter (3.16).

1.21–28: Exorcism and teaching with authority (Mt 7.28–29; Lk 4.33–37). 21–22: Capernaum, a village at the north of the Lake, is the base of Jesus' activity in Galilee and the surrounding areas. The synagogue is the village assembly, here gathering on the sabbath (when Jesus performs the ensuing exorcism); at this time village assemblies apparently did not yet construct public buildings in which to gather. His teaching is inclusive of his healings and exorcisms, as the rest of this story indicates. Authority, the Greek word also means "power." Scribes, the literate elite of scholars-lawyers who represented the Jerusalem priestly rulers. 23: A man with an unclean spirit,²⁴ and he cried out, “What have you to do with us, Jesus of Nazareth? Have you come to destroy us? I know who you are, the Holy One of God.”²⁵ But Jesus rebuked him, saying, “Be silent, and come out of him!”²⁶ And the unclean spirit, convulsing him and crying with a loud voice, came out of him.²⁷ They were all amazed, and they kept on asking one another, “What is this? A new teaching—with authority! He^a commands even the unclean spirits, and they obey him.”²⁸ At once his fame began to spread throughout the surrounding region of Galilee.

²⁹ As soon as they^b left the synagogue, they entered the house of Simon and Andrew, with James and John.³⁰ Now Simon’s mother-in-law was in bed with a fever, and they told him about her at once.³¹ He came and took her by the hand and lifted her up. Then the fever left her, and she began to serve them.

³² That evening, at sunset, they brought to him all who were sick or possessed with demons.³³ And the whole city was gathered around the door.³⁴ And he cured many who were sick with various diseases, and cast out many demons; and he would not permit the demons to speak, because they knew him.

³⁵ In the morning, while it was still very dark, he got up and went out to a deserted place, and there he prayed.³⁶ And Simon and his companions hunted for him.³⁷ When they found him, they said to him, “Everyone is searching for you.”³⁸ He answered, “Let us go on to the neighboring towns, so that I may proclaim the message there also; for that is what I came out to do.”³⁹ And he went throughout Galilee, proclaiming the message in their synagogues and casting out demons.

⁴⁰ A leper^c came to him begging him, and kneeling^d he said to him, “If you choose, you can make me clean.”⁴¹ Moved with pity,^e Jesus^f stretched out his hand and touched him, and said to him, “I do choose. Be made

^a Or A new teaching! With authority he

^b Other ancient authorities read he

^c The terms leper and leprosy can refer to several diseases

^d Other ancient authorities lack kneeling

^e Other ancient authorities read anger

^f Gk he

unclean spirit, possessed by an alien force or demon. 24: In Mark the unclean spirits immediately recognize who Jesus is, as again in 1.34; 3.11; 5.7. Holy One of God, a prophet possessed of divine power, as Elisha, 2 Kings 4.9. 25–26: The exorcism involves a violent struggle. In Pss 6.9; 68.31; 78.6; 80.16; Zech 3.2 and the War Scroll from Qumran (1QM14.9–11), the Heb equivalent of the Gk term here translated “rebuke” referred to God defeating foreign conquerors or even Satan. Jesus is defeating the alien demonic forces in battle. 27: With v. 22 these exclamations frame Jesus’ exorcism: In contrast to the scribal “authorities,” Jesus teaches and acts with authority and power over the unclean spirits for the benefit of the people. In Jesus’ struggle against the superhuman demonic spirits his political conflict with the rulers and their scribal representatives is also engaged. 28: From his very first exorcism, Jesus’ fame spreads rapidly throughout the region; see also 1.45; 3.7–8.

1.29–34: Healings and exorcisms (Mt 8.14–17; Lk 4.38–41). 30–31: The first of several key healings of women in Mark; see 5.21–43. 32–34: A Markan summary, cf. 1.39; 3.7–8. 33: Mark often uses city with reference to a village. 34: Not permit the demons to speak, Jesus commands the demons, who know who he is, not to make him known (see 3.12) and sometimes asks people who witness healings not to tell anyone (e.g., 1.44; 5.43; 7.36). Nevertheless, his fame spreads rapidly and widely (e.g., 1.37; 1.45; 3.7–8; 7.36). The readers of Mark, of course, like the demons, know who he is from the beginning (1.1).

1.35–39: Summary of Jesus’ activity (Mt 4.23–25; Lk 4.42–44). A Markan summary of Jesus’ program of proclaiming the kingdom of God and exorcism of demons throughout the villages of Galilee. 39: In their synagogues, the Greek word means “assemblies.” Jesus’ proclamations, exorcisms, and healings take place largely in the village assemblies (see vv. 21–22n.).

1.40–45: Healing a leper (Mt 8.2–4; Lk 5.12–16). Leper, a person suffering from skin lesions of any sort, and interpreted in priestly sources (see Lev 13–14) as a channel of “unclean” contamination for individuals and society. 40–42: The leper dares Jesus to declare him clean, and Jesus responds to the challenge, in defiance of the elaborate and costly procedures prescribed in biblical law. 41: Moved with pity, some manuscripts have “with anger” (see textual note e), which is the more difficult, hence the preferred reading; Jesus is angry at the institutionalized procedures and prescribed offerings in the Temple necessary for the “leper” to be declared free of clean!”⁴² Immediately the leprosy^a left him, and he was made clean.⁴³ After sternly warning him he sent him away at once,⁴⁴ saying to him, “See that you say nothing to anyone; but go, show yourself to the priest, and offer for your cleansing what Moses commanded, as a testimony to them.”⁴⁵ But he went out and began to proclaim it freely, and to spread the word, so that Jesus^b could no longer go into a town openly, but stayed out in the country; and people came to him from every quarter.

2 When he returned to Capernaum after some days, it was reported that he was at home.² So many gathered around that there was no longer room for them, not even in front of the door; and he was speaking the word to them.³ Then some people^c came, bringing to him a paralyzed man, carried by four of them.⁴ And when they could not bring him to Jesus because of the crowd, they removed the roof above him; and after having dug through it, they let down the mat on which the paralytic lay.⁵ When Jesus saw their faith, he said to the paralytic, “Son, your sins are forgiven.”⁶ Now some of the scribes were sitting there, questioning in their hearts,⁷ “Why does this fellow speak in this way? It is blasphemy! Who can forgive sins but God alone?”⁸ At once Jesus perceived in his spirit that they were discussing these questions among themselves; and he said to them, “Why do you raise such questions in your hearts?⁹ Which is easier, to say to the paralytic, ‘Your sins are forgiven,’ or to say, ‘Stand up and take your mat and walk?’¹⁰ But so that you may know that the Son of Man has authority on earth to forgive sins”—he said to the paralytic—¹¹ “I say to you, stand up, take your mat and go to your home.”

¹² And he stood up, and immediately took the mat and went out before all of them; so that they were all amazed and glorified God, saying, “We have never seen anything like this!”

¹³ Jesus^d went out again beside the sea; the whole crowd gathered around him, and he taught them.¹⁴ As he was walking along, he saw Levi son of Alphaeus sitting at the tax booth, and he said to him, “Follow me.” And he got up and followed him.

¹⁵ And as he sat at dinner^e in Levi’s^f house, many tax collectors and sinners were also sit-

^a The terms leper and leprosy can refer to several diseases

^b Gk he

^c Gk they

^d Gk He

^e Gk reclined

^f Gk his

the stigma (clean). 44: Since Jesus has already made the man clean, his instructions must be intended either as a demonstrative testimony or “witness” against the priest and the costly offerings required by their code (Lev 14.10–32) or as a facetious remark (the now-clean man does pointedly disobey the instructions).

2.1–12: Healing paralysis and forgiveness of sins (Mt 9.1–8; Lk 5.17–26). This controversy story, which is also a healing story, begins a series of controversies in which the scribes (see 1.21–22n.) and Pharisees attack or question Jesus, whose sharp response is decisive. The scribes were the literate expert interpreters and guardians of the official law codes, the Pharisees a particular party or faction within the wider class of scribes. Both were based in the Jerusalem Temple (3.22; 7.1) and worked for and represented the priestly rulers in dealings with the people. 4: Houses often had a flat roof consisting of mud plaster over a wood framework. 5–11: Jesus equates the declaration “Your sins are forgiven” with “Stand up . . . and walk.” The man’s paralysis is believed to be due to his own sin (or that of his parents; see Ex 34.7; Jn 9.2). The scribes, the authorities who socially reinforced such self-blame for illness and misfortune, accuse Jesus of blasphemy, a capital offense (Lev 24.16), since forgiveness can be done by God alone through the established procedures in the Temple, according to these his official interpreters. The accusation prefigures that by the high priest at his trial (Mk 14.64). Again Jesus asserts his own prophetic authority and power over against the scribes, as in 1.22–27. Son of Man means either “human being” or refers to Jesus as an exalted figure representative of a finally restored Israel (derived from Dan 7.13), or both.

2.13–17: Eating with sinners (Mt 9.9–13; Lk 5.27–32). 14: Levi, identified as “Matthew” in Mt 9.9, is a customs officer at Capernaum, a border village, presumably working under an officer of Herod Antipas. 15–16: Eating with sinners and tax collectors (or rather “toll collectors”) would have entailed contact with impure people and social outcasts, according to the scribes of the Pharisees.

ting^a with Jesus and his disciples—for there were many who followed him. ¹⁶When the scribes of^b the Pharisees saw that he was eating with sinners and tax collectors, they said to his disciples, “Why does he eat^c with tax collectors and sinners?” ¹⁷When Jesus heard this, he said to them, “Those who are well have no need of a physician, but those who are sick; I have come to call not the righteous but sinners.”

¹⁸Now John’s disciples and the Pharisees were fasting; and people^d came and said to him, “Why do John’s disciples and the disciples of the Pharisees fast, but your disciples do not fast?” ¹⁹Jesus said to them, “The wedding guests cannot fast while the bridegroom is with them, can they? As long as they have the bridegroom with them, they cannot fast. ²⁰The days will come when the bridegroom is taken away from them, and then they will fast on that day.

²¹“No one sews a piece of unshrunk cloth on an old cloak; otherwise, the patch pulls away from it, the new from the old, and a worse tear is made. ²²And no one puts new wine into old wineskins; otherwise, the wine will burst the skins, and the wine is lost, and so are the skins; but one puts new wine into fresh wineskins.”^e

²³One sabbath he was going through the grainfields; and as they made their way his disciples began to pluck heads of grain. ²⁴The Pharisees said to him, “Look, why are they doing what is not lawful on the sabbath?” ²⁵And

he said to them, “Have you never read what David did when he and his companions were hungry and in need of food? ²⁶He entered the house of God, when Abiathar was high priest, and ate the bread of the Presence, which it is not lawful for any but the priests to eat, and he gave some to his companions.” ²⁷Then he said to them, “The sabbath was made for human-kind, and not humankind for the sabbath; ²⁸so the Son of Man is lord even of the sabbath.”

3 Again he entered the synagogue, and a man was there who had a withered hand. ²They watched him to see whether he would cure him on the sabbath, so that they might accuse him. ³And he said to the man who had the withered hand, “Come forward.” ⁴Then he said to them, “Is it lawful to do good or to do harm on the sabbath, to save life or to kill?” But they were silent. ⁵He looked around at them with anger; he was grieved at their hardness of heart and said to the man, “Stretch out your hand.” He stretched it out, and his hand was restored. ⁶The Pharisees went out and immediately conspired with the Herodians against him, how to destroy him.

^a Gk reclining

^b Other ancient authorities read and

^c Other ancient authorities add and drink

^d Gk they

^e Other ancient authorities lack but one puts new wine into fresh wineskins

2.18–22: Fasting (Mt 9.14–17; Lk 5.33–39). 19: A wedding feast, one of the principal times of celebration and feasting among peasants, was a traditional symbol of the future time of fulfillment, a time of justice and plenty; cf. Isa 62.5; Lk 17.22. 20: The bridegroom . . . taken away, after the crucifixion when Jesus, understood as the bridegroom, is gone. 21–22: With Jesus’ preaching and manifestation of the kingdom something new has come, calling for suspension of old forms such as fasting.

2.23–28: The sabbath and hunger (Mt 12.1–8; Lk 6.1–5). 23–24: The disciples’ action may have violated the Pharisees’ restrictions against travel as well as harvesting on the sabbath, meant to implement the fourth commandment (Ex 20.8–10). 25–26: Jesus’ reply summarizes a story about David commandeering food for his soldiers that appears in 1 Sam 21.1–6, in which Ahimelech, Abiathar’s father, is the priest (cf. 2 Sam 15.35). The point of the story: David’s men were hungry, a detail not found in 1 Sam 21. 27: Ex 23.12; Deut 5.14–15. 28: Son of Man, even more clearly than in 2.10, could mean either “human being,” in parallelism with “humankind” in v. 27, or the future Jesus as an exalted figure representing a renewed Israel.

3.1–6: Healing on the sabbath (Mt 12.9–14; Lk 6.6–11). 1: Synagogue, see 1.21–22n. 2–4: Having already performed an exorcism on the sabbath (1.22–27), Jesus now pointedly performs a healing on the sabbath in the presence of the Pharisees, who remain silent. 5: Juxtaposition of Jesus’ anger and grief at the Pharisees’ program and his compassion in curing the man’s withered hand. 6: In response to this and Jesus’ previous actions, the Pharisees conspire with the Herodians, representatives of Herod Antipas, the ruler of Galilee, to destroy him.

3.7–12: Summary of Jesus’ activity (Mt 4.24–25; 12.15–21; Lk 6.17–19; 4.41). A summary of Jesus’ program and

⁷ Jesus departed with his disciples to the sea, and a great multitude from Galilee followed him; ⁸ hearing all that he was doing, they came to him in great numbers from Judea, Jerusalem, Idumea, beyond the Jordan, and the region around Tyre and Sidon. ⁹ He told his disciples to have a boat ready for him because of the crowd, so that they would not crush him; ¹⁰ for he had cured many, so that all who had diseases pressed upon him to touch him. ¹¹ Whenever the unclean spirits saw him, they fell down before him and shouted, "You are the Son of God!" ¹² But he sternly ordered them not to make him known.

¹³ He went up the mountain and called to him those whom he wanted, and they came to him. ¹⁴ And he appointed twelve, whom he also named apostles,^a to be with him, and to be sent out to proclaim the message,¹⁵ and to have authority to cast out demons. ¹⁶ So he appointed the twelve:^b Simon (to whom he gave the name Peter); ¹⁷ James son of Zebedee and John the brother of James (to whom he gave the name Boanerges, that is, Sons of Thunder); ¹⁸ and Andrew, and Philip, and Bartholomew, and Matthew, and Thomas, and James son of Alphaeus, and Thaddaeus, and Simon the Cananaean, ¹⁹ and Judas Iscariot, who betrayed him.

Then he went home; ²⁰ and the crowd came together again, so that they could not even eat. ²¹ When his family heard it, they went out to restrain him, for people were saying, "He has gone out of his mind." ²² And the scribes who came down from Jerusalem said, "He has Beelzebul, and by the ruler of the demons he casts out demons." ²³ And he called them to him, and spoke to them in parables, "How can Satan cast out Satan? ²⁴ If a kingdom is divided against itself, that kingdom cannot stand. ²⁵ And if a house is divided against itself, that house will not be able to stand. ²⁶ And if Satan has risen up against himself and is divided, he cannot stand, but his end has come. ²⁷ But no one can enter a strong man's house and plunder his property without first tying up the strong man; then indeed the house can be plundered.

²⁸ "Truly I tell you, people will be forgiven for their sins and whatever blasphemies they utter; ²⁹ but whoever blasphemes against the Holy Spirit can never have forgiveness, but is guilty of an eternal sin"— ³⁰ for they had said, "He has an unclean spirit."

^a Other ancient authorities lack whom he also named apostles

^b Other ancient authorities lack So he appointed the twelve

the burgeoning response it evokes. 8: Peoples of Israelite heritage from all these areas flock to Jesus, indicating that a renewal of all Israel is happening. The region around indicates that they are mainly from rural villages. See map on p. 1800.

3.13–19a: Appointing the twelve (Mt 10.1–4; Lk 6.12–16). 13–14: Up the mountain . . . appointed twelve, suggests a new Sinai, on which Jesus is constituting a renewed Israel symbolized by the twelve. 14–15: The twelve are invested with the same proclamation (of the kingdom) and authority and power to exorcize demons as Jesus, an extension of his program.

3.19b–35: Defeat of Satan, and the new community (Mt 12.22–27; Lk 11.14–23; 12.10; 16.43–45). In a repeated narrative technique, Mark "sandwiches" one story into another. 21: To those who knew Jesus before he assumed the role of prophet or are concerned lest he be seized by the authorities, he appears to be out of his mind (cf. 6.1–3). 22–27: Both Jesus and the scribes (see 1.21–22n.) think that current personal and social-political life is caught in the struggle for dominion between God and Satan. 22: The threatened scribes attribute Jesus' power to demonic possession: He is a witch! Beelzebul, possibly "Lord of the (divine) house" (cf. Mt 10.25), or "Baal, the prince," originally a title of the Canaanite storm and fertility god (2 Kings 1.2), later demonized into the chief power of evil. 23: In parables, in extended metaphors or analogies; cf. 4.2,33. 24–26: A kingdom was thought of as a household on a large scale, and both kingdom and household were metaphors for God's and Satan's power or control. Jesus argues both that the scribes' charge is absurd and that even assuming they are right, Satan's rule is at an end. 27: By analogy, in his exorcism of demons Jesus (the "more powerful one," 1.7) has broken into Satan's house, tied up "the strong man," and "plundered his property." This further implies that God's is now the only kingdom left, by which Jesus is acting. 28–30: From Mark's viewpoint, attacks on Jesus during his mission can be forgiven, but not attacks against the Holy Spirit acting in his movement. 31–35: Not necessarily an attack on his family (but see v. 21), but rather an indication that within the Jesus-movement and its communi-

³¹Then his mother and his brothers came; and standing outside, they sent to him and called him. ³²A crowd was sitting around him; and they said to him, “Your mother and your brothers and sisters^a are outside, asking for you.” ³³And he replied, “Who are my mother and my brothers?” ³⁴And looking at those who sat around him, he said, “Here are my mother and my brothers! ³⁵Whoever does the will of God is my brother and sister and mother.”

4 Again he began to teach beside the sea. Such a very large crowd gathered around him that he got into a boat on the sea and sat there, while the whole crowd was beside the sea on the land. ²He began to teach them many things in parables, and in his teaching he said to them: ³“Listen! A sower went out to sow. ⁴And as he sowed, some seed fell on the path, and the birds came and ate it up. ⁵Other seed fell on rocky ground, where it did not have much soil, and it sprang up quickly, since it had no depth of soil. ⁶And when the sun rose, it was scorched; and since it had no root, it withered away. ⁷Other seed fell among thorns, and the thorns grew up and choked it, and it yielded no grain. ⁸Other seed fell into good soil and brought forth grain, growing up and increasing and yielding thirty and sixty and a hundredfold.” ⁹And he said, “Let anyone with ears to hear listen!”

¹⁰When he was alone, those who were around him along with the twelve asked him about the parables. ¹¹And he said to them, “To you has been given the secret^b of the kingdom of God, but for those outside, everything comes in parables; ¹²in order that

‘they may indeed look, but not perceive, and may indeed listen, but not understand; so that they may not turn again and be forgiven.’”

¹³And he said to them, “Do you not understand this parable? Then how will you understand all the parables? ¹⁴The sower sows the word. ¹⁵These are the ones on the path where the word is sown: when they hear, Satan immediately comes and takes away the word that is sown in them. ¹⁶And these are the ones sown on rocky ground: when they hear the word, they immediately receive it with joy. ¹⁷But they have no root, and endure only for a while; then, when trouble or persecution arises on account of the word, immediately they fall away.^c ¹⁸And others are those sown among the thorns: these are the ones who hear the word, ¹⁹but the cares of the world, and the lure of wealth, and the desire for other things come in and choke the word, and it yields nothing. ²⁰And these are the ones sown on the good soil: they hear the word and accept it and bear fruit, thirty and sixty and a hundredfold.”

²¹He said to them, “Is a lamp brought in to be put under the bushel basket, or under the bed, and not on the lampstand? ²²For there is nothing hidden, except to be disclosed; nor is anything secret, except to come to light. ²³Let anyone with ears to hear listen!” ²⁴And he said to them, “Pay attention to what you hear; the measure you give will be the measure you

^a Other ancient authorities lack and sisters

^b Or mystery

^c Or stumble

ties, those who do the will of God are Jesus’ and each others’ brother and sister and mother.

4.1–34: Teaching the mystery of the kingdom of God in parables (Mt 13; Lk 8.4–18; 13.18–21). 2: In parables, in extended metaphors or analogies. 3–8: Parable of the sower and the seeds. Despite all the obstacles, there is an amazing and unprecedented bumper crop (normal good yield was 7 to 1). 10: The rest of the teaching is directed to the twelve (3.16–19) and other members of the movement. 11–12: The secret of the kingdom of God, to them is disclosed the “mystery” or hidden plan of God (cf. Dan 2.28) for the fulfillment of history in the kingdom of God now being proclaimed and manifested. Since outsiders do not understand this “mystery” or “plan,” the parables are opaque to them, just as Isaiah’s contemporaries did not understand his prophecies (Isa 6.9–10). 13–20: Explains the parable of the sower allegorically, with each principal symbol of the analogy standing for some aspect of the listeners’ experiences of the effects of Jesus’ preaching of the kingdom—and corresponding to later episodes in Mark. 15: The struggle with Satan continues, as it also will in Peter’s misunderstanding in 8.29–33. 16–17: Cf. 9.42–48; 13.19,24; 14.27,29. 18–19: The lure of wealth, cf. 10.17–22,25. 21–23: These sayings repeat and reinforce the message of 4.3–10,20; the kingdom, hidden now, will come to light. 24–25: These sayings make most sense as a warning not to accept any cynical “realistic” advice that the established power-relations get, and still more will be given you.²⁵ For to those who have, more will be given; and from those who have nothing, even what they have will be taken away.”

²⁶ He also said, “The kingdom of God is as if someone would scatter seed on the ground,²⁷ and would sleep and rise night and day, and the seed would sprout and grow, he does not know how.²⁸ The earth produces of itself, first the stalk, then the head, then the full grain in the head.²⁹ But when the grain is ripe, at once he goes in with his sickle, because the harvest has come.”

³⁰ He also said, “With what can we compare the kingdom of God, or what parable will we use for it?³¹ It is like a mustard seed, which, when sown upon the ground, is the smallest of all the seeds on earth;³² yet when it is sown it grows up and becomes the greatest of all shrubs, and puts forth large branches, so that the birds of the air can make nests in its shade.”

³³ With many such parables he spoke the word to them, as they were able to hear it;³⁴ he did not speak to them except in parables, but he explained everything in private to his disciples.

³⁵ On that day, when evening had come, he said to them, “Let us go across to the other side.”³⁶ And leaving the crowd behind, they took him with them in the boat, just as he was. Other boats were with him.³⁷ A great wind-storm arose, and the waves beat into the boat, so that the boat was already being swamped.

³⁸ But he was in the stern, asleep on the cushion; and they woke him up and said to him, “Teacher, do you not care that we are perishing?”³⁹ He woke up and rebuked the wind, and said to the sea, “Peace! Be still!” Then the wind ceased, and there was a dead calm.⁴⁰ He said to them, “Why are you afraid? Have you still no faith?”⁴¹ And they were filled with great awe and said to one another, “Who then is this, that even the wind and the sea obey him?”

5 They came to the other side of the sea, to the country of the Gerasenes.^{a 2} And when he had stepped out of the boat, immediately a man out of the tombs with an unclean spirit met him.³ He lived among the tombs; and no one could restrain him any more, even with a chain;⁴ for he had often been restrained with shackles and chains, but the chains he wrenched apart, and the shackles he broke in pieces; and no one had the strength to subdue him.⁵ Night and day among the tombs and on the mountains he was always howling and bruising himself with stones.⁶ When he saw Jesus from a distance, he ran and bowed down before him;⁷ and he shouted at the top of his voice, “What have you to do with me, Jesus, Son of the Most High God? I adjure you by God, do not torment me.”⁸ For he had said to him, “Come out of the man, you unclean spirit!”⁹ Then Jesus^b asked him, “What is your

^a Other ancient authorities read Gergesenes; others, Gadarenes

^b Gk he will inevitably continue. 26–29: The kingdom of God will surely come to full fruition, just as the seed inevitably sprouts, grows, and produces a harvest (cf. Joel 3.13). 30–32: The climax of the process by which the kingdom of God is growing is like the tiniest seed producing a large bush that provides homes for the birds. Note the modest metaphor, in contrast with the imperial metaphor of the cedar tree in Ezek 17; 31; Dan 4.

4.35–8.21: Continuing the prophetic renewal of Israel (and other peoples) despite opposition and the disciples’ misunderstanding. This section is organized around two sequences of Moses- and Elijah-like sea crossings, exorcisms, healings, and wilderness feedings.

4.35–41: First sea crossing (Mt 8.18, 23–27; Lk 8.22–25; cf. Mk 6.45–52). Emphasis falls on the disciples’ lack of faith and their great awe . . . “that even the wind and the sea obey him.” Control of the sea is a divine characteristic (e.g., Job 26.12; 38.8–11; see Ps 89.9; cf. Ps 89.25).

5.1–20: Exorcism of the demon whose name is “Legion” (Mt 8.28–34; Lk 8.26–39). This is the most embellished such episode in Mark. 1: The territory of the city of Gerasa (modern Jerash) was in central Transjordan; its population was largely non-Jewish. Mt 8.28 situates this event in Gadara, southeast of the Sea of Galilee, a setting that better fits the narrative. 2–5: The man’s possession by the alien force generated such violence that his community had not been able to restrain him, even with chains. 7: Most High God is not an Israelite but a Hellenistic name, found mainly in Luke-Acts. 9: Once the unclean spirit is cast out, it is possible to find name?” He replied, “My name is Legion; for we are many.”¹⁰ He begged him earnestly not to send them out of the country.¹¹ Now there on the hillside a great herd of swine was feeding;¹² and the unclean spirits^a begged him, “Send us into the swine; let us enter them.”¹³ So he gave them permission. And the unclean spirits came out and entered the swine; and the herd, numbering about two thousand, rushed down the steep bank into the sea, and were drowned in the sea.

The geography of the Gospel of Mark.

¹⁴The swineherds ran off and told it in the city and in the country. Then people came to see what it was that had happened.¹⁵ They came to Jesus and saw the demoniac sitting there, clothed and in his right mind, the very man who had had the legion; and they were afraid.¹⁶ Those who had seen what had happened to the demoniac and to the swine reported it.¹⁷ Then they began to beg Jesus^b to leave their neighborhood.¹⁸ As he was getting into the boat, the man who had been possessed by demons begged him that he might be with him.¹⁹ But Jesus^c refused, and said to him, “Go home to your friends, and tell them how much the Lord has done for you, and what mercy he has shown you.”²⁰ And he went away and began to proclaim in the Decapolis how much Jesus had done for him; and everyone was amazed.

²¹When Jesus had crossed again in the boat^d to the other side, a great crowd gathered around him; and he was by the sea.

²²Then one of the leaders of the synagogue named Jairus came and, when he saw him, fell at his feet²³ and begged him repeatedly, “My little daughter is at the point of death. Come and lay your hands on her, so that she may be made well, and live.”²⁴ So he went with him.

And a large crowd followed him and pressed in on him.²⁵ Now there was a woman who had been suffering from hemorrhages for twelve years.²⁶ She had endured much under many physicians, and had spent all that she had; and she was no better, but rather grew worse.²⁷ She had heard about Jesus, and came up behind him in the crowd and touched his cloak,²⁸ for she said, “If I but touch his clothes, I will be made well.”²⁹ Immediately her hemorrhage stopped; and she felt in her body that she was healed of her disease.³⁰ Immediately aware that power had gone forth from him, Jesus turned about in the crowd and said, “Who touched my clothes?”³¹ And his disciples said to him, “You see the crowd pressing in on you; how can you say, ‘Who touched me?’”³² He looked all around to see who had done it.³³ But the woman, knowing what had happened to her, came in fear and trembling, fell down before him, and told him the whole truth.³⁴ He said to her, “Daughter, your faith has made you well; go in peace, and be healed of your disease.”

^a Gk they

^b Gk him

^c Gk he

^d Other ancient authorities lack in the boat

out its identity. A legion was a division (usually consisting of about five or six thousand troops) of the Roman military, who had conquered and, in effect, still occupied the country. 11–13: Having entered the herd of pigs (which Jews were not permitted to eat, Lev 11.7; Deut 14.8), the Roman “legion” of unclean spirits, in a military image, charged into the sea and were destroyed, alluding to the destruction of Pharaoh’s army in Israel’s Exodus deliverance (Ex 15.4). Cf. the image of the (Temple-) mount “thrown into the sea,” 11.23. 14–17: The people were apprehensive that Jesus had disrupted their delicately balanced adjustment to the alien possession. 20: The liberated man carried the good news about Jesus’ actions into the wider Decapolis, the district of “ten cities” in the Jordan valley and in Transjordan. They were Hellenistic in character, with a largely non-Israelite population.

5.21–43: Healings of Jairus’s daughter and the hemorrhaging woman (Mt 9.18–26; Lk 8.40–56). Again (see 3.19b–25) Mark has “sandwiched” one story into another. The healings of both the woman who had been hemorrhaging for twelve years and the almost dead twelve-year-old woman are also symbolic of Jesus’ renewal of Israel. 22: Leaders of the synagogue, i.e., of the village assembly. 25–26: The woman is poverty-stricken from the worsening hemorrhaging that no physicians could stop. According to the official Jerusalem purity code (Lev 15.25–30), she would have been “unclean.” It is doubtful that this code affected village life. The story itself does not mention ritual purity. 27–33: The initiative and action are entirely hers, Jesus being the passive conduit through which the healing power goes forth. 34: Her confidence that she would be healed is a paradigm of trust

³⁵ While he was still speaking, some people came from the leader's house to say, "Your daughter is dead. Why trouble the teacher any further?" ³⁶ But overhearing^a what they said, Jesus said to the leader of the synagogue, "Do not fear, only believe." ³⁷ He allowed no one to follow him except Peter, James, and John, the brother of James. ³⁸ When they came to the house of the leader of the synagogue, he saw a commotion, people weeping and wailing loudly. ³⁹ When he had entered, he said to them, "Why do you make a commotion and weep? The child is not dead but sleeping." ⁴⁰ And they laughed at him. Then he put them all outside, and took the child's father and mother and those who were with him, and went in where the child was. ⁴¹ He took her by the hand and said to her, "Talitha cum," which means, "Little girl, get up!" ⁴² And immediately the girl got up and began to walk about (she was twelve years of age). At this they were overcome with amazement. ⁴³ He strictly ordered them that no one should know this, and told them to give her something to eat.

6 He left that place and came to his hometown, and his disciples followed him. ² On the sabbath he began to teach in the synagogue, and many who heard him were astounded. They said, "Where did this man get all this? What is this wisdom that has been given to him? What deeds of power are being done by his hands! ³ Is not this the carpenter, the son of Mary^b and brother of James and Joses and Judas and Simon, and are not his sisters here with us?" And they took offense^c at him. ⁴ Then Jesus said to them, "Prophets are not without honor, except in their hometown, and among their own kin, and in their own house." ⁵ And he could do no deed of power there, except that he laid his hands on a few sick people and cured them. ⁶ And he was amazed at their unbelief.

Then he went about among the villages teaching. ⁷ He called the twelve and began to send them out two by two, and gave them authority over the unclean spirits. ⁸ He ordered them to take nothing for their journey except a staff; no bread, no bag, no money in their belts; ⁹ but to wear sandals and not to put on two tunics. ¹⁰ He said to them, "Wherever you enter a house, stay there until you leave the place. ¹¹ If any place will not welcome you and they refuse to hear you, as you leave, shake off the dust that is on your feet as a testimony against them." ¹² So they went out and proclaimed that all should repent. ¹³ They cast out many demons, and anointed with oil many who were sick and cured them.

¹⁴ King Herod heard of it, for Jesus^d name had become known. Some were^e saying, "John the baptizer has been raised from the dead; and for this reason these powers are at work in him." ¹⁵ But others said, "It is Elijah." And others said, "It is a prophet, like one of the prophets of old." ¹⁶ But when Herod heard of it, he said, "John, whom I beheaded, has been raised."

^a Or ignoring; other ancient authorities read hearing

^b Other ancient authorities read son of the carpenter and of Mary

^c Or stumbled

^d Gk his

^e Other ancient authorities read He was

(faith) in the renewal that is happening through Jesus. 41: The phrase talitha cum is Aramaic; cf. 7.34; 14.36; 15.34.

42: The young woman, at twelve approaching marriage, appears to be dead, yet Jesus restores her to life and, presumably, the ability to reproduce new life in and of Israel.

6.1–6a: Rejection in his hometown (Mt. 13.53–58; Lk 4.16–30). Those who knew Jesus from his early years, before he was called into service as a prophet mediating extraordinary powers, cannot respond in faith as others can; cf. 3.21. 5: The powers that work through such a prophet are dependent on people's positive response with faith.

6.6b–13: Commissioning the twelve (Mt 10.1,9–11,14; Lk 9.1–6; cf. Lk 10.2–16). Jesus commissions the twelve, appointed as symbolic heads of the renewed Israel in 3.13–19, to expand his mission of proclamation, exorcism, and healing. They work in villages, staying in sympathetic households, building the renewal movement.

6.14–29: Herod's execution of John (Mt 14.1–12; Lk 9.7–9). 14–16: Herod, Antipas, son of Herod the Great, technically appointed tetrarch, but popularly known as "King," ruled Galilee and part of Transjordan 4 BCE–39 CE. Clearly people were responding to and identifying Jesus out of their cultivation of popular tradition as "Elijah" or "one of the prophets." Herod, however, is anxiously superstitious because he had beheaded John.

¹⁷ For Herod himself had sent men who arrested John, bound him, and put him in prison on account of Herodias, his brother Philip's wife, because Herod^a had married her. ¹⁸ For John had been telling Herod, "It is not lawful for you to have your brother's wife." ¹⁹ And Herodias had a grudge against him, and wanted to kill him. But she could not, ²⁰ for Herod feared John, knowing that he was a righteous and holy man, and he protected him. When he heard him, he was greatly perplexed;^b and yet he liked to listen to him. ²¹ But an opportunity came when Herod on his birthday gave a banquet for his courtiers and officers and for the leaders of Galilee. ²² When his daughter Herodias^c came in and danced, she pleased Herod and his guests; and the king said to the girl, "Ask me for whatever you wish, and I will give it." ²³ And he solemnly swore to her, "Whatever you ask me, I will give you, even half of my kingdom." ²⁴ She went out and said to her mother, "What should I ask for?" She replied, "The head of John the baptizer." ²⁵ Immediately she rushed back to the king and requested, "I want you to give me at once the head of John the Baptist on a platter." ²⁶ The king was deeply grieved; yet out of regard for his oaths and for the guests, he did not want to refuse her. ²⁷ Immediately the king sent a soldier of the guard with orders to bring John's^d head. He went and beheaded him in the prison, ²⁸ brought his head on a platter, and gave it to the girl. Then the girl gave it to her mother. ²⁹ When his disciples heard about it, they came and took his body, and laid it in a tomb.

³⁰ The apostles gathered around Jesus, and told him all that they had done and taught. ³¹ He said to them, "Come away to a deserted place all by yourselves and rest a while." For many were coming and going, and they had no leisure even to eat. ³² And they went away in the boat to a deserted place by themselves. ³³ Now many saw them going and recognized them, and they hurried there on foot from all the towns and arrived ahead of them. ³⁴ As he went ashore, he saw a great crowd; and he had compassion for them, because they were like sheep without a shepherd; and he began to teach them many things. ³⁵ When it grew late, his disciples came to him and said, "This is a deserted place, and the hour is now very late; ³⁶ send them away so that they may go into the surrounding country and villages and buy something for themselves to eat." ³⁷ But he answered them, "You give them something to eat." They said to him, "Are we to go and buy two hundred denarii^e worth of bread, and give it to them to eat?" ³⁸ And he said to them, "How many loaves have you? Go and

^a Gk he

^b Other ancient authorities read he did many things

^c Other ancient authorities read the daughter of Herodias herself

^d Gk his

^e The denarius was the usual day's wage for a laborer

17–29: A popular tale of the decadent life at Herod's court and of the gruesome beheading of John that sounds an ominous note for Jesus' prophetic renewal of Israel over against the king appointed by Rome. 17–18: Royal marriages were instruments of international politics. John's prophecy against Herod Antipas's marriage to his brother's wife, which was illegal (Lev 18.16; 20.21) and which alienated the Nabatean king Aretas IV, father of his first wife, was politically incendiary (see Josephus, J.W. 2.182; Ant. 18.240–44). 19–20: Herod's and Herodias's respective feelings about John are reminiscent of Ahab's and Jezebel's stances toward Elijah in 1 Kings 18–19, 21. 21: Leaders, better "the first ones," i.e., high-ranking officials at court. 22: His daughter, called Salome by Josephus (Ant. 18.5.136). 29: John also had disciples, and perhaps headed a prophetic movement parallel to that of Jesus.

6.30–44: Wilderness feeding of five thousand (Mt 14.13–21; Lk 9.10–17; Jn 6.1–13; cf. Mk 8.1–10). First of two wilderness feedings reminiscent of God's feeding early Israel in the wilderness through Moses (Ex 16; Num 11). 30–33: In need of a temporary retreat from the rigors of their mission, Jesus and his apostles withdraw, but hordes of people clamor to them even in the wilderness. 34: Sheep without a shepherd, a frequent image for a people without a prophet or king to lead them (see Num 27.17; 1 Kings 22.17; Ezek 34.8; Zech 10.2). Coming right after Herod's execution of John, it also alludes to the prophetic tradition of political criticism of predatory and exploitative kings who become rich by "fleeing" rather than caring for their people (see Ezek 34.2–5; Zech 11.4–17). 35–37: The disciples' suggestion and protest both represent a misunderstanding of Jesus' program. That the villagers could no longer feed themselves from their own produce and had to become laborers to earn see.” When they had found out, they said, “Five, and two fish.”³⁹ Then he ordered them to get all the people to sit down in groups on the green grass.⁴⁰ So they sat down in groups of hundreds and of fifties.⁴¹ Taking the five loaves and the two fish, he looked up to heaven, and blessed and broke the loaves, and gave them to his disciples to set before the people; and he divided the two fish among them all.⁴² And all ate and were filled;⁴³ and they took up twelve baskets full of broken pieces and of the fish.⁴⁴ Those who had eaten the loaves numbered five thousand men.

⁴⁵ Immediately he made his disciples get into the boat and go on ahead to the other side, to Bethsaida, while he dismissed the crowd.⁴⁶ After saying farewell to them, he went up on the mountain to pray.

⁴⁷ When evening came, the boat was out on the sea, and he was alone on the land.⁴⁸ When he saw that they were straining at the oars against an adverse wind, he came towards them early in the morning, walking on the sea. He intended to pass them by.⁴⁹ But when they saw him walking on the sea, they thought it was a ghost and cried out;⁵⁰ for they all saw him and were terrified. But immediately he spoke to them and said, “Take heart, it is I; do not be afraid.”⁵¹ Then he got into the boat with them and the wind ceased. And they were utterly astounded,⁵² for they did not understand about the loaves, but their hearts were hardened.

⁵³ When they had crossed over, they came to land at Gennesaret and moored the boat.⁵⁴ When they got out of the boat, people at once recognized him,⁵⁵ and rushed about that whole region and began to bring the sick on mats to wherever they heard he was.⁵⁶ And wherever he went, into villages or cities or farms, they laid the sick in the marketplaces, and begged him that they might touch even the fringe of his cloak; and all who touched it were healed.

7 Now when the Pharisees and some of the scribes who had come from Jerusalem gathered around him,² they noticed that some of his disciples were eating with defiled hands, that is, without washing them.³ (For the Pharisees, and all the Jews, do not eat unless they thoroughly wash their hands,^a thus observing the tradition of the elders;⁴ and they do not eat anything from the market unless they wash it;^b and there are also many other traditions that they observe, the washing of cups, pots, and bronze kettles.^c)⁵ So the Pharisees and the scribes asked him, “Why do your disciples not live^d according to the tradition of the elders, but eat with defiled hands?”⁶ He said to them, “Isaiah

^a Meaning of Gk uncertain

^b Other ancient authorities read and when they come from the marketplace, they do not eat unless they purify themselves

^c Other ancient authorities add and beds

^d Gk walk

money to buy food is just the problem! 38–44: One of the dreams of peasants, who are always economically marginal and therefore hungry, is a future good time when food is plentiful (cf. Lk 6.20–21). Both the multiplication of the food and the twelve baskets left over suggest that this story is reminiscent of Elijah-Elisha stories of feeding in times of famine (e.g., 2 Kings 4.42–44) and of their restoration of Israel symbolized in its twelve tribes. 39–40: Groups of hundreds and fifties are an allusion to Moses’ organization of Israel following the Exodus (Ex 18.21–25). 41: Christian readers usually find eucharistic overtones in Jesus’ blessing and breaking of the loaves (cf. 14.22).

6.45–52: Second sea crossing (Mt 14.22–33; Jn 6.15–21; cf. Mk 4.35–41). 45: Bethsaida, a village at the north of the Sea of Galilee, transformed into a small “city” by Herod Philip. 47–52: Again the disciples are terrified, not only at the wind but also at the apparition. 50: Mark compares Jesus to God, using the phrase “I am” (Gk “ego eimi,” NRSV: “It is I”; cf. Ex 3.14). 51–52: Yet the disciples not only lack faith, as in 4.40, but their hearts were hardened, as had occurred with enemies of God in earlier times (e.g., Ex 7.3,14; Deut 2.30; Josh 11.20; 1 Sam 6.6).

6.53–56: A summary passage highlighting the widening response to Jesus. Mt 14.34–36. 56: His cloak . . . were healed, cf. 5.25–34.

7.1–23: Traditions of the elders vs. the commandment of God (Mt 15.1–20). 1–5: As representatives of the Jerusalem Temple, the political-economic as well as religious capital of Judea, the Pharisees and scribes cultivated oral tradition of the elders supplementary to the law of Moses, in this story focused on purity codes for processing and eating food. 3–4: The parenthetical explanation claims that “all the Judeans/NRSV “all the prophesied rightly about you hypocrites, as it is written,

“This people honors me with their lips,
but their hearts are far from me;

⁷ In vain do they worship me, teaching human precepts as doctrines.’

⁸ You abandon the commandment of God and hold to human tradition.”

⁹ Then he said to them, “You have a fine way of rejecting the commandment of God in order to keep your tradition!¹⁰ For Moses said, ‘Honor your father and your mother’; and, ‘Whoever speaks evil of father or mother must surely die.’¹¹ But you say that if anyone tells father or mother, ‘Whatever support you might have had from me is Corban’ (that is, an offering to God^a)—¹² then you no longer permit doing anything for a father or mother,¹³ thus making void the word of God through your tradition that you have handed on. And you do many things like this.”

¹⁴ Then he called the crowd again and said to them, “Listen to me, all of you, and understand:¹⁵ there is nothing outside a person that by going in can defile, but the things that come out are what defile.”^b

¹⁷ When he had left the crowd and entered the house, his disciples asked him about the parable.¹⁸ He said to them, “Then do you also fail to understand? Do you not see that whatever goes into a person from outside cannot defile,¹⁹ since it enters, not the heart but the stomach, and goes out into the sewer?” (Thus he declared all foods clean.)²⁰ And he said,

“It is what comes out of a person that defiles.²¹ For it is from within, from the human heart, that evil intentions come: fornication, theft, murder,²² adultery, avarice, wickedness, deceit, licentiousness, envy, slander, pride, folly.²³ All these evil things come from within, and they defile a person.”

²⁴ From there he set out and went away to the region of Tyre.^c He entered a house and did not want anyone to know he was there. Yet he could not escape notice,²⁵ but a woman whose little daughter had an unclean spirit immediately heard about him, and she came and bowed down at his feet.²⁶ Now the woman was a Gentile, of Syrophenician origin. She begged him to cast the demon out of her daughter.

²⁷ He said to her, “Let the children be fed first, for it is not fair to take the children’s food and throw it to the dogs.”²⁸ But she answered him, “Sir,^d even the dogs under the table eat the children’s crumbs.”²⁹ Then he said to her, “For saying that, you may go—the demon has left your daughter.”³⁰ So she went home, found the child lying on the bed, and the demon gone.

³¹ Then he returned from the region of Tyre, and went by way of Sidon towards the Sea of Galilee, in the region of the Decapo-

^a Gk lacks to God

^b Other ancient authorities add verse 16, “Let anyone with ears to hear listen”

^c Other ancient authorities add and Sidon

^d Or Lord; other ancient authorities prefix Yes

Jews”), not just the Pharisees, observed their hand-washing regulations. 6–8: In reply, quoting Isa 29.13 (LXX), Jesus claims that the Pharisees in effect replace the basic covenantal commandment of God with their merely human tradition. 9–13: Jesus focuses the dispute in concrete terms on the commandment of God concerning Honor your father and your mother (cf. Ex 20.12; 21.17), which includes economic support in their declining years. He claims that the Pharisees make it void with their tradition of Corban, encouraging people to dedicate the produce of their land to the Jerusalem Temple—thus siphoning off produce that otherwise could have been used to support parents. Corban is an Aramaic word meaning “offering dedicated (to God).” 14–19a: Addresses purity codes with a touch of earthy humor regarding eating and resultant bodily functions. 17: Parable here has the sense of “riddle.” 19b: Perhaps a later addition to the text. 20–23: Shifts the focus from bodily functions to the inner motivations of “defiling,” socially destructive behavior.

7.24–30: The Syrophenician woman (Mt 15.21–28). 24–26: In the region of Tyre, not in the city itself, a “Greek” woman intrudes with her plea on behalf of her possessed daughter. 27–28: To Jesus’ insistence that the manifestation of the kingdom (food) is primarily for Israelites (children), she gives a reply that wins the debate. 29–30: The representative figure of the peoples surrounding Israel insists on receiving the benefits of the kingdom, and her insistence produces precisely that.

7.31–37: Healing the deaf (Mt 15.29–31). Healing the deaf-mute, which is symbolic of a more general restoration of hearing and speech, confirms that the kingdom of God and the movement of renewal has extended to lis.³² They brought to him a deaf man who had an impediment in his speech; and they begged him to lay his hand on him.³³ He took him aside in private, away from the crowd, and put his fingers into his ears, and he spat and touched his tongue.³⁴ Then looking up to heaven, he sighed and said to him, “Ephphatha,” that is, “Be opened.”³⁵ And immediately his ears were opened, his tongue was released, and he spoke plainly.³⁶ Then Jesus^a ordered them to tell no one; but the more he ordered them, the more zealously they proclaimed it.³⁷ They were astounded beyond measure, saying, “He has done everything well; he even makes the deaf to hear and the mute to speak.”

8 In those days when there was again a great crowd without anything to eat, he called his disciples and said to them,² “I have compassion for the crowd, because they have been with me now for three days and have nothing to eat.³ If I send them away hungry to their homes, they will faint on the way—and some of them have come from a great distance.”⁴ His disciples replied, “How can one feed these people with bread here in the desert?”⁵ He asked them, “How many loaves do you have?” They said, “Seven.”⁶ Then he ordered the crowd to sit down on the ground; and he took the seven loaves, and after giving thanks he broke them and gave them to his disciples to distribute; and they distributed them to the crowd.⁷ They had also a few small fish; and after blessing them, he ordered that these too should be distributed.⁸ They ate and were filled; and they took up the broken pieces left over, seven baskets full.⁹ Now there were about four thousand people. And he sent them away.¹⁰ And immediately he got into the boat with his disciples and went to the district of Dalmanutha.^b

¹¹ The Pharisees came and began to argue with him, asking him for a sign from heaven, to test him.¹² And he sighed deeply in his spirit and said, “Why does this generation ask for a sign? Truly I tell you, no sign will be given to this generation.”¹³ And he left them, and getting into the boat again, he went across to the other side.

¹⁴ Now the disciples^c had forgotten to bring any bread; and they had only one loaf with them in the boat.¹⁵ And he cautioned them, saying, “Watch out—beware of the yeast of the Pharisees and the yeast of Herod.”^d¹⁶ They said to one another, “It is because we have no bread.”¹⁷ And becoming aware of it, Jesus said to them, “Why are you talking about having no bread? Do you still not perceive or understand? Are your hearts hardened?¹⁸ Do you have eyes, and fail to see? Do you have ears, and fail to hear? And do you not remember?¹⁹ When I broke the five loaves for the five thousand, how many baskets full of broken pieces did you collect?” They said to him, “Twelve.”²⁰ “And the seven for the four thousand, how many baskets full of broken pieces did you collect?” And they said to him, “Seven.”²¹ Then he said to them, “Do you not yet understand?”

^a Gk he

^b Other ancient authorities read Mageda or Magdala

^c Gk they

^d Other ancient authorities read the Herodians

the peoples round about Israel. 34: The word ephphatha is Aramaic; see 5.41n.

8.1–9: Wilderness feeding of four thousand (Mt 15.32–38; cf. Mk 6.30–44). As he had fed the earlier crowd in the wilderness, implicitly composed of Israelites, now Jesus also feeds the surrounding peoples in the wilderness. Seven is symbolic of the surrounding peoples, as twelve was of Israel (6.43). The two wilderness feedings echo the two accounts of the giving of food to the Israelites in the wilderness (Ex 16; Num 11).

8.10–12: No sign will be given (Mt 16.1–4; 12.28–39; Lk 11.29; 11.16; 12.54–56). This passage would make better sense if v. 10 were in one paragraph with vv. 11–12, and v. 13 were joined to the following paragraph (vv. 14–21). Blind to the sequences of Moses- and Elijah-like actions Jesus has just taken, the Pharisees again press Jesus, asking for a sign from heaven, to test him, which they do again in 10.2 and 12.15. 10: Dalmanutha, the parallel in Mt 15.39 reads “Magadan” (see note there).

8.13–21: The disciples misunderstand (Mt 16.4–12; Lk 12.1). In a bridge to the next section, the disciples simply do not understand what is happening, either the scheming of the religious and political authorities seeking to destroy Jesus (cf. 3.6) or the renewal movement underway among the surrounding peoples as well as among Israelite villages. 17–18: 4.9–12; 6.52. 19: 6.41–44. 20: 8.5–8.

²²They came to Bethsaida. Some people^a brought a blind man to him and begged him to touch him. ²³He took the blind man by the hand and led him out of the village; and when he had put saliva on his eyes and laid his hands on him, he asked him, “Can you see anything?” ²⁴And the man^b looked up and said, “I can see people, but they look like trees, walking.” ²⁵Then Jesus^b laid his hands on his eyes again; and he looked intently and his sight was restored, and he saw everything clearly. ²⁶Then he sent him away to his home, saying, “Do not even go into the village.”^c

²⁷Jesus went on with his disciples to the villages of Caesarea Philippi; and on the way he asked his disciples, “Who do people say that I am?” ²⁸And they answered him, “John the Baptist; and others, Elijah; and still others, one of the prophets.” ²⁹He asked them, “But who do you say that I am?” Peter answered him, “You are the Messiah.”^d ³⁰And he sternly ordered them not to tell anyone about him.

³¹Then he began to teach them that the Son of Man must undergo great suffering, and be rejected by the elders, the chief priests, and the scribes, and be killed, and after three days rise again. ³²He said all this quite openly. And Peter took him aside and began to rebuke him. ³³But turning and looking at his disciples, he rebuked Peter and said, “Get behind me, Satan! For you are setting your mind not on divine things but on human things.”

³⁴He called the crowd with his disciples, and said to them, “If any want to become my followers, let them deny themselves and take up their cross and follow me. ³⁵For those who want to save their life will lose it, and those who lose their life for my sake, and for the sake of the gospel,^e will save it. ³⁶For what will it profit them to gain the whole world and forfeit their life? ³⁷Indeed, what can they give in return for their life? ³⁸Those who are ashamed of me and of my words^f in this adulterous and sinful generation, of them the Son of Man will also be ashamed

^a Gk They

^b Gk he

^c Other ancient authorities add or tell anyone in the village

^d Or the Christ

^e Other ancient authorities read lose their life for the sake of the gospel

^f Other ancient authorities read and of mine

8.22–10.52: Jesus confirms and continues his prophetic role in the renewal of Israel while announcing his agenda as martyr-messiah to the misunderstanding disciples.

8.22–26: Healing of a blind man (Jn 9.1–7). This restoration of a blind man's sight and that of Bartimaeus in 10.46–52 frame this part of Mark in which the disciples are “blind” to what is said and done.

8.27–33: Jesus' first announcement and Peter's misunderstanding (Mt 16.13–23; Lk 9.18–22). 27: The villages of Caesarea Philippi, villages subject to Herod Philip in the northernmost area of (formerly) Israelite territory. 28: Again, not surprisingly given his program, Jesus is popularly understood as Elijah, one of the prophets, or even John. 29–30: There is very little evidence for expectations of “the messiah,” which was hardly standardized at the time. The role and title the Messiah would fit Jesus' subsequent actions (e.g., in 11.2–10) and statements about him, but not his previous actions in Mark. 31: The translation softens a key Greek term: “it is necessary that . . .,” i.e., in God's plan, given the historical situation. The Son of Man, meaning “human being” or the future figure representing a restored Israel, or both (see 2.10n.), is clearly Jesus' self-reference. This is the first of three clear announcements that “it is necessary” that he be condemned by the rulers, be killed, and rise again (see 9.31–32; 10.32–34). 32–33: Following Peter's rebuke (presumably about having to be killed), Jesus in turn rebukes Peter in startling terms, contrasting the purpose or will of God for human beings with the purposes those human beings would have for themselves. Jesus will be a martyr-messiah.

8.34–9.1: The cost of following Jesus (Mt 16.24–28; Lk 9.23–27; cf. Mt 10.28–33; Lk 12.4–9). Pointedly telling the crowd to join the disciples, Jesus warns that, like himself, his followers must also be prepared to suffer martyrdom for the gospel, the cause of the kingdom. 34: Take up their cross, the Romans used crucifixion as a gruesome means of terrorizing subject peoples by hanging rebels and agitators from crosses for several days until they suffocated to death. They required condemned provincials to carry the crossbeam on which they were about to be hung. 38: How the followers stand toward Jesus and his gospel when facing trial will determine how the Son of Man will stand toward them when, in God's final condemnation of the oppressive empire, when he comes in the glory of his Father with the holy angels.”¹ And he said to them, “Truly I tell you, there are some standing here who will not taste death until they see that the kingdom of God has come with^a power.”

² Six days later, Jesus took with him Peter and James and John, and led them up a high mountain apart, by themselves. And he was transfigured before them,³ and his clothes became dazzling white, such as no one^b on earth could bleach them.⁴ And there appeared to them Elijah with Moses, who were talking with Jesus.⁵ Then Peter said to Jesus, “Rabbi, it is good for us to be here; let us make three dwellings,^c one for you, one for Moses, and one for Elijah.”⁶ He did not know what to say, for they were terrified.⁷ Then a cloud overshadowed them, and from the cloud there came a voice, “This is my Son, the Beloved;^d listen to him!”⁸ Suddenly when they looked around, they saw no one with them any more, but only Jesus.

⁹ As they were coming down the mountain, he ordered them to tell no one about what they had seen, until after the Son of Man had risen from the dead.¹⁰ So they kept the matter to themselves, questioning what this rising from the dead could mean.¹¹ Then they asked him, “Why do the scribes say that Elijah must come first?”¹² He said to them, “Elijah is indeed coming first to restore all things. How then is it written about the Son of Man, that he is to go through many sufferings and be treated with contempt?”¹³ But I tell you that Elijah has come, and they did to him whatever they pleased, as it is written about him.”

¹⁴ When they came to the disciples, they saw a great crowd around them, and some scribes arguing with them.¹⁵ When the whole crowd saw him, they were immediately overcome with awe, and they ran forward to greet him.¹⁶ He asked them, “What are you arguing about with them?”¹⁷ Someone from the crowd answered him, “Teacher, I brought you my son; he has a spirit that makes him unable to speak;¹⁸ and whenever it seizes him, it dashes him down; and he foams and grinds his teeth and becomes rigid; and I asked your disciples to cast it out, but they could not do so.”¹⁹ He answered them, “You faithless generation, how much longer must I be among you? How much longer must I put up with you? Bring him to me.”²⁰ And they brought the boy^e to him. When the spirit saw him, immediately it convulsed the boy,^e and he fell on the ground and rolled about, foaming at the mouth.²¹ Jesus^f asked the father, “How long has this been happening to him?”

^a Or in

^b Gk no fuller

^c Or tents

^d Or my beloved Son

^e Gk him

^f Gk He

he comes in judgment as well as restoration of the people (cf. Mk 13.26–27; 14.62; Dan 7.13–14). 9.1: The kingdom of God will come with power already during their lifetime.

9.2–8: Transfiguration of Jesus (Mt 17.1–8; Lk 9.28–36). 2–4: The mountain setting is reminiscent of Moses and the elders of Israel on Sinai (Ex 24). Transfigured . . . dazzling white, in the disciples’ visionary experience, Jesus appears as a vindicated martyr (see Dan 11.36; Rev 3.5,18; 4.4; 6.9–11; 7.9,13–14), linked to what he had just told the disciples in 8.31. With him are Elijah and Moses, the prophetic restorer and founder of Israel, respectively, whose great actions of deliverance Jesus’ actions, just performed in 4.35–8.26, resemble. 5–6: Peter, mystified and terrified, addresses Jesus not as “messiah,” but as Rabbi, as he does again in 11.21 when he is again mystified, and as Judas does in his betrayal, 14.45. 7: Now Peter, James, and John hear the same voice that Jesus heard at his baptism in 1.11.

9.9–13: Correction of scribal teaching about Elijah (Mt 17.9–13). 9–11: The disciples, still not understanding the necessity of his martyrdom, remain oriented toward the teachings of the Jerusalem scribes, as in Sir 48.10 (cf. Mal 4.4–5). 12–13: First pointing to the obvious contradiction between the official scribal teaching and what he has just told them, mockingly couching it in scribal terms as scriptural, “it is written,” he asserts that in fact Elijah has already come in John, and he was ignominiously killed.

9.14–29: Healing of epileptic child (Mt 17.14–21; Lk 9.37–42). Since Matthew and Luke have no parallels to vv. 15–16, 21–27 of this unusually elaborate story in Mark, the text may have been much shorter originally.

And he said, “From childhood.²² It has often cast him into the fire and into the water, to destroy him; but if you are able to do anything, have pity on us and help us.”²³ Jesus said to him, “If you are able!—All things can be done for the one who believes.”²⁴ Immediately the father of the child cried out,^a “I believe; help my unbelief!”²⁵ When Jesus saw that a crowd came running together, he rebuked the unclean spirit, saying to it, “You spirit that keeps this boy from speaking and hearing, I command you, come out of him, and never enter him again!”²⁶ After crying out and convulsing him terribly, it came out, and the boy was like a corpse, so that most of them said, “He is dead.”²⁷ But Jesus took him by the hand and lifted him up, and he was able to stand.²⁸ When he had entered the house, his disciples asked him privately, “Why could we not cast it out?”²⁹ He said to them, “This kind can come out only through prayer.”^b

³⁰ They went on from there and passed through Galilee. He did not want anyone to know it;³¹ for he was teaching his disciples, saying to them, “The Son of Man is to be betrayed into human hands, and they will kill him, and three days after being killed, he will rise again.”³² But they did not understand what he was saying and were afraid to ask him.

³³ Then they came to Capernaum; and when he was in the house he asked them, “What were you arguing about on the way?”³⁴ But they were silent, for on the way they had argued with one another who was the greatest.³⁵ He sat down, called the twelve, and said to them, “Whoever wants to be first must be last of all and servant of all.”³⁶ Then he took a little child and put it among them; and taking it in his arms, he said to them,³⁷ “Whoever welcomes one such child in my name welcomes me, and whoever welcomes me welcomes not me but the one who sent me.”

³⁸ John said to him, “Teacher, we saw someone^c casting out demons in your name, and we tried to stop him, because he was not following us.”³⁹ But Jesus said, “Do not stop him; for no one who does a deed of power in my name will be able soon afterward to speak evil of me.⁴⁰ Whoever is not against us is for us.⁴¹ For truly I tell you, whoever gives you a cup of water to drink because you bear the name of Christ will by no means lose the reward.

⁴² “If any of you put a stumbling block before one of these little ones who believe in me,^d it would be better for you if a great millstone were hung around your neck and you were thrown into the sea.⁴³ If your hand causes you to stumble, cut it off; it is better for you to enter life maimed than to have two hands and to go to hell,^e to the unquenchable fire.^f ⁴⁵ And if your foot causes you to stumble, cut it off; it is better for you to enter life lame than to have two feet and to be thrown into hell.^{e,f} ⁴⁷ And if your eye causes you to stumble, tear it out; it is better for you to enter the kingdom of God with one eye than

^a Other ancient authorities add with tears

^b Other ancient authorities add and fasting

^c Other ancient authorities add who does not follow us

^d Other ancient authorities lack in me

^e Gk Gehenna

^f Verses 44 and 46 (which are identical with verse 48) are lacking in the best ancient authorities

9.30–37: Second announcement and misunderstanding (Mt 17.22–23; 18.1–5; Lk 9.43–48). Despite his teaching, again (see 8.31n.), that the Son of Man would be killed and rise again, the disciples still do not understand, as illustrated in their blithe discussion of who was the greatest. 36–37: A child was the lowest-status person in a household.

9.38–41: Unknown exorcist (Lk 9.49–50). An allusion to the story in Num 11.27–29. The movement is not to be defensive or controlling.

9.42–50: Warning on discipline (Mt 18.6–9; 5.29–30; 5.13; Lk 17.1–2; 14.34–35). A series of warnings on male sexual discipline, judging from references in rabbinic literature, beginning with sexual abuse of children. 43: Hand probably refers to prohibition of masturbation (See Mishnah Niddah 2.1). Hell, lit., “Gehenna,” the valley of the son of Hinnom (2 Kings 23.10; Jer 7.31), symbolizing the place of eternal punishment by fire. 45: Foot is a standard euphemism in Heb for the male genitals (Isa 6.2; 7.20), and there is probably double-entendre here.

to have two eyes and to be thrown into hell,^a ⁴⁸where their worm never dies, and the fire is never quenched.

⁴⁹“For everyone will be salted with fire.^b ⁵⁰Salt is good; but if salt has lost its saltiness, how can you season it?^c Have salt in yourselves, and be at peace with one another.”

10 He left that place and went to the region of Judea and^d beyond the Jordan. And crowds again gathered around him; and, as was his custom, he again taught them.

²Some Pharisees came, and to test him they asked, “Is it lawful for a man to divorce his wife?” ³He answered them, “What did Moses command you?” ⁴They said, “Moses allowed a man to write a certificate of dismissal and to divorce her.” ⁵But Jesus said to them, “Because of your hardness of heart he wrote this commandment for you. ⁶But from the beginning of creation, ‘God made them male and female.’ ⁷‘For this reason a man shall leave his father and mother and be joined to his wife,^e ⁸and the two shall become one flesh.’ So they are no longer two, but one flesh. ⁹Therefore what God has joined together, let no one separate.”

¹⁰Then in the house the disciples asked him again about this matter. ¹¹He said to them, “Whoever divorces his wife and marries another commits adultery against her; ¹²and if she divorces her husband and marries another, she commits adultery.”

¹³People were bringing little children to him in order that he might touch them; and the disciples spoke sternly to them. ¹⁴But

when Jesus saw this, he was indignant and said to them, “Let the little children come to me; do not stop them; for it is to such as these that the kingdom of God belongs. ¹⁵Truly I tell you, whoever does not receive the kingdom of God as a little child will never enter it.” ¹⁶And he took them up in his arms, laid his hands on them, and blessed them.

¹⁷As he was setting out on a journey, a man ran up and knelt before him, and asked him, “Good Teacher, what must I do to inherit eternal life?” ¹⁸Jesus said to him, “Why do you call me good? No one is good but God alone. ¹⁹You know the commandments: ‘You shall not murder; You shall not commit adultery; You shall not steal; You shall not bear false witness; You shall not defraud; Honor your father and mother.’” ²⁰He said to him, “Teacher, I have kept all these since my youth.” ²¹Jesus, looking at him, loved him and said, “You lack one thing; go, sell what you own, and give the money^f to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven; then come, follow me.” ²²When he heard this, he was shocked and went away grieving, for he had many possessions.

^a Gk Gehenna

^b Other ancient authorities either add or substitute and every sacrifice will be salted with salt

^c Or how can you restore its saltiness?

^d Other ancient authorities lack and

^e Other ancient authorities lack and be joined to his wife

^f Gk lacks the money

47: Eye here refers to lustful gazes. 48: See Isa 66.24.

10.1–16: Marriage and children in the kingdom (Mt 19.1–15; Lk 18.15–17). 1: Jesus moves into Israelite territory beyond Galilee, now concentrating on teaching. 2–12: The first step in a series of covenantal instructions and exhortations focuses on (the commandment against) adultery (Ex 20.12; Deut 5.18), i.e., on marriage and divorce. 3–4: See Deut 24.1–4; Jer 3.8. 5–9: To the Pharisees’ focus on divorce as a male prerogative, Jesus insists upon the equality of marriage intended in the creation stories, Gen 1.27; 2.24. 10–12: Cf. Mt 5.31–32. The juxtaposition of vv. 2–9 and vv. 11–12 indicates that Jesus’ restrictive interpretation of the commandment against adultery, allowing divorce but prohibiting remarriage, was grounded in creation. Jesus’ formulation with both the man and the woman as active agents stands in contrast to the ancient assumption that adultery was an offense against the husband. 13–16: Not an idealization of childhood. Against the disciples’ restriction of access to Jesus and his movement, Jesus uses children, who occupied the lowest status in society, as a symbol for how one should receive the kingdom.

10.17–31: Egalitarian economic relations in the kingdom (Mt 19.16–30; Lk 18.18–30). An exhortation for egalitarian covenantal economic relations. 17: The man’s address is flattering and his question unusual for Mark, in which the common people have more concrete concerns. 19: Recitation of covenantal commandments, Ex 20.12–16, adding defraud. 21–22: Jesus’ test exposes the man as adamantly attached to his wealth, which (from the covenantal viewpoint) he might have gained by defrauding peasants by charging interest on loans, etc.,

²³ Then Jesus looked around and said to his disciples, “How hard it will be for those who have wealth to enter the kingdom of God!”

²⁴ And the disciples were perplexed at these words. But Jesus said to them again, “Children, how hard it is^a to enter the kingdom of God! ²⁵ It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for someone who is rich to enter the kingdom of God.” ²⁶ They were greatly astounded and said to one another,^b “Then who can be saved?” ²⁷ Jesus looked at them and said, “For mortals it is impossible, but not for God; for God all things are possible.”

²⁸ Peter began to say to him, “Look, we have left everything and followed you.”

²⁹ Jesus said, “Truly I tell you, there is no one who has left house or brothers or sisters or mother or father or children or fields, for my sake and for the sake of the good news,^c ³⁰ who will not receive a hundredfold now in this age—houses, brothers and sisters, mothers and children, and fields, with persecutions—and in the age to come eternal life.

³¹ But many who are first will be last, and the last will be first.”

³² They were on the road, going up to Jerusalem, and Jesus was walking ahead of them; they were amazed, and those who followed were afraid. He took the twelve aside again and began to tell them what was to happen to him,³³ saying, “See, we are going up to Jerusalem, and the Son of Man will be handed over to the chief priests and the scribes, and they will condemn him to death; then they will hand him over to the Gentiles;³⁴ they will mock him, and spit upon him, and flog him, and kill him; and after three days he will rise again.”

³⁵ James and John, the sons of Zebedee, came forward to him and said to him, “Teacher, we want you to do for us whatever we ask of you.” ³⁶ And he said to them, “What is it you want me to do for you?” ³⁷ And they said to him, “Grant us to sit, one at your right hand and one at your left, in your glory.”

³⁸ But Jesus said to them, “You do not know what you are asking. Are you able to drink the cup that I drink, or be baptized with the baptism that I am baptized with?” ³⁹ They replied, “We are able.” Then Jesus said to them, “The cup that I drink you will drink; and with the baptism with which I am baptized, you will be baptized;⁴⁰ but to sit at my right hand or at my left is not mine to grant, but it is for those for whom it has been prepared.”

⁴¹ When the ten heard this, they began to be angry with James and John. ⁴² So Jesus

^a Other ancient authorities add for those who trust in riches

^b Other ancient authorities read to him

^c Or gospel

thus also violating the commandment against stealing. 23–25: Jesus consolidates the point just illustrated with a little proverbial peasant humor: It is impossible for a rich person to enter the kingdom of God. 26–27: Jesus’ reply to the disciples’ incomprehension, although precisely how it connects with the previous discussion is unclear. 28–31: To Peter’s anxious plea, Jesus’ reply is serious about the concrete restoration (houses, fields, families) but teasingly facetious as well. The obvious exaggeration about the degree is canceled out by the persecutions, and the promise of eternal life in the age to come is a throw-away line mocking the rich man’s concern (v. 17).

10.32–45: Egalitarian social-political relations in the kingdom and the third announcement and misunderstanding (Mt 20.17–28; Lk 18.31–34, 22.24–27). Mark uses Jesus’ third explanation to the disciples that the Son of Man will be condemned, killed, and rise again (see 8.31n.), combined with the disciples’ stubborn misunderstanding, as a foil for exhortation on egalitarian social-political relations in the movement and its communities. 32–34: The tone becomes ominous as they head toward Jerusalem and the climax of Jesus’ escalating conflict with the rulers there, as explicitly dramatized in the details added to this third announcement of his destiny there. 35–37: James and John’s request indicates that they have completely misunderstood Jesus’ mission and movement as well as refused to hear what Jesus has repeatedly told them. 38–40: They claim they are prepared to follow the path of Jesus into martyrdom for the cause, which he promises will happen. But he rejects their request as presumptuous. On the metaphor of cup, see 14.24,36; Isa 51.17; Lam 4.21. 41–45: The request for positions of power and privilege results in conflict among the disciples. But in contrast to the imperial practices of the nations, there will be no rulers in Jesus’ movement or communities. Rather, would-be leaders must take called them and said to them, “You know that among the Gentiles those whom they recognize as their rulers lord it over them, and their great ones are tyrants over them.⁴³ But it is not so among you; but whoever wishes to become great among you must be your servant,⁴⁴ and whoever wishes to be first among you must be slave of all.⁴⁵ For the Son of Man came not to be served but to serve, and to give his life a ransom for many.”

⁴⁶They came to Jericho. As he and his disciples and a large crowd were leaving Jericho, Bartimaeus son of Timaeus, a blind beggar, was sitting by the roadside.⁴⁷ When he heard that it was Jesus of Nazareth, he began to shout out and say, “Jesus, Son of David, have mercy on me!”⁴⁸ Many sternly ordered him to be quiet, but he cried out even more loudly, “Son of David, have mercy on me!”⁴⁹ Jesus stood still and said, “Call him here.” And they called the blind man, saying to him, “Take heart; get up, he is calling you.”⁵⁰ So throwing off his cloak, he sprang up and came to Jesus.⁵¹ Then Jesus said to him, “What do you want me to do for you?” The blind man said to him, “My teacher,^a let me see again.”⁵² Jesus said to him, “Go; your faith has made you well.” Immediately he regained his sight and followed him on the way.

11 When they were approaching Jerusalem, at Bethphage and Bethany, near the Mount of Olives, he sent two of his disciples² and said to them, “Go into the village ahead of you, and immediately as you enter it, you will find tied there a colt that has never been ridden; untie it and bring it.³ If anyone says to you, ‘Why are you doing this?’ just say this, ‘The Lord needs it and will send it back here immediately.’”⁴ They went away and found a colt tied near a door, outside in the street. As they were untying it,⁵ some of the bystanders said to them, “What are you doing, untying the colt?”⁶ They told them what Jesus had said; and they allowed them to take it.⁷ Then they brought the colt to Jesus and threw their cloaks on it; and he sat on it.⁸ Many people spread their cloaks on the road, and others spread leafy branches that they had cut in the fields.⁹ Then those who went ahead and those who followed were shouting, “Hosanna!

Blessed is the one who comes in the name of the Lord!

¹⁰ Blessed is the coming kingdom of our ancestor David!

Hosanna in the highest heaven!”

^a Aramaic Rabbouni

the role of servants, following the paradigm of the Son of Man, Jesus, whose martyrdom will be a ransom (paid for redemption from slavery or indebtedness; see God’s “ransom” or “redemption” of Israel from subjection to Egypt, Ex. 6.6; 15.13; Isa 43.1–7) of many.

10.46–52: Healing of the blind Bartimaeus (Mt 20.29–34; Lk 18.35–43). The second healing of a blind man (see 8.22–26) that frames and completes this section focuses partly on the blindness of the disciples. 46: Jericho is in the Jordan Valley ca. 21 km (13 mi) east-northeast of Jerusalem; a secondary road connected the two cities (see 11.1; Lk 10.30). Bartimaeus means son of Timaeus in Aramaic. 47–48: Though blind, Bartimaeus nevertheless sees or knows that Jesus is the Son of David. In some circles a “son of David” was expected to restore the fortunes of Israel as king (2 Sam 5.1–5). In Mk 12.35–37 Jesus himself explains that the messiah is not the “son of David.” 52: After his sight is restored, he pointedly followed Jesus on the way, in striking contrast to the disciples, who remained blind to what was happening.

11.1–13.2: Confronting the rulers and ruling institutions in Jerusalem.

11.1–11: A messianic demonstration (Mt 21.1–9; Lk 19.28–38; Jn 12.12–15). As Jesus and his followers enter into the capital city, they stage a “messianic” demonstration, in fulfillment of the prophecy of Zech 9.9–10 of a peasant king riding on a donkey (cf. 1 Kings 1.38), not in an imperial war-chariot. 1: Bethphage and Bethany, villages just east of Jerusalem. 8: Spread their cloaks on the road, before the messiah, the “anointed” king, just as was done when Elisha anointed Jehu to lead the rebellion against the oppressive dynasty founded by Omri (2 Kings 9.1–13). The leafy branches appear to have a similar significance; cf. the “palm branches” waved in victorious celebration (with hymns, etc.) of the newly established independence of Jerusalem and Judea in 1 Macc 13.51. 9: The throng shouts a psalm of thanksgiving (Ps 118.25–26) for victory over Israel’s enemies, one that was sung at the Passover festival. Hosanna means “Save us!” 10: Added to the psalm, linking the festal demonstration with ¹¹Then he entered Jerusalem and went into the temple; and when he had looked around at everything, as it was already late, he went out to Bethany with the twelve.

¹²On the following day, when they came from Bethany, he was hungry. ¹³Seeing in the distance a fig tree in leaf, he went to see whether perhaps he would find anything on it. When he came to it, he found nothing but leaves, for it was not the season for figs. ¹⁴He said to it, “May no one ever eat fruit from you again.” And his disciples heard it.

¹⁵Then they came to Jerusalem. And he entered the temple and began to drive out those who were selling and those who were buying in the temple, and he overturned the tables of the money changers and the seats of those who sold doves; ¹⁶and he would not allow anyone to carry anything through the temple. ¹⁷He was teaching and saying, “Is it not written,

‘My house shall be called a house of prayer for all the nations’?
But you have made it a den of robbers.”

¹⁸And when the chief priests and the scribes heard it, they kept looking for a way to kill him; for they were afraid of him, because the whole crowd was spellbound by his teaching. ¹⁹And when evening came, Jesus and his disciples^a went out of the city.

²⁰In the morning as they passed by, they saw the fig tree withered away to its roots. ²¹Then Peter remembered and said to him, “Rabbi, look! The fig tree that you cursed has withered.” ²²Jesus answered them, “Have^b faith in God. ²³Truly I tell you, if you say to this mountain, ‘Be taken up and thrown into the sea,’ and if you do not doubt in your heart, but believe that what you say will come to pass, it will be done for you. ²⁴So I tell you, whatever you ask for in prayer, believe that you have received^c it, and it will be yours.

²⁵“Whenever you stand praying, forgive, if you have anything against anyone; so that

^a Gk they: other ancient authorities read he

^b Other ancient authorities read “If you have

^c Other ancient authorities read are receiving the hope of Israel’s future restoration and independence led by the anointed “son of David,” as in Bartimaeus’s repeated cry in 10.48–49 that just preceded the demonstration. 11: On the temple, see 11.12–25n. Looked around, after the messianic demonstration in seeming anticipation of the restoration of Israel, Jesus enters Jerusalem, but only to reconnoiter before launching his aggressive face-off with the rulers the next day.

11.12–25 [26]: Prophetic demonstration against the Temple (Mt 21.12–13, 18–22; Lk 19.45–48). Mark again sandwiches one story into another (cf. 3.19b–35; 5.21–43), framing the prophetic demonstration against the Temple with the cursing of the fig tree (which is bearing no fruit), a figure for God’s judgment in Israelite tradition (e.g., Isa 34.4; Jer 5.17). The temple in Jerusalem was the political-economic center of power as well as the sanctuary where the priests offered sacrifices to God. Supported by the tithes and offerings of the people, it had been rebuilt. In 20 BCE Herod the Great had mounted a massive rebuilding of the Temple into a vast complex of colonnades and shops as well as a center of Jewish pilgrimage and one of the wonders of the Roman imperial world. 15–16: Jesus took forcible action against the sellers and buyers in the large Court of the Gentiles, the principal open public space in Jerusalem, where anyone—including non-Israelites—could go. Commerce, including moneychanging, was necessary in connection with sacrifices and offerings in the semi-monetarized Temple economy. 17: Quoting Isa 56.7, and Jeremiah’s prophecy against the first Temple (Jer 7.11), Jesus interprets his action as a prophetic demonstration of God’s condemnation of the Temple. Den of robbers is better translated “bandits’ stronghold,” conveying more the original sense in Jeremiah that the rulers plunder the people like bandits and then seek refuge in the Temple. 18–19: In response to Jesus’ prophetic demonstration, the Jerusalem rulers intensify the long-standing scheme to kill him, known since 3.6. In preindustrial cities, rulers had to worry at festival times about touching off mob action by taking repressive measures against agitators, as indicated in 14.1–2. But Jesus and his disciples strategically withdraw from the city at evening. 20–24: This astounding statement about the mount of the Temple upon which Jesus has just demonstrated God’s condemnation says, in effect, to trust God to do what has been prophesied. 25–[26]: Early manuscripts omit v. 26, as does the NRSV translation. If original to Mark, it establishes mutual forgiveness (as in the Lord’s Prayer, Lk 11.2–4) as the focus of prayer, now that the Temple, the official site for prayer and for obtaining divine forgiveness (see Lev 6.7), stands under God’s condemnation.

your Father in heaven may also forgive you your trespasses.”^a

²⁷ Again they came to Jerusalem. As he was walking in the temple, the chief priests, the scribes, and the elders came to him ²⁸ and said, “By what authority are you doing these things? Who gave you this authority to do them?” ²⁹ Jesus said to them, “I will ask you one question; answer me, and I will tell you by what authority I do these things. ³⁰ Did the baptism of John come from heaven, or was it of human origin? Answer me.” ³¹ They argued with one another, “If we say, ‘From heaven,’ he will say, ‘Why then did you not believe him?’ ³² But shall we say, ‘Of human origin?’—they were afraid of the crowd, for all regarded John as truly a prophet. ³³ So they answered Jesus, “We do not know.” And Jesus said to them, “Neither will I tell you by what authority I am doing these things.”

12 Then he began to speak to them in parables. “A man planted a vineyard, put a fence around it, dug a pit for the wine press, and built a watchtower; then he leased it to tenants and went to another country. ² When the season came, he sent a slave to the tenants to collect from them his share of the produce of the vineyard. ³ But they seized him, and beat him, and sent him away empty-handed. ⁴ And again he sent another slave to them; this one they beat over the head and insulted. ⁵ Then he sent another, and that one they killed. And so it was with many others; some they beat, and others they killed. ⁶ He had still one other, a beloved son. Finally he sent him to them, saying, “They will respect my son.” ⁷ But those tenants said to one another, “This is the heir; come, let us kill him, and the inheritance will be ours.” ⁸ So they seized him, killed him, and threw him out of the vineyard. ⁹ What then will the owner of the vineyard do? He will come and destroy the tenants and give the vineyard to others.

¹⁰ Have you not read this scripture:

“The stone that the builders rejected has become the cornerstone;^b

¹¹ this was the Lord’s doing, and it is amazing in our eyes?”

¹² When they realized that he had told this parable against them, they wanted to arrest him, but they feared the crowd. So they left him and went away.

¹³ Then they sent to him some Pharisees and some Herodians to trap him in what

^a Other ancient authorities add verse 26, “But if you do not forgive, neither will your Father in heaven forgive your trespasses.”

^b Or keystone

11.27–33: Jesus’ authority (Mt 21.23–27; Lk 20.1–8; cf. Jn 2.18–22). The first in a series of sharp charges and countercharges in the escalating conflict between Jesus and the Roman-backed Jewish priestly rulers and their representatives. 27–28: The chief priests, the scribes, and the elders, authorized presumably by God as well as imperial Rome, challenge Jesus on the authority by which he acts and speaks, referring to the confrontation regarding “authority and power” with which the whole gospel story began in 1.22–28. 29–30: In his counter question Jesus cleverly entraps them and exposes their lack of authority among the people, while avoiding any statement that might seem to justify his seizure by them.

12.1–12: Parable of the vineyard (Mt 21.33–46; Lk 20.9–19). Building on the traditional image of Israel as the vineyard of God in Isa 5.1–7, Jesus tells a parable that invites listeners to see the chief priests, who were themselves absentee landlords of estates with tenant labor, as tenants of God’s vineyard. It also resonated with the resentment of indebted peasants who feared nothing more than becoming such share-cropping tenants on their own ancestral land and would have reveled at such role-reversal. In Mark the parable virtually passes over into allegory, with the landlord’s “slaves” being analogous to the prophets God sent to “tenants” to demand the fruit of justice, and the beloved son clearly being Jesus himself, as in 1.11 and 9.7, and the rejected stone becoming the cornerstone (citing Ps 118.22–23) of the new political-religious order that will replace the Temple establishment.

12.13–17: Paying taxes to the emperor (Mt 22.15–22; Lk 20.20–26). As in 3.6, the representatives of both the Jerusalem priestly establishment and Herod Antipas’s regime conspire to entrap Jesus into giving some pretext to arrest and kill him. 14: They preface the entrapping question with heavy, insincere flattery. Is it lawful to pay taxes to the emperor? A genuine dilemma. In the strict adherence to the covenantal law (commandment) of Moses, supposedly advocated by the Pharisees themselves, it was not lawful because God was their exclusive sovereign. Yet the Romans treated nonpayment of tribute as rebellion. Some decades earlier the teacher Judas and he said. ¹⁴ And they came and said to him, “Teacher, we know that you are sincere, and show deference to no one; for you do not regard people with partiality, but teach the way of God in accordance with truth. Is it lawful to pay taxes to the emperor, or not? ¹⁵ Should we pay them, or should we not?” But knowing their hypocrisy, he said to them, “Why are you putting me to the test? Bring me a denarius and let me see it.” ¹⁶ And they brought one. Then he said to them, “Whose head is this, and whose title?” They answered, “The emperor’s.” ¹⁷ Jesus said to them, “Give to the emperor the things that are the emperor’s, and to God the things that are God’s.” And they were utterly amazed at him.

¹⁸ Some Sadducees, who say there is no resurrection, came to him and asked him a question, saying, ¹⁹ “Teacher, Moses wrote for us that if a man’s brother dies, leaving a wife but no child, the man^a shall marry the widow and raise up children for his brother. ²⁰ There were seven brothers; the first married and, when he died, left no children; ²¹ and the second married the widow^b and died, leaving no children; and the third likewise; ²² none of the seven left children. Last of all the woman herself died. ²³ In the resurrection^c whose wife will she be? For the seven had married her.”

²⁴ Jesus said to them, “Is not this the reason you are wrong, that you know neither the scriptures nor the power of God? ²⁵ For when they rise from the dead, they neither marry nor are given in marriage, but are like angels in heaven. ²⁶ And as for the dead being raised, have you not read in the book of Moses, in the story about the bush, how God said to him, ‘I am the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob?’ ²⁷ He is God not of the dead, but of the living; you are quite wrong.”

²⁸ One of the scribes came near and heard them disputing with one another, and seeing that he answered them well, he asked him, “Which commandment is the first of all?” ²⁹ Jesus answered, “The first is, ‘Hear, O Israel: the Lord our God, the Lord is one; ³⁰ you shall love the Lord your God with all your heart, and with all your soul, and with all your mind, and with all your strength.’ ³¹ The second is this, ‘You shall love your neighbor as yourself.’ There is no other commandment greater than these.” ³² Then the scribe said to him, “You are right, Teacher; you have truly said that ‘he is one, and besides him there is no other’; ³³ and ‘to love him with all the heart, and with all the understanding, and with all the strength,’ and ‘to love one’s neighbor as oneself,’—this is much more important than all whole burnt offerings and sacrifices.” ³⁴ When Jesus saw that he answered wisely, he said to him, “You are not

^a Gk his brother

^b Gk her

^c Other ancient authorities add when they rise

the Pharisee Saddok had led a movement to refuse payment of the tribute, appealing to the same covenantal commandment, that God was their true and sole ruler (Acts 5.37; Josephus, Ant. 18.4–23). 16: Turning the trick question back upon the questioners, Jesus exposes their own collaboration with the Romans by asking them to show him a coin—literally forcing their hand. 17: Jesus ingeniously gives an ambiguous answer that does not literally advocate nonpayment of tribute to the emperor, but could be understood that way by those committed to the first commandment of the covenantal law of Moses: the things that are the emperor’s, i.e., nothing; the things that are God’s, i.e., everything.

12.18–27: Dispute with the Sadducees (Mt 22.23–33; Lk 20.27–40). 18–23: The Sadducees, the aristocratic priestly party of property, power, and privilege, denied that there could be a future resurrection of the dead. While their question took the form of academic casuistry, their focus on levirate marriage (Deut 25.5) hinted at their real agenda: the protection of property rights and power through patriarchal marriage that perpetuated the male lineage. 24–25: Life after resurrection will not involve marriage. 26–27: God’s words to Moses (Ex 3.6) speak of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob in the present tense, i.e., as living not dead.

12.28–34: Love your neighbor (Mt 22.34–40; Lk 10.25–28). The polemic softens, but the argument sets up the sharp condemnation of the scribes in 12.38–44. 29–31: Jesus satisfies the scribe by immediately reciting Deut 6.4, but he quickly insists that love of God means love of neighbor by reciting Lev 19.18 as well, which climaxes a series of prohibitions against exploiting and oppressing the poor (cf. Lev 19.9–17; Lk 6.27–36; Mt 5.38–48). 32–33: The scribe admits that love of God and love of neighbor are more important than the elaborate far from the kingdom of God.” After that no one dared to ask him any question.

³⁵ While Jesus was teaching in the temple, he said, “How can the scribes say that the Messiah^a is the son of David? ³⁶ David himself, by the Holy Spirit, declared,

“The Lord said to my Lord,

“Sit at my right hand,
until I put your enemies under your feet.”

³⁷ David himself calls him Lord; so how can he be his son?” And the large crowd was listening to him with delight.

³⁸ As he taught, he said, “Beware of the scribes, who like to walk around in long robes, and to be greeted with respect in the marketplaces, ³⁹ and to have the best seats in the synagogues and places of honor at banquets! ⁴⁰ They devour widows’ houses and for the sake of appearance say long prayers. They will receive the greater condemnation.”

⁴¹ He sat down opposite the treasury, and watched the crowd putting money into the treasury. Many rich people put in large sums. ⁴² A poor widow came and put in two small copper coins, which are worth a penny.

⁴³ Then he called his disciples and said to them, “Truly I tell you, this poor widow has put in more than all those who are contributing to the treasury. ⁴⁴ For all of them have contributed out of their abundance; but she out of her poverty has put in everything she had, all she had to live on.”

13 As he came out of the temple, one of his disciples said to him, “Look, Teacher, what large stones and what large buildings!” ² Then Jesus asked him, “Do you see these great buildings? Not one stone will be left here upon another; all will be thrown down.”

³ When he was sitting on the Mount of Olives opposite the temple, Peter, James, John, and Andrew asked him privately, ⁴ “Tell us, when will this be, and what will be the sign that all these things are about to be accomplished?” ⁵ Then Jesus began to say to them, “Beware that no one leads you astray. ⁶ Many will come in my name and say, ‘I am he!’^b and they will lead many astray. ⁷ When you hear of wars and rumors of wars, do not

^a Or the Christ

^b Gk I am

sacrifices at the Temple, from which he draws his living. 34: The scribe does not “resign” his position, and Jesus does not invite him into the movement. Jesus has outmaneuvered all segments of the Temple establishment in the series of attacks and counterattacks from 11.27.

12.35–37: How can the messiah be David’s son? (Mt 22.41–46; Lk 20.41–44). This passage constitutes a rejection of any triumphalist restoration of the Davidic state (which Bartimaeus and the shouts of the crowd may have suggested; see 10.47–48n.; 11.10), reciting one of the imperial Davidic psalms (Ps 110.1) in the refutation.

12.38–44: Beware of the scribes (Mt 23.1,6; Lk 20.45–47; 21.1–4; 11.43; 14.7–11). 38–40: Condemnation of the scribes, moving from their craving for honor to a concrete example of their exploitation of the poor. Widows’ houses refers to all their inheritance and resources. 41–44: Illustrates how the scribes “devour widow’s houses”: by inducing them to give their meager resources to the Temple. For this “they will receive the greater condemnation” (v. 40), confirmed by the immediately ensuing prophecy of the destruction of the Temple which they serve (13.1–2).

13.1–2: Destruction of Jerusalem and the Temple (Mt 24.1–3; Lk 21.5–7). This section of the Gospel, which began with Jesus’ prophetic demonstration against the Temple (11.15–17), ends with his prophecy of its destruction—also implicating those whose base of power it constituted.

13.3–37: Exhortation not to be distracted from the movement by distressing events (Mt 24.3–36; Lk 21.7–36). Jesus’ second speech uses prophetic and apocalyptic motifs in order to caution against an apocalyptic interpretation of historical crises of resistance, repression, and reconquest under Roman imperial rule, but to remain disciplined and vigilant in the struggle, despite persecution. The Israelite prophetic and Judean revelatory traditions are framed, balanced, and interpreted by the exhortation in vv. 5–6,9–13, and 28–37, particularly by the carefully positioned and repeated “beware/ be alert” in vv. 5,9,23,33. Judging from v. 14, these paragraphs must be written from a viewpoint outside both Jerusalem and Judea. 3: Addressed through Peter and other disciples to the whole movement. 4: Despite this apparent link with the destruction of the Temple just prophesied in v. 2, nothing in the rest of ch 13 implies that the events prophesied have anything to do with Jerusalem. 6: /

be alarmed; this must take place, but the end is still to come. ⁸For nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom; there will be earthquakes in various places; there will be famines. This is but the beginning of the birth pangs.

⁹“As for yourselves, beware; for they will hand you over to councils; and you will be beaten in synagogues; and you will stand before governors and kings because of me, as a testimony to them. ¹⁰And the good news⁹ must first be proclaimed to all nations. ¹¹When they bring you to trial and hand you over, do not worry beforehand about what you are to say; but say whatever is given you at that time, for it is not you who speak, but the Holy Spirit. ¹²Brother will betray brother to death, and a father his child, and children will rise against parents and have them put to death; ¹³and you will be hated by all because of my name. But the one who endures to the end will be saved.

¹⁴“But when you see the desolating sacrilege set up where it ought not to be (let the reader understand), then those in Judea must flee to the mountains; ¹⁵the one on the housetop must not go down or enter the house to take anything away; ¹⁶the one in the field must not turn back to get a coat. ¹⁷Woe to those who are pregnant and to those who are nursing infants in those days! ¹⁸Pray that it may not be in winter. ¹⁹For in those days there will be suffering, such as has not been from the beginning of the creation that God created until now, no, and never will be.

²⁰And if the Lord had not cut short those days, no one would be saved; but for the sake of the elect, whom he chose, he has cut short those days. ²¹And if anyone says to you at that time, ‘Look! Here is the Messiah!’^b or ‘Look! There he is!’—do not believe it. ²²False messiahs^c and false prophets will appear and produce signs and omens, to lead astray, if possible, the elect. ²³But be alert; I have already told you everything.

²⁴“But in those days, after that suffering, the sun will be darkened, and the moon will not give its light, ²⁵and the stars will be falling from heaven, and the powers in the heavens will be shaken.

²⁶Then they will see ‘the Son of Man coming in clouds’ with great power and glory. ²⁷Then he will send out the angels, and gather his elect from the four winds, from the ends of the earth to the ends of heaven.

²⁸“From the fig tree learn its lesson: as soon as its branch becomes tender and puts forth its leaves, you know that summer is near. ²⁹So also, when you see these things taking place, you know that he^d is near, at the very gates. ³⁰Truly I tell you, this generation will not pass away until all these things have taken place. ³¹Heaven and earth will pass away, but my words will not pass away.

^a Gk gospel

^b Or the Christ

^c Or christs

^d Or it

am he, lit., “I am”; see 6.50n. 7–8: Stereotypical phrases from Israelite prophetic and Judean revelatory literature. Rumors of wars may refer to the intense resistance to the order of Emperor Gaius Caligula (37–41 CE) to install his bust in the Temple. Famines may refer to the disastrous effects of the severe drought in the late 40s. 9–13: Cf. Lk 12.2–12, 51–53; Mk 8.34–38. Far from being distracted by wars and famines, the movement should expect repressions, but not worry, expect to be hated by all, but endure. 14a: A shift from the past to the present and future, from the readers’ standpoint. The desolating sacrilege, cf. Dan 9.27; 11.31; 12.11. In contrast to Mt 24.15, nothing in Mark’s vague phrase or the literary context points to Jerusalem or the Temple, let alone its destruction. 14b–20: Anticipation of events in Judea and Galilee, where political conflict escalated during the 50s and 60s, based on long experience of how the Romans reacted to actual or perceived resistance with severe repressive measures and “scorched earth” reconquest of the people. 21–22: Other prophets and messiahs were already familiar features in Judea in particular, and more appeared around the mid-first century. 24–25: Traditional prophetic portrayal of God’s coming in judgment, drawn from Isa 13.10; 34.4; Ezek 32.7–8; Joel 2.10, 31; 3.15. 26–27: In contrast to Dan 7.13, where the “human-like one” symbolizes the elect generally, the Son of Man here presides over the gathering of the elect (cf. Zech 2.6; Deut 30.4). 28–31: Reassurance that the resolution of the historical crisis is near, as symbolized by the impending coming of the Son of Man, and that Jesus’ words are utterly credible. 28: Reverses the image of the fig tree from 11.12–14, now symbolizing new blessing for the people. 30: Cf. 9.1. 31: Cf.

³²“But about that day or hour no one knows, neither the angels in heaven, nor the Son, but only the Father. ³³Beware, keep alert;^a for you do not know when the time will come. ³⁴It is like a man going on a journey, when he leaves home and puts his slaves in charge, each with his work, and commands the doorkeeper to be on the watch. ³⁵Therefore, keep awake—for you do not know when the master of the house will come, in the evening, or at midnight, or at cockcrow, or at dawn, ³⁶or else he may find you asleep when he comes suddenly. ³⁷And what I say to you I say to all: Keep awake.”

14 It was two days before the Passover and the festival of Unleavened Bread. The chief priests and the scribes were looking for a way to arrest Jesus^b by stealth and kill him; ²for they said, “Not during the festival, or there may be a riot among the people.”

³While he was at Bethany in the house of Simon the leper,^c as he sat at the table, a woman came with an alabaster jar of very costly ointment of nard, and she broke open the jar and poured the ointment on his head. ⁴But some were there who said to one another in anger, “Why was the ointment wasted in this way? ⁵For this ointment could have been sold for more than three hundred denarii,^d and the money given to the poor.” And they scolded her. ⁶But Jesus said, “Let her alone; why do you trouble her? She has performed a good service for me. ⁷For you always have the poor with you, and you can show kindness to them whenever you wish;

but you will not always have me. ⁸She has done what she could; she has anointed my body beforehand for its burial. ⁹Truly I tell you, wherever the good news^e is proclaimed in the whole world, what she has done will be told in remembrance of her.”

¹⁰Then Judas Iscariot, who was one of the twelve, went to the chief priests in order to betray him to them. ¹¹When they heard it, they were greatly pleased, and promised to give him money. So he began to look for an opportunity to betray him.

¹²On the first day of Unleavened Bread, when the Passover lamb is sacrificed, his disciples said to him, “Where do you want us to go and make the preparations for you to eat the Passover?” ¹³So he sent two of his disciples, saying to them, “Go into the city, and a man carrying a jar of water will meet you; follow him,¹⁴ and wherever he enters, say to the owner of the house, ‘The Teacher asks, Where is my guest room where I may eat the Passover with my disciples?’ ¹⁵He will show you a large room upstairs, furnished and ready. Make preparations for us there.” ¹⁶So the disciples set out and went to the city, and found everything as he had told them; and they prepared the Passover meal.

^a Other ancient authorities add and pray

^b Gk him

^c The terms leper and leprosy can refer to several diseases

^d The denarius was the usual day’s wage for a laborer

^e Or gospel

Isa 51.6; 40.8. 32–37: Since no one knows precisely when the crisis will be resolved, they must simply maintain discipline and Keep awake.

14.1–15.47: Jesus’ death as martyr-messiah (Mt 26.1–27.66; Lk 22.1–23.56; Jn 18.1–19.42). 1–2: Passover and the festival of Unleavened Bread, in March/April, celebrated Israel’s deliverance from foreign rule in ancient Egypt. Repressive actions by rulers repeatedly touched off massive protest demonstrations at Passover. The concern of the Jerusalem rulers and their representatives to kill Jesus, signaled in 3.6 and indicated again in 11.18 and 12.12, finally focuses on a specific plot.

14.3–8: Anointing for burial (Mt 26.6–13; Jn 12.1–8). As a prophet had poured oil on the head of (anointed, made a messiah of) David and other popular kings leading Israel, so a woman . . . poured ointment on Jesus’ head, but to prepare his body for burial. In reply to strenuous objections, Jesus recognizes what she has done as part of the gospel itself. 3: Nard was imported from the Himalayan mountains.

14.10–11: Anticipation of betrayal (Mt 26.14–16; Lk 22.3–6). It is from within the twelve, representatives of the renewed Israel, that the betrayal comes.

14.12–25: The Last Supper (Mt 26.17–29; Lk 22.7–20). 12–16: Just as the chief priests and scribes had resorted to covert means “to arrest Jesus by stealth” (14.1), so Jesus and his disciples are now operating covertly, “underground,” as indicated by Jesus’ instructions for discreet movement inside the city and the carefully planned

¹⁷When it was evening, he came with the twelve. ¹⁸And when they had taken their places and were eating, Jesus said, “Truly I tell you, one of you will betray me, one who is eating with me.” ¹⁹They began to be distressed and to say to him one after another, “Surely, not I?” ²⁰He said to them, “It is one of the twelve, one who is dipping bread^a into the bowl^b with me. ²¹For the Son of Man goes as it is written of him, but woe to that one by whom the Son of Man is betrayed! It would have been better for that one not to have been born.”

²²While they were eating, he took a loaf of bread, and after blessing it he broke it, gave it to them, and said, “Take; this is my body.”

²³Then he took a cup, and after giving thanks he gave it to them, and all of them drank from it. ²⁴He said to them, “This is my blood of the^c covenant, which is poured out for many. ²⁵Truly I tell you, I will never again drink of the fruit of the vine until that day when I drink it new in the kingdom of God.”

²⁶When they had sung the hymn, they went out to the Mount of Olives. ²⁷And Jesus said to them, “You will all become deserters; for it is written,

‘I will strike the shepherd,
and the sheep will be scattered.’

²⁸But after I am raised up, I will go before you to Galilee.” ²⁹Peter said to him, “Even though all become deserters, I will not.” ³⁰Jesus said to him, “Truly I tell you, this day, this very night, before the cock crows twice, you will deny me three times.” ³¹But he said vehemently, “Even though I must die with you, I will not deny you.” And all of them said the same.

³²They went to a place called Gethsemane; and he said to his disciples, “Sit here while I pray.” ³³He took with him Peter and James and John, and began to be distressed and agitated. ³⁴And he said to them, “I am deeply grieved, even to death; remain here, and keep awake.” ³⁵And going a little farther, he threw himself on the ground and prayed that, if it were possible, the hour might pass from him. ³⁶He said, “Abba,^d Father, for you all things are possible; remove this cup from me; yet, not what I want, but what you want.” ³⁷He came and found them sleeping; and he said to Peter, “Simon, are you asleep? Could you not keep awake one hour?” ³⁸Keep awake and pray that you may not come into the time of trial;^e the spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak.” ³⁹And again he went away and prayed, saying the same words. ⁴⁰And once more he came and found them sleeping, for their eyes were very heavy; and they did not know what to say to him. ⁴¹He came a third time and said to them, “Are you still sleeping and taking your rest? Enough! The hour has

^a Gk lacks bread

^b Other ancient authorities read same bowl

^c Other ancient authorities add new

^d Aramaic for Father

^e Or into temptation

signal of a man carrying a jar of water (a task that a woman would usually have performed). 18: Cf. Ps 41.9. 20: Dipping bread into the bowl with me, the common meal was the most intimate form of fellowship. 22–25: Mt 26.26–29; Lk 22.15–20; 1 Cor 11.23–26. Jesus’ words at the Last Supper became the words of institution of the regularly celebrated Lord’s Supper. 22: My body, without “for you” as in 1 Cor 11.24, clearly a collective symbol of the community. 24: My blood of the covenant, thus renewing the covenant between God and the people, alluding to the covenant ceremony on Sinai (Ex 24.4–8). For many, see Isa 53.12. 25: The Supper is eaten in anticipation of celebrating it new in the kingdom of God, whereas in 1 Cor 11.25–26 it is eaten also in memory.

14.26–52: Agony and betrayal in Gethsemane (Mt 26.30–56; Lk 22.31–53). Jesus’ prediction of the disciples’ desertion and their actual desertion frames his agonized prayer over his impending martyrdom and his enemies’ surreptitious seizure of him. 26: The Passover ended with the singing of Ps 115–118. 27: Zech 13.7; Jn 16.32. See 6.34n. 28: Although the disciples are all about to desert, the movement will continue as Jesus will go back to Galilee after his martyr’s death; see 16.7. 29–31: Cf. 8.34; 14.66–72; Jn 13.36–38; 18.15–18,25–27. 32: Gethsemane, meaning “garden of oil,” was an olive orchard or “garden” (Jn 18.1) on the slope of the Mount of Olives just east of Jerusalem. 33–35: Distressed and agitated . . . deeply grieved, even to death . . . threw himself on the ground. The language and action are very strong, v. 34 echoing Ps 42.5,11; 43.5. 36: Abba, Aramaic for “father” (see 5.41n.). This cup, refers to both vv. 23–24 and 10.39, implicating the disciples, especially James and John. 37–41: The disciples are utterly incapable of doing what Jesus had emphasized in teaching about future crises; see 13.35–37.

come; the Son of Man is betrayed into the hands of sinners. ⁴²Get up, let us be going. See, my betrayer is at hand.”

⁴³Immediately, while he was still speaking, Judas, one of the twelve, arrived; and with him there was a crowd with swords and clubs, from the chief priests, the scribes, and the elders. ⁴⁴Now the betrayer had given them a sign, saying, “The one I will kiss is the man; arrest him and lead him away under guard.” ⁴⁵So when he came, he went up to him at once and said, “Rabbi!” and kissed him. ⁴⁶Then they laid hands on him and arrested him. ⁴⁷But one of those who stood near drew his sword and struck the slave of the high priest, cutting off his ear. ⁴⁸Then Jesus said to them, “Have you come out with swords and clubs to arrest me as though I were a bandit? ⁴⁹Day after day I was with you in the temple teaching, and you did not arrest me. But let the scriptures be fulfilled.” ⁵⁰All of them deserted him and fled.

⁵¹A certain young man was following him, wearing nothing but a linen cloth. They caught hold of him, ⁵²but he left the linen cloth and ran off naked.

⁵³They took Jesus to the high priest; and all the chief priests, the elders, and the scribes were assembled. ⁵⁴Peter had followed him at a distance, right into the courtyard of the high priest; and he was sitting with the guards, warming himself at the fire. ⁵⁵Now the chief priests and the whole council were looking for testimony against Jesus to put him to death; but they found none. ⁵⁶For many gave false testimony against him, and their testimony did not agree. ⁵⁷Some stood up and gave false testimony against him, saying, ⁵⁸“We heard him say, ‘I will destroy this temple that is made with hands, and in three days I will build another, not made with hands.’” ⁵⁹But even on this point their testimony did not agree. ⁶⁰Then the high priest stood up before them and asked Jesus, “Have you no answer? What is it that they testify against you?” ⁶¹But he was silent and did not answer. Again the high priest asked him, “Are you the Messiah,^a the Son of the Blessed One?” ⁶²Jesus said, “I am; and ‘you will see the Son of Man seated at the right hand of the Power,’ and ‘coming with the clouds of heaven.’” ⁶³Then the high priest tore his clothes and said, “Why do we still need witnesses? ⁶⁴You have heard his blasphemy! What is your

^a Or the Christ

43–50: Emphasis is on the excessive force used by the Jerusalem rulers in their covert action to capture Jesus, as if Jesus were a violent bandit-chieftain. Jesus mocks their reluctance simply to seize him when he had been teaching in the Temple courtyard, which betrays their lack of “authority” and their political impotence with the people. 45: Rabbi, see 9.5–6n. 47: In contrast to Mt 26.52–53, Lk 22.51, and Jn 18.10–11, Jesus in Mark does not rebuke the spontaneous violent response by one of those who stood near (not necessarily a disciple, although identified as Peter in Jn 18.10). 49: Let the scriptures be fulfilled, Jesus’ arrest, trial, and death in particular proceed “as written” in the scripture (vv. 21,27; etc.); fulfilled, only here and 1.15, marks a highly significant point in the overall gospel story. 51–52: Young man . . . naked, presumably symbolic in the narrative, of the disciples now standing exposed as unfaithful deserters and of Jesus as defenseless before the rulers. The “young man” appears once more in the narrative in 16.5–7.

14.53–72: Jesus condemned by chief priests and council and Peter’s denial (Mt 26.57–75; Lk 22.54–71). Jesus is condemned twice, first by the ruling chief priest and council, then by the Roman governor. While the accounts are integral parts of the Gospel, not historical transcripts, they have historical plausibility against the background of Roman imperial rule in Judea. 53: Convening the council at night would have been highly unusual, but by this point due process was hardly a concern of the Jerusalem rulers. 55–59: Although Jesus had been speaking and acting in public (see v. 49), the council had no witnesses with credible testimony to justify his execution. The false testimony appears to be a confusing parody of Jesus’ prophetic condemnation of the Temple and his renewal of Israel (the “house of God” “not made with hands”?) in opposition to the Temple (the “house of God” “made with hands”?). 61–62: The Messiah, it is unclear whether this is a charge. “I am” would be an uncharacteristic answer for Jesus (but see 6.50n.). It stands in sharp contrast with his answer to Pilate in 15.2: “You say so,” and both Mt 26.64 and Lk 22.70 have “You say (that I am),” which suggests that Mk 14.62 also originally read “You say so” or “Am I?” But in immediately confessing the Son of Man . . . coming with the clouds of heaven (quoting Dan 7.13 and Ps 110.1), Jesus gives the high priest all he needs for condemnation. 63–64:

decision?” All of them condemned him as deserving death.⁶⁵ Some began to spit on him, to blindfold him, and to strike him, saying to him, “Prophesy!” The guards also took him over and beat him.

⁶⁶ While Peter was below in the courtyard, one of the servant-girls of the high priest came by. ⁶⁷ When she saw Peter warming himself, she stared at him and said, “You also were with Jesus, the man from Nazareth.” ⁶⁸ But he denied it, saying, “I do not know or understand what you are talking about.” And he went out into the forecourt.^a Then the cock crowed.^b ⁶⁹ And the servant-girl, on seeing him, began again to say to the bystanders, “This man is one of them.” ⁷⁰ But again he denied it. Then after a little while the bystanders again said to Peter, “Certainly you are one of them; for you are a Galilean.” ⁷¹ But he began to curse, and he swore an oath, “I do not know this man you are talking about.” ⁷² At that moment the cock crowed for the second time. Then Peter remembered that Jesus had said to him, “Before the cock crows twice, you will deny me three times.” And he broke down and wept.

15 As soon as it was morning, the chief priests held a consultation with the elders and scribes and the whole council.

They bound Jesus, led him away, and handed him over to Pilate. ² Pilate asked him, “Are you the King of the Jews?” He answered him, “You say so.” ³ Then the chief priests accused him of many things. ⁴ Pilate asked him again, “Have you no answer? See how many charges they bring against you.” ⁵ But Jesus made no further reply, so that Pilate was amazed.

⁶ Now at the festival he used to release a prisoner for them, anyone for whom they asked. ⁷ Now a man called Barabbas was in prison with the rebels who had committed murder during the insurrection. ⁸ So the crowd came and began to ask Pilate to do for them according to his custom. ⁹ Then he answered them, “Do you want me to release for you the King of the Jews?” ¹⁰ For he realized that it was out of jealousy that the chief priests had handed him over. ¹¹ But the chief priests stirred up the crowd to have him release Barabbas for them instead. ¹² Pilate spoke to them again, “Then what do you wish me to do^c with the

^a Or gateway

^b Other ancient authorities lack Then the cock crowed

^c Other ancient authorities read what should I do

Blasphemy would presumably refer to the confession of being the Son of Man, rather than his threat against the Temple. For the prescribed punishment, see Lev 24.16. See also 2.7. 66–72: Cf. v. 54. Peter’s denial of Jesus is juxtaposed to and simultaneous with Jesus’ confession and condemnation. Even the servants of the high priest share the prejudice against and contempt of Galileans such as Jesus, “the man from Nazareth,” and Peter. 71: Peter’s third denial is very strong language. I do not know this man had double meaning: As indicated repeatedly throughout the Gospel, Peter indeed does not understand who Jesus is and what he is doing. 72: See v. 30.

15.1–15: Jesus condemned by Pilate (Mt 27.1–2,11–26; Lk 23.1–5,18–25; Jn 18.28–40; 19.4–16). The second trial, before the Roman governor Pilate (26–37 CE). 1: This further consultation suggests that the specific charge(s) against Jesus were still not clear, and that this continued in the hearing before Pilate (v. 3). 2: It is the Roman governor who defines the charge as one of indigenous kingship in potential insurrection against the Roman order. The formulation of the question is that of outsiders to Israel, who viewed Galileans and others subject to Herodian rulers as “Judeans.” It is surely significant also that the title King of the Jews (i.e., Judeans) occurs only in speech by Pilate or the Roman soldiers and the inscription on the cross presumably placed there by Pilate’s order, in vv. 2,9,12,18,26, in contrast with “the Messiah, the King of Israel,” used by the chief priests and scribes in v. 32. Thus Jesus’ answer: “That is what you say.” 4–5: As in 14.60–61, Jesus is just “above it all,” or is deliberately refusing to cooperate in his own interrogation. 6–15: There is no evidence outside the New Testament of such a custom by Roman governors of Judea generally. Mark does not in any way suggest that “the Jews” demanded Jesus’ death. The crowd is stirred up by the chief priests. Infamous in sources outside the New Testament for his tough stance, provocations, and violence as Roman governor, Pilate is portrayed here as an experienced imperial official who understands both that Jesus is politically more dangerous to the Roman order than an anti-imperial assassin and how to mollify the crowd while manipulating them into a choice. On crucifixion as the intensely cruel Roman form of torture and execution for provincial rebels, see 8.34n. Beating was standard treatment of political prisoners, whether they were to be executed or not.

man you call^a the King of the Jews?”¹³ They shouted back, “Crucify him!”¹⁴ Pilate asked them, “Why, what evil has he done?” But they shouted all the more, “Crucify him!”¹⁵ So Pilate, wishing to satisfy the crowd, released Barabbas for them; and after flogging Jesus, he handed him over to be crucified.

¹⁶ Then the soldiers led him into the courtyard of the palace (that is, the governor’s headquarters^b); and they called together the whole cohort.¹⁷ And they clothed him in a purple cloak; and after twisting some thorns into a crown, they put it on him.¹⁸ And they began saluting him, “Hail, King of the Jews!”¹⁹ They struck his head with a reed, spat upon him, and knelt down in homage to him.²⁰ After mocking him, they stripped him of the purple cloak and put his own clothes on him. Then they led him out to crucify him.

²¹ They compelled a passer-by, who was coming in from the country, to carry his cross; it was Simon of Cyrene, the father of Alexander and Rufus.²² Then they brought Jesus^c to the place called Golgotha (which means the place of a skull).²³ And they offered him wine mixed with myrrh; but he did not take it.²⁴ And they crucified him, and divided his clothes among them, casting lots to decide what each should take.

²⁵ It was nine o’clock in the morning when they crucified him.²⁶ The inscription of the charge against him read, “The King of the Jews.”²⁷ And with him they crucified two bandits, one on his right and one on his left.^d²⁹ Those who passed by derided^e him, shaking their heads and saying, “Aha! You who would destroy the temple and build it in three days,³⁰ save yourself, and come down from the cross!”³¹ In the same way the chief priests, along with the scribes, were also mocking him among themselves and saying, “He saved others; he cannot save himself.³² Let the Messiah,^f the King of Israel, come down from the cross now, so that we may see and believe.” Those who were crucified with him also taunted him.

³³ When it was noon, darkness came over the whole land^g until three in the afternoon.³⁴ At three o’clock Jesus cried out with a loud voice, “Eloi, Eloi, lema sabachthani?” which

^a Other ancient authorities lack the man you call

^b Gk the praetorium

^c Gk him

^d Other ancient authorities add verse 28, And the scripture was fulfilled that says, “And he was counted among the lawless.”

^e Or blasphemed

^f Or the Christ

^g Or earth

15.16–38: The crucifixion (Mt 27.27–48; Lk 23.18–43). 16–20: Along with the purple cloak symbolizing royalty, the mockery, by the whole cohort, of Jesus as “King of the Judeans,” includes several allusions to worship of the Roman emperor whom Jesus has the audacity to challenge: The crown of thorns suggests the laurel wreath crowning the emperor’s head, the hailing suggests the acclamation of the emperor, and kneeling in homage suggests the prostration to the emperor. The mutual hostility between Mark’s Jesus and the imperial army is unmistakably intense. 16: A cohort consisted of about five hundred soldiers. 21: Simon of Cyrene, a peasant coming in from the country, had perhaps moved back to Judea from the Diaspora Jewish community in Cyrene, west of Egypt; his sons apparently later joined the movement. This Simon in effect replaces Peter, whose original name was Simon, and who had just proven incapable of “taking up his cross” by denying Jesus instead of himself (8.34; 14.66–72). Perhaps they “compel” Simon to carry the cross because Jesus is already too weak from repeated beatings, 14.65; 15.15,19. Once hung on the cross he died more quickly than expected (vv. 44–45). 23: Jesus declines the offer of a sedative to mitigate the pain. 24: Casting lots, see Ps 22.18; the first of three allusions to this psalm. 26: The inscription indicates the crime: As “King of the Judeans” Jesus threatened to bring about a rebellion against the law and order of the empire, which was maintained by such gruesome, terrorizing violence against subject peoples. 27: Two bandits, perhaps actually ancient “Robin Hoods”; but the Romans used the term contemptuously to demean rebels against Roman rule. On his right . . . on his left, cf. 10.37–40; not James and John, but the two “bandits” undergo the baptism of death with Jesus. 29–30: Shaking their heads, cf. Ps 22.7–8. The mocking passers-by would appear to be hostile, using the same terms as the false witnesses in 14.56–58. 31: He saved others; he cannot save himself, double meaning: cf. 8.34; 10.45. 33–38: Mt 27.45–53; Lk 23.44–48. 33: Darkness came over the whole land, crisis in the natural order indicating God coming in judgment (cf. Joel 2.2; Am 5.18–20; Zeph 1.15). 34: “Eloi, Eloi,” Jesus crying out in abandonment in the words of Ps 22.1 in means, “My God, my God, why have you forsaken me?”^a ³⁵ When some of the bystanders heard it, they said, “Listen, he is calling for Elijah.” ³⁶ And someone ran, filled a sponge with sour wine, put it on a stick, and gave it to him to drink, saying, “Wait, let us see whether Elijah will come to take him down.” ³⁷ Then Jesus gave a loud cry and breathed his last. ³⁸ And the curtain of the temple was torn in two, from top to bottom. ³⁹ Now when the centurion, who stood facing him, saw that in this way he^b breathed his last, he said, “Truly this man was God’s Son!”^c

⁴⁰ There were also women looking on from a distance; among them were Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James the younger and of Joses, and Salome.

⁴¹ These used to follow him and provided for him when he was in Galilee; and there were many other women who had come up with him to Jerusalem.

⁴² When evening had come, and since it was the day of Preparation, that is, the day before the sabbath, ⁴³ Joseph of Arimathea, a respected member of the council, who was also himself waiting expectantly for the kingdom of God, went boldly to Pilate and asked for the body of Jesus. ⁴⁴ Then Pilate wondered if he were already dead; and summoning the centurion, he asked him whether he had been dead for some time. ⁴⁵ When he learned from the centurion that he was dead, he granted the body to Joseph. ⁴⁶ Then Joseph^d bought a linen cloth, and taking down the body,^e wrapped it in the linen cloth, and laid it in a tomb that had been hewn out of the rock. He then rolled a stone against the door of the tomb. ⁴⁷ Mary Magdalene and Mary the mother of Joses saw where the body^e was laid.

16 When the sabbath was over, Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James, and Salome bought spices, so that they might go and anoint him. ² And very early on the first day of the week, when the sun had risen, they went to the tomb. ³ They had been saying to one another, “Who will roll away the stone for us from the entrance to the tomb?” ⁴ When they looked up, they saw that the stone, which was very large, had already been rolled back. ⁵ As they entered

^a Other ancient authorities read made me a reproach

^b Other ancient authorities add cried out and

^c Or a son of God

^d Gk he

^e Gk it

Aramaic (see 5.41n.). 35–36: Voyeurs, misinterpreting the word “Eloi,” suggest that he is calling for Elijah, and want to revive him, prolonging the ordeal, to see if Elijah comes. 37–38: As Jesus dies, the curtain of the Temple (see Ex 26.33), separating but also protecting the people from the presence of God, is torn in two, in judgment on the Temple’s mediation of the Holy but also opening access to God for the people; see also 1.10.

15.39–47: Jesus’ burial (Mt 27.54–61; Lk 23.49–56). Three interrelated responses to Jesus’ death: by a military representative of the Roman rulers, by a representative of the Jerusalem religious establishment, and by loyal women followers. 39: Just as Jesus’ other opponents earlier in the Gospel know who he is, so the Roman centurion (the equivalent of a company commander) presiding at his crucifixion recognizes that he was truly “a son of God.” While neither a confession of faith (the centurion continues his duties in 15.44–45) nor the final resolution of the “messianic secret,” contrary to previous interpretations, Mark ironically has the officer who presides at Jesus’ execution recognize his true identity. He also confirms to Pilate that Jesus is dead in 15.44–45. 40–41: As the disciples, commissioned as the leaders of the movement, consistently misunderstood, women were healed by Jesus as symbolic of the renewal of Israel. Now, after the disciples had betrayed, denied, and abandoned Jesus, some of the many women who had followed him and provided for him stood by him, at a distance, throughout the ordeal. Neither of the two women named here has been mentioned earlier. Both will witness the burial site (v. 47) and the empty tomb (16.1). 42–46: Joseph of Arimathea, a member of the council that had condemned Jesus (see 14.64), but like the scribe in 12.28–34, interested in the kingdom of God, asked for the body. Apparently eager to dispose of it before the sabbath, he wrapped it, and secured it in a rock tomb sealed with a heavy stone (cf. 16.3n), without even a gesture of proper burial rites. 47: Although the disciples, having completely disappeared, make no effort to afford Jesus proper burial (contrast John’s disciples in 6.22), the two Marys witness where the body was laid.

16.1–8: The empty tomb, the call back to Galilee, and they were afraid (Mt 28.1–8a; Lk 24.1–11). 1: The women go finally to perform proper rites of burial. 3: The disk-shaped stone rolled in a groove to close the tomb’s entry. 5: The the tomb, they saw a young man, dressed in a white robe, sitting on the right side; and they were alarmed. ⁶ But he said to them, “Do not be alarmed; you are looking for Jesus of Nazareth, who was crucified. He has been raised; he is not here. Look, there is the place they laid him. ⁷ But go, tell his disciples and Peter that he is going ahead of you to Galilee; there you will see him, just as he told you.” ⁸ So they went out and fled from the tomb, for terror and amazement had seized them; and they said nothing to anyone, for they were afraid.^a

THE SHORTER ENDING OF MARK

[[And all that had been commanded them they told briefly to those around Peter. And afterward Jesus himself sent out through them, from east to west, the sacred and imperishable proclamation of eternal salvation.^b]]

THE LONGER ENDING OF MARK

⁹ [[Now after he rose early on the first day of the week, he appeared first to Mary Magdalene, from whom he had cast out seven demons. ¹⁰ She went out and told those who had been with him, while they were mourning and weeping. ¹¹ But when they heard that he was alive and had been seen by her, they would not believe it.

¹² After this he appeared in another form to two of them, as they were walking into the country. ¹³ And they went back and told the rest, but they did not believe them.

¹⁴ Later he appeared to the eleven themselves as they were sitting at the table; and he upbraided them for their lack of faith and stubbornness, because they had not believed

those who saw him after he had risen.^{c 15} And he said to them, “Go into all the world and proclaim the good news^d to the whole creation. ¹⁶ The one who believes and is baptized will be saved; but the one who does not believe will be condemned. ¹⁷ And these signs will accompany those who believe: by using my name they will cast out demons; they will speak in new tongues; ¹⁸ they will pick up snakes in their hands,^e and if they drink any deadly thing, it will not hurt them; they will lay their hands on the sick, and they will recover.”

^a Some of the most ancient authorities bring the book to a close at the end of verse 8. One authority concludes the book with the shorter ending; others include the shorter ending and then continue with verses 9–20. In most authorities verses 9–20 follow immediately after verse 8, though in some of these authorities the passage is marked as being doubtful.

^b Other ancient authorities add Amen

^c Other ancient authorities add, in whole or in part, And they excused themselves, saying, “This age of lawlessness and unbelief is under Satan, who does not allow the truth and power of God to prevail over the unclean things of the spirits. Therefore reveal your righteousness now!”—thus they spoke to Christ. And Christ replied to them, “The term of years of Satan’s power has been fulfilled, but other terrible things draw near. And for those who have sinned I was handed over to death, that they may return to the truth and sin no more, that they may inherit the spiritual and imperishable glory of righteousness that is in heaven.”

^d Or gospel

^e Other ancient authorities lack in their hands

young man (cf. 14.51–52) is dressed in a white robe, as a martyr vindicated by God would be dressed (cf. Dan 11.35; Rev 7.9,13), reminiscent of Jesus’ garments becoming “dazzling white” in the transfiguration, 9.3. 6: The “young man” tells the women He has been raised; there was apparently no resurrection appearance in the original text of Mark that ended at 16.8. 7: The risen Jesus is going ahead . . . to Galilee (cf. 14.28), where they will see him, in the same way as Jesus twice before said people would “see the Son of Man coming with the clouds of heaven,” i.e., the standard symbol of the renewed Israel. Jesus is vindicated and his movement is to continue. Mark’s Gospel is open-ended and must be completed by the hearers and readers of the Gospel. 8: The narrative ends with the women terrified. Obviously, however, they eventually told the tale, or Mark’s Gospel could not have been written.

16.9–20: Two attempts to provide a more satisfactory ending to the Gospel of Mark. The shorter ending. Although present in some manuscripts, this ending is clearly different from the rest of Mark in style and understanding of Jesus. It was evidently not added before the fourth century CE. The longer ending. Possibly written in the early second century and appended to the Gospel later in the second century. These sentences borrow

¹⁹So then the Lord Jesus, after he had spoken to them, was taken up into heaven and sat down at the right hand of God. ²⁰And they went out and proclaimed the good news everywhere, while the Lord worked with them and confirmed the message by the signs that accompanied it.^a]]

^a Other ancient authorities add Amen

some motifs from the other Gospels and contain several unusual apocryphal elements. 9–10: Mary is alone in Jn 20.1–2,11–19. Seven demons, Lk 8.2. 11: Lk 24.11,22–25; Jn 20.19–29. 12–13: Lk 24.12–35. 13: Cf. Lk 24.34. 14–18: Mt 28.19; Lk 24.47. 16: Acts 2.37–42; 10.47–48; Rom 10.9. 17–18: Exorcisms, Acts 8.6–7; 16.18; 19.11–20; new tongues, Acts 2.4–11n.; 10.46; 19.6; and possibly 1 Cor 12.10,28; 14.2–33; snakes and drinking poison lack New Testament parallels. 19–20: Jesus' exaltation, Phil 2.9–11; Heb 1.3; taken up, Acts 1.2,11,22; right hand of God, Ps 110.1; Acts 7.55; Heb 1.3.

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO LUKE

NAME AND AUTHORSHIP

The Third Gospel, traditionally called the Gospel according to Luke, is a unique literary and theological contribution to the story of Jesus Christ. The oldest traditions of the Christian church identify Luke, a physician who was a traveling companion and co-worker with Paul (Philem 1.24; Col 4.14), as the author of the Gospel and its sequel, the Acts of the Apostles. At times the tradition further identifies Luke as a Syrian from Antioch, but practically nothing else is remembered of the writer of the Third Gospel. The earliest of these traditions about the author are from the late second century, and scholarly analysis of the Gospel and Acts raises critical questions about the accuracy of the attribution of the writings to the Luke who was Paul's associate. The strongest argument in favor of identifying Luke the physician as the author of the Gospel and Acts is the relative obscurity of this figure in early Christianity. Yet, even defenders of the traditional identity of Luke recognize difficulties with that connection. Though Luke's familiarity with Judaism is extensive, he seems to have more book-knowledge than practical experience of its particular rituals and beliefs. Similarly, when Luke provides details about Palestinian locations and practices, they exhibit a tendency toward setting the story in an urban environment rather than the predominantly nonurban village culture that Jesus would have known. Above all, Luke never mentions in Acts that Paul wrote letters nor does he use theological themes from the letters attributed to the apostle.

SOURCES

Luke's Gospel is dependent on other earlier writings, especially the Gospel according to Mark. That Luke knew and used still other materials, both oral and written, in composing this Gospel is certain, if not demonstrable. In fact, Luke shares a body of material (probably in written form) with the author of the Gospel according to Matthew that accounts for approximately one-fifth of the overall Gospel story. Scholars designate this common material as "Q" (German "Quelle," "source"). Whether Luke had additional written sources for episodes and teaching found only in his Gospel—such as the account of Jesus' birth, childhood, certain parables, and some materials peculiar to Luke's account of Jesus' passion and resurrection—is debated, though possible. Luke's concern with sources—with acknowledging and using them profitably—is clear from his prologue to the Gospel (1.1–4). (See Introduction to the Gospels, p. 1743.)

DATE AND PLACE OF COMPOSITION

The time and place of the writing of this Gospel are uncertain. Tradition identifies Luke's account with both Antioch and Rome (where Acts comes to its end), but no firm tradition specifies a precise time and place of composition. Any major urban center in the Greek-speaking areas of the Roman empire would be a suitable location for such a document to be written and read. As for its date, all one can say with certainty is that Luke wrote this account after Mark composed his Gospel. The typical suggestion that Luke wrote around 85 CE is plausible, though the Gospel could have been completed five to fifteen years earlier or even five to ten years later.

STYLE, CONTENTS, AND STRUCTURE

In telling this story, Luke demonstrates an ability to write in different literary styles. The initial four verses of the book are a single Greek sentence that forms a highly stylized introductory statement typical of ancient historical writings. The language is formal and refined in a fashion familiar to well-educated citizens of the Roman empire in the first century CE. After this distinctive preface, however, the narrative shifts into a style of Greek reminiscent of the Septuagint (the ancient Greek translation of the Hebrew Bible). (In the annotations, places where Luke's quotations from the scriptures follow the Septuagint rather than the Hebrew are marked with the standard abbreviation for the Septuagint, LXX.) This Semitic-influenced form of Greek permeates the stories about the birth and childhood of Jesus. The Septuagint-like style lightens into a more normal (and more typically secular) form of first-century Greek (called "koine") in the narrative that comprises the remainder of the Gospel. As situations shift in the story, the language used varies appropriately to suit the locale and characters in the narrative. Luke's appreciation of stylistic variation in narrative communication is apparent from his skilled employment of this technique. Indeed, it seems that the Gospel communicates the universal significance of its story of God's salvation in and through Jesus Christ in the variety of styles that Luke uses to tell the story. Readers from different religious, ethnic, and social backgrounds would find one level or another of the overall account familiar and, thereby, a point of identity and entry into the story of Jesus Christ.

In broad strokes, Luke tells the same basic story that one reads in the other canonical Gospels: Jesus appears, ministers in Galilee, and moves to Judea and Jerusalem where he encounters deadly hostility that leads to his suffering, death, and resurrection. Yet, Luke's story of Jesus has logic and content that distinguish it among the four Gospels. The advent of Jesus among pious Jews, who observed ancestral traditions, highlights the continuity of Jesus' story with the history of Israel and presents it as the fulfillment of his people's hopes. In Luke's remembrance of Jesus, one finds an emphasis on God's compassion as Jesus reaches out to live and work among the marginal members of his society. Women, the less-than-pious, tax collectors, the poor, the sick, the oppressed, and even noble Pharisees are present and interact with Jesus more prominently in this account than in any other. As stated in Acts, "Jesus of Nazareth . . . went about doing good . . . for God was with him" (Acts 10.38). Both the coming of Jesus and his ministry of compassion are the direct results of God's anointing Jesus with the power of the Holy Spirit. Such an outpouring of the Spirit was neither unprecedented nor singular, however. The same Spirit of God that was active in the history of Israel is clearly present in the infancy stories concerning John the Baptist and Jesus with which the Gospel begins, and later reappears in Acts as the church spreads the message of salvation to all the peoples of the known world.

Luke has structured the narrative in a deliberate and logical way. A prologue (1.1–4) prepares readers for the significance of the story that follows. The infancy and childhood of Jesus is told in a series of scenes that alternate with an account of the origins of John the Baptist so that readers understand the role of both these figures in God's bringing salvation to all humanity, though Jesus is clearly presented as superior to the Baptist in this arrangement (1.5–2.52). As an adult Jesus prepares for his ministry through an encounter with John (then, readers learn Jesus' genealogy), and he undergoes temptations by the devil (3.1–4.13); Jesus ministers in Galilee, provoking controversy, calling disciples, preaching, working miracles, teaching, commissioning the initial ministry of his followers, and dealing compassionately with the masses of people (4.14–9.50). Jesus and his followers journey to Jerusalem and he ministers along the way (9.51–19.27). Jesus enters Jerusalem, working in the Temple area and teaching about the future (19.28–21.38). Jesus directs the Last Supper, suffers, dies, and is buried (22.1–23.56), and Jesus' empty tomb is found before he appears to the disciples and then ascends to heaven (24.1–53).

INTERPRETATION

The carefully crafted beginning of Luke's narrative contains anticipations of the story that follows and declarations that highlight the significance of the whole story. The narrative unfolds smoothly. Initial incidents are told in such a way that they anticipate later developments in the narrative. Readers who become actively involved with Luke's account will find hints and signals that provoke questions and expectations that are answered after one has read the whole story. In general, wondering about the nature of salvation, the character of the kingdom of God, the reality of repentance, and the person and work of Jesus as the Lord—God's messiah, son, and savior—will lead readers to ask about the deeper significance of the story that Luke is telling. Luke's primary concern is to inform the reader who Jesus of Nazareth was—and now, who he is as the suffering, crucified savior and the risen, exalted Lord. Furthermore, in the wake of Luke's purposeful presentation of the person and work of Jesus Christ, there is another dimension of the story that preserves and communicates Jesus' teaching about what it means to be his follower. Discipleship is a secondary theme that is closely related to the primary theme of Jesus' identity and significance. Discipleship, however, is sometimes a difficult dimension of the story for contemporary readers to grasp, for discipleship is a way of life as a member of the repentant and saved people of God. For Luke, one is not a disciple alone, but one finds profound personal significance in becoming one of the people of God who live as citizens of God's kingdom in a manner consistent with God's intentions for the life of all humanity as brought and taught, shown and known in Jesus Christ.

Luke's elegantly crafted account of Jesus' life and teaching shows him to be "the Lord," God's son who is the universal savior of humanity. Jesus inaugurates a mission to all humankind as the kingdom of God draws near to the ordinary lives of people in Jesus' person and work. Luke's version of Jesus' story presents Jesus' coming among humanity—in birth, life, ministry, suffering, death, and resurrection—as the fulfillment of God's promises of salvation, which brings peace and well-being in a definitive way. This saving event inaugurated the final stage of God's dealings with humanity in anticipation of the “Last Day,” “the Day of the Lord.” Jesus himself and, in turn, his disciples call people to true repentance, which means a new relationship to God and to other human beings in a manner of life that embodies God's will for human existence.

Marion L. Soards

1 Since many have undertaken to set down an orderly account of the events that have been fulfilled among us,² just as they were handed on to us by those who from the beginning were eyewitnesses and servants of the word,³ I too decided, after investigating everything carefully from the very first,^a to write an orderly account for you, most excellent Theophilus,⁴ so that you may know the truth concerning the things about which you have been instructed.

⁵In the days of King Herod of Judea, there was a priest named Zechariah, who belonged to the priestly order of Abijah. His wife was a descendant of Aaron, and her name was Elizabeth.⁶ Both of them were righteous before God, living blamelessly according to all the commandments and regulations of the Lord.⁷ But they had no children, because Elizabeth was barren, and both were getting on in years.

⁸Once when he was serving as priest before God and his section was on duty,⁹ he was chosen by lot, according to the custom of the priesthood, to enter the sanctuary of the Lord and offer incense.¹⁰ Now at the time of the incense offering, the whole assembly of the people was praying outside.¹¹ Then there appeared to him an angel of the Lord, standing at the right side of the altar of incense.¹² When Zechariah saw him, he was terrified; and fear overwhelmed him.¹³ But the angel said to him, “Do not be afraid, Zechariah, for your prayer has been heard. Your wife Elizabeth will bear you a son, and you will name him John.¹⁴ You will have joy and gladness, and many will rejoice at his birth,¹⁵ for he will be great in the sight of the Lord. He must never drink wine or strong drink; even before his birth he will be filled with the Holy

^a Or for a long time

1.1–4: The prologue (Mt 1.1; Mk 1.1). See Acts 1.1–2. Jn 20.30–31; 21.25 show similar awareness of sources used by the Gospel writers. This literary prologue resembles the openings of many classical or Hellenistic Greek works, particularly histories. Accordingly, Luke refers to previous early Christian writings, acknowledges sources, and explains the need or purpose of his own work. 3: Theophilus means “friend of God” and may address a person of prominent social standing, since Theophilus is designated “most excellent,” terminology typically applied to persons of high official or socioeconomic status. If Theophilus is a specific prominent person, then, he is likely to be the patron of the author of the Gospel, one who would use his influence to have the Gospel copied and distributed. While the address may be to a specific person, the symbolic sense of the name may designate any ideal Christian, as it has been understood since the earliest interpretations of Luke's Gospel.

1.5–2.52: The infancy and childhood of Jesus.

1.5–25: The annunciation of the birth of John the Baptist. 5: In the days of King Herod of Judea refers broadly to 37–4 BCE. The specific time in view in this story is probably 7–6 BCE (see Mt 2.1,15). The priestly order of Abijah was the eighth of twenty-four divisions of priests (1 Chr 24.10) who served twice annually, for one week at a time, in the Jerusalem Temple. These priests were Levites who served God both in behalf of and in the place of the firstborn males of all the tribes of Israel (Num 3.11–13). As a descendant of Aaron, Israel's first priest, Elizabeth was also from a priestly family. 5–7: The mention of Elizabeth, the righteousness of the couple, their childlessness, and their advanced age all anticipate the appearance of the angel and are not directly related to Zechariah's Temple service. The description also echoes images and lines from the Hebrew Bible (Gen 15.3; 16.1; 25.2; 29.31; Judg 13.2–3; 1 Sam 1.2; Ex 30.6–8). 9: The privilege of offering the incense was normally granted only once in a lifetime. 13: The name John (Heb “[Jeh]ohanan”) means “The Lord has shown favor.” 15: Num 6.1–4; Judg

Spirit.¹⁶ He will turn many of the people of Israel to the Lord their God.¹⁷ With the spirit and power of Elijah he will go before him, to turn the hearts of parents to their children, and the disobedient to the wisdom of the righteous, to make ready a people prepared for the Lord.”¹⁸ Zechariah said to the angel, “How will I know that this is so? For I am an old man, and my wife is getting on in years.”¹⁹ The angel replied, “I am Gabriel. I stand in the presence of God, and I have been sent to speak to you and to bring you this good news.²⁰ But now, because you did not believe my words, which will be fulfilled in their time, you will become mute, unable to speak, until the day these things occur.”

²¹ Meanwhile the people were waiting for Zechariah, and wondered at his delay in the sanctuary.²² When he did come out, he could not speak to them, and they realized that he had seen a vision in the sanctuary. He kept motioning to them and remained unable to speak.²³ When his time of service was ended, he went to his home.

²⁴ After those days his wife Elizabeth conceived, and for five months she remained in seclusion. She said,²⁵ “This is what the Lord has done for me when he looked favorably on me and took away the disgrace I have endured among my people.”

²⁶ In the sixth month the angel Gabriel was sent by God to a town in Galilee called Nazareth,²⁷ to a virgin engaged to a man whose name was Joseph, of the house of David. The virgin’s name was Mary.²⁸ And he came to her and said, “Greetings, favored one! The Lord is with you.”^a ²⁹ But she was much perplexed by his words and pondered what sort of greeting this might be.³⁰ The angel said to her, “Do not be afraid, Mary, for you have found favor with God.³¹ And now, you will conceive in your womb and bear a son, and you will name him Jesus.³² He will be great, and will be called the Son of the Most High, and the Lord God will give to him the throne of his ancestor David.³³ He will reign over the house of Jacob forever, and of his kingdom there will be no end.”³⁴ Mary said to the angel, “How can this be, since I am a virgin?”^b ³⁵ The angel said to her, “The Holy Spirit will come upon you, and the power of the Most High will overshadow you; therefore the child to be born^c will be holy; he will be called Son of God.³⁶ And now, your relative Elizabeth in her old age has also conceived a son; and this is the sixth month for her who was said to be barren.³⁷ For nothing will be impossible with God.”³⁸ Then Mary said, “Here am I, the servant of the Lord; let it be with me according to your word.” Then the angel departed from her.

³⁹ In those days Mary set out and went with haste to a Judean town in the hill country,⁴⁰ where she entered the house of Zechariah and greeted Elizabeth.⁴¹ When Elizabeth heard Mary’s greeting, the child leaped in her womb. And Elizabeth was filled with the Holy Spirit⁴² and exclaimed with a loud cry, “Blessed are you among women, and blessed is the fruit of your womb.⁴³ And why has this happened to me, that the mother of my Lord

^a Other ancient authorities add Blessed are you among women

^b Gk I do not know a man

^c Other ancient authorities add of you

13.4–5; 1 Sam 1.11 LXX. 17: He will go before him, that is, he will be the forerunner of the messiah (Mal 4.5–6; Mt 11.14); on Elijah, see 1 Kings 17–19; 21. 19: Gabriel is one of two angels named in the Hebrew Bible (Dan 8.16; 9.21). 25: Among Jews sterility was regarded as a sign of divine disfavor and therefore a disgrace (see Gen 16.2; 25.21; 30.23; 1 Sam 1.1–18; Lev 20.20–21; Ps 128.3; Jer 22.30).

1.26–38: The annunciation of Jesus’ birth. 26: In the sixth month, after the conception of John. Nazareth, a small village (cf. Jn 1.46) in southern Galilee. 27: There is a clear emphasis on Mary’s status as a virgin, a term used twice in this verse; see 1.34. Mary, Gk “Mariam,” from Heb “Miryam.” 31: Jesus, the Greek form of the Hebrew name Joshua, meaning “The Lord has saved” (see Mt 1.21). 32: The Son of the Most High implies both divinity (see Sir 4.10) and royal authority (see 2 Sam 7.13–16; cf. Lk 2.35,76; 6.35; 8.28; Acts 7.48; 16.17). 32–33: Jesus will fulfil the expectation that David’s heir will reign eternally; see 2 Sam 7.12–17. 36: Elizabeth . . . conceived, the angel offers Mary some corroboration, on which she acts (v. 39).

1.39–56: Mary and Elizabeth. 41: Elizabeth’s being filled with the Holy Spirit may also acknowledge the presence and the power of the Holy Spirit at work in relation to the unborn John in her womb. 43: Prior to his birth comes to me? ⁴⁴ For as soon as I heard the sound of your greeting, the child in my womb leaped for joy. ⁴⁵ And blessed is she who believed that there would be^a a fulfillment of what was spoken to her by the Lord.”

⁴⁶ And Mary^b said,

“My soul magnifies the Lord,

⁴⁷ and my spirit rejoices in God my Savior,

⁴⁸ for he has looked with favor on the lowliness of his servant.

Surely, from now on all generations will call me blessed;

⁴⁹ for the Mighty One has done great things for me, and holy is his name.

⁵⁰ His mercy is for those who fear him from generation to generation.

⁵¹ He has shown strength with his arm; he has scattered the proud in the thoughts of their hearts.

⁵² He has brought down the powerful from their thrones, and lifted up the lowly;

⁵³ he has filled the hungry with good things,

and sent the rich away empty.

⁵⁴ He has helped his servant Israel, in remembrance of his mercy,

⁵⁵ according to the promise he made to our ancestors, to Abraham and to his descendants forever.”

⁵⁶ And Mary remained with her about three months and then returned to her home.

⁵⁷ Now the time came for Elizabeth to give birth, and she bore a son. ⁵⁸ Her neighbors and relatives heard that the Lord had shown his great mercy to her, and they rejoiced with her.

⁵⁹ On the eighth day they came to circumcise the child, and they were going to name him Zechariah after his father. ⁶⁰ But his mother said, “No; he is to be called John.”

⁶¹ They said to her, “None of your relatives has this name.” ⁶² Then they began motioning to his father to find out what name he wanted to give him. ⁶³ He asked for a writing tablet and wrote, “His name is John.” And all of them were amazed. ⁶⁴ Immediately his mouth was opened and his tongue freed, and he began to speak, praising God. ⁶⁵ Fear came over all their neighbors, and all these things were talked about throughout the entire hill country of Judea. ⁶⁶ All who heard them pondered them and said, “What then will this child become?” For, indeed, the hand of the Lord was with him.

⁶⁷ Then his father Zechariah was filled with the Holy Spirit and spoke this prophecy:

⁶⁸ “Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, for he has looked favorably on his people and redeemed them.

⁶⁹ He has raised up a mighty savior^c for us in the house of his servant David,

⁷⁰ as he spoke through the mouth of his holy prophets from of old,

⁷¹ that we would be saved from our enemies and from the hand of all who hate us.

⁷² Thus he has shown the mercy promised to our ancestors, and has remembered his holy covenant, ⁷³ the oath that he swore to our ancestor Abraham, to grant us ⁷⁴ that we, being rescued from the hands of our enemies, might serve him without fear, ⁷⁵ in holiness and righteousness before him all our days.

^a Or believed, for there will be

^b Other ancient authorities read Elizabeth

^c Gk a horn of salvation

Jesus is designated Lord. 44: Joy indicates the positive nature of the relationship of John the Baptist and Jesus. 46–55: These verses form the first of four “canticles” or “hymns” in the infancy narrative of Luke. This “song” is the “Magnificat” (so called from its first word in the Latin or Vulgate translation); compare the prayer of Hannah in 1 Sam 2.1–10, a passage to which these verses relate. 55: Gen 17.7; 18.18; 22.17; Mic 7.20.

1.57–80: The birth and naming of John. 58: Here, the Lord refers to God. 59: Lev 12.3; Gen 17.12; Lk 2.21. 65: Fear (rendered “awe” in 5.26) designates humble, reverent recognition of the limits of human understanding and power before God (2.9; 7.16; Acts 2.43,46–47; 5.5,11; 19.17). 66: The question anticipates the appearance of the adult John, 3.1–18. 67–79: The second hymn, called the “Benedictus.” 69: A mighty savior, lit., “a horn of salvation,” uses a biblical metaphor (“horn”) for power (Pss 18.3; 75.5–6; 89.18; 112.9; 148.14) and here refers to

⁷⁶ And you, child, will be called the prophet of the Most High; for you will go before the Lord to prepare his ways, ⁷⁷ to give knowledge of salvation to his people by the forgiveness of their sins.
⁷⁸ By the tender mercy of our God, the dawn from on high will break upon^a us, ⁷⁹ to give light to those who sit in darkness and in the shadow of death, to guide our feet into the way of peace.”
⁸⁰ The child grew and became strong in spirit, and he was in the wilderness until the day he appeared publicly to Israel.

2 In those days a decree went out from Emperor Augustus that all the world should be registered. ²This was the first registration and was taken while Quirinius was governor of Syria. ³All went to their own towns to be registered. ⁴Joseph also went from the town of Nazareth in Galilee to Judea, to the city of David called Bethlehem, because he was descended from the house and family of David. ⁵He went to be registered with Mary, to whom he was engaged and who was expecting a child. ⁶While they were there, the time came for her to deliver her child. ⁷And she gave birth to her firstborn son and wrapped him in bands of cloth, and laid him in a manger, because there was no place for them in the inn.

⁸In that region there were shepherds living in the fields, keeping watch over their flock by night. ⁹Then an angel of the Lord stood before them, and the glory of the Lord shone around them, and they were terrified. ¹⁰But the angel said to them, “Do not be afraid; for see—I am bringing you good news of great joy for all the people: ¹¹to you is born this day in the city of David a Savior, who is the Messiah,^b the Lord. ¹²This will be a sign for you: you will find a child wrapped in bands of cloth and lying in a manger.” ¹³And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host,^c praising God and saying,
¹⁴“Glory to God in the highest heaven, and on earth peace among those whom he favors!”^d

¹⁵When the angels had left them and gone into heaven, the shepherds said to one another, “Let us go now to Bethlehem and see this thing that has taken place, which the Lord has made known to us.” ¹⁶So they went with haste and found Mary and Joseph, and the child lying in the manger. ¹⁷When they saw this, they made known what had been told them about this child; ¹⁸and all who heard it were amazed at what the shepherds told them. ¹⁹But Mary treasured all these

^a Other ancient authorities read has broken upon

^b Or the Christ

^c Gk army

^d Other ancient authorities read peace, goodwill among people

one who will bring salvation; see Pss 92.10–11; 132.17–18. 76: See 3.4. 80: Compare 1.80 with 2.52. These words cover a period of approximately thirty years (see 3.23). In the wilderness, see 3.4.

2.1–7: The birth of Jesus (Mt 1.18–25). 1: General censuses of Roman citizens are known from 28 BCE, 8 BCE, and 14 CE; but outside the New Testament this enrollment under Caesar Augustus is not attested. Caesar Augustus reigned 27 BCE–14 CE. His rule marked a time of peace, the “pax Augusta”, which caused the populace to hail him as lord and savior of the world. 2: Quirinius was at this time legate or commissioner of Augustus in a war against a rebellious tribe, the Homonadenses. As such he was a military governor of Syria, while civil administration was in the hands of Varus. It is possible that Quirinius was affiliated with Syria as a governmental authority on two different occasions, 6–4 BCE and 6–9 CE. City of David called Bethlehem, see 1 Sam 1–13. 7: Firstborn son indicates nothing about Mary’s subsequent childbearing; the word is more a technical term in reference to the child upon which God laid full claim (Num 3.11–13). Bands of cloth were normally used to bundle and provide warmth and comfort for infants. Manger, a feeding trough for animals.

2.8–20: Annunciation to shepherds and their visit (cf. Mt 2.1–12). 8: That the shepherds were living in the fields indicates nothing about the season of Jesus’ birth. 11: Jesus is identified by three primary titles of Christian belief, Savior, Messiah, and Lord (see Mt 1.21; 16.16; Jn 4.42; Acts 2.36; 5.31; Phil 2.11). The designation of the newborn Jesus as Lord is striking (see 1.43), for that word in Greek (“kyrios”) is the precise term used consistently throughout the LXX to translate the tetragrammaton, God’s holy and personal name (Heb “YHWH”). 14: The words and pondered them in her heart. ²⁰ The shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God for all they had heard and seen, as it had been told them.

²¹ After eight days had passed, it was time to circumcise the child; and he was called Jesus, the name given by the angel before he was conceived in the womb.

²² When the time came for their purification according to the law of Moses, they brought him up to Jerusalem to present him to the Lord ²³ (as it is written in the law of the Lord, “Every firstborn male shall be designated as holy to the Lord”), ²⁴ and they offered a sacrifice according to what is stated in the law of the Lord, “a pair of turtledoves or two young pigeons.”

²⁵ Now there was a man in Jerusalem whose name was Simeon;^a this man was righteous and devout, looking forward to the consolation of Israel, and the Holy Spirit rested on him. ²⁶ It had been revealed to him by the Holy Spirit that he would not see death before he had seen the Lord’s Messiah.^b

²⁷ Guided by the Spirit, Simeon^c came into the temple; and when the parents brought in the child Jesus, to do for him what was customary under the law, ²⁸ Simeon^d took him in his arms and praised God, saying,

²⁹ “Master, now you are dismissing your servant^e in peace, according to your word;

³⁰ for my eyes have seen your salvation,

³¹ which you have prepared in the presence of all peoples,

³² a light for revelation to the Gentiles and for glory to your people Israel.”

³³ And the child’s father and mother were amazed at what was being said about him.

³⁴ Then Simeon^a blessed them and said to his mother Mary, “This child is destined for the falling and the rising of many in Israel, and to be a sign that will be opposed ³⁵ so that the inner thoughts of many will be revealed—and a sword will pierce your own soul too.”

³⁶ There was also a prophet, Anna^f the daughter of Phanuel, of the tribe of Asher. She was of a great age, having lived with her husband seven years after her marriage, ³⁷ then as a widow to the age of eighty-four. She never left the temple but worshiped there with fasting and prayer night and day.

³⁸ At that moment she came, and began to praise God and to speak about the child^g to all who were looking for the redemption of Jerusalem.

³⁹ When they had finished everything required by the law of the Lord, they returned to Galilee, to their own town of Nazareth.

⁴⁰ The child grew and became strong, filled with wisdom; and the favor of God was upon him.

⁴¹ Now every year his parents went to Jerusalem for the festival of the Passover.^b

⁴² And when he was twelve years old, they went up as usual for the festival. ⁴³ When the festival was ended and they started to return, the boy Jesus stayed behind in Jerusalem, but his parents did not know it. ⁴⁴ Assuming that he was in the group of travelers, they went a day’s journey. Then they started to look for him among their

^a Gk Symeon

^b Or the Lord’s Christ

^c Gk In the Spirit, he

^d Gk he

^e Gk slave

^f Gk Hanna

^g Gk him

third hymn. 19: See 1.66; 2.51.

2.21–38: Jesus’ circumcision and presentation. 21: See 1.59. 22–23: Ex 13.2,12,15; Lev 5.11; 12.8. The phrase their purification is ambiguous and likely refers to the parents, though there was no rite of purification for the father (or the newborn). Luke’s interest in this ritual is to recognize the occasion of the parents’ taking Jesus to the Temple. 25–38: Simeon and Anna, not otherwise known, acclaim Jesus as savior and redeemer. 29–32: The fourth hymn, whose opening words in Latin are “Nunc dimittis.” 30–31: See 3.6. 32: See Isa 49.6; 46.13. 32: See Acts 2.21; 10.28,34–35; 22.21. 33: Luke calls Joseph the father of Jesus (notwithstanding 1.34–35) since he was Mary’s husband and Jesus’ legal father (cf. Mt 13.55; Lk 2.48; 3.23).

2.39–40: Jesus’ childhood in Nazareth (Mt 2.22–23).

2.41–52: Young Jesus in the Temple. This story of Jesus’ boyhood is unique to Luke among the canonical Gospels, though later legendary writings also show interest in this otherwise unknown period of Jesus’ life.

relatives and friends. ⁴⁵ When they did not find him, they returned to Jerusalem to search for him. ⁴⁶ After three days they found him in the temple, sitting among the teachers, listening to them and asking them questions. ⁴⁷ And all who heard him were amazed at his understanding and his answers. ⁴⁸ When his parents^a saw him they were astonished; and his mother said to him, “Child, why have you treated us like this? Look, your father and I have been searching for you in great anxiety.” ⁴⁹ He said to them, “Why were you searching for me? Did you not know that I must be in my Father’s house?”^b ⁵⁰ But they did not understand what he said to them. ⁵¹ Then he went down with them and came to Nazareth, and was obedient to them. His mother treasured all these things in her heart.

⁵² And Jesus increased in wisdom and in years,^c and in divine and human favor.

3 In the fifteenth year of the reign of Emperor Tiberius, when Pontius Pilate was governor of Judea, and Herod was ruler^d of Galilee, and his brother Philip ruler^d of the region of Ituraea and Trachonitis, and Lysanias ruler^d of Abilene,² during the high priesthood of Annas and Caiaphas, the word of God came to John son of Zechariah in the wilderness. ³ He went into all the region around the Jordan, proclaiming a baptism of repentance for the forgiveness of sins,⁴ as it is written in the book of the words of the prophet Isaiah,

“The voice of one crying out in the wilderness:

‘Prepare the way of the Lord,
make his paths straight.

⁵ Every valley shall be filled, and every mountain and hill shall be made low,

and the crooked shall be made straight,
and the rough ways made smooth;

⁶ and all flesh shall see the salvation of God.”

⁷ John said to the crowds that came out to be baptized by him, “You brood of vipers! Who warned you to flee from the wrath to come? ⁸ Bear fruits worthy of repentance. Do not begin to say to yourselves, ‘We have Abraham as our ancestor’; for I tell you, God is able from these stones to raise up children to Abraham. ⁹ Even now the ax is lying at the root of the trees; every tree therefore that does not bear good fruit is cut down and thrown into the fire.”

^a Gk they

^b Or be about my Father's interests?

^c Or in stature

^d Gk tetrarch

41: Ex 23.15; Deut 16.1–8. 49: My Father's house recognizes the special relationship between Jesus and God and contrasts with Mary's reference to Joseph as “your father” (v. 48). 51: See 2.19. 52: 1 Sam 2.26; Lk 1.80; 2.40.

3.1–4.13: Jesus' preparation for ministry (Mt 3.1–4.11; Mk 1.2–13).

3.1–6: The appearance of John the Baptist (Mt 3.1–6; Mk 1.2–6). 1: Tiberius Caesar succeeded Augustus in 14 CE and ruled until 37. Thus, depending on the manner of reckoning years, sometime between 26 and 29 CE is indicated. Pontius Pilate, a Roman governor, held authority in Judea, Samaria, and Idumea 26–36 CE; see 23.1, etc. The remainder of the kingdom of Herod the Great had been divided between his sons Herod Antipas who ruled Galilee and Perea (23.6–7) and Philip (see map on p. 1800). Initially another son, Herod Archelaus, had ruled Judea as ethnarch from 4 BCE, but he was deposed and banished for incompetence and replaced by a Roman official in 6 CE (see Mt 2.22). Lysanias was a Roman tetrarch of Abilenem ca. 25–30 CE. 2: Annas was high priest 6–15 CE when the Romans deposed him. He was followed by relatives; initially by his son, Eleazar; then by his son-in-law Caiaphas (18–36 CE), and thereafter by four more sons. Because Jewish custom was for the high priest to serve for life, even when out of office, Annas's influence and authority continued to be recognized by the population. 3: A summary statement of the shape and substance of John's ministry. Proclamation led to baptism, a baptism of repentance, a symbolic act of cleansing to indicate realignment with the will of God in forgiveness of the one baptized. 4–6: Isa 40.3–5. 6: All flesh refers to all humanity and emphasizes that God's salvation was universal in character; see 2.30–32; Acts 2.21.

3.7–9: John's call to repentance (Mt 3.7–10). 8: The assertion to have Abraham as . . . ancestor was a claim to privileged standing with God through natural birth (see Jn 8.33,39; Rom 2.28–29). 9: Fire, a symbol of judgment, often eschatological judgment (see 3.16; 16.24).

¹⁰ And the crowds asked him, “What then should we do?” ¹¹ In reply he said to them, “Whoever has two coats must share with anyone who has none; and whoever has food must do likewise.” ¹² Even tax collectors came to be baptized, and they asked him, “Teacher, what should we do?” ¹³ He said to them, “Collect no more than the amount prescribed for you.” ¹⁴ Soldiers also asked him, “And we, what should we do?” He said to them, “Do not extort money from anyone by threats or false accusation, and be satisfied with your wages.”

¹⁵ As the people were filled with expectation, and all were questioning in their hearts concerning John, whether he might be the Messiah,^a ¹⁶ John answered all of them by saying, “I baptize you with water; but one who is more powerful than I is coming; I am not worthy to untie the thong of his sandals. He will baptize you with^b the Holy Spirit and fire. ¹⁷ His winnowing fork is in his hand, to clear his threshing floor and to gather the wheat into his granary; but the chaff he will burn with unquenchable fire.”

¹⁸ So, with many other exhortations, he proclaimed the good news to the people.

¹⁹ But Herod the ruler,^c who had been rebuked by him because of Herodias, his brother’s wife, and because of all the evil things that Herod had done, ²⁰ added to them all by shutting up John in prison.

²¹ Now when all the people were baptized, and when Jesus also had been baptized and was praying, the heaven was opened, ²² and the Holy Spirit descended upon him in bodily form like a dove. And a voice came from heaven, “You are my Son, the Beloved;^d with you I am well pleased.”^e

²³ Jesus was about thirty years old when he began his work. He was the son (as was thought) of Joseph son of Heli, ²⁴ son of Matthat, son of Levi, son of Melchi, son of Jannai, son of Joseph, ²⁵ son of Mattathias, son of Amos, son of Nahum, son of Esli, son of Naggai, ²⁶ son of Maath, son of Mattathias, son of Semein, son of Josech, son of Joda, ²⁷ son of Joanan, son of Rhesa, son of Zerubbabel, son of Shealtiel,^f son of Neri, ²⁸ son of Melchi, son of Addi, son of Cosam, son of Elmadam, son of Er, ²⁹ son of Joshua, son of Eliezer, son of Jorim, son of Matthat, son of Levi, ³⁰ son of Simeon, son of Judah, son of Joseph, son of Jonam, son of Eliakim, ³¹ son of Melea, son of Menna, son of Mattatha, son of Nathan, son of David, ³² son of Jesse, son of Obed, son of Boaz, son of Sala,^g son of Nahshon, ³³ son of Amminadab, son of Admin, son of Arni,^h son of Hezron, son of Perez, son of Judah, ³⁴ son of Jacob, son of Isaac,

^a Or the Christ

^b Or in

^c Gk tetrarch

^d Or my beloved Son

^e Other ancient authorities read You are my Son, today I have begotten you

^f Gk Salathiel

^g Other ancient authorities read Salmon

^h Other ancient authorities read Amminadab, son of Aram; others vary widely

3.10–14: John’s directions to the crowd. 11: Two coats, lit., “two tunics,” usually worn as undergarments. Sharing possessions is a theme of Luke and Acts; see 4.18; 6.30; 10.7,25–37; Acts 2.42–47; 4.32–37.

3.15–18: John’s heralding of the messiah (Mt 3.11–12; Mk 1.7–8). 16: He will baptize you with the Holy Spirit and fire, a promise or prophecy fulfilled at Pentecost (Acts 2.1–4). 17: Winnowing fork, a tool used in threshing grain. 18: John’s judgmental message about the coming of the Messiah is, nevertheless, characterized as good news: 4.17–21.

3.19–20: John’s imprisonment by Herod. Herod Antipas had divorced the daughter of the Nabatean king in order to marry his niece, Herodias, who had been married to Antipas’s brother, Herod Philip. In Luke, John’s imprisonment is placed before the baptism of Jesus; cf. Mt 14.3–4; Mk 6.17–18.

3.21–22: The baptism of Jesus (Mt 3.13–17; Mk 1.9–11). 21: Prayer is a regular activity of Jesus and a prominent theme in Luke’s portrait (5.16; 6.12; 9.18,28; 11.1; 22.32,41–46). 22: See Ps 2.7; Isa 42.1. The voice from heaven speaks again at the Transfiguration (9.35).

3.23–38: The genealogy of Jesus (Mt 1.1–17). Luke traces the lineage of Jesus back to Adam, the first human (Gen 5.1); linking Jesus’ line with God’s original creation shows Jesus’ common humanity and establishes his credentials as the universal savior. 23–38: The genealogy traced through the line of Joseph includes the paragons David and Abraham as well as other notable figures. 23–27: The persons named from Heli to Zerubbabel are otherwise unknown. For the rest of the genealogy cf. Gen 5.3–32; 11.10–26; Ruth 4.18–22; 1 Chr 1.1–4,24–28; 2.1–15.

son of Abraham, son of Terah, son of Nahor,³⁵ son of Serug, son of Reu, son of Peleg, son of Eber, son of Shelah,³⁶ son of Cainan, son of Arphaxad, son of Shem, son of Noah, son of Lamech,³⁷ son of Methuselah, son of Enoch, son of Jared, son of Mahalaleel, son of Cainan,³⁸ son of Enos, son of Seth, son of Adam, son of God.

4 Jesus, full of the Holy Spirit, returned from the Jordan and was led by the Spirit in the wilderness,² where for forty days he was tempted by the devil. He ate nothing at all during those days, and when they were over, he was famished.³ The devil said to him, “If you are the Son of God, command this stone to become a loaf of bread.”⁴ Jesus answered him, “It is written, ‘One does not live by bread alone.’”

⁵ Then the devil^a led him up and showed him in an instant all the kingdoms of the world.⁶ And the devil^a said to him, “To you I will give their glory and all this authority; for it has been given over to me, and I give it to anyone I please.⁷ If you, then, will worship me, it will all be yours.”⁸ Jesus answered him, “It is written,

‘Worship the Lord your God,
and serve only him.’”

⁹ Then the devil^a took him to Jerusalem, and placed him on the pinnacle of the temple, saying to him, “If you are the Son of God, throw yourself down from here,¹⁰ for it is written,

‘He will command his angels concerning
you,
to protect you,’

¹¹ and

‘On their hands they will bear you up, so that you will not dash your foot against a stone.’”

¹² Jesus answered him, “It is said, ‘Do not put the Lord your God to the test.’”¹³ When the devil had finished every test, he departed from him until an opportune time.

¹⁴ Then Jesus, filled with the power of the Spirit, returned to Galilee, and a report about him spread through all the surrounding country.¹⁵ He began to teach in their synagogues and was praised by everyone.

¹⁶ When he came to Nazareth, where he had been brought up, he went to the synagogue on the sabbath day, as was his custom. He stood up to read,¹⁷ and the scroll of the prophet Isaiah was given to him. He unrolled the scroll and found the place where it was written:

¹⁸ “The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he has anointed me
to bring good news to the poor.
He has sent me to proclaim release to the captives
and recovery of sight to the blind,
to let the oppressed go free,
¹⁹ to proclaim the year of the Lord’s favor.”

²⁰ And he rolled up the scroll, gave it back to the attendant, and sat down. The eyes of all in the synagogue were fixed on him.²¹ Then he began to say to them, “Today this scripture has been fulfilled in your hearing.”²² All

^a Gk he

4.1–13: The temptation of Jesus (Mt 4.1–11; Mk 1.12–13). Note the emphasis on the (Holy) Spirit. The order of the temptations differs from Matthew’s, but the particular tests are the same. 2: The mention of forty days in relation to the stay in the “wilderness” recalls Israel’s forty years of wandering in the wilderness after the Exodus (Deut 8.2; see also Deut 9.9; 1 Kings 19.8). 4: Deut 8.3. 8: Deut 6.13; 10.20. 10–11: Ps 91.11–12. 12: Deut 6.16. 13: Until an opportune time, see 22.3, 28, 53.

4.14–9.50: Jesus’ ministry in Galilee (Mt 4.12–18.35; Mk 1.14–9.50).

4.14–15: The beginning of the Galilean ministry (Mt 4.12–17; Mk 1.14–15). 14: Luke mentions Jesus’ fame repeatedly, see v. 37; 5.15; 7.17. 15: Synagogues, local places of Jewish worship and instruction; see 4.44.

4.16–30: Jesus in Nazareth (Mt 13.53–58; Mk 6.1–6). Luke has transposed this incident to make it a frontispiece at the outset of Jesus’ ministry. The parallel account in Mark 6.1–6 follows earlier appearances and work in Galilee; statements in Luke’s version of this incident seem out of sequence because Jesus has not yet engaged in the specific ministry to which he refers in this speech (v. 23). The details given here of synagogue worship are the earliest accounts of them. 17: The scroll of . . . Isaiah was given to Jesus by the attendant of the synagogue (v. 20). Scrolls were kept in a special place in the synagogue and were given to readers by the attendant. 18–19: Isa spoke well of him and were amazed at the gracious words that came from his mouth. They said, “Is not this Joseph’s son?”²³ He said to them, “Doubtless you will quote to me this proverb, ‘Doctor, cure yourself!’ And you will say, ‘Do here also in your hometown the things that we have heard you did at Capernaum.’”²⁴ And he said, “Truly I tell you, no prophet is accepted in the prophet’s hometown.²⁵ But the truth is, there were many widows in Israel in the time of Elijah, when the heaven was shut up three years and six months, and there was a severe famine over all the land;²⁶ yet Elijah was sent to none of them except to a widow at Zarephath in Sidon.²⁷ There were also many lepers^a in Israel in the time of the prophet Elisha, and none of them was cleansed except Naaman the Syrian.”²⁸ When they heard this, all in the synagogue were filled with rage.²⁹ They got up, drove him out of the town, and led him to the brow of the hill on which their town was built, so that they might hurl him off the cliff.³⁰ But he passed through the midst of them and went on his way.

³¹ He went down to Capernaum, a city in Galilee, and was teaching them on the sabbath.³² They were astounded at his teaching, because he spoke with authority.³³ In the synagogue there was a man who had the spirit of an unclean demon, and he cried out with a loud voice,³⁴ “Let us alone! What have you to do with us, Jesus of Nazareth? Have you come to destroy us? I know who you are, the Holy One of God.”³⁵ But Jesus rebuked him, saying, “Be silent, and come out of him!” When the demon had thrown him down before them, he came out of him without having done him any harm.³⁶ They were all amazed and kept saying to one another, “What kind of utterance is this? For with authority and power he commands the unclean spirits, and out they come!”³⁷ And a report about him began to reach every place in the region.

³⁸ After leaving the synagogue he entered Simon’s house. Now Simon’s mother-in-law was suffering from a high fever, and they asked him about her.³⁹ Then he stood over her and rebuked the fever, and it left her. Immediately she got up and began to serve them.

⁴⁰ As the sun was setting, all those who had any who were sick with various kinds of diseases brought them to him; and he laid his hands on each of them and cured them.⁴¹ Demons also came out of many, shouting, “You are the Son of God!” But he rebuked them and would not allow them to speak, because they knew that he was the Messiah.^b

⁴² At daybreak he departed and went into a deserted place. And the crowds were looking

^a The terms leper and leprosy can refer to several diseases

^b Or the Christ

61.1; 58.6; 61.2. 22: The initial reaction to Jesus was strikingly positive. 24–27: Traditions of the prophets (1 Kings 17.8–16; 2 Kings 5.1–14) illustrate that foreigners sometimes experienced God’s aid when Israel did not. 28: The hostile reaction comes in response to Jesus’ references to Gentiles (vv. 24–27), not to his apparent messianic claims (v. 21).

4.31–37: Jesus in the synagogue at Capernaum (Mt 4.13; 7.28–29; Mk 1.21–28). Demons were thought of as nonmaterial existences of a personal kind, hostile to human welfare and rebellious against God. The Gospels reflect widespread dread of demons and a general sense of helplessness before demonic activity. Jesus is portrayed here and elsewhere (11.20–22) as one who can deliver persons from demonic oppression and from Satan himself (see 13.16). 31: This incident is the first of five sabbath healings or exorcisms by Jesus (4.31,38; 6.6; 13.10; 14.1). 32: Jesus produced astonishment; 2.48; 9.43. 34–36: The demon recognized Jesus’ true identity, whereas the people were simply amazed; see 4.41.

4.38–39: The healing of Simon Peter’s mother-in-law (Mt 8.14–15; Mk 1.29–31). While not stated explicitly, this incident is another “sabbath healing” (see 4.31n.). Simon Peter is more fully introduced in 5.1–11; 6.13–14. 38–39: Simon a Greek personal name meaning “flat-nosed,” is used in the New Testament as an alternative for the Hebrew name “Simeon,” which means “hearing.”

4.40–41: Healings and exorcisms at sunset (Mt 8.16–17; Mk 1.32–34). With the sabbath ending at sundown, people began to present their problems and maladies to Jesus for attention and healing.

4.42–44: Departure and further preaching in Galilee (Mt 4.23; Mk 1.35–39). 44: This is the only express men-for him; and when they reached him, they wanted to prevent him from leaving them.

⁴³ But he said to them, “I must proclaim the good news of the kingdom of God to the other cities also; for I was sent for this purpose.”

⁴⁴ So he continued proclaiming the message in the synagogues of Judea.^a

5 Once while Jesus^b was standing beside the lake of Gennesaret, and the crowd was pressing in on him to hear the word of God,² he saw two boats there at the shore of the lake; the fishermen had gone out of them and were washing their nets. ³ He got into one of the boats, the one belonging to Simon, and asked him to put out a little way from the shore. Then he sat down and taught the crowds from the boat. ⁴ When he had finished speaking, he said to Simon, “Put out into the deep water and let down your nets for a catch.” ⁵ Simon answered, “Master, we have worked all night long but have caught nothing. Yet if you say so, I will let down the nets.” ⁶ When they had done this, they caught so many fish that their nets were beginning to break. ⁷ So they signaled their partners in the other boat to come and help them. And they came and filled both boats, so that they began to sink. ⁸ But when Simon Peter saw it, he fell down at Jesus’ knees, saying, “Go away from me, Lord, for I am a sinful man!” ⁹ For he and all who were with him were amazed at the catch of fish that they had taken; ¹⁰ and so also were James and John, sons of Zebedee, who were partners with Simon. Then Jesus said to Simon, “Do not be afraid; from now on you will be catching people.” ¹¹ When they had brought their boats to shore, they left everything and followed him.

¹² Once, when he was in one of the cities, there was a man covered with leprosy.^c When he saw Jesus, he bowed with his face to the ground and begged him, “Lord, if you choose, you can make me clean.” ¹³ Then Jesus^b stretched out his hand, touched him, and said, “I do choose. Be made clean.” Immediately the leprosy^c left him. ¹⁴ And he ordered him to tell no one. “Go,” he said, “and show yourself to the priest, and, as Moses commanded, make an offering for your cleansing, for a testimony to them.” ¹⁵ But now more than ever the word about Jesus^d spread abroad; many crowds would gather to hear him and to be cured of their diseases. ¹⁶ But he would withdraw to deserted places and pray.

¹⁷ One day, while he was teaching, Pharisees and teachers of the law were sitting near by (they had come from every village of Galilee and Judea and from Jerusalem); and the power of the Lord was with him to heal.^e ¹⁸ Just then some men came, carrying a paralyzed man on a bed. They were trying to bring him in and lay him before Jesus;^d ¹⁹ but finding no way to bring him in because of the crowd, they went up on the roof and let him down with his bed

^a Other ancient authorities read Galilee

^b Gk he

^c The terms leper and leprosy can refer to several diseases

^d Gk him

^e Other ancient authorities read was present to heal them

tion outside the Fourth Gospel of Jesus’ early Judean ministry (but compare the implication of Mt 23.37 and Lk 13.34). Here, however, Luke may simply employ Judea to refer to the broader Palestinian region as the land of the Jews.

5.1–11: The great catch of fish (Mt 13.1–3a; 4.18–22; Mk 4.1–2; 1.16–20); Jn 21.4–7. 1: Lake of Gennesaret, Sea of Galilee.

5.12–16: The healing of a leper (Mt 8.1–4; Mk 1.40–45). 12–16: The biblical descriptions of leprosy make clear that the term was a generic reference to skin ailments from psoriasis to true leprosy, as well as mold, mildew, and fungus. 14: Lev 13.2–3; 14.2–32. Jesus’ touching this man countered the common religious assumption that such contact rendered a person unclean. The healing demonstrates the power of God in Jesus overcoming that which was deemed unclean.

5.17–26: Healing and forgiveness of sins (Mt 9.1–8; Mk 2.1–12). 17: The Pharisees were lay persons who were part of a religious movement (a sectarian group within Judaism) that was devoted to strict and faithful observance of the law of Moses. The concern of the Pharisees was with both the written form of the law and the interpretation of the law offered and preserved in oral tradition. The law is the law of Moses or the Torah. 19: Through the tiles is Luke’s adjustment of Mark’s story to present a tiled roof rather than the mud-plaster roof in which through the tiles into the middle of the crowd^a in front of Jesus.²⁰ When he saw their faith, he said, “Friend,^b your sins are forgiven you.”

²¹ Then the scribes and the Pharisees began to question, “Who is this who is speaking blasphemies? Who can forgive sins but God alone?”²² When Jesus perceived their questionings, he answered them, “Why do you raise such questions in your hearts?²³ Which is easier, to say, ‘Your sins are forgiven you,’ or to say, ‘Stand up and walk’?²⁴ But so that you may know that the Son of Man has authority on earth to forgive sins”—he said to the one who was paralyzed—“I say to you, stand up and take your bed and go to your home.”²⁵ Immediately he stood up before them, took what he had been lying on, and went to his home, glorifying God.²⁶ Amazement seized all of them, and they glorified God and were filled with awe, saying, “We have seen strange things today.”

²⁷ After this he went out and saw a tax collector named Levi, sitting at the tax booth; and he said to him, “Follow me.”²⁸ And he got up, left everything, and followed him.

²⁹ Then Levi gave a great banquet for him in his house; and there was a large crowd of tax collectors and others sitting at the table^c with them.³⁰ The Pharisees and their scribes were complaining to his disciples, saying, “Why do you eat and drink with tax collectors and sinners?”³¹ Jesus answered, “Those who are well have no need of a physician, but those who are sick;³² I have come to call not the righteous but sinners to repentance.”

³³ Then they said to him, “John’s disciples, like the disciples of the Pharisees, frequently fast and pray, but your disciples eat and drink.”³⁴ Jesus said to them, “You cannot make wedding guests fast while the bridegroom is with them, can you?³⁵ The days will come when the bridegroom will be taken away from them, and then they will fast in those days.”³⁶ He also told them a parable: “No one tears a piece from a new garment and sews it on an old garment; otherwise the new will be torn, and the piece from the new will not match the old.³⁷ And no one puts new wine into old wineskins; otherwise the new wine will burst the skins and will be spilled, and the skins will be destroyed.³⁸ But new wine must be put into fresh wineskins.³⁹ And no one after drinking old wine desires new wine, but says, ‘The old is good.’”^d

6 One sabbath^e while Jesus^f was going through the grainfields, his disciples plucked some heads of grain, rubbed them in their hands, and ate them.² But some of the Pharisees said, “Why are you doing what is not lawful^g on the sabbath?”³ Jesus answered,

^a Gk into the midst

^b Gk Man

^c Gk reclining

^d Other ancient authorities read better; others lack verse 39

^e Other ancient authorities read On the second first sabbath

^f Gk he

^g Other ancient authorities add to do

Mark’s account says the people “dug” a hole through which to lower the paralytic. 20: The connection here between forgiveness of sins and healing reflects an ancient belief that sickness resulted from sin (see Ex 34.7; Jn 9.2). 21: Scribes, the group called “teachers of the law” at 5.17, were Jewish specialists in the law of Moses. Luke also refers to these persons as “lawyers,” e.g., 7.30. 21: “Blasphemy” was a capital offense; see Lev 24.14–16. 24: Son of Man, Jesus’ self-designation here and in other Gospel accounts is an ambiguous title that can be understood either to refer to Jesus as a human being among humans (e.g., Ps 8.4; Ezek 2.1) or to identify Jesus with the apocalyptic figure of Dan 7.13–14, who was often understood to be the coming messiah and deputy of God.

5.27–32: The call of Levi (Mt 9.9–13; Mk 2.13–17). 27: Tax collectors worked directly or indirectly for the Roman overlords and were generally despised by the Jewish population. Levi is identified by some as Matthew (6.15; cf. Mt 10.3).

5.33–39: Debate about fasting (Mt 9.14–17; Mk 2.18–22). 34–35: Jesus’ words refer to him as the bridegroom and to days when the bridegroom will be taken away from them as the time after his death and resurrection. 36: Parable, memorable word-pictures or stories that captured and communicated in sometimes cryptic form the essence of Jesus’ message concerning God and God’s kingdom. 39: Found only in Luke, this saying is difficult to interpret. It may be ironic, indicating that contentment with the old prevents openness to the new.

6.1–11: Eating and healing on the sabbath (Mt 12.1–14; Mk 2.23–3.6). 2: Harvesting violated the sabbath

“Have you not read what David did when he and his companions were hungry? ⁴ He entered the house of God and took and ate the bread of the Presence, which it is not lawful for any but the priests to eat, and gave some to his companions?” ⁵ Then he said to them, “The Son of Man is lord of the sabbath.”

⁶ On another sabbath he entered the synagogue and taught, and there was a man there whose right hand was withered. ⁷ The scribes and the Pharisees watched him to see whether he would cure on the sabbath, so that they might find an accusation against him. ⁸ Even though he knew what they were thinking, he said to the man who had the withered hand, “Come and stand here.” He got up and stood there. ⁹ Then Jesus said to them, “I ask you, is it lawful to do good or to do harm on the sabbath, to save life or to destroy it?” ¹⁰ After looking around at all of them, he said to him, “Stretch out your hand.” He did so, and his hand was restored. ¹¹ But they were filled with fury and discussed with one another what they might do to Jesus.

¹² Now during those days he went out to the mountain to pray; and he spent the night in prayer to God. ¹³ And when day came, he called his disciples and chose twelve of them, whom he also named apostles: ¹⁴ Simon, whom he named Peter, and his brother Andrew, and James, and John, and Philip, and Bartholomew, ¹⁵ and Matthew, and Thomas, and James son of Alphaeus, and Simon, who was called the Zealot, ¹⁶ and Judas son of James, and Judas Iscariot, who became a traitor.

¹⁷ He came down with them and stood on a level place, with a great crowd of his disciples and a great multitude of people from all Judea, Jerusalem, and the coast of Tyre and Sidon. ¹⁸ They had come to hear him and to be healed of their diseases; and those who were troubled with unclean spirits were cured. ¹⁹ And all in the crowd were trying to touch him, for power came out from him and healed all of them.

²⁰ Then he looked up at his disciples and said:

“Blessed are you who are poor,
for yours is the kingdom of God.

²¹ “Blessed are you who are hungry now,
for you will be filled.

“Blessed are you who weep now,
for you will laugh.

²² “Blessed are you when people hate you,
and when they exclude you, revile you,
and defame you^a on account of the Son of Man.

²³ Rejoice in that day and leap for joy, for surely your reward is great in heaven; for that is what their ancestors did to the prophets.

²⁴ “But woe to you who are rich,
for you have received your consolation.

^a Gk cast out your name as evil rest (Ex 34.21). 3–4: Luke’s version of this story does not name the priest as in Mk 2.23–26. 3: 1 Sam 21.1–6. 4: Lev 24.5–9. 5: See 5.24n. 6: See 4.31n. 11: The Gk word “anioa” translated “fury” more exactly means “lack of understanding.”

6.12–16: Jesus’ selection of the twelve (Mt 10.1–4; Mk 3.13–19a). Other lists of the twelve occur at Mt 10.2–4; Mk 3.16–19; Acts 1.13; while there is variation, Peter is always named first and Judas Iscariot is always named last. 13: “The twelve” (8.1; Acts 6.2; etc.) are a recognized and remembered group in early Christianity, and Luke designates the twelve to be apostles in such a way that the two titles are strictly equated. “Apostle” (from the Gk verb “apostellein,” “to send”) occurs in the New Testament to designate a Christian who was commissioned to preach the gospel, essentially as a missionary. 14: The “name” Peter is a nickname, meaning “rock.” 15: Zealots were a distinct faction of revolutionaries in the Jewish war with Rome of 66–70 CE, but whether this designation indicates that this Simon was zealous in a political fashion is debatable since it is unlikely that a Zealot party existed during Jesus’ life. 16: Iscariot is a peculiar term that probably means “the man from Kerioth” (see Josh 15.25); if so, then this Judas was the only Judean among the twelve.

6.17–49: The Sermon on the Plain (Mt 5–7).

6.17–19: The occasion of the preaching (Mt 4.24–5.2; Mk 3.7–13a). 18: Unclean spirits designates “spirits” that are contrary to God. “Clean” and “unclean” were religious terms, not strictly descriptions of sanitary conditions, and can be understood as categories of “holiness” or “sanctity.” 19: Luke emphasizes both that the throngs pressed on Jesus and that Jesus was a source of miraculous power.

6.20–23: The beatitudes (Mt 5.3–12). The focus is on economic and social conditions, not spiritual states.

²⁵ “Woe to you who are full now,
for you will be hungry.

“Woe to you who are laughing now,
for you will mourn and weep.

²⁶ “Woe to you when all speak well of you, for that is what their ancestors did to the false prophets.

²⁷ “But I say to you that listen, Love your enemies, do good to those who hate you, ²⁸ bless those who curse you, pray for those who abuse you. ²⁹ If anyone strikes you on the cheek, offer the other also; and from anyone who takes away your coat do not withhold even your shirt. ³⁰ Give to everyone who begs from you; and if anyone takes away your goods, do not ask for them again. ³¹ Do to others as you would have them do to you.

³² “If you love those who love you, what credit is that to you? For even sinners love those who love them. ³³ If you do good to those who do good to you, what credit is that to you? For even sinners do the same. ³⁴ If you lend to those from whom you hope to receive, what credit is that to you? Even sinners lend to sinners, to receive as much again.
³⁵ But love your enemies, do good, and lend, expecting nothing in return.^a Your reward will be great, and you will be children of the Most High; for he is kind to the ungrateful and the wicked. ³⁶ Be merciful, just as your Father is merciful.

³⁷ “Do not judge, and you will not be judged; do not condemn, and you will not be condemned. Forgive, and you will be forgiven; ³⁸ give, and it will be given to you. A good measure, pressed down, shaken together, running over, will be put into your lap; for the measure you give will be the measure you get back.”

³⁹ He also told them a parable: “Can a blind person guide a blind person? Will not both fall into a pit? ⁴⁰ A disciple is not above the teacher, but everyone who is fully qualified will be like the teacher. ⁴¹ Why do you see the speck in your neighbor’s^b eye, but do not notice the log in your own eye? ⁴² Or how can you say to your neighbor,^c ‘Friend,^c let me take out the speck in your eye,’ when you yourself do not see the log in your own eye? You hypocrite, first take the log out of your own eye, and then you will see clearly to take the speck out of your neighbor’s^b eye.

⁴³ “No good tree bears bad fruit, nor again does a bad tree bear good fruit; ⁴⁴ for each tree is known by its own fruit. Figs are not gathered from thorns, nor are grapes picked from a bramble bush. ⁴⁵ The good person out of the good treasure of the heart produces good, and the evil person out of evil treasure produces evil; for it is out of the abundance of the heart that the mouth speaks.

⁴⁶ “Why do you call me ‘Lord, Lord,’ and do not do what I tell you? ⁴⁷ I will show you what someone is like who comes to me, hears my words, and acts on them. ⁴⁸ That one is like a man building a house, who dug deeply and laid the foundation on rock; when a flood arose, the river burst against that house but could not shake it, because it had been well built.^d ⁴⁹ But the one who hears and does not act is like a man who built a house on the

^a Other ancient authorities read despairing of no one

^b Gk brother’s

^c Gk brother

^d Other ancient authorities read founded upon the rock

6.24–26: The woes. These verses provide a point-by-point antithesis to the previous statements of blessing in vv. 20–23. Again, actual circumstances are the point of Jesus’ statements. In Jesus’ declarations of blessings and woes, the earthly status of those addressed will be reversed in the divinely determined future.

6.27–36: The love of enemies (Mt 5.38–48; 7.12). Jesus demands love and forbids spite or retaliation. 28: In Luke, Jesus gives an example of this on the cross in 23.34, if that verse is authentic. 31: Luke’s version of the “Golden Rule,” see Mt 7.12. 34–35: For Israelite laws concerning loans, see Ex 22.25; Lev 25.36–37; Deut 23.19–20. 36: Cf. Mt 5.48; God’s own actions and character provide the standard.

6.37–42: On judging others (Mt 7.1–5; 12.36–37; 15.14; Mk 4.24–25). 41–42: The form of this teaching is hyperbole.

6.43–45: The sources of good and evil (Mt 7.15–20; 12.33–35). Cf. Jas 3.11–12. 45: Heart, for the ancients the heart was the body’s mental and spiritual center.

6.46–49: The wise and the foolish builders (Mt 7.21–27). Cf. Jas 1.22–25.

ground without a foundation. When the river burst against it, immediately it fell, and great was the ruin of that house.”

7 After Jesus^a had finished all his sayings in the hearing of the people, he entered Capernaum. ²A centurion there had a slave whom he valued highly, and who was ill and close to death. ³When he heard about Jesus, he sent some Jewish elders to him, asking him to come and heal his slave. ⁴When they came to Jesus, they appealed to him earnestly, saying, “He is worthy of having you do this for him, ⁵for he loves our people, and it is he who built our synagogue for us.” ⁶And Jesus went with them, but when he was not far from the house, the centurion sent friends to say to him, “Lord, do not trouble yourself, for I am not worthy to have you come under my roof; ⁷therefore I did not presume to come to you. But only speak the word, and let my servant be healed. ⁸For I also am a man set under authority, with soldiers under me; and I say to one, ‘Go,’ and he goes, and to another, ‘Come,’ and he comes, and to my slave, ‘Do this,’ and the slave does it.” ⁹When Jesus heard this he was amazed at him, and turning to the crowd that followed him, he said, “I tell you, not even in Israel have I found such faith.” ¹⁰When those who had been sent returned to the house, they found the slave in good health.

¹¹Soon afterwards^b he went to a town called Nain, and his disciples and a large crowd went with him. ¹²As he approached the gate of the town, a man who had died was being carried out. He was his mother’s only son, and she was a widow; and with her was a large crowd from the town. ¹³When the Lord saw her, he had compassion for her and said to her, “Do not weep.” ¹⁴Then he came forward and touched the bier, and the bearers stood still. And he said, “Young man, I say to you, rise!” ¹⁵The dead man sat up and began to speak, and Jesus^a gave him to his mother. ¹⁶Fear seized all of them; and they glorified God, saying, “A great prophet has risen among us!” and “God has looked favorably on his people!” ¹⁷This word about him spread throughout Judea and all the surrounding country.

¹⁸The disciples of John reported all these things to him. So John summoned two of his disciples¹⁹ and sent them to the Lord to ask, “Are you the one who is to come, or are we to wait for another?” ²⁰When the men had come to him, they said, “John the Baptist has sent us to you to ask, ‘Are you the one who is to come, or are we to wait for another?’” ²¹Jesus^c had just then cured many people of diseases, plagues, and evil spirits, and had given sight to many who were blind. ²²And he answered them, “Go and tell John what you have seen and heard: the blind receive their sight, the lame walk, the lepers^d are cleansed, the deaf hear, the dead are raised, the poor have good news brought to them. ²³And blessed is anyone who takes no offense at me.”

^a Gk he

^b Other ancient authorities read Next day

^c Gk He

^d The terms leper and leprosy can refer to several diseases

7:1–10: The centurion’s slave (Mt 8.5–13). This story parallels the account of Peter’s conversion of the Gentile centurion Cornelius, who was also generous to the Jews; see Acts 10.2,34–35. 2: Centurion, an officer in charge of a company of 100 soldiers. Clearly a Gentile, this particular centurion was either an employee of Herod Antipas, a member of the Roman police force, or an official attached to the customs service. 3: Elders, leaders in the Jewish community. 6: According to Acts 10.28, the house of a Gentile was considered unclean, and entering such a home defiled a Jew (see also m. Oholot 18.7). 9: Though Luke lacks the climactic utterance of Mt 8.13, his intent is the same: The faith of a Gentile is acceptable to Jesus (4.27; 5.32).

7:11–17: The widow’s son at Nain. Cf. 1 Kings 17.17–24; 2 Kings 4.32–37; see Lk 4.25–26. 11: Nain, about 37 km (23 mi) southwest of Capernaum. 12: Cemeteries were usually located outside a city or town. This description of the widow implies that she is utterly destitute with the death of her son. 16: Apparently the similarity of Jesus’ action to that of Elijah in raising the only son of a widow of Zarephath (1 Kings 17) elicits the reaction of the crowd. 17: See 4.42–44n.

7:18–35: Jesus and John the Baptist (Mt 11.2–19). 18: John the Baptist was at this time in prison (see 2.9) at Machaerus, east of the Dead Sea. 19: Lord, Luke’s own title for Jesus. The one who is to come, the messiah.

²⁴ When John's messengers had gone, Jesus^a began to speak to the crowds about John.^b "What did you go out into the wilderness to look at? A reed shaken by the wind?"²⁵ What then did you go out to see? Someone^c dressed in soft robes? Look, those who put on fine clothing and live in luxury are in royal palaces.²⁶ What then did you go out to see? A prophet? Yes, I tell you, and more than a prophet.²⁷ This is the one about whom it is written,

'See, I am sending my messenger ahead of you,

who will prepare your way before you.'

²⁸ I tell you, among those born of women no one is greater than John; yet the least in the kingdom of God is greater than he."²⁹ (And all the people who heard this, including the tax collectors, acknowledged the justice of God,^d because they had been baptized with John's baptism.³⁰ But by refusing to be baptized by him, the Pharisees and the lawyers rejected God's purpose for themselves.)

³¹ "To what then will I compare the people of this generation, and what are they like?"

³² They are like children sitting in the marketplace and calling to one another,

'We played the flute for you, and you did not dance;

we wailed, and you did not weep.'

³³ For John the Baptist has come eating no bread and drinking no wine, and you say, 'He has a demon';³⁴ the Son of Man has come eating and drinking, and you say, 'Look, a glutton and a drunkard, a friend of tax collectors and sinners!' ³⁵ Nevertheless, wisdom is vindicated by all her children."

³⁶ One of the Pharisees asked Jesus^b to eat with him, and he went into the Pharisee's house and took his place at the table.

³⁷ And a woman in the city, who was a sinner, having learned that he was eating in the Pharisee's house, brought an alabaster jar of ointment.³⁸ She stood behind him at his feet, weeping, and began to bathe his feet with her tears and to dry them with her hair. Then she continued kissing his feet and anointing them with the ointment.³⁹ Now when the Pharisee who had invited him saw it, he said to himself, "If this man were a prophet, he would have known who and what kind of woman this is who is touching him—that she is a sinner."

⁴⁰ Jesus spoke up and said to him, "Simon, I have something to say to you." "Teacher," he replied, "speak."⁴¹ "A certain creditor had two debtors; one owed five hundred denarii,^e and the other fifty."⁴² When they could not pay, he canceled the debts for both of them. Now which of them will love him more?"⁴³ Simon answered, "I suppose the one for whom he canceled the greater debt." And Jesus^a said to him, "You have judged rightly."⁴⁴ Then turning toward the woman, he said to Simon, "Do you see this woman? I entered your house; you gave me no water for my feet, but she has bathed my feet with her tears and dried them with her hair.⁴⁵ You gave me no kiss, but from the time I came in she has not stopped kissing my feet.⁴⁶ You did not anoint my head with oil, but she has anointed my feet with oint-

^a Gk he

^b Gk him

^c Or Why then did you go out? To see someone

^d Or praised God

^e The denarius was the usual day's wage for a laborer

22: This verse contains phrases from Isa 29.18; 42.18; 26.19; see also Isa 35.5–6; 61.1; Lk 4.18–19. 24–30: Jesus' statements concerning John indicate the nature of the relationship between them. John is Jesus' precursor, the messenger mentioned in Mal 3.1 and identified in Mal 3.23 as Elijah. John, then, is an Elijah-like figure, not Elijah reincarnated. 27: Ex 23.20; Mal 3.1. 28: A pivotal point arises with the ministries of John and Jesus. 30: The Pharisees and the lawyers are specific, not simply all, members of their classes. 33: Demon possession is offered as the explanation of unconventional behavior or attitudes that were deemed unacceptable or inappropriate. 35: The personification of "Wisdom" is a way to speak of God and God's purposes; thus, Wisdom's children are those who do God's will.

7.36–50: Simon the Pharisee, Jesus, and the woman with the ointment (Mt 26.6–13; Mk 14.3–9; Jn 12.1–8). 37: Houses seem to have been open to intrusion of this kind (cf. Mk 1.33; 2.2). The story seems to presuppose a previous encounter between Jesus and the woman, a story not told in this Gospel. 38: Jesus reclined at the banquet table, stretching out his feet on a couch. The motivation for the woman's anointing Jesus' feet rather than ment. ⁴⁷Therefore, I tell you, her sins, which were many, have been forgiven; hence she has shown great love. But the one to whom little is forgiven, loves little.” ⁴⁸Then he said to her, “Your sins are forgiven.” ⁴⁹But those who were at the table with him began to say among themselves, “Who is this who even forgives sins?” ⁵⁰And he said to the woman, “Your faith has saved you; go in peace.”

8 Soon afterwards he went on through cities and villages, proclaiming and bringing the good news of the kingdom of God. The twelve were with him, ²as well as some women who had been cured of evil spirits and infirmities: Mary, called Magdalene, from whom seven demons had gone out, ³and Joanna, the wife of Herod’s steward Chuza, and Susanna, and many others, who provided for them^a out of their resources.

⁴When a great crowd gathered and people from town after town came to him, he said in a parable: ⁵“A sower went out to sow his seed; and as he sowed, some fell on the path and was trampled on, and the birds of the air ate it up. ⁶Some fell on the rock; and as it grew up, it withered for lack of moisture. ⁷Some fell among thorns, and the thorns grew with it and choked it. ⁸Some fell into good soil, and when it grew, it produced a hundred-fold.” As he said this, he called out, “Let anyone with ears to hear listen!”

⁹Then his disciples asked him what this parable meant. ¹⁰He said, “To you it has been given to know the secrets^b of the kingdom of God; but to others I speak^c in parables, so that

‘looking they may not perceive,
and listening they may not understand.’

¹¹“Now the parable is this: The seed is the word of God. ¹²The ones on the path are those who have heard; then the devil comes and takes away the word from their hearts, so that they may not believe and be saved.

¹³The ones on the rock are those who, when they hear the word, receive it with joy. But these have no root; they believe only for a while and in a time of testing fall away.

¹⁴As for what fell among the thorns, these are the ones who hear; but as they go on their way, they are choked by the cares and riches and pleasures of life, and their fruit does not mature. ¹⁵But as for that in the good soil, these are the ones who, when they hear the word, hold it fast in an honest and good heart, and bear fruit with patient endurance.

¹⁶“No one after lighting a lamp hides it under a jar, or puts it under a bed, but puts it

^a Other ancient authorities read him

^b Or mysteries

^c Gk lacks I speak

his head, which was the normal action, is uncertain. 47: Hence she has shown great love, her great love proving that her many sins had been forgiven. Cf. v. 48; 5.20. 50: Cf. 8.48; 17.19; 18.42. The story combines the ideas of faith, salvation, forgiveness, and peace.

8.1–3: Jesus’ tour and the ministering women. These verses recall the itinerant character of Jesus’ preaching, teaching, and healing. His entourage included the unusual combination of male and female followers. Given ancient Palestinian attitudes toward women, this association of these Galilean women with Jesus’ ministry is remarkable, as is the mixture of the sexes among the followers. Many of those persons mentioned here later follow Jesus to Jerusalem and witness his arrest, crucifixion, death, burial, empty tomb, and resurrection appearances. See 23.49. 2: Mary, called Magdalene, apparently came from Magdala on the western coast of the Sea of Galilee. There is no evidence to identify her with the woman in 7.36–50. 3: Herod’s steward was probably a domestic administrator. Others, i.e., other women.

8.4–8: Parable of the sower (Mt 13.1–9; Mk 4.1–9). 4–8: The parable invites allegorization, which follows in 8.11–15.

8.9–10: Jesus’ explanation of parables (Mt 13.10–17; Mk 4.1–10). 10: Paraphrase of Isa 6.9–10. See Mk 4.11; Mt 13.11; Jer 5.21; Ezek 12.2. The meaning of the statement is enigmatic and implies that parables deliberately created obscurity while actually revealing a message.

8.11–15: Interpretation of the parable of the sower (Mt 13.18–23; Mk 4.13–20). 15: The words honest and good, here spoken of the heart (cf. Mk 7.21–23), echo the classical Greek description of the true gentleman. Heart, see 6.45n.

8.16–18: On obedient listening (Mt 5.15; 10.26; 13.12; Mk 4.21–25).

on a lampstand, so that those who enter may see the light. ¹⁷For nothing is hidden that will not be disclosed, nor is anything secret that will not become known and come to light.

¹⁸Then pay attention to how you listen; for to those who have, more will be given; and from those who do not have, even what they seem to have will be taken away.”

¹⁹Then his mother and his brothers came to him, but they could not reach him because of the crowd. ²⁰And he was told, “Your mother and your brothers are standing outside, wanting to see you.” ²¹But he said to them, “My mother and my brothers are those who hear the word of God and do it.”

²²One day he got into a boat with his disciples, and he said to them, “Let us go across to the other side of the lake.” So they put out, ²³and while they were sailing he fell asleep. A windstorm swept down on the lake, and the boat was filling with water, and they were in danger. ²⁴They went to him and woke him up, shouting, “Master, Master, we are perishing!” And he woke up and rebuked the wind and the raging waves; they ceased, and there was a calm. ²⁵He said to them, “Where is your faith?” They were afraid and amazed, and said to one another, “Who then is this, that he commands even the winds and the water, and they obey him?”

²⁶Then they arrived at the country of the Gerasenes,^a which is opposite Galilee. ²⁷As he stepped out on land, a man of the city who had demons met him. For a long time he had worn^b no clothes, and he did not live in a house but in the tombs. ²⁸When he saw Jesus, he fell down before him and shouted at the top of his voice, “What have you to do with me, Jesus, Son of the Most High God? I beg you, do not torment me”—²⁹for Jesus^c had commanded the unclean spirit to come out of the man. (For many times it had seized him; he was kept under guard and bound with chains and shackles, but he would break the bonds and be driven by the demon into the wilds.) ³⁰Jesus then asked him, “What is your name?” He said, “Legion”; for many demons had entered him. ³¹They begged him not to order them to go back into the abyss.

³²Now there on the hillside a large herd of swine was feeding; and the demons^d begged Jesus^e to let them enter these. So he gave them permission. ³³Then the demons came

^a Other ancient authorities read Gadarenes; others, Gergesenes

^b Other ancient authorities read a man of the city who had had demons for a long time met him. He wore

^c Gk he

^d Gk they

^e Gk him

8.19–21: Jesus’ true relatives (Mt 12.46–50; Mk 3.31–35). 19: Brothers, four names are given in Mk 6.3, and there is also a mention of sisters. A variety of explanations come from the early church, usually arguing that they were sons of Joseph by a previous marriage, or that they were cousins, or that they were the natural children of Joseph and Mary. 21: Luke seems to soften Mark’s version of Jesus’ reply, not reporting items such as Mk 3.20–21,33, so that the natural family of Jesus is not rejected as Jesus highlights the importance of obedience to God as the essential criterion for intimacy and mutual concern among Jesus’ followers.

8.22–25: Winds and water obey (Mt 8.23–27; Mk 4.35–41). Power over the elements is a divine capacity often celebrated in the Psalms and other texts (see Ps 107.28–30).

8.26–39: The Gerasene demoniac (Mt 8.28–34; Mk 5.1–20). 26: Gerasenes, the territory of the city of Gerasa (modern Jerash) was in central Transjordan; its population was largely non-Jewish. Mt 8.28 situates this event in Gadara, southeast of the Sea of Galilee, a setting that fits the narrative somewhat better. 28: The demon-possessed man recognized Jesus’ true identity. 30: The inquiry after the name of the demon-possessed man probably reflects the ancient idea that knowledge of the name of a supernatural power gave one an advantage over it (see, e.g., Gen 32.29). Legion, the technical term for a division of the Roman army, usually consisting of about five thousand troops; thus the name suggests a horde of demons (see 11.24–26). 31: Abyss, a place of confinement for demonic forces which, though hostile to God, are ultimately under his control (Rev 9.1–11; 11.7; 17.8; 20.1–3). The words attribute a judicial authority to Jesus (as do Mt 7.21–23; 11.20–24). 32: Swine, Jews were prohibited from eating pork (Lev 11.7; Deut 14.8), but the pigs were raised for the large Gentile population that lived in sections of Palestine. Contrast Jesus’ instructions to “declare how much God has done for you” with the man’s action of “proclaiming throughout the city how much Jesus has done for him.”

out of the man and entered the swine, and the herd rushed down the steep bank into the lake and was drowned.

³⁴When the swineherds saw what had happened, they ran off and told it in the city and in the country. ³⁵Then people came out to see what had happened, and when they came to Jesus, they found the man from whom the demons had gone sitting at the feet of Jesus, clothed and in his right mind. And they were afraid. ³⁶Those who had seen it told them how the one who had been possessed by demons had been healed. ³⁷Then all the people of the surrounding country of the Gerasenes^a asked Jesus^b to leave them; for they were seized with great fear. So he got into the boat and returned. ³⁸The man from whom the demons had gone begged that he might be with him; but Jesus^c sent him away, saying, ³⁹“Return to your home, and declare how much God has done for you.” So he went away, proclaiming throughout the city how much Jesus had done for him.

⁴⁰Now when Jesus returned, the crowd welcomed him, for they were all waiting for him. ⁴¹Just then there came a man named Jairus, a leader of the synagogue. He fell at Jesus’ feet and begged him to come to his house, ⁴²for he had an only daughter, about twelve years old, who was dying.

As he went, the crowds pressed in on him. ⁴³Now there was a woman who had been suffering from hemorrhages for twelve years; and though she had spent all she had on physicians,^d no one could cure her. ⁴⁴She came up behind him and touched the fringe of his clothes, and immediately her hemorrhage stopped. ⁴⁵Then Jesus asked, “Who touched me?” When all denied it, Peter^e said, “Master, the crowds surround you and press in on you.” ⁴⁶But Jesus said, “Someone touched me; for I noticed that power had gone out from me.” ⁴⁷When the woman saw that she could not remain hidden, she came trembling; and falling down before him, she declared in the presence of all the people why she had touched him, and how she had been immediately healed. ⁴⁸He said to her, “Daughter, your faith has made you well; go in peace.”

⁴⁹While he was still speaking, someone came from the leader’s house to say, “Your daughter is dead; do not trouble the teacher any longer.” ⁵⁰When Jesus heard this, he replied, “Do not fear. Only believe, and she will be saved.” ⁵¹When he came to the house, he did not allow anyone to enter with him, except Peter, John, and James, and the child’s father and mother. ⁵²They were all weeping and wailing for her; but he said, “Do not weep; for she is not dead but sleeping.” ⁵³And they laughed at him, knowing that she was dead. ⁵⁴But he took her by the hand and called out, “Child, get up!” ⁵⁵Her spirit returned, and she got up at once. Then he directed them to give her something to eat. ⁵⁶Her parents were astounded; but he ordered them to tell no one what had happened.

9 Then Jesus^c called the twelve together and gave them power and authority over all demons and to cure diseases,² and he sent them out to proclaim the kingdom of God and to heal. ³He said to them, “Take nothing for your journey, no staff, nor bag, nor bread, nor money—not even an extra tunic. ⁴Whatever house you enter, stay there, and leave from there. ⁵Wherever they do not welcome you, as you are leaving that town shake

^a Other ancient authorities read Gadarenes; others, Gergesenes

^b Gk him

^c Gk he

^d Other ancient authorities lack and though she had spent all she had on physicians

^e Other ancient authorities add and those who were with him

8.40–56: Jairus’s daughter and the hemorrhaging woman (Mt 9.18–26; Mk 5.21–43). 41: Leader of the synagogue, one who held responsibility for overseeing and arranging the worship and life of the congregation. 42: Parallel elements in the two stories incorporate them into a larger whole—e.g., daughter, 8.42 and 48; twelve years, 8.42 and 43. 43: Cf. Lev 15.25–30. Since the exact nature of this issue of blood is not specified, precise diagnoses are speculative. Cf. 7.50. 55: Cf. 1 Kings 17.22.

9.1–6: Commissioning the twelve (Mt 10.1–14; Mk 6.6b–13). The sharing of power by Jesus with the disciples indicates their continuation and extension of his ministry as seen in the preceding stories. 3–4: These instructions contrast with the practices of Cynic philosophers. 3: The command to take nothing for [the] journey forces the dust off your feet as a testimony against them.”⁶ They departed and went through the villages, bringing the good news and curing diseases everywhere.

⁷ Now Herod the ruler^a heard about all that had taken place, and he was perplexed, because it was said by some that John had been raised from the dead,⁸ by some that Elijah had appeared, and by others that one of the ancient prophets had arisen.⁹ Herod said, “John I beheaded; but who is this about whom I hear such things?” And he tried to see him.

¹⁰ On their return the apostles told Jesus^b all they had done. He took them with him and withdrew privately to a city called Bethsaida.¹¹ When the crowds found out about it, they followed him; and he welcomed them, and spoke to them about the kingdom of God, and healed those who needed to be cured.

¹² The day was drawing to a close, and the twelve came to him and said, “Send the crowd away, so that they may go into the surrounding villages and countryside, to lodge and get provisions; for we are here in a deserted place.”¹³ But he said to them, “You give them something to eat.” They said, “We have no more than five loaves and two fish—unless we are to go and buy food for all these people.”¹⁴ For there were about five thousand men. And he said to his disciples, “Make them sit down in groups of about fifty each.”

¹⁵ They did so and made them all sit down.

¹⁶ And taking the five loaves and the two fish, he looked up to heaven, and blessed and broke them, and gave them to the disciples to set before the crowd.¹⁷ And all ate and were filled. What was left over was gathered up, twelve baskets of broken pieces.

¹⁸ Once when Jesus^c was praying alone, with only the disciples near him, he asked them, “Who do the crowds say that I am?”

¹⁹ They answered, “John the Baptist; but others, Elijah; and still others, that one of the ancient prophets has arisen.”²⁰ He said to them, “But who do you say that I am?” Peter answered, “The Messiah^d of God.”

²¹ He sternly ordered and commanded them not to tell anyone,²² saying, “The Son of Man must undergo great suffering, and be rejected by the elders, chief priests, and scribes, and be killed, and on the third day be raised.”

²³ Then he said to them all, “If any want to become my followers, let them deny themselves and take up their cross daily and follow me.”²⁴ For those who want to save

^a Gk tetrarch

^b Gk him

^c Gk he

^d Or The Christ

the twelve to rely completely on God for their ministry. 5: The act of shaking off dust was a graphic demonstration of renunciation of further responsibility for those who did not welcome the twelve; cf. 10.10–12.

9.7–9: Herod’s curiosity about Jesus (Mt 14.1–2; Mk 6.14–16). Herod Antipas, son of Herod the Great; see 3.1n. Cf. 9.18–19. 9: John I beheaded, see Mk 6.17–29.

9.10–11: The apostles’ return and the crowds’ following Jesus (Mt 14.12–14; Mk 6.30–34). 10: Bethsaida, located just north of the Sea of Galilee.

9.12–17: Feeding of the five thousand (Mt 14.15–21; Mk 6.35–44; Jn 6.5–14). The one story from the account of Jesus’ ministry that occurs in all four canonical Gospels. 14: Five thousand men, not counting any women and children. 16: The language of this sentence anticipates the account of the Last Supper in 22.17–20.

9.18–20: Peter’s confession (Mt 16.13–19; Mk 8.27–29). 19: The answers to Jesus’ question illustrate the variety of expectations (some messianic) among Jews of Jesus’ day. The Messiah of God, translates Gk “ho christos tou theou,” lit., “God’s anointed one,” a title that typically named a royal Davidic leader who would reconstitute the former political glory of Israel for the people and the nation.

9.21–22: Jesus’ command to silence and first prediction of his death (Mt 16.20–21; Mk 8.30–31). Jesus’ forceful direction to silence probably reflects his attempt to prevent misunderstandings of his “messianic” work. In turn, Luke’s version of this first prediction does not include the attempt of Peter to redirect Jesus’ thinking and commitments, so that Peter’s previous confession (9.20) maintains more force in this version of the story than in Mark’s account, in which Jesus sharply rebukes him (Mk 8.32–33).

9.23–27: The requirements of discipleship (Mt 16.24–28; Mk 8.34–9.1). Take up their cross daily and follow me, the Greek is not cast in the plural (any . . . their) but in the singular (lit., “anyone . . . his”), so that the challenge their life will lose it, and those who lose their life for my sake will save it.²⁵ What does it profit them if they gain the whole world, but lose or forfeit themselves?²⁶ Those who are ashamed of me and of my words, of them the Son of Man will be ashamed when he comes in his glory and the glory of the Father and of the holy angels.²⁷ But truly I tell you, there are some standing here who will not taste death before they see the kingdom of God.”

²⁸ Now about eight days after these sayings Jesus^a took with him Peter and John and James, and went up on the mountain to pray.²⁹ And while he was praying, the appearance of his face changed, and his clothes became dazzling white.³⁰ Suddenly they saw two men, Moses and Elijah, talking to him.³¹ They appeared in glory and were speaking of his departure, which he was about to accomplish at Jerusalem.³² Now Peter and his companions were weighed down with sleep; but since they had stayed awake,^b they saw his glory and the two men who stood with him.³³ Just as they were leaving him, Peter said to Jesus, “Master, it is good for us to be here; let us make three dwellings,^c one for you, one for Moses, and one for Elijah”—not knowing what he said.³⁴ While he was saying this, a cloud came and overshadowed them; and they were terrified as they entered the cloud.³⁵ Then from the cloud came a voice that said, “This is my Son, my Chosen;^d listen to him!”³⁶ When the voice had spoken, Jesus was found alone. And they kept silent and in those days told no one any of the things they had seen.

³⁷ On the next day, when they had come down from the mountain, a great crowd met him.³⁸ Just then a man from the crowd shouted, “Teacher, I beg you to look at my son; he is my only child.³⁹ Suddenly a spirit seizes him, and all at once he^e shrieks. It convulses him until he foams at the mouth; it mauls him and will scarcely leave him.⁴⁰ I begged your disciples to cast it out, but they could not.”⁴¹ Jesus answered, “You faithless and perverse generation, how much longer must I be with you and bear with you? Bring your son here.”⁴² While he was coming, the demon dashed him to the ground in convulsions. But Jesus rebuked the unclean spirit, healed the boy, and gave him back to his father.⁴³ And all were astounded at the greatness of God.

While everyone was amazed at all that he was doing, he said to his disciples,⁴⁴ “Let these words sink into your ears: The Son of Man is going to be betrayed into human hands.”⁴⁵ But they did not understand this saying; its meaning was concealed from

^a Gk he

^b Or but when they were fully awake

^c Or tents

^d Other ancient authorities read my Beloved

^e Or it is intensely personal. The temporal qualifier daily makes clear the ongoing character of discipleship. 26: Jesus’ words anticipate a final day of divine judgment. 27: Jesus’ enigmatic statement invites various interpretations; one is that it refers to the time after the resurrection.

9.28–36: The Transfiguration (Mt 17.1–9; Mk 9.2–10). This account recalls an intense religious experience, the exact nature of which is uncertain. The aura of unnatural brilliance is associated with mystical experiences elsewhere (Ex 34.29–35; Acts 9.3). 28: About eight days, may merely indicate the passage of a week, but in the early church “the eighth day” became a designation for both the Lord’s day and the day of Jesus’ resurrection, the first day of a new creation. 30: Moses and Elijah, two paragons of the faith of Israel: Moses was the lawgiver and Elijah the great prophet. 31: Departure, lit., “exodus,” probably referring to Jesus’ death, resurrection, and ascension. 32: The sleepy condition of the disciples may indicate that this event transpired at night (cf. 22.45). 33: Peter’s suggestion concerning three dwellings demonstrates his desire to preserve the experience. 34: The association of God with a cloud in reminiscent of Israel’s exodus experience of God, see Ex 13.17–22. 35: The voice is clearly that of God (see 3.22), and the command, listen to him, focuses the attention and obedience of the disciples on Jesus above all others.

9.37–43a: Jesus heals an afflicted boy (Mt 17.14–21; Mk 9.14–29). The description of the boy’s malady leads some scholars to conclude that the boy had epilepsy, but any diagnosis is speculative.

9.43b–45: A second prediction (Mt 17.22–23; Mk 9.30–32). Cf. 9.22; 18.31–33. 44: 9.22; 18.31–34; 17.25. 45: The comment is based on the view that (a) the messiah’s death was not part of the disciples’ Jewish faith, and them, so that they could not perceive it. And they were afraid to ask him about this saying.

⁴⁶ An argument arose among them as to which one of them was the greatest. ⁴⁷ But Jesus, aware of their inner thoughts, took a little child and put it by his side, ⁴⁸ and said to them, “Whoever welcomes this child in my name welcomes me, and whoever welcomes me welcomes the one who sent me; for the least among all of you is the greatest.”

⁴⁹ John answered, “Master, we saw someone casting out demons in your name, and we tried to stop him, because he does not follow with us.” ⁵⁰ But Jesus said to him, “Do not stop him; for whoever is not against you is for you.”

⁵¹ When the days drew near for him to be taken up, he set his face to go to Jerusalem. ⁵² And he sent messengers ahead of him. On their way they entered a village of the Samaritans to make ready for him; ⁵³ but they did not receive him, because his face was set toward Jerusalem. ⁵⁴ When his disciples James and John saw it, they said, “Lord, do you want us to command fire to come down from heaven and consume them?”^a ⁵⁵ But he turned and rebuked them. ⁵⁶ Then^b they went on to another village.

⁵⁷ As they were going along the road, someone said to him, “I will follow you wherever you go.” ⁵⁸ And Jesus said to him, “Foxes have holes, and birds of the air have nests; but the Son of Man has nowhere to lay his head.” ⁵⁹ To another he said, “Follow me.” But he said, “Lord, first let me go and bury my father.” ⁶⁰ But Jesus^c said to him, “Let the dead bury their own dead; but as for you, go and proclaim the kingdom of God.” ⁶¹ Another said, “I will follow you, Lord; but let me first say farewell to those at my home.” ⁶² Jesus said to him, “No one who puts a hand to the plow and looks back is fit for the kingdom of God.”

10 After this the Lord appointed seventy^d others and sent them on ahead of him in pairs to every town and place where he himself intended to go. ² He said to them, “The harvest is plentiful, but the laborers

^a Other ancient authorities add as Elijah did

^b Other ancient authorities read rebuked them, and said, “You do not know what spirit you are of, for the Son of Man has not come to destroy the lives of human beings but to save them.” Then

^c Gk he

^d Other ancient authorities read seventy-two

(b) spiritual truth must be revealed (see 24.16).

9.46–48: True greatness (Mt 18.1–5; Mk 9.33–37). An acted parable rejecting self-centered ambition. 47: The reception of the little child requires generosity without expectation of gain.

9.49–50: The unknown exorcist (Mk 9.38–41). This incident records Jesus’ repudiation of intolerance, though contrast the statement in 11.23, which indicates the necessity of aligning actions and concerns with Jesus’ values and work.

9.51–19.27: Jesus’ journey to Jerusalem with his followers (Mt 19.1–20.34; Mk 10.1–52). This section, most of which is found only in Luke, reports the ministry of Jesus in Samaria and Judea.

9.51: Jesus’ resolve to go to Jerusalem (Mt 19.1–2; Mk 10.1). To be taken up, explicitly refers to the ascension, but probably also designates Jesus’ suffering, death, and resurrection that led to his departure into heaven. He set his face to go to Jerusalem, states Jesus’ resolve using a Semitic idiom (see Isa 50.7).

9.52–56: Samaritans’ rejection of Jesus. 52–53: The Samaritans did not help pilgrims going to keep a feast at what they regarded as the wrong sanctuary (cf. Jn 4.20). 52: Samaritan is a geographical designation used also to name an inhabitant of Samaria, which was originally the capital of the former Northern Kingdom of Israel that fell to the Assyrians in 722 BCE. Samaritan became a term for persons living between Judea and Galilee who came to be regarded as a distinct ethnic and religious group. Tensions existed between Samaritans and Jews after the return of the Jews from exile in Babylon (538 BCE) and remained, as this story recognizes, in Jesus’ day. 54: Incorporates wordings parallel to 2 Kings 1.10–12. Elijah had called down fire from heaven on hostile troops (see 2 Kings 1.9–16). See 9.3–5 for Jesus’ instructions for dealing with rejection.

9.57–62: The demands of following Jesus (Mt 8.18–22). 59: From the statement that follows (v. 60), the man’s father was almost certainly not yet dead; rather, the man used this responsibility to procrastinate complete commitment to discipleship. 60: Let the dead bury their own dead, suggests that the spiritually dead should be left to bury the physically dead. 61: See 1 Kings 19.20.

10.1–12: The mission of the seventy (Mt 9.37–38; 10.7–16). 1: 9.1–5, 51–52; Mk 6.7–11. 4: Greet no one, which are few; therefore ask the Lord of the harvest to send out laborers into his harvest. ³Go on your way. See, I am sending you out like lambs into the midst of wolves. ⁴Carry no purse, no bag, no sandals; and greet no one on the road. ⁵Whatever house you enter, first say, ‘Peace to this house!’ ⁶And if anyone is there who shares in peace, your peace will rest on that person; but if not, it will return to you. ⁷Remain in the same house, eating and drinking whatever they provide, for the laborer deserves to be paid. Do not move about from house to house. ⁸Whenever you enter a town and its people welcome you, eat what is set before you; ⁹cure the sick who are there, and say to them, ‘The kingdom of God has come near to you.’^a ¹⁰But whenever you enter a town and they do not welcome you, go out into its streets and say, ¹¹‘Even the dust of your town that clings to our feet, we wipe off in protest against you. Yet know this: the kingdom of God has come near.’^b ¹²I tell you, on that day it will be more tolerable for Sodom than for that town.

¹³“Woe to you, Chorazin! Woe to you, Bethsaida! For if the deeds of power done in you had been done in Tyre and Sidon, they would have repented long ago, sitting in sackcloth and ashes. ¹⁴But at the judgment it will be more tolerable for Tyre and Sidon than for you. ¹⁵And you, Capernaum, will you be exalted to heaven?

No, you will be brought down to Hades.

¹⁶“Whoever listens to you listens to me, and whoever rejects you rejects me, and whoever rejects me rejects the one who sent me.”

¹⁷The seventy^c returned with joy, saying, “Lord, in your name even the demons submit to us!” ¹⁸He said to them, “I watched Satan fall from heaven like a flash of lightning. ¹⁹See, I have given you authority to tread on snakes and scorpions, and over all the power of the enemy; and nothing will hurt you. ²⁰Nevertheless, do not rejoice at this, that the spirits submit to you, but rejoice that your names are written in heaven.”

²¹At that same hour Jesus^d rejoiced in the Holy Spirit^e and said, “I thank^f you, Father, Lord of heaven and earth, because you have hidden these things from the wise and the intelligent and have revealed them to infants; yes, Father, for such was your gracious will.^g ²²All things have been handed over to me by my Father; and no one knows who the Son is except the Father, or who the Father is except the Son and anyone to whom the Son chooses to reveal him.”

²³Then turning to the disciples, Jesus^d said to them privately, “Blessed are the eyes that see what you see! ²⁴For I tell you that many prophets and kings desired to see what you see, but did not see it, and to hear what you hear, but did not hear it.”

^a Or is at hand for you

^b Or is at hand

^c Other ancient authorities read seventy-two

^d Gk he

^e Other authorities read in the spirit

^f Or praise

^g Or for so it was well-pleasing in your sight

might cause delay, underscoring the urgency of the mission. 9–11: The emphasis here on the kingdom of God distinguishes these instructions from those given at 9.3–5. 5: 1 Sam 25.6. 7: Deut 24.15. 10–11: Cf. 9.5n. 12: Gen 19.24–28.

10.13–15: Woes to unrepentant cities (Mt 11.20–24). 13: Chorazin, a town 3 km (2 mi) north of Capernaum. Tyre and Sidon were Gentile cities on the Mediterranean coast north of Galilee. Sackcloth and ashes recalls the repentance of Nineveh in Jon 3. 15: The words echo Isa 14.13–15 (see v. 18). Hades, equivalent to Heb “Sheol,” the abode of the dead.

10.16: Jesus’ interpretation of the mission (Mt 10.40).

10.17–20: Return of the seventy (Mt 11.25–27). 17: Even the demons submit to us, unlike the twelve (9.1), the seventy had not been promised this power. 18: I watched Satan fall from heaven, alluding to the victory of the seventy over the demons; cf. Isa 14.15; Jn 12.31; Rev 12.7–12. 20: Jesus did not regard exorcism in itself as a sign of God’s kingdom (11.19). Written in heaven, Dan 12.1; Ps 69.28; Ex 32.32.

10.21–22: Jesus’ thanksgiving to God (Mt 11.25–27). 21: In the Holy Spirit, in communion with God. 22: Cf. Jn 3.35; 10.14–15; 13.1; 17.25.

10.23–24: Jesus’ blessing of the disciples (Mt 13.16–17).

²⁵ Just then a lawyer stood up to test Jesus.^a “Teacher,” he said, “what must I do to inherit eternal life?” ²⁶ He said to him, “What is written in the law? What do you read there?” ²⁷ He answered, “You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart, and with all your soul, and with all your strength, and with all your mind; and your neighbor as yourself.” ²⁸ And he said to him, “You have given the right answer; do this, and you will live.”

²⁹ But wanting to justify himself, he asked Jesus, “And who is my neighbor?” ³⁰ Jesus replied, “A man was going down from Jerusalem to Jericho, and fell into the hands of robbers, who stripped him, beat him, and went away, leaving him half dead. ³¹ Now by chance a priest was going down that road; and when he saw him, he passed by on the other side. ³² So likewise a Levite, when he came to the place and saw him, passed by on the other side. ³³ But a Samaritan while traveling came near him; and when he saw him, he was moved with pity. ³⁴ He went to him and bandaged his wounds, having poured oil and wine on them. Then he put him on his own animal, brought him to an inn, and took care of him. ³⁵ The next day he took out two denarii,^b gave them to the innkeeper, and said, “Take care of him; and when I come back, I will repay you whatever more you spend.” ³⁶ Which of these three, do you think, was a neighbor to the man who fell into the hands of the robbers?” ³⁷ He said, “The one who showed him mercy.” Jesus said to him, “Go and do likewise.”

³⁸ Now as they went on their way, he entered a certain village, where a woman named Martha welcomed him into her home.

³⁹ She had a sister named Mary, who sat at the Lord’s feet and listened to what he was saying. ⁴⁰ But Martha was distracted by her many tasks; so she came to him and asked, “Lord, do you not care that my sister has left me to do all the work by myself? Tell her then to help me.” ⁴¹ But the Lord answered her, “Martha, Martha, you are worried and distracted by many things; ⁴² there is need of only one thing.^c Mary has chosen the better part, which will not be taken away from her.”

11 He was praying in a certain place, and after he had finished, one of his disciples said to him, “Lord, teach us to pray, as John taught his disciples.” ² He said to them, “When you pray, say:

Father,^d hallowed be your name.

Your kingdom come.^e

³ Give us each day our daily bread.^f

⁴ And forgive us our sins, for we ourselves forgive everyone indebted to us.

And do not bring us to the time of trial.”^g

^a Gk him

^b The denarius was the usual day’s wage for a laborer

^c Other ancient authorities read few things are necessary, or only one

^d Other ancient authorities read Our Father in heaven

^e A few ancient authorities read Your Holy Spirit come upon us and cleanse us. Other ancient authorities add Your will be done, on earth as in heaven

^f Or our bread for tomorrow

^g Or us into temptation. Other ancient authorities add but rescue us from the evil one (or from evil)

10.25–28: A lawyer’s question (Mt 22.34–40; Mk 12.28–34; cf. Lk 18.9–14). 25: Lawyer, an expert in the law of Moses, probably synonymous with “scribe” and likely affiliated with or belonging to the party of the Pharisees. 27: Deut 6.5; Lev 19.18. 27: Josh 22.5.

10.29–37: Parable of the Good Samaritan. 29: Justify himself means to show himself to be righteous, acceptable to God. 30: Down from Jerusalem to Jericho, about 18 mi (30 km) with a drop in elevation from about 2,500 ft (760 m) above sea level to about 820 ft (250 m) below sea level. The road between the cities was notoriously dangerous. 31–33: The priest represented the highest religious leadership among the Jews; the Levite (v. 32) belonged to minor clergy below the priest. In contrast, it was a Samaritan (see 9.52n.), a foreigner not expected to show sympathy to Jews, who was moved with pity. 34: The oil served as a salve (see Isa 1.6) and the wine as an antiseptic. 35: Two denarii would provide approximately two months of lodging in an ancient inn.

10.38–42: Martha and Mary. This enigmatic account affirms the importance of listening to Jesus and at the same time the account shows Jesus’ openness to and acceptance of women among his followers. According to Jn 11.1, Martha and Mary were the sisters of Lazarus and lived in Bethany, just east of Jerusalem.

11.1–4: The Lord’s Prayer. This model prayer appears in a more elaborate form in Mt 6.9–13. In both Matthew and Luke there is an eschatological cast to the petitions, yet the concerns specified are related to daily life.

⁵ And he said to them, “Suppose one of you has a friend, and you go to him at midnight and say to him, ‘Friend, lend me three loaves of bread; ⁶ for a friend of mine has arrived, and I have nothing to set before him.’ ⁷ And he answers from within, ‘Do not bother me; the door has already been locked, and my children are with me in bed; I cannot get up and give you anything.’ ⁸ I tell you, even though he will not get up and give him anything because he is his friend, at least because of his persistence he will get up and give him whatever he needs.

⁹ “So I say to you, Ask, and it will be given you; search, and you will find; knock, and the door will be opened for you. ¹⁰ For everyone who asks receives, and everyone who searches finds, and for everyone who knocks, the door will be opened. ¹¹ Is there anyone among you who, if your child asks for^a a fish, will give a snake instead of a fish? ¹² Or if the child asks for an egg, will give a scorpion? ¹³ If you then, who are evil, know how to give good gifts to your children, how much more will the heavenly Father give the Holy Spirit^b to those who ask him!”

¹⁴ Now he was casting out a demon that was mute; when the demon had gone out, the one who had been mute spoke, and the crowds were amazed. ¹⁵ But some of them said, “He casts out demons by Beelzebul, the ruler of the demons.” ¹⁶ Others, to test him, kept demanding from him a sign from heaven. ¹⁷ But he knew what they were thinking and said to them, “Every kingdom divided against itself becomes a desert, and house falls on house. ¹⁸ If Satan also is divided against himself, how will his kingdom stand?—for you say that I cast out the demons by Beelzebul. ¹⁹ Now if I cast out the demons by Beelzebul, by whom do your exorcists^c cast them out? Therefore they will be your judges. ²⁰ But if it is by the finger of God that I cast out the demons, then the kingdom of God has come to you. ²¹ When a strong man, fully armed, guards his castle, his property is safe. ²² But when one stronger than he attacks him and overpowers him, he takes away his armor in which he trusted and divides his plunder. ²³ Whoever is not with me is against me, and whoever does not gather with me scatters.

²⁴ “When the unclean spirit has gone out of a person, it wanders through waterless regions looking for a resting place, but not finding any, it says, ‘I will return to my house from which I came.’ ²⁵ When it comes, it finds it swept and put in order. ²⁶ Then it goes and brings seven other spirits more evil than itself, and they enter and live there; and the last state of that person is worse than the first.”

²⁷ While he was saying this, a woman in the crowd raised her voice and said to him, “Blessed is the womb that bore you and the breasts that nursed you!” ²⁸ But he said, “Blessed rather are those who hear the word of God and obey it!”

²⁹ When the crowds were increasing, he began to say, “This generation is an evil

^a Other ancient authorities add bread, will give a stone; or if your child asks for

^b Other ancient authorities read the Father give the Holy Spirit from heaven

^c Gk sons

11.5–8: Teaching about persistence (Mt 7.7–11). Cf. Lk 18.1–5. 5–8: Following the Lord’s Prayer, this parable in Luke relates to persistence in prayer.

11.9–13: A parabolic admonition and assurance concerning prayer (Mt 7.7–11). 9–13: The promise of the Holy Spirit focuses the substance of petitions in prayers in a pointed fashion.

11.14–23: The Beelzebul controversy (Mt 12.22–30; Mk 3.22–27). 15: Beelzebul, the ruler of the demons, Satan (see v. 18); Beelzebul was originally a title of the Canaanite storm and fertility god Baal (see 2 Kings 1.2). 16: The request for a sign comes almost immediately after Jesus restores the power of speech to one afflicted with muteness. 20: Ex 8.19. Finger stands for God’s power. The kingdom of God has come to you indicates Jesus’ interpretation of the meaning of his ministry. 21–22: Jesus seems to cast himself in this parable as the one stronger than he. 23: Cf. 9.50. This statement registers the uncompromising demands of Jesus’ call to discipleship, and in relation to the preceding parable the saying declares that in the struggle between Jesus and Beelzebul neutrality is not an option.

11.24–26: The return of unclean spirits (Mt 12.43–45).

11.27–28: True blessedness. Cf. 8.21.

11.29–32: The sign of Jonah (Mt 12.38–42; Mk 8.11–12). 29: The sign of Jonah was given through Jonah’s preach-generation; it asks for a sign, but no sign will be given to it except the sign of Jonah.³⁰ For just as Jonah became a sign to the people of Nineveh, so the Son of Man will be to this generation.³¹ The queen of the South will rise at the judgment with the people of this generation and condemn them, because she came from the ends of the earth to listen to the wisdom of Solomon, and see, something greater than Solomon is here!³² The people of Nineveh will rise up at the judgment with this generation and condemn it, because they repented at the proclamation of Jonah, and see, something greater than Jonah is here!

³³“No one after lighting a lamp puts it in a cellar,^a but on the lampstand so that those who enter may see the light.³⁴ Your eye is the lamp of your body. If your eye is healthy, your whole body is full of light; but if it is not healthy, your body is full of darkness.³⁵ Therefore consider whether the light in you is not darkness.³⁶ If then your whole body is full of light, with no part of it in darkness, it will be as full of light as when a lamp gives you light with its rays.”

³⁷While he was speaking, a Pharisee invited him to dine with him; so he went in and took his place at the table.³⁸ The Pharisee was amazed to see that he did not first wash before dinner.³⁹ Then the Lord said to him, “Now you Pharisees clean the outside of the cup and of the dish, but inside you are full of greed and wickedness.⁴⁰ You fools! Did not the one who made the outside make the inside also?⁴¹ So give for alms those things that are within; and see, everything will be clean for you.

⁴²“But woe to you Pharisees! For you tithe mint and rue and herbs of all kinds, and neglect justice and the love of God; it is these you ought to have practiced, without neglecting the others.⁴³ Woe to you Pharisees! For you love to have the seat of honor in the synagogues and to be greeted with respect in the marketplaces.⁴⁴ Woe to you! For you are like unmarked graves, and people walk over them without realizing it.”

⁴⁵One of the lawyers answered him, “Teacher, when you say these things, you insult us too.”⁴⁶ And he said, “Woe also to you lawyers! For you load people with burdens hard to bear, and you yourselves do not lift a finger to ease them.⁴⁷ Woe to you! For you build the tombs of the prophets whom your ancestors killed.⁴⁸ So you are witnesses and approve of the deeds of your ancestors; for they killed them, and you build their tombs.⁴⁹ Therefore also the Wisdom of God said, ‘I will send them prophets and apostles, some of whom they will kill and persecute,’⁵⁰ so that this generation may be charged with the blood of all the prophets shed since the foundation of the world,⁵¹ from the blood of Abel to the blood of Zechariah, who perished between the altar and the sanctuary. Yes, I tell you, it will be charged against this generation.⁵² Woe to you lawyers! For you have taken away the key of knowledge; you did not enter yourselves, and you hindered those who were entering.”

⁵³When he went outside, the scribes and the Pharisees began to be very hostile toward him and to cross-examine him about many things,⁵⁴ lying in wait for him, to catch him in something he might say.

^a Other ancient authorities add or under the bushel basket

ing to the Ninevites; here, Jesus is not referring to his resurrection. 30: Jon 3.4. 31: 1 Kings 10.1–10; 2 Chr 9.1–9.

11.33: Light and sight (Mt 5.15; Mk 4.21). Cf. 8.16.

11.34–36: The healthy eye (Mt 6.22–23). 34–36: One theory of vision held that the eye produced fire or light, which made sight possible.

11.37–54: Sayings against Pharisees and lawyers (Mt 15.1–9; Mk 7.1–9; Mt 23.1–36, in different order). 37: 7.36; 14.1. 38: Wash before dinner, ceremonial washing (lit., “baptize before dinner”; cf. Mk 7.1–5). 39–41: Mt 23.25–26. Jesus turns back the Pharisees’ criticism that the outside is unwashed by insisting that the inner life is equal in importance to the outer (v. 40), indeed, that it exercises a cleansing or corrupting power over the outer (v. 41; Mk 7.23). 41: Alms, charitable gifts for the poor. 42: Tithe, see Deut 14.22–29. Mint and rue were common herbs of little value. 44: Graves were carefully marked and even whitewashed (Mt 23.27) to prevent defilement through unintentional contact with the dead. 49: The Wisdom of God said, introduces an apparent quotation, but from neither the Hebrew Bible nor the nonbiblical writings of Judaism. 49: Cf. Jer 7.25–26. 51: Abel is the first person murdered in the Bible (Gen 4.8), and Zechariah seems to be the person murdered in 2 Chr 24.20–22. 54:

12 Meanwhile, when the crowd gathered by the thousands, so that they trampled on one another, he began to speak first to his disciples, “Beware of the yeast of the Pharisees, that is, their hypocrisy. ² Nothing is covered up that will not be uncovered, and nothing secret that will not become known. ³ Therefore whatever you have said in the dark will be heard in the light, and what you have whispered behind closed doors will be proclaimed from the housetops.

⁴ “I tell you, my friends, do not fear those who kill the body, and after that can do nothing more. ⁵ But I will warn you whom to fear: fear him who, after he has killed, has authority^a to cast into hell.^b Yes, I tell you, fear him! ⁶ Are not five sparrows sold for two pennies? Yet not one of them is forgotten in God’s sight. ⁷ But even the hairs of your head are all counted. Do not be afraid; you are of more value than many sparrows.

⁸ “And I tell you, everyone who acknowledges me before others, the Son of Man also will acknowledge before the angels of God; ⁹ but whoever denies me before others will be denied before the angels of God. ¹⁰ And everyone who speaks a word against the Son of Man will be forgiven; but whoever blasphemes against the Holy Spirit will not be forgiven. ¹¹ When they bring you before the synagogues, the rulers, and the authorities, do not worry about how^c you are to defend yourselves or what you are to say; ¹² for the Holy Spirit will teach you at that very hour what you ought to say.”

¹³ Someone in the crowd said to him, “Teacher, tell my brother to divide the family inheritance with me.” ¹⁴ But he said to him, “Friend, who set me to be a judge or arbitrator over you?” ¹⁵ And he said to them, “Take care! Be on your guard against all kinds of greed; for one’s life does not consist in the abundance of possessions.” ¹⁶ Then he told them a parable: “The land of a rich man produced abundantly. ¹⁷ And he thought to himself, ‘What should I do, for I have no place to store my crops?’ ¹⁸ Then he said, ‘I will do this: I will pull down my barns and build larger ones, and there I will store all my grain and my goods. ¹⁹ And I will say to my soul, Soul, you have ample goods laid up for many years; relax, eat, drink, be merry.’ ²⁰ But God said to him, ‘You fool! This very night your life is being demanded of you. And the things you have prepared, whose will they be?’ ²¹ So it is with those who store up treasures for themselves but are not rich toward God.”

²² He said to his disciples, “Therefore I tell you, do not worry about your life, what you will eat, or about your body, what you

^a Or power

^b Gk Gehenna

^c Other ancient authorities add or what

Cf. 6.11; 19.47–48; 20.19–20; 22.2.

12.1: The yeast of the Pharisees (Mt 16.5–6; Mk 8.14–15). 1: Leaven/yeast was often a symbol of corruption for ancient Jews; cf. 1 Cor 5.6–8.

12.2–9: Calls to fearless confession (Mt 10.26–33). 5: Him who . . . has authority to cast into hell, God alone. Hell is “Gehenna,” not Hades as in 10.5; Gehenna was a deep ravine to the south of Jerusalem. Human sacrifices were allegedly made there during the Judean monarchy (2 Kings 23.10), and it came to symbolize the place of eternal punishment. 6: The penny (“assarion”) was one-sixteenth of a denarius (see 12.59n.). 8–9: Cf. 9.26; Mk 8.38.

12.10: Blaspheming the Holy Spirit (Mt 12.31–32; Mk 3.28–30). Blasphemy against the Holy Spirit is attributing the genuine work of the Spirit to the forces of evil rather than to God.

12.11–12: Aid from the Holy Spirit (Mt 10.19–20; Mk 13.11).

12.13–15: Warning against greed. 13: According to Deut 21.17 the oldest son received double the younger’s share. Jesus shows no interest in ensuring equitable division and subsequently warns against greed and material self-satisfaction.

12.16–21: Parable of the rich fool. 19: Relax, eat, drink, be merry, see Eccl 8.15. The maxim is reminiscent of similar declarations in Tob 7.10; 1 Enoch 97.8–9; Euripides; Meander. 20: Cf. Jer 17.11; Lk 12.33–34. The declaration by God in Greek is difficult, reading literally, “Fool! In this night your soul they demand from you.” The subject “they” may be a circumlocution for God, but more likely it is “the things” that now own the man and that claim his life.

will wear.²³ For life is more than food, and the body more than clothing.²⁴ Consider the ravens: they neither sow nor reap, they have neither storehouse nor barn, and yet God feeds them. Of how much more value are you than the birds!²⁵ And can any of you by worrying add a single hour to your span of life?^a²⁶ If then you are not able to do so small a thing as that, why do you worry about the rest?²⁷ Consider the lilies, how they grow: they neither toil nor spin;^b yet I tell you, even Solomon in all his glory was not clothed like one of these.²⁸ But if God so clothes the grass of the field, which is alive today and tomorrow is thrown into the oven, how much more will he clothe you—you of little faith!²⁹ And do not keep striving for what you are to eat and what you are to drink, and do not keep worrying.³⁰ For it is the nations of the world that strive after all these things, and your Father knows that you need them.³¹ Instead, strive for his^c kingdom, and these things will be given to you as well.

³² “Do not be afraid, little flock, for it is your Father’s good pleasure to give you the kingdom.³³ Sell your possessions, and give alms. Make purses for yourselves that do not wear out, an unfailing treasure in heaven, where no thief comes near and no moth destroys.³⁴ For where your treasure is, there your heart will be also.

³⁵ “Be dressed for action and have your lamps lit,³⁶ be like those who are waiting for their master to return from the wedding banquet, so that they may open the door for him as soon as he comes and knocks.³⁷ Blessed are those slaves whom the master finds alert when he comes; truly I tell you, he will fasten his belt and have them sit down to eat, and he will come and serve them.³⁸ If he comes during the middle of the night, or near dawn, and finds them so, blessed are those slaves.

³⁹ “But know this: if the owner of the house had known at what hour the thief was coming, he^d would not have let his house be broken into.⁴⁰ You also must be ready, for the Son of Man is coming at an unexpected hour.”

⁴¹ Peter said, “Lord, are you telling this parable for us or for everyone?”⁴² And the Lord said, “Who then is the faithful and prudent manager whom his master will put in charge of his slaves, to give them their allowance of food at the proper time?⁴³ Blessed is that slave whom his master will find at work when he arrives.⁴⁴ Truly I tell you, he will put that one in charge of all his possessions.⁴⁵ But if that slave says to himself, ‘My master is delayed in coming,’ and if he begins to beat the other slaves, men and women, and to eat and drink and get drunk,⁴⁶ the master of that slave will come on a day when he does not expect him and at an hour that he does not know, and will cut him in pieces,^e and put him with the unfaithful.⁴⁷ That slave who knew what his master wanted, but did not prepare himself or do what was wanted, will receive a severe beating.⁴⁸ But the one who did not know and did what deserved a beating will receive a light beating. From everyone to whom much has been given, much will be required; and from the one to whom much has been entrusted, even more will be demanded.

⁴⁹ “I came to bring fire to the earth, and how I wish it were already kindled!⁵⁰ I have a baptism with which to be baptized, and what stress I am under until it is completed!⁵¹ Do

^a Or add a cubit to your stature

^b Other ancient authorities read Consider the lilies; they neither spin nor weave

^c Other ancient authorities read God’s

^d Other ancient authorities add would have watched and

^e Or cut him off

12.22–32: Anxiety concerning life (Mt 6.25–34). 24: Ravens, members of the crow family, act as scavengers and are listed among the unclean birds in the Hebrew Bible (Lev 11.15; Deut 14.14; cf. Job 38.41). 27: See 1 Kings 10. 32: Flock refers to the messiah’s people (Ezek 34.23).

12.33–34: Treasure in heaven (Mt 6.19–21). Compare Mk 10.21; Lk 18.22; Acts 2.45; 4.32–35.

12.35–48: Sayings on watchfulness and faithfulness (Mt 24.42–51). 35: Dressed for action, lit., “your loins girded”; see Ex 12.11. 37: The language suggests the messianic banquet (13.29; 14.15; 22.16), to which a marriage feast served as an analogy. For the action of this master in serving the servants, see 17.7–8; cf. Jn 13.3–16; Lk 22.27. 40: Cf. Mk 13.35; 1 Thess 5.2. 48: 8.18; 19.26.

12.49–53: The controversial character of Jesus’ mission (Mt 10.34–36). 49: Fire, a symbol of judgment (Mt

you think that I have come to bring peace to the earth? No, I tell you, but rather division!

⁵² From now on five in one household will be divided, three against two and two against three; ⁵³ they will be divided:

father against son
and son against father, mother against daughter and daughter against mother, mother-in-law against her daughter-in-law and daughter-in-law against mother-in-law.”

⁵⁴ He also said to the crowds, “When you see a cloud rising in the west, you immediately say, ‘It is going to rain’; and so it happens.

⁵⁵ And when you see the south wind blowing, you say, ‘There will be scorching heat’; and it happens. ⁵⁶ You hypocrites! You know how to interpret the appearance of earth and sky, but why do you not know how to interpret the present time?

⁵⁷ “And why do you not judge for yourselves what is right? ⁵⁸ Thus, when you go with your accuser before a magistrate, on the way make an effort to settle the case,^a or you may be dragged before the judge, and the judge hand you over to the officer, and the officer throw you in prison. ⁵⁹ I tell you, you will never get out until you have paid the very last penny.”

13 At that very time there were some present who told him about the Galileans whose blood Pilate had mingled with their sacrifices. ² He asked them, “Do you think that because these Galileans suffered in this way they were worse sinners than all other Galileans?” ³ No, I tell you; but unless you repent, you will all perish as they did.

⁴ Or those eighteen who were killed when the tower of Siloam fell on them—do you think that they were worse offenders than all the others living in Jerusalem? ⁵ No, I tell you; but unless you repent, you will all perish just as they did.”

⁶ Then he told this parable: “A man had a fig tree planted in his vineyard; and he came looking for fruit on it and found none. ⁷ So he said to the gardener, ‘See here! For three years I have come looking for fruit on this fig tree, and still I find none. Cut it down! Why should it be wasting the soil?’ ⁸ He replied, ‘Sir, let it alone for one more year, until I dig around it and put manure on it. ⁹ If it bears fruit next year, well and good; but if not, you can cut it down.’”

¹⁰ Now he was teaching in one of the synagogues on the sabbath. ¹¹ And just then there appeared a woman with a spirit that had crippled her for eighteen years. She was bent over and was quite unable to stand up straight.

¹² When Jesus saw her, he called her over and said, “Woman, you are set free from your ailment.” ¹³ When he laid his hands on her, immediately she stood up straight and began praising God. ¹⁴ But the leader of the synagogue, indignant because Jesus had cured on the sabbath, kept saying to the crowd, “There are six days on which work ought to be done; come on those days and be cured, and not on the sabbath day.” ¹⁵ But the Lord answered him and said, “You hypocrites! Does not each of you on the sabbath untie his ox or his donkey from the manger, and lead it away to give it water? ¹⁶ And ought not this woman,

^a Gk settle with him

3.11; 7.19; Mk 9.48; Lk 3.16). 50: Baptism, Jesus’ death. 53: Incorporates phrases from Mic 7.6.

12.54–56: Interpreting the times (Mt 16.2–3). Winds from the west blew off the Mediterranean, those from the south off the desert. Jesus says there are signs of crisis that human beings neglect.

12.57–59: Settling with an accuser (Mt 5.25–26). 59: Penny, Greek “lepton,” the smallest Greek coin in circulation. There were two lepta to a quadrans (“penny” in Mt 5.26; Mk 12.42), eight to an assarion (“penny” in Lk 12.6), and one hundred twenty-eight to a denarius, the daily wage in Mt 20.2.

13.1–9: Parable of the unfruitful fig tree (compare Mt 21.18–19; Mk 11.12–14). 1: The Galileans had been slain by the order of Pilate (see 3.1n.) while sacrificing in the Temple at Jerusalem. This incident is otherwise unattested. 2: The reports carried with them questions of a deeper meaning. According to common Jewish belief, painful experiences were signs of God’s judgments (see 5.20n.). Jesus issues a call to repentance so that catastrophe would not overtake his hearers. 4: Siloam, in the southeast corner of Jerusalem, where the pool of Siloam (Isa 8.6; Neh 3.15; Jn 9.7) was located. 7: See 3.9.

13.10–17: Healing of a crippled woman on the sabbath. A similar sabbath healing follows in 14.1–6; see a daughter of Abraham whom Satan bound for eighteen long years, be set free from this bondage on the sabbath day?"¹⁷ When he said this, all his opponents were put to shame; and the entire crowd was rejoicing at all the wonderful things that he was doing.

¹⁸ He said therefore, "What is the kingdom of God like? And to what should I compare it?"¹⁹ It is like a mustard seed that someone took and sowed in the garden; it grew and became a tree, and the birds of the air made nests in its branches."

²⁰ And again he said, "To what should I compare the kingdom of God?"²¹ It is like yeast that a woman took and mixed in with^a three measures of flour until all of it was leavened."

²² Jesus^b went through one town and village after another, teaching as he made his way to Jerusalem.²³ Someone asked him, "Lord, will only a few be saved?" He said to them,²⁴ "Strive to enter through the narrow door; for many, I tell you, will try to enter and will not be able.²⁵ When once the owner of the house has got up and shut the door, and you begin to stand outside and to knock at the door, saying, 'Lord, open to us,' then in reply he will say to you, 'I do not know where you come from.'

²⁶ Then you will begin to say, 'We ate and drank with you, and you taught in our streets.'²⁷ But he will say, 'I do not know where you come from; go away from me, all you evildoers!'

²⁸ There will be weeping and gnashing of teeth when you see Abraham and Isaac and Jacob and all the prophets in the kingdom of God, and you yourselves thrown out.²⁹ Then people will come from east and west, from north and south, and will eat in the kingdom of God.

³⁰ Indeed, some are last who will be first, and some are first who will be last."

³¹ At that very hour some Pharisees came and said to him, "Get away from here, for Herod wants to kill you."³² He said to them, "Go and tell that fox for me,^c 'Listen, I am casting out demons and performing cures today and tomorrow, and on the third day I finish my work.'³³ Yet today, tomorrow, and the next day I must be on my way, because it is impossible for a prophet to be killed outside of Jerusalem.'³⁴ Jerusalem, Jerusalem, the city that kills the prophets and stones those who are sent to it! How often have I desired to gather your children together as a hen gathers her brood under her wings, and you were not willing!³⁵ See, your house is left to you. And I tell you, you will not see me until the time comes when^d you say, 'Blessed is the one who comes in the name of the Lord.'"

14 On one occasion when Jesus^e was going to the house of a leader of the Pharisees to eat a meal on the sabbath,

^a Gk hid in

^b Gk He

^c Gk lacks for me

^d Other ancient authorities lack the time comes when

^e Gk he

4.31n.; cf. 8.43–48. 14: Ex 20.9–10. Lev 23.3; Deut 5.13–14. 16: Jesus relates the physical disorder of the woman to the work of Satan (cf. 11.14). Such afflictions conflict with God's purpose of salvation in his covenant with Abraham and are the concern of Jesus' ministry (4.18).

13.18–19: Parable of the mustard seed (Mt 13.31–32; Mk 4.30–32). 19: The last phrase of this verse reflects the wording of Ps 104.12; Dan 4.12,21.

13.20–21: Parable of the yeast (Mt 13.33). This parable, like the preceding one (vv. 18–19), contrasts the future grandeur of the kingdom with the seemingly small start that was occurring in the ministry of Jesus. 21: Three measures, ca. 63 dry quarts (69 liters).

13.22–30: The necessity of discipline for salvation (Mt 7.13–14,22–23; 8.11–12; 19.30; Mk 10.31). 27: The wording of this verse bears similarities to Ps 6.8. 29: Ps 107.3.

13.31–33: Report and reply concerning Herod. 31: Some Pharisees who appear to be well intentioned toward Jesus are noteworthy and show that not all Pharisees were negatively disposed toward Jesus. Here, Herod's domain of Galilee and Perea (see 3.1n.). 32: Fox, an unflattering metaphor. Jesus denies that Herod's intended opposition can hinder his ministry, which has not reached its goal. 33: It is impossible . . ., bitter irony that leads to the ensuing laments (see 13.34–35; 19.41–42).

13.34–35: Jesus' lament over Jerusalem (Mt 23.37–39). 35: See Jer 22.5. The quotation is from Ps 118.26; see Lk 19.37–38.

14.1–6: Healing of a man with dropsy on the sabbath. This healing story forms the second part of a balanced they were watching him closely.² Just then, in front of him, there was a man who had dropsy.³ And Jesus asked the lawyers and Pharisees, “Is it lawful to cure people on the sabbath, or not?”⁴ But they were silent. So Jesus^a took him and healed him, and sent him away.⁵ Then he said to them, “If one of you has a child^b or an ox that has fallen into a well, will you not immediately pull it out on a sabbath day?”⁶ And they could not reply to this.

⁷ When he noticed how the guests chose the places of honor, he told them a parable.⁸ “When you are invited by someone to a wedding banquet, do not sit down at the place of honor, in case someone more distinguished than you has been invited by your host;⁹ and the host who invited both of you may come and say to you, ‘Give this person your place,’ and then in disgrace you would start to take the lowest place.¹⁰ But when you are invited, go and sit down at the lowest place, so that when your host comes, he may say to you, ‘Friend, move up higher’; then you will be honored in the presence of all who sit at the table with you.¹¹ For all who exalt themselves will be humbled, and those who humble themselves will be exalted.”

¹² He said also to the one who had invited him, “When you give a luncheon or a dinner, do not invite your friends or your brothers or your relatives or rich neighbors, in case they may invite you in return, and you would be repaid.¹³ But when you give a banquet, invite the poor, the crippled, the lame, and the blind.¹⁴ And you will be blessed, because they cannot repay you, for you will be repaid at the resurrection of the righteous.”

¹⁵ One of the dinner guests, on hearing this, said to him, “Blessed is anyone who will eat bread in the kingdom of God!”¹⁶ Then Jesus^a said to him, “Someone gave a great dinner and invited many.¹⁷ At the time for the dinner he sent his slave to say to those who had been invited, ‘Come; for everything is ready now.’¹⁸ But they all alike began to make excuses. The first said to him, ‘I have bought a piece of land, and I must go out and see it; please accept my regrets.’¹⁹ Another said, ‘I have bought five yoke of oxen, and I am going to try them out; please accept my regrets.’²⁰ Another said, ‘I have just been married, and therefore I cannot come.’²¹ So the slave returned and reported this to his master. Then the owner of the house became angry and said to his slave, ‘Go out at once into the streets and lanes of the town and bring in the poor, the crippled, the blind, and the lame.’²² And the slave said, ‘Sir, what you ordered has been done, and there is still room.’²³ Then the master said to the slave, ‘Go out into the roads and lanes, and compel people to come in, so that my house may be filled.²⁴ For I tell you,^c none of those who were invited will taste my dinner.’”

²⁵ Now large crowds were traveling with him; and he turned and said to them,²⁶ “Whoever comes to me and does not hate father and mother, wife and children, brothers and sisters, yes, and even life itself, cannot be my disciple.²⁷ Whoever does not carry the cross and follow me cannot be my disciple.²⁸ For which of you, intending to

^a Gk he

^b Other ancient authorities read a donkey

^c The Greek word for you here is plural

pair with the foregoing account of Jesus’ healing the crippled woman (13.1–16), exhibiting Luke’s concern to show the inclusive nature of Jesus’ ministry. 2: Dropsy, swelling from abnormal fluid retention. 5: The variant reading, “a donkey” instead of “a child” (see note b) was a scribal alteration to make this verse conform to the wording of 13.15. Cf. Ex 23.5; Deut 22.4.

14.7–14: Parable on humility. 8: Prov 25.6–7. 11: See 13.30; 18.14; Mt 18.4; 23.12.

14.15–24: Parable of the great dinner (Mt 22.1–14). 18–20: Cf. Deut 20.5–8. 24: You is plural here, whereas the master in the parable was speaking to only one servant (“you” singular). Thus, Jesus seems to have completed the parabolic form in v. 23 and, now, he speaks to the guests directly in this verse (v. 24) as a reply to the statement by the guest in v. 15. My dinner suggests the messianic banquet (see 12.37n.).

14.25–33: The costs of discipleship (Mt 10.37–38). A series of sayings declaring the necessity of the disciples’ total devotion to following Jesus. 26: Jn 12.25. Hate is vivid language; the parallel passage in Mt 10.37 is build a tower, does not first sit down and estimate the cost, to see whether he has enough to complete it? ²⁹ Otherwise, when he has laid a foundation and is not able to finish, all who see it will begin to ridicule him, ³⁰ saying, ‘This fellow began to build and was not able to finish.’ ³¹ Or what king, going out to wage war against another king, will not sit down first and consider whether he is able with ten thousand to oppose the one who comes against him with twenty thousand? ³² If he cannot, then, while the other is still far away, he sends a delegation and asks for the terms of peace. ³³ So therefore, none of you can become my disciple if you do not give up all your possessions.

³⁴ “Salt is good; but if salt has lost its taste, how can its saltiness be restored?^a ³⁵ It is fit neither for the soil nor for the manure pile; they throw it away. Let anyone with ears to hear listen!”

15 Now all the tax collectors and sinners were coming near to listen to him.

² And the Pharisees and the scribes were grumbling and saying, “This fellow welcomes sinners and eats with them.”

³ So he told them this parable: ⁴ “Which one of you, having a hundred sheep and losing one of them, does not leave the ninety-nine in the wilderness and go after the one that is lost until he finds it? ⁵ When he has found it, he lays it on his shoulders and rejoices. ⁶ And when he comes home, he calls together his friends and neighbors, saying to them, ‘Rejoice with me, for I have found my sheep that was lost.’ ⁷ Just so, I tell you, there will be more joy in heaven over one sinner who repents than over ninety-nine righteous persons who need no repentance.

⁸ “Or what woman having ten silver coins,^b if she loses one of them, does not light a lamp, sweep the house, and search carefully until she finds it? ⁹ When she has found it, she calls together her friends and neighbors, saying, ‘Rejoice with me, for I have found the coin that I had lost.’ ¹⁰ Just so, I tell you, there is joy in the presence of the angels of God over one sinner who repents.”

¹¹ Then Jesus^c said, “There was a man who had two sons. ¹² The younger of them said to his father, ‘Father, give me the share of the property that will belong to me.’ So he divided his property between them. ¹³ A few days later the younger son gathered all he had and traveled to a distant country, and there he squandered his property in dissolute living. ¹⁴ When he had spent everything, a severe famine took place throughout that country, and he began to be in need. ¹⁵ So he went and hired himself out to one of the citizens of that country, who sent him to his fields to feed the pigs. ¹⁶ He would gladly have filled himself with^d the pods that the pigs were eating; and no one gave him anything. ¹⁷ But when he came to himself he said, ‘How many of my father’s hired hands have bread enough and to spare, but here I am dying of hunger! ¹⁸ I will get up and go to my father, and I will say to him, ‘Father, I have sinned against heaven and before you; ¹⁹ I am no longer worthy to be called your son; treat me like one of your

^a Or how can it be used for seasoning?

^b Gk drachmas, each worth about a day’s wage for a laborer

^c Gk he

^d Other ancient authorities read filled his stomach with softer. ²⁷: See Mk 8.34. ^{31–32}: Possibly alludes to some contemporary event. ³³: The stark severity of this statement suggests that it is to be understood as hyperbole. See 12.33; 18.22.

14.34–35: Saying about salt (Mt 5.13; Mk 9.49–50). This saying warns against lackadaisical discipleship. Ancient salt was not pure sodium chloride, so the other material in the salt could go bad and cause the salt to be no good.

15.1–7: Parable of the lost sheep (Mt 18.12–14). God is frequently called the shepherd, both of Israel (e.g., Pss 78.52; 80.1; 100.3) and of the individual (Ps 23); for the image of lost sheep, see Ps 119.176; Jer 50.6; Ezek 34.15–16. 6–7: The mention of joy anticipates the declarations of joy in the following two parables, which share the theme of lost and found.

15.8–10: Parable of the lost coin. The woman sweeping and seeking the coin is freely cast in the parable to depict the activity of God. 8: The coins are Greek drachmas; see note b.

15.11–32: Parable of the lost prodigal son. 12: On inheritance, see Deut 21.17. See 12.13n. 15: Pigs, see 8.32n.

hired hands.”²⁰ So he set off and went to his father. But while he was still far off, his father saw him and was filled with compassion; he ran and put his arms around him and kissed him.²¹ Then the son said to him, ‘Father, I have sinned against heaven and before you; I am no longer worthy to be called your son.’²² But the father said to his slaves, ‘Quickly, bring out a robe—the best one—and put it on him; put a ring on his finger and sandals on his feet.’²³ And get the fatted calf and kill it, and let us eat and celebrate;²⁴ for this son of mine was dead and is alive again; he was lost and is found!’ And they began to celebrate.

²⁵ “Now his elder son was in the field; and when he came and approached the house, he heard music and dancing.²⁶ He called one of the slaves and asked what was going on.²⁷ He replied, ‘Your brother has come, and your father has killed the fatted calf, because he has got him back safe and sound.’²⁸ Then he became angry and refused to go in. His father came out and began to plead with him.²⁹ But he answered his father, ‘Listen! For all these years I have been working like a slave for you, and I have never disobeyed your command; yet you have never given me even a young goat so that I might celebrate with my friends.’³⁰ But when this son of yours came back, who has devoured your property with prostitutes, you killed the fatted calf for him!’³¹ Then the father^b said to him, ‘Son, you are always with me, and all that is mine is yours.’³² But we had to celebrate and rejoice, because this brother of yours was dead and has come to life; he was lost and has been found.”

16 Then Jesus^b said to the disciples, “There was a rich man who had a manager, and charges were brought to him that this man was squandering his property.² So he summoned him and said to him, ‘What is this that I hear about you? Give me an accounting of your management, because you cannot be my manager any longer.’³ Then the manager said to himself, ‘What will I do, now that my master is taking the position away from me? I am not strong enough to dig, and I am ashamed to beg.’⁴ I have decided what to do so that, when I am dismissed as manager, people may welcome me into their homes.’⁵ So, summoning his master’s debtors one by one, he asked the first, ‘How much do you owe my master?’⁶ He answered, ‘A hundred jugs of olive oil.’ He said to him, ‘Take your bill, sit down quickly, and make it fifty.’⁷ Then he asked another, ‘And how much do you owe?’ He replied, ‘A hundred containers of wheat.’ He said to him, ‘Take your bill and make it eighty.’⁸ And his master commended the dishonest manager because he had acted shrewdly; for the children of this age are more shrewd in dealing with their own generation than are the children of light.⁹ And I tell you, make friends for yourselves

^a Other ancient authorities add Treat me like one of your hired servants

^b Gk he

22–24: His place as son is freely restored, though his inheritance is gone. The parable illustrates God’s grace toward those who rebel and return. 22: Robe, a festal garment (not worn while working); ring, symbol of authority; sandals, slaves would have been barefooted. Cf. Gen 41.42; Zech 3.4. 23: Fatted calf, a luxury; see 1 Sam 28.24; Am 6.4. 25–32: Rivalry between brothers is a common biblical theme (see Gen 4.2–8; 25.27–34; 27.1–36; 37.1–4). Note the elder son’s pique (“this son of yours,” v. 30). 31: See v. 12n.

16.1–9: Parable of the dishonest manager. The culmination of this enigmatic story appears to be v. 8, and Jesus’ exposition follows in v. 9. The meaning of the story for those hearing Jesus’ teaching is that the dishonest manager was prudent in using the things of this life to ensure the future, so believers should do the same. More generally, however, the probable sense of the story itself is that the steward was dishonest in his squandering his master’s estate. When confronted, he does not necessarily engage in dishonest behavior (in fact he is praised for his actions), but he calls in the debtors and reduces their bills by eliminating his own commission. Thus, he shrewdly uses material goods to win gratitude from his master’s debtors. 8: His master, lit., “the lord”; perhaps indicating a reference by Luke to Jesus (“the Lord”) rather than being the words of Jesus’ conclusion to the parable. Children of light, those who are spiritually enlightened; this phrase appears in Jn 12.36; Eph 5.8; 1 Thess 5.5, as well as in the Dead Sea Scrolls where it is contrasted with the phrase “children of darkness.” 9: Wealth, lit., “mammon,” is the Greek transliteration of a Semitic word probably meaning “that in which one trusts.”

by means of dishonest wealth^a so that when it is gone, they may welcome you into the eternal homes.^b

¹⁰ “Whoever is faithful in a very little is faithful also in much; and whoever is dishonest in a very little is dishonest also in much.

¹¹ If then you have not been faithful with the dishonest wealth,^a who will entrust to you the true riches? ¹² And if you have not been faithful with what belongs to another, who will give you what is your own? ¹³ No slave can serve two masters; for a slave will either hate the one and love the other, or be devoted to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and wealth.”^a

¹⁴ The Pharisees, who were lovers of money, heard all this, and they ridiculed him.

¹⁵ So he said to them, “You are those who justify yourselves in the sight of others; but God knows your hearts; for what is prized by human beings is an abomination in the sight of God.

¹⁶ “The law and the prophets were in effect until John came; since then the good news of the kingdom of God is proclaimed, and everyone tries to enter it by force.^c ¹⁷ But it is easier for heaven and earth to pass away, than for one stroke of a letter in the law to be dropped.

¹⁸ “Anyone who divorces his wife and marries another commits adultery, and whoever marries a woman divorced from her husband commits adultery.

¹⁹ “There was a rich man who was dressed in purple and fine linen and who feasted sumptuously every day. ²⁰ And at his gate lay a poor man named Lazarus, covered with sores,²¹ who longed to satisfy his hunger with what fell from the rich man’s table; even the dogs would come and lick his sores. ²² The poor man died and was carried away by the angels to be with Abraham.^d The rich man also died and was buried. ²³ In Hades, where he was being tormented, he looked up and saw Abraham far away with Lazarus by his side.^e ²⁴ He called out, ‘Father Abraham, have mercy on me, and send Lazarus to dip the tip of his finger in water and cool my tongue; for I am in agony in these flames.’ ²⁵ But Abraham said, ‘Child, remember that during your lifetime you received your good things, and Lazarus in like manner evil things; but now he is comforted here, and you are in agony. ²⁶ Besides all this, between you and us a great chasm has been fixed, so that those who might want to pass from here to you cannot do so, and no one can cross from there to us.’ ²⁷ He said, ‘Then, father, I beg you to send him to my father’s house—²⁸ for I have five brothers—that he may warn them, so that they will not also come into this place of torment.’ ²⁹ Abraham replied, ‘They have Moses and the prophets; they should listen to them.’ ³⁰ He said, ‘No, father Abraham; but

^a Gk mammon

^b Gk tents

^c Or everyone is strongly urged to enter it

^d Gk to Abraham’s bosom

^e Gk in his bosom

16.10–18: A series of sayings. 10–12: Sayings on faithfulness. The sayings take the form of “from lesser to greater.” 11,13: Wealth, see v. 9n. 13: The impossibility of serving two masters (Mt 6.24; cf. Deut 6.13). 14–15: Strong criticism of the Pharisees. 16–17: Sayings concerning the law (Mt 11.12–13; 5.18; cf. Lk 21.33). 16: Here, John the Baptist is presented as the figure through whom the fulfillment of God’s promises began to appear. The law and the prophets, the first two parts of what became the three divisions of the Hebrew Bible, the Torah or “law” of Moses, and the prophets (the books of Joshua through 2 Kings and Isaiah through Malachi; see the Prologue to Sirach; 2 Macc 15.9; Lk 16.29; 24.27,44). 18: Saying concerning divorce (Mt 19.9; Mk 10.11–12). This statement may condemn the simultaneous actions of divorce and marrying another; in other words, a divorce that occurred to facilitate remarriage. Herod Antipas had done exactly that; see 3.19–20n.

16.19–31: Parable of the rich man and Lazarus. A clear emphasis of this parable (vv. 27–31) is that the Hebrew Bible speaks an urgent and sufficient call to repentance (v. 17). As a whole the story seems to illustrate vv. 10–15. 19: The rich man, though unnamed, is commonly called “Dives,” which is Latin for “rich man.” Purple was an expensive cloth dyed with the liquid obtained from a species of shellfish. 20: The person named here is not to be identified with the Lazarus of Jn 11.1–44; 12.1,9. 21–22: The moral character of Lazarus is passed over to illustrate the fatal deficiency in the life of the indifferent rich man and the impossibility of altering his condemnation. 22: With Abraham, traditional terminology for a blessed condition in the afterlife; see 13.28–29. 23: Hades, 10.15n.

The geography of the Gospel of Luke.

if someone goes to them from the dead, they will repent.’³¹ He said to him, ‘If they do not listen to Moses and the prophets, neither will they be convinced even if someone rises from the dead.’”

17 Jesus^a said to his disciples, “Occasions for stumbling are bound to come, but woe to anyone by whom they come! ² It would be better for you if a millstone were hung around your neck and you were thrown into the sea than for you to cause one of these little ones to stumble. ³ Be on your guard! If another disciple^b sins, you must rebuke the offender, and if there is repentance, you must forgive. ⁴ And if the same person sins against you seven times a day, and turns back to you seven times and says, ‘I repent,’ you must forgive.”

⁵ The apostles said to the Lord, “Increase our faith!” ⁶ The Lord replied, “If you had faith the size of a^c mustard seed, you could say to this mulberry tree, ‘Be uprooted and planted in the sea,’ and it would obey you.

⁷ “Who among you would say to your slave who has just come in from plowing or tending sheep in the field, ‘Come here at once and take your place at the table?’ ⁸ Would you not rather say to him, ‘Prepare supper for me, put on your apron and serve me while I eat and drink; later you may eat and drink?’ ⁹ Do you thank the slave for doing what was commanded? ¹⁰ So you also, when you have done all that you were ordered to do, say, ‘We are worthless slaves; we have done only what we ought to have done!’”

¹¹ On the way to Jerusalem Jesus^d was going through the region between Samaria and Galilee. ¹² As he entered a village, ten lepers^e approached him. Keeping their distance, ¹³ they called out, saying, “Jesus, Master, have mercy on us!” ¹⁴ When he saw them, he said to them, “Go and show yourselves to the priests.” And as they went, they were made clean. ¹⁵ Then one of them, when he saw that he was healed, turned back, praising God with a loud voice. ¹⁶ He prostrated himself at Jesus^f feet and thanked him. And he was a Samaritan. ¹⁷ Then Jesus asked, “Were not ten made clean? But the other nine, where are they? ¹⁸ Was none of them found to return and give praise to God except this foreigner?” ¹⁹ Then he said to him, “Get up and go on your way; your faith has made you well.”

²⁰ Once Jesus^d was asked by the Pharisees when the kingdom of God was coming, and he answered, “The kingdom of God is not coming with things that can be observed; ²¹ nor will they say, ‘Look, here it is!’ or ‘There it is!’ For, in fact, the kingdom of God is among^g you.”

^a Gk He

^b Gk your brother

^c Gk faith as a grain of

^d Gk he

^e The terms leper and leprosy can refer to several diseases

^f Gk his

^g Or within

29: Moses and the prophets, see v. 16n. 31: Rises from the dead, a clear reference to Jesus’ resurrection (see 9.22) and the ensuing refusal of some to believe it.

17.1–3a: The peril of causing temptation (Mt 18.6–7; Mk 9.42). 2: Millstone, stone (used in pairs) to grind grain; it was typically made of basalt and ca. 12–18 in (30–40 cm) in diameter and 2–4 in (5–10 cm) thick. Little ones, disciples.

17.3b–4: Sayings concerning forgiveness (Mt 18.15, 21–22).

17.5–6: Saying concerning faith (Mt 17.19–21; Mk 9.28–29). 6: The size of a mustard seed, see Mk 4.31.

17.7–10: The obligation to obedience. For the apostles, obedience to God is a duty to be fulfilled and not an occasion for reward; yet, cf. 12.35–38.

17.11–19: The cleansing of ten lepers. (See 5.12–16n.) 12: Lev 13.45–46. 14: Priests, Lev 13.2–3; 14.2–32. 16: Samaritan, see 9.52n. 17: The other nine were, presumably, Jews. 18: The Gk word translated foreigner more literally means “another race,” 7.9n. 19: 7.50; 8.48; 18.42. Made you well, lit., “saved you.”

17.20–21: The coming of the kingdom of God. 20: 19.11; 21.7; Acts 1.6. 21: The questioners had in mind a kingdom bringing material and political benefits. Jesus shifted the emphasis from future expectation to the observable presence of the kingdom in his ministry; see 11.20.

17.22–37: The day of the Son of Man (Mt 24.17–18, 23, 26–28, 37–41; Mk 13.14–16, 19–23). Mt 24 has similar

²²Then he said to the disciples, “The days are coming when you will long to see one of the days of the Son of Man, and you will not see it. ²³They will say to you, ‘Look there!’ or ‘Look here!’ Do not go, do not set off in pursuit. ²⁴For as the lightning flashes and lights up the sky from one side to the other, so will the Son of Man be in his day.^a ²⁵But first he must endure much suffering and be rejected by this generation. ²⁶Just as it was in the days of Noah, so too it will be in the days of the Son of Man. ²⁷They were eating and drinking, and marrying and being given in marriage, until the day Noah entered the ark, and the flood came and destroyed all of them. ²⁸Likewise, just as it was in the days of Lot: they were eating and drinking, buying and selling, planting and building, ²⁹but on the day that Lot left Sodom, it rained fire and sulfur from heaven and destroyed all of them ³⁰—it will be like that on the day that the Son of Man is revealed. ³¹On that day, anyone on the housetop who has belongings in the house must not come down to take them away; and likewise anyone in the field must not turn back. ³²Remember Lot’s wife. ³³Those who try to make their life secure will lose it, but those who lose their life will keep it. ³⁴I tell you, on that night there will be two in one bed; one will be taken and the other left. ³⁵There will be two women grinding meal together; one will be taken and the other left.”^b ³⁷Then they asked him, “Where, Lord?” He said to them, “Where the corpse is, there the vultures will gather.”

18 Then Jesus^c told them a parable about their need to pray always and not to lose heart. ²He said, “In a certain city there was a judge who neither feared God nor had respect for people. ³In that city there was a widow who kept coming to him and saying, ‘Grant me justice against my opponent.’ ⁴For a while he refused; but later he said to himself, ‘Though I have no fear of God and no respect for anyone, ⁵yet because this widow keeps bothering me, I will grant her justice, so that she may not wear me out by continually coming.’”^d ⁶And the Lord said, “Listen to what the unjust judge says. ⁷And will not God grant justice to his chosen ones who cry to him day and night? Will he delay long in helping them? ⁸I tell you, he will quickly grant justice to them. And yet, when the Son of Man comes, will he find faith on earth?”

⁹He also told this parable to some who trusted in themselves that they were righteous and regarded others with contempt: ¹⁰“Two men went up to the temple to pray, one a Pharisee and the other a tax collector. ¹¹The Pharisee, standing by himself, was praying thus, ‘God, I thank you that I am not like other people: thieves, rogues, adulterers, or even like this tax collector. ¹²I fast twice a week; I give a tenth of all my income.’ ¹³But the tax collector, standing far off, would not even look up to heaven, but was beating his breast and saying, ‘God, be merciful to me, a sinner!’ ¹⁴I tell you, this man went down to

^a Other ancient authorities lack in his day

^b Other ancient authorities add verse 36, “Two will be in the field; one will be taken and the other left.”

^c Gk he

^d Or so that she may not finally come and slap me in the face teachings in a different order and setting. 24: The coming will be sudden and discernible to all. 25: 9.22. An allusion to Jesus’ suffering and death. 26–36: The emphasis is on the unexpected nature of events. 26–27: Gen 6.5–8; 7.6–24. 28–30: Gen 18.16–19.28. 31: On the housetop, a flat-top roof reached by an exterior staircase. 32: Gen 19.26. 33: 9.24. [36]: This verse is a scribal addition to Luke to incorporate a saying from Mt 24.20. 37: Mt 24.28. The questioners wish to know where the messiah and his people will be located. Instead of answering them directly, Jesus warns: As surely as vultures find the carcass, so surely will divine judgment come; therefore always be ready!

18.1–8: Parable of the unjust judge and the persistent widow. 1: The aim is carefully stated (cf. 11.5–8), perhaps because the details are incongruous (as in 16.1–9). 3: Cf. Deut 27.19. 8: Comes, from heaven, in judgment (see Dan 7.13–14). This verse links the parable with 17.20–37.

18.9–14: Parable of the Pharisee and the tax collector. 9: Righteous, that is, acceptable to God because of their strict observance of the law. 10: Tax collector, see 5.27n. 11: Standing by himself, was praying thus, more literally, “standing to himself these things prayed,” a suggestively ambiguous statement. 12: Twice a week, Mondays and Thursdays; such a practice was apparently voluntary rather than prescribed. 13: Beating his breast, a sign of contrition. 14: Justified means “right with God” or “accepted by God.” All who exalt his home justified rather than the other; for all who exalt themselves will be humbled, but all who humble themselves will be exalted.”

¹⁵ People were bringing even infants to him that he might touch them; and when the disciples saw it, they sternly ordered them not to do it. ¹⁶ But Jesus called for them and said, “Let the little children come to me, and do not stop them; for it is to such as these that the kingdom of God belongs. ¹⁷ Truly I tell you, whoever does not receive the kingdom of God as a little child will never enter it.”

¹⁸ A certain ruler asked him, “Good Teacher, what must I do to inherit eternal life?” ¹⁹ Jesus said to him, “Why do you call me good? No one is good but God alone. ²⁰ You know the commandments: ‘You shall not commit adultery; You shall not murder; You shall not steal; You shall not bear false witness; Honor your father and mother.’” ²¹ He replied, “I have kept all these since my youth.” ²² When Jesus heard this, he said to him, “There is still one thing lacking. Sell all that you own and distribute the money^a to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven; then come, follow me.”

²³ But when he heard this, he became sad; for he was very rich. ²⁴ Jesus looked at him and said, “How hard it is for those who have wealth to enter the kingdom of God! ²⁵ Indeed, it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for someone who is rich to enter the kingdom of God.”

²⁶ Those who heard it said, “Then who can be saved?” ²⁷ He replied, “What is impossible for mortals is possible for God.”

²⁸ Then Peter said, “Look, we have left our homes and followed you.” ²⁹ And he said to them, “Truly I tell you, there is no one who has left house or wife or brothers or parents or children, for the sake of the kingdom of God, ³⁰ who will not get back very much more in this age, and in the age to come eternal life.”

³¹ Then he took the twelve aside and said to them, “See, we are going up to Jerusalem, and everything that is written about the Son of Man by the prophets will be accomplished. ³² For he will be handed over to the Gentiles; and he will be mocked and insulted and spat upon. ³³ After they have flogged him, they will kill him, and on the third day he will rise again.” ³⁴ But they understood nothing about all these things; in fact, what he said was hidden from them, and they did not grasp what was said.

³⁵ As he approached Jericho, a blind man was sitting by the roadside begging. ³⁶ When he heard a crowd going by, he asked what was happening. ³⁷ They told him, “Jesus of Nazareth^b is passing by.” ³⁸ Then he shouted, “Jesus, Son of David, have mercy on me!” ³⁹ Those who were in front sternly ordered him to be quiet; but he shouted even more loudly, “Son of David, have mercy on me!” ⁴⁰ Jesus stood still and ordered the man to be brought to him; and when he came near, he

^a Gk lacks the money

^b Gk the Nazorean

themselves . . . , see 14.11n.

18.15–17: Jesus and the little children (Mt 19.13–15; Mk 10.13–16). Located between the preceding parable and the subsequent incident with the rich ruler, this brief story with its sayings contrasts humility with self-righteousness and self-satisfaction.

18.18–30: The rich ruler, wealth, and salvation (Mt 19.16–30; Mk 10.17–31). 18: 10.25. 20: The order of the commandments, varying from the Hebrew Bible, follows the ancient Greek translation, the Septuagint (LXX); see Ex 20.12–16; Deut 5.16–20. 22: Treasure in heaven, see 12.33–34. See 14.33n. 23: The story does not tell what the rich ruler ultimately did in relation to Jesus’ statement at 18.22. 26: To be saved refers to the same spiritual experience as to inherit eternal life (v. 18), and to enter the kingdom of God (v. 25). 27: Gen 18.14; Job 42.2; Jer 32.17; Lk 1.37. 28: 5.1–11. 30: In this age, and in the age to come, traditional apocalyptic language contrasting the present evil age and the age of God’s kingdom or reign.

18.31–34: Jesus’ third prediction of his death (Mt 20.17–19; Mk 10.32–34). Cf. 9.22,44–45; 17.25. The details of this prediction form an outline of the events in chs 22–24. 31: Everything that is written . . . by the prophets, an allusion to passages such as Ps 22; Isa 53; Zech 13.7.

18.35–43: Healing of a blind man (Mt 20.29–34; Mk 10.46–52). 38: Son of David, a phrase identifying Jesus with the messianic expectations associated with the dynasty founded by David, probably indicating political asked him, ⁴¹“What do you want me to do for you?” He said, “Lord, let me see again.” ⁴²Jesus said to him, “Receive your sight; your faith has saved you.” ⁴³Immediately he regained his sight and followed him, glorifying God; and all the people, when they saw it, praised God.

19 He entered Jericho and was passing through it. ²A man was there named Zacchaeus; he was a chief tax collector and was rich. ³He was trying to see who Jesus was, but on account of the crowd he could not, because he was short in stature. ⁴So he ran ahead and climbed a sycamore tree to see him, because he was going to pass that way. ⁵When Jesus came to the place, he looked up and said to him, “Zacchaeus, hurry and come down; for I must stay at your house today.” ⁶So he hurried down and was happy to welcome him. ⁷All who saw it began to grumble and said, “He has gone to be the guest of one who is a sinner.” ⁸Zacchaeus stood there and said to the Lord, “Look, half of my possessions, Lord, I will give to the poor; and if I have defrauded anyone of anything, I will pay back four times as much.” ⁹Then Jesus said to him, “Today salvation has come to this house, because he too is a son of Abraham. ¹⁰For the Son of Man came to seek out and to save the lost.”

¹¹As they were listening to this, he went on to tell a parable, because he was near Jerusalem, and because they supposed that the kingdom of God was to appear immediately. ¹²So he said, “A nobleman went to a distant country to get royal power for himself and then return. ¹³He summoned ten of his slaves, and gave them ten pounds,^a and said to them, ‘Do business with these until I come back.’ ¹⁴But the citizens of his country hated him and sent a delegation after him, saying, ‘We do not want this man to rule over us.’ ¹⁵When he returned, having received royal power, he ordered these slaves, to whom he had given the money, to be summoned so that he might find out what they had gained by trading. ¹⁶The first came forward and said, ‘Lord, your pound has made ten more pounds.’ ¹⁷He said to him, ‘Well done, good slave! Because you have been trustworthy in a very small thing, take charge of ten cities.’ ¹⁸Then the second came, saying, ‘Lord, your pound has made five pounds.’ ¹⁹He said to him, ‘And you, rule over five cities.’ ²⁰Then the other came, saying, ‘Lord, here is your pound. I wrapped it up in a piece of cloth,’ ²¹for I was afraid of you, because you are a harsh man; you take what you did not deposit, and reap what you did not sow.’ ²²He said to him, ‘I will judge you by your own words, you wicked slave! You knew, did you, that I was a harsh man, taking what I did not deposit and reaping what I did not sow?’ ²³Why then did you not put my money into the bank? Then when I returned, I could have collected it with interest.’ ²⁴He said to the bystanders, “Take the pound from him and give it to the one who has ten pounds.’ ²⁵(And they said to him, ‘Lord, he has ten pounds!’) ²⁶‘I tell you, to all those who have, more will be given; but from those who have nothing, even what they have will be taken away. ²⁷But as for these enemies of mine who did not want me to be king over them—bring them here and slaughter them in my presence.’”

^a The mina, rendered here by pound, was about three months’ wages for a laborer and nationalistic aspirations. 42: See 17:19n.

19:1–10: Zacchaeus’s salvation. Although he is rich, Zacchaeus’s response to Jesus is a striking contrast to that of the rich man in 18:18–23. 1: Because of its location Jericho was an important customs center. 2: As chief tax collector Zacchaeus had contracted with the Roman overlords for the right to collect revenues (lit., “tolls”) in the district. His neighbors despised him for sharing in the Roman domination (v. 7). 7: 5:29–30; 15:1–2. 8: I will give, henceforth, a vow amounting to repentance. Four times as much, cf. Ex 22:1; Lev 6:5; Num 5:6–7. 9: Salvation, or the kingdom of God, has come in Jesus’ presence and message and evinces itself in Zacchaeus’s transformation. 10: A summary of Jesus’ ministry in the entire Gospel; see ch 15.

19:11–27: Parable of the ten pounds (Mt 25:14–30; Mk 13:34). The parable may allude to the journey of Archelaus to Rome in 4 BCE to assure his succession to his father Herod’s throne; his mission was opposed by a delegation of leaders from Judea (Josephus Ant. 17.9.4; 17:10). 11: 9:51; 13:22; 17:11; 18:31. 13: Ten pounds, lit., “ten minas,” golden coins, each of which equaled a hundred drachmas (see 15:8n.). 17: 16:10. 26: See 8:18.

²⁸ After he had said this, he went on ahead, going up to Jerusalem.

²⁹ When he had come near Bethphage and Bethany, at the place called the Mount of Olives, he sent two of the disciples, ³⁰ saying, “Go into the village ahead of you, and as you enter it you will find tied there a colt that has never been ridden. Untie it and bring it here.” ³¹ If anyone asks you, ‘Why are you untying it?’ just say this, ‘The Lord needs it.’” ³² So those who were sent departed and found it as he had told them. ³³ As they were untying the colt, its owners asked them, “Why are you untying the colt?” ³⁴ They said, “The Lord needs it.” ³⁵ Then they brought it to Jesus; and after throwing their cloaks on the colt, they set Jesus on it. ³⁶ As he rode along, people kept spreading their cloaks on the road. ³⁷ As he was now approaching the path down from the Mount of Olives, the whole multitude of the disciples began to praise God joyfully with a loud voice for all the deeds of power that they had seen, ³⁸ saying,

“Blessed is the king who comes in the name of the Lord!
Peace in heaven,
and glory in the highest heaven!”

³⁹ Some of the Pharisees in the crowd said to him, “Teacher, order your disciples to stop.”

⁴⁰ He answered, “I tell you, if these were silent, the stones would shout out.”

⁴¹ As he came near and saw the city, he wept over it, ⁴² saying, “If you, even you, had only recognized on this day the things that make for peace! But now they are hidden from your eyes. ⁴³ Indeed, the days will come upon you, when your enemies will set up ramparts around you and surround you, and hem you in on every side. ⁴⁴ They will crush you to the ground, you and your children within you, and they will not leave within you one stone upon another; because you did not recognize the time of your visitation from God.”^a ⁴⁵ Then he entered the temple and began to drive out those who were selling things there; ⁴⁶ and he said, “It is written,

‘My house shall be a house of prayer’;
but you have made it a den of robbers.”

⁴⁷ Every day he was teaching in the temple. The chief priests, the scribes, and the leaders of the people kept looking for a way to kill him; ⁴⁸ but they did not find anything they could do, for all the people were spellbound by what they heard.

20 One day, as he was teaching the people in the temple and telling the good news, the chief priests and the scribes came with the elders ² and said to him, “Tell us, by what authority are you doing these things? Who is it who gave you this authority?” ³ He answered them, “I will also ask you a question, and you tell me: ⁴ Did the baptism of John come from heaven, or was it of human

^a Gk lacks from God

19.28–21.38: Jesus’ ministry in Jerusalem (Mt 21.1–24.36; Mk 11.1–13.37).

19.28–40: The entry into Jerusalem (Mt 21.1–9; Mk 11.1–10; Jn 12.12–18). 29: Bethphage and Bethany, villages just east of Jerusalem. 30: Zech. 9.9. 31: While the situation in the story shows that it is “Jesus” who needs the colt, the saying could be understood to mean “God needs it.” 32: 22.13. 36: Cf. 2 Kings 9.13. 37: The road crossed a ridge into the Kidron valley. 38: Incorporates a phrase from Ps 118.26; see Zech 9.9; Lk 13.35. This scene depicts a royal entry, naming Jesus as king, a title that will be used in the charges against Jesus before Pilate in 23.2. Portions of this verse echo the words of the angels at 2.14. 39–40: Hab 2.11.

19.41–44: Weeping over Jerusalem. See 13.33–34; cf. 23.27–31. These verses may reflect historical knowledge of the actual destruction of Jerusalem in 70 CE. 42–44: The “you” here is a singular form, indicating that Jesus spoke to “Jerusalem.” 43: 21.20–24; 21.6; Isa 29.3; Jer 6.6; Ezek 4.2. Your enemies, the Roman army. Ramparts, palisade that would keep out all supplies of food. 44: Ps 137.9; Hos 10.14; 13.16. Children, the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

19.45–46: Cleansing of the Temple (Mt 21.12–13; Mk 11.15–17; Jn 2.13–17). In this display of authority in the Temple, Jesus dramatically acts out Mal 3.1–2. 45: Selling the prescribed offerings, as in 2.24; Lev 1.14. 46: Isa 56.7; Jer 7.11.

19.47–48: The religious leaders’ hostility toward Jesus (Mk 11.18–19). 47: The chief priests, the scribes, and the leaders of the people were Jesus’ adversaries once he reached Jerusalem.

20.1–8: Questioning Jesus’ authority (Mt 21.23–27; Mk 11.27–33; Jn 2.18–22). 4: The baptism of John, 3.3–21.

origin?”⁵ They discussed it with one another, saying, “If we say, ‘From heaven,’ he will say, ‘Why did you not believe him?’⁶ But if we say, ‘Of human origin,’ all the people will stone us; for they are convinced that John was a prophet.”⁷ So they answered that they did not know where it came from.⁸ Then Jesus said to them, “Neither will I tell you by what authority I am doing these things.”

⁹ He began to tell the people this parable: “A man planted a vineyard, and leased it to tenants, and went to another country for a long time.¹⁰ When the season came, he sent a slave to the tenants in order that they might give him his share of the produce of the vineyard; but the tenants beat him and sent him away empty-handed.¹¹ Next he sent another slave; that one also they beat and insulted and sent away empty-handed.¹² And he sent still a third; this one also they wounded and threw out.¹³ Then the owner of the vineyard said, ‘What shall I do? I will send my beloved son; perhaps they will respect him.’¹⁴ But when the tenants saw him, they discussed it among themselves and said, ‘This is the heir; let us kill him so that the inheritance may be ours.’¹⁵ So they threw him out of the vineyard and killed him. What then will the owner of the vineyard do to them?¹⁶ He will come and destroy those tenants and give the vineyard to others.” When they heard this, they said, “Heaven forbid!”¹⁷ But he looked at them and said, “What then does this text mean:

“The stone that the builders rejected has become the cornerstone?”¹⁸

¹⁸ Everyone who falls on that stone will be broken to pieces; and it will crush anyone on whom it falls.”¹⁹ When the scribes and chief priests realized that he had told this parable against them, they wanted to lay hands on him at that very hour, but they feared the people.

²⁰ So they watched him and sent spies who pretended to be honest, in order to trap him by what he said, so as to hand him over to the jurisdiction and authority of the governor.

²¹ So they asked him, “Teacher, we know that you are right in what you say and teach, and you show deference to no one, but teach the way of God in accordance with truth.²² Is it lawful for us to pay taxes to the emperor, or not?”²³ But he perceived their craftiness and said to them, ²⁴ “Show me a denarius. Whose head and whose title does it bear?” They said, “The emperor’s.”²⁵ He said to them, “Then give to the emperor the things that are the emperor’s, and to God the things that are God’s.”²⁶ And they were not able in the presence of the people to trap him by what he said; and being amazed by his answer, they became silent.

²⁷ Some Sadducees, those who say there is no resurrection, came to him²⁸ and asked him a question, “Teacher, Moses wrote for us that if a man’s brother dies, leaving a wife but no children, the man^b shall marry the widow and raise up children for his brother.²⁹ Now there were seven brothers; the first married, and died childless;³⁰ then the second³¹ and the third married her, and so in the same way all seven died childless.³² Finally the woman also died.³³ In the resurrection, therefore,

^a Or keystone

^b Gk his brother

20.9–19: Parable of the vineyard and tenants (Mt 21.33–46; Mk 12.1–12). 9: Isa 5.1–7. 13: The use of beloved (see 3.22) identifies the son with Jesus. 15: The murder of the son outside the vineyard may reflect Jesus’ crucifixion outside the city of Jerusalem; see Jn 19.17; Heb 13.12; cf. Acts 7.52–53. 17: Ps 118.22; see Isa 28.16; Acts 4.11. 18: Isa 8.14–15. 19: Lk 19.47.

20.20–26: Paying taxes to the emperor (Mt 22.15–22; Mk 12.13–17). 20: Honest translates a Greek word that normally means “correct according to the law,” i.e., “righteous.” It is used here in the same sense of false pretense that it has in Mt 23.28. 22–25: A falsified version of this incident lies behind the charge against Jesus before Pilate in 23.2. 24: Denarius, a coin that had the head of the emperor on one side. Strict, pious Jews did not use these Roman coins, but specially minted Jewish coinage.

20.27–40: Question concerning resurrection (Mt 22.23–33; Mk 12.18–27). 27: Sadducees were the elite class of landed Jerusalem gentry who operated the Temple and wielded power from that religious base of operations; cf. Acts 4.1–2; 23.6–10. 27: Sadducees recognized only the Pentateuch (first five books of the Hebrew Bible) as authoritative, so they denied resurrection because they insisted that it was not taught there. 28: The question whose wife will the woman be? For the seven had married her.”

³⁴ Jesus said to them, “Those who belong to this age marry and are given in marriage; ³⁵ but those who are considered worthy of a place in that age and in the resurrection from the dead neither marry nor are given in marriage. ³⁶ Indeed they cannot die anymore, because they are like angels and are children of God, being children of the resurrection. ³⁷ And the fact that the dead are raised Moses himself showed, in the story about the bush, where he speaks of the Lord as the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob. ³⁸ Now he is God not of the dead, but of the living; for to him all of them are alive.” ³⁹ Then some of the scribes answered, “Teacher, you have spoken well.” ⁴⁰ For they no longer dared to ask him another question.

⁴¹ Then he said to them, “How can they say that the Messiah^a is David’s son? ⁴² For David himself says in the book of Psalms,

“The Lord said to my Lord,
“Sit at my right hand,

⁴³ until I make your enemies your footstool.”

⁴⁴ David thus calls him Lord; so how can he be his son?”

⁴⁵ In the hearing of all the people he said to the^b disciples, ⁴⁶ “Beware of the scribes, who like to walk around in long robes, and love to be greeted with respect in the marketplaces, and to have the best seats in the synagogues and places of honor at banquets. ⁴⁷ They devour widows’ houses and for the sake of appearance say long prayers. They will receive the greater condemnation.”

21 He looked up and saw rich people putting their gifts into the treasury; ² he also saw a poor widow put in two small copper coins. ³ He said, “Truly I tell you, this poor widow has put in more than all of them; ⁴ for all of them have contributed out of their abundance, but she out of her poverty has put in all she had to live on.”

⁵ When some were speaking about the temple, how it was adorned with beautiful stones and gifts dedicated to God, he said, ⁶ “As for these things that you see, the days will come when not one stone will be left upon another; all will be thrown down.”

⁷ They asked him, “Teacher, when will this be, and what will be the sign that this is about to take place?” ⁸ And he said, “Beware that you are not led astray; for many will come in my name and say, ‘I am he!’^c and, ‘The time is near!’^d Do not go after them.

⁹ “When you hear of wars and insurrections, do not be terrified; for these things must take place first, but the end will not follow immediately.” ¹⁰ Then he said to them,

^a Or the Christ

^b Other ancient authorities read his

^c Gk I am

^d Or at hand

reflects the practice of levirate marriage in Deut 25.5–10; see Gen 38.8. 34–36: Human relations in marriage do not exist in the same way beyond death. Jesus distinguishes two ages and kinds of existence. Mortals are part of this age by their physical birth, and of the age to come by resurrection. 37: Ex 3.6. Jesus cites the words of Moses from the Pentateuch to refute the Sadducees’ argument. 39: Note the praise of Jesus by the scribes, affirmation that shows that all scribes were not simply aligned against Jesus.

20.41–44: A question about David’s son (Mt 22.41–46; Mk 12.35–37a). 42–43: Ps 110.1. No solution is given for the riddle that Jesus offered. 44: King David was traditionally viewed as the author of most of the Psalms. The question is: How can the messiah be David’s descendant if David calls him Lord? Ps 110 was frequently referred to in early Christian writings; see Acts 2.34–35; 1 Cor 15.25; Heb 1.5.

20.45–47: Warning concerning the scribes (Mt 23.1–36; Mk 12.37b–40). 46: 11.43.

21.1–4: The widow’s offering (Mk 12.41–44). 1: The treasury refers here to a container (shaped like an inverted trumpet for protection against theft) to receive offerings; there were thirteen of these receptacles in “the court of the women” of the Temple; in Jn 8.20 the term refers to a room in the Temple. 2: The copper coin (Gk “lepton”) was of little monetary value (see 12.59n.) but of great cost to this giver.

21.5–6: Foretelling the destruction of the Temple (Mt 24.1–2; Mk 13.1–2). Jesus’ teachings in these and the following verses are related to the material in Mk 13, but Luke’s version of that eschatological discourse has distinctive elements and perspectives. 6: See 19.44n.

21.7–11: Sayings about end-time signs (Mt 24.3–8; Mk 13.3–8). 7: 17.20; Acts 1.6. 10: 2 Chr 15.6; Isa 19.2.

“Nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom; ¹¹there will be great earthquakes, and in various places famines and plagues; and there will be dreadful portents and great signs from heaven.

¹²“But before all this occurs, they will arrest you and persecute you; they will hand you over to synagogues and prisons, and you will be brought before kings and governors because of my name. ¹³This will give you an opportunity to testify. ¹⁴So make up your minds not to prepare your defense in advance; ¹⁵for I will give you words^a and a wisdom that none of your opponents will be able to withstand or contradict. ¹⁶You will be betrayed even by parents and brothers, by relatives and friends; and they will put some of you to death. ¹⁷You will be hated by all because of my name. ¹⁸But not a hair of your head will perish. ¹⁹By your endurance you will gain your souls.

²⁰“When you see Jerusalem surrounded by armies, then know that its desolation has come near.^b ²¹Then those in Judea must flee to the mountains, and those inside the city must leave it, and those out in the country must not enter it; ²²for these are days of vengeance, as a fulfillment of all that is written. ²³Woe to those who are pregnant and to those who are nursing infants in those days! For there will be great distress on the earth and wrath against this people; ²⁴they will fall by the edge of the sword and be taken away as captives among all nations; and Jerusalem will be trampled on by the Gentiles, until the times of the Gentiles are fulfilled.

²⁵“There will be signs in the sun, the moon, and the stars, and on the earth distress among nations confused by the roaring of the sea and the waves. ²⁶People will faint from fear and foreboding of what is coming upon the world, for the powers of the heavens will be shaken. ²⁷Then they will see ‘the Son of Man coming in a cloud’ with power and great glory. ²⁸Now when these things begin to take place, stand up and raise your heads, because your redemption is drawing near.”

²⁹Then he told them a parable: “Look at the fig tree and all the trees; ³⁰as soon as they sprout leaves you can see for yourselves and know that summer is already near. ³¹So also, when you see these things taking place, you know that the kingdom of God is near. ³²Truly I tell you, this generation will not pass away until all things have taken place. ³³Heaven and earth will pass away, but my words will not pass away.

³⁴“Be on guard so that your hearts are not weighed down with dissipation and drunkenness and the worries of this life, and that day does not catch you unexpectedly, ³⁵like a trap. For it will come upon all who live on the face of the whole earth. ³⁶Be alert at all times, praying that you may have the strength to escape all these things that will take place, and to stand before the Son of Man.”

³⁷Every day he was teaching in the temple, and at night he would go out and spend the night on the Mount of Olives, as it was called.

^a Gk a mouth

^b Or is at hand

21.12–19: Foretelling the persecution of the disciples (Mt 24.9–14; Mk 13.9–13). 14–15: 12.11–12. These themes developed in the narrative of Acts. 18: 12.7; Acts 27.34; 1 Sam 14.45.

21.20–24: The desolation of Jerusalem (Mt 24.15–22; Mk 13.14–20. See 19.41–44n.). 20–22: 19.41–44; 23.28–31; 17.31. 20: Armies, the Roman forces. 22: Cf. Isa 63.4; Jer 5.29; Hos 9.7. 24: Isa 63.18; Dan 8.13. The times of the Gentiles may mean the divinely imposed limit on Roman dominance, or the extension of salvation to all people (20.16).

21.25–28: The coming of the Son of Man (Mt 24.29–31; Mk 13.24–27). 25–27: These verses reflect language and elements of thought from Joel 3.3–4; Isa 24.19 (LXX); Pss 65.8; 46.4; 89.10; Wis 5.22; Jon 1.15. 25: Isa 13.10; Joel 2.10; Zeph 1.15. 26: Incorporates wording parallel to Isa 34.4. The powers of the heavens are likely the celestial bodies mentioned in v. 25. 27: Incorporates wording parallel to Dan 7.13–14.

21.29–33: The lesson of the fig tree (Mt 24.32–36; Mk 13.28–32). 32: Cf. 9.27. 33: 16.17.

21.34–36: Admonition to alertness (cf. Mt 24.43–51; 25.13; Mk 13.33–37). 34–36: 12.35–48. 34: 8.14; 12.22; 1 Thess 5.6–7. 36: 2 Cor 5.10.

21.37–38: Summary concerning Jesus’ ministry in Jerusalem. 38: The story of the woman caught in adultery (Jn 8.1–11) appears after this verse in some ancient manuscripts; see Jn 8.11, note c.

³⁸ And all the people would get up early in the morning to listen to him in the temple.

22 Now the festival of Unleavened Bread, which is called the Passover, was near.

² The chief priests and the scribes were looking for a way to put Jesus^a to death, for they were afraid of the people.

³ Then Satan entered into Judas called Iscariot, who was one of the twelve; ⁴ he went away and conferred with the chief priests and officers of the temple police about how he might betray him to them. ⁵ They were greatly pleased and agreed to give him money. ⁶ So he consented and began to look for an opportunity to betray him to them when no crowd was present.

⁷ Then came the day of Unleavened Bread, on which the Passover lamb had to be sacrificed. ⁸ So Jesus^b sent Peter and John, saying, “Go and prepare the Passover meal for us that we may eat it.” ⁹ They asked him, “Where do you want us to make preparations for it?”

¹⁰ “Listen,” he said to them, “when you have entered the city, a man carrying a jar of water will meet you; follow him into the house he enters ¹¹ and say to the owner of the house, ‘The teacher asks you, ‘Where is the guest room, where I may eat the Passover with my disciples?’” ¹² He will show you a large room

upstairs, already furnished. Make preparations for us there.” ¹³ So they went and found everything as he had told them; and they prepared the Passover meal.

¹⁴ When the hour came, he took his place at the table, and the apostles with him. ¹⁵ He said to them, “I have eagerly desired to eat this Passover with you before I suffer; ¹⁶ for I tell you, I will not eat it^c until it is fulfilled in the kingdom of God.” ¹⁷ Then he took a cup, and after giving thanks he said, “Take this and divide it among yourselves; ¹⁸ for I tell you that from now on I will not drink of the fruit of the vine until the kingdom of God comes.” ¹⁹ Then he took a loaf of bread, and when he had given thanks, he broke it and gave it to them, saying, “This is my body, which is given for you. Do this in remembrance of me.” ²⁰ And he did the same with the cup after supper, saying, “This cup that is poured out for you is the new covenant in my blood.^d ²¹ But see, the one who betrays me is with me, and his hand is on the table. ²² For the Son of Man is going as it has been

^a Gk him

^b Gk he

^c Other ancient authorities read never eat it again

^d Other ancient authorities lack, in whole or in part, verses 19b-20 (which is given . . . in my blood)

22.1–23.56: The Last Supper and Jesus’ trials, death, and burial (Mt 26.1–27.61; Mk 14.1–15.47; Jn 13.1–19.42).

22.1–6: The deadly conspiracy against Jesus. 1–2: Mt 26.2–5; Mk 14.1–2; Jn 11.47–53. The word “called” is a concession to the Gentile readers for whom Luke wrote. 3–6: Mt 26.14–16; Mk 14.10–11; Jn 13.2. 3: The entry of Satan into Judas (see 6.16n.) reintroduces the theme from 4.13. Cf. Jn 13.2. 4: Chief priests . . ., see 19.47n. 5: Judas’s motive for betrayal is made explicit here.

22.7–13: Preparations for the Passover (Mt 26.17–19; Mk 14.12–16; Jn 13.1). 7: Ex 12.18–20; Deut 16.5–8. 10: The plans appear to rest on some prior arrangement; a man carrying a jar of water would be doing woman’s work and would be easily noticeable. 11: The identity of the householder is unknown. 12: The large room upstairs was on the second floor, probably served by an outside staircase; such rooms were regularly available and rented to pilgrims to Jerusalem.

22.14–20: The Last Supper (Mt 26.26–29; Mk 14.22–25; cf. Jn 6.51–58). 14: The hour, of the meal, after sundown. 15: 12.49–50. 16: Jesus thinks of the meal as pointing forward to the meal celebrating the fulfilling of God’s kingdom (12.37n.; 13.28–29; 14.15; 22.28–30). 17: Some Jewish meals included prayers over the cup of wine, and several such prayers might be offered during the meal (see v. 20). Luke’s order of events may be related to this practice, or to a variation among early Christians in the way they remembered and observed the “Lord’s supper.” Luke’s inclusion of a cup before the bread, as well as the usual cup after the bread, is unique. Jesus transformed a Jewish devotional meal into a continuing expression of association with himself in death and victory. 19: 1 Cor 11.23–26. 21: Ps 41.9; Jn 13.21–30.

22.21–23: The foretelling of the betrayal (Mt 26.21–25; Mk 14.18–21; Jn 13.21–30). 22: Jesus (the Son of Man) moves toward a destiny determined by God and even Judas’s actions are a part of a process beyond human control, although Judas is still responsible for his betrayal.

determined, but woe to that one by whom he is betrayed!"²³ Then they began to ask one another which one of them it could be who would do this.

²⁴ A dispute also arose among them as to which one of them was to be regarded as the greatest.²⁵ But he said to them, "The kings of the Gentiles lord it over them; and those in authority over them are called benefactors.²⁶ But not so with you; rather the greatest among you must become like the youngest, and the leader like one who serves.²⁷ For who is greater, the one who is at the table or the one who serves? Is it not the one at the table? But I am among you as one who serves.

²⁸ "You are those who have stood by me in my trials;²⁹ and I confer on you, just as my Father has conferred on me, a kingdom,³⁰ so that you may eat and drink at my table in my kingdom, and you will sit on thrones judging the twelve tribes of Israel.

³¹ "Simon, Simon, listen! Satan has demanded^a to sift all of you like wheat,³² but I have prayed for you that your own faith may not fail; and you, when once you have turned back, strengthen your brothers."³³ And he said to him, "Lord, I am ready to go with you to prison and to death!"³⁴ Jesus^b said, "I tell you, Peter, the cock will not crow this day, until you have denied three times that you know me."

³⁵ He said to them, "When I sent you out without a purse, bag, or sandals, did you lack anything?" They said, "No, not a thing."³⁶ He said to them, "But now, the one who has a purse must take it, and likewise a bag. And the one who has no sword must sell his cloak and buy one."³⁷ For I tell you, this scripture must be fulfilled in me, 'And he was counted among the lawless'; and indeed what is written about me is being fulfilled."³⁸ They said, "Lord, look, here are two swords." He replied, "It is enough."

³⁹ He came out and went, as was his custom, to the Mount of Olives; and the disciples followed him.⁴⁰ When he reached the place, he said to them, "Pray that you may not come into the time of trial."^c⁴¹ Then he withdrew from them about a stone's throw, knelt down, and prayed,⁴² "Father, if you are willing, remove this cup from me; yet, not my will but yours be done."⁴³ Then an angel from heaven appeared to him and gave him strength.⁴⁴ In his anguish he prayed more earnestly, and his sweat became like great drops of blood falling down on the ground.^d⁴⁵ When he got up from prayer, he came to the disciples and found them sleeping because of grief,⁴⁶ and he said to them, "Why are you sleeping? Get up and pray that you may not come into the time of trial."^c

⁴⁷ While he was still speaking, suddenly a crowd came, and the one called Judas, one of the twelve, was leading them. He approached Jesus to kiss him;⁴⁸ but Jesus said to him, "Judas, is it with a kiss that you are betraying the Son of Man?"⁴⁹ When those who were around him saw what was coming, they asked, "Lord, should we strike with the sword?"⁵⁰ Then one of them struck the slave of the high priest and cut off his right ear.

^a Or has obtained permission

^b Gk He

^c Or into temptation

^d Other ancient authorities lack verses 43 and 44

22.24–30: True discipleship (Mt 20.24–28; Mk 10.41–45). These verses and those of the two sections that follow (21.31–34, 35–38) form a brief farewell discourse delivered by Jesus to his disciples. 24: Jn 13.3–16. 25: Benefactors, a title bestowed on Hellenistic kings. 27: See 12.37n.

22.31–34: The foretelling of Peter's denial (Mt 26.30–35; Mk 14.26–31; Jn 13.36–38). 31: Job 1.6–12; . 32: You in this verse is singular (contrast v. 31). 34: See vv. 54–62.

22.35–38: Sayings about the coming crisis. 35: See 10.4; cf. 9.3. 36: An example of Jesus' fondness for striking metaphors, but the disciples take it literally (v. 38). 37: Isa 53.12. 38: An ironic rebuke.

22.39–46: Jesus' prayer on the Mount of Olives (Mt 26.36–46; Mk 14.32–42; Jn 18.1–2). 40: See 11.4. 42: Cup, metaphor for that which is allotted by God, whether blessing (Pss 16.5; 116.13) or judgment (Isa 51.17; Lam 4.21). Here it refers to Jesus' suffering and death. 43–44: Important early manuscripts lack these verses, but they were known to Christian writers of the second century CE and reflect tradition concerning the suffering of Jesus. Whether they were a part of the original text is debatable.

22.47–53: The betrayal and arrest of Jesus (Mt 26.47–56; Mk 14.43–52; Jn 18.2–12). 52: Isa 53.12. Only in Luke

⁵¹ But Jesus said, “No more of this!” And he touched his ear and healed him. ⁵² Then Jesus said to the chief priests, the officers of the temple police, and the elders who had come for him, “Have you come out with swords and clubs as if I were a bandit? ⁵³ When I was with you day after day in the temple, you did not lay hands on me. But this is your hour, and the power of darkness!”

⁵⁴ Then they seized him and led him away, bringing him into the high priest’s house. But Peter was following at a distance. ⁵⁵ When they had kindled a fire in the middle of the courtyard and sat down together, Peter sat among them. ⁵⁶ Then a servant-girl, seeing him in the firelight, stared at him and said, “This man also was with him.” ⁵⁷ But he denied it, saying, “Woman, I do not know him.” ⁵⁸ A little later someone else, on seeing him, said, “You also are one of them.” But Peter said, “Man, I am not!” ⁵⁹ Then about an hour later still another kept insisting, “Surely this man also was with him; for he is a Galilean.” ⁶⁰ But Peter said, “Man, I do not know what you are talking about!” At that moment, while he was still speaking, the cock crowed. ⁶¹ The Lord turned and looked at Peter. Then Peter remembered the word of the Lord, how he had said to him, “Before the cock crows today, you will deny me three times.” ⁶² And he went out and wept bitterly.

⁶³ Now the men who were holding Jesus began to mock him and beat him; ⁶⁴ they also blindfolded him and kept asking him, “Prophesy! Who is it that struck you?” ⁶⁵ They kept heaping many other insults on him.

⁶⁶ When day came, the assembly of the elders of the people, both chief priests and scribes, gathered together, and they brought him to their council. ⁶⁷ They said, “If you are the Messiah,^a tell us.” He replied, “If I tell you, you will not believe; ⁶⁸ and if I question you, you will not answer. ⁶⁹ But from now on the Son of Man will be seated at the right hand of the power of God.” ⁷⁰ All of them asked, “Are you, then, the Son of God?” He said to them, “You say that I am.” ⁷¹ Then they said, “What further testimony do we need? We have heard it ourselves from his own lips!”

23 Then the assembly rose as a body and brought Jesus^b before Pilate. ² They began to accuse him, saying, “We found this man perverting our nation, forbidding us to pay taxes to the emperor, and saying that he himself is the Messiah, a king.”^c ³ Then Pilate asked him, “Are you the king of the Jews?” He answered, “You say so.” ⁴ Then Pilate said to the chief priests and the crowds, “I find no basis for an accusation against this man.” ⁵ But they were insistent and said, “He stirs up the people by teaching throughout all Judea, from Galilee where he began even to this place.”

⁶ When Pilate heard this, he asked whether the man was a Galilean. ⁷ And when he learned that he was under Herod’s jurisdiction, he sent him off to Herod, who was himself in Jerusalem at that time. ⁸ When Herod saw Jesus,

^a Or the Christ

^b Gk him

^c Or is an anointed king

are the chief priests themselves present. 53: Jesus’ words recognize the moment as a time of supreme evil, see 4.13; 22.3.

22.54–62: Peter’s denials (Mt 26.69–75; Mk 14.66–72; Jn 18.25–27). 54–55: Jn 18.12–16. 56–62: Jn 18.16–18, 25–27. 61: 22.34. Jesus’ turning to face Peter is a detail found only in Luke .

22.63–65: The mockery of Jesus (Mt 26.67–68; 27.27–31a; Mk 14.65; 15.16–20a). See Jn 18.22–24. This scene in Luke’s account is located differently in the sequence of the narrative from the parallels in the other Gospels.

22.66–71: Jesus before the council (Mt 27.1; 26.59–65; Mk 15.1; 14.55–63; Jn 18.13–14, 19–23). 66: Council, Gk “synedrion,” Sanhedrin. 67: The demand put to Jesus, If you are the Messiah, tell us, becomes an element of the charges against Jesus before Pilate in 23.2. 69: See Ps 110.1; Dan 7.13. 71: From what follows in 23.1–2, it seems here that Jesus’ adversaries (the authorities at the assembly) conclude that he is guilty of sedition.

23.1–5: Jesus before Pilate (Mt 27.1–14; Mk 15.1–5; Jn 18.28–38). 1: Pilate, see 3.1n. 2: Cf. 19.38; 20.25; see Acts 24.5. The charge is phrased to sound like treason. 3: Jesus’ answer, translated from the Gk as “You say so,” more literally is the ambiguous statement, “You yourself say.” 4: 23.14, 22.41; Jn 19.4, 6; Acts 13.28. Pilate refused to take religious ideas in a political sense. Here, and later, Pilate sought to free Jesus but then yielded to pressures.

23.6–12: Jesus before Herod. Only Luke reports this episode. Herod Antipas was a son of Herod the Great

he was very glad, for he had been wanting to see him for a long time, because he had heard about him and was hoping to see him perform some sign. ⁹He questioned him at some length, but Jesus^a gave him no answer. ¹⁰The chief priests and the scribes stood by, vehemently accusing him. ¹¹Even Herod with his soldiers treated him with contempt and mocked him; then he put an elegant robe on him, and sent him back to Pilate. ¹²That same day Herod and Pilate became friends with each other; before this they had been enemies.

¹³Pilate then called together the chief priests, the leaders, and the people, ¹⁴and said to them, “You brought me this man as one who was perverting the people; and here I have examined him in your presence and have not found this man guilty of any of your charges against him. ¹⁵Neither has Herod, for he sent him back to us. Indeed, he has done nothing to deserve death. ¹⁶I will therefore have him flogged and release him.”^b

¹⁸Then they all shouted out together, “Away with this fellow! Release Barabbas for us!” ¹⁹(This was a man who had been put in prison for an insurrection that had taken place in the city, and for murder.) ²⁰Pilate, wanting to release Jesus, addressed them again; ²¹but they kept shouting, “Crucify, crucify him!” ²²A third time he said to them, “Why, what evil has he done? I have found in him no ground for the sentence of death; I will therefore have him flogged and then release him.” ²³But they kept urgently demanding with loud shouts that he should be crucified; and their voices prevailed.

²⁴So Pilate gave his verdict that their demand should be granted. ²⁵He released the man they asked for, the one who had been put in prison for insurrection and murder, and he handed Jesus over as they wished.

²⁶As they led him away, they seized a man, Simon of Cyrene, who was coming from the country, and they laid the cross on him, and made him carry it behind Jesus. ²⁷A great number of the people followed him, and among them were women who were beating their breasts and wailing for him. ²⁸But Jesus turned to them and said, “Daughters of Jerusalem, do not weep for me, but weep for yourselves and for your children. ²⁹For the days are surely coming when they will say, ‘Blessed are the barren, and the wombs that never bore, and the breasts that never nursed.’ ³⁰Then they will begin to say to the mountains, ‘Fall on us’; and to the hills, ‘Cover us.’ ³¹For if they do this when the wood is green, what will happen when it is dry?”

³²Two others also, who were criminals, were led away to be put to death with him. ³³When they came to the place that is called The Skull, they crucified Jesus^c there with the criminals, one on his right and one on his left. ³⁴Then Jesus said, “Father, forgive them; for they do not know what they are

^a Gk he

^b Here, or after verse 19, other ancient authorities add verse 17, Now he was obliged to release someone for them at the festival

^c Gk him

(see 3.1n.). Herod [Antipas] had arrested (3.19–20) and beheaded (9.9) John the Baptist. 8: 9.9; Acts 4.27–28. 9: Jesus’ silence, noted in Mt 27.12 and Mk 15.5, occurs in Luke’s account as Jesus stands before Herod Antipas, a scene unique to Luke. 11: Jn 19.2–3.

23.13–16 [17]: Pilate’s declaration of Jesus’ innocence. 14: Vv. 4,22,41. 16: Jn 19.12–14. [17]: An addition to Luke’s account from Mk 15.6; see note there.

23.18–25: The sentencing of Jesus to death (Mt 27.15–26; Mk 15.6–15; Jn 18.39–40; 19.16; see Acts 3.13–14). 18: The Barabbas incident is recounted in further detail in Mt 27.15–23; Mk 15.6–14; Jn 18.39–40.

23.26–31: On the way to the cross (Mt 27.31b–32; Mk 15.20b–21; Jn 19.17a). 26: Cyrene, in Libya. The cross, i.e., the horizontal cross-beam. 27: Here beating their breasts seems to indicate more mourning than repentance (cf. 18.3; 23.48). 28–32: 21.23–24; 19.41–44. 30: Incorporates wording parallel to Hos 10.8. 31: Cf. Prov 11.31. This proverb may mean either that if the innocent Jesus meets such a fate, then a worse fate awaits the guilty Jerusalem, or that if such takes place with Jesus present and active, what will happen when he is no longer present? Cf. 1 Pet 4.17–18.

23.32: Two criminals with Jesus. The Gk word for criminal gives no indication of the nature of the crime(s) committed by these two who were crucified with Jesus.

23.33–38: The scene of the crucifixion (Mt 27.33–43; Mk 15.22–32a; Jn 19.17b–27). 33: The Skull, its Aramaic doing.”^a And they cast lots to divide his clothing.³⁵ And the people stood by, watching; but the leaders scoffed at him, saying, “He saved others; let him save himself if he is the Messiah^b of God, his chosen one!”

³⁶ The soldiers also mocked him, coming up and offering him sour wine,³⁷ and saying, “If you are the King of the Jews, save yourself!”

³⁸ There was also an inscription over him,^c “This is the King of the Jews.”

³⁹ One of the criminals who were hanged there kept deriding^d him and saying, “Are you not the Messiah?^b Save yourself and us!”

⁴⁰ But the other rebuked him, saying, “Do you not fear God, since you are under the same sentence of condemnation?”⁴¹ And we indeed have been condemned justly, for we are getting what we deserve for our deeds, but this man has done nothing wrong.”⁴² Then he said, “Jesus, remember me when you come into^e your kingdom.”⁴³ He replied, “Truly I tell you, today you will be with me in Paradise.”

⁴⁴ It was now about noon, and darkness came over the whole land^f until three in the afternoon,⁴⁵ while the sun’s light failed;^g and the curtain of the temple was torn in two.⁴⁶ Then Jesus, crying with a loud voice, said, “Father, into your hands I commend my spirit.” Having said this, he breathed his last.⁴⁷ When the centurion saw what had taken place, he praised God and said, “Certainly this man was innocent.”^h⁴⁸ And when all the crowds who had gathered there for this spectacle saw what had taken place, they returned home, beating their breasts.⁴⁹ But all his acquaintances, including the women who had followed him from Galilee, stood at a distance, watching these things.

⁵⁰ Now there was a good and righteous man named Joseph, who, though a member of the council,⁵¹ had not agreed to their plan and action. He came from the Jewish town of Arimathea, and he was waiting expectantly for the kingdom of God.⁵² This man went to Pilate and asked for the body of Jesus.⁵³ Then he took it down, wrapped it in a linen cloth, and laid it in a rock-hewn tomb where no one had ever been laid.⁵⁴ It was the day of Preparation, and the sabbath was beginning.ⁱ⁵⁵ The women who had come with him from Galilee followed, and they saw the tomb and

^a Other ancient authorities lack the sentence Then Jesus . . . what they are doing

^b Or the Christ

^c Other ancient authorities add written in Greek and Latin and Hebrew (that is, Aramaic)

^d Or blaspheming

^e Other ancient authorities read in

^f Or earth

^g Or the sun was eclipsed. Other ancient authorities read the sun was darkened

^h Or righteous

ⁱ Gk was dawning

name, Golgotha, is found in the other Gospels. 34: See textual note a; cf. Acts 7.60. The final phrase alludes to Ps 22.18. 36: Ps 69.21.

23.39–43: The exchange between Jesus and the two criminals (Mt 27.44; Mk 15.32b). 41: Vv. 4,14,22. 42: The criminal’s appeal may be based on the charge against Jesus (vv. 2,3,38); he thinks in terms of 21.27–28. Jesus promises him more than he asked, intimating that God’s kingly power is a present reality, not merely future. 43: Paradise, originally a term for the garden of Eden (Gen 2.8–10), was a contemporary term for the lodging place of the righteous dead prior to the resurrection; cf. 16.22.

23.44–48: The death of Jesus (Mt 27.45–54; Mk 15.33–39; Jn 19.28–30). 45: Ex 26.31–35. The sun’s light failed, the translation is uncertain; see Am 8.9; Joel 2.31. 46: Jesus’ words quote Ps 31.6. 47: In the context of Luke’s Gospel, the centurion (see 7.2n.) declares Jesus to be “righteous” rather than merely innocent. 48: The cause of this popular agitation is not clear (Zech 12.10), though compare 18.13–14 for a possible meaning of the crowd’s reaction.

23.49: Jesus’ acquaintances at the crucifixion (Mt 27.55–56; Mk 15.40–41; Jn 19.25–27). See 23.55; cf. 8.1–3; 24.10; Ps 38.11. 49: Luke often uses all to indicate a large number of persons, not actually “all”; cf. 3.21.

23.50–54: The burial of Jesus (Mt 27.57–60; Mk 15.42–46; Jn 19.38–42). 50: The council, 22.66n. 54: The sabbath began at sundown. Luke, perhaps having Gentile readers in mind, indicates the urgency of the burial in Jewish custom.

23.55–56: Women at the burial (Mt 27.61; Mk 15.47–16.1). 55: Cf. 24.10. 56: Ex 12.16; 20.10. Spices and ointments were applied to the corpse; see Mk 16.1; Jn 19.40.

how his body was laid.⁵⁶ Then they returned, and prepared spices and ointments.

On the sabbath they rested according to the commandment.

24 But on the first day of the week, at early dawn, they came to the tomb, taking the spices that they had prepared.² They found the stone rolled away from the tomb,³ but when they went in, they did not find the body.⁴ While they were perplexed about this, suddenly two men in dazzling clothes stood beside them.⁵ The women^b were terrified and bowed their faces to the ground, but the men^c said to them, “Why do you look for the living among the dead? He is not here, but has risen.⁶ Remember how he told you, while he was still in Galilee,⁷ that the Son of Man must be handed over to sinners, and be crucified, and on the third day rise again.”⁸ Then they remembered his words,⁹ and returning from the tomb, they told all this to the eleven and to all the rest.¹⁰ Now it was Mary Magdalene, Joanna, Mary the mother of James, and the other women with them who told this to the apostles.¹¹ But these words seemed to them an idle tale, and they did not believe them.¹² But Peter got up and ran to the tomb; stooping and looking in, he saw the linen cloths by themselves; then he went home, amazed at what had happened.^e

¹³ Now on that same day two of them were going to a village called Emmaus, about seven miles^f from Jerusalem,¹⁴ and talking with each other about all these things that had happened.¹⁵ While they were talking and discussing, Jesus himself came near and went with them,¹⁶ but their eyes were kept from recognizing him.¹⁷ And he said to them, “What are you discussing with each other while you walk along?” They stood still, looking sad.^g ¹⁸ Then one of them, whose name was Cleopas, answered him, “Are you the only stranger in Jerusalem who does not know the things that have taken place there in these days?”¹⁹ He asked them, “What things?” They replied, “The things about Jesus of Nazareth,^h who was a prophet mighty in deed and word before God and all the people,²⁰ and how our chief priests and leaders handed him over to be condemned to death and crucified him.

²¹ But we had hoped that he was the one to redeem Israel.ⁱ Yes, and besides all this, it is now the third day since these things took place.²² Moreover, some women of our group astounded us. They were at the tomb early this morning,²³ and when they did not find his body there, they came back and told us that they had indeed seen a vision of angels who said that he was alive.²⁴ Some of those who were with us went to the tomb and found it just as the women had said; but they did not see him.”²⁵ Then he said to them, “Oh, how foolish you are, and how slow of heart to believe all that the prophets have declared!²⁶ Was it not necessary that the Messiah^j should suffer these things and then enter into his glory?”²⁷ Then beginning with Moses and

^a Other ancient authorities add of the Lord Jesus

^b Gk They

^c Gk but they

^d Other ancient authorities lack He is not here, but has risen

^e Other ancient authorities lack verse 12

^f Gk sixty stadia; other ancient authorities read a hundred sixty stadia

^g Other ancient authorities read walk along, looking sad?

^h Other ancient authorities read Jesus the Nazorean

ⁱ Or to set Israel free

^j Or the Christ

24.1–53: The empty tomb and the resurrection (Mt 28.1–10, 16–20; Mk 16.1–8; Jn 20–21).

24.1–12: The women at the tomb (Mt 28.1–8; Mk 16.1–8; Jn 20.1–13). 4: The two men wear clothing that identifies them as angels, not ordinary humans (see v. 23), as do their sudden appearance and supernatural knowledge (vv. 5–7). 6: 9.22; 13.32–33. You here suggests that Jesus’ disciples as a group often included others in addition to those of the inner circle. 10: 8.1–3; Jn 19.25; 20.2. 12: This verse, though appearing in many ancient manuscripts, may be an addition to the original text of Luke based on Jn 20.3–10.

24.13–35: The Emmaus incident. 13: Seven miles, lit., “sixty stadia”; a stade was approximately 180 m (600 ft). The exact location of Emmaus is uncertain. 16: The inability of these persons to recognize Jesus is typical of initial reactions to Jesus in resurrection stories (cf. 24.37). 19: 7.16; 13.33; Acts 3.22; 10.38. 26: Necessary because of God’s divine plan (see 7.30; Acts 2.23; 13.36; 20.27). 27: Moses, the traditional author of the first five books of the Bible. The prophets, a major section of the Jewish scriptures more extensive in scope than the prophetic works all the prophets, he interpreted to them the things about himself in all the scriptures.

²⁸As they came near the village to which they were going, he walked ahead as if he were going on. ²⁹But they urged him strongly, saying, “Stay with us, because it is almost evening and the day is now nearly over.” So he went in to stay with them. ³⁰When he was at the table with them, he took bread, blessed and broke it, and gave it to them. ³¹Then their eyes were opened, and they recognized him; and he vanished from their sight. ³²They said to each other, “Were not our hearts burning within us^a while he was talking to us on the road, while he was opening the scriptures to us?” ³³That same hour they got up and returned to Jerusalem; and they found the eleven and their companions gathered together. ³⁴They were saying, “The Lord has risen indeed, and he has appeared to Simon!” ³⁵Then they told what had happened on the road, and how he had been made known to them in the breaking of the bread.

³⁶While they were talking about this, Jesus himself stood among them and said to them, “Peace be with you.”^b ³⁷They were startled and terrified, and thought that they were seeing a ghost. ³⁸He said to them, “Why are you frightened, and why do doubts arise in your hearts? ³⁹Look at my hands and my feet; see that it is I myself. Touch me and see; for a ghost does not have flesh and bones as you see that I have.” ⁴⁰And when he had said this, he showed them his hands and his feet.^c ⁴¹While in their joy they were disbelieving and still wondering, he said to them, “Have you anything here to eat?”

⁴²They gave him a piece of broiled fish,⁴³ and he took it and ate in their presence.

⁴⁴Then he said to them, “These are my words that I spoke to you while I was still with you—that everything written about me in the law of Moses, the prophets, and the psalms must be fulfilled.” ⁴⁵Then he opened their minds to understand the scriptures,⁴⁶ and he said to them, “Thus it is written, that the Messiah^d is to suffer and to rise from the dead on the third day,⁴⁷ and that repentance and forgiveness of sins is to be proclaimed in his name to all nations, beginning from Jerusalem. ⁴⁸You are witnesses^e of these things. ⁴⁹And see, I am sending upon you what my Father promised; so stay here in the city until you have been clothed with power from on high.”

⁵⁰Then he led them out as far as Bethany, and, lifting up his hands, he blessed them. ⁵¹While he was blessing them, he withdrew from them and was carried up into heaven.^f ⁵²And they worshiped him, and^g returned to Jerusalem with great joy;⁵³ and they were continually in the temple blessing God.^h a Other ancient authorities lack within us

b Other ancient authorities lack and said to them, “Peace be with you.”

c Other ancient authorities lack verse 40

d Or the Christ

e Or nations. Beginning from Jerusalem ⁴⁸*you are witnesses*

f Other ancient authorities lack and was carried up into heaven

g Other ancient authorities lack worshiped him, and

h Other ancient authorities add Amen

of the Hebrew Bible (see 16.16n.; 24.44; Acts 28.23). 30: Took, blessed, and broke, echo the actions of Jesus at the Last Supper (22.19) and the multiplication of the loaves (9.16). 34: 1 Cor 15.5. Peter’s experience is not described. 35: Breaking of the bread, see Acts 2.42; 20.7; 1 Cor 10.16.

24.36–43: Jesus’ appearance to his disciples (Jn 20.19–23). See 1 Cor 15.5. The experience of Jesus, affirmed in v. 36, is tentatively interpreted in v. 37 as an encounter with the dead, but this explanation is rejected in v. 39. 39–40: Cf. Jn 20.25,27. 42: Broiled fish, cf. Jn 21.9–13.

24.44–53: Jesus’ final words and withdrawal into heaven (cf. elements of the longer ending of Mark: Mk 16.15,19). 44: Vv. 26–27; Acts 28.23. The Psalms formed the opening and the longest part of the third division of the Hebrew Bible; see 16.16n. 45: 24.32. 46: Hos 6.2; cf. 1 Cor 15.3–4. 47: Acts 1.4–8; 5.31; 10.43; 13.38; 26.18. 48: Acts 1.8. 49: Power from on high, the words allude to the energy of the Spirit of God referred to in Joel 2.28–32 (cf. Acts 2.1–21). The new age has begun, but its power is not yet fully realized. 50: Bethany, see 19.29n. 51: Acts 1.9–11. 52–53: Acts 1.12–14; 2.46–47.

This page intentionally left blank

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO JOHN

NAME, AUTHORSHIP, AND DATE

The Fourth Gospel is named for John, the son of Zebedee, one of the Twelve (see Mk 1.19; 3.17; etc.), traditionally thought to be its author and identified as the “beloved disciple” repeatedly mentioned in the Gospel. Modern scholars think it was more likely written by a disciple of John. It may have been the “beloved disciple,” who is never called John in the Gospel, or someone to whom he dictated it (see Jn 21.24n.). Most scholars date the Gospel to about 90 CE, although some have proposed an earlier date for it, or for an earlier version of it.

RELATIONSHIP TO THE SYNOPTIC GOSPELS

The author of the Fourth Gospel was apparently familiar with the earlier Synoptic Gospels or with traditions they contain. It includes sayings of Jesus that resemble some in the Synoptics, and such narratives as Jesus and the money changers in the Temple, Jesus multiplying bread and fish, and Jesus walking on water are found in all four Gospels. Moreover, the narrative structure of the Fourth Gospel in general follows that of the earlier Gospels: the preaching of John the Baptist; preaching and healing by Jesus in Galilee and Judea; journey to Jerusalem to celebrate the Passover; arrest, trial, death, burial, and resurrection there; and appearances of Jesus after the resurrection both in Judea and in Galilee.

Within this general framework, however, John is very different in many details and in content. For example, the scene in the Temple, which the Synoptic Gospels place in the week before Jesus’ death, appears in John near the beginning of Jesus’ ministry (2.13–23). In the Synoptics, the adult Jesus journeys to Jerusalem only once, implying that his ministry lasted less than a year, whereas in John, Jesus makes several journeys to Jerusalem, including three Passovers (2.13; 6.4; 11.55), meaning that his ministry lasted several years. Although there is a Last Supper in John, it is not a Passover meal as in the Synoptic Gospels. Rather, in John the first day of Passover is the day of Jesus’ death, when he is symbolically identified as the Passover lamb (see 19.36; cf. 1.29,36), and thus the account of the Last Supper does not include the institution of the Eucharist.

Most significant are the differences in content. John has a very high Christology: Jesus is repeatedly identified and identifies himself as divine. Many of Jesus’ speeches in the Gospel reflect this perspective, and they have few parallels in the Synoptic tradition.

HISTORICAL CONTEXT

The Gospel of John thus seems to represent a relatively late stage in the development of earliest Christian beliefs. Its views have much in common with the other Johannine literature, the Letters of John and the book of Revelation. Although it is no longer thought likely that these works have a single author, they do seem to be the product of a “Johannine school,” which ancient tradition perhaps correctly locates at Ephesus in western Asia Minor at a time when persecution by Roman authorities was becoming more frequent, and conflicts between Gentile Christians and Jewish Christians as well as between Christians in general and Jews were becoming more intense.

STYLE, STRUCTURE, AND INTERPRETATION

The audience of John consists of Greek speakers, for many Hebrew words are translated into Greek. The “beloved disciple” is considered the “witness” to the story, presumably written in Ephesus. The author (composer and writer), who differs from the “witness,” displays sophisticated literary and rhetorical abilities. He knows the encomium that praises a person because of origins (geography and generation), education and training, virtuous actions, and noble death. Here we find two encomiums, one praiseworthy and one condemnatory, both arguing from the same topics. Opponents know that Jesus comes from Nazareth of Galilee, an insignificant place; his father is the peasant Joseph; he never studied; as for his actions, he deceives and violates the Law; and he died a death befitting a sinner. But insiders know that his geography is heaven, God’s world; his generation, son of a heavenly Father; his education, God’s instruction on what to say and do; his actions virtuous (obedience, courage, and justice); and his death noble. Antitheses like these occur regularly as crowds voice contrasting judgments about Jesus, either sinner or saint.

The Gospel argues through the rhetorical figure “comparison” the superiority of Jesus to Israel’s patriarchs: he is “greater than” Jacob (4.12), Abraham (8.52), and Moses (1.17; 3.13–14; 5.45–47). When Jesus says that “I am . . . (something),” he is claiming superiority over some element of Israelite tradition and ritual as well as of nature. “I am . . . bread . . . from heaven” (6.41; not mere manna); “light of the world” (8.12; not mere sunlight); “gate” (10.9; no other broker provides access to God); “noble shepherd” (see 10.11n.; not thieves or bandits); “resurrection and . . . life” (11.25; apart from me, death), and “vine” (15.1). Jesus speaks eight statements, each of which begin with a demand “Unless . . .”; these require something be done, either to join the group (3.3,5; 12.24; 13.8) or remain in it (8.24; 15.4). They all demand behavior surpassing Israel’s transformative and confirmatory rituals.

The following division is suggested by the Gospel itself: the prologue (1.1–18); the book of Jesus’ signs that he is the revelation of the Father (1.19–12.50); the book of Jesus’ glory as it is revealed to those who accept him through his crucifixion, resurrection, and ascension (13.1–20.31); the epilogue, which contains additional accounts of Jesus’ postresurrection appearances and comments on the future of Peter and the “beloved disciple” (21.1–25).

The author knows traditional literary forms, such as the shape of a miracle narrative. Commonly noted are (1) the severity of the disease; (2) cure by command or use of spit and mud; (3) proof of the cure; and (4) honor awarded the healer. This form illuminates the structure of many of the “signs,” especially 5.1–10; 9.1–11 and 11.38–44. The genre of the “farewell address,” known from both Jewish and Greek literature, structures the discourse in John 14–17. It typically contains (1) notice of death or departure (13.33; 14.2–3,28); (2) review of the person’s life (14.32; 17.4–8,18,26); (3) relationships to be maintained (14.3–17; 15.1–17); (4) knowledge and revelations given (14.4–11,20–26; 15.25–26); (5) predictions of forthcoming events (14.29; 15.18–25; 16.1–4,29–22); (6) exhortation to virtue (“believe,” 14.10–11; “love,” 14.21–24; 15.12–17; “abide,” 15.1–10); (7) successor named (14.25–26; 16.7–15); and (8) legacy (“greater works,” 14.12–14; “name of God” bestowed, 17.6,11–12,26; knowledge, 17.3–8).

Other patterns appear. Four times people request Jesus to act; he refuses, but shortly thereafter acts positively (2.3–7; 4.47–50; 7.3–10; 11.3–7). Only Jesus knows his “hour,” and all actions are of his own choosing, a display of his honor and of control. Conflict, which pervades this Gospel, is expressed in forensic trials, which consist of: person charged; witnesses pro and con; judge; sentence and verdict. All trials occur in Jerusalem (chs 5; 7–11; 18–19) where the elite accuse Jesus of violating the sabbath (5.17; 7.21; 9.16) and blasphemy (5.18; 10.33). Witnesses testify both favorably and critically. The judges, who claim to judge according to the law, judge instead according to appearances (7.24; 8.15). Despite their guilty verdict, they cannot execute sentence, and in time they themselves will be judged.

Jesus reveals and conceals. As revealer, he is the Word of God who speaks God’s words. But he also conceals in that only insiders hear and know his revelation (e.g., 10.27). Outsiders like Nicodemus barely know the workings of the world of matter and flesh below (see 3.12). In one of the notable patterns here, Jesus uses words with double meanings. Nicodemus must be born “again,” he thinks, but Jesus meant “from above.” The Samaritan woman discusses “water” with Jesus but never realizes that Jesus is not speaking of well water (4.7–15); nor do the disciples understand Jesus’ “food” (4.31–34). Some interpret “I am going . . .” as departure or suicide (7.35; 8.22), not as glorious return to the Father. Jesus hides himself (8.59; 12.36), dissembles with his brothers (7.1–11), speaks in parables (10.1–18) and figures of speech (16.25,29–30). A strategy of mystery and concealment occurs frequently in the pattern of statement, misunderstanding, and clarification. Jesus speaks, but all misunderstand; to insiders he clarifies, but to outsiders, he proves them incapable of understanding (e.g., 3.3–5; 6.51–58; 14.4–6,7–11). Readers appreciate the irony of situations and statements, such as claims by enemies and outsiders to “know” (7.27; 9.29) or the prophecy of Caiaphas (11.48–50).

The Gospel discredits the religious authorities, whom it calls “the Jews,” by portraying them as mercenary and uncaring shepherds (10.12–13), as haughty and condescending to the people (7.15,49; 9.34), as being more concerned with worldly honor than divine favor (12.43), and as maliciously plotting to kill Jesus (11.53). Although its scathing portrayal of “the Jews” has opened John to charges of anti-Semitism, a careful reading reveals “the Jews” to be a class designation, not a religious or ethnic grouping; rather than denoting adherents to Judaism in general, the term primarily refers to the hereditary Temple religious authorities. The Gospel further acknowledges their influential status by including among “the Jews” those who have accepted the worldview and class interests of the hereditary religious authorities as their own. This larger group includes the Pharisees (1.19,24) and even the “crowd” of laypersons whose worth the religious authorities dismissed (7.49; cf. 6.22,41). Thus the rejection and persecution of Jesus by “the Jews” is shown to be not only the result of his words and deeds, but a result of the fact that his healings, pronouncements, and person lack the pedigree and imprimatur of the governing religious elite (7.15,48–49; cf. 9.34).

The Gospel of John celebrates Jesus, albeit differently from the other Gospels. Indeed, Jesus is acclaimed Messiah, Son of God, king of Israel, prophet, and Son of Man. But the author understands Jesus in more elevated terms. For example, in the prologue we learn at once that Jesus is a heavenly figure existing with God before the world was created. Thus he is uncreated in the past and brokers God's creative power. Jesus comes from God, is not merely sent by him, and entered this world, becoming flesh. Jesus, moreover, returns to that heavenly world when God glorifies him, God thus vindicating all that he said and did. This descent-ascent motif permeates the narrative, from beginning (1.1–18; 3.13) to end (13.1–3; 20.18).

It is false to claim that Jesus “makes himself” anything, for God makes him equal to himself, especially in terms of creative power (1.1–3; all healings) and eschatological power (5.19–29; 10.17–18; 11.38–44). God gives Jesus his own name, which he in turn gives to the disciples: the name “I AM” in 8.58 (see also 4.26n.; cf. Ex 3.14; Isa 43.10; 46.4) expresses uncreated existence in the past and imperishability in the future. All of Jesus' qualities and endowments serve to make him a superior broker or mediator between God who is patron and the disciples who are clients. Disciples pray always in Jesus' name; God's word and power comes to the world through Jesus. In fact, no one can know or see God except through Jesus. Jesus is the ideal broker because he belongs equally to the patron's world and that of the clients.

GUIDE TO READING

The Gospel is best read straight through, but readers may wish to attend to significant aspects such as the signs, the “I am” sayings, and other characteristics noted in this introduction. The Gospel itself claims that its narrative should be viewed in service to a larger goal: “that . . . you [the reader] may have life” (20.31).

Jerome H. Neyrey

1 In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. ²He was in the beginning with God. ³All things came into being through him, and without him not one thing came into being. What has come into being ⁴in him was life,^a and the life was the light of all people. ⁵The light shines in the darkness, and the darkness did not overcome it.

⁶There was a man sent from God, whose name was John. ⁷He came as a witness to testify to the light, so that all might believe through him. ⁸He himself was not the light, but he came to testify to the light. ⁹The true light, which enlightens everyone, was coming into the world.^b

¹⁰He was in the world, and the world came into being through him; yet the world did not know him. ¹¹He came to what was his own,^c and his own people did not accept him. ¹²But

^a Or ³through him. And without him not one thing came into being that has come into being. ⁴In him was life

^b Or He was the true light that enlightens everyone coming into the world

^c Or to his own home

1.1–18: Prologue. The Gospel begins with a prologue containing important topics to be developed. Jesus is eternal (uncreated and imperishable); the Word who speaks God's words; the light of the world; the one who faces rejection and acceptance; is compared with Israel's patriarchs; and mediates God's blessings (creation, grace, and truth). Here also is the plot of the story: Jesus begins with God in heaven, sojourns on earth, and returns there (3.13; 6.62; 13.1–3), which appears in the repeated discussion of where Jesus comes from and where he is going. 3: Jesus as mediator or broker: through him all things were made, and through him come grace and truth (v. 17); later the disciples will address God in his name, that is, through him (14.13–14; 16.26). 5: The world is hostile to the light and “hates” him (7.7; 15.18–19); this is developed in vv. 10–11, and dramatized in the trials in chs 18–19. 6–8: In contrast to those rejecting the light, John (the Baptist) acknowledges it, even brokering Jesus to Israel. John's subordination to Jesus is found in 1.15,29–34; 3.27–30. 9: Jesus, true light of the world (see 8.12). True means “authentic, unique”; cf. “true bread” (6.32); “true vine” (15.1). Disciples walk in light (10.9–10) but many prefer darkness (3.19–20; 12.25–26). 10–11: The world did not know him (i.e., acknowledge him; see 4.44; 7.1–7); nor did his own (blood relatives and Israel) become disciples. The Word is in a hostile place. 12–13: But he meets with acceptance and gives believers kinship with him and God. This depends not on birth, circumcision, to all who received him, who believed in his name, he gave power to become children of God,¹³ who were born, not of blood or of the will of the flesh or of the will of man, but of God.

¹⁴ And the Word became flesh and lived among us, and we have seen his glory, the glory as of a father's only son,^a full of grace and truth.¹⁵ (John testified to him and cried out, "This was he of whom I said, 'He who comes after me ranks ahead of me because he was before me.'")¹⁶ From his fullness we have all received, grace upon grace.¹⁷ The law indeed was given through Moses; grace and truth came through Jesus Christ.¹⁸ No one has ever seen God. It is God the only Son,^b who is close to the Father's heart,^c who has made him known.

¹⁹ This is the testimony given by John when the Jews sent priests and Levites from Jerusalem to ask him, "Who are you?"²⁰ He confessed and did not deny it, but confessed, "I am not the Messiah."^d²¹ And they asked him, "What then? Are you Elijah?" He said, "I am not." "Are you the prophet?" He answered, "No."²² Then they said to him, "Who are you? Let us have an answer for those who sent us. What do you say about yourself?"²³ He said, "I am the voice of one crying out in the wilderness,

'Make straight the way of the Lord,'" as the prophet Isaiah said.

²⁴ Now they had been sent from the Pharisees.²⁵ They asked him, "Why then are you baptizing if you are neither the Messiah,^d nor Elijah, nor the prophet?"²⁶ John answered them, "I baptize with water. Among you stands one whom you do not know,²⁷ the one who is coming after me; I am not worthy to untie the thong of his sandal."²⁸ This took place in Bethany across the Jordan where John was baptizing.

²⁹ The next day he saw Jesus coming toward him and declared, "Here is the Lamb of God who takes away the sin of the world!³⁰ This is he of whom I said, 'After me comes a man who ranks ahead of me because he was before me.'³¹ I myself did not know him; but I came baptizing with water for this reason, that he might be revealed to Israel."³² And John testified, "I saw the Spirit descending from heaven like a dove, and it remained on him."³³ I myself did not know him, but the one who sent me to baptize with water said to me, 'He on whom you see the Spirit descend and remain is the one who baptizes with the Holy

^a Or the Father's only Son

^b Other ancient authorities read It is an only Son, God, or It is the only Son

^c Gk bosom

^d Or the Christ

or adoption, but on acceptance of Jesus and honoring his name. 14: Along with Heb 2.11,14,17, this is the clearest statement of Jesus' humanity; he not only "came into the world" (1.10) but suffered thirst, weariness, and death. Lived among us, lit., "tented among us," just as the "glory of the Lord" took up residence in the tent of meeting (Ex 40.34). 15: John repeats the statement about Jesus' eternity in 1.1–2. Temporally Jesus follows John but existed before John, from the beginning: John's testimony is quoted by anticipation from v. 30. 16–17: Moses gave the law, the Torah; the comparison of Jesus and Moses inaugurates a pattern, which argues that Jesus was "greater" than Moses (see also 3.14; 5.45–46), Jacob (4.12), and Abraham (8.53).

1.19–34: John's testimony to hostile outsiders and receptive insiders. On John the Baptist, cf. Mt 3.1–17; Mk 1.1–11; Lk 3.1–22. In the Gospel of John, John the Baptist does not actually baptize Jesus. 19–23: Two groups question John, first priests and Levites, then Pharisees. They do not seek information but attempt to discredit him, with questions acting as weapons. He replies that he is not the Messiah, nor Elijah the prophet (despite Mt 11.14; Mk 9.11–12; cf. Mal 4.5), nor another prophet (cf. Deut 18.15), but rather the one described in Isa 40.3. 19: The Jews, here, as often in this Gospel, referring to religious authorities in Jerusalem. 24–25: Pharisees continue the attack, demanding to know why he baptizes. John deflects the attack by talking about the one whom he heralds. 26: They do not know (cf. v. 10) this honorable person in their midst. 28: Bethany across the Jordan, an unknown location, but different from the Bethany in 11.18. 29–30: John also testifies about Jesus to receptive people as Lamb of God, a reference to the Passover lamb (Ex 12), as 19.36 makes explicit; cf. Rev 6.6–14. John admits that he did not know him (1.31,33), but God revealed his son to John (cf. Gal 1.15) that he might testify. 30: cf. v. 15. 32: The spirit remained on Jesus, a word repeatedly used in this Gospel and in 1 and 2 John that signals belonging and attachment; not a transitory Spirit, it remains upon Jesus. As in the Synoptic Gospels (see Mk

The geography of the Gospel of John.

Spirit.’³⁴ And I myself have seen and have testified that this is the Son of God.”^a ³⁵The next day John again was standing with two of his disciples,³⁶ and as he watched Jesus walk by, he exclaimed, “Look, here is the Lamb of God!”³⁷ The two disciples heard him say this, and they followed Jesus.³⁸ When Jesus turned and saw them following, he said to them, “What are you looking for?” They said to him, “Rabbi” (which translated means Teacher), “where are you staying?”³⁹ He said to them, “Come and see.” They came and saw where he was staying, and they remained with him that day. It was about four o’clock in the afternoon.⁴⁰ One of the two who heard John speak and followed him was Andrew, Simon Peter’s brother.⁴¹ He first found his brother Simon and said to him, “We have found the Messiah” (which is translated Anointed^b).⁴² He brought Simon^c to Jesus, who looked at him and said, “You are Simon son of John. You are to be called Cephas” (which is translated Peter^d).

⁴³The next day Jesus decided to go to Galilee. He found Philip and said to him, “Follow me.”⁴⁴ Now Philip was from Bethsaida, the city of Andrew and Peter.⁴⁵ Philip found Nathanael and said to him, “We have found him about whom Moses in the law and also the prophets wrote, Jesus son of Joseph from Nazareth.”⁴⁶ Nathanael said to him, “Can anything good come out of Nazareth?” Philip said to him, “Come and see.”⁴⁷ When Jesus saw Nathanael coming toward him, he said of him, “Here is truly an Israelite in whom there is no deceit!”⁴⁸ Nathanael asked him, “Where did you get to know me?” Jesus answered, “I saw you under the fig tree before Philip called you.”⁴⁹ Nathanael replied, “Rabbi, you are the Son of God! You are the King of Israel!”⁵⁰ Jesus answered, “Do you believe because I told you that I saw you under the fig tree? You will see greater things than these.”⁵¹ And he

^a Other ancient authorities read is God’s chosen one

^b Or Christ

^c Gk him

^d From the word for rock in Aramaic (kepha) and Greek (petra), respectively

^e Both instances of the Greek word for you in this verse are plural

1.9–11), this vision tells of a spirit descending and a heavenly voice affirming Jesus’ status. 34: John as eyewitness validly testifies that Jesus is the Son of God. John is the first of many such witnesses.

1.35–51: Recruitment of the first disciples. 35–37: John’s testimony about the Lamb of God (see 29–30n.) serves to recruit the first disciples. 38–39: They come to Jesus, asking where he was staying (“remaining”), and they “remain” with him. 40–42: The pattern repeats: a disciple tells another about Jesus (the Messiah), bringing him to Jesus. Jesus accepts this recruit by assigning him a new name. Hebrew and Aramaic words are translated: Messiah (i.e., Anointed) and Cephas (i.e., Peter, both mean “rock”), also “Rabbi” (i.e., “Teacher”; v. 38). The Greek-speaking audience of the Gospel seems not to know these languages. 43–44: The scene shifts from Judea to Galilee, in the north. Philip’s recruiter is not named; inasmuch as he comes from Bethsaida, the city of Andrew and Peter, on the northwestern shore of the Sea of Galilee, their network helps to recruit him. 45–46: The recruitment pattern again but with a twist: told that Jesus was the one about whom Moses . . . and also the prophets wrote, Nathanael challenges Philip by noting the low status of Nazareth, Jesus’ hometown, in southern Galilee. He typifies others who judge by appearances, denying that Jesus can be Messiah because of the insignificance of Nazareth or Galilee (7.40–43). But Nathanael perseveres, which distinguishes him from outsiders who judge by appearance. 47: Jesus honors Nathanael, setting him apart from those who judge falsely. How can Jesus know him? He reads and knows the minds and hearts of others (2.24–25; Mk 2.8). 48: Several Rabbinic texts equate gathering figs with studying Torah, suggesting Nathanael’s status as student. 49: Nathanael’s confession climaxes the various labels that believers proclaim: Jesus is “Lamb of God,” “Messiah” and “the one of whom Moses and the prophets wrote,” and Son of God . . . King of Israel. This remarkable insight comes from a militant unbeliever. 50: Greater things, probably the series of signs beginning immediately at Cana in ch 2. 51: Jesus promises a theophany to all of them: they will see the Son of Man (cf. 3.13–15n.; Dan 7.13), who first descends from heaven’s center, then re-ascends to it, with angels streaming toward him from all directions (cf. Gen 28.12). This vision is realized when he ascends “to my God and your God” (20.18), thus returning to the glory he had before the world was made (17.5).

2.1–12: The first sign. 1: On the third day, not necessarily actual, but symbolic time: John’s testimony = day one, recruitment = day two, and signs = day three. Wedding, a family affair for Jesus and his mother, presumsaid to him, “Very truly, I tell you,⁶ you will see heaven opened and the angels of God ascending and descending upon the Son of Man.”

2 On the third day there was a wedding in Cana of Galilee, and the mother of Jesus was there.² Jesus and his disciples had also been invited to the wedding.³ When the wine gave out, the mother of Jesus said to him, “They have no wine.”⁴ And Jesus said to her, “Woman, what concern is that to you and to me? My hour has not yet come.”⁵ His mother said to the servants, “Do whatever he tells you.”⁶ Now standing there were six stone water jars for the Jewish rites of purification, each holding twenty or thirty gallons.⁷ Jesus said to them, “Fill the jars with water.” And they filled them up to the brim.⁸ He said to them, “Now draw some out, and take it to the chief steward.” So they took it.⁹ When the steward tasted the water that had become wine, and did not know where it came from (though the servants who had drawn the water knew), the steward called the bridegroom¹⁰ and said to him, “Everyone serves the good wine first, and then the inferior wine after the guests have become drunk. But you have kept the good wine until now.”¹¹ Jesus did this, the first of his signs, in Cana of Galilee, and revealed his glory; and his disciples believed in him.

¹² After this he went down to Capernaum with his mother, his brothers, and his disciples; and they remained there a few days.

¹³ The Passover of the Jews was near, and Jesus went up to Jerusalem.¹⁴ In the temple he found people selling cattle, sheep, and doves, and the money changers seated at their tables.¹⁵ Making a whip of cords, he drove all of them out of the temple, both the sheep and the cattle. He also poured out the coins of the money changers and overturned their tables.

¹⁶ He told those who were selling the doves, “Take these things out of here! Stop making my Father’s house a marketplace!”¹⁷ His disciples remembered that it was written, “Zeal for your house will consume me.”¹⁸ The Jews then said to him, “What sign can you show us for doing this?”¹⁹ Jesus answered them, “Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up.”²⁰ The Jews then said, “This temple has been under construction for forty-six years, and will you raise it up in three days?”

²¹ But he was speaking of the temple of his body.²² After he was raised from the dead, his disciples remembered that he had said this;

ably kinfolk of the couple married. The family’s honor is on display, taxing its resources. Cana, a town in central Galilee, about 8 mi (14 km) north of Nazareth. 3–4: A request is made, denied, then responded to; this pattern repeats later (4.47–50; 7.3–10; 11.3–7). The mother, never named in the Gospel, challenges Jesus by her request to do something he does not wish to do. Woman intentionally downplays her claim to blood ties (1.11–13). 4: My hour, cf. 7.30; 8.20; 12.23; 13.1; 17.1. 6–8: Jesus acts because he chooses to. Wine is needed, so he provides a superabundance of good wine. Twenty or thirty gallons, just as bread is multiplied superabundantly (6.1–14), so too is wine (see 10.10). 8–9: The steward did not know where the wine came from, but provides proof of the miracles (cf. 9.18–21; 11.43–44; Mk 2.10–12). 11: The first . . . sign of seven (4.47–50; 5.1–9; 6.1–14; 6.15–21; 9.1–12; 11.17–44). Signs are credentials, which the apostles acknowledge: Jesus could not do them unless God were with him (cf. 9.32–33). 12: Capernaum, a town on the northwestern shore of the Sea of Galilee. On Jesus’ brothers, see 7.3,10; 20.17; 21.23; Mk 6.3.

2.13–25: Jesus and the Temple. In the Synoptic Gospels, this episode occurs at the end of Jesus’ ministry (Mt 21.12–17; Mk 11.15–19; Lk 19.45–46); here it is toward the beginning. 13–16: Passover, in this Gospel, Jesus celebrates three Passovers. Here Jesus replaces the Jerusalem Temple, not with another building but with his body; later Jesus is bread, not manna (6.41), and Jesus’ body, not the lamb, is sacrifice (13.1). 14: The Temple alone supplied unblemished sacrificial animals; the half-shekel of Tyre, required for entry, was procured from the money changers. 15–17: Jesus halts sacrificial worship and renders the Temple as non-sacred space. 16: He attacks the sellers for profaning it by making it a market. 17: Remembering the event, also interpreting it by means of Ps 69.9: zeal for your house is virtuous, despite the attacks by his critics; it will consume me, that is, occasion Jesus’ death. 18: What sign, this challenge seeks to discredit Jesus. 19: Destroy . . . temple . . . three days, similar to the testimony in Mk 14.58; but Jesus himself speaks here. 20: Another pattern: Jesus speaks, listeners misunderstand, so Jesus speaks again either in clarification or to demonstrate the listeners’ obtuseness. Jesus says temple . . . three days; outsiders misunderstand, thinking that he means the Temple whose construction began under Herod the Great in the late first century BCE. 21–22: Not an earthly temple (cf. 4.21) but his risen and they believed the scripture and the word that Jesus had spoken.

²³When he was in Jerusalem during the Passover festival, many believed in his name because they saw the signs that he was doing. ²⁴But Jesus on his part would not entrust himself to them, because he knew all people ²⁵and needed no one to testify about anyone; for he himself knew what was in everyone.

3 Now there was a Pharisee named Nicodemus, a leader of the Jews. ²He came to Jesus³ by night and said to him, “Rabbi, we know that you are a teacher who has come from God; for no one can do these signs that you do apart from the presence of God.”

³Jesus answered him, “Very truly, I tell you, no one can see the kingdom of God without being born from above.”^b ⁴Nicodemus said to him, “How can anyone be born after having grown old? Can one enter a second time into the mother’s womb and be born?”⁵ Jesus answered, “Very truly, I tell you, no one can enter the kingdom of God without being born of water and Spirit. ⁶What is born of the flesh is flesh, and what is born of the Spirit is spirit.^c ⁷Do not be astonished that I said to you, ‘You^d must be born from above.’^e ⁸The wind^c blows where it chooses, and you hear the sound of it, but you do not know where it comes from or where it goes. So it is with everyone who is born of the Spirit.” ⁹Nicodemus said to him, “How can these things be?”¹⁰ Jesus answered him, “Are you a teacher of Israel, and yet you do not understand these things?

¹¹“Very truly, I tell you, we speak of what we know and testify to what we have seen; yet you^f do not receive our testimony. ¹²If I have told you about earthly things and you do not believe, how can you believe if I tell you about heavenly things? ¹³No one has ascended into heaven except the one who descended from heaven, the Son of Man.⁹ ¹⁴And just as Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, so must the Son of Man be lifted up, ¹⁵that whoever believes in him may have eternal life.^h

¹⁶“For God so loved the world that he gave his only Son, so that everyone who believes in him may not perish but may have eternal life.

¹⁷“Indeed, God did not send the Son into the world to condemn the world, but in order that the world might be saved through him.

^a Gk him

^b Or born anew

^c The same Greek word means both wind and spirit

^d The Greek word for you here is plural

^e Or anew

^f The Greek word for you here and in verse 12 is plural

^g Other ancient authorities add who is in heaven

^h Some interpreters hold that the quotation concludes with verse 15

body, which replaces all temples. After his vindication, believers remember and understand Jesus’ remark. 23: This Gospel contains many people with ambiguous loyalties (3.1–12; 7.1–10; 8.31–45). Hypocrisy and cowardice abound (see 9.22), making it hard to distinguish insiders from outsiders, true from false. 24–25: Jesus knows all (18.4), especially human hearts; prophets could read hearts and not be fooled by hypocrisy.

3.1–21: Nicodemus listens but does not hear. 1–2: A high-ranking Pharisee comes in darkness to Jesus. Teacher . . . come from God reveals little when compared with what insiders had said (1.34,36,41,49). 3–5: A pattern repeated (see 2.20n.): Jesus speaks, Nicodemus misunderstands a double-meaning word: he thinks Jesus means “again” (see textual note b), whereas Jesus meant from above. Nicodemus ridicules Jesus’ word, thinking about birth as the impossible return to the womb. 5: No one can . . . without introduces absolute claims by Jesus. Born of water and Spirit introduces the double-meaning word Spirit, which could be “heavenly agent” or “wind” (v. 8). Scholars disagree about whether there is a reference to baptism here. 6: A typical Johannine dichotomy dividing the world in two: Nicodemus is flesh, knowing earthy things. 8: Nicodemus cannot understand even where the wind comes from or where it goes. 9: He claimed knowledge (3.2), but is now reduced to questioning, proof that he is flesh. 10: Nicodemus’s remark about Jesus (“a teacher . . . from God,” v. 3), is now sarcastically turned back on him. 11–12: In contrast, “we” speak true testimony about what we know and have seen, which he cannot receive. Even as “flesh,” he still cannot understand earthly things, like wind; he is incapable of comprehending heavenly things. 13–15: The Son of Man first mentioned in 1.51 was ambiguous; but Son of Man refers to the heavenly figure who first descended then re-ascended, confirming his heavenly origin. Serpent, see Num 21.9. 16: God’s own plan, who as a benevolent patron, sent his agent Jesus out of love. 17–18: Not . . .

¹⁸ Those who believe in him are not condemned; but those who do not believe are condemned already, because they have not believed in the name of the only Son of God.

¹⁹ And this is the judgment, that the light has come into the world, and people loved darkness rather than light because their deeds were evil. ²⁰ For all who do evil hate the light and do not come to the light, so that their deeds may not be exposed. ²¹ But those who do what is true come to the light, so that it may be clearly seen that their deeds have been done in God.”^a

²² After this Jesus and his disciples went into the Judean countryside, and he spent some time there with them and baptized.

²³ John also was baptizing at Aenon near Salim because water was abundant there; and people kept coming and were being baptized ²⁴—John, of course, had not yet been thrown into prison.

²⁵ Now a discussion about purification arose between John’s disciples and a Jew.^b

²⁶ They came to John and said to him, “Rabbi, the one who was with you across the Jordan, to whom you testified, here he is baptizing, and all are going to him.” ²⁷ John answered, “No one can receive anything except what has been given from heaven. ²⁸ You yourselves are my witnesses that I said, ‘I am not the Messiah,’^c but I have been sent ahead of him.’ ²⁹ He who has the bride is the bridegroom. The friend of the bridegroom, who stands and hears him, rejoices greatly at the bridegroom’s voice. For this reason my joy has been fulfilled. ³⁰ He must increase, but I must decrease.”^d

³¹ The one who comes from above is above all; the one who is of the earth belongs to the earth and speaks about earthly things. The one who comes from heaven is above all. ³² He testifies to what he has seen and heard, yet no one accepts his testimony. ³³ Whoever has accepted his testimony has certified^e this, that God is true. ³⁴ He whom God has sent speaks the words of God, for he gives the Spirit without measure. ³⁵ The Father loves the Son and has placed all things in his hands. ³⁶ Whoever believes in the Son has eternal life; whoever disobeys the Son will not see life, but must endure God’s wrath.

4 Now when Jesus^f learned that the Pharisees had heard, “Jesus is making and baptizing more disciples than John”²—although it was not Jesus himself but his disciples who baptized—³ he left Judea and started back to Galilee. ⁴ But he had to go through Samaria. ⁵ So he came to a Samaritan city called Sychar, near the plot of ground that Jacob had given to his son Joseph. ⁶ Jacob’s well was

^a Some interpreters hold that the quotation concludes with verse 15

^b Other ancient authorities read the Jews

^c Or the Christ

^d Some interpreters hold that the quotation continues through verse 36

^e Gk set a seal to

^f Other ancient authorities read the Lord

condemn . . . but . . . be saved, confirms God’s benevolence. 19–21: God gave grace, but some prefer darkness (3.1; 13.30), where they cannot be seen. But believers come into the light to receive God’s saving judgment.

3.22–30: John’s testimony again (cf. 1.15,29–36). 22–23: With two groups of baptizers—Jesus and his disciples, and John and his disciples—competition is inevitable; see further 4.1–2. The locations of Aenon and Salim are uncertain. 24: See Mk 6.14–29. 27: All Jesus has and does is because he is God’s agent. 28: John happily holds second place, as his herald. 29: Friend, the best man or groomsman is not a rival of the bridegroom; cf. Mk 2.18–20. 30: Jesus’ increase does not shame John, because John’s decrease is voluntary, thus honorable.

3.31–36: Concluding summary. 31: Nicodemus misunderstood the double-meaning word as “again” (3.3), which here describes Jesus who comes from above (3.13,31). As “flesh” contrasts with “spirit” (3.6) and “earthly” with “heavenly” knowledge (3.12), so the speaker from above is contrasted with the one of the earth speaking earthly things. 32: Cf. 1.10–11. 34: Spirit in 3.5–8 meant “wind,” but now is it God’s gift without measure.

4.1–42: Success in Samaria. 1–2: The Pharisees’ concern over Jesus’ baptizing balances the controversy with John’s disciples (3.22–26). 3: Chs 3 and 4 are antithetical: from Judea and unbelief to Samaria and acceptance, from night to noon, from water for birth to water of life, from Israelite male to Samaritan female. 4: Samaria, between Judea and Galilee (v. 3), was inhabited by the Samaritans, who worshiped the Lord God and used the Torah. But Jews did not consider Samaritan observances to be authentic; see further v. 9. 5–6: Jacob’s well, there, and Jesus, tired out by his journey, was sitting by the well. It was about noon.

⁷ A Samaritan woman came to draw water, and Jesus said to her, “Give me a drink.” ⁸ (His disciples had gone to the city to buy food.)

⁹ The Samaritan woman said to him, “How is it that you, a Jew, ask a drink of me, a woman of Samaria?” (Jews do not share things in common with Samaritans.)^a ¹⁰ Jesus answered her, “If you knew the gift of God, and who it is that is saying to you, ‘Give me a drink,’ you would have asked him, and he would have given you living water.” ¹¹ The woman said to him, “Sir, you have no bucket, and the well is deep. Where do you get that living water? ¹² Are you greater than our ancestor Jacob, who gave us the well, and with his sons and his flocks drank from it?” ¹³ Jesus said to her, “Everyone who drinks of this water will be thirsty again, ¹⁴ but those who drink of the water that I will give them will never be thirsty. The water that I will give will become in them a spring of water gushing up to eternal life.” ¹⁵ The woman said to him, “Sir, give me this water, so that I may never be thirsty or have to keep coming here to draw water.”

¹⁶ Jesus said to her, “Go, call your husband, and come back.” ¹⁷ The woman answered him, “I have no husband.” Jesus said to her, “You are right in saying, ‘I have no husband’; ¹⁸ for you have had five husbands, and the one you have now is not your husband. What you have said is true!” ¹⁹ The woman said to him, “Sir, I see that you are a prophet. ²⁰ Our ancestors worshiped on this mountain, but you^b say that the place where people must worship is in Jerusalem.” ²¹ Jesus said to her,

“Woman, believe me, the hour is coming when you will worship the Father neither on this mountain nor in Jerusalem. ²² You worship what you do not know; we worship what we know, for salvation is from the Jews. ²³ But the hour is coming, and is now here, when the true worshipers will worship the Father in spirit and truth, for the Father seeks such as these to worship him. ²⁴ God is spirit, and those who worship him must worship in spirit and truth.” ²⁵ The woman said to him, “I know that Messiah is coming” (who is called Christ). “When he comes, he will proclaim all things to us.” ²⁶ Jesus said to her, “I am he,^c the one who is speaking to you.”

²⁷ Just then his disciples came. They were astonished that he was speaking with a woman, but no one said, “What do you want?” or, “Why are you speaking with her?” ²⁸ Then the woman left her water jar and went back to the city. She said to the people, ²⁹ “Come and see a man who told me everything I have ever done! He cannot be the Messiah,^d can he?” ³⁰ They left the city and were on their way to him.

³¹ Meanwhile the disciples were urging him, “Rabbi, eat something.” ³² But he said to them, “I have food to eat that you do not know about.” ³³ So the disciples said to one another, “Surely no one has brought him something to eat?” ³⁴ Jesus said to them, “My food is to do the will of him who sent me and to complete his

^a Other ancient authorities lack this sentence

^b The Greek word for you here and in verses 21 and 22 is plural

^c Gk I am

^d Or the Christ

traditionally located near ancient Shechem, where Jacob acquired land (Gen 33.18–20; Josh 24.32). 7–12: Jesus speaks (give me a drink), which the Samaritan woman understands but never fulfills. Jesus speaks again, but she misunderstands living water as flowing water (as opposed to the still water of a well), rather than what Jesus means. If she had understood, gender roles would reverse: the female would ask the male to serve her. 12: She challenges Jesus by comparing this peasant Jew to the patriarch Jacob. 16–18: Jesus speaks, and now she dissembles. Jesus, knowing the truth, praises her for her clever evasion, but exposes what she hides: no husband, but five previous ones and now a paramour. 19–20: She mocks Jesus’ prophetic knowledge, testing him to solve an unsolvable problem: where to worship, the holy mountain of the Samaritans, Mount Gerizim, or Jerusalem. 21–24: The prophet Jesus desacralizes both sites; worship will be apart from fixed temple space. 26: Jesus’ self-revelation makes him greater than previously acknowledged. I am he, lit., “I am,” (cf. Ex 3.14; Isa 41.4; 43.10; 46.4; see also Jn 6.20; 8.24,28,58; 13.19; 18.5. 27: Male talking to female in public is irregular. 28–30: The woman does not go home to call her husband (v. 16), but invites all to come and see (cf. 1.46). Everything I have ever done can only be her sexual history (4.16–18). She does not acknowledge Jesus as Messiah, but only suggests he might be. 31–34: Vv. 8–15 dealt with drink; vv. 31–38 emphasize food. Jesus says “I have food,” which work.³⁵ Do you not say, ‘Four months more, then comes the harvest’? But I tell you, look around you, and see how the fields are ripe for harvesting.³⁶ The reaper is already receiving^a wages and is gathering fruit for eternal life, so that sower and reaper may rejoice together.

³⁷ For here the saying holds true, ‘One sows and another reaps.’³⁸ I sent you to reap that for which you did not labor. Others have labored, and you have entered into their labor.”

³⁹ Many Samaritans from that city believed in him because of the woman’s testimony, “He told me everything I have ever done.”⁴⁰ So when the Samaritans came to him, they asked him to stay with them; and he stayed there two days.⁴¹ And many more believed because of his word.⁴² They said to the woman, “It is no longer because of what you said that we believe, for we have heard for ourselves, and we know that this is truly the Savior of the world.”

⁴³ When the two days were over, he went from that place to Galilee⁴⁴ (for Jesus himself had testified that a prophet has no honor in the prophet’s own country).⁴⁵ When he came to Galilee, the Galileans welcomed him, since they had seen all that he had done in Jerusalem at the festival; for they too had gone to the festival.

⁴⁶ Then he came again to Cana in Galilee where he had changed the water into wine. Now there was a royal official whose son lay ill in Capernaum.⁴⁷ When he heard that Jesus had come from Judea to Galilee, he went and begged him to come down and heal his son, for he was at the point of death.⁴⁸ Then Jesus said to him, “Unless you^b see signs and wonders you will not believe.”⁴⁹ The official said to him, “Sir, come down before my little boy dies.”⁵⁰ Jesus said to him, “Go; your son will live.” The man believed the word that Jesus spoke to him and started on his way.⁵¹ As he was going down, his slaves met him and told him that his child was alive.⁵² So he asked them the hour when he began to recover, and they said to him, “Yesterday at one in the afternoon the fever left him.”⁵³ The father realized that this was the hour when Jesus had said to him, “Your son will live.” So he himself believed, along with his whole household.⁵⁴ Now this was the second sign that Jesus did after coming from Judea to Galilee.

5 After this there was a festival of the Jews, and Jesus went up to Jerusalem.

² Now in Jerusalem by the Sheep Gate there is a pool, called in Hebrew^c Beth-zatha,^d which has five porticoes.³ In these lay many invalids—blind, lame, and paralyzed.^e ⁵ One

^a Or ³⁵... the fields are already ripe for harvesting.

³⁶*The reaper is receiving*

^b Both instances of the Greek word for you in this verse are plural

^c That is, Aramaic

^d Other ancient authorities read Bethesda, others Bethsaida

^e Other ancient authorities add, wholly or in part, waiting for the stirring of the water; for an angel of the Lord went down at certain seasons into the pool, and stirred up the water; whoever stepped in first after the stirring of the water was made well from whatever disease that person had.

they misunderstand; Jesus explains: obeying God is food for him (cf. Deut 8.3; Mt 4.4). 35–36: Jesus expands the metaphor by including harvest of grain, which is recruitment of disciples; cf. Mt 9.37–38. 37–38: Normally sowers and reapers are the same people; unlike the proverb in Mic 6.15 (see also Deut 6.10–11), here, although they are distinguished, it is done in a positive light. Jesus’ command should neutralize any competition. 39–42: Samaritans first believed for a curious reason: Jesus revealed the woman’s personal history. Eventually they believe because of Jesus’ own words; the result is a climactic acknowledgment: he is Savior of the world, which dismisses earlier ethnic points of conflict.

4.43–54: Progress of the prophet (cf. Mt 8.5–15; Lk 7.1–10). 43–46: Cana (see 2.1n.) and Galilee symbolize places favorable to Jesus, not just actual locations. Just as the Galileans saw Jesus’ signs earlier, now an official seeks a sign. 46–47: High-ranking people normally sent messages by an intermediary, but this one comes himself. 48–49: The earlier pattern of request, refusal, then positive action (2.3–4) recurs. 50–54: The boy lived and the father believed, as Jesus had said to him; in fact his whole household believed. Second sign, after Cana and the wine (2.1–11), before the feeding (ch 6).

5.1–18: The sign that failed. 1: Jesus attended this unnamed feast as well as Passover (see 2.13–16n.), Booths (7.2), and Dedication (10.22). 2–3: Jerusalem, where Jesus is repeatedly rejected. Water links this episode with 3.5 and 4.7; and pool links it with 9.7. See map on p. 1862. 5–9: Typical miracles have these elements: the severity man was there who had been ill for thirty-eight years. ⁶ When Jesus saw him lying there and knew that he had been there a long time, he said to him, “Do you want to be made well?” ⁷ The sick man answered him, “Sir, I have no one to put me into the pool when the water is stirred up; and while I am making my way, someone else steps down ahead of me.” ⁸ Jesus said to him, “Stand up, take your mat and walk.” ⁹ At once the man was made well, and he took up his mat and began to walk.

Now that day was a sabbath. ¹⁰ So the Jews said to the man who had been cured, “It is the sabbath; it is not lawful for you to carry your mat.” ¹¹ But he answered them, “The man who made me well said to me, ‘Take up your mat and walk.’” ¹² They asked him, “Who is the man who said to you, ‘Take it up and walk?’” ¹³ Now the man who had been healed did not know who it was, for Jesus had disappeared in^a the crowd that was there. ¹⁴ Later Jesus found him in the temple and said to him, “See, you have been made well! Do not sin any more, so that nothing worse happens to you.” ¹⁵ The man went away and told the Jews that it was Jesus who had made him well. ¹⁶ Therefore the Jews started persecuting Jesus, because he was doing such things on the sabbath. ¹⁷ But Jesus answered them, “My Father is still working, and I also am working.” ¹⁸ For this reason the Jews were seeking all the more to kill him, because he was not only breaking the sabbath, but was also calling God his own Father, thereby making himself equal to God.

¹⁹ Jesus said to them, “Very truly, I tell you, the Son can do nothing on his own, but only what he sees the Father doing; for whatever the Father^b does, the Son does likewise.

²⁰ The Father loves the Son and shows him all that he himself is doing; and he will show him greater works than these, so that you will be astonished. ²¹ Indeed, just as the Father raises the dead and gives them life, so also the Son gives life to whomever he wishes. ²² The Father judges no one but has given all judgment to the Son, ²³ so that all may honor the Son just as they honor the Father. Anyone who does not honor the Son does not honor the Father who sent him. ²⁴ Very truly, I tell you, anyone who hears my word and believes him who sent me has eternal life, and does not come under judgment, but has passed from death to life.

²⁵ “Very truly, I tell you, the hour is coming, and is now here, when the dead will hear the voice of the Son of God, and those who hear will live. ²⁶ For just as the Father has life in himself, so he has granted the Son also to have life in himself; ²⁷ and he has given him authority to execute judgment, because he is the Son of Man. ²⁸ Do not be astonished at this; for the hour is coming when all who are in their graves will hear his voice ²⁹ and will come out—those who have done good, to the resurrection of life, and those who have done evil, to the resurrection of condemnation.

^a Or had left because of

^b Gk that one

of the disease (ill for thirty-eight years); cure, either by the use of spittle and clay (as in 9.5) or by a command (stand up); proof of healing (he . . . began to walk); and grant of honor to the healer, absent here. Healing on the sabbath (5.10; 7.23 and 9.14) persuades many that Jesus is sinner—a judgment by appearances. 7: The water is stirred up, explained by an addition in some manuscripts (see textual note on v. 3). 10–18: Jesus’ first trial begins; the man healed is charged with sabbath violation; he shifts the blame to his healer, whom he did not know. This witness brings no glory to the healer, but shame. After meeting Jesus again, he testified who the healer was. Punishment follows crime: they persecuted Jesus for breaking the sabbath. A defense is offered: if God works on the sabbath, Jesus’ working cannot be sinful. The charge is elevated to blasphemy, whose punishment was death (see 10.30–32n.).

5.19–47: Two trials and two defenses. 19–29: The two charges (sabbath violation and blasphemous claims) require different defenses. The first defense denies that Jesus makes himself anything; rather, God honors him: because “the Father loves the Son,” Jesus is not vaingloriously claiming anything. But he is truly “equal to God” (v. 18) because God gave him God’s two comprehensive powers: lifegiver (cf. 1.1–3) and judge. 21: God’s power over death is exercised by Jesus. 22: God twice invested Jesus with judgment (5.22,27). 23: God demands that the respect owed him be given to Jesus. 25,28–29: Jesus has power over the dead, to call them from tombs, raise them, and reward or punish them. This will be proved in Jesus’ own case (10.17–18) and in that of Lazarus

³⁰ “I can do nothing on my own. As I hear, I judge; and my judgment is just, because I seek to do not my own will but the will of him who sent me.

³¹ “If I testify about myself, my testimony is not true. ³² There is another who testifies on my behalf, and I know that his testimony to me is true. ³³ You sent messengers to John, and he testified to the truth. ³⁴ Not that I accept such human testimony, but I say these things so that you may be saved. ³⁵ He was a burning and shining lamp, and you were willing to rejoice for a while in his light. ³⁶ But I have a testimony greater than John’s. The works that the Father has given me to complete, the very works that I am doing, testify on my behalf that the Father has sent me.

³⁷ And the Father who sent me has himself testified on my behalf. You have never heard his voice or seen his form, ³⁸ and you do not have his word abiding in you, because you do not believe him whom he has sent.

³⁹ “You search the scriptures because you think that in them you have eternal life; and it is they that testify on my behalf.

⁴⁰ Yet you refuse to come to me to have life.

⁴¹ I do not accept glory from human beings.

⁴² But I know that you do not have the love of God in^a you. ⁴³ I have come in my Father’s name, and you do not accept me; if another comes in his own name, you will accept him.

⁴⁴ How can you believe when you accept glory from one another and do not seek the glory that comes from the one who alone is God? ⁴⁵ Do not think that I will accuse you before the Father; your accuser is Moses, on whom you have set your hope. ⁴⁶ If you believed Moses, you would believe me, for he wrote about me. ⁴⁷ But if you do not believe what he wrote, how will you believe what I say?”

6 After this Jesus went to the other side of the Sea of Galilee, also called the Sea of Tiberias.^b ² A large crowd kept following him, because they saw the signs that he was doing for the sick. ³ Jesus went up the mountain and sat down there with his disciples. ⁴ Now the Passover, the festival of the Jews, was near.

⁵ When he looked up and saw a large crowd coming toward him, Jesus said to Philip, “Where are we to buy bread for these people to eat?”

⁶ He said this to test him, for he himself knew what he was going to do. ⁷ Philip answered him, “Six months’ wages^c would not buy enough bread for each of them to get a little.” ⁸ One of his disciples, Andrew, Simon Peter’s brother, said to him, ⁹ “There is a boy here who has five barley loaves and two fish. But what are they among so many people?” ¹⁰ Jesus said, “Make the people sit down.” Now there was a great deal of grass in the place; so they^d sat down, about five thousand in all. ¹¹ Then Jesus took the loaves, and when he had given thanks, he distributed them to those who were seated; so also the fish, as much as they wanted. ¹² When they were satisfied, he told his disciples, “Gather up the fragments left over, so that nothing may be lost.” ¹³ So they gathered them up, and from the fragments of the five barley loaves, left by those who had eaten, they filled twelve baskets.

¹⁴ When the people saw the sign that he had

^a Or among

^b Gk of Galilee of Tiberias

^c Gk Two hundred denarii; the denarius was the usual day’s wage for a laborer

^d Gk the men

(11.43–44). 27: Son of Man, see 1.51n., 3.13–15n. 30–35: The defense against sabbath violation consists of calling witnesses to testify that Jesus is a saint, not a sinner. John the Baptist is acceptable to this court which valued him as a burning and shining lamp (see 1.29,34; 3.28–30). 36: Jesus’ second witness—his works—proves God’s favor (9.33). 37–38: God is also Jesus’ witness. Although the Israelites never saw God at Sinai (see Deut 4.15), Jesus was face-to-face with God; he alone has seen God (contrast Ex 34.17–23). 39: Scripture witnesses to Jesus because “Moses . . . wrote about me” (v. 46; cf. 1.45). 40–44: The trial turns upside down: accusers are accused, the one judged becomes the judge. Jesus charges his accusers with a deadly crime: You do not have the love of God in you. Their accuser is Moses, once their defender (Ex 32.11–14; Num 14.13–19). The death sentence they would bring upon Jesus (v. 18) will be turned on them: they will never enjoy “eternal life” (vv. 24,39).

6.1–21: Fourth sign: multiplication of bread. Cf. Mt 14.13–21; Mk 6.32–44; Lk 9.10–17. 1: The other side, the eastern shore. 5–6: Jesus tests Philip by asking him how the crowd is to be fed; the Synoptic Gospels make Jesus’ humanitarian motive explicit.

done, they began to say, “This is indeed the prophet who is to come into the world.”

¹⁵ When Jesus realized that they were about to come and take him by force to make him king, he withdrew again to the mountain by himself.

¹⁶ When evening came, his disciples went down to the sea, ¹⁷ got into a boat, and started across the sea to Capernaum. It was now dark, and Jesus had not yet come to them.

¹⁸ The sea became rough because a strong wind was blowing. ¹⁹ When they had rowed about three or four miles,^a they saw Jesus walking on the sea and coming near the boat, and they were terrified. ²⁰ But he said to them, “It is I;^b do not be afraid.” ²¹ Then they wanted to take him into the boat, and immediately the boat reached the land toward which they were going.

²² The next day the crowd that had stayed on the other side of the sea saw that there had been only one boat there. They also saw that Jesus had not got into the boat with his disciples, but that his disciples had gone away alone. ²³ Then some boats from Tiberias came near the place where they had eaten the bread after the Lord had given thanks.^c ²⁴ So when the crowd saw that neither Jesus nor his disciples were there, they themselves got into the boats and went to Capernaum looking for Jesus.

²⁵ When they found him on the other side of the sea, they said to him, “Rabbi, when did you come here?” ²⁶ Jesus answered them, “Very truly, I tell you, you are looking for me, not because you saw signs, but because you ate your fill of the loaves. ²⁷ Do not work for the food that perishes, but for the food that endures for eternal life, which the Son of Man will give you. For it is on him that God the Father has set his seal.” ²⁸ Then they said to him, “What must we do to perform the works of God?” ²⁹ Jesus answered them, “This is the work of God, that you believe in him whom he has sent.” ³⁰ So they said to him, “What sign are you going to give us then, so that we may see it and believe you? What work are you performing?” ³¹ Our ancestors ate the manna in the wilderness; as it is written, ‘He gave them bread from heaven to eat.’” ³² Then Jesus said to them, “Very truly, I tell you, it was not Moses who gave you the bread from heaven, but it is my Father who gives you the true bread from heaven. ³³ For the bread of God is that which^d comes down from heaven and gives life to the world.” ³⁴ They said to him, “Sir, give us this bread always.”

³⁵ Jesus said to them, “I am the bread of life. Whoever comes to me will never be hungry, and whoever believes in me will never be thirsty. ³⁶ But I said to you that you have seen me and yet do not believe. ³⁷ Everything that the Father gives me will come to me, and anyone who comes to me I will never drive away; ³⁸ for I have come down from heaven, not to do my own will, but the will of him who sent me. ³⁹ And this is the will of him who sent me, that I should lose nothing of all that he has given me, but raise it up on the last day. ⁴⁰ This is indeed the will of my Father, that all who see the Son and believe in him may have eternal life; and I will raise them up on the last day.”

⁴¹ Then the Jews began to complain about him because he said, “I am the bread that came down from heaven.” ⁴² They were saying, “Is not this Jesus, the son of Joseph, whose father and mother we know? How can he now say, ‘I have come down from heaven?’” ⁴³ Jesus answered them, “Do not complain among yourselves. ⁴⁴ No one can come to me

^a Gk about twenty-five or thirty stadia

^b Gk I am

^c Other ancient authorities lack after the Lord had given thanks

^d Or he who

6.16–21: Jesus walks on the sea. Cf. Mt 14.22–27; Mk 6.45–52. Jesus’ mysterious presence anticipates his going away but coming back (see 14.3,28). 20: It is I, lit., “I am”; see 4.26n.

6.22–59: Bread from heaven. The crowd are not true insiders because they challenge Jesus with hostile questions. Jesus responds by accusing them of hypocrisy and demands acknowledgment as God’s agent, declaring that he is the bread from heaven (v. 31). 24: Capernaum, see 2.12n. 27: Son of Man, see 3.13–15n. 31–32: They challenge Jesus with a scripture (see Ex 16.4–5 and Ps 78.24), and he reinterprets each word in it as a reference to himself. 34: As in 4.15, the questioners misunderstand. 35–40: Jesus explains: I am the bread of life . . . come down from heaven. 41: They complained, like the Israelites in the wilderness before and after the manna was given (Ex 16.2; Num 11.1). 42: Reference to Jesus’ earthly parents should refute his claim to have come unless drawn by the Father who sent me; and I will raise that person up on the last day. ⁴⁵ It is written in the prophets, ‘And they shall all be taught by God.’ Everyone who has heard and learned from the Father comes to me. ⁴⁶ Not that anyone has seen the Father except the one who is from God; he has seen the Father. ⁴⁷ Very truly, I tell you, whoever believes has eternal life. ⁴⁸ I am the bread of life. ⁴⁹ Your ancestors ate the manna in the wilderness, and they died. ⁵⁰ This is the bread that comes down from heaven, so that one may eat of it and not die. ⁵¹ I am the living bread that came down from heaven. Whoever eats of this bread will live forever; and the bread that I will give for the life of the world is my flesh.”

⁵² The Jews then disputed among themselves, saying, “How can this man give us his flesh to eat?” ⁵³ So Jesus said to them, “Very truly, I tell you, unless you eat the flesh of the Son of Man and drink his blood, you have no life in you. ⁵⁴ Those who eat my flesh and drink my blood have eternal life, and I will raise them up on the last day; ⁵⁵ for my flesh is true food and my blood is true drink. ⁵⁶ Those who eat my flesh and drink my blood abide in me, and I in them. ⁵⁷ Just as the living Father sent me, and I live because of the Father, so whoever eats me will live because of me. ⁵⁸ This is the bread that came down from heaven, not like that which your ancestors ate, and they died. But the one who eats this bread will live forever.” ⁵⁹ He said these things while he was teaching in the synagogue at Capernaum.

⁶⁰ When many of his disciples heard it, they said, “This teaching is difficult; who can accept it?” ⁶¹ But Jesus, being aware that his disciples were complaining about it, said to them, “Does this offend you? ⁶² Then what if you were to see the Son of Man ascending to where he was before? ⁶³ It is the spirit that gives life; the flesh is useless. The words that I have spoken to you are spirit and life. ⁶⁴ But among you there are some who do not believe.” For Jesus knew from the first who were the ones that did not believe, and who was the one that would betray him. ⁶⁵ And he said, “For this reason I have told you that no one can come to me unless it is granted by the Father.”

⁶⁶ Because of this many of his disciples turned back and no longer went about with him. ⁶⁷ So Jesus asked the twelve, “Do you also wish to go away?” ⁶⁸ Simon Peter answered him, “Lord, to whom can we go? You have the words of eternal life. ⁶⁹ We have come to believe and know that you are the Holy One of God.” ⁷⁰ Jesus answered them, “Did I not choose you, the twelve? Yet one of you is a devil.” ⁷¹ He was speaking of Judas son of Simon Iscariot,^b for he, though one of the twelve, was going to betray him.

7 After this Jesus went about in Galilee. He did not wish^c to go about in Judea because the Jews were looking for an

^a Other ancient authorities read the Christ, the Son of the living God

^b Other ancient authorities read Judas Iscariot son of Simon; others, Judas son of Simon from Karyot (Kerioth)

^c Other ancient authorities read was not at liberty

down from heaven, a literal understanding. 45: Isa 54.13. 49–50: The contrast between Moses’ manna and Jesus’ true bread looks to results: one dies after eating manna but has eternal life from Jesus’ bread. 51–59: Another instance of statement (v. 51), misunderstanding (v. 52), and restatement (vv. 53–58). In these verses, the author (who does not include an account of the institution of the Lord’s Supper) presents teachings with unmistakable eucharistic overtones. So far only bread was discussed, now blood. Consumption of blood was taboo to Israel: in the blood was life (Deut 12.23), but life belongs to God alone (Gen 9.4). Ordinarily taking Jesus literally is folly, but here Jesus intends to be both literal and outrageous. 59: In the synagogue at Capernaum, cf. Mk 1.21; Lk 4.31.

6.60–71: Separating wheat from chaff. 60–65: Even some disciples reject Jesus’ bread; they too complained (see v. 41n.). 61–62: If they reject his claim to descend from heaven, his return there will be impossible to accept. 64–65: Jesus knew from the start both the unbelieving crowds and who would betray him. Knowing all things, he commands the scene. 66–69: A typical Johannine schism: some leave; others remain, but even they are challenged. 67: The twelve, Jesus’ inner circle, mentioned only here and in 20.24 in this Gospel. Peter’s confession resembles that at Caesarea Philippi (Mk 8.28–29), substituting Holy One of God for “Messiah.” 70–71: Jesus’ knowledge of the betrayer (v. 64) indicates that he voluntarily accepts death; see 13.11,21–30.

7.1–10: Blood relationships don’t count. 1: The Jews, see 1.19n. 2: Booths (also called “Tabernacles”), a seven-opportunity to kill him.² Now the Jewish festival of Booths^a was near.³ So his brothers said to him, “Leave here and go to Judea so that your disciples also may see the works you are doing;⁴ for no one who wants^b to be widely known acts in secret. If you do these things, show yourself to the world.”⁵ (For not even his brothers believed in him.)⁶ Jesus said to them, “My time has not yet come, but your time is always here.⁷ The world cannot hate you, but it hates me because I testify against it that its works are evil.⁸ Go to the festival yourselves. I am not^c going to this festival, for my time has not yet fully come.”⁹ After saying this, he remained in Galilee.

¹⁰ But after his brothers had gone to the festival, then he also went, not publicly but as it were^d in secret.¹¹ The Jews were looking for him at the festival and saying, “Where is he?”¹² And there was considerable complaining about him among the crowds. While some were saying, “He is a good man,” others were saying, “No, he is deceiving the crowd.”¹³ Yet no one would speak openly about him for fear of the Jews.

¹⁴ About the middle of the festival Jesus went up into the temple and began to teach.¹⁵ The Jews were astonished at it, saying, “How does this man have such learning,^e when he has never been taught?”¹⁶ Then Jesus answered them, “My teaching is not mine but his who sent me.¹⁷ Anyone who resolves to do the will of God will know whether the teaching is from God or whether I am speaking on my own.¹⁸ Those who speak on their own seek their own glory; but the one who seeks the glory of him who sent him is true, and there is nothing false in him.

¹⁹ “Did not Moses give you the law? Yet none of you keeps the law. Why are you looking for an opportunity to kill me?”²⁰ The crowd answered, “You have a demon! Who is trying to kill you?”²¹ Jesus answered them, “I performed one work, and all of you are astonished.²² Moses gave you circumcision (it is, of course, not from Moses, but from the patriarchs), and you circumcise a man on the sabbath.²³ If a man receives circumcision on the sabbath in order that the law of Moses may not be broken, are you angry with me because I healed a man’s whole body on the sabbath?²⁴ Do not judge by appearances, but judge with right judgment.”

²⁵ Now some of the people of Jerusalem were saying, “Is not this the man whom they are trying to kill?²⁶ And here he is, speaking openly, but they say nothing to him! Can it be that the authorities really know that this is the Messiah?^f ²⁷ Yet we know where this man is from; but when the Messiah^f comes, no one will know where he is from.”²⁸ Then Jesus cried out as he was teaching in the temple, “You know me, and you know where I am from. I have not come on my own. But the one who sent me is true, and you do not know him.²⁹ I know him, because I am from him, and he sent me.”³⁰ Then they tried to arrest him, but no one laid hands on him, because his hour had not yet come.³¹ Yet many in the crowd believed in him and were saying, “When the Messiah^f comes, will he do more signs than this man has done?”^g

^a Or Tabernacles

^b Other ancient authorities read wants it

^c Other ancient authorities add yet

^d Other ancient authorities lack as it were

^e Or this man know his letters

^f Or the Christ

^g Other ancient authorities read is doing

day harvest feast in the fall during which petitions for rains and sunlight were expressed in daily water libations and nightly lighting of menorahs. 3–5: Brothers (see 2.12n.), here opposed to Jesus (cf. 1.12). 6,8: My time, cf. “my hour” in 2.4; 7.30; 8.20; 13.1. 8–10: Jesus regularly controls his fate with a strategy of secrecy.

7.11–52: Second trial in Jerusalem. 11–13: Another schism: some accuse Jesus of deception, but others praise him (cf. 7.40–44,45–52; 10.19–21). Fear of the Jews muzzles possible disciples (9.22; 12.42; 19.38–39). 14–17: Can Jesus teach if not schooled? His Father taught him (5.20); and godly people recognize this (9.29–30). 18: Telling false from true speakers: Those who seek their own glory are false (5.44); but the one who seeks the glory of him who sent him is true (8.50). 25–27: Testimony against Jesus: “We know” where he comes from (see 1.45–46; 6.42), but no one knows where the Messiah comes from. 28–29: Jesus’ challenge, “You do not know him,” because you know according to the flesh. But “I know him, because I am from him.” 30–31: A negative schism again (they

³²The Pharisees heard the crowd muttering such things about him, and the chief priests and Pharisees sent temple police to arrest him. ³³Jesus then said, “I will be with you a little while longer, and then I am going to him who sent me. ³⁴You will search for me, but you will not find me; and where I am, you cannot come.” ³⁵The Jews said to one another, “Where does this man intend to go that we will not find him? Does he intend to go to the Dispersion among the Greeks and teach the Greeks? ³⁶What does he mean by saying, ‘You will search for me and you will not find me’ and ‘Where I am, you cannot come?’”

³⁷On the last day of the festival, the great day, while Jesus was standing there, he cried out, “Let anyone who is thirsty come to me. ³⁸and let the one who believes in me drink. As^a the scripture has said, ‘Out of the believer’s heart^b shall flow rivers of living water.’” ³⁹Now he said this about the Spirit, which believers in him were to receive; for as yet there was no Spirit,^c because Jesus was not yet glorified.

⁴⁰When they heard these words, some in the crowd said, “This is really the prophet.”

⁴¹Others said, “This is the Messiah.”^d But some asked, “Surely the Messiah^d does not come from Galilee, does he? ⁴²Has not the scripture said that the Messiah^d is descended from David and comes from Bethlehem, the village where David lived?” ⁴³So there was a division in the crowd because of him. ⁴⁴Some of them wanted to arrest him, but no one laid hands on him.

⁴⁵Then the temple police went back to the chief priests and Pharisees, who asked them, “Why did you not arrest him?” ⁴⁶The police answered, “Never has anyone spoken like this!” ⁴⁷Then the Pharisees replied, “Surely you have not been deceived too, have you? ⁴⁸Has any one of the authorities or of the Pharisees believed in him? ⁴⁹But this crowd, which does not know the law—they are accursed.” ⁵⁰Nicodemus, who had gone to Jesus^e before, and who was one of them, asked, ⁵¹“Our law does not judge people without first giving them a hearing to find out what they are doing, does it?” ⁵²They replied, “Surely you are not also from Galilee, are you? Search and you will see that no prophet is to arise from Galilee.”

8 ¶ ⁵³Then each of them went home, ¹while Jesus went to the Mount of Olives. ²Early in the morning he came again to the temple. All the people came to him and he sat down and began to teach them. ³The scribes and the Pharisees brought a woman who had been caught in adultery; and making her stand before all of them, ⁴they said to him, “Teacher, this woman was caught in the very act of committing adultery. ⁵Now in the law Moses commanded us to stone such women. Now what do you say?” ⁶They said this to test him, so that they might have some charge to

^a Or come to me and drink. ³⁸*The one who believes in me, as*

^b Gk out of his belly

^c Other ancient authorities read for as yet the Spirit (others, Holy Spirit) had not been given

^d Or the Christ

^e Gk him

tried to arrest him), followed by a positive judgment: Will the Messiah do more signs than Jesus? 32–36: Debate about where Jesus is going. They think he may be going to Jews in the Dispersion among the Greeks, but his actual destination—to him who sent me—is known only by insiders. You will search for me means “seek to kill me,” but “Where I am, you cannot come.” 37–39: The water ritual of the feast of Tabernacles (see 7.2n.) transformed: Jesus replaces with his water the festal libations; cf. the blood and water from his heart at his death (19.34). Jesus is glorified only at death when he hands over the Spirit (19:30). 38: Scripture has said, no biblical passage contains these exact words; for the general sense, see Prov 18.4; Isa 44.3; 58.11. 40–43: Some accept Jesus’ testimony, but others reject it, judging according to appearances: the Messiah cannot come from Galilee but must come from Bethlehem; see 1.45–46n. 44: Jesus tried in absentia: they accuse him, find testimony against him, seek to kill him, but cannot carry out the sentence. 45–48: Soldiers sent to arrest Jesus return acclaiming him, proof that Jesus is a deceiver. 49: Who is fit to judge? Not the accursed crowd, which does not know the law; the Pharisees claim to, but they too violate the law. 50–51: Nicodemus says nothing positive about Jesus but only defends the law. 52: Another judgment according to appearances.

8.1–11: Jesus and the adulteress. 1: This story is absent in major manuscripts. 3–6: Opponents test Jesus, cit-

bring against him. Jesus bent down and wrote with his finger on the ground.⁷ When they kept on questioning him, he straightened up and said to them, “Let anyone among you who is without sin be the first to throw a stone at her.”⁸ And once again he bent down and wrote on the ground.⁹ When they heard it, they went away, one by one, beginning with the elders; and Jesus was left alone with the woman standing before him.¹⁰ Jesus straightened up and said to her, “Woman, where are they? Has no one condemned you?”¹¹ She said, “No one, sir.”^b And Jesus said, “Neither do I condemn you. Go your way, and from now on do not sin again.”^{12c}

¹² Again Jesus spoke to them, saying, “I am the light of the world. Whoever follows me will never walk in darkness but will have the light of life.”¹³ Then the Pharisees said to him, “You are testifying on your own behalf; your testimony is not valid.”¹⁴ Jesus answered, “Even if I testify on my own behalf, my testimony is valid because I know where I have come from and where I am going, but you do not know where I come from or where I am going.¹⁵ You judge by human standards;^d I judge no one.¹⁶ Yet even if I do judge, my judgment is valid; for it is not I alone who judge, but I and the Father^e who sent me.¹⁷ In your law it is written that the testimony of two witnesses is valid.¹⁸ I testify on my own behalf, and the Father who sent me testifies on my behalf.”¹⁹ Then they said to him, “Where is your Father?” Jesus answered, “You know neither me nor my Father. If you knew me, you would know my Father also.”²⁰ He spoke these words while he was teaching in the treasury of the temple, but no one arrested him, because his hour had not yet come.

²¹ Again he said to them, “I am going away, and you will search for me, but you will die in your sin. Where I am going, you cannot come.”²² Then the Jews said, “Is he going to kill himself? Is that what he means by saying, ‘Where I am going, you cannot come?’”²³ He said to them, “You are from below, I am from above; you are of this world, I am not of this world.²⁴ I told you that you would die in your sins, for you will die in your sins unless you believe that I am he.”^f²⁵ They said to him, “Who are you?” Jesus said to them, “Why do I speak to you at all?^g²⁶ I have much to say about you and much to condemn; but the one who sent me is true, and I declare to the world what I have heard from him.”²⁷ They did not understand that he was speaking to them about the Father.²⁸ So Jesus said, “When you have lifted up the Son of Man, then you will realize that I am he,^f and that I do nothing on my own, but I speak these things as the Father instructed me.²⁹ And the one who sent me is with me; he has not left me alone, for I always do what is pleasing to

^a Other ancient authorities add the sins of each of them

^b Or Lord

^c The most ancient authorities lack 7:53—8:11; other authorities add the passage here or after 7:36 or after 21:25 or after Luke 21:38, with variations of text; some mark the passage as doubtful.

^d Gk according to the flesh

^e Other ancient authorities read he

^f Gk I am

^g Or What I have told you from the beginning

ing the law (Deut 22:23–24) and its punishment. 7: Jesus’ challenge is answered: only the sinless may stone her. 9: Sinful opponents put to shame. 10–11: Unlike his challengers, Jesus does not condemn her.

8.12–20: The feast of Tabernacles, continued. 12: Jesus claims to replace the rain (7.37–38) and sunlight (8.12) for which Israel prayed. 13–14: The trial is resumed: Jesus’ testimony is declared invalid; but because Jesus knows his origin and destination, i.e., his authorization, it is valid. 15–16: They judge by appearances (7.24). Jesus does not but does judge because God stands with him (5.22,27). 17–18: Two valid witnesses (see Deut 19.15): Jesus and the Father who sent him. 19: Know means to acknowledge or honor. 20: Jesus in public space (cf. 18.20).

8.21–30: Jesus judges. 21–25: Jesus’ topic statement contains four points: Going away may imply suicide; search for me, “attempt to kill”; die in your sins, sentence for failing to keep my law (see 4.26n.; 7.19,25; 8.58–59); you cannot come, because they belong to irreconcilable worlds (see 3.5–8). 28: Lifted up, either lifting Jesus on the cross or his glorious return to heaven. I am he, lit., “I am,” the name of God in Ex 3.14; here, a being who is both eternal in the past and imperishable in the future.

him.”³⁰ As he was saying these things, many believed in him.

³¹ Then Jesus said to the Jews who had believed in him, “If you continue in my word, you are truly my disciples; ³² and you will know the truth, and the truth will make you free.” ³³ They answered him, “We are descendants of Abraham and have never been slaves to anyone. What do you mean by saying, ‘You will be made free?’”

³⁴ Jesus answered them, “Very truly, I tell you, everyone who commits sin is a slave to sin. ³⁵ The slave does not have a permanent place in the household; the son has a place there forever. ³⁶ So if the Son makes you free, you will be free indeed. ³⁷ I know that you are descendants of Abraham; yet you look for an opportunity to kill me, because there is no place in you for my word. ³⁸ I declare what I have seen in the Father’s presence; as for you, you should do what you have heard from the Father.”^a

³⁹ They answered him, “Abraham is our father.” Jesus said to them, “If you were Abraham’s children, you would be doing^b what Abraham did, ⁴⁰ but now you are trying to kill me, a man who has told you the truth that I heard from God. This is not what Abraham did. ⁴¹ You are indeed doing what your father does.” They said to him, “We are not illegitimate children; we have one father, God himself.” ⁴² Jesus said to them, “If God were your Father, you would love me, for I came from God and now I am here. I did not come on my own, but he sent me. ⁴³ Why do you not understand what I say? It is because you cannot accept my word. ⁴⁴ You are from your father the devil, and you choose to do your father’s desires. He was a murderer from the beginning and does not stand in the truth, because there is no truth in him. When he lies, he speaks according to his own nature, for he is a liar and the father of lies. ⁴⁵ But because I tell the truth, you do not believe me. ⁴⁶ Which of you convicts me of sin? If I tell the truth, why do you not believe me? ⁴⁷ Whoever is from God hears the words of God. The reason you do not hear them is that you are not from God.”

⁴⁸ The Jews answered him, “Are we not right in saying that you are a Samaritan and have a demon?” ⁴⁹ Jesus answered, “I do not have a demon; but I honor my Father, and you dishonor me. ⁵⁰ Yet I do not seek my own glory; there is one who seeks it and he is the judge. ⁵¹ Very truly, I tell you, whoever keeps my word will never see death.” ⁵² The Jews said to him, “Now we know that you have a demon. Abraham died, and so did the prophets; yet you say, ‘Whoever keeps my word will never taste death.’ ⁵³ Are you greater than our father Abraham, who died? The prophets also died. Who do you claim to be?” ⁵⁴ Jesus answered, “If I glorify myself, my glory is nothing. It is my Father who glorifies me, he of whom you say, ‘He is our God,’ ⁵⁵ though you do not know him. But I know him; if I would say that I do not know him, I would be a liar like you. But I do know him and I keep his word. ⁵⁶ Your ancestor Abraham rejoiced that he would see my day; he saw it and was glad.” ⁵⁷ Then the Jews said to him, “You are not yet fifty years old, and have you seen Abraham?”^c ⁵⁸ Jesus

^a Other ancient authorities read you do what you have heard from your father

^b Other ancient authorities read If you are Abraham’s children, then do

^c Other ancient authorities read has Abraham seen you?

8.31–59: Exposing lies. 31–32: As judge, Jesus examines their testimony according to his criterion for true discipleship. 31: Believed in him, it is unclear whether this is genuine or a deception. 33: Abraham had two sons, Ishmael (slave) and Isaac (free); their claim that Isaac was their father is proven false. 34–36: Slaves of sin (Ishmael) do not remain in the house, but free sons (Isaac) do (Gen 21.9–14). 37: They are children of Ishmael, sinners trying to kill Jesus. The criterion “continue in my word” (v. 31) is verified: There is no place in you for my word. 38–42: Abraham did not try to kill heavenly messengers at Mamre (Gen 18.1–9). Masking their illegitimacy, they lie, claiming God as father. But if he were, they would do what their Father does, love Jesus. 43: The criterion repeated. 44: Their paternity is revealed: the devil, a murderer, and a liar, like them. 48: Samaritan, not one of us; see 4.4n. Have a demon, not of God. 49–50: Denial of demon charge because Jesus honors God and God honors him. 51–52: Jesus says “never see death,” which they misunderstand as “never taste death.” 54–55: God makes Jesus who he is, but they do not know God; Jesus does not lie, for he knows God and keeps his word. 56–58: Jesus is “greater” than Abraham (v. 53) because Abraham came into being and died but Jesus as divine (I am; see said to them, “Very truly, I tell you, before Abraham was, I am.”⁵⁹ So they picked up stones to throw at him, but Jesus hid himself and went out of the temple.

9 As he walked along, he saw a man blind from birth.² His disciples asked him, “Rabbi, who sinned, this man or his parents, that he was born blind?”³ Jesus answered, “Neither this man nor his parents sinned; he was born blind so that God’s works might be revealed in him.⁴ We^a must work the works of him who sent me^b while it is day; night is coming when no one can work.⁵ As long as I am in the world, I am the light of the world.”⁶ When he had said this, he spat on the ground and made mud with the saliva and spread the mud on the man’s eyes,⁷ saying to him, “Go, wash in the pool of Siloam” (which means Sent). Then he went and washed and came back able to see.⁸ The neighbors and those who had seen him before as a beggar began to ask, “Is this not the man who used to sit and beg?”⁹ Some were saying, “It is he.” Others were saying, “No, but it is someone like him.” He kept saying, “I am the man.”¹⁰ But they kept asking him, “Then how were your eyes opened?”¹¹ He answered, “The man called Jesus made mud, spread it on my eyes, and said to me, ‘Go to Siloam and wash.’ Then I went and washed and received my sight.”¹² They said to him, “Where is he?” He said, “I do not know.”

¹³ They brought to the Pharisees the man who had formerly been blind.¹⁴ Now it was a sabbath day when Jesus made the mud and opened his eyes.¹⁵ Then the Pharisees also began to ask him how he had received his sight. He said to them, “He put mud on my eyes. Then I washed, and now I see.”¹⁶ Some of the Pharisees said, “This man is not from God, for he does not observe the sabbath.” But others said, “How can a man who is a sinner perform such signs?” And they were divided.¹⁷ So they said again to the blind man, “What do you say about him? It was your eyes he opened.” He said, “He is a prophet.”

¹⁸ The Jews did not believe that he had been blind and had received his sight until they called the parents of the man who had received his sight¹⁹ and asked them, “Is this your son, who you say was born blind? How then does he now see?”²⁰ His parents answered, “We know that this is our son, and that he was born blind;²¹ but we do not know how it is that now he sees, nor do we know who opened his eyes. Ask him; he is of age. He will speak for himself.”²² His parents said this because they were afraid of the Jews; for the Jews had already agreed that anyone who confessed Jesus^c to be the Messiah^d would be put out of the synagogue.²³ Therefore his parents said, “He is of age; ask him.”

²⁴ So for the second time they called the man who had been blind, and they said to him, “Give glory to God! We know that this man is a sinner.”²⁵ He answered, “I do not know whether he is a sinner. One thing I do know, that though I was blind, now I see.”²⁶ They said to him, “What did he do to you? How did he open your eyes?”²⁷ He answered them, “I have told you already, and you would not listen. Why do you want to hear it again? Do you also want to become his disciples?”²⁸ Then they reviled him, saying, “You are his disciple, but we are disciples of Moses.²⁹ We know that God has spoken to Moses, but as for this man, we do not know where he comes from.”³⁰ The man answered, “Here is an astonishing thing! You do not know where he comes from, and

^a Other ancient authorities read I

^b Other ancient authorities read us

^c Gk him

^d Or the Christ

8.28.) is uncreated and imperishable. 59: Trying to stone Jesus, they prove their guilt.

9.1–41: A sign, trial, and testimony. 1–12: The healing. 1–3: Human explanations for blindness are rejected; now it reveals God’s works. 4–5: Day includes sunlight and light of the world (8.12). 6–7: As a cure Jesus uses saliva and mud (cf. Mk 8.23), then commands washing. Pool, cf. 5.1–9. Siloam, an ancient pool in Jerusalem (see 2 Kings 20.20).

9.13–34: Jesus tried in absentia. 13–17: The man whose sight had been restored repeats the facts and interprets them: Jesus is a prophet (see 6.14). 18–23: To prove whether he was born blind, his parents testify affirmatively that their son was born blind, but they refuse to speak about the healer and the cure because they fear reprisals for witnessing to Jesus (see 12.42–43). 24–27: Jesus is now on trial. The healed man mocks their demand to repeat the facts of the case, already narrated twice: Will hearing it again make them disciples? 30–33:

yet he opened my eyes.³¹ We know that God does not listen to sinners, but he does listen to one who worships him and obeys his will.

³² Never since the world began has it been heard that anyone opened the eyes of a person born blind.³³ If this man were not from God, he could do nothing.”³⁴ They answered him, “You were born entirely in sins, and are you trying to teach us?” And they drove him out.

³⁵ Jesus heard that they had driven him out, and when he found him, he said, “Do you believe in the Son of Man?”^a ³⁶ He answered, “And who is he, sir?^b Tell me, so that I may believe in him.” ³⁷ Jesus said to him, “You have seen him, and the one speaking with you is he.” ³⁸ He said, “Lord,^b I believe.” And he worshiped him. ³⁹ Jesus said, “I came into this world for judgment so that those who do not see may see, and those who do see may become blind.” ⁴⁰ Some of the Pharisees near him heard this and said to him, “Surely we are not blind, are we?” ⁴¹ Jesus said to them, “If you were blind, you would not have sin. But now that you say, ‘We see,’ your sin remains.

10 “Very truly, I tell you, anyone who does not enter the sheepfold by the gate but climbs in by another way is a thief and a bandit.² The one who enters by the gate is the shepherd of the sheep.³ The gatekeeper opens the gate for him, and the sheep hear his voice. He calls his own sheep by name and leads them out.⁴ When he has brought out all his own, he goes ahead of them, and the sheep follow him because they know his voice.⁵ They will not follow a stranger, but they will run from him because they do not know the voice of strangers.”⁶ Jesus used this figure of speech with them, but they did not understand what he was saying to them.

⁷ So again Jesus said to them, “Very truly, I tell you, I am the gate for the sheep.⁸ All who came before me are thieves and bandits; but the sheep did not listen to them.⁹ I am the gate. Whoever enters by me will be saved, and will come in and go out and find pasture.¹⁰ The thief comes only to steal and kill and destroy. I came that they may have life, and have it abundantly.

¹¹ “I am the good shepherd. The good shepherd lays down his life for the sheep.¹² The hired hand, who is not the shepherd and does not own the sheep, sees the wolf coming and leaves the sheep and runs away—and the wolf snatches them and scatters them.¹³ The hired hand runs away because a hired hand does not care for the sheep.¹⁴ I am the good shepherd. I know my own and my own know me,¹⁵ just as the Father knows me and I know the Father. And I lay down my life for the sheep.¹⁶ I have other sheep that do not belong to this fold. I must bring them also, and they will listen to my voice. So there will be one flock, one shepherd.¹⁷ For this reason the Father loves me, because I lay down my life in order to take it up again.¹⁸ No one takes^c it from me, but I lay it down of my own accord. I have power to lay it down, and I have power to take it up again. I have received this command from my Father.”

¹⁹ Again the Jews were divided because of these words.²⁰ Many of them were saying,

^a Other ancient authorities read the Son of God

^b Sir and Lord translate the same Greek word

^c Other ancient authorities read has taken

Their judgment is judged: if Jesus were not from God, he could do nothing. 34: The disciples attributed blindness to sin (9.2); now the court judges the man to be a sinner. His fate is that which his parents feared: expulsion from the synagogue.

9.35–41: Final verdicts. Jesus vindicates the man by leading him into greater believing. He knows that the Son of Man is Jesus; his knowledge becomes belief. Ironically, Jesus makes the blind see and the sighted blind (see 12.40). Physical blindness is morally neutral, not so false claims to sight.

10.1–21: Authentic shepherding (cf. Ezek 34.11–16; Pss 23; 78.52; 95.7; Isa 40.10–11). 6: Jesus’ parables and words are generally misunderstood (Mk 4.33–34; 16.25,29). 7–9: I am the gate, Jesus’ exclusive claim to be broker of salvation and pasturage. 11: Good, better “noble,” a word applied to the death of a soldier or hero when voluntarily accepted, which benefitted the city, when experienced virtuously, when the hero died unconquered, and which was awarded posthumous honors. 12–13: Hirelings lack virtue, justice, and courage. 14–15: The noble shepherd manifests justice: his death benefits the sheep and is performed virtuously. 16: Recruiting envisioned (4:35–38; 17.20–21). 17–18: Noble death: voluntary, virtuously, and unconquered in death (cf. 5.26), a power that “He has a demon and is out of his mind. Why listen to him?”²¹ Others were saying, “These are not the words of one who has a demon. Can a demon open the eyes of the blind?”

²² At that time the festival of the Dedication took place in Jerusalem. It was winter,²³ and Jesus was walking in the temple, in the portico of Solomon.²⁴ So the Jews gathered around him and said to him, “How long will you keep us in suspense? If you are the Messiah,^a tell us plainly.”²⁵ Jesus answered, “I have told you, and you do not believe. The works that I do in my Father’s name testify to me;²⁶ but you do not believe, because you do not belong to my sheep.²⁷ My sheep hear my voice. I know them, and they follow me.²⁸ I give them eternal life, and they will never perish. No one will snatch them out of my hand.²⁹ What my Father has given me is greater than all else, and no one can snatch it out of the Father’s hand.^b ³⁰ The Father and I are one.”

³¹ The Jews took up stones again to stone him.³² Jesus replied, “I have shown you many good works from the Father. For which of these are you going to stone me?”³³ The Jews answered, “It is not for a good work that we are going to stone you, but for blasphemy, because you, though only a human being, are making yourself God.”³⁴ Jesus answered, “Is it not written in your law,^c ‘I said, you are gods?’³⁵ If those to whom the word of God came were called ‘gods’—and the scripture cannot be annulled—³⁶ can you say that the one whom the Father has sanctified and sent into the world is blaspheming because

I said, ‘I am God’s Son’?”³⁷ If I am not doing the works of my Father, then do not believe me.³⁸ But if I do them, even though you do not believe me, believe the works, so that you may know and understand^d that the Father is in me and I am in the Father.”³⁹ Then they tried to arrest him again, but he escaped from their hands.

⁴⁰ He went away again across the Jordan to the place where John had been baptizing earlier, and he remained there.⁴¹ Many came to him, and they were saying, “John performed no sign, but everything that John said about this man was true.”⁴² And many believed in him there.

11 Now a certain man was ill, Lazarus of Bethany, the village of Mary and her sister Martha.² Mary was the one who anointed the Lord with perfume and wiped his feet with her hair; her brother Lazarus was ill.³ So the sisters sent a message to Jesus,^e “Lord, he whom you love is ill.”⁴ But when Jesus heard it, he said, “This illness does not lead to death; rather it is for God’s glory, so that the Son of God may be glorified through it.”⁵ Accordingly, though Jesus loved Martha and her sister and Lazarus,⁶ after

^a Or the Christ

^b Other ancient authorities read My Father who has given them to me is greater than all, and no one can snatch them out of the Father’s hand

^c Other ancient authorities read in the law

^d Other ancient authorities lack and understand; others read and believe belongs exclusively to God. 19–21: Cf. 7.20; 8.48; 9.16; 10.20.

^e Gk him

10.22–42: Trial in the Temple. This episode resembles the trial before the Sanhedrin in the Synoptic Gospels, especially the question, “Are you the Messiah?” (Mt 26.62–64). 22–24: Dedication (Hanukkah; see 1 Macc 4.36–59), the fourth holy day that Jesus attended in Jerusalem. 25–27: Because they act in bad faith and do not judge his works properly, they cannot be his disciples. In contrast, true sheep hear his voice, he acknowledges them, and they follow him. 28–29: Eternal life, the promise made in v. 10 is abundant life. Death cannot snatch them from the hands of Jesus or the Father: both have power over death (5.21–29). 30–32: Jesus’ signs and works are evidence of his agency from God, as the healed blind man had said earlier (8.30–33). Stoning was the penalty for blasphemy (Lev 24.16). 33–36: Jesus defends himself against the charge that he is making himself God by quoting Ps 82.6, which is interpreted as declaring some mortals to be “gods,” that is, immortals. All the more is Jesus holy, because God sanctified and sent him. 37–38: Jesus’ works attest to his relationship with the Father. 40–42: Signs do not persuade the Jerusalemites, but the signs work where John testified to Jesus (1.29–34).

11.1–45: The raising of Lazarus. 1–16: Jesus delays. 1–2: Introducing beloved disciples: Lazarus, Mary, Martha. Bethany, see v. 18. Anointed, see 12.3. 3–6: Hearing of Lazarus’s illness, Jesus reacts predictably (2.4; 4.48; 7.8–9); he will not act until his time is ripe, for God’s glory and that of the Son of God (cf. 9.3). The delay allows having heard that Lazarus^a was ill, he stayed two days longer in the place where he was.

⁷Then after this he said to the disciples, “Let us go to Judea again.” ⁸The disciples said to him, “Rabbi, the Jews were just now trying to stone you, and are you going there again?” ⁹Jesus answered, “Are there not twelve hours of daylight? Those who walk during the day do not stumble, because they see the light of this world. ¹⁰But those who walk at night stumble, because the light is not in them.” ¹¹After saying this, he told them, “Our friend Lazarus has fallen asleep, but I am going there to awaken him.” ¹²The disciples said to him, “Lord, if he has fallen asleep, he will be all right.” ¹³Jesus, however, had been speaking about his death, but they thought that he was referring merely to sleep. ¹⁴Then Jesus told them plainly, “Lazarus is dead. ¹⁵For your sake I am glad I was not there, so that you may believe. But let us go to him.” ¹⁶Thomas, who was called the Twin,^b said to his fellow disciples, “Let us also go, that we may die with him.”

¹⁷When Jesus arrived, he found that Lazarus^a had already been in the tomb four days. ¹⁸Now Bethany was near Jerusalem, some two miles^c away, ¹⁹and many of the Jews had come to Martha and Mary to console them about their brother. ²⁰When Martha heard that Jesus was coming, she went and met him, while Mary stayed at home. ²¹Martha said to Jesus, “Lord, if you had been here, my brother would not have died. ²²But even now I know that God will give you whatever you ask of him.” ²³Jesus said to her, “Your brother will rise again.” ²⁴Martha said to him, “I know that he will rise again in the resurrection on the last day.” ²⁵Jesus said to her, “I am the resurrection and the life.^d Those who believe in me, even though they die, will live, ²⁶and everyone who lives and believes in me will never die. Do you believe this?” ²⁷She said to him, “Yes, Lord, I believe that you are the Messiah,^e the Son of God, the one coming into the world.”

²⁸When she had said this, she went back and called her sister Mary, and told her privately, “The Teacher is here and is calling for you.” ²⁹And when she heard it, she got up quickly and went to him. ³⁰Now Jesus had not yet come to the village, but was still at the place where Martha had met him. ³¹The Jews who were with her in the house, consoling her, saw Mary get up quickly and go out. They followed her because they thought that she was going to the tomb to weep there. ³²When Mary came where Jesus was and saw him, she knelt at his feet and said to him, “Lord, if you had been here, my brother would not have died.” ³³When Jesus saw her weeping, and the Jews who came with her also weeping, he was greatly disturbed in spirit and deeply moved. ³⁴He said, “Where have you laid him?” They said to him, “Lord, come and see.” ³⁵Jesus began to weep. ³⁶So the Jews said, “See how he loved him!” ³⁷But some of them said, “Could not he who opened the eyes of the blind man have kept this man from dying?”

³⁸Then Jesus, again greatly disturbed, came to the tomb. It was a cave, and a stone

^a Gk he

^b Gk Didymus

^c Gk fifteen stadia

^d Other ancient authorities lack and the life

^e Or the Christ

the severity of the illness to increase. 7–8: Love characterizes Bethany, hate characterizes Judea. Ironically, raising Lazarus will cause Jesus’ death (vv. 45–52). 9–10: Cf. 9.4–5. 11–15: Lazarus’s sleep is misunderstood as restorative sleep, but Jesus means that he is dead. Sleep is a frequent euphemism for death; see Ps 13.3; Acts 7.60, textual note a; 1 Cor 15.6, textual note b; 1 Thess 4.13, textual note b. 15: The severity of the disease enhances honor of the healer: cf. 5.5; 9.1.

11.17–37: The lament of the sisters. 17–19: Jerusalemites console the sisters and criticize Jesus. 20–23: Reproach and implicit petition are followed by the statement that “Your brother will rise,” which Martha misunderstands. 24–26: Misunderstanding is clarified. 27: Martha still misunderstands: her belief in Jesus as the Messiah, the Son of God does not include belief that he is “the resurrection and the life” (v. 25). 28–30: Private conversations between men and women are unusual (cf. 4.6–25; 20.16–18). 33–35: First Mary weeps, then the Jews, then Jesus.

11.38–44: Calling forth the dead. Raising Lazarus, the final, greatest sign, proves Jesus’ earlier claim in 5.25–29 but is also the catalyst for his death. 38a: Greatly disturbed, one of few emotions ascribed to Jesus; cf.

was lying against it.³⁹ Jesus said, “Take away the stone.” Martha, the sister of the dead man, said to him, “Lord, already there is a stench because he has been dead four days.”

⁴⁰ Jesus said to her, “Did I not tell you that if you believed, you would see the glory of God?” ⁴¹ So they took away the stone. And Jesus looked upward and said, “Father, I thank you for having heard me. ⁴² I knew that you always hear me, but I have said this for the sake of the crowd standing here, so that they may believe that you sent me.” ⁴³ When he had said this, he cried with a loud voice, “Lazarus, come out!” ⁴⁴ The dead man came out, his hands and feet bound with strips of cloth, and his face wrapped in a cloth. Jesus said to them, “Unbind him, and let him go.”

⁴⁵ Many of the Jews therefore, who had come with Mary and had seen what Jesus did, believed in him. ⁴⁶ But some of them went to the Pharisees and told them what he had done. ⁴⁷ So the chief priests and the Pharisees called a meeting of the council, and said, “What are we to do? This man is performing many signs. ⁴⁸ If we let him go on like this, everyone will believe in him, and the Romans will come and destroy both our holy place^a and our nation.” ⁴⁹ But one of them, Caiaphas, who was high priest that year, said to them, “You know nothing at all! ⁵⁰ You do not understand that it is better for you to have one man die for the people than to have the whole nation destroyed.” ⁵¹ He did not say this on his own, but being high priest that year he prophesied that Jesus was about to die for the nation, ⁵² and not for the nation only, but to gather into one the dispersed children of God. ⁵³ So from that day on they planned to put him to death.

⁵⁴ Jesus therefore no longer walked about openly among the Jews, but went from there to a town called Ephraim in the region near the wilderness; and he remained there with the disciples.

⁵⁵ Now the Passover of the Jews was near, and many went up from the country to Jerusalem before the Passover to purify themselves. ⁵⁶ They were looking for Jesus and were asking one another as they stood in the temple, “What do you think? Surely he will not come to the festival, will he?” ⁵⁷ Now the chief priests and the Pharisees had given orders that anyone who knew where Jesus^b was should let them know, so that they might arrest him.

12 Six days before the Passover Jesus came to Bethany, the home of Lazarus, whom he had raised from the dead. ² There they gave a dinner for him. Martha served, and Lazarus was one of those at the table with him. ³ Mary took a pound of costly perfume made of pure nard, anointed Jesus’ feet, and wiped them^c with her hair. The house was filled with the fragrance of the perfume. ⁴ But Judas Iscariot, one of his disciples (the one who was about to betray him), said, ⁵ “Why was this perfume not sold for three hundred denarii^d and the money given to the poor?” ⁶ (He said this not because he cared about the poor, but because he was a thief; he kept the common purse and used to steal what was put into it.) ⁷ Jesus said, “Leave her alone. She bought it^e so that she might keep it for the day of my burial. ⁸ You always have the

^a Or our temple; Greek our place

^b Gk he

^c Gk his feet

^d Three hundred denarii would be nearly a year’s wages for a laborer

^e Gk lacks She bought it

“weary” (4.6), “troubled” about his own death (12.27; 13.21). 38b–39: The cave tomb was closed by a round stone rolled in front (Lk 24.2).

11.45–57: The plot to kill Jesus intensifies. 47–48: John did not envy Jesus’ success (3.25–30), but this court, threatened by his success, envies him: his honor and fame mean their disgrace. 49–52: Ironically Caiaphas (who was high priest 18–36 CE) repeats the virtue of the “noble shepherd” (see 10.11n.): one who dies for others. While Caiaphas was promoting Jesus’ destruction, he states that Jesus’ death will benefit the people. The audience knows the secret: Jesus’ enemy, this unwitting prophet; death sentence, death to benefit the people; saving the nation by killing Jesus, Jesus saves it by voluntary death. 53: Another trial in absentia (7:50–52). 54: Ephraim, also Aphairema, ca. 12 mi (20 km) north of Jerusalem. 55–57: Another division among the people: folk from the country look for Jesus, while Pharisees’ spies are seeking to arrest Jesus.

12.1–11: Jesus returns to Bethany, the home of beloved disciples. 5: Costly perfume: three hundred denarii poor with you, but you do not always have me.”

⁹When the great crowd of the Jews learned that he was there, they came not only because of Jesus but also to see Lazarus, whom he had raised from the dead. ¹⁰So the chief priests planned to put Lazarus to death as well, ¹¹since it was on account of him that many of the Jews were deserting and were believing in Jesus.

¹²The next day the great crowd that had come to the festival heard that Jesus was coming to Jerusalem. ¹³So they took branches of palm trees and went out to meet him, shouting, “Hosanna!

Blessed is the one who comes in the name of the Lord—
the King of Israel!”

¹⁴Jesus found a young donkey and sat on it; as it is written:

¹⁵“Do not be afraid, daughter of Zion.
Look, your king is coming,
sitting on a donkey’s colt!”

¹⁶His disciples did not understand these things at first; but when Jesus was glorified, then they remembered that these things had been written of him and had been done to him. ¹⁷So the crowd that had been with him when he called Lazarus out of the tomb and raised him from the dead continued to testify.^a ¹⁸It was also because they heard that he had performed this sign that the crowd went to meet him. ¹⁹The Pharisees then said to one another, “You see, you can do nothing. Look, the world has gone after him!”

²⁰Now among those who went up to worship at the festival were some Greeks. ²¹They came to Philip, who was from Bethsaida in Galilee, and said to him, “Sir, we wish to see Jesus.” ²²Philip went and told Andrew; then Andrew and Philip went and told Jesus. ²³Jesus answered them, “The hour has come for the Son of Man to be glorified. ²⁴Very truly, I tell you, unless a grain of wheat falls into the earth and dies, it remains just a single grain; but if it dies, it bears much fruit. ²⁵Those who love their life lose it, and those who hate their life in this world will keep it for eternal life. ²⁶Whoever serves me must follow me, and where I am, there will my servant be also. Whoever serves me, the Father will honor.

²⁷“Now my soul is troubled. And what should I say—’Father, save me from this hour’? No, it is for this reason that I have come to this hour. ²⁸Father, glorify your name.” Then a voice came from heaven, “I have glorified it, and I will glorify it again.” ²⁹The crowd standing there heard it and said that it was thunder. Others said, “An angel has spoken to him.” ³⁰Jesus answered, “This voice has come for your sake, not for mine. ³¹Now is the judgment of this world; now the ruler of this world will be driven out. ³²And I, when I am lifted up from the earth, will draw all people^b to myself.” ³³He said this to indicate the kind of death he was to die. ³⁴The crowd answered him, “We have heard from the law that the Messiah^c remains forever. How can you say that the Son of Man must be lifted up? Who is this Son of Man?” ³⁵Jesus

^a Other ancient authorities read with him began to testify that he had called . . . from the dead

^b Other ancient authorities read all things

^c Or the Christ

was the equivalent of a year’s wages. 7: The anointing, a gesture of hospitality, also anticipates Jesus’ burial. 9: As in 6.26–29, people fixate on Jesus’ signs rather than on him. 10–11: Lazarus also threatened with death, but this time for Jesus’ sake.

12.12–36: Confusion in Jerusalem. 12–15: Cf. Mt 21.1–9; Mk 11.1–10; Lk 19.28–38. The people quote Ps 118.26; Jesus’ entry is interpreted as a fulfillment of Zeph 3.16; Zech 9.9. 16: These events, typically, are opaque until Jesus is glorified. 17–19: Again Lazarus draws crowds, provoking hostile reactions from the religious authorities (11.47–52; 12.9–11). 20: Some Greeks, visitors for Passover, most likely Greek-speaking Jews. 21–22: Compare 1.43–44. 23: Hour . . . to be glorified, Jesus’ death; cf. 2.4, challenging these volunteers with difficult discipleship. 24: Unless, an uncompromising demand for disciples (3.3; 8.24; 13.8). The metaphor of seeds dying in order to grow and live explains Jesus’ death and return to God. 25: For this paradoxical saying, cf. Mt 10.39; Mk 8.3; Lk 9.24; 14.26. 26: True followers serve Jesus and share his relationship with God, who honors them. 27–28: This resembles Jesus’ prayers in Mk 14.34–36. Here, however, the prayer is answered. 29: Again the crowd is divided. 31: Ruler of this world, Satan; see also 14.30n.; 16.11. 32: Lifted up, referring both to the shame of death by crucifixion said to them, “The light is with you for a little longer. Walk while you have the light, so that the darkness may not overtake you. If you walk in the darkness, you do not know where you are going.³⁶ While you have the light, believe in the light, so that you may become children of light.”

After Jesus had said this, he departed and hid from them.³⁷ Although he had performed so many signs in their presence, they did not believe in him.³⁸ This was to fulfill the word spoken by the prophet Isaiah:

“Lord, who has believed our message, and to whom has the arm of the Lord
been revealed?”

³⁹ And so they could not believe, because Isaiah also said,

⁴⁰ “He has blinded their eyes and hardened their heart,
so that they might not look with their eyes, and understand with their heart and turn—
and I would heal them.”

⁴¹ Isaiah said this because^a he saw his glory and spoke about him.⁴² Nevertheless many, even of the authorities, believed in him. But because of the Pharisees they did not confess it, for fear that they would be put out of the synagogue;⁴³ for they loved human glory more than the glory that comes from God.

⁴⁴ Then Jesus cried aloud: “Whoever believes in me believes not in me but in him who sent me.⁴⁵ And whoever sees me sees him who sent me.⁴⁶ I have come as light into the world, so that everyone who believes in me should not remain in the darkness.⁴⁷ I do not judge anyone who hears my words and does not keep them, for I came not to judge the world, but to save the world.⁴⁸ The one who rejects me and does not receive my word has a judge;

on the last day the word that I have spoken will serve as judge,⁴⁹ for I have not spoken on my own, but the Father who sent me has himself given me a commandment about what to say and what to speak.⁵⁰ And I know that his commandment is eternal life. What I speak, therefore, I speak just as the Father has told me.”

13 Now before the festival of the Passover, Jesus knew that his hour had come to depart from this world and go to the Father. Having loved his own who were in the world, he loved them to the end.² The devil had already put it into the heart of Judas son of Simon Iscariot to betray him. And during supper³ Jesus, knowing that the Father had given all things into his hands, and that he had come from God and was going to God,⁴ got up from the table,^b took off his outer robe, and tied a towel around himself.⁵ Then he poured water into a basin and began to wash the disciples’ feet and to wipe them with the towel that was tied around him.⁶ He came to Simon Peter, who said to him, “Lord, are you going to wash my feet?”⁷ Jesus answered, “You do not know now what I am doing, but later you will understand.”⁸ Peter said to him, “You will never wash my feet.” Jesus answered, “Unless I wash you, you have no share with me.”⁹ Simon Peter said to him, “Lord, not my feet only but also my hands and my head!”¹⁰ Jesus said to him, “One who has bathed does not need to wash, except for the feet,^c but is entirely clean. And you^d are clean, though not all of you.”¹¹ For he knew

^a Other ancient witnesses read when

^b Gk from supper

^c Other ancient authorities lack except for the feet

^d The Greek word for you here is plural

and the honor of resurrection (see 3.13). 35–36: Cf. 3.19–20; 11.9–10.

12.37–50: Judgment time. 37: Signs fail to create acceptance of Jesus (6.26–29; 11.45–52). 38–40: Isaiah prophesied failure: a rejected message (Isa 53.1), and blind eyes (Isa 6.10). 41: Saw his glory, the eternal Jesus appeared to the prophet Isaiah, as he had to Abraham (cf. 8.56; Isa 6.1–6). 42–43: Fear of expulsion paralyzed even those who believed, like the parents of the blind man (9.22). 44–45: The only issue for judgment is whether Jesus is God’s agent. 47: Repeats 3.16–17; yet Jesus indeed judges in 8.15–16, 31–59.

13.1–20: Foot washing. 1–3: Whereas 1.1–18 stressed Jesus’ coming into the world, 13.1–3 focuses on his departure from this world. 1: In John the Passover begins on Friday (see 19.14); contrast Mk.14.12–16; Lk 22.15. 4–5: Dressed as a servant, Jesus washes their feet, a reversal of roles. 6–11: Simon Peter challenges Jesus, who demands compliance: Unless, the familiar demand (3.3; 6.53; 12.24). By requesting a total bath, Simon misunderstands Jesus, who states that only this washing is necessary. 11: All disciples are clean except the traitor, who was to betray him; for this reason he said, “Not all of you are clean.”

¹² After he had washed their feet, had put on his robe, and had returned to the table, he said to them, “Do you know what I have done to you?” ¹³ You call me Teacher and Lord—and you are right, for that is what I am. ¹⁴ So if I, your Lord and Teacher, have washed your feet, you also ought to wash one another’s feet. ¹⁵ For I have set you an example, that you also should do as I have done to you. ¹⁶ Very truly, I tell you, servants^a are not greater than their master, nor are messengers greater than the one who sent them. ¹⁷ If you know these things, you are blessed if you do them. ¹⁸ I am not speaking of all of you; I know whom I have chosen. But it is to fulfill the scripture, ‘The one who ate my bread^b has lifted his heel against me.’ ¹⁹ I tell you this now, before it occurs, so that when it does occur, you may believe that I am he.^c ²⁰ Very truly, I tell you, whoever receives one whom I send receives me; and whoever receives me receives him who sent me.”

²¹ After saying this Jesus was troubled in spirit, and declared, “Very truly, I tell you, one of you will betray me.” ²² The disciples looked at one another, uncertain of whom he was speaking. ²³ One of his disciples—the one whom Jesus loved—was reclining next to him; ²⁴ Simon Peter therefore motioned to him to ask Jesus of whom he was speaking. ²⁵ So while reclining next to Jesus, he asked him, “Lord, who is it?” ²⁶ Jesus answered, “It is the one to whom I give this piece of bread when I have dipped it in the dish.”^d So when he had dipped the piece of bread, he gave it to Judas son of Simon Iscariot.^e ²⁷ After he received the piece of bread,^f Satan entered into him. Jesus said to him, “Do quickly what you are going to do.” ²⁸ Now no one at the table knew why he said this to him. ²⁹ Some thought that, because Judas had the common purse, Jesus was telling him, “Buy what we need for the festival”; or, that he should give something to the poor. ³⁰ So, after receiving the piece of bread, he immediately went out. And it was night.

³¹ When he had gone out, Jesus said, “Now the Son of Man has been glorified, and God has been glorified in him. ³² If God has been glorified in him,^g God will also glorify him in himself and will glorify him at once. ³³ Little children, I am with you only a little longer. You will look for me; and as I said to the Jews so now I say to you, ‘Where I am going, you cannot come.’ ³⁴ I give you a new commandment, that you love one another. Just as I have loved you, you also should love one another. ³⁵ By this everyone will know that you are my disciples, if you have love for one another.”

³⁶ Simon Peter said to him, “Lord, where are you going?” Jesus answered, “Where I am

^a Gk slaves

^b Other ancient authorities read ate bread with me

^c Gk I am

^d Gk dipped it

^e Other ancient authorities read Judas Iscariot son of Simon; others, Judas son of Simon from Karyot (Kerioth)

^f Gk After the piece of bread

^g Other ancient authorities lack If God has been glorified in him already possessed by the devil (v. 2). 12–14: Dressed again as Teacher and Lord, Jesus explains the foot washing as example of a master serving his servants (cf. Mt 10.24; Lk 6.40). 15–16: Foot washing in 13.4–11 is a one-time status transformation of the disciples, but in 13.12–16, a ceremony exemplifying and confirming that the greater serves the lesser. The master serves, so too the disciples. 17: First beatitude: acting upon wisdom (cf. 20.29n.).

13.18–19: Judas exposed. The traitor identified in 13.11 is now exposed. 18: Ps 41.9; see v. 26. 19: I am he, see 8.28,58. 20: Receiving the agent means acknowledging the sender. 23: The one whom Jesus loved, see 19.26; 20.2; 21.7; 21.20; he is the apparent narrator (21.24). 26–27: An unusual gesture, because individuals dipped in a common bowl. 29: Cf. 12.6. 30: Night, a terrible time: when Nicodemus comes (3.2), when no one can work (9.4), what people love (3.19), hence the time for evil.

13.31–38: Tender words. 31–32: To outsiders his death is shame; to insiders, the occasion when God honors the one who honors him. Death is not Jesus’ punishment but his voluntary obedience to God. 33: Restatement of 7.33–34, to be explained in 14.1–3. Little children, cf. 1 Jn 2.1,12,28; etc. 34–35: First statement of the love commandment (15.12–17). Love, faithfulness and loyalty, not material support (1 Jn 3.17). 36–38: Despite Jesus’ remark in 13.33, Simon challenges Jesus with a question and a claim: “I will lay down my life for you” (cf. 10.11,15,17). But shame, not honor awaits Simon in his triple denial of Jesus (18.15–27).

going, you cannot follow me now; but you will follow afterward.”³⁷ Peter said to him, “Lord, why can I not follow you now? I will lay down my life for you.”³⁸ Jesus answered, “Will you lay down your life for me? Very truly, I tell you, before the cock crows, you will have denied me three times.

14 “Do not let your hearts be troubled. Believe^a in God, believe also in me.² In my Father’s house there are many dwelling places. If it were not so, would I have told you that I go to prepare a place for you?^b ³ And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and will take you to myself, so that where I am, there you may be also. ⁴ And you know the way to the place where I am going.”^c ⁵ Thomas said to him, “Lord, we do not know where you are going. How can we know the way?” ⁶ Jesus said to him, “I am the way, and the truth, and the life. No one comes to the Father except through me. ⁷ If you know me, you will know^d my Father also. From now on you do know him and have seen him.”

⁸ Philip said to him, “Lord, show us the Father, and we will be satisfied.” ⁹ Jesus said to him, “Have I been with you all this time, Philip, and you still do not know me? Whoever has seen me has seen the Father. How can you say, ‘Show us the Father’? ¹⁰ Do you not believe that I am in the Father and the Father is in me? The words that I say to you I do not speak on my own; but the Father who dwells in me does his works. ¹¹ Believe me that I am in the Father and the Father is in me; but if you do not, then believe me because of the works themselves. ¹² Very truly, I tell you, the one who believes in me will also do the works that I do and, in fact, will do greater works than these, because I am going to the Father. ¹³ I will do whatever you ask in my name, so that the Father may be glorified in the Son. ¹⁴ If in my name you ask me^e for anything, I will do it.

¹⁵ “If you love me, you will keep^f my commandments. ¹⁶ And I will ask the Father, and he will give you another Advocate,^g to be with you forever. ¹⁷ This is the Spirit of truth, whom the world cannot receive, because it neither sees him nor knows him. You know him, because he abides with you, and he will be in^h you.

¹⁸ “I will not leave you orphaned; I am coming to you. ¹⁹ In a little while the world will no longer see me, but you will see me; because I live, you also will live. ²⁰ On that day you will know that I am in my Father, and you in me, and I in you. ²¹ They who have my command-

^a Or You believe

^b Or If it were not so, I would have told you; for I go to prepare a place for you

^c Other ancient authorities read Where I am going you know, and the way you know

^d Other ancient authorities read If you had known me, you would have known

^e Other ancient authorities lack me

^f Other ancient authorities read me, keep

^g Or Helper

^h Or among

14.1–14: The household of God. 1: Predictions of future crises should evoke loyalty in the disciples (14.27; 16.1–4,33). 2: House, not a building but household relationships; preparing a place means mediating a relationship between God and disciples. 3: Jesus never brings them to a place (17.15); “Where I am,” not a location, but relationship of mutual loyalty. 4–6: You know the way is misunderstood by Thomas who claims that they do not know either place or way. Jesus clarifies: “I am the way, and the truth and the life”; he is God’s unique, authentic broker (cf. 5.21,26; 6.44). 7: If they know Jesus, they know the Father, which illustrates relationships. 8–9: Knowing includes seeing, but not face to face (1.18). To see Jesus is to see God; to be in relationship with Jesus is to be such with God. 10–11: Like “house” (v. 2n.) in is not spatial but relational. To the two parts of the relationship (the Father and Jesus; Jesus and the disciples) a third is added: the Father and disciple, because Jesus is broker, related to God and representing God’s interests, just as he is related to the disciples and loyal to their interests. Thus the Father and the disciples are in relationship because Jesus is broker to both. 12: Relationship with Jesus gives access to God’s power to match and surpass Jesus’ works. 13–14: Petitionary prayer (ask) grounded in relationship (in my name); cf. Mt 21.22.

14.15–24: Knowing, loving, abiding. 15–17: Loving Jesus brings an Advocate (or “Paraclete”) who abides in those who know him. This Advocate brokers the relationship of Jesus and disciples. 18: Orphans, those lacking home and household relationships, are in crisis. 19: Confirmation of relationship with Jesus: he will return when raised and they will see and live. 20: Again, relationships are expressed by in, with Jesus as perfect mediator:

ments and keep them are those who love me; and those who love me will be loved by my Father, and I will love them and reveal myself to them.”²² Judas (not Iscariot) said to him, “Lord, how is it that you will reveal yourself to us, and not to the world?”²³ Jesus answered him, “Those who love me will keep my word, and my Father will love them, and we will come to them and make our home with them.²⁴ Whoever does not love me does not keep my words; and the word that you hear is not mine, but is from the Father who sent me.

²⁵ “I have said these things to you while I am still with you. ²⁶ But the Advocate,^a the Holy Spirit, whom the Father will send in my name, will teach you everything, and remind you of all that I have said to you. ²⁷ Peace I leave with you; my peace I give to you. I do not give to you as the world gives. Do not let your hearts be troubled, and do not let them be afraid. ²⁸ You heard me say to you, ‘I am going away, and I am coming to you.’ If you loved me, you would rejoice that I am going to the Father, because the Father is greater than I. ²⁹ And now I have told you this before it occurs, so that when it does occur, you may believe. ³⁰ I will no longer talk much with you, for the ruler of this world is coming. He has no power over me; ³¹ but I do as the Father has commanded me, so that the world may know that I love the Father. Rise, let us be on our way.

15 “I am the true vine, and my Father is the vinegrower. ² He removes every branch in me that bears no fruit. Every branch that bears fruit he prunes^b to make it bear more fruit. ³ You have already been cleansed^b by the word that I have spoken to you. ⁴ Abide in me as I abide in you. Just as the branch cannot bear fruit by itself unless it abides in the vine, neither can you unless you abide in me. ⁵ I am the vine, you are the branches. Those who abide in me and I in them bear much fruit, because apart from me you can do nothing. ⁶ Whoever does not abide in me is thrown away like a branch and withers; such branches are gathered, thrown into the fire, and burned. ⁷ If you abide in me, and my words abide in you, ask for whatever you wish, and it will be done for you. ⁸ My Father is glorified by this, that you bear much fruit and become^c my disciples. ⁹ As the Father has loved me, so I have loved you; abide in my love. ¹⁰ If you keep my commandments, you will abide in my love, just as I have kept my Father’s commandments and abide in his love. ¹¹ I have said these things to you so that my joy may be in you, and that your joy may be complete.

¹² “This is my commandment, that you love one another as I have loved you. ¹³ No one has greater love than this, to lay down one’s life for one’s friends. ¹⁴ You are my friends if you do what I command you. ¹⁵ I do not call you servants^d any longer, because the servant^e

^a Or Helper

^b The same Greek root refers to pruning and cleansing

^c Or be

^d Gk slaves

^e Gk slave

Jesus is in the Father and in them, and they are in him. 21: The same relationships are expressed through love. 22: Judas (see Lk 6.16; Acts 1.13) asks: is revelation only for insiders? 23–24: Jesus replies indirectly: Only insiders love him and keep his word. Only to insiders will Jesus and his Father come and make a home, which again is not a place but a relationship. Outsiders do not love Jesus or keep his words.

14.25–31: Comings and goings. 25–26: Now Jesus speaks, but the Advocate/Holy Spirit will speak later. The Advocate functions to link past and future, reminding them of Jesus’ words and teaching all things. The Spirit, then, is Jesus’ broker. 28: Going away, both Jesus’ death and return to God. 29: Forewarned about the crisis to come means forearmed. 30: Ruler of this world, either the father of lies and murder (8.44; 12.31), or the Roman emperor and his legions in Palestine; see also 16.11.

15.1–25: Exhortations: abide and love. 1–11: The first exhortation. Abide occurs nine times and is the focus of the exhortation. As in 14.1–3, it is not spatial but relational, referring to loyalty and faithfulness. On the image of the vine and God as the vinegrower, cf. Isa 5.1–7; Jer 2.21; Ezek 19.10–14; Mk 12.1–12 par. 3: The disciples are already cleansed (13.10); see also textual note b. 5–9: Argument from advantage: those abiding profit, those not abiding perish. 6: Cf. Mt 3.10; 7.19. 10: Keeping produces a durable relationship of loving: the disciples abide in Jesus’ love who abides in God’s love. 12–17: The second exhortation: Love. 14: Friends expresses the polite relationship of clients and patron. Pilate is a “friend” of Caesar, his patron, not an intimate (19.12). 15: Not ser-

does not know what the master is doing; but I have called you friends, because I have made known to you everything that I have heard from my Father. ¹⁶ You did not choose me but I chose you. And I appointed you to go and bear fruit, fruit that will last, so that the Father will give you whatever you ask him in my name. ¹⁷ I am giving you these commands so that you may love one another.

¹⁸ “If the world hates you, be aware that it hated me before it hated you. ¹⁹ If you belonged to the world,^a the world would love you as its own. Because you do not belong to the world, but I have chosen you out of the world—therefore the world hates you. ²⁰ Remember the word that I said to you, ‘Servants^b are not greater than their master.’ If they persecuted me, they will persecute you; if they kept my word, they will keep yours also. ²¹ But they will do all these things to you on account of my name, because they do not know him who sent me. ²² If I had not come and spoken to them, they would not have sin; but now they have no excuse for their sin. ²³ Whoever hates me hates my Father also. ²⁴ If I had not done among them the works that no one else did, they would not have sin. But now they have seen and hated both me and my Father. ²⁵ It was to fulfill the word that is written in their law, ‘They hated me without a cause.’

²⁶ “When the Advocate^c comes, whom I will send to you from the Father, the Spirit of truth who comes from the Father, he will testify on my behalf. ²⁷ You also are to testify because you have been with me from the beginning.

16 “I have said these things to you to keep you from stumbling. ² They will put you out of the synagogues. Indeed, an hour is coming when those who kill you will think that by doing so they are offering worship to God. ³ And they will do this because they have not known the Father or me. ⁴ But I have said these things to you so that when their hour comes you may remember that I told you about them.

“I did not say these things to you from the beginning, because I was with you. ⁵ But now I am going to him who sent me; yet none of you asks me, ‘Where are you going?’ ⁶ But because I have said these things to you, sorrow has filled your hearts. ⁷ Nevertheless I tell you the truth: it is to your advantage that I go away, for if I do not go away, the Advocate^c will not come to you; but if I go, I will send him to you. ⁸ And when he comes, he will prove the world wrong about^d sin and righteousness and judgment: ⁹ about sin, because they do not believe in me; ¹⁰ about righteousness, because I am going to the Father and you will see me no longer; ¹¹ about judgment, because the ruler of this world has been condemned.

¹² “I still have many things to say to you, but you cannot bear them now. ¹³ When the Spirit of truth comes, he will guide you into all the truth; for he will not speak on his own, but will speak whatever he hears, and he will declare to you the things that are to come.

^a Gk were of the world

^b Gk Slaves

^c Or Helper

^d Or convict the world of

vants, but not peers: see 13.13. 16: A return to the vine imagery of the first exhortation. 17: Love one another, the second exhortation ends as it began (15.12). 18–25: Exhortation on hatred, balancing the preceding exhortation on love. Hatred is proof that disciples belong to Jesus and not the world. 20: See 13.16. The disciples are both “friends” because Jesus brokers wisdom (see v. 14n.), and also servants because they are followers of the master (see 13.13). 22–24: When Jesus is hated, God who sent him is also hated. 25: Pss 35.19; 69.4.

15.26–27: Testifying. 26: The role of the Advocate (see 14.16n.) is not just forensic but also that of a mediator or broker. I will send, cf. “The Father will send” (14.26). 26: As in 8.13–14, there are two witnesses: here the Spirit and the disciples, both confirming Jesus’ role as unique broker.

16.1–15: What Jesus now has to say. 1–4a: Predictions defuse crises to come. 4b–7: Announcement of departure, which causes consternation. Yet his departure is an advantage, because he will send the Advocate (see 14.16n.), partly replacement and partly broker. 8: Like Jesus, the Advocate plays many roles, especially that of forensic witness. 11: Ruler of this world, see 12.31n. 12–15: The Advocate will clarify to the disciples both things said and not said. As Jesus’ agent and broker, he looks back to Jesus’ past remarks and looks to what is forthcoming.

¹⁴ He will glorify me, because he will take what is mine and declare it to you. ¹⁵ All that the Father has is mine. For this reason I said that he will take what is mine and declare it to you.

¹⁶ “A little while, and you will no longer see me, and again a little while, and you will see me.” ¹⁷ Then some of his disciples said to one another, “What does he mean by saying to us, ‘A little while, and you will no longer see me, and again a little while, and you will see me’; and ‘Because I am going to the Father?’” ¹⁸ They said, “What does he mean by this ‘a little while’? We do not know what he is talking about.” ¹⁹ Jesus knew that they wanted to ask him, so he said to them, “Are you discussing among yourselves what I meant when I said, ‘A little while, and you will no longer see me, and again a little while, and you will see me’?” ²⁰ Very truly, I tell you, you will weep and mourn, but the world will rejoice; you will have pain, but your pain will turn into joy. ²¹ When a woman is in labor, she has pain, because her hour has come. But when her child is born, she no longer remembers the anguish because of the joy of having brought a human being into the world. ²² So you have pain now; but I will see you again, and your hearts will rejoice, and no one will take your joy from you. ²³ On that day you will ask nothing of me. ^a Very truly, I tell you, if you ask anything of the Father in my name, he will give it to you. ^b ²⁴ Until now you have not asked for anything in my name. Ask and you will receive, so that your joy may be complete.

²⁵ “I have said these things to you in figures of speech. The hour is coming when I will no longer speak to you in figures, but will tell you plainly of the Father. ²⁶ On that day you will ask in my name. I do not say to you that I will ask the Father on your behalf; ²⁷ for the Father himself loves you, because you have loved me and have believed that I came from God. ^c ²⁸ I came from the Father and have come into the world; again, I am leaving the world and am going to the Father.”

²⁹ His disciples said, “Yes, now you are speaking plainly, not in any figure of speech! ³⁰ Now we know that you know all things, and do not need to have anyone question you; by this we believe that you came from God.” ³¹ Jesus answered them, “Do you now believe? ³² The hour is coming, indeed it has come, when you will be scattered, each one to his home, and you will leave me alone. Yet I am not alone because the Father is with me. ³³ I have said this to you, so that in me you may have peace. In the world you face persecution. But take courage; I have conquered the world!”

17 After Jesus had spoken these words, he looked up to heaven and said, “Father, the hour has come; glorify your Son so that the Son may glorify you, ² since you have given him authority over all people, ^d to give eternal life to all whom you have given him. ³ And this is eternal life, that they may know you, the only true God, and Jesus Christ whom you have sent. ⁴ I glorified you on earth by finishing the work that you gave me to do. ⁵ So now, Father, glorify me in your own presence with the glory that I had in your presence before the world existed.

^a Or will ask me no question

^b Other ancient authorities read Father, he will give it to you in my name

^c Other ancient authorities read the Father

^d Gk flesh

16.16–24: “A little while.” 20: Jesus does not yet explain what he meant but focuses attention on the disciples and their distress. 21–22: The labor pains of childbirth and the joy of a birth parallel the disciples’ experience. 23–24: Instruction for petitionary prayer, as in 14.13–14; cf. Mt 21.22. 25–33: Full explanation. 26: Petitionary prayer with direct access to God, not through broker. 27: Secure relationships: the Father loves you because you love and believe me. 28: As ideal broker, Jesus belongs both to God’s world and the disciples’. He came from the Father into the world and now returns to the Father (1.1–18; 3.13; 13.1–3). 32: Like sheep scattered they will leave Jesus alone, yet he is not truly alone because of his relationship with God. 33: A crisis foretold to strengthen them.

17.1–26: Jesus praying. For previous prayers of Jesus, see 11.41–42; 12.27–28. 1: Mutual glorifying indicates ideal relationship; cf. 8.50,54; 16.14. 3: Eternal life, a two-part confession: to know you, the only true God (monotheism) and to acknowledge Jesus Christ as agent (broker). 5: The relationship demands that God in turn glorify

6 “I have made your name known to those whom you gave me from the world. They were yours, and you gave them to me, and they have kept your word. 7 Now they know that everything you have given me is from you; 8 for the words that you gave to me I have given to them, and they have received them and know in truth that I came from you; and they have believed that you sent me. 9 I am asking on their behalf; I am not asking on behalf of the world, but on behalf of those whom you gave me, because they are yours. 10 All mine are yours, and yours are mine; and I have been glorified in them. 11 And now I am no longer in the world, but they are in the world, and I am coming to you. Holy Father, protect them in your name that you have given me, so that they may be one, as we are one. 12 While I was with them, I protected them in your name that^a you have given me. I guarded them, and not one of them was lost except the one destined to be lost,^b so that the scripture might be fulfilled. 13 But now I am coming to you, and I speak these things in the world so that they may have my joy made complete in themselves.^c 14 I have given them your word, and the world has hated them because they do not belong to the world, just as I do not belong to the world. 15 I am not asking you to take them out of the world, but I ask you to protect them from the evil one.^d 16 They do not belong to the world, just as I do not belong to the world. 17 Sanctify them in the truth; your word is truth. 18 As you have sent me into the world, so I have sent them into the world. 19 And for their sakes I sanctify myself, so that they also may be sanctified in truth.

20 “I ask not only on behalf of these, but also on behalf of those who will believe in me through their word,²¹ that they may all be one. As you, Father, are in me and I am in you, may they also be in us,^e so that the world may believe that you have sent me. 22 The glory that you have given me I have given them, so that they may be one, as we are one,²³ I in them and you in me, that they may become completely one, so that the world may know that you have sent me and have loved them even as you have loved me. 24 Father, I desire that those also, whom you have given me, may be with me where I am, to see my glory, which you have given me because you loved me before the foundation of the world.

25 “Righteous Father, the world does not know you, but I know you; and these know that you have sent me. 26 I made your name known to them, and I will make it known, so that the love with which you have loved me may be in them, and I in them.”

18 After Jesus had spoken these words, he went out with his disciples across the Kidron valley to a place where there was a garden, which he and his disciples en-

^a Other ancient authorities read protected in your name those whom

^b Gk except the son of destruction

^c Or among themselves

^d Or from evil

^e Other ancient authorities read be one in us

Jesus in heaven, not with earned honor but restoration of Jesus’ eternal glory (1.1–2). 6: Besides petition and praise, Jesus prays a self-focused prayer: Jesus tells God of his honorable behavior, the accomplishment of what he was sent to do. Name, not God or “Lord,” but “I AM,” the name revealed to Moses (Ex 3:14); see 8.28,58. 7–8: Words given by God to Jesus are given to them, acknowledging him as broker. 9: Jesus brokers only the needs of insiders. 10: Sender and agent equally share all, establishing Jesus as the ideal broker. 11: Reason for petition: your broker is in transit to you; petition: You protect them, i.e., keep them loyal. 12: Again (see. v. 6) a self-focused prayer. 13: An implied petition: the broker, who is in transit, desires them to have my joy in abundance (16.20–22). 14: As in Jesus’ case, the world hates them, for, like him, they do not belong below (7.7; 8.23). 15–17: Further petitions. 18: Cf. 20.21. 19: Sanctify means total dedication to God; Jesus sanctifies himself so that the disciples might be totally loyal. 20–21: Petition: Jesus intercedes for them and those recruited by them (v. 18). One, unified, in the same proper relationship as Jesus and the Father. In me . . . in you . . . in us, . . . recalling the household language of 14.2. 24: Petition: not contradicting v. 15, but suggesting a relationship with the heavenly Jesus. See my glory explains the promise in 1.51. 25–26: Know means “acknowledge”; the world does not know God because it rejects God’s broker; Jesus knows God as his agent; disciples know God because they acknowledge Jesus as agent. That knowledge cements perfect relationships in love.

tered.² Now Judas, who betrayed him, also knew the place, because Jesus often met there with his disciples.³ So Judas brought a detachment of soldiers together with police from the chief priests and the Pharisees, and they came there with lanterns and torches and weapons.⁴ Then Jesus, knowing all that was to happen to him, came forward and asked them, “Whom are you looking for?”⁵ They answered, “Jesus of Nazareth.”^a Jesus replied, “I am he.”^b Judas, who betrayed him, was standing with them.⁶ When Jesus^c said to them, “I am he,”^b they stepped back and fell to the ground.⁷ Again he asked them, “Whom are you looking for?” And they said, “Jesus of Nazareth.”^a ⁸ Jesus answered, “I told you that I am he.^b So if you are looking for me, let these men go.”⁹ This was to fulfill the word that he had spoken, “I did not lose a single one of those whom you gave me.”¹⁰ Then Simon Peter, who had a sword, drew it, struck the high priest’s slave, and cut off his right ear. The slave’s name was Malchus.¹¹ Jesus said to Peter, “Put your sword back into its sheath. Am I not to drink the cup that the Father has given me?”

¹² So the soldiers, their officer, and the Jewish police arrested Jesus and bound him.¹³ First they took him to Annas, who was the father-in-law of Caiaphas, the high priest that year.¹⁴ Caiaphas was the one who had advised the Jews that it was better to have one person die for the people.

¹⁵ Simon Peter and another disciple followed Jesus. Since that disciple was known to the high priest, he went with Jesus into the courtyard of the high priest,¹⁶ but Peter was standing outside at the gate. So the other disciple, who was known to the high priest, went out, spoke to the woman who guarded the gate, and brought Peter in.¹⁷ The woman said to Peter, “You are not also one of this man’s disciples, are you?” He said, “I am not.”¹⁸ Now the slaves and the police had made a charcoal fire because it was cold, and they were standing around it and warming themselves. Peter also was standing with them and warming himself.

¹⁹ Then the high priest questioned Jesus about his disciples and about his teaching.²⁰ Jesus answered, “I have spoken openly to the world; I have always taught in synagogues and in the temple, where all the Jews come together. I have said nothing in secret.²¹ Why do you ask me? Ask those who heard what I said to them; they know what I said.”²² When he had said this, one of the police standing nearby struck Jesus on the face, saying, “Is that how you answer the high priest?”²³ Jesus answered, “If I have spoken wrongly, testify to the wrong. But if I have spoken rightly, why do you strike me?”²⁴ Then Annas sent him bound to Caiaphas the high priest.

²⁵ Now Simon Peter was standing and warming himself. They asked him, “You are not also one of his disciples, are you?” He

^a Gk the Nazorean

^b Gk I am

^c Gk he

18.1–19.42: The arrest, trials, death, and burial of Jesus (cf. Mt 26.30–27.61; Mk 14.26–15.47; Lk 22.39–23.56).

18.1–11: Jesus surrenders. 1–2: Across the Kidron valley, east of the city, to the Mount of Olives. Garden, an olive orchard frequented by Jesus, called Gethsemane in Mk 14.32; Mt 26.36; cf. Lk 21.37; 22.39. 4: Jesus controls events 6: When Jesus reveals himself as “I AM” (see 4.26n.), his questioners fall to the ground, as at a theophany. 8–9: The “noble shepherd” (see 10.11n.) rescues all his sheep, except for Judas (17.12); none are snatched (10.28; cf. 6.39). 10: Peter defends Jesus as an earthly king; cf. 18.36. Simon Peter . . . Malchus, both identified by name only in this Gospel. 11: Cup, a metaphor for what God allots; see Ps 16.5; Isa 51.17; Lam 4.21. Jesus shows his nobility by voluntarily and virtuously accepting his fate.

18.12–27: In the high priests’ palaces. 12–14: Earlier Caiaphas ironically described Jesus’ death as noble (11.50–52) because it benefits others. Annas was Caiaphas’s father-in-law and predecessor as high priest. 15–16: The beloved disciple acts as a shepherd (see 10.1–3): he talks to the gatekeeper and leads Peter in. Their relationship will be reversed in 21.15–18. 17–18: Peter cancels all relationship to Jesus, not merely denying knowledge about him, but like the parents of the blind man (9.22) and certain Pharisees (12.42) by cowardly hiding allegiance to Jesus. 19–21: Public figure in public places, thus honorable (7.26; 10.22–23; Matt 26.55). 25–27: The cock crowed, see 13.38.

denied it and said, “I am not.”²⁶ One of the slaves of the high priest, a relative of the man whose ear Peter had cut off, asked, “Did I not see you in the garden with him?”²⁷ Again Peter denied it, and at that moment the cock crowed.

²⁸ Then they took Jesus from Caiaphas to Pilate’s headquarters.^a It was early in the morning. They themselves did not enter the headquarters,^a so as to avoid ritual defilement and to be able to eat the Passover.

²⁹ So Pilate went out to them and said, “What accusation do you bring against this man?”³⁰ They answered, “If this man were not a criminal, we would not have handed him over to you.”³¹ Pilate said to them, “Take him yourselves and judge him according to your law.” The Jews replied, “We are not permitted to put anyone to death.”³² (This was to fulfill what Jesus had said when he indicated the kind of death he was to die.)

³³ Then Pilate entered the headquarters^a again, summoned Jesus, and asked him, “Are you the King of the Jews?”³⁴ Jesus answered, “Do you ask this on your own, or did others tell you about me?”³⁵ Pilate replied, “I am not a Jew, am I? Your own nation and the chief priests have handed you over to me. What have you done?”³⁶ Jesus answered, “My kingdom is not from this world. If my kingdom were from this world, my followers would be fighting to keep me from being handed over to the Jews. But as it is, my kingdom is not from here.”³⁷ Pilate asked him, “So you are a king?” Jesus answered, “You say that I am a king. For this I was born, and for this I came into the world, to testify to the truth. Everyone who belongs to the truth listens to my voice.”³⁸ Pilate asked him, “What is truth?”

After he had said this, he went out to the Jews again and told them, “I find no case against him.”³⁹ But you have a custom that I release someone for you at the Passover. Do you want me to release for you the King of the Jews?”⁴⁰ They shouted in reply, “Not this man, but Barabbas!” Now Barabbas was a bandit.

19 Then Pilate took Jesus and had him flogged.² And the soldiers wove a crown of thorns and put it on his head, and they dressed him in a purple robe.³ They kept coming up to him, saying, “Hail, King of the Jews!” and striking him on the face.⁴ Pilate went out again and said to them, “Look, I am bringing him out to you to let you know that I find no case against him.”⁵ So Jesus came out, wearing the crown of thorns and the purple robe. Pilate said to them, “Here is the man!”⁶ When the chief priests and the police saw him, they shouted, “Crucify him! Crucify him!” Pilate said to them, “Take him yourselves and crucify him; I find no case against him.”⁷ The Jews answered him, “We have a law, and according to that law he ought to die because he has claimed to be the Son of God.”

⁸ Now when Pilate heard this, he was more afraid than ever.⁹ He entered his headquarters^a again and asked Jesus, “Where are you from?” But Jesus gave him no answer.¹⁰ Pilate therefore said to him, “Do you refuse to speak to me? Do you not know that I have power to release you, and power to crucify you?”¹¹ Jesus answered him, “You would have no

^a Gk the praetorium

18.28–40: In Roman hands. 28: Pilate’s headquarters, the Praetorium (see textual note a and map on p. 1883) was located on the west side of Jerusalem. It was the official residence of Pontius Pilate, the Roman governor of Judea (ca. 26–37 CE). Ironically, killing Jesus is permitted, but ritual impurity must be avoided. 31: Moreover, the religious authorities are powerless. 36: Jesus’ kingdom is otherworldly, and no threat to Rome or Judea (see 18.10–11). 37–38a: Pilate’s question receives an honest response, but Jesus now challenges with a focus on truth. 38b: Pilate’s declaration of Jesus’ innocence should end the trial. 39–40: Jesus, king of the Jews, again rejected by his own in favor of a bandit (or revolutionary insurrectionist). The custom of a releasing a prisoner at Passover is attested only in the New Testament.

19.1–16: Jesus’ second trial before Pilate. 1: Flogging, judicial warning (Lk 23.22); Paul often received such (2 Cor 11.23–25). 2–3: A mock coronation: crown of thorns; royal purple robe; acclamation. 4–5: Pilate again declares Jesus innocent, taunting the powerless crowd. 7: The penalty for blasphemy was death (see 10.39–32n.). 8–9: Jesus’ true origin is known only by insiders (13.1–3; 16.28). No answer, silence generally signals defeat; here power over me unless it had been given you from above; therefore the one who handed me over to you is guilty of a greater sin.”

¹² From then on Pilate tried to release him, but the Jews cried out, “If you release this man, you are no friend of the emperor. Everyone who claims to be a king sets himself against the emperor.”

¹³ When Pilate heard these words, he brought Jesus outside and sat^a on the judge’s bench at a place called The Stone Pavement, or in Hebrew^b Gabbatha. ¹⁴ Now it was the day of Preparation for the Passover; and it was about noon. He said to the Jews, “Here is your King!” ¹⁵ They cried out, “Away with him! Away with him! Crucify him!” Pilate asked them, “Shall I crucify your King?” The chief priests answered, “We have no king but the emperor.” ¹⁶ Then he handed him over to them to be crucified.

So they took Jesus; ¹⁷ and carrying the cross by himself, he went out to what is called The Place of the Skull, which in Hebrew^b is called Golgotha. ¹⁸ There they crucified him, and with him two others, one on either side, with Jesus between them. ¹⁹ Pilate also had an inscription written and put on the cross. It read, “Jesus of Nazareth,^c the King of the Jews.” ²⁰ Many of the Jews read this inscription, because the place where Jesus was crucified was near the city; and it was written in Hebrew,^b in Latin, and in Greek. ²¹ Then the chief priests of the Jews said to Pilate, “Do not write, ‘The King of the Jews,’ but, ‘This man said, I am King of the Jews.’” ²² Pilate answered, “What I have written I have written.” ²³ When the soldiers had crucified Jesus, they took his clothes and divided them into four parts, one for each soldier. They also took his tunic; now the tunic was seamless, woven in one piece from the top. ²⁴ So they said to one another, “Let us not tear it, but cast lots for it to see who will get it.” This was to fulfill what the scripture says,

“They divided my clothes among themselves, and for my clothing they cast lots.”

²⁵ And that is what the soldiers did.

Meanwhile, standing near the cross of Jesus were his mother, and his mother’s sister, Mary the wife of Clopas, and Mary Magdalene. ²⁶ When Jesus saw his mother and the disciple whom he loved standing beside her, he said to his mother, “Woman, here is your son.” ²⁷ Then he said to the disciple, “Here is your mother.” And from that hour the disciple took her into his own home.

²⁸ After this, when Jesus knew that all was now finished, he said (in order to fulfill the scripture), “I am thirsty.” ²⁹ A jar full of sour wine was standing there. So they put a sponge full of the wine on a branch of hyssop and held it to his mouth. ³⁰ When Jesus had received the wine, he said, “It is finished.” Then he bowed his head and gave up his spirit.

^a Or seated him

^b That is, Aramaic

^c Gk the Nazorean

it challenges Pilate. 10–11: Pilate’s power comes from God, not from Caesar. Greater sin, rejection by his own surpasses Pilate’s injustice. 12: Pilate cannot release Caesar’s rival and be his client (friend). 13: Gabbatha, occurring only here, probably means “the elevated (place)” in Aramaic (see textual note b); it was probably near the Praetorium (see 18.28n.) 14–15: Noon on the day of Preparation: time when Passover lambs were slaughtered. We have no king but the emperor, an example of the “greater sin” (v. 11), rejection of God and of Jesus.

19.17–30: The crucifixion: killing the king. 17: Golgotha, in the northwest section of the city; see map on p. 1883. Hebrew, see textual note b. 18: Crucified, like “flogged” (v. 1), focuses not just on pain but on shame. 19: The sign states Jesus’ “crime,” but ironically it is true. 20: Three languages suggests openness to all (cf. “savior of the world,” 4.42). 23–24: Clothes, spoils for executioners, whose refusal to cut the tunic necessitates casting lots, fulfilling Ps 22.18. 25: His mother, unnamed as in 2.4, as also is her sister, who is not mentioned elsewhere in the New Testament. Mary . . . of Clopas, perhaps to be identified with the mother of James and Joses (Mk 15.40; etc.). 26–27: Jesus provides his mother with a new son to protect her. The disciple whom he loved, see 13.23n. 28: Thirsty, fulfilling Ps 69.21. 29: Hyssop, a wild shrub whose branches were used for sprinkling liquids in religious rituals. 30: Finished, either life ended or mission accomplished (17.4). Gave up his Spirit, a double meaning: “spirit” can mean “breath,” but the phrase is also indicative of a Pentecostal event (see 7.39; Acts 2.4).

³¹Since it was the day of Preparation, the Jews did not want the bodies left on the cross during the sabbath, especially because that sabbath was a day of great solemnity. So they asked Pilate to have the legs of the crucified men broken and the bodies removed.

³²Then the soldiers came and broke the legs of the first and of the other who had been crucified with him. ³³But when they came to Jesus and saw that he was already dead, they did not break his legs. ³⁴Instead, one of the soldiers pierced his side with a spear, and at once blood and water came out. ³⁵(He who saw this has testified so that you also may believe. His testimony is true, and he knows^a that he tells the truth.) ³⁶These things occurred so that the scripture might be fulfilled, “None of his bones shall be broken.”

³⁷And again another passage of scripture says, “They will look on the one whom they have pierced.”

³⁸After these things, Joseph of Arimathea, who was a disciple of Jesus, though a secret one because of his fear of the Jews, asked Pilate to let him take away the body of Jesus. Pilate gave him permission; so he came and removed his body. ³⁹Nicodemus, who had at first come to Jesus by night, also came, bringing a mixture of myrrh and aloes, weighing about a hundred pounds. ⁴⁰They took the body of Jesus and wrapped it with the spices in linen cloths, according to the burial custom of the Jews. ⁴¹Now there was a garden in the place where he was crucified, and in the garden there was a new tomb in which no one had ever been laid. ⁴²And so, because it was the Jewish day of Preparation, and the tomb was nearby, they laid Jesus there.

20 Early on the first day of the week, while it was still dark, Mary Magdalene came to the tomb and saw that the stone had been removed from the tomb. ²So she ran and went to Simon Peter and the other disciple, the one whom Jesus loved, and said to them, “They have taken the Lord out of the tomb, and we do not know where they have laid him.” ³Then Peter and the other disciple set out and went toward the tomb. ⁴The two were running together, but the other disciple outran Peter and reached the tomb first. ⁵He bent down to look in and saw the linen wrappings lying there, but he did not go in. ⁶Then Simon Peter came, following him, and went into the tomb. He saw the linen wrappings lying there, ⁷and the cloth that had been on Jesus’ head, not lying with the linen wrappings but rolled up in a place by itself. ⁸Then the other disciple, who reached the tomb first, also went in, and he saw and believed; ⁹for as yet they did not understand the scripture, that he must rise from the dead. ¹⁰Then the disciples returned to their homes.

¹¹But Mary stood weeping outside the tomb. As she wept, she bent over to look^b into the tomb; ¹²and she saw two angels in white, sitting where the body of Jesus had been lying, one at the head and the other at the feet. ¹³They said to her, “Woman, why are you weeping?” She said to them, “They have taken away my Lord, and I do not know where they have laid him.” ¹⁴When she had said this, she turned around and saw Jesus standing there, but she did not

^a Or there is one who knows

^b Gk lacks to look

19.31–42: Final affairs. 31: Legs . . . broken: to forestall asphyxiation, the crucified pulled up with their arms and pushed up with their legs. With legs broken, the arms cramp quickly, bringing death. 34: Either senseless mutilation or fluids suggesting benefits: baptism (water) and Eucharist (blood; 6.53–56; 1 Jn 5.6–8). 35: The witness is not the actual writer, but guarantor of the narrative. 36–37: Scriptures . . . fulfilled, a claim that God providentially controls Jesus’ death. 36: Ex 12.46, referring to the Passover lamb; see 1.29–30n. Cf. Ps 34.20. 37: Zech 12.10. 38: Joseph of Arimathea’s fear of censure (cf. 9.22; 12.42) is balanced by his public attempt to bury Jesus. 39: Nicodemus (3.2), brings excessive spices. 40–42: An honorable burial: a new tomb, burial clothes, excessive spices, all according to Judean burial customs.

20.1–18: The resurrection (cf. Mt 28; Mk 16; Lk 24). 1: The first day of the week, Sunday. 2–5: The one whom Jesus loved (see 13.23n.) arrives first; not entering indicates respect for Peter; contrast 13.23–25. 6–7: Peter arrives, inventories the tomb’s contents, and leaves knowing nothing. 8: The other disciple sees all Peter saw, but believed. 9: As yet they did not understand the scripture: see 2.17 (Ps 69.9); 3.14 (Num 21.9); 19.24 (Ps 22.18); etc.

know that it was Jesus. ¹⁵ Jesus said to her, “Woman, why are you weeping? Whom are you looking for?” Supposing him to be the gardener, she said to him, “Sir, if you have carried him away, tell me where you have laid him, and I will take him away.” ¹⁶ Jesus said to her, “Mary!” She turned and said to him in Hebrew,^a “Rabbouni!” (which means Teacher). ¹⁷ Jesus said to her, “Do not hold on to me, because I have not yet ascended to the Father. But go to my brothers and say to them, ‘I am ascending to my Father and your Father, to my God and your God.’” ¹⁸ Mary Magdalene went and announced to the disciples, “I have seen the Lord”; and she told them that he had said these things to her.

¹⁹ When it was evening on that day, the first day of the week, and the doors of the house where the disciples had met were locked for fear of the Jews, Jesus came and stood among them and said, “Peace be with you.” ²⁰ After he said this, he showed them his hands and his side. Then the disciples rejoiced when they saw the Lord. ²¹ Jesus said to them again, “Peace be with you. As the Father has sent me, so I send you.” ²² When he had said this, he breathed on them and said to them, “Receive the Holy Spirit. ²³ If you forgive the sins of any, they are forgiven them; if you retain the sins of any, they are retained.”

²⁴ But Thomas (who was called the Twin^b), one of the twelve, was not with them when Jesus came. ²⁵ So the other disciples told him, “We have seen the Lord.” But he said to them, “Unless I see the mark of the nails in his hands, and put my finger in the mark of the nails and my hand in his side, I will not believe.”

²⁶ A week later his disciples were again in the house, and Thomas was with them. Although the doors were shut, Jesus came and stood among them and said, “Peace be with you.” ²⁷ Then he said to Thomas, “Put your finger here and see my hands. Reach out your hand and put it in my side. Do not doubt but believe.” ²⁸ Thomas answered him, “My Lord and my God!” ²⁹ Jesus said to him, “Have you believed because you have seen me? Blessed are those who have not seen and yet have come to believe.”

³⁰ Now Jesus did many other signs in the presence of his disciples, which are not written in this book. ³¹ But these are written so that you may come to believe^c that Jesus

^a That is, Aramaic

^b Gk Didymus

^c Other ancient authorities read may continue to believe

11–13: The angels tell Mary nothing, unlike Mt 28.5–7. She repeats her lines (see v. 2). 14: She saw, but did not know. 15: More confusion and ambiguity. 16: Jesus rarely addresses people by name in this Gospel; exceptions are Lazarus (11.43), Simon, son of John (21.15), now Mary. She addresses Jesus by his role, Rabbouni (a variant of “rabbi”), Teacher (1.38; 3.2; 11.28; 13.13). 17a: Only members of his inner circle touch Jesus: Mary (12.3–4); the beloved disciple (13.23); Thomas (20.25,27); Jesus rarely touches others (but see 9.6; 13.5). 17b: The Gospel’s greatest revelation, communicated only to Mary: As Jesus lays down his life, he takes it back (10.17); he travels by his own power. She in turn is sent only to insiders, but her role is of limited duration.

20.19–29: Commissioning. 19–21: Peace be with you, a traditional Jewish greeting (e.g., Tob 12.17) is repeated twice, erasing their cowardice (16.32; 18.25–27). Showed them his hands and his side, proving he is no ghost (see Lk 24.38–39,41–42). 21: Typically the risen Jesus commissions disciples to roles of service (Mt 28.16–28; Lk 24.48; Jn 21.15–18). As the Father has sent . . . I send, identical to 17.18, this sending will endure, unlike Mary’s. 22: Breathed, cf. Gen 2.7. Receive the Holy Spirit, resurrection, “ascension” (v. 17) and “Pentecost” (v. 22) all occur on one day; thus Jesus confirms his brokerage. 24–25: Thomas, absent from the group, refused the apostles’ “gospel” about Jesus. 26: The setting is the same as in v. 19, but Thomas is in attendance. 27: “See . . . reach out your hand,” gentler treatment than with those demanding signs (2.18; 4.48; 6.2,26). Unlike these previous requests, Jesus gives in to Thomas completely. 28: Thomas surrenders and honors Jesus as Lord and God. This recalls 1.1–3 and 5.19–29. 29: John’s second beatitude (see 13.17). In the Synoptic Gospels, the beatitudes honor people suffering for Jesus (Lk 6.22–24); this honors insiders who believe the gospel.

20.30–31: First conclusion to the Gospel. In the Gospel, seven signs have been narrated out of a collection of many. These signs are credentials and proof of Jesus’ relationship with God. Thus believing, one has access to eternal life by having Jesus as broker, in his name.

is the Messiah,^a the Son of God, and that through believing you may have life in his name.

21 After these things Jesus showed himself again to the disciples by the Sea of Tiberias; and he showed himself in this way. ²Gathered there together were Simon Peter, Thomas called the Twin,^b Nathanael of Cana in Galilee, the sons of Zebedee, and two others of his disciples. ³Simon Peter said to them, “I am going fishing.” They said to him, “We will go with you.” They went out and got into the boat, but that night they caught nothing.

⁴Just after daybreak, Jesus stood on the beach; but the disciples did not know that it was Jesus. ⁵Jesus said to them, “Children, you have no fish, have you?” They answered him, “No.” ⁶He said to them, “Cast the net to the right side of the boat, and you will find some.” So they cast it, and now they were not able to haul it in because there were so many fish. ⁷That disciple whom Jesus loved said to Peter, “It is the Lord!” When Simon Peter heard that it was the Lord, he put on some clothes, for he was naked, and jumped into the sea. ⁸But the other disciples came in the boat, dragging the net full of fish, for they were not far from the land, only about a hundred yards^c off.

⁹When they had gone ashore, they saw a charcoal fire there, with fish on it, and bread. ¹⁰Jesus said to them, “Bring some of the fish that you have just caught.” ¹¹So Simon Peter went aboard and hauled the net ashore, full of large fish, a hundred fifty-three of them; and though there were so many, the net was not torn. ¹²Jesus said to them, “Come and have breakfast.” Now none of the disciples dared to ask him, “Who are you?” because they knew it was the Lord. ¹³Jesus came and took the bread and gave it to them, and did the same with the fish. ¹⁴This was now the third time that Jesus appeared to the disciples after he was raised from the dead.

¹⁵When they had finished breakfast, Jesus said to Simon Peter, “Simon son of John, do you love me more than these?” He said to him, “Yes, Lord; you know that I love you.” Jesus said to him, “Feed my lambs.”

¹⁶A second time he said to him, “Simon son of John, do you love me?” He said to him, “Yes, Lord; you know that I love you.” Jesus said to him, “Tend my sheep.” ¹⁷He said to him the third time, “Simon son of John, do you love me?” Peter felt hurt because he said to him the third time, “Do you love me?” And he said to him, “Lord, you know everything; you know that I love you.” Jesus said to him, “Feed my sheep. ¹⁸Very truly, I tell you, when you were younger, you used to fasten your own belt and to go wherever you wished. But when you grow old, you will stretch out your hands, and someone else will fasten a belt around you and take you where you do not wish to go.” ¹⁹(He said this to indicate the kind of death by

^a Or the Christ

^b Gk Didymus

^c Gk two hundred cubits

21.1–19: Simon Peter: fisherman, table servant, and shepherd. 1: By the Sea of Tiberias, in Galilee (see 6.1). 2: Typical boats held six comfortably; here, seven: Simon Peter, Thomas, Nathanael (see 1.45–51), the sons of Zebedee (James and John), and two others. 3: Simon Peter, returns to his occupation as a fisherman (Lk 5.1–10). 6: Abundance is typical of Jesus’ benefactions: wine (2.6–7), bread (6.5–13), life (10.10), now fish. 7: Only the disciple whom Jesus loved (see 13.23n.) recognizes Jesus (20.8), upon whom Simon Peter totally depends for knowledge (13.25; 18.15–16). Neither nakedness nor working clothes are suitable for the presence of the Lord. 9–10: Fire, fish, and bread provided by Jesus the host. Fish and bread have eucharistic overtones (see 6.11). 11: A hundred fifty-three, either gematria (a numerical code) for Simon’s name or just a very large number. 12–13: Jesus’ service continues the foot washing (13.13–15). 15: Presumably they speak publicly before the others. Love suggests exceptional loyalty; if Peter’s triple denial (18.17,25–27) meant rejection of all relationship with Jesus, now his assertion of love means the opposite. Feed my lambs, Jesus authorizes Peter to be the new shepherd. 17: Third time, paralleling the triple denial. Peter now acknowledges Jesus and professes complete loyalty. 18: Peter, as “noble” shepherd (see 10.11n.), will die in service of Jesus (10.11,15); his boast in 13.37 ironically will come true. 19: Peter’s death will glorify God, as did Jesus’ (13.31–32; 17.1). Although now a shepherd, he is still Jesus’ sheep: Follow me.

which he would glorify God.) After this he said to him, “Follow me.”

²⁰Peter turned and saw the disciple whom Jesus loved following them; he was the one who had reclined next to Jesus at the supper and had said, “Lord, who is it that is going to betray you?” ²¹When Peter saw him, he said to Jesus, “Lord, what about him?” ²²Jesus said to him, “If it is my will that he remain until I come, what is that to you? Follow me!” ²³So the rumor spread in the community^a that this disciple would not die. Yet Jesus did not say to him that he would not die, but, “If it is my will that he remain until I come, what is that to you?”^b

²⁴This is the disciple who is testifying to these things and has written them, and we know that his testimony is true. ²⁵But there are also many other things that Jesus did; if every one of them were written down, I suppose that the world itself could not contain the books that would be written.

^a Gk among the brothers

^b Other ancient authorities lack what is that to you

21.20–25: Rivalry, continued. 20: The disciple’s high status comes from his touching Jesus, learning his secrets, courageously standing with him at the cross, and recognizing him (see 13.24n.). 22: Simon’s question challenges Jesus about the status of the disciple. His response resembles 2.3–4; it is none of your business. 23: Jesus’ statement is typically misunderstood. They construe remain as he would not die (see 5.24; 8.51–52; 1 Cor 15.50–52), but Jesus clarifies.

21.24–25: Second conclusion to the Gospel. The disciple who is testifying, most likely the beloved disciple (13.25–26; 19.35; 21.7), as opposed to the one who has written, just as Pilate caused the title on the cross to be written by another (19.19). Other things, cf. 20.30.

This page intentionally left blank

THE ACTS OF THE APOSTLES

NAME

The anonymous author of the third Gospel and its sequel, the Acts of the Apostles, supplied no titles for these works. By the end of the second century CE this author was thought to be Luke, and his second volume was referred to as “Acts” in the sense of the “activities” or “deeds” of the apostles. As a descriptive title, however, Acts of the Apostles is a misnomer, since Peter is the only one of the twelve apostles whose deeds and speeches are recounted in detail. Paul, the subject of the second half of the book, refers to himself as “apostle” in his letters but is not presented as such by Luke. Nevertheless, the title does capture a key concept of the book, namely, that the twelve apostles collectively guaranteed the early church’s continuity with Jesus. In Luke’s view they did so because they had been witnesses to everything that happened during Jesus’ ministry, and especially to his resurrection (Acts 1.21–22; 10.39–41).

CANONICAL STATUS

Acts is the fifth book of the New Testament, immediately following the four Gospels. Although modern interpreters now understand Luke-Acts as a unified literary work in two parts, in the canonical arrangement the Gospel of John comes between these two books. Moreover, Luke’s two works never appear in sequence in any ancient manuscript. In its canonical position, Acts connects the four Gospels to the collection of letters that follow, and its narrative focus, first on Peter and then on Paul, whether by accident or design allows it to function as an appropriate transition from the accounts about Jesus to the writings of the apostles.

AUTHORSHIP

Although Acts nowhere identifies its author, by the end of the second century it was possible to argue that Luke was the obvious candidate, and it has become conventional to refer to the author with this traditional name. This identification was based on the occurrence of Luke’s name in Philemon 24 and in two other letters attributed to Paul (Col 4.14; 2 Tim 4.11), and also on passages in Acts in which the author presents himself as a traveling companion of Paul. Irenaeus (ca. 180 CE) pointed to these “we” passages (Acts 16.10–17; 20.5–15; 21.1–18; 27.1–28.16), in which the text shifts from third-person to first-person plural narration, as proof that Luke had been Paul’s inseparable collaborator (Irenaeus, Adv. Haer. 3.14.1). Many modern scholars, however, challenge the assumption that the “we” passages demonstrate personal familiarity with Paul. In fact, one consequence of Luke’s larger narrative goals is that his presentation of Paul is inconsistent with biographical and theological details in Paul’s own letters. For example, Luke’s denial of the formal status of “apostle” to Paul in Acts is almost unimaginable for an actual companion of Paul. In his letters Paul repeatedly claims to be one divinely called to be an apostle (e.g., Rom 1.1; 1 Cor 1.1; Gal 1.1). Luke’s reluctance to use this term for Paul is connected to his view that only the Twelve, who had been present with Jesus throughout his public activity (Acts 1.21–22), were apostles. This disqualifies Paul, even if there is an echo of this contested status within Acts itself (14.4,14).

Although there is reason to doubt the identification of Luke as a companion of Paul, it cannot be denied that Luke admired Paul and viewed his missionary career as decisive for the establishment of Christianity in Asia Minor and Greece. Indeed, Luke’s portrayal suggests that Paul’s fame and influence extended from Jerusalem to Rome. Luke was probably someone from the Pauline mission area who, a generation or so after Paul, addressed issues facing Christians who found themselves in circumstances different from those addressed by Paul himself. Precisely where Luke carried out this task is uncertain. Ancient tradition placed him in Antioch, but his obvious respect for Paul and the Pauline tradition might indicate that he was connected with any of the cities of the Pauline mission around the Aegean Sea.

DATE

According to its opening words, Acts was written sometime after Luke’s Gospel, which scholarly consensus currently dates to 85–95 CE (though some arguments have been advanced for an early second-century date). The considerations on the relation between Luke and Paul just reviewed support this late first-century date. Discrepancies between the undisputed Pauline letters and the narrative about Paul in Acts have long been recognized, and a temporal gap between the two does much to clarify the situation. During the period in which Luke was writing, Paul's image was undergoing revision (as is shown in the Pastoral Epistles; see 1 and 2 Tim; Titus, p. 2084). For example, Luke does not hesitate to portray Paul as subject to Jewish law; this depiction is consistent with Luke's emphasis on the continuity of the history of Israel and of the church. Moreover, according to Luke it was not Paul's theological arguments but the conversion of Cornelius through Peter, ratified by the apostolic council (Acts 10.1–11.18), that established that Gentile Christians were not required to observe the law of Moses in its entirety. Such contradictions arise because Acts preserves an image of Paul from a period some decades after his death. Thus Paul's role in Acts is dictated not primarily by biographical details but rather by the needs of Luke's theology as well as the circumstances of his readers.

LITERARY HISTORY

Luke gives no information about the sources upon which the narrative presented in Acts is based. He appears to have relied on a mixture of traditional information uncovered by his own investigation (see Lk 1.3) and his imagination about how the founding events unfolded in Jerusalem and reverberated throughout the Mediterranean world. Like many Greek historians, whom Luke imitates in part, Luke supplemented his narrative with speeches appropriate to significant occasions. These speeches, which amount to nearly one-third of the total text, are Luke's own literary creations, inserted into the narrative to instruct and please the reader. They also serve to demonstrate the unity of the earliest Christian preaching, even as they present Luke's own interpretation of the "events" (Lk 1.1) surrounding the emergence of the church. Scholars have attempted to identify traditional material and sources behind Luke's account, but no consensus has emerged from these efforts. To the extent that Luke did use preexisting sources and traditions, his rewriting of them leaves few clues about what they were. While scholars previously have made much of Luke's apparent lack of use of Paul's letters, some now believe that Luke in fact was familiar with at least some of them. It may be that Luke used Paul's letters in a way most appropriate to his narrative genre: not by explicitly citing them but more generally as an aid in fashioning his picture of Paul and the early church.

STRUCTURE AND CONTENTS

The book of Acts tells a dramatic story of the birth and expansion of the church from the time of the ascension of Jesus until the arrival of Paul in Rome. The plot line of Acts begins with Jesus' ascent to heaven. The narrative first portrays the life and dynamic growth of the primitive community in Jerusalem, energized by the Spirit and led by Peter and the apostles up through the martyrdom of Stephen (chs 1–7). The persecution initiated with Stephen's death resulted in mission activity outside Jerusalem highlighted by approaches to non-Jews by Philip (ch 8). After narrating the conversion of Saul (ch 9), Luke presents Peter as the individual through whom God established the inclusion of the Gentiles (10.1–11.18). Next, the early missionary tour of Barnabas and Saul/Paul on behalf of Antioch is narrated (11.19–14.28), along with a story about Peter's miraculous escape from death (ch 12). The center of the book recounts the apostolic council's vindication of the efforts to free the Gentile mission from the requirements of Jewish ritual law (ch 15). Then Paul's further missionary travels are depicted (15.36–21.26) in Philippi, Thessalonica, Athens, Corinth, Ephesus, Miletus, Caesarea, and Jerusalem. Finally, the book recounts Paul's arrest, imprisonment, and trials in Jerusalem and Caesarea, and his transfer to Rome (21.27–28.31), closing with the uplifting image of Paul, while under house arrest, preaching and teaching without hindrance in the capital city of the empire.

INTERPRETATION

Written from the perspective of the late first or perhaps early second century CE, Acts alone among the documents of the earliest Christian period offers a narrative sequel to the accounts of Jesus' words and deeds found in the Gospels. Its author, identified by tradition as Luke, had already produced the Gospel (Acts 1.1–2). His purpose in writing again was more than a matter of antiquarian interest, although Acts can be compared with Hellenistic historical monographs. The account was intended to give Christians of his day an unshakable confidence in their future through an instructive survey of their past. In carrying out that overarching purpose, Acts addresses social and theological problems brought about by the church's relationship to its Jewish heritage and its Greco-Roman cultural and political environment. Luke sought to clarify both how the church was faithful to the God of the Jewish scriptures and how Christianity was not incompatible with civic order and morality in the cities of the Roman Empire. Luke devotes half of the narrative to Paul, constructing for Christians of the era after Paul an image of this important figure consistent with the stance taken on Jewish and Roman concerns in the book. Beginning with Irenaeus and especially with Eusebius (d. ca. 339 CE), readers drew on Acts more strictly as a historical account or for information useful for solving later theological problems, no longer observing how in Acts Luke addressed the situation of the original audience. Moreover, such later uses were aided and abetted by the canonical arrangement of Luke's works, which gave no indication that his two books were to be read as a single work in two parts. Thus, for most ancient readers and their modern successors, Acts has been viewed not as a supplement to Luke's Gospel in particular but to the Gospels in general.

GUIDE TO READING

For Luke, who was likely a Gentile Christian (though a minority of scholars contend that he was a Diaspora Jew), that God's promises in scripture had been made to the ancient people of God required the church to stand in continuity with Israel. But since most Jews did not accept Jesus as the Messiah, and since the increasingly Gentile Christian community ceased to observe Jewish ritual, this historical continuity had been called into question. Luke responds to this threat by depicting the earliest Christians as faithful Jews in Jerusalem until persecution pushed them out. Then, by means of multiple elaborations of the Cornelius episode (10.1–48; 11.1–18; 15.7–9) and of the story of Paul's conversion (9.1–19; 22.4–16; 26.9–18), he stresses that the entrance of Gentiles into the church is nothing less than an act of God, and so by definition in continuity with Israel's history. It is significant that Luke's ideal Gentile convert is one who continues to practice Jewish piety (10.2), and that Gentile Christians are urged to adhere to conduct that would permit association with Jews (15.20). Luke's portrayal of Paul's visits to synagogues and his Jewish lifestyle serve to reinforce this maintaining of continuity with Jewish roots.

Apart from any value Acts has as a work of history, it is an important example of early Christian theology. Luke develops the idea of the church as a historical entity with its own distinctive era. Moreover, the earliest church, by being confined to Jerusalem, was set apart from the church of Luke's day. The ideal and unrepeatable structures of the early community resulted from the presence of the apostles and eyewitnesses. Luke's concern to highlight the continuity between Israel and the church is expressed by the continued observance of Jewish practices in the early period, implicitly in contrast to Luke's later situation. The gap between Luke's generation and the earlier time is bridged by the endorsement of the Gentile mission in the deliberations of the apostolic council and the promulgation of the apostolic decree (15.20,29; 21.25). The latter pronouncement may have been of practical value for Luke's community by creating the conditions necessary to allow table fellowship between Jewish and Gentile Christians. Luke's portrayal of Christianity's close ties to Judaism and thus as possessing a venerable heritage (24.14) also bolsters his appeal to Roman officials not to concern themselves with internal religious disputes (25.19,20). Acts portrays influential Romans expressing interest in Christianity (13.12; 19.31), or at least concluding that it posed no threat to the state (18.15; 19.37; 23.29; 25.25; 26.32). In this way Luke demonstrates the nonsubversive nature of the church, possibly in an effort to convince citizen elites of his own day that their membership in the Christian community was not incompatible with their status as Roman citizens. Luke's argument is designed for internal consumption; it was neither intended to persuade non-Christians nor would it have been likely to do so.

Key among the factors promoting continuity within the church itself throughout the narrative are the descriptions of the church's proclamation and teaching about Jesus and the constant presence of the Spirit as the prime mover at the crucial junctures of early Christian history (e.g., 8.29; 10.19; 16.6–7). Yet in Acts it is God who occupies the dominant place. Jesus is described as a man whom God legitimated by mighty works, wonders, and signs (2.22). The view of Jesus' death as atoning occurs only once in an expression taken over from earlier tradition (20.28). The focal point of salvation is the resurrection, which is viewed as the turning point of history. The combination of all of these forces allows Luke to portray the successful expansion of the early Christian mission throughout the Roman Empire under the direction of the Spirit according to the purpose of God.

Christopher R. Matthews

1 In the first book, Theophilus, I wrote about all that Jesus did and taught from the beginning ² until the day when he was taken up to heaven, after giving instructions through the Holy Spirit to the apostles whom he had chosen. ³ After his suffering he presented himself alive to them by many convincing proofs, appearing to them during forty days and speaking about the kingdom of God. ⁴ While staying^a with them, he ordered them not to leave Jerusalem, but to wait there for the promise of the Father. “This,” he said, “is what you have heard from me; ⁵ for John baptized with water, but you will be baptized with^b the Holy Spirit not many days from now.”

⁶ So when they had come together, they asked him, “Lord, is this the time when you will restore the kingdom to Israel?” ⁷ He replied, “It is not for you to know the times or periods that the Father has set by his own authority. ⁸ But you will receive power when the Holy Spirit has come upon you; and you will be my witnesses in Jerusalem, in all Judea and Samaria, and to the ends of the earth.”

⁹ When he had said this, as they were watching, he was lifted up, and a cloud took him out of their sight. ¹⁰ While he was going and they were gazing up toward heaven, suddenly two men in white robes stood by them. ¹¹ They said, “Men of Galilee, why do you stand looking up toward heaven? This Jesus, who has been taken up from you into heaven, will come in the same way as you saw him go into heaven.”

¹² Then they returned to Jerusalem from the mount called Olivet, which is near Jerusalem, a sabbath day’s journey away. ¹³ When they had entered the city, they went to the room upstairs where they were staying, Peter, and John, and James, and Andrew, Philip and Thomas, Bartholomew and Matthew, James son of Alphaeus, and Simon the Zealot, and Judas son of^c James. ¹⁴ All these were constantly devoting themselves to prayer, together with certain women, including Mary the mother of Jesus, as well as his brothers.

^a Or eating

^b Or by

^c Or the brother of

1.1–14: Introduction and summary. The author (hereafter, “Luke”) summarizes information from the first book, the Gospel of Luke. 1: Theophilus, “dear to God”; perhaps a patron sponsoring publication of the two books (note the respectful address “most excellent” in Lk 1.3), or symbolic for any ideal reader. An opening dedication and reference to previous work is a common pattern in ancient literature. 3: Examples of the many convincing proofs are given in Lk 24.13–53. Appearing to them during forty days, note that Lk 24.50–53 seems to place the ascension on Easter; forty, a symbolic number in the Bible frequently used for important transitions (e.g., Gen 7.12; Ex 24.18; Num 14.23), and here parallels the beginning of Jesus’ ministry (Lk 4.2). Kingdom of God stands for the Christian proclamation (8.12; 19.8; 20.25) and indicates continuity with the teaching of Jesus (Lk 4.43; 8.1; 9.2,11). 4: The Gk word translated staying means “to eat at the same table with” (see note a) and likely refers to Lk 24.30,31,35,41–43. Promise of the Father, that is, the Spirit; see Lk 11.13; 24.49. The promise is fulfilled in Acts 2.1–4 (see 2.33). Jerusalem, Luke locates all of the significant founding events in this holy city; the other Gospels report resurrection appearances in Galilee. 5: John the Baptist, Lk 3.1–20. The Holy Spirit is one of the major characters of Acts. 6–11: The ascension, cf. Lk 24.44–51. 6: The apostles suppose that Jesus intends to restore the kingdom to Israel (Lk 22.28–30) and reestablish the dominion once enjoyed by David (Lk 1.32). 7: The nationalistic tenor of the question is deflected. 8: The theme of the apostles as witnesses (Lk 24.48) recurs often (1.22; 2.32; 3.15; 5.32; 10.39,41; 13.31). Jerusalem . . . Judea . . . Samaria . . . the ends of the earth, the progress of the mission is given in geographical terms (8.38n.). 9: Elsewhere in the New Testament the ascension is found only at Lk 24.51 (cf. Mk 16.19). 10: Two men in white robes, angels (24.4; Jn 20.12); in Lk 9.30 the two men are Moses and Elijah. There are other parallels between Luke’s Transfiguration account (Lk 9.28–36) and the ascension scene. 11: Will come in the same way, note the cloud in v. 9; Lk 21.27; cf. Mk 14.62; Dan 7.13. 12: Olivet, the Mount of Olives is just east of Jerusalem. A sabbath day’s journey, about 3,000 ft. (1,000 m.), the distance it was permissible for an observant Jew to walk on the sabbath (Tr. Eruvin) without breaking the command not to leave one’s “place” on the sabbath (Ex 6.29). 13: The same list as in Lk 6.14–16, but in a different order (and without Judas Iscariot). 14: Jesus’ family is incorporated into the church. Brothers, see Mt 13.55; Mk 6.3; James later appears as the leader of the Jerusalem church (12.17; 15.13; 21.18).

¹⁵ In those days Peter stood up among the believers^a (together the crowd numbered about one hundred twenty persons) and said, ¹⁶ “Friends,^b the scripture had to be fulfilled, which the Holy Spirit through David foretold concerning Judas, who became a guide for those who arrested Jesus—¹⁷ for he was numbered among us and was allotted his share in this ministry.” ¹⁸ (Now this man acquired a field with the reward of his wickedness; and falling headlong,^c he burst open in the middle and all his bowels gushed out. ¹⁹ This became known to all the residents of Jerusalem, so that the field was called in their language Hakeldama, that is, Field of Blood.) ²⁰ “For it is written in the book of Psalms,

‘Let his homestead become desolate,
and let there be no one to live in it’;

and

‘Let another take his position of overseer.’

²¹ So one of the men who have accompanied us during all the time that the Lord Jesus went in and out among us, ²² beginning from the baptism of John until the day when he was taken up from us—one of these must become a witness with us to his resurrection.” ²³ So they proposed two, Joseph called Barsabbas, who was also known as Justus, and Matthias.

²⁴ Then they prayed and said, “Lord, you know everyone’s heart. Show us which one of these two you have chosen ²⁵ to take the place^d in this ministry and apostleship from which Judas turned aside to go to his own place.” ²⁶ And they cast lots for them, and the lot fell on Matthias; and he was added to the eleven apostles.

2 When the day of Pentecost had come, they were all together in one place. ² And suddenly from heaven there came a sound like the rush of a violent wind, and it filled the entire house where they were sitting. ³ Divided tongues, as of fire, appeared among them, and a tongue rested on each of them. ⁴ All of them were filled with the Holy Spirit and began to speak in other languages, as the Spirit gave them ability.

⁵ Now there were devout Jews from every nation under heaven living in Jerusalem.

⁶ And at this sound the crowd gathered and was bewildered, because each one heard them speaking in the native language of each.

⁷ Amazed and astonished, they asked, “Are not all these who are speaking Galileans?” ⁸ And how is it that we hear, each of us, in our own

^a Gk brothers

^b Gk Men, brothers

^c Or swelling up

^d Other ancient authorities read the share

1.15–26: The restoration of the twelve. The selection of Matthias restores the number of apostles to twelve, corresponding to the twelve tribes of Israel. 16: Through David, in the Psalms quoted in v. 20; King David was traditionally viewed as the author of the Psalms. Judas, see Lk 22.3–6,47–48. 17: Us, the apostles. 18: Compare the gruesome death of Herod Agrippa in 12.23. According to Mt 27.5, Judas hanged himself. 19: Their language, Aramaic, a language closely related to Hebrew; the information is clearly for Luke’s Gk readers, not Peter’s Aramaic-speaking audience. 20: Scripture foresaw the situation (Ps 69.25) and dictates a course of action (Ps 109.8). In Acts, citations from the Hebrew Bible are based on the Gk version, the Septuagint. 21: The requirements stipulated here explain why Paul does not qualify as an apostle in Acts. 22: The baptism of John (Lk 3.1–21) marks the beginning of Jesus’ ministry (10.37). To become a witness . . . to Jesus’ resurrection in Acts means to become one of the twelve apostles, who function in a special sense as witnesses (v. 8; 2.32). 23: Nothing else is known about Joseph and Matthias. 24: Know . . . heart, see Lk 9.47; Acts 15.8. 26: Cast lots, allowing the “Lord” (v. 24; Jesus, or perhaps God) to choose. Lots were widely used in the ancient world for religious and social decisions and are often mentioned in the Hebrew Bible (e.g., Lev 16.8; 1 Sam 10.20–21; 1 Chr 25.8).

2.1–41: The day of Pentecost. The Feast of Weeks or Pentecost (Lev 23.15–21), the spring barley harvest, falls fifty days after Passover. In Jewish tradition the law was given on this day. 1–13: The coming of the Holy Spirit. 2: Rush of a violent wind, perhaps an allusion to Gen 1.2 (“while a mighty wind swept over the face of the waters” [alternate version]), though this and other features here are typical of theophanies—manifestations of God (Ex 19.16–19; 1 Kings 19.11; Isa 66.15). 3: John the Baptist had predicted a baptism “with the Holy Spirit and fire” (Lk 3.16; Mt 3.11; cf. Mk 1.8; Jn 1.33). 4: This baptism (1.5) or filling with the Spirit is clearly foundational for Acts but is not referred to elsewhere in the New Testament (but cf. Jn 20.22). 5: Devout Jews from every nation, emphasizing the universal character of the Pentecost event. 6: The other languages (v. 4) are foreign languages, not the “tongues” of 1 Cor 14.1–33. Perhaps the author thinks of a reversal of the confusion of languages at the tower native language?⁹ Parthians, Medes, Elamites, and residents of Mesopotamia, Judea and Cappadocia, Pontus and Asia,¹⁰ Phrygia and Pamphylia, Egypt and the parts of Libya belonging to Cyrene, and visitors from Rome, both Jews and proselytes,¹¹ Cretans and Arabs—in our own languages we hear them speaking about God’s deeds of power.”¹² All were amazed and perplexed, saying to one another, “What does this mean?”¹³ But others sneered and said, “They are filled with new wine.”

2.9–11: The native lands of Pentecost pilgrims.

¹⁴ But Peter, standing with the eleven, raised his voice and addressed them, “Men of Judea and all who live in Jerusalem, let this be known to you, and listen to what I say. ¹⁵ Indeed, these are not drunk, as you suppose, for it is only nine o’clock in the morning. ¹⁶ No, this is what was spoken through the prophet Joel:

¹⁷ ‘In the last days it will be, God declares, that I will pour out my Spirit upon all flesh, and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, and your young men shall see visions, and your old men shall dream dreams. ¹⁸ Even upon my slaves, both men and women, in those days I will pour out my Spirit; and they shall prophesy. ¹⁹ And I will show portents in the heaven above and signs on the earth below, blood, and fire, and smoky mist. ²⁰ The sun shall be turned to darkness and the moon to blood, before the coming of the Lord’s great and glorious day.

of Babel (Gen 11.1–9). 9–11: The list of countries and races, generally moving from east to west, suggests universal participation in the Pentecost event. 10: Proselytes, full converts to Judaism. 13: Filled with new wine, i.e., drunk (v. 15). 14–36: Peter’s sermon. Like other Hellenistic historians Luke provides characters with speeches appropriate to their circumstances. These may use traditional material but also convey Luke’s viewpoint. The speeches use the same biblical style in which Luke has written the early chapters of Acts. 14: Peter remains the spokesman for the apostles (1.15); individualized actions by the others are not portrayed in Acts. 16: The event is interpreted as a fulfillment of scripture. 17: In the last days is added to the beginning of the quotation

²¹Then everyone who calls on the name of the Lord shall be saved.’

²²“You that are Israelites,^a listen to what I have to say: Jesus of Nazareth,^b a man attested to you by God with deeds of power, wonders, and signs that God did through him among you, as you yourselves know—²³this man, handed over to you according to the definite plan and foreknowledge of God, you crucified and killed by the hands of those outside the law.²⁴ But God raised him up, having freed him from death,^c because it was impossible for him to be held in its power.

²⁵For David says concerning him, ‘I saw the Lord always before me, for he is at my right hand so that I will not be shaken;

²⁶therefore my heart was glad, and my tongue rejoiced; moreover my flesh will live in hope.

²⁷For you will not abandon my soul to Hades, or let your Holy One experience corruption.

²⁸You have made known to me the ways of life; you will make me full of gladness with your presence.’

²⁹“Fellow Israelites,^d I may say to you confidently of our ancestor David that he both died and was buried, and his tomb is with us to this day.³⁰ Since he was a prophet, he knew that God had sworn with an oath to him that he would put one of his descendants on his throne.³¹ Foreseeing this, David^e spoke of the resurrection of the Messiah,^f saying, ‘He was not abandoned to Hades, nor did his flesh experience corruption.’

³²This Jesus God raised up, and of that all of us are witnesses.³³ Being therefore exalted at^g the right hand of God, and having received from the Father the promise of the Holy Spirit, he has poured out this that you both see and hear.³⁴ For David did not ascend into the heavens, but he himself says,

“The Lord said to my Lord,
“Sit at my right hand,
³⁵until I make your enemies your footstool.”

³⁶Therefore let the entire house of Israel know with certainty that God has made him both Lord and Messiah,^h this Jesus whom you crucified.”

³⁷Now when they heard this, they were cut to the heart and said to Peter and to the other apostles, “Brothers,^d what should we do?”

³⁸Peter said to them, “Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ so that your sins may be forgiven; and you will receive the gift of the Holy Spirit.

³⁹For the promise is for you, for your children, and for all who are far away, everyone whom the Lord our God calls to him.”⁴⁰ And he testified with many other arguments and exhorted them, saying, “Save yourselves from this corrupt generation.”⁴¹ So those who welcomed his message were baptized,

^a Gk Men, Israelites

^b Gk the Nazorean

^c Gk the pains of death

^d Gk Men, brothers

^e Gk he

^f Or the Christ

^g Or by

^h Or Christ

of Joel 2.28–32. 22: A man, Luke does not think of the incarnation of a divine being. Deeds of power, wonders, and signs, biblical language (e.g., Deut 4.34; 6.22; 26.8) used often in Acts. 23: The crucifixion of Jesus by Jews and Gentiles was part of a plan, see Lk 22.22; 24.26; Acts 4.27–28. 25: Ps 16.8–11. David, see 1.16n. 29: His tomb, see, e.g., Josephus, Ant. 7.392–394. 30: 2 Sam 7.12–13; Ps 132.11. 31: The Messiah is assumed to come from the line of David (cf. Rom 1.3). 32: Witnesses, see 1.22n. 33: Exalted, a reference to the ascension. The promise, see 1.4n. 34–35: Ps 110.1, like Ps 16.8–11 (vv. 25,31), here also refers not to David but to Jesus. It was widely used in early Christian thought about Jesus (Mk 12.36; 1 Cor 15.25; Heb 1.13). 36: Made him both Lord and Messiah, apparently at the resurrection. This “adoptionist” christology appears to conflict with Luke’s account of Jesus’ baptism (Lk 3.21–22); see 10.38n. Such tensions in Acts may indicate the use of sources with contrasting viewpoints. 37–41: The call to repentance. 37: Lk 3.10. 38: Here the gift of the Spirit follows baptism, but there is variety elsewhere (8.16; 10.44; 18.26; 19.5–6). 39: Isa 57.19; Joel 2.32. All who are far away, the universal nature of the church is clear from the beginning (cf. Lk 2.32). 41: Three thousand persons were added, illustrating the phenomenal success of Peter’s speech.

and that day about three thousand persons were added. ⁴²They devoted themselves to the apostles' teaching and fellowship, to the breaking of bread and the prayers.

⁴³Awe came upon everyone, because many wonders and signs were being done by the apostles. ⁴⁴All who believed were together and had all things in common; ⁴⁵they would sell their possessions and goods and distribute the proceeds^a to all, as any had need. ⁴⁶Day by day, as they spent much time together in the temple, they broke bread at home^b and ate their food with glad and generous^c hearts, ⁴⁷praising God and having the goodwill of all the people. And day by day the Lord added to their number those who were being saved.

3 One day Peter and John were going up to the temple at the hour of prayer, at three o'clock in the afternoon. ²And a man lame from birth was being carried in. People would lay him daily at the gate of the temple called the Beautiful Gate so that he could ask for alms from those entering the temple. ³When he saw Peter and John about to go into the temple, he asked them for alms. ⁴Peter looked intently at him, as did John, and said, "Look at us." ⁵And he fixed his attention on them, expecting to receive something from them. ⁶But Peter said, "I have no silver or gold, but what I have I give you; in the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth,^d stand up and walk." ⁷And he took him by the right hand and raised him up; and immediately his feet and ankles were made strong. ⁸Jumping up, he stood and began to walk, and he entered the temple with them, walking and leaping and praising God. ⁹All the people saw him walking and praising God, ¹⁰and they recognized him as the one who used to sit and ask for alms at the Beautiful Gate of the temple; and they were filled with wonder and amazement at what had happened to him.

¹¹While he clung to Peter and John, all the people ran together to them in the portico called Solomon's Portico, utterly astonished. ¹²When Peter saw it, he addressed the people, "You Israelites,^e why do you wonder at this, or why do you stare at us, as though by our own power or piety we had made him walk?" ¹³The God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob, the God of our ancestors has glorified his servant^f Jesus, whom you handed over and rejected in the presence of Pilate, though he had decided to release him.

^a Gk them

^b Or from house to house

^c Or sincere

^d Gk the Nazorean

^e Gk Men, Israelites

^f Or child

2.42–47: Life in the first Christian community. (The terms "Christian" and "Christianity" are used here for convenience, but strictly speaking are inaccurate for the time portrayed in the narrative; see 9.2n.; 11.25–26n.)

42: The breaking of bread (v. 46) describes both a common Christian meal (e.g., 20.7,11) and the Lord's Supper (27.33–38; cf. 1 Cor 11.17–34). 43–47: Luke portrays life in the early Jerusalem community as a golden age. 43: By performing wonders and signs the apostles fulfill Joel's prophecy (2.19) and imitate Jesus (2.22). 44–45: The ideal use of possessions and money illustrates the proper response to the preaching of Jesus on this subject in the Gospel (see Lk 6.20; 12.13–21,33–34; 14.12–24,33). For community of goods in the Dead Sea scrolls, see 1QS 1.11–12; cf. Josephus, J.W. 2.122 on the Essenes. 46: Members of the growing Christian group are simultaneously devout Jews who remain close to the temple.

3.1–10: Peter's healing miracle in the Temple. An illustration of the apostles' "wonders and signs" (2.43). 1: The apostles center their activity in the temple (see 2.46) and so imitate Jesus' practice in Jerusalem (note the distinctive portrayal in Lk 20–21). John appears here and elsewhere with Peter but with no individualized role. Three o'clock in the afternoon, when sacrifice was offered with prayer (Ex 29.39; Lev 6.20; Josephus, Ant. 14.65). 2: The Beautiful Gate, perhaps the Nicanor Gate of Corinthian bronze on the east side of the Temple; see Josephus, J.W. 5.201. 6: The name is a key concept in Acts (v. 16; 2.21,38), as 4.7–12 will underline (see also 4.17,18,30; 10.43; 19.13).

3.11–26: Peter's explanation. In a second sermon Peter links Jesus with the patriarchs and Moses. 11: Solomon's Portico, a colonnade located by Josephus (J.W. 5.185; Ant. 20.221) on the east side of the Temple. 13: The word servant recalls Isa 52.13 and the suffering servant of the Lord (4.27; 8.30–35). Pilate, Pontius Pilate, the Roman governor of Judea, who sentenced Jesus to death (Lk 3.1; 23.24). Roman responsibility for the death of ¹⁴ But you rejected the Holy and Righteous One and asked to have a murderer given to you, ¹⁵ and you killed the Author of life, whom God raised from the dead. To this we are witnesses. ¹⁶ And by faith in his name, his name itself has made this man strong, whom you see and know; and the faith that is through Jesus^a has given him this perfect health in the presence of all of you.

¹⁷ “And now, friends,^b I know that you acted in ignorance, as did also your rulers. ¹⁸ In this way God fulfilled what he had foretold through all the prophets, that his Messiah^c would suffer. ¹⁹ Repent therefore, and turn to God so that your sins may be wiped out, ²⁰ so that times of refreshing may come from the presence of the Lord, and that he may send the Messiah^d appointed for you, that is, Jesus, ²¹ who must remain in heaven until the time of universal restoration that God announced long ago through his holy prophets. ²² Moses said, “The Lord your God will raise up for you from your own people^b a prophet like me. You must listen to whatever he tells you. ²³ And it will be that everyone who does not listen to that prophet will be utterly rooted out of the people.” ²⁴ And all the prophets, as many as have spoken, from Samuel and those after him, also predicted these days. ²⁵ You are the descendants of the prophets and of the covenant that God gave to your ancestors, saying to Abraham, ‘And in your descendants all the families of the earth shall be blessed.’ ²⁶ When God raised up his servant,^e he sent him first to you, to bless you by turning each of you from your wicked ways.”

4 While Peter and John^f were speaking to the people, the priests, the captain of the temple, and the Sadducees came to them, ² much annoyed because they were teaching the people and proclaiming that in Jesus there is the resurrection of the dead. ³ So they arrested them and put them in custody until the next day, for it was already evening. ⁴ But many of those who heard the word believed; and they numbered about five thousand.

⁵ The next day their rulers, elders, and scribes assembled in Jerusalem, ⁶ with Annas the high priest, Caiaphas, John,^g and Alexander, and all who were of the high-priestly family. ⁷ When they had made the prisoners^h stand in their midst, they inquired, “By what power or by what name did you do this?” ⁸ Then Peter, filled with the Holy Spirit, said to them, “Rulers of the people and elders, ⁹ if we are questioned today because of a good deed done to someone who was sick and are asked how this man has been healed, ¹⁰ let it be known to all of you, and to all the people of Israel, that this man is standing before you

^a Gk him

^b Gk brothers

^c Or his Christ

^d Or the Christ

^e Or child

^f Gk While they

^g Other ancient authorities read Jonathan

^h Gk them

Jesus is downplayed here as in Lk 23.4,14–16,20–25; contrast Acts 4.27. 14: A murderer, Barabbas (Lk 23.18–19). 15: Author, the word can mean “pioneer” or “founder” (of a new city); in 5.31 it is “leader” (cf. Heb 2.10; 12.2). The testimony of the witnesses is again emphasized (1.22n.). 16: Name, see v. 6n. 17: You acted in ignorance, mitigating the guilt emphasized in vv. 13–15 (see 4.10). Compare 14.16 and 17.30. 18: The necessity that the Messiah would suffer was foretold, see Lk 24.25–27,46; Acts 17.2–3; 26.22–23. Recall the “plan” of 2.23. 19: Lk 3.3. 22: 7.37. Jesus is successor of Moses (Deut 18.15) as well as David. 23: Deut 18.19; Lev 23.29. 24: These days, i.e., the last days (2.17). 25: Gen 12.3; 18.18; 22.18. 26: First to you, implying the later mission to the Gentiles.

4.1–22: Arrest and release of Peter and John. The first of many incidents in which the apostles defend the faith before the authorities. 1–2: Captain of the temple, the officer in charge of the Temple police. Sadducees, a circle composed of priestly and lay nobility who according to Luke denied the resurrection of the dead (23.6–8). 3: It was not legal to hold a judicial inquiry at night. 4: Five thousand, the rapid growth of the community of believers continues (see 2.41). This is a recurrent theme in Acts, typically in the face of opposition. 5–6: Perhaps the rulers are priests; with the elders and scribes they made up the Sanhedrin, or council (v. 15), of which the high priest was head. Annas held this office from 6–14 CE; Caiaphas was his son-in-law (Jn 18.13) and became high priest in 18 CE (Lk 3.2); John may be Jonathan, the son of Annas who succeeded Caiaphas in 37 CE. 8–12: A condensed version of the speeches in chs 2, 3, 10, and 13. The scene in v. 8 represents the fulfillment of Jesus’

in good health by the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth,^a whom you crucified, whom God raised from the dead. ¹¹This Jesus^b is ‘the stone that was rejected by you, the builders;

it has become the cornerstone.’^c

¹²There is salvation in no one else, for there is no other name under heaven given among mortals by which we must be saved.”

¹³Now when they saw the boldness of Peter and John and realized that they were uneducated and ordinary men, they were amazed and recognized them as companions of Jesus. ¹⁴When they saw the man who had been cured standing beside them, they had nothing to say in opposition. ¹⁵So they ordered them to leave the council while they discussed the matter with one another. ¹⁶They said, “What will we do with them? For it is obvious to all who live in Jerusalem that a notable sign has been done through them; we cannot deny it. ¹⁷But to keep it from spreading further among the people, let us warn them to speak no more to anyone in this name.” ¹⁸So they called them and ordered them not to speak or teach at all in the name of Jesus. ¹⁹But Peter and John answered them, “Whether it is right in God’s sight to listen to you rather than to God, you must judge; ²⁰for we cannot keep from speaking about what we have seen and heard.” ²¹After threatening them again, they let them go, finding no way to punish them because of the people, for all of them praised God for what had happened. ²²For the man on whom this sign of healing had been performed was more than forty years old.

²³After they were released, they went to their friends^d and reported what the chief priests and the elders had said to them.

²⁴When they heard it, they raised their voices together to God and said, “Sovereign Lord, who made the heaven and the earth, the sea, and everything in them, ²⁵it is you who said by the Holy Spirit through our ancestor David, your servant:^e

‘Why did the Gentiles rage, and the peoples imagine vain things?’

²⁶The kings of the earth took their stand, and the rulers have gathered together against the Lord and against his Messiah.’^f

²⁷For in this city, in fact, both Herod and Pontius Pilate, with the Gentiles and the peoples of Israel, gathered together against your holy servant^e Jesus, whom you anointed, ²⁸to do whatever your hand and your plan had predestined to take place. ²⁹And now, Lord, look at their threats, and grant to your servants^g to speak your word with all boldness, ³⁰while you stretch out your hand to heal, and signs and wonders are performed through the name of your holy servant^e Jesus.” ³¹When they had prayed, the place in which they were gathered together was shaken; and they were all filled with the Holy Spirit and spoke the word of God with boldness.

³²Now the whole group of those who believed were of one heart and soul, and no one claimed private ownership of any possessions, but everything they owned was held in common. ³³With great power the apostles

^a Gk the Nazorean

^b Gk This

^c Or keystone

^d Gk their own

^e Or child

^f Or his Christ

^g Gk slaves

promise in Lk 12.12; compare the prediction of Lk 21.15. ¹¹: Ps 118.22 was popular in Christian arguments (Mt 21.42; Mk 12.10; Lk 20.17; 1 Pet 2.7). ¹²: No other name underlines the answer (v. 10) to the question posed (v. 7) about the name; see 3.6,16; 4.17–18,30. ¹³: Boldness, this word and its cognates are used often in Acts and connote frank and courageous speech (e.g., 13.46; 18.26). Uneducated and ordinary men, lacking legal training. ¹⁹: The reply here and in 5.29 is reminiscent of Socrates’ famous words (Plato, Apology 29d).

4.23–31: Prayer of the community. ²⁴: Ps 146.6. 25–26: Ps 2.1–2. ²⁷: Servant, see 3.13n.; the same term is used of David in v. 25. Herod, Herod Antipas, Lk 3.1n.; 23.12. Pontius Pilate, see 3.13n. ²⁸: See 2.23n.; 3.18. ²⁹: Look at their threats, a prayer to be shielded from harm. ³¹: The place . . . was shaken, meaning that the prayer was heard (cf. 16.25–26).

4.32–5.11: The sharing of goods. 4.32–35: The ideal handling of possessions in the early Jerusalem commu-

gave their testimony to the resurrection of the Lord Jesus, and great grace was upon them all. ³⁴There was not a needy person among them, for as many as owned lands or houses sold them and brought the proceeds of what was sold. ³⁵They laid it at the apostles' feet, and it was distributed to each as any had need. ³⁶There was a Levite, a native of Cyprus, Joseph, to whom the apostles gave the name Barnabas (which means "son of encouragement"). ³⁷He sold a field that belonged to him, then brought the money, and laid it at the apostles' feet.

5 But a man named Ananias, with the consent of his wife Sapphira, sold a piece of property; ²with his wife's knowledge, he kept back some of the proceeds, and brought only a part and laid it at the apostles' feet.

³"Ananias," Peter asked, "why has Satan filled your heart to lie to the Holy Spirit and to keep back part of the proceeds of the land? ⁴While it remained unsold, did it not remain your own? And after it was sold, were not the proceeds at your disposal? How is it that you have contrived this deed in your heart? You did not lie to us^a but to God!"

⁵Now when Ananias heard these words, he fell down and died. And great fear seized all who heard of it. ⁶The young men came and wrapped up his body,^b then carried him out and buried him.

⁷After an interval of about three hours his wife came in, not knowing what had happened. ⁸Peter said to her, "Tell me whether you and your husband sold the land for such and such a price." And she said, "Yes, that was the price." ⁹Then Peter said to her, "How is it that you have agreed together to put the Spirit of the Lord to the test? Look, the feet of those who have buried your husband are at the door, and they will carry you out." ¹⁰Immediately she fell down at his feet and died. When the young men came in they found her dead, so they carried her out and buried her beside her husband. ¹¹And great fear seized the whole church and all who heard of these things.

¹²Now many signs and wonders were done among the people through the apostles. And they were all together in Solomon's Portico.

¹³None of the rest dared to join them, but the people held them in high esteem. ¹⁴Yet more than ever believers were added to the Lord, great numbers of both men and women, ¹⁵so that they even carried out the sick into the streets, and laid them on cots and mats, in order that Peter's shadow might fall on some of them as he came by. ¹⁶A great number of people would also gather from the towns around Jerusalem, bringing the sick and those tormented by unclean spirits, and they were all cured.

¹⁷Then the high priest took action; he and all who were with him (that is, the sect of the Sadducees), being filled with jealousy, ¹⁸arrested the apostles and put them in the public prison. ¹⁹But during the night an angel of the Lord opened the prison doors, brought them out, and said, ²⁰"Go, stand in the temple and tell the people the whole message about this life." ²¹When they heard this, they entered the temple at daybreak and went on with their teaching.

When the high priest and those with him arrived, they called together the council and ^a Gk to men

^b Meaning of Gk uncertain

ity (see 2.44–45n.). 36–37: Levite, a member of the priestly tribe of Levi. Barnabas, who later appears as Paul's missionary companion in 13.1–14.28 (cf. 1 Cor 9.6), embodies the response of the ideal believer. 5.1–11: The negative example of Ananias and Sapphira. Compare the story of Achan in Josh 7. 3: Satan, Lk 22.3. The apostles, or perhaps the church, represent the Holy Spirit; cf. 9.4; 15.28. 4: The property was at Ananias's disposal (although this contradicts 4.32,34) until he pretended to dedicate all his goods. 11: Church, used here for the first time, designates the entire congregation of believers, which is still restricted to Jerusalem. Elsewhere it means either local communities in Jerusalem (8.1,3; 11.22; 12.5; 15.4,22; 18.22), Antioch (11.26; 13.1; 14.27; 15.3), Ephesus (20.17), and other places (14.23; 15.41; 16.5), or, occasionally, the universal body of all believers (20.28).

5.12–16: Signs and wonders. 12: Solomon's Portico, see 3.11n. 13: None of the rest, i.e., nonbelievers; the Christians now stand out as a clearly defined group. 16: Compare Mk 1.32–34.

5.17–42: Second arrest of the apostles. The motif of obeying God rather than human beings is played out again before the council (cf. ch 4). 19: An angel . . . opened the prison doors, see 12.6–11; cf. 16.25–26. 21: Body of the whole body of the elders of Israel, and sent to the prison to have them brought.

²² But when the temple police went there, they did not find them in the prison; so they returned and reported, ²³ “We found the prison securely locked and the guards standing at the doors, but when we opened them, we found no one inside.” ²⁴ Now when the captain of the temple and the chief priests heard these words, they were perplexed about them, wondering what might be going on. ²⁵ Then someone arrived and announced, “Look, the men whom you put in prison are standing in the temple and teaching the people!” ²⁶ Then the captain went with the temple police and brought them, but without violence, for they were afraid of being stoned by the people.

²⁷ When they had brought them, they had them stand before the council. The high priest questioned them, ²⁸ saying, “We gave you strict orders not to teach in this name,^a yet here you have filled Jerusalem with your teaching and you are determined to bring this man’s blood on us.” ²⁹ But Peter and the apostles answered, “We must obey God rather than any human authority.^b ³⁰ The God of our ancestors raised up Jesus, whom you had killed by hanging him on a tree. ³¹ God exalted him at his right hand as Leader and Savior that he might give repentance to Israel and forgiveness of sins. ³² And we are witnesses to these things, and so is the Holy Spirit whom God has given to those who obey him.”

³³ When they heard this, they were enraged and wanted to kill them. ³⁴ But a Pharisee in the council named Gamaliel, a teacher of the law, respected by all the people, stood up and ordered the men to be put outside for a short time. ³⁵ Then he said to them, “Fellow Israelites,^c consider carefully what you propose to do to these men. ³⁶ For some time ago Theudas rose up, claiming to be somebody, and a number of men, about four hundred, joined him; but he was killed, and all who followed him were dispersed and disappeared. ³⁷ After him Judas the Galilean rose up at the time of the census and got people to follow him; he also perished, and all who followed him were scattered. ³⁸ So in the present case, I tell you, keep away from these men and let them alone; because if this plan or this undertaking is of human origin, it will fail; ³⁹ but if it is of God, you will not be able to overthrow them—in that case you may even be found fighting against God!”

They were convinced by him, ⁴⁰ and when they had called in the apostles, they had them flogged. Then they ordered them not to speak in the name of Jesus, and let them go. ⁴¹ As they left the council, they rejoiced that they were considered worthy to suffer dishonor for the sake of the name. ⁴² And every day in the temple and at home^d they did not cease to teach and proclaim Jesus as the Messiah.^e

6 Now during those days, when the disciples were increasing in number, the Hellenists complained against the Hebrews because their widows were being neglected in the daily distribution of food. ² And the twelve called together the whole community of the disciples and said, “It is not right that we should neglect the word of God in order

^a Other ancient authorities read Did we not give you strict orders not to teach in this name?

^b Gk than men

^c Gk Men, Israelites

^d Or from house to house

^e Or the Christ

the elders, another word for council or Sanhedrin. 29: See 4.19n. 30: The reference to the tree (cross; 10.39; 13.29) recalls Deut 21.22–23, but it is not developed; cf. Gal 3.13. 31: A concise summary of the theology of Acts. Leader, the same Gk word is translated “Author” in 3.15. Savior, a term widely used in the Hellenistic world (e.g., 11.19n.). 34: A Pharisee (see 15.5n.), the famous Rabban Gamaliel, the Elder, later identified as Paul’s teacher (22.3). 36–37: The historical order of the figures referred to is reversed. Theudas, according to Josephus (Ant. 20.97–98), raised his revolt (ca. 44–46 CE) some years after Gamaliel’s speech. Judas the Galilean, a revolutionary leader who in 6 or 7 CE opposed the imposition of new taxes following the census of Quirinius (Lk 2.2). 40: Had them flogged, to reinforce the warning.

6.1–7: Choice of the seven. The seven are identified as the first deacons by later tradition but hold no ecclesiastical office here. 1: The Hellenists, Greek-speaking Jewish Christians; the Hebrews, Aramaic-speaking Jewish to wait on tables.^a ³Therefore, friends,^b select from among yourselves seven men of good standing, full of the Spirit and of wisdom, whom we may appoint to this task, ⁴while we, for our part, will devote ourselves to prayer and to serving the word.” ⁵What they said pleased the whole community, and they chose Stephen, a man full of faith and the Holy Spirit, together with Philip, Prochorus, Nicanor, Timon, Parmenas, and Nicolaus, a proselyte of Antioch. ⁶They had these men stand before the apostles, who prayed and laid their hands on them.

⁷The word of God continued to spread; the number of the disciples increased greatly in Jerusalem, and a great many of the priests became obedient to the faith.

⁸Stephen, full of grace and power, did great wonders and signs among the people. ⁹Then some of those who belonged to the synagogue of the Freedmen (as it was called), Cyrenians, Alexandrians, and others of those from Cilicia and Asia, stood up and argued with Stephen. ¹⁰But they could not withstand the wisdom and the Spirit^c with which he spoke. ¹¹Then they secretly instigated some men to say, “We have heard him speak blasphemous words against Moses and God.” ¹²They stirred up the people as well as the elders and the scribes; then they suddenly confronted him, seized him, and brought him before the council. ¹³They set up false witnesses who said, “This man never stops saying things against this holy place and the law; ¹⁴for we have heard him say that this Jesus of Nazareth^d will destroy this place and will change the customs that Moses handed on to us.” ¹⁵And all who sat in the council looked intently at him, and they saw that his face was like the face of an angel.

7 Then the high priest asked him, “Are these things so?” ²And Stephen replied: “Brothers^e and fathers, listen to me. The God of glory appeared to our ancestor Abraham when he was in Mesopotamia, before he lived in Haran, ³and said to him, ‘Leave your country and your relatives and go to the land that I will show you.’ ⁴Then he left the country of the Chaldeans and settled in Haran. After his father died, God had him move from there to this country in which you are now living. ⁵He did not give him any of it as a heritage, not even a foot’s length, but promised to give it to him as his possession and to his descendants after him, even though he had no child. ⁶And God spoke in these terms, that his descendants would be resident aliens in a country belonging to others, who would enslave them and mistreat them during four hundred years. ⁷‘But I will judge the nation that they serve,’ said God, ‘and after that they shall come out and worship me in this place.’ ⁸Then he gave him the covenant of circumcision. And so Abraham^f became the father of

^a Or keep accounts

^b Gk brothers

^c Or spirit

^d Gk the Nazorean

^e Gk Men, brothers

^f Gk he

Christians. 2: The twelve is used to designate the apostles only here in Acts. To wait on tables, i.e., to feed the hungry. 5: Stephen, Philip, and the other names are Greek. Proselyte, a Gentile convert to Judaism, implying that the others were born Jews. 6: Laid . . . hands, a ritual of consecration and appointment; see Num 8.10; 27.23; 1 Tim 4.14; 2 Tim 1.6 (13.3). 7: Not all priests are hostile. Acts throughout reports the partial success of the Christian movement among Jews (21.20n.; 28.24).

6.8–8.1a: Preaching and martyrdom of Stephen. Elements of Stephen’s trial and death reflect the passion of Jesus. 6.8: Stephen does wonders and signs like the apostles (2.43; 4.30; 5.12). 9: Diaspora Jews argued with Stephen. Freedmen, former slaves, either Jews or proselytes; an inscription found in Jerusalem possibly refers to this synagogue. Cyrenians, from Cyrene in northern Africa (see 11.20n.). Cilicia, the southeastern portion of Asia Minor where Paul was from (21.39; 22.3; 23.34). Asia, the Roman province of that name in western Asia Minor. 10: A fulfillment of Jesus’ prediction in Lk 21.15. 13: False witnesses, cf. Mk 14.55–57. 14: Jesus . . . will destroy this place, Mk 14.58; Lk 21.6; Jn 2.19. The change in customs reported by Mk 7.15,19 is not recorded in Lk. These charges had not been made in the earlier examinations of the apostles. 7.2–50: Stephen’s speech contains some thirty citations from the Greek version of the Hebrew Bible (the Septuagint), which was the Bible of the early Christians. Accordingly, Stephen makes reference to Abraham (v. 2), Joseph (v. 9), Moses (v. 20), and others (cf. 13.16–24; Heb 11.4–40). 3: Gen 12.1; according to Gen 11.31 Abraham was already in Haran (against v. 2). 5: Gen 12.7; 13.15;

Isaac and circumcised him on the eighth day; and Isaac became the father of Jacob, and Jacob of the twelve patriarchs.

⁹“The patriarchs, jealous of Joseph, sold him into Egypt; but God was with him, ¹⁰ and rescued him from all his afflictions, and enabled him to win favor and to show wisdom when he stood before Pharaoh, king of Egypt, who appointed him ruler over Egypt and over all his household. ¹¹ Now there came a famine throughout Egypt and Canaan, and great suffering, and our ancestors could find no food. ¹² But when Jacob heard that there was grain in Egypt, he sent our ancestors there on their first visit. ¹³ On the second visit Joseph made himself known to his brothers, and Joseph’s family became known to Pharaoh. ¹⁴ Then Joseph sent and invited his father Jacob and all his relatives to come to him, seventy-five in all; ¹⁵ so Jacob went down to Egypt. He himself died there as well as our ancestors, ¹⁶ and their bodies^a were brought back to Shechem and laid in the tomb that Abraham had bought for a sum of silver from the sons of Hamor in Shechem.

¹⁷“But as the time drew near for the fulfillment of the promise that God had made to Abraham, our people in Egypt increased and multiplied ¹⁸ until another king who had not known Joseph ruled over Egypt. ¹⁹ He dealt craftily with our race and forced our ancestors to abandon their infants so that they would die. ²⁰ At this time Moses was born, and he was beautiful before God. For three months he was brought up in his father’s house; ²¹ and when he was abandoned, Pharaoh’s daughter adopted him and brought him up as her own son. ²² So Moses was instructed in all the wisdom of the Egyptians and was powerful in his words and deeds.

²³“When he was forty years old, it came into his heart to visit his relatives, the Israelites.^b ²⁴ When he saw one of them being wronged, he defended the oppressed man and avenged him by striking down the Egyptian. ²⁵ He supposed that his kinsfolk would understand that God through him was rescuing them, but they did not understand. ²⁶ The next day he came to some of them as they were quarreling and tried to reconcile them, saying, ‘Men, you are brothers; why do you wrong each other?’ ²⁷ But the man who was wronging his neighbor pushed Moses^c aside, saying, ‘Who made you a ruler and a judge over us?’ ²⁸ Do you want to kill me as you killed the Egyptian yesterday?’ ²⁹ When he heard this, Moses fled and became a resident alien in the land of Midian. There he became the father of two sons.

³⁰“Now when forty years had passed, an angel appeared to him in the wilderness of Mount Sinai, in the flame of a burning bush. ³¹ When Moses saw it, he was amazed at the sight; and as he approached to look, there came the voice of the Lord: ³² ‘I am the God of your ancestors, the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob.’ Moses began to tremble and did not dare to look. ³³ Then the Lord said to him, ‘Take off the sandals from your feet, for the place where you are standing is holy ground. ³⁴ I have surely seen the mistreatment of my people who are in Egypt and have heard their groaning, and I have come down to rescue them. Come now, I will send you to Egypt.’

³⁵“It was this Moses whom they rejected when they said, ‘Who made you a ruler and a judge?’ and whom God now sent as both ruler and liberator through the angel who appeared to him in the bush. ³⁶ He led them out, having performed wonders and signs in Egypt, at the Red Sea, and in the wilderness for forty years. ³⁷ This is the Moses who said to the Israelites, ‘God will raise up a prophet for you from your own people^d as he raised me up.’ ³⁸ He is the one who was in the

^a Gk they

^b Gk his brothers, the sons of Israel

^c Gk him

^d Gk your brothers

17.8; 48.4. 6–7: Four hundred years, see Gen 15.13–14; cf. Ex 12.40. 8: Gen 17.10–13. 9: Gen 37. 10–16: Gen 39–50. 14: Seventy-five, according to the Septuagint of Gen 46.27; Ex 1.5. 16: Shechem, but according to Gen 50.13 Jacob was buried at Hebron. Abraham, but according to Gen 33.19 and Josh 24.32 it was Jacob who bought the tomb at Shechem. 17–19: Ex 1–2. 20–22: Ex 2.1–10. 20: The importance of Moses is stressed by the amount of space devoted to him in the following verses. 23–29: Ex 2.11–22. 29: Midian, northwestern Arabia, on the east coast of the Gulf of Aqaba (Eilat). 30–34: Ex 3.1–10. 30: In Ex 3.1 the mountain is Horeb, not Sinai. 35: Ex 2.14. 37: A congregation in the wilderness with the angel who spoke to him at Mount Sinai, and with our ancestors; and he received living oracles to give to us.³⁹ Our ancestors were unwilling to obey him; instead, they pushed him aside, and in their hearts they turned back to Egypt,⁴⁰ saying to Aaron, ‘Make gods for us who will lead the way for us; as for this Moses who led us out from the land of Egypt, we do not know what has happened to him.’⁴¹ At that time they made a calf, offered a sacrifice to the idol, and reveled in the works of their hands.⁴² But God turned away from them and handed them over to worship the host of heaven, as it is written in the book of the prophets:

‘Did you offer to me slain victims and sacrifices forty years in the wilderness, O house of Israel?

⁴³ No; you took along the tent of Moloch, and the star of your god Rephan, the images that you made to worship;

so I will remove you beyond Babylon.’

⁴⁴ “Our ancestors had the tent of testimony in the wilderness, as God^a directed when he spoke to Moses, ordering him to make it according to the pattern he had seen.⁴⁵ Our ancestors in turn brought it in with Joshua when they dispossessed the nations that God drove out before our ancestors. And it was there until the time of David,⁴⁶ who found favor with God and asked that he might find a dwelling place for the house of Jacob.^b ⁴⁷ But it was Solomon who built a house for him.⁴⁸ Yet the Most High does not dwell in houses made with human hands;^c as the prophet says,

⁴⁹ ‘Heaven is my throne,
and the earth is my footstool.
What kind of house will you build for me,
says the Lord,

or what is the place of my rest?

⁵⁰ Did not my hand make all these things?’

⁵¹ “You stiff-necked people, uncircumcised in heart and ears, you are forever opposing the Holy Spirit, just as your ancestors used to do.⁵² Which of the prophets did your ancestors not persecute? They killed those who foretold the coming of the Righteous One, and now you have become his betrayers and murderers.⁵³ You are the ones that received the law as ordained by angels, and yet you have not kept it.”

⁵⁴ When they heard these things, they became enraged and ground their teeth at Stephen.^d ⁵⁵ But filled with the Holy Spirit, he gazed into heaven and saw the glory of God and Jesus standing at the right hand of God.⁵⁶ “Look,” he said, “I see the heavens opened and the Son of Man standing at the right hand of God!”⁵⁷ But they covered their ears, and with a loud shout all rushed together against him.⁵⁸ Then they dragged him out of the city and began to stone him; and the witnesses laid their coats at the feet of a young man named Saul.⁵⁹ While they were stoning Stephen, he prayed, “Lord Jesus, receive my spirit.”⁶⁰ Then he knelt down and cried out in a loud voice, “Lord,

^a Gk he

^b Other ancient authorities read for the God of Jacob

^c Gk with hands

^d Gk him

prophet, Deut 18.15; see 3.22. 38: In the Hebrew Bible God, not an angel, speaks to Moses and gives him the law (living oracles); cf. v. 53. 40: Ex 32.1. 42–43: Am 5.25–27 is quoted to support the charge of idolatry raised in vv. 40–42. The book of the (twelve minor) prophets (Hosea through Malachi) was thought of as a unit. 42: The host of heaven, the stars (2 Kings 17.16), which are associated with various supernatural beings. 43: Moloch, a deity to whom children were offered as sacrifices (Jer 32.35). Rephan, an astral deity (Saturn). 44: The tent of testimony, the tabernacle (Ex 27.21), is brought forward in the following verses as preferable to the Temple; compare the “true tent” of Heb 8.1–5. 45: Josh 3.7–4.18. 46: Ps 132.5; cf. 2 Sam 7.1–2. 47: 1 Kings 6. 48: Since made with human hands is language associated with idolatry in the Hebrew Bible (see Ps 115.4; Isa 2.8), its application to the Temple would be offensive to a Jewish audience. Cf. 17.24–25. 49–50: Isa 66.1–2. 51: Stiff-necked people, uncircumcised in heart and ears, see Ex 33.3.5; Lev 26.41; Jer 9.26; cf. Rom 2.29. 52: The question is hyperbolic but recalls Lk 11.47–48. 53: The law, being ordained by angels (cf. v. 38) is considered valid (Heb 2.2); but Paul used this Jewish tradition to argue that the law is secondary (Gal 3.19). 54–58a: Here Stephen is described as the victim of a lynching. 55–56: Lk 22.69. Son of Man in the Gospels often denotes Jesus as the glorified heavenly judge;

Chs 8–11: Sites of early Christian missionary activities.

do not hold this sin against them.” When he had said this, he died.^a ¹ And Saul approved of their killing him.

That day a severe persecution began against the church in Jerusalem, and all except the apostles were scattered throughout the countryside of Judea and Samaria.² Devout men buried Stephen and made loud lamentation over him.³ But Saul was ravaging the church by entering house after house; dragging off both men and women, he committed them to prison.

⁴ Now those who were scattered went from place to place, proclaiming the word.⁵ Philip went down to the city^b of Samaria and proclaimed the Messiah^c to them.⁶ The crowds with one accord listened eagerly to what was said by Philip, hearing and seeing the signs that he did,⁷ for unclean spirits, crying with loud shrieks, came out of many who were possessed; and many others who were paralyzed or lame were cured.⁸ So there was great joy in that city.

⁹ Now a certain man named Simon had previously practiced magic in the city and amazed the people of Samaria, saying that he was someone great.¹⁰ All of them, from the least to the greatest, listened to him eagerly, saying, “This man is the power of God that is called Great.”¹¹ And they listened eagerly to him because for a long time he had amazed them with his magic.¹² But when they believed Philip, who was proclaiming the good news about the kingdom of God and the name of Jesus Christ, they were baptized, both men and women.¹³ Even Simon himself believed. After being baptized, he stayed constantly with Philip and was amazed when he saw the signs and great miracles that took place.

¹⁴ Now when the apostles at Jerusalem heard that Samaria had accepted the word of God, they sent Peter and John to them.¹⁵ The two went down and prayed for them that they might receive the Holy Spirit¹⁶ (for as yet the Spirit had not come^d upon any of them; they had only been baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus).¹⁷ Then Peter and John^e laid their hands on them, and they received the Holy Spirit.¹⁸ Now when Simon saw that the Spirit was given through the laying on of the apostles’ hands, he offered them money,¹⁹ saying, “Give me also this power so that anyone on whom I lay my hands may receive the Holy Spirit.”²⁰ But Peter said to him, “May your silver perish with you, because you thought you could obtain God’s gift with money!²¹ You have no part or share in this, for your heart is not right before God.²² Repent therefore of this wickedness of yours, and pray to the Lord that, if possible, the intent of your heart may be forgiven you.²³ For I see that you are in the gall of bitterness and the chains of wickedness.”²⁴ Simon answered, “Pray for me

^a Gk fell asleep

^b Other ancient authorities read a city

^c Or the Christ

^d Gk fallen

^e Gk they

elsewhere in the New Testament the term is found only here and in Rev 1.13; 14.14. 58b–8.1: The presence of witnesses, who were legally required to cast the first stones at the offender (Deut 17.7), suggests not a lynching but a judicial execution. 58b: Saul, Luke’s dramatic introduction of Paul. His presence may have been suggested by 1 Cor 15.9 and Gal 1.13 but is not confirmed by these references. 59: Lk 23.46. 60: See Lk 23.34n.

8.1b–40: Spread of the gospel to Samaria and beyond. Christianity now reaches non-Jewish regions. 1: Except the apostles, although unrealistic, it is important for Luke that the apostles remain in Jerusalem. Samaria, between Galilee to the north and Judea to the south, was inhabited by remnants of the northern tribes who worshiped the Lord God and used the Pentateuch. Jews despised them (2 Kings 17.24–41; cf. Mt 10.5). 3: Saul was ravaging the church, 9.1–2; cf. Gal 1.13. 4: Ironically, severe persecution leads to proclaiming the word in new places. 5: Philip, one of the seven mentioned in 6.5, is now active as an evangelist (21.8). All second-century references to this individual consider him to be one of the twelve apostles, but according to the idealized account of Acts the apostles remain in Jerusalem during this period. 9: Acts displays great interest in distinguishing between magic and Christian signs (see 13.6–12; 19.13–20). 12: Philip breaks religious barriers and fulfills the expectations about Samaritans generated by Luke’s Gospel (Lk 10.30–37; 17.11–19) and the promise of 1.8. 14: Jerusalem is represented as coordinating the ever-growing church (see 11.1,22). 16–17: Spirit had not come, see 2.38. Laid . . . hands, see 6.6n. 18–24: The medieval term “simony” (buying church offices) is derived from

to the Lord, that nothing of what you^a have said may happen to me.”

²⁵ Now after Peter and John^b had testified and spoken the word of the Lord, they returned to Jerusalem, proclaiming the good news to many villages of the Samaritans.

²⁶ Then an angel of the Lord said to Philip, “Get up and go toward the south^c to the road that goes down from Jerusalem to Gaza.” (This is a wilderness road.)²⁷ So he got up and went.

Now there was an Ethiopian eunuch, a court official of the Candace, queen of the Ethiopians, in charge of her entire treasury. He had come to Jerusalem to worship²⁸ and was returning home; seated in his chariot, he was reading the prophet Isaiah.²⁹ Then the Spirit said to Philip, “Go over to this chariot and join it.”³⁰ So Philip ran up to it and heard him reading the prophet Isaiah. He asked, “Do you understand what you are reading?”

³¹ He replied, “How can I, unless someone guides me?” And he invited Philip to get in and sit beside him.³² Now the passage of the scripture that he was reading was this:

“Like a sheep he was led to the slaughter, and like a lamb silent before its shearer, so he does not open his mouth.

³³ In his humiliation justice was denied him. Who can describe his generation? For his life is taken away from the earth.”

³⁴ The eunuch asked Philip, “About whom, may I ask you, does the prophet say this, about himself or about someone else?”³⁵ Then Philip began to speak, and starting with this scripture, he proclaimed to him the good news about Jesus.³⁶ As they were going along the road, they came to some water; and the eunuch said, “Look, here is water! What is to prevent me from being baptized?”^d³⁸ He commanded the chariot to stop, and both of them, Philip and the eunuch, went down into the water, and Philip^e baptized him.³⁹ When they came up out of the water, the Spirit of the Lord snatched Philip away; the eunuch saw him no more, and went on his way rejoicing.⁴⁰ But Philip found himself at Azotus, and as he was passing through the region, he proclaimed the good news to all the towns until he came to Caesarea.

9 Meanwhile Saul, still breathing threats and murder against the disciples of the Lord, went to the high priest² and asked him for letters to the synagogues at Damascus, so that if he found any who belonged to the Way, men or women, he might bring them bound to Jerusalem.³ Now as he was going along and approaching Damascus, suddenly a light from heaven flashed around him.⁴ He fell to the ground and heard a voice saying to him, “Saul, Saul, why

^a The Greek word for you and the verb pray are plural

^b Gk after they

^c Or go at noon

^d Other ancient authorities add all or most of verse 37, And Philip said, “If you believe with all your heart, you may.” And he replied, “I believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God.”

^e Gk he

this account. 27: An Ethiopian, see Ps 68.31; Zeph 3.10. The Candace was the title of the queen of the Ethiopians. Although he had come to Jerusalem to worship, a eunuch could not have become a proselyte (Deut 23.1). The passage may envisage fulfillment of Isa 56.3–5. 28: He was reading aloud to himself (as was customary in antiquity); hence Philip heard him (v. 30). 32–33: Isa 53.7–8; see Acts 3.13n. 35: Cf. Lk 24.27. 38: As in the case of the Samaritans, the baptism of an Ethiopian eunuch breaks social and ritual barriers (v. 12n.). Since in the ancient Mediterranean world Ethiopia was often considered to be located at the “ends of the earth” (e.g., Homer, Od. 1.22–23; Herodotus 3.25), this conversion fulfills the prediction of 1.8. 39: The Spirit of the Lord snatched Philip away, cf. 1 Kings 18.12; 2 Kings 2.16. 40: Philip’s evangelizing journey proceeds along the Mediterranean coast from Gaza (v. 26) through Azotus (ancient Ashdod, ca. 23 mi [37 km] north-northeast of Gaza) to Caesarea (ca. 55 mi [90 km] farther north). Caesarea was an important seaport and the headquarters of the Roman governor; see 10.1; 21.8.

9.1–19a: The conversion and call of Saul of Tarsus. Slightly different versions are found in 22.4–16; 26.9–18; Paul’s own account is in Gal 1.13–17; see 1 Cor 15.8. Key narratives in Acts are stressed by repetition. 1–2: Acts connects Paul with Jerusalem (7.58; 9.13,26), although Paul claimed he was unknown by sight in Judea (Gal 1.22–23). 2: The Way stands for Christianity (18.25; 19.9,23; 22.4; 24.14,22), but its origin is uncertain. The closest parallels can be found in the Dead Sea Scrolls; cf. Isa 40.3. 3–9: The passage incorporates various features of theophanies (e.g., 2 Macc 3; Acts 2.2n.) and stories of the call of prophets (e.g., Isa 6.1–13). 4–5: In persecuting do you persecute me?”⁵ He asked, “Who are you, Lord?” The reply came, “I am Jesus, whom you are persecuting.”⁶ But get up and enter the city, and you will be told what you are to do.”

⁷The men who were traveling with him stood speechless because they heard the voice but saw no one.⁸ Saul got up from the ground, and though his eyes were open, he could see nothing; so they led him by the hand and brought him into Damascus.⁹ For three days he was without sight, and neither ate nor drank.

¹⁰Now there was a disciple in Damascus named Ananias. The Lord said to him in a vision, “Ananias.” He answered, “Here I am, Lord.”¹¹ The Lord said to him, “Get up and go to the street called Straight, and at the house of Judas look for a man of Tarsus named Saul. At this moment he is praying,¹² and he has seen in a vision^a a man named Ananias come in and lay his hands on him so that he might regain his sight.”¹³ But Ananias answered, “Lord, I have heard from many about this man, how much evil he has done to your saints in Jerusalem;¹⁴ and here he has authority from the chief priests to bind all who invoke your name.”¹⁵ But the Lord said to him, “Go, for he is an instrument whom I have chosen to bring my name before Gentiles and kings and before the people of Israel;¹⁶ I myself will show him how much he must suffer for the sake of my name.”¹⁷ So Ananias went and entered the house. He laid his hands on Saul^b and said, “Brother Saul, the Lord Jesus, who appeared to you on your way here, has sent me so that you may regain your sight and be filled with the Holy Spirit.”¹⁸ And immediately something like scales fell from his eyes, and his sight was restored. Then he got up and was baptized,¹⁹ and after taking some food, he regained his strength.

For several days he was with the disciples in Damascus,²⁰ and immediately he began to proclaim Jesus in the synagogues, saying, “He is the Son of God.”²¹ All who heard him were amazed and said, “Is not this the man who made havoc in Jerusalem among those who invoked this name? And has he not come here for the purpose of bringing them bound before the chief priests?”²² Saul became increasingly more powerful and confounded the Jews who lived in Damascus by proving that Jesus^c was the Messiah.^d

²³After some time had passed, the Jews plotted to kill him,²⁴ but their plot became known to Saul. They were watching the gates day and night so that they might kill him;²⁵ but his disciples took him by night and let him down through an opening in the wall,^e lowering him in a basket.

²⁶When he had come to Jerusalem, he attempted to join the disciples; and they were all afraid of him, for they did not believe that he was a disciple.²⁷ But Barnabas took him, brought him to the apostles, and described for them how on the road he had seen the Lord, who had spoken to him, and how in Damascus he had spoken boldly in the name of Jesus.²⁸ So he went in and out among them in Jerusalem, speaking boldly in the name of the Lord.²⁹ He spoke and argued with the

^a Other ancient authorities lack in a vision

^b Gk him

^c Gk that this

^d Or the Christ

^e Gk through the wall

the disciples, he persecuted Jesus (cf. Mt 25.40). 10: Ananias, evidently one of the leaders of the believers at Damascus (see 22.12). Acts does not record how or when Christians first arrived in Damascus. 11: The street called Straight, commonly identified as Darbel-Mostakim, an east-to-west street in the Old City of Damascus. Tarsus, see v. 30n. 13: Saints, holy ones, i.e., Christians as sanctified by their faith (see 26.18). 15: Saul, like the prophets, was chosen for a special purpose (Jer 1.5; Gal 1.15). 17: Laid his hands, see 6.6n.

9.19b–31: Saul’s preaching in Damascus and first visit to Jerusalem. 20: Immediately he began to proclaim Jesus in the synagogues, this will be the consistent pattern followed by Paul in Acts; according to Paul himself, he went immediately to Arabia (Gal 1.17). Son of God occurs only here in Acts; cf. Gal 1.15–16. 24–25: In 2 Cor 11.32–33 Paul flees the governor of Damascus appointed by Aretas IV, king of the Nabateans. 26: See vv. 1–2n. In Gal 1.18 Paul states that his first visit to Jerusalem was three years after his conversion. Luke associates Paul with Jerusalem from the beginning. 27–28: Barnabas (see 4.36–37) intercedes with the apostles on Paul’s behalf. Paul himself (Gal 1.18–19) claimed only to have seen Peter and James, the Lord’s brother (not considered an apostle in Acts). 29: Paul, from the Diaspora himself, contends with the Hellenists, namely, Stephen’s Greek-speaking,

Hellenists; but they were attempting to kill him.³⁰ When the believers^a learned of it, they brought him down to Caesarea and sent him off to Tarsus.

³¹ Meanwhile the church throughout Judea, Galilee, and Samaria had peace and was built up. Living in the fear of the Lord and in the comfort of the Holy Spirit, it increased in numbers.

³² Now as Peter went here and there among all the believers,^b he came down also to the saints living in Lydda.³³ There he found a man named Aeneas, who had been bedridden for eight years, for he was paralyzed.³⁴ Peter said to him, “Aeneas, Jesus Christ heals you; get up and make your bed!” And immediately he got up.³⁵ And all the residents of Lydda and Sharon saw him and turned to the Lord.

³⁶ Now in Joppa there was a disciple whose name was Tabitha, which in Greek is Dorcas.^c She was devoted to good works and acts of charity.³⁷ At that time she became ill and died. When they had washed her, they laid her in a room upstairs.³⁸ Since Lydda was near Joppa, the disciples, who heard that Peter was there, sent two men to him with the request, “Please come to us without delay.”

³⁹ So Peter got up and went with them; and when he arrived, they took him to the room upstairs. All the widows stood beside him, weeping and showing tunics and other clothing that Dorcas had made while she was with them.⁴⁰ Peter put all of them outside, and then he knelt down and prayed. He turned to the body and said, “Tabitha, get up.” Then she opened her eyes, and seeing Peter, she sat up.⁴¹ He gave her his hand and helped her up. Then calling the saints and widows, he showed her to be alive.⁴² This became known throughout Joppa, and many believed in the Lord.⁴³ Meanwhile he stayed in Joppa for some time with a certain Simon, a tanner.

10 In Caesarea there was a man named Cornelius, a centurion of the Italian Cohort, as it was called.² He was a devout man who feared God with all his household; he gave alms generously to the people and prayed constantly to God.³ One afternoon at about three o’clock he had a vision in which he clearly saw an angel of God coming in and saying to him, “Cornelius.”⁴ He stared at him in terror and said, “What is it, Lord?” He answered, “Your prayers and your alms have ascended as a memorial before God.”⁵ Now send men to Joppa for a certain Simon who is called Peter; ⁶ he is lodging with Simon, a tanner, whose

^a Gk brothers

^b Gk all of them

^c The name Tabitha in Aramaic and the name Dorcas in Greek mean a gazelle

Jewish opponents (6.9–14). 30: Tarsus, Paul’s home city according to 21.39 (see 11.25; cf. Gal 1.21), was in Cilicia on the southern coast of Asia Minor. 31: The familiar note of growth. The persecution of 8.1 has apparently passed. Here church moves beyond its usual meaning of a local community (see 5.11n.) to believers spread over a larger geographical area.

9.32–43: Peter in Lydda and Joppa. 32: Lydda, northwest of Jerusalem between Azotus and Caesarea (see 8.40n.), about 11 mi (17 km) southeast of Joppa (v. 36). There are already believers in both places, perhaps the result of Philip’s activity (8.40). 34: Lk 5.24–25. 35: Sharon, the coastal plain between Joppa and Caesarea. 36–42: Cf. Lk 8.41–42, 49–56 (Mk 5.22–24, 35–43); 2 Kings 4.33. 36: Joppa, modern Jaffa, on the coast in the Plain of Sharon, ca. 30 mi (50 km) south of Caesarea. 39: Widows, see 6.1; 1 Tim 5.3–16. 43: Peter’s lodging with a tanner, who would be ritually unclean, may suggest preparation for his encounter with Cornelius.

10.1–48: The conversion of Cornelius. This key narrative in which the inclusion of Gentiles is directed by God is essentially repeated in 11.1–18 and referred to in significant terms at 15.7–9. Luke ascribes to Peter the honor of converting the first Gentile; but recall the Ethiopian (8.26–39) and see 11.19–21. 1: Caesarea, see 8.40n. A centurion, an officer in the Roman army. Luke may want to show that Roman citizenship was compatible with Christianity (13.7n.; 16.37–38n.; 18.14–15n.; 22.25–29n.; 23.27–30n.; 25.8n.). On “friendly” centurions, see 27.3, 43. 2: Cornelius was devout and feared God, i.e., worshiped him (see v. 22); although he had not adopted the Jewish religion (i.e., undergone circumcision), he practiced the characteristic acts of Jewish piety: almsgiving and prayer. The similar profile of the centurion in Lk 7.1–10 shows that Luke is particularly interested in Gentiles who practice Jewish piety (v. 35). 3: About three o’clock, the time of afternoon prayer (3.1). Angels often appear in Acts in service of the divine will. 7: A devout soldier, suggests that those with Cornelius shared his piety (see house is by the seaside.”⁷ When the angel who spoke to him had left, he called two of his slaves and a devout soldier from the ranks of those who served him,⁸ and after telling them everything, he sent them to Joppa.

⁹ About noon the next day, as they were on their journey and approaching the city, Peter went up on the roof to pray.¹⁰ He became hungry and wanted something to eat; and while it was being prepared, he fell into a trance.¹¹ He saw the heaven opened and something like a large sheet coming down, being lowered to the ground by its four corners.¹² In it were all kinds of four-footed creatures and reptiles and birds of the air.¹³ Then he heard a voice saying, “Get up, Peter; kill and eat.”¹⁴ But Peter said, “By no means, Lord; for I have never eaten anything that is profane or unclean.”¹⁵ The voice said to him again, a second time, “What God has made clean, you must not call profane.”¹⁶ This happened three times, and the thing was suddenly taken up to heaven.

¹⁷ Now while Peter was greatly puzzled about what to make of the vision that he had seen, suddenly the men sent by Cornelius appeared. They were asking for Simon’s house and were standing by the gate.¹⁸ They called out to ask whether Simon, who was called Peter, was staying there.¹⁹ While Peter was still thinking about the vision, the Spirit said to him, “Look, three^a men are searching for you.²⁰ Now get up, go down, and go with them without hesitation; for I have sent them.”²¹ So Peter went down to the men and said, “I am the one you are looking for; what is the reason for your coming?”²² They answered, “Cornelius, a centurion, an upright and God-fearing man, who is well spoken of by the whole Jewish nation, was directed by a holy angel to send for you to come to his house and to hear what you have to say.”²³ So Peter^b invited them in and gave them lodging.

The next day he got up and went with them, and some of the believers^c from Joppa accompanied him.²⁴ The following day they came to Caesarea. Cornelius was expecting them and had called together his relatives and close friends.²⁵ On Peter’s arrival Cornelius met him, and falling at his feet, worshiped him.²⁶ But Peter made him get up, saying, “Stand up; I am only a mortal.”²⁷ And as he talked with him, he went in and found that many had assembled;²⁸ and he said to them, “You yourselves know that it is unlawful for a Jew to associate with or to visit a Gentile; but God has shown me that I should not call anyone profane or unclean.²⁹ So when I was sent for, I came without objection. Now may I ask why you sent for me?”

³⁰ Cornelius replied, “Four days ago at this very hour, at three o’clock, I was praying in my house when suddenly a man in dazzling clothes stood before me.³¹ He said, ‘Cornelius, your prayer has been heard and your alms have been remembered before God.³² Send therefore to Joppa and ask for Simon, who is called Peter; he is staying in the home of Simon, a tanner, by the sea.’³³ Therefore I sent for you immediately, and you have been kind enough to come. So now all of us are here in the presence of God to listen to all that the Lord has commanded you to say.”

³⁴ Then Peter began to speak to them: “I truly understand that God shows no partiality,³⁵ but in every nation anyone who fears him and does what is right is acceptable to him.³⁶ You know the message he sent to the people of Israel, preaching peace by Jesus Christ—he is Lord of all.³⁷ That message spread throughout Judea, beginning in Gali-

^a One ancient authority reads two; others lack the word

^b Gk he

^c Gk brothers

16.15n.,33). 9: Noon, the usual Roman time for luncheon. 14: Profane, only some animals might be eaten (Lev 11). 15: In Mk 7.14–19 Jesus declared all foods clean, but this statement is not included in Luke’s Gospel and Peter seems unaware of it. Some conditions regarding food will still apply at 15.20,29. 16: Three times, for emphasis and warning. 19–20: The Spirit’s message obliquely refers to Cornelius’s vision and is reminiscent of the coordinated visions of Ananias and Paul in ch 9. 23: Invited them in, Peter is prepared to associate with Gentiles. 28: You yourselves know, the audience is aware that association with Gentiles can be a cause of defilement for Jews (the centurion in Lk 7.6–7 seems to be sensitive to this). But God has shown me, Peter now understands the vision about food (vv. 11–17) to refer allegorically to people—i.e., defilement is no longer an issue. 30: See v. 3n. 34: No partiality, lit., “God is no respecter of persons”; cf. Rom 2.10–11. 36–43: A synopsis of Luke’s Gospel. 36:

lee after the baptism that John announced:³⁸ how God anointed Jesus of Nazareth with the Holy Spirit and with power; how he went about doing good and healing all who were oppressed by the devil, for God was with him.³⁹ We are witnesses to all that he did both in Judea and in Jerusalem. They put him to death by hanging him on a tree;⁴⁰ but God raised him on the third day and allowed him to appear,⁴¹ not to all the people but to us who were chosen by God as witnesses, and who ate and drank with him after he rose from the dead.⁴² He commanded us to preach to the people and to testify that he is the one ordained by God as judge of the living and the dead.⁴³ All the prophets testify about him that everyone who believes in him receives forgiveness of sins through his name.”

⁴⁴ While Peter was still speaking, the Holy Spirit fell upon all who heard the word.⁴⁵ The circumcised believers who had come with Peter were astounded that the gift of the Holy Spirit had been poured out even on the Gentiles,⁴⁶ for they heard them speaking in tongues and extolling God. Then Peter said,⁴⁷ “Can anyone withhold the water for baptizing these people who have received the Holy Spirit just as we have?”⁴⁸ So he ordered them to be baptized in the name of Jesus Christ. Then they invited him to stay for several days.

11 Now the apostles and the believers^a who were in Judea heard that the Gentiles had also accepted the word of God.² So when Peter went up to Jerusalem, the circumcised believers^b criticized him,³ saying, “Why did you go to uncircumcised men and eat with them?”⁴ Then Peter began to explain it to them, step by step, saying,⁵ “I was in the city of Joppa praying, and in a trance I saw a vision. There was something like a large sheet coming down from heaven, being lowered by its four corners; and it came close to me.

⁶ As I looked at it closely I saw four-footed animals, beasts of prey, reptiles, and birds of the air.⁷ I also heard a voice saying to me, ‘Get up, Peter; kill and eat.’⁸ But I replied, ‘By no means, Lord; for nothing profane or unclean has ever entered my mouth.’⁹ But a second time the voice answered from heaven, ‘What God has made clean, you must not call profane.’¹⁰ This happened three times; then everything was pulled up again to heaven.

¹¹ At that very moment three men, sent to me from Caesarea, arrived at the house where we were.¹² The Spirit told me to go with them and not to make a distinction between them and us.^c These six brothers also accompanied me, and we entered the man’s house.¹³ He told us how he had seen the angel standing in his house and saying, ‘Send to Joppa and bring Simon, who is called Peter; ¹⁴ he will give you a message by which you and your entire household will be saved.’¹⁵ And as I began to speak, the Holy Spirit fell upon them just as it had upon us at the beginning.

¹⁶ And I remembered the word of the Lord, how he had said, ‘John baptized with water, but you will be baptized with the Holy Spirit.’¹⁷ If then God gave them the same gift that he

^a Gk brothers

^b Gk lacks believers

^c Or not to hesitate

Lord of all, both Jews and Gentiles. 38: God anointed Jesus, seems to refer to the baptism at Lk 3.22 (see also Lk 4.14); but note Lk 2.11; Acts 2.36n.; 3.20. 39: We are witnesses, also v. 41, see 1.8n.; 1.21–22; tree, 5.30n. 41: Jesus was seen only by those chosen (Lk 24.48; Acts 1.8,22). Ate and drank with him, 1.4n.; Lk 24.30–31,41–43. 42: Judge, 17.31. 43: All the prophets, Lk 24.25–27,44–47; forgiveness of sins, Lk 24.47; Acts 2.38; 13.26,39; through his name, 3.6. 44–48: The circumcised believers knew by the speaking in tongues (2.4–11) that the Holy Spirit fell upon the Gentiles before baptism (see 2.38n.).

11.1–18: Peter’s defense. The Jerusalem church requires an explanation for the baptism of Gentiles. 1: News of the new development reaches Jerusalem, cf. 8.14; 11.22. 2: Up to this point all believers were circumcised (see note b; at 10.45 the text says “circumcised believers,” but the meaning is the same, as v. 18 makes clear). 3: The question is framed in terms of association with Gentiles, not their entry into the church; cf. Gal 2.12. 4–17: Peter answers by retelling 10.1–48 in abbreviated fashion. 12: Not to make a distinction, clarifies “go . . . without hesitation” in 10.20. Six, replaces “some” in 10.23. 14: Unlike 10.33, here it is made clear that Cornelius is expecting a message of salvation (4.12). 15: See 2.1–4. 16: See 1.5n. 17–18: The “Gentile Pentecost” (v. 15; 10.47; 15.8) was an act of God. Although the issue of Gentile inclusion seems to be decisively settled, controversy gave us when we believed in the Lord Jesus Christ, who was I that I could hinder God?"

¹⁸ When they heard this, they were silenced. And they praised God, saying, "Then God has given even to the Gentiles the repentance that leads to life."

¹⁹ Now those who were scattered because of the persecution that took place over Stephen traveled as far as Phoenicia, Cyprus, and Antioch, and they spoke the word to no one except Jews. ²⁰ But among them were some men of Cyprus and Cyrene who, on coming to Antioch, spoke to the Hellenists^a also, proclaiming the Lord Jesus. ²¹ The hand of the Lord was with them, and a great number became believers and turned to the Lord. ²² News of this came to the ears of the church in Jerusalem, and they sent Barnabas to Antioch. ²³ When he came and saw the grace of God, he rejoiced, and he exhorted them all to remain faithful to the Lord with steadfast devotion; ²⁴ for he was a good man, full of the Holy Spirit and of faith. And a great many people were brought to the Lord. ²⁵ Then Barnabas went to Tarsus to look for Saul, ²⁶ and when he had found him, he brought him to Antioch. So it was that for an entire year they met with^b the church and taught a great many people, and it was in Antioch that the disciples were first called "Christians."

²⁷ At that time prophets came down from Jerusalem to Antioch. ²⁸ One of them named Agabus stood up and predicted by the Spirit that there would be a severe famine over all the world; and this took place during the reign of Claudius. ²⁹ The disciples determined that according to their ability, each would send relief to the believers^c living in Judea; ³⁰ this they did, sending it to the elders by Barnabas and Saul.

12 About that time King Herod laid violent hands upon some who belonged to the church. ² He had James, the brother of John, killed with the sword. ³ After he saw that it pleased the Jews, he proceeded to arrest Peter also. (This was during the festival of Unleavened Bread.) ⁴ When he had seized

^a Other ancient authorities read Greeks

^b Or were guests of

^c Gk brothers

will resurface in ch 15.

11.19–26: Mission to the Greeks in Antioch. The narrative now rejoins the mission initiated by the persecution following Stephen's death (8.1,4). 19: Antioch on the Orontes River, capital of the Roman province of Syria, which included Galilee and Judea, and according to Josephus (J.W. 3.29), the third largest city (after Rome and Alexandria) in the Roman Empire. Antioch was a popular city name in Syria and Asia Minor, reflecting the rule of Antiochus I (whose epithet was "savior"), son of Seleucus I, one of the successors of Alexander the Great. 20: Cyrene, a great North African city (2.10; 6.9; 13.1; Lk 23.26), had a large Jewish colony. Hellenists (unlike 6.1 and 9.29) here apparently refers to non-Jewish, Greek-speaking residents of Antioch. 22–24: Barnabas came from Cyprus (4.36), and there were Cypriots in Antioch (v. 20). He investigates and expresses approval over the latest developments on behalf of Jerusalem (cf. 8.14–17; 11.1–18). Compare his description (v. 24) with that of Stephen (6.5). 25–26: Saul was in Tarsus (9.30), cf. Gal 1.21. An extended collaboration with Barnabas is initiated (see Gal 2.1,9,13; 1 Cor 9.6). Christians, a Latin word meaning "partisans of Christ," perhaps at first a term of reproach. It occurs elsewhere in the New Testament only at 26.28 and 1 Pet 4.16. It appears to be a term gaining currency in Luke's day that has been retrojected into the time portrayed by the narrative.

11.27–30: Antioch aids Jerusalem. 27: Prophets (13.1; 15.32) were numerous in the early church and in Acts characterize the last days (2.17–18). Here they predict the future (see 21.10). According to 1 Cor 14.3–4,31 they teach and build up the church. 28: Agabus, 21.10–11. The famine probably occurred in 47 CE; it was not worldwide (see Josephus, Ant. 20.51–53,101). The Roman emperor Claudius ruled 41–54 CE. 29: The relief operation resembles the arrangements for Paul's collection (20.4n.; 1 Cor 16.2; 2 Cor 9.7); the days of selling all (2.44–45; 4.32–35) are gone. 30: Elders, as Christian leaders are first mentioned here ("old men" in 2.17 translates the same Greek word); their emergence may reflect synagogue practice. According to Gal 2.1–10, Paul's second visit to Jerusalem coincided with the discussion narrated in Acts 15.1–29.

12.1–19: Persecution touches the apostles. 1: Herod Agrippa I, grandson of Herod the Great, nephew of Herod Antipas (4.27; 13.1; the Herod of Luke's Gospel), was made king of Judea by Claudius in 41 CE. 2: An apostle, James the son of Zebedee, is martyred. No replacement is made (cf. 1.15–26). 3: Peter, like Jesus, is arrested at him, he put him in prison and handed him over to four squads of soldiers to guard him, intending to bring him out to the people after the Passover.⁵ While Peter was kept in prison, the church prayed fervently to God for him.

⁶The very night before Herod was going to bring him out, Peter, bound with two chains, was sleeping between two soldiers, while guards in front of the door were keeping watch over the prison.⁷ Suddenly an angel of the Lord appeared and a light shone in the cell. He tapped Peter on the side and woke him, saying, “Get up quickly.” And the chains fell off his wrists.⁸ The angel said to him, “Fasten your belt and put on your sandals.” He did so. Then he said to him, “Wrap your cloak around you and follow me.”⁹ Peter^a went out and followed him; he did not realize that what was happening with the angel’s help was real; he thought he was seeing a vision.¹⁰ After they had passed the first and the second guard, they came before the iron gate leading into the city. It opened for them of its own accord, and they went outside and walked along a lane, when suddenly the angel left him.¹¹ Then Peter came to himself and said, “Now I am sure that the Lord has sent his angel and rescued me from the hands of Herod and from all that the Jewish people were expecting.”

¹²As soon as he realized this, he went to the house of Mary, the mother of John whose other name was Mark, where many had gathered and were praying.¹³ When he knocked at the outer gate, a maid named Rhoda came to answer.¹⁴ On recognizing Peter’s voice, she was so overjoyed that, instead of opening the gate, she ran in and announced that Peter was standing at the gate.¹⁵ They said to her, “You are out of your mind!” But she insisted that it was so. They said, “It is his angel.”

¹⁶Meanwhile Peter continued knocking; and when they opened the gate, they saw him and were amazed.¹⁷ He motioned to them with his hand to be silent, and described for them how the Lord had brought him out of the prison. And he added, “Tell this to James and to the believers.”^b Then he left and went to another place.

¹⁸When morning came, there was no small commotion among the soldiers over what had become of Peter.¹⁹ When Herod had searched for him and could not find him, he examined the guards and ordered them to be put to death. Then he went down from Judea to Caesarea and stayed there.

²⁰Now Herod^c was angry with the people of Tyre and Sidon. So they came to him in a body; and after winning over Blastus, the king’s chamberlain, they asked for a reconciliation, because their country depended on the king’s country for food.²¹ On an appointed day Herod put on his royal robes, took his seat on the platform, and delivered a public address to them.²² The people kept shouting, “The voice of a god, and not of a mortal!”²³ And immediately, because he had not given the glory to God, an angel of the Lord struck

^a Gk He

^b Gk brothers

^c Gk he

Passover season (v. 4), the festival of Unleavened Bread (v. 3). 4: Four squads of soldiers, emphasizes the impossibility of escape (similarly v. 6). 6–11: Cf. 5.17–23; 16.23–28. Miraculous escapes were a staple of ancient literature. 6: Bring him out, for execution. 12: John . . . Mark is connected with Peter elsewhere (1 Pet 5.13), and tradition credited him with authoring the second Gospel as Peter’s interpreter (Eusebius, Hist. eccl. 3.39.15; 5.8.3). In 12.25–13.13 he travels with Paul and Barnabas. According to Col 4.10 he was Barnabas’s cousin (see also Philem 24; 2 Tim 4.11). 13: Outer gate, a significant house is suggested. 15: A person’s guardian angel (Mt 18.10) was thought to resemble the person protected. 17: James, the brother of Jesus next in age (1.14n.), soon emerges as the leader of the Jerusalem church (15.13; see Gal 1.19; 2.12). Peter goes to another place, appearing one last time at the Jerusalem council (15.7–11).

12.20–23: Death of Herod Agrippa. Josephus (Ant. 19.343–353) gives a somewhat similar account in which, after flatterers address Herod as a god, he is stricken by a fatal disease and dies after five days of pain—but he acknowledges the false title and accepts his fate. 23: Herod’s death in 44 CE occurred before the probable date of the famine mentioned at 11.28 — Acts does not necessarily present all events in correct chronological order. Died, the Gk word here is used elsewhere in the New Testament only to describe the deaths of Ananias and Sapphira (5.5,10).

him down, and he was eaten by worms and died.

²⁴ But the word of God continued to advance and gain adherents. ²⁵ Then after completing their mission Barnabas and Saul returned to^a Jerusalem and brought with them John, whose other name was Mark.

13 Now in the church at Antioch there were prophets and teachers: Barnabas, Simeon who was called Niger, Lucius of Cyrene, Manaen a member of the court of Herod the ruler,^b and Saul. ² While they were worshiping the Lord and fasting, the Holy Spirit said, “Set apart for me Barnabas and Saul for the work to which I have called them.” ³ Then after fasting and praying they laid their hands on them and sent them off.

⁴ So, being sent out by the Holy Spirit, they went down to Seleucia; and from there they sailed to Cyprus. ⁵ When they arrived at Salamis, they proclaimed the word of God in the synagogues of the Jews. And they had John also to assist them. ⁶ When they had gone through the whole island as far as Paphos, they met a certain magician, a Jewish false prophet, named Bar-Jesus. ⁷ He was with the proconsul, Sergius Paulus, an intelligent man, who summoned Barnabas and Saul and wanted to hear the word of God. ⁸ But the magician Elymas (for that is the translation of his name) opposed them and tried to turn the proconsul away from the faith. ⁹ But Saul, also known as Paul, filled with the Holy Spirit, looked intently at him ¹⁰ and said, “You son of the devil, you enemy of all righteousness, full of all deceit and villainy, will you not stop making crooked the straight paths of the Lord? ¹¹ And now listen—the hand of the Lord is against you, and you will be blind for a while, unable to see the sun.” Immediately mist and darkness came over him, and he went about groping for someone to lead him by the hand. ¹² When the proconsul saw what had happened, he believed, for he was astonished at the teaching about the Lord.

¹³ Then Paul and his companions set sail from Paphos and came to Perga in Pamphylia. John, however, left them and returned to Jerusalem; ¹⁴ but they went on from Perga and came to Antioch in Pisidia. And on the sabbath day they went into the synagogue and sat down. ¹⁵ After the reading of the law and the prophets, the officials of the synagogue sent them a message, saying, “Brothers, if you have any word of exhortation for the people, give it.” ¹⁶ So Paul stood up and with a gesture began to speak:

^a Other ancient authorities read from

^b Gk tetrarch

12.24–13.3: Commission at Antioch. 12.24: The attack on the church’s leaders fails to stem growth. 25: Barnabas and Saul returned from Jerusalem to Antioch (see note a) after the relief visit (11.29–30). 13.1: Prophets and teachers were important leaders in the early church (see 11.27n.; 1 Cor 12.28; Eph 4.11). Manaen, Gk form of Heb Menahem. Herod the ruler, Herod Antipas (4.27; Lk 3.19; 8.3; 9.7,9; 13.31; 23.7–15), not Herod Agrippa (12.1n.). 2: As is usual in Acts the Holy Spirit initiates new developments. Set apart, cf. Rom 1.1; Gal 1.15. 3: Laid . . . hands, see 6.6n.

13.4–12: Cyprus. 4: Seleucia Pieria, Antioch’s seaport, about 12 mi (20 km) west at the mouth of the Orontes River. 5: Salamis, important port and former capital city at the eastern end of Cyprus. Synagogues, there was a large Jewish population on Cyprus. According to Acts, Paul regularly begins mission work in a new place in the local synagogue (13.14; 14.1; 17.1,10,17; 18.4,19; 19.8; see 9.20n.; cf. Rom 1.16). John, see 12.12n. According to 11.19, missionaries had previously reached the island. 6: Paphos, capital of Cyprus, located in the extreme west. Magician, see 8.9n. Bar-Jesus, “son of Jesus [or Joshua].” 7: The island was a senatorial province ruled by a proconsul. Sergius Paulus, another Roman official favorable to Christianity (see 10.1n.). 8: Elymas does not mean “Bar-Jesus.” 9: Saul was his Jewish name, used up to this point to stress his origin; Paul was his Roman name, the one he was generally known by, and is used from now on in Acts as missionary activity aims at both Jews and Gentiles. 10–11: Compare Peter’s rebuke of Simon (8.20–24).

13.13–52: Journey to Antioch of Pisidia and Iconium. The focus now clearly shifts to Paul as his first work in inner Asia Minor is depicted. 13: Perga is inland 8 mi (13 km) from Attalia (14.25), main seaport of Pamphylia, a small province south of the Taurus mountains, between Cilicia and Lycia. John . . . left, v. 5; see 15.38. 14: Strictly, Antioch near Pisidia, a Roman city and colony (see 11.19n.). Synagogue, v. 5n. 15: One lesson each from the law and the prophets was customary. 16: Gesture, an orator’s move. Others who fear God, here and v. 26 probably equivalent to “devout converts” to Judaism in v. 43 (where “convert” is the Gk word for proselyte; see 6.5n.).

Chs 13–14: First missionary journey of Paul.

“You Israelites,^a and others who fear God, listen. ¹⁷The God of this people Israel chose our ancestors and made the people great during their stay in the land of Egypt, and with uplifted arm he led them out of it. ¹⁸For about forty years he put up with^b them in the wilderness. ¹⁹After he had destroyed seven nations in the land of Canaan, he gave them their land as an inheritance ²⁰for about four hundred fifty years. After that he gave them judges until the time of the prophet Samuel. ²¹Then they asked for a king; and God gave them Saul son of Kish, a man of the tribe of Benjamin, who reigned for forty years. ²²When he had removed him, he made David their king. In his testimony about him he said, ‘I have found David, son of Jesse, to be a man after my heart, who will carry out all my wishes.’ ²³Of this man’s posterity God has brought to Israel a Savior, Jesus, as he promised; ²⁴before his coming John had already proclaimed a baptism of repentance to all the people of Israel. ²⁵And as John was finishing

^a Gk Men, Israelites

^b Other ancient authorities read cared for

17–25: The survey of biblical history emphasizes the theme of fulfillment in the latter part of the speech (vv. 23,27,29,32,33). 18: Context requires the reading he put up with them in the wilderness with Deut 1.31 (note b). 19: Seven nations, Deut 7.1; Josh 3.10; 24.11. 20: Four hundred fifty years from the entrance into Canaan to the building of the Temple may be an approximation. Samuel, 1 Sam 4.1. 21: 1 Sam 8.5; 9.15–17. 22: Ps 89.20; 1 Sam 13.14. 23: Posterity, see Lk 3.31. Savior, see 5.31n. The promise is found in 2 Sam 7.12. 24: Lk 3.3. 25: The Baptist’s emphatic his work, he said, ‘What do you suppose that I am? I am not he. No, but one is coming after me; I am not worthy to untie the thong of the sandals^a on his feet.’

²⁶ “My brothers, you descendants of Abraham’s family, and others who fear God, to us^b the message of this salvation has been sent.

²⁷ Because the residents of Jerusalem and their leaders did not recognize him or understand the words of the prophets that are read every sabbath, they fulfilled those words by condemning him. ²⁸ Even though they found no cause for a sentence of death, they asked Pilate to have him killed. ²⁹ When they had carried out everything that was written about him, they took him down from the tree and laid him in a tomb. ³⁰ But God raised him from the dead; ³¹ and for many days he appeared to those who came up with him from Galilee to Jerusalem, and they are now his witnesses to the people. ³² And we bring you the good news that what God promised to our ancestors ³³ he has fulfilled for us, their children, by raising Jesus; as also it is written in the second psalm,

‘You are my Son;
today I have begotten you.’

³⁴ As to his raising him from the dead, no more to return to corruption, he has spoken in this way,

‘I will give you the holy promises made to David.’

³⁵ Therefore he has also said in another psalm, ‘You will not let your Holy One experience corruption.’

³⁶ For David, after he had served the purpose of God in his own generation, died,^c was laid beside his ancestors, and experienced corruption; ³⁷ but he whom God raised up experienced no corruption. ³⁸ Let it be known to you therefore, my brothers, that through this man forgiveness of sins is proclaimed to you; ³⁹ by this Jesus^d everyone who believes is set free from all those sins^e from which you could not be freed by the law of Moses.

⁴⁰ Beware, therefore, that what the prophets said does not happen to you:

⁴¹ ‘Look, you scoffers!

Be amazed and perish,

for in your days I am doing a work,

a work that you will never believe, even if someone tells you.”

⁴² As Paul and Barnabas^f were going out, the people urged them to speak about these things again the next sabbath. ⁴³ When the meeting of the synagogue broke up, many Jews and devout converts to Judaism followed Paul and Barnabas, who spoke to them and urged them to continue in the grace of God.

⁴⁴ The next sabbath almost the whole city gathered to hear the word of the Lord.^g

⁴⁵ But when the Jews saw the crowds, they were filled with jealousy; and blaspheming, they contradicted what was spoken by Paul.

⁴⁶ Then both Paul and Barnabas spoke out boldly, saying, “It was necessary that the word of God should be spoken first to you. Since you reject it and judge yourselves to be unworthy of eternal life, we are now turning to the Gentiles. ⁴⁷ For so the Lord has commanded us, saying,

‘I have set you to be a light for the Gentiles, so that you may bring salvation to the ends of the earth.”

⁴⁸ When the Gentiles heard this, they were glad and praised the word of the Lord; and as

^a Gk untie the sandals

^b Other ancient authorities read you

^c Gk fell asleep

^d Gk this

^e Gk all

^f Gk they

^g Other ancient authorities read God

denial here (cf. Lk 3.16; Mk 1.7; Mt 3.11; Jn 1.20) may be aimed at those who continued to be his disciples (18.25; 19.3). 26: Salvation, 4.12; in vv. 38–39 it is forgiveness of sins (2.38; 10.43; Lk 24.47). 26–41: For argument and style compare Peter’s speeches in 2.14–36; 3.12–26; 10.34–43. 27: Did not recognize . . . or understand, see 3.17. 28: No cause, Lk 23.4,14–15,22,47. Pilate, 3.13n. 29: Tree, 5.30n. 30: The resurrection is the heart of the gospel in Acts (3.15; 4.10; 10.40. 13.37). 31: Witnesses, 1.8n. 33: Ps 2.7. Raising Jesus, here in the sense of bringing him on the scene (in contrast to v. 34; cf. 3.22,26). 34: Isa 55.3. 35: Ps 16.10 (see Acts 2.27). 38: Forgiveness of sins, v. 26n. 39: Set free, Greek “justified”; the only reference to justification by faith in Acts fittingly appears on Paul’s lips even if the sense is not fully that found in Paul’s letters. 41: Hab 1.5. 43: Devout converts to Judaism, see v. 16n. 46: The same dramatic announcement of turning to the Gentiles occurs in 18.5–6; 28.25–28. Spoke out boldly, 14.3; 18.26;

many as had been destined for eternal life became believers. ⁴⁹ Thus the word of the Lord spread throughout the region. ⁵⁰ But the Jews incited the devout women of high standing and the leading men of the city, and stirred up persecution against Paul and Barnabas, and drove them out of their region. ⁵¹ So they shook the dust off their feet in protest against them, and went to Iconium. ⁵² And the disciples were filled with joy and with the Holy Spirit.

14 The same thing occurred in Iconium, where Paul and Barnabas^a went into the Jewish synagogue and spoke in such a way that a great number of both Jews and Greeks became believers. ² But the unbelieving Jews stirred up the Gentiles and poisoned their minds against the brothers. ³ So they remained for a long time, speaking boldly for the Lord, who testified to the word of his grace by granting signs and wonders to be done through them. ⁴ But the residents of the city were divided; some sided with the Jews, and some with the apostles. ⁵ And when an attempt was made by both Gentiles and Jews, with their rulers, to mistreat them and to stone them, ⁶ the apostles^b learned of it and fled to Lystra and Derbe, cities of Lycaonia, and to the surrounding country; ⁷ and there they continued proclaiming the good news.

⁸ In Lystra there was a man sitting who could not use his feet and had never walked, for he had been crippled from birth. ⁹ He listened to Paul as he was speaking. And Paul, looking at him intently and seeing that he had faith to be healed, ¹⁰ said in a loud voice, “Stand upright on your feet.” And the man^b sprang up and began to walk. ¹¹ When the crowds saw what Paul had done, they shouted in the Lycaonian language, “The gods have come down to us in human form!” ¹² Barnabas they called Zeus, and Paul they called Hermes, because he was the chief speaker. ¹³ The priest of Zeus, whose temple was just outside the city,^c brought oxen and garlands to the gates; he and the crowds wanted to offer sacrifice. ¹⁴ When the apostles Barnabas and Paul heard of it, they tore their clothes and rushed out into the crowd, shouting, ¹⁵ “Friends,^d why are you doing this? We are mortals just like you, and we bring you good news, that you should turn from these worthless things to the living God, who made the heaven and the earth and the sea and all that is in them. ¹⁶ In past generations he allowed all the nations to follow their own ways; ¹⁷ yet he has not left himself without a witness in doing good—giving you rains from heaven and fruitful seasons, and filling you with food and your hearts with joy.” ¹⁸ Even with these words, they scarcely restrained the crowds from offering sacrifice to them.

¹⁹ But Jews came there from Antioch and Iconium and won over the crowds. Then they stoned Paul and dragged him out of the city,

^a Gk they

^b Gk he

^c Or The priest of Zeus-Outside-the-City

^d Gk Men

19.8; 26.26; see 4.13n. 47: Isa 49.6; cf. Lk 2.32. 49: A typical summary that makes it clear that Acts claims only to be a partial report of the spread of Christianity; cf. 9.10n. 50: The scene depicted here (see 2 Tim 3.11) is repeated in subsequent accounts (see 14.2,19; 17.5,13). 51: They shook the dust off (18.6) to show that their responsibility ended (Lk 9.5; 10.11; Mt 10.14). Iconium, modern Konya, ca. 75 mi (120 km) southeast of Antioch.

14.1–28: Ministry in the Iconium region and return to Antioch. 1: In spite of the announcement of 13.46, Paul and Barnabas again start at the Jewish synagogue. 2: 13.50n. 4: The Gk word apostles is used of Paul and Barnabas in Acts only here and in v. 14. Since the term otherwise is limited to the twelve, here the meaning may be “apostles (i.e., emissaries) of the church of Antioch,” the church that sent them (13.2–3). 6: Lystra, according to 16.1 the home of Timothy, was a Roman colony 24 mi (40 km) south-southwest of Iconium. Derbe, another town in Lycaonia 60 mi (96 km) southeast of Lystra. 7: In Acts persecution always leads to new opportunities. 8–18: Cf. 3.1–8. In this and other episodes in Acts Paul replicates the experiences of Peter. 11–12: According to a myth of this region, the gods Zeus and Hermes visited Baucis and Philemon in human form and rewarded their hospitality (Ovid, Metamorphoses, 8.618–724). Paul, the chief speaker, was hailed as the messenger of the gods, not the chief god. 14: Apostles, see 14.4n. Tore their clothes, a sign of horror and dismay at what they looked upon as blasphemy (cf. Mk 14.63). 15–17: Cf. 17.22–31; 1 Thess 1.9–10. Paul (v. 15), like Peter (10.26), rejects worship of supposing that he was dead.²⁰ But when the disciples surrounded him, he got up and went into the city. The next day he went on with Barnabas to Derbe.

²¹ After they had proclaimed the good news to that city and had made many disciples, they returned to Lystra, then on to Iconium and Antioch.²² There they strengthened the souls of the disciples and encouraged them to continue in the faith, saying, “It is through many persecutions that we must enter the kingdom of God.”²³ And after they had appointed elders for them in each church, with prayer and fasting they entrusted them to the Lord in whom they had come to believe.

²⁴ Then they passed through Pisidia and came to Pamphylia.²⁵ When they had spoken the word in Perga, they went down to Attalia.²⁶ From there they sailed back to Antioch, where they had been commended to the grace of God for the work^a that they had completed.²⁷ When they arrived, they called the church together and related all that God had done with them, and how he had opened a door of faith for the Gentiles.²⁸ And they stayed there with the disciples for some time.

15 Then certain individuals came down from Judea and were teaching the brothers, “Unless you are circumcised according to the custom of Moses, you cannot be saved.”² And after Paul and Barnabas had no small dissension and debate with them, Paul and Barnabas and some of the others were appointed to go up to Jerusalem to discuss this question with the apostles and the elders.³ So they were sent on their way by the church, and as they passed through both Phoenicia and Samaria, they reported the conversion of the Gentiles, and brought great joy to all the believers.^b ⁴ When they came to Jerusalem, they were welcomed by the church and the apostles and the elders, and they reported all that God had done with them.⁵ But some believers who belonged to the sect of the Pharisees stood up and said, “It is necessary for them to be circumcised and ordered to keep the law of Moses.”

⁶ The apostles and the elders met together to consider this matter.⁷ After there had been much debate, Peter stood up and said to them, “My brothers,^c you know that in the early days God made a choice among you, that I should be the one through whom the Gentiles would hear the message of the good news and become believers.⁸ And God, who knows the human heart, testified to them by giving them the Holy Spirit, just as he did to us;⁹ and in cleansing their hearts by faith he has made no distinction between them and us.¹⁰ Now therefore why are you putting God to the test by placing on the neck of the disciples a yoke that neither our ancestors nor we have been able to bear?¹¹ On the contrary, we believe that we will be saved through the grace of the Lord Jesus, just as they will.”

¹² The whole assembly kept silence, and listened to Barnabas and Paul as they told of all the

^a Or committed in the grace of God to the work

^b Gk brothers

^c Gk Men, brothers

himself. 19: 13.5on. Paul tells of receiving a stoning in 2 Cor 11.25; see 2 Tim 3.11. 20: Perhaps a miraculous recovery. 23: In Acts, Paul’s churches are ruled by elders (cf. 20.17). Their presence may reflect conditions in Luke’s day read back into the earlier period (see 15.2n.). The word is not used in Paul’s own letters (but see 1 Tim 4.14; 5.17; Titus 1.5). See 11.3on. 25: Attalia, the seaport of Perga (13.13n.). 26: Antioch, their starting point for the work (13.2) now completed.

15.1–35: Jerusalem affirms the admission of Gentiles. 1: Certain individuals, cf. v. 5, Pharisees; Gal 2.4, “false believers.” Unless you are circumcised and “keep the law” (v. 5), reopens issues seemingly settled with the approval of the “circumcised believers” (11.2n.,18) in 11.1–18. If the right of Gentile admission to the church was confirmed in ch 11, the present discussion may raise the issue of the conditions that might nevertheless apply. 2: Were appointed, in Gal 2.2 Paul says he went “by revelation” (Gal 2.2). Elders (11.3on.; 14.23n.) now appear with the apostles (vv. 4,6,22,23; 16.4n.) as leaders of the Jerusalem church under James (vv. 13,19). Peter is the only apostle named; the others function as a corporate symbol as they have throughout. 5: In Acts Pharisees are portrayed as believers (26.5) or tolerant of Christianity (5.34), often in sharp contrast to Sadducees (4.1–2; 5.17; 23.6–9). 7–9: Peter’s second summary (see 11.1–18) of the events narrated in 10.1–48. I should be the one, contrast Gal 2.7–8. 10: The yoke is that of the law (Lk 11.46); Paul’s view (Rom 7.12; Phil 3.6) is different. 11: Peter’s words echo Paul’s language (Rom 3.24). 12: 14.27; 15.4. The contentious debate reported in Gal 2 is passed signs and wonders that God had done through them among the Gentiles. ¹³After they finished speaking, James replied, “My brothers,^a listen to me. ¹⁴Simeon has related how God first looked favorably on the Gentiles, to take from among them a people for his name. ¹⁵This agrees with the words of the prophets, as it is written,

Chs 15–18: Second missionary journey of Paul.

¹⁶‘After this I will return, and I will rebuild the dwelling of David, which has fallen; from its ruins I will rebuild it, and I will set it up, ¹⁷so that all other peoples may seek the Lord— even all the Gentiles over whom my name has been called.

Thus says the Lord, who has been making these things ¹⁸known from long ago.^b

¹⁹Therefore I have reached the decision that we should not trouble those Gentiles who are turning to God, ²⁰but we should write to them to abstain only from things polluted by idols and from fornication and from whatever has been strangled^c and from blood.

²¹For in every city, for generations past,

^a Gk Men, brothers

^b Other ancient authorities read things. ¹⁸*Known to God from of old are all his works.*

^c Other ancient authorities lack and from whatever has been strangled over in silence in Acts. 13: James, see 12.17n. 14: Simeon, the Semitic form of Peter’s given name, emphasizing connections with Judaism even as the church is becoming a mixed group (v. 19) of Jews and Gentiles (see 14.1; 17.4,11–12; 18.4,8; 19.10). 16–18: Am 9.11–12; Jer 12.15; Isa 45.21. 20: Things polluted by idols, i.e., food sacrificed to them—prohibiting by extension idolatry itself (note Paul’s more liberal stance in 1 Cor 10.27–29). Whatever has been strangled, i.e., meat not ritually butchered, which may mean the same thing as blood (omitted by some manuscripts), although the latter could mean murder. Suggested backgrounds for the items included in the “apostolic decree” include the so-called Noachian precepts (regulations to be observed by all peoples; see Gen 9.4–6) and the regulations for Gentiles living among Jews in Lev 17–18. The list may have a more practical function (avoid non-kosher food and fornication) or stipulate matters beyond compromise (idolatry, murder, and incest). 21: Moses, selections from the Torah (the first five books of the Bible), traditionally thought to have been

Moses has had those who proclaim him, for he has been read aloud every sabbath in the synagogues.”

²² Then the apostles and the elders, with the consent of the whole church, decided to choose men from among their members^a and to send them to Antioch with Paul and Barnabas. They sent Judas called Barsabbas, and Silas, leaders among the brothers,²³ with the following letter: “The brothers, both the apostles and the elders, to the believers^b of Gentile origin in Antioch and Syria and Cilicia, greetings. ²⁴ Since we have heard that certain persons who have gone out from us, though with no instructions from us, have said things to disturb you and have unsettled your minds,^c ²⁵ we have decided unanimously to choose representatives^d and send them to you, along with our beloved Barnabas and Paul,²⁶ who have risked their lives for the sake of our Lord Jesus Christ. ²⁷ We have therefore sent Judas and Silas, who themselves will tell you the same things by word of mouth. ²⁸ For it has seemed good to the Holy Spirit and to us to impose on you no further burden than these essentials: ²⁹ that you abstain from what has been sacrificed to idols and from blood and from what is strangled^e and from fornication. If you keep yourselves from these, you will do well. Farewell.”

³⁰ So they were sent off and went down to Antioch. When they gathered the congregation together, they delivered the letter.

³¹ When its members^f read it, they rejoiced at the exhortation. ³² Judas and Silas, who were themselves prophets, said much to encourage and strengthen the believers.^b ³³ After they had been there for some time, they were sent off in peace by the believers^b to those who had sent them.^g ³⁵ But Paul and Barnabas remained in Antioch, and there, with many others, they taught and proclaimed the word of the Lord.

³⁶ After some days Paul said to Barnabas, “Come, let us return and visit the believers^b in every city where we proclaimed the word of the Lord and see how they are doing.”

³⁷ Barnabas wanted to take with them John called Mark. ³⁸ But Paul decided not to take with them one who had deserted them in Pamphylia and had not accompanied them in the work. ³⁹ The disagreement became so sharp that they parted company; Barnabas took Mark with him and sailed away to Cyprus. ⁴⁰ But Paul chose Silas and set out, the believers^b commending him to the grace of the Lord. ⁴¹ He went through Syria and Cilicia, strengthening the churches.

^a Gk from among them

^b Gk brothers

^c Other ancient authorities add saying, ‘You must be circumcised and keep the law,’

^d Gk men

^e Other ancient authorities lack and from what is strangled

^f Gk When they

^g Other ancient authorities add verse 34, But it seemed good to Silas to remain there written by Moses, read aloud in weekly Jewish services. The necessity of the decree (v. 20) is explained in terms of the pervasiveness of Jewish practices, which continued to be observed by Jewish Christians (cf. 21.20–25). 22: Silas may be the Silvanus of 2 Cor 1.19; 1 Thess 1.1; 2 Thess 1.1. He becomes a missionary companion of Paul at 15.40. 28: To the Holy Spirit and to us, see 5.3n. No further burden than these essentials, cf. Gal 2.10. 32: Prophets, 13.1n. 35: 11.26; 14.28.

15.36–16.5: Paul revisits the churches of the previous mission. 15.37–38: John called Mark . . . had deserted, see 12.12n.; 13.13. 39: Compare the disagreement here over John Mark with the report in Gal 2.11–13 that Barnabas disagreed with Paul over the legitimacy of Jews and Gentiles eating together. According to Acts, this problem had already been dealt with in 10.1–11.18, although the apostolic decree (15.20,29) may have been intended to make such meals acceptable for Jewish Christians. Barnabas and Mark revisit Cyprus (13.4–12), which had been omitted on the return journey to Antioch described in 14.24–26. 40: Paul now sets out as an “independent” missionary, accompanied by Silas (v. 22). Paul’s ties with Antioch may have been strained at this point (see Gal 2.11–14). 16.1: Derbe and . . . Lystra, 14.6n. Timothy (17.14–15; 18.5; 19.22; 20.4) was a more important companion of Paul than the picture in Acts suggests (see Rom 16.21; 1 Cor 16.10; 2 Cor 1.1,19; Phil 1.1; 1 Thess 1.1); he is referred to as Paul’s “child in the Lord” at 1 Cor 4.17. The pseudonymous letters 1 and 2 Timothy are ostensibly addressed

16 Paul^a went on also to Derbe and to Lystra, where there was a disciple named Timothy, the son of a Jewish woman who was a believer; but his father was a Greek. ² He was well spoken of by the believers^b in Lystra and Iconium. ³ Paul wanted Timothy to accompany him; and he took him and had him circumcised because of the Jews who were in those places, for they all knew that his father was a Greek. ⁴ As they went from town to town, they delivered to them for observance the decisions that had been reached by the apostles and elders who were in Jerusalem. ⁵ So the churches were strengthened in the faith and increased in numbers daily.

⁶ They went through the region of Phrygia and Galatia, having been forbidden by the Holy Spirit to speak the word in Asia. ⁷ When they had come opposite Mysia, they attempted to go into Bithynia, but the Spirit of Jesus did not allow them; ⁸ so, passing by Mysia, they went down to Troas. ⁹ During the night Paul had a vision: there stood a man of Macedonia pleading with him and saying, “Come over to Macedonia and help us.” ¹⁰ When he had seen the vision, we immediately tried to cross over to Macedonia, being convinced that God had called us to proclaim the good news to them.

¹¹ We set sail from Troas and took a straight course to Samothrace, the following day to Neapolis, ¹² and from there to Philippi, which is a leading city of the district^c of Macedonia and a Roman colony. We remained in this city for some days. ¹³ On the sabbath day we went outside the gate by the river, where we supposed there was a place of prayer; and we sat down and spoke to the women who had gathered there. ¹⁴ A certain woman named Lydia, a worshiper of God, was listening to us; she was from the city of Thyatira and a dealer in purple cloth. The Lord opened her heart to listen eagerly to what was said by Paul. ¹⁵ When she and her household were baptized, she urged us, saying, “If you have judged me to be faithful to the Lord, come and stay at my home.” And she prevailed upon us.

^a Gk He

^b Gk brothers

^c Other authorities read a city of the first district

to him. Timothy’s mother (see 2 Tim 1.5) is said to be Jewish, while his father was a Greek. 3: That Paul . . . had him circumcised seems unimaginable in view of passages such as 1 Cor 7.18 and Gal 5.2. Paul stresses in Gal 2.3 that Titus “was not compelled to be circumcised, though he was a Greek.” Timothy’s case might be different because his mother was Jewish (v. 1), yet the principle of matrilineal descent (the ethnicity of the child is determined by the mother) does not appear to have been in effect at this time. Luke may have allowed his theme of Paul’s faithfulness to the law in all respects (21.23–24; 22.3) to color the narrative here and refute the charge raised in 21.21 in advance. 4: The decisions, the apostolic decree of 15.20. The apostles are mentioned here for the last time—their era is now over.

16.6–10: Directed by the Spirit through Asia Minor to Troas. Journey through the interior to the Aegean Sea. 6: The region is probably the country northwest of Iconium where both Phrygians and Galatians lived. Asia, the Roman province of that name in western Asia Minor (6.9). 7: Opposite Mysia, a northwestern part of the province of Asia; Bithynia was to its east. Spirit of Jesus, equivalent to the Holy Spirit in v. 6. 8: Troas, on the western coast of Mysia. 9: Macedonia, a Roman province in Europe including the cities of Philippi, Thessalonica, and Berea. 10: The “we” passages (16.10–17; 20.5–15; 21.1–18; 27.1–28.16; see Introduction) begin here and bring additional vividness to the story.

16.11–40: Paul and Silas in Philippi. 11: Samothrace, an island in the northern Aegean, midway between Troas and Neapolis, the seaport of Philippi. 12: Philippi was a leading city, but not the capital, of Macedonia. It was populated by discharged soldiers who received grants of land and enjoyed the special civic rights that pertained to a Roman colony (freedom from taxation, Roman legal procedures). 13: The Gk word normally rendered “prayer” in the New Testament can also mean a place of prayer, as here, which may or may not imply a building (synagogue). By the river, some evidence suggests that Diaspora synagogues were frequently located near water. As usual in Acts, Paul seeks out the Jewish community in a new place. 14: Worshiper of God, the same word is used to describe proselytes in 13.43 but is applied to “women of high standing” in 13.50 in contradistinction to Jews. The term might simply describe Lydia as pious or suggest that she is a Jewish sympathizer. Thyatira (Rev 2.18–29), a city of Lydia, a country in western Asia Minor, was a center for the dyeing industry. 15: She and her household were baptized, dependents followed the head of the household in religious matters (v. 31; 10.2; 1 Cor

¹⁶ One day, as we were going to the place of prayer, we met a slave-girl who had a spirit of divination and brought her owners a great deal of money by fortune-telling. ¹⁷ While she followed Paul and us, she would cry out, “These men are slaves of the Most High God, who proclaim to you^a a way of salvation.”

¹⁸ She kept doing this for many days. But Paul, very much annoyed, turned and said to the spirit, “I order you in the name of Jesus Christ to come out of her.” And it came out that very hour.

¹⁹ But when her owners saw that their hope of making money was gone, they seized Paul and Silas and dragged them into the marketplace before the authorities. ²⁰ When they had brought them before the magistrates, they said, “These men are disturbing our city; they are Jews ²¹ and are advocating customs that are not lawful for us as Romans to adopt or observe.” ²² The crowd joined in attacking them, and the magistrates had them stripped of their clothing and ordered them to be beaten with rods. ²³ After they had given them a severe flogging, they threw them into prison and ordered the jailer to keep them securely. ²⁴ Following these instructions, he put them in the innermost cell and fastened their feet in the stocks.

²⁵ About midnight Paul and Silas were praying and singing hymns to God, and the prisoners were listening to them. ²⁶ Suddenly there was an earthquake, so violent that the foundations of the prison were shaken; and immediately all the doors were opened and everyone’s chains were unfastened. ²⁷ When the jailer woke up and saw the prison doors wide open, he drew his sword and was about to kill himself, since he supposed that the prisoners had escaped. ²⁸ But Paul shouted in a loud voice, “Do not harm yourself, for we are all here.” ²⁹ The jailer^b called for lights, and rushing in, he fell down trembling before Paul and Silas. ³⁰ Then he brought them outside and said, “Sirs, what must I do to be saved?” ³¹ They answered, “Believe on the Lord Jesus, and you will be saved, you and your household.” ³² They spoke the word of the Lord^c to him and to all who were in his house. ³³ At the same hour of the night he took them and washed their wounds; then he and his entire family were baptized without delay. ³⁴ He brought them up into the house and set food before them; and he and his entire household rejoiced that he had become a believer in God.

³⁵ When morning came, the magistrates sent the police, saying, “Let those men go.” ³⁶ And the jailer reported the message to Paul, saying, “The magistrates sent word to let you go; therefore come out now and go in peace.” ³⁷ But Paul replied, “They have beaten us in public, uncondemned, men who are Roman citizens, and have thrown us into prison; and now are they going to discharge us in secret? Certainly not! Let them come and take us out themselves.” ³⁸ The police reported these words to the magistrates, and they were afraid when they heard that they were Roman citizens; ³⁹ so they came and apologized to them. And they took them out and asked them to leave the city. ⁴⁰ After leaving the prison they went to Lydia’s home; and when

^a Other ancient authorities read to us

^b Gk He

^c Other ancient authorities read word of God

1.16). 17: In Lk 8.28 the Gerasene demoniac identifies Jesus as Son of the Most High God. The epithet is common for God in the Psalms of the Septuagint. The “we” passage (v. 10n.) stops here and resumes at 20.5. 19: Acts frowns on making money by magical or supernatural means (see 8.18–24; 19.25n.). 20: Magistrates, Gk “generals”; here probably not a military but a civic term (apparently to be distinguished from the “authorities,” v. 19). 21: It was not lawful for Jews to make converts of Romans. 22–23: Cf. 2 Cor 11.23–25 (“imprisonments . . . floggings . . . beaten with rods”). 24: The familiar motif of escape-proof security (5.19–20; 12.6). 26: An earthquake, here a supernatural event (see 4.31). Doors open and bonds are loosened for Dionysus in Euripides’ Bacchae 447–448; see also Ovid, Metamorphoses 15.669–671. See 12.6–11n. 27: Drew his sword, a Roman jailer whose prisoner escaped was liable to forfeit his life (cf. 12.19; 27.42). 30: The question is elicited by the supernatural circumstances. 33: The entire household is baptized (v. 15). 35: Police, lictors, officials who enforced the decisions of a magistrate. 37–38: With dramatic flair the reader suddenly learns that both Paul and Silas are Roman citizens protected by law against scourging (22.25; contrast 2 Cor 11.23–25). This surprising increase in Paul’s credentials strongly endorses the theme of the compatibility of Christianity with Roman life (see 10.1n.; 13.7n.).

they had seen and encouraged the brothers and sisters^a there, they departed.

17 After Paul and Silas^b had passed through Amphipolis and Apollonia, they came to Thessalonica, where there was a synagogue of the Jews.² And Paul went in, as was his custom, and on three sabbath days argued with them from the scriptures,³ explaining and proving that it was necessary for the Messiah^c to suffer and to rise from the dead, and saying, “This is the Messiah,^c Jesus whom I am proclaiming to you.”⁴ Some of them were persuaded and joined Paul and Silas, as did a great many of the devout Greeks and not a few of the leading women.⁵ But the Jews became jealous, and with the help of some ruffians in the marketplaces they formed a mob and set the city in an uproar. While they were searching for Paul and Silas to bring them out to the assembly, they attacked Jason’s house.⁶ When they could not find them, they dragged Jason and some believers^a before the city authorities,^d shouting, “These people who have been turning the world upside down have come here also,⁷ and Jason has entertained them as guests. They are all acting contrary to the decrees of the emperor, saying that there is another king named Jesus.”⁸ The people and the city officials were disturbed when they heard this,⁹ and after they had taken bail from Jason and the others, they let them go.

¹⁰ That very night the believers^a sent Paul and Silas off to Beroea; and when they arrived, they went to the Jewish synagogue.

¹¹ These Jews were more receptive than those in Thessalonica, for they welcomed the message very eagerly and examined the scriptures every day to see whether these things were so.¹² Many of them therefore believed, including not a few Greek women and men of high standing.¹³ But when the Jews of Thessalonica learned that the word of God had been proclaimed by Paul in Beroea as well, they came there too, to stir up and incite the crowds.¹⁴ Then the believers^a immediately sent Paul away to the coast, but Silas and Timothy remained behind.¹⁵ Those who conducted Paul brought him as far as Athens; and after receiving instructions to have Silas and Timothy join him as soon as possible, they left him.

¹⁶ While Paul was waiting for them in Athens, he was deeply distressed to see that the city was full of idols.¹⁷ So he argued in the synagogue with the Jews and the devout persons, and also in the marketplace^e every day with those who happened to be there.¹⁸ Also some Epicurean and Stoic philosophers debated with him. Some said, “What does this babblers want to say?” Others said, “He seems to be a proclaimer of foreign divinities.” (This was because he was telling the good news about Jesus and the resurrection.)¹⁹ So they took him and brought

^a Gk brothers

^b Gk they

^c Or the Christ

^d Gk politarchs

^e Or civic center; Gk agora

17:1–15: From Thessalonica to Athens. Paul founds churches in Thessalonica and Beroea. 1: Amphipolis and Apollonia were on the Via Egnatia between Philippi and Thessalonica (modern Saloniki), capital of the second district of Macedonia. 2: His custom, the pattern of starting a new mission in a synagogue (vv. 1,10,17) is explicitly stated (see 13.5n.; 14.1n.). 3: See 3.18n. 4: Devout Greeks, see 16.14n. Leading women, v. 12; contrast 13.50. 5: Jealous, 13.45. On the typical nature of the scene, see 13.50n.; cf. 1 Thess 2.14–16. 6–7: City authorities, i.e., politarchs, a Macedonian title for non-Roman magistrates. Serious charges of activities that threaten Roman order are made; cf. Lk 23.2. 9: Had taken bail from Jason, had made him financially and legally responsible for future good behavior. 10: Beroea, a city of Macedonia, 36 mi (58 km) west-southwest of Thessalonica. 11–12: Jews and Gentiles believe (15.14n.). Greek women and men of high standing, Christianity is attracting people with status (16.37–38n.). 14: To the coast, where he would take a ship to Athens (v. 15).

17:16–34: Paul at Athens. The apostle is portrayed as the first Christian philosopher, using Stoic and Jewish arguments. 16: Waiting . . . in Athens, cf. 1 Thess 3.1–2. Full of idols, v. 22; cf. 1 Thess 1.9. 18: Epicurean and Stoic philosophers, recognizable tenets from both groups are incorporated into Paul’s speech in vv. 22–31. Babbler, a term of disparagement; the Gk word is literally used in reference to birds to mean “picking up seeds,” of persons “one who makes a living by picking up scraps” (here implied: “of learning”). Jesus and Anastasis (the Gk word for him to the Areopagus and asked him, “May we know what this new teaching is that you are presenting?”²⁰ It sounds rather strange to us, so we would like to know what it means.”²¹ Now all the Athenians and the foreigners living there would spend their time in nothing but telling or hearing something new.

²² Then Paul stood in front of the Areopagus and said, “Athenians, I see how extremely religious you are in every way. ²³ For as I went through the city and looked carefully at the objects of your worship, I found among them an altar with the inscription, ‘To an unknown god.’ What therefore you worship as unknown, this I proclaim to you. ²⁴ The God who made the world and everything in it, he who is Lord of heaven and earth, does not live in shrines made by human hands, ²⁵ nor is he served by human hands, as though he needed anything, since he himself gives to all mortals life and breath and all things. ²⁶ From one ancestor^a he made all nations to inhabit the whole earth, and he allotted the times of their existence and the boundaries of the places where they would live, ²⁷ so that they would search for God^b and perhaps grope for him and find him—though indeed he is not far from each one of us. ²⁸ For ‘In him we live and move and have our being’; as even some of your own poets have said,

‘For we too are his offspring.’

²⁹ Since we are God’s offspring, we ought not to think that the deity is like gold, or silver, or stone, an image formed by the art and imagination of mortals. ³⁰ While God has overlooked the times of human ignorance, now he commands all people everywhere to repent, ³¹ because he has fixed a day on which he will have the world judged in righteousness by a man whom he has appointed, and of this he has given assurance to all by raising him from the dead.”

³² When they heard of the resurrection of the dead, some scoffed; but others said, “We will hear you again about this.”³³ At that point Paul left them. ³⁴ But some of them joined him and became believers, including Dionysius the Areopagite and a woman named Damaris, and others with them.

18 After this Paul^c left Athens and went to Corinth. ² There he found a Jew named Aquila, a native of Pontus, who had recently

^a Gk From one; other ancient authorities read From one blood

^b Other ancient authorities read the Lord

^c Gk he

resurrection) are mistaken for two foreign divinities. 19: Took him, could either imply arrest or friendly escort, and Areopagus could refer either to arraignment before the Council of the Areopagus (essentially the chief Roman court in Athens) or the Areopagus hill west of the Acropolis. The request “May we know . . . ?” suggests a more relaxed setting for discussion, though allusions to Socrates before the Areopagus court are surely intended (see v. 34). 21: The curiosity of the Athenians was proverbial. 22–31: Contrast the approach to Gentiles attributed to Paul in this speech with Rom 1.18–31. 22: Extremely religious, can be taken in a good or bad sense. It connects to “idols” in v. 16 and leads to v. 23. 23: To an unknown god, such an inscription has not been found in Athens to date; the plural form is attested. The scene intends to illustrate the anxiety of the “extremely religious” (v. 22) lest the honor due to any deity be inadvertently omitted and gives Paul an opening to proclaim the Christian message. 24–25: God as the creator (14.15) is an idea common to Jews (Gen 1.1) and Greeks (e.g., Plato, Timaeus). Shrines made by human hands, 7.48n. 26: From one ancestor, Adam. 27: God created “all nations” (v. 26) to search for God (cf. 14.17). That God was near to all people was a Stoic belief. 28: Although the first quotation is sometimes attributed to Epimenides, its language is probably to be associated with Posidonius (based on Plato); the second quotation is from Aratus (Phaenomena 5), a Greek poet of Cilicia educated as a Stoic. In Paul’s usage the original pantheistic sense of both “quotations” is reinterpreted. 30: Ignorance, cf. 14.16. 31: That the world will be judged (10.42) . . . by a man, i.e., Jesus (2.22,36), appointed by God has been guaranteed by the resurrection. 32: Some scoffed, Greek thought made no provision for resurrection of the body (e.g., Aeschylus, Eumenides, 647–648; cf. 1 Cor 15.12,35), but others were intrigued. 34: The conversion of Dionysius, a member of the Areopagus court, contributes to the theme of rulers attracted to Christianity. The note about Damaris conforms to a pattern found in both the Gospel (e.g., Lk 15.3–10) and Acts (e.g., 5.1–11) of juxtaposing characters of both genders.

18.1–17: Paul in Corinth. See 1 Cor 1–4 for Paul’s own account. 1: Corinth, the old city was famous but was razed in 146 BCE by the Romans. It was refounded as a colony in 44 BCE by Julius Caesar, became the capital of the come from Italy with his wife Priscilla, because Claudius had ordered all Jews to leave Rome. Paul^a went to see them,³ and, because he was of the same trade, he stayed with them, and they worked together—by trade they were tentmakers.⁴ Every sabbath he would argue in the synagogue and would try to convince Jews and Greeks.

Chs 18–21: Third missionary journey of Paul.

⁵ When Silas and Timothy arrived from Macedonia, Paul was occupied with proclaiming the word,^b testifying to the Jews that the Messiah^c was Jesus. ⁶ When they opposed and reviled him, in protest he shook the dust from his clothes^d and said to them, “Your blood be on your own heads! I am innocent. From now on I will go to the Gentiles.”⁷ Then he left the synagogue^e and went to the house of a man named Titius^f Justus, a worshiper of God; his house was next door to the synagogue.⁸ Crispus, the official of the synagogue, became a believer in the Lord, together with all his household; and many of the Corinthians who heard Paul became believers and were baptized.⁹ One night the Lord said to Paul in a vision, “Do not be afraid, but speak

- ^a Gk He
- ^b Gk with the word
- ^c Or the Christ
- ^d Gk reviled him, he shook out his clothes
- ^e Gk left there
- ^f Other ancient authorities read Titus senatorial province of Achaia in 27 BCE, and quickly emerged as an important commercial center owing to its location on the isthmus linking the Peloponnesus to mainland Greece with neighboring seaports to the east and west. 2: Pontus, a Roman province of Asia Minor on the Black Sea. An edict issued by the emperor Claudius (see Suetonius, Claudius 25) expelling the Jews from Rome can probably be dated to 49 CE; this verse suggests that the trouble was connected with Jewish Christians. Aquila and Priscilla (or Prisca) worked with Paul, according to Rom 16.3–5. The fact that a church met in their house (Rom 16.5; 1 Cor 16.19) suggests that they were wealthy. In the epistles (including 2 Tim 4.19) their names appear in reverse order. 3: Same trade . . . tentmakers, see 20.34. He stayed with them, possibly “lodged with them.” 4: Synagogue, 13.5n.; Jews and Greeks, 15.14n. 6: 13.46n., 51n. Your blood . . . , 2 Sam 1.16; Mt 27.25. 7: Worshiper of God, 16.14n. 8: Crispus, his baptism by Paul is mentioned as an exceptional case in 1 Cor 1.14. The conversion of the official of the synagogue (i.e., president; see 13.15) and his and do not be silent; ¹⁰for I am with you, and no one will lay a hand on you to harm you, for there are many in this city who are my people.” ¹¹He stayed there a year and six months, teaching the word of God among them.

¹²But when Gallio was proconsul of Achaia, the Jews made a united attack on Paul and brought him before the tribunal. ¹³They said, “This man is persuading people to worship God in ways that are contrary to the law.”

¹⁴Just as Paul was about to speak, Gallio said to the Jews, “If it were a matter of crime or serious villainy, I would be justified in accepting the complaint of you Jews; ¹⁵but since it is a matter of questions about words and names and your own law, see to it yourselves; I do not wish to be a judge of these matters.”

¹⁶And he dismissed them from the tribunal.

¹⁷Then all of them^a seized Sosthenes, the official of the synagogue, and beat him in front of the tribunal. But Gallio paid no attention to any of these things.

¹⁸After staying there for a considerable time, Paul said farewell to the believers^b and sailed for Syria, accompanied by Priscilla and Aquila. At Cenchreae he had his hair cut, for he was under a vow. ¹⁹When they reached Ephesus, he left them there, but first he himself went into the synagogue and had a discussion with the Jews. ²⁰When they asked him to stay longer, he declined; ²¹but on taking leave of them, he said, “I^c will return to you, if God wills.” Then he set sail from Ephesus.

²²When he had landed at Caesarea, he went up to Jerusalem^d and greeted the church, and then went down to Antioch.

²³After spending some time there he departed and went from place to place through the region of Galatia^e and Phrygia, strengthening all the disciples.

²⁴Now there came to Ephesus a Jew named Apollos, a native of Alexandria. He was an eloquent man, well-versed in the scriptures. ²⁵He had been instructed in the Way of the Lord; and he spoke with burning enthusiasm and taught accurately the things concerning Jesus, though he knew only the baptism of John. ²⁶He began to speak boldly in the synagogue; but when Priscilla and Aquila heard him, they took him aside and explained the Way of God to him more accurately. ²⁷And when he wished to cross over to Achaia, the believers^b encouraged him and wrote to the disciples to welcome him. On his arrival he greatly helped those who through grace had become believers, ²⁸for he powerfully refuted the Jews in public, showing by the scriptures that the Messiah^f is Jesus.

^a Other ancient authorities read all the Greeks

^b Gk brothers

^c Other ancient authorities read I must at all costs keep the approaching festival in Jerusalem, but I

^d Gk went up

^e Gk the Galatian region

^f Or the Christ

household (16.15n.) illustrates the continued success of Paul’s mission among Jews (in spite of v. 6) in addition to Gentiles (many of the Corinthians . . . became believers). 12: L. Junius Gallio, older brother of the philosopher Seneca, proconsul of Achaia about 52 ce. The dating of Gallio’s proconsulship is crucial for the chronological reconstruction of Paul’s career. 13: The law, could mean the Jewish law (as Gallio takes it in v. 15) or Roman law, i.e., charges of sedition similar to the complaints raised in 16.21 and 17.7 (the latter would make more sense to present before a proconsul). 14–15: Gallio again voices one of the subthemes of the book: Christianity is not a cause of concern for Rome. Roman representatives tend to be either outwardly favorable (e.g., Cornelius, Sergius Paulus) or at worst indifferent to Christianity, suggesting that it need not be viewed as incompatible with Rome (see 10.1n.). 17: Sosthenes may be the one mentioned in 1 Cor 1.1, but the name is common.

18.18–23: End of the second missionary journey and beginning of the third. Paul returns to Antioch and goes back to Asia Minor. 18: Paul had his hair cut as a temporary nazirite vow (21.23–24; Num 6.1–21), but the rule was to cut the hair off at the end of the vow. Cenchreae, the eastern port of Corinth (Rom 16.1). 19: Ephesus, on the Aegean coast, was the capital of the Roman province of Asia. 22: Caesarea, see 8.40n. Jerusalem still appears as the mother church. Antioch, see 11.19n. 23: The region of Galatia and Phrygia, see 16.6n.

18.24–28: Apollos in Ephesus. 25: The Way, see 9.2n. Although he taught accurately, he had not received Christian baptism (13.25n.). 26: Speak boldly, 13.46n. It is not disclosed in what sense things were explained . . . more accurately. 27–28: For his activity in Corinth, see 1 Cor 1.12; 3.1–9, 21–23.

19 While Apollos was in Corinth, Paul passed through the interior regions and came to Ephesus, where he found some disciples. ² He said to them, “Did you receive the Holy Spirit when you became believers?” They replied, “No, we have not even heard that there is a Holy Spirit.” ³ Then he said, “Into what then were you baptized?” They answered, “Into John’s baptism.” ⁴ Paul said, “John baptized with the baptism of repentance, telling the people to believe in the one who was to come after him, that is, in Jesus.” ⁵ On hearing this, they were baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus. ⁶ When Paul had laid his hands on them, the Holy Spirit came upon them, and they spoke in tongues and prophesied— ⁷ altogether there were about twelve of them.

⁸ He entered the synagogue and for three months spoke out boldly, and argued persuasively about the kingdom of God. ⁹ When some stubbornly refused to believe and spoke evil of the Way before the congregation, he left them, taking the disciples with him, and argued daily in the lecture hall of Tyrannus. ¹⁰ This continued for two years, so that all the residents of Asia, both Jews and Greeks, heard the word of the Lord.

¹¹ God did extraordinary miracles through Paul, ¹² so that when the handkerchiefs or aprons that had touched his skin were brought to the sick, their diseases left them, and the evil spirits came out of them. ¹³ Then some itinerant Jewish exorcists tried to use the name of the Lord Jesus over those who had evil spirits, saying, “I adjure you by the Jesus whom Paul proclaims.” ¹⁴ Seven sons of a Jewish high priest named Sceva were doing this. ¹⁵ But the evil spirit said to them in reply, “Jesus I know, and Paul I know; but who are you?” ¹⁶ Then the man with the evil spirit leaped on them, mastered them all, and so overpowered them that they fled out of the house naked and wounded. ¹⁷ When this became known to all residents of Ephesus, both Jews and Greeks, everyone was awestruck; and the name of the Lord Jesus was praised. ¹⁸ Also many of those who became believers confessed and disclosed their practices. ¹⁹ A number of those who practiced magic collected their books and burned them publicly; when the value of these books^b was calculated, it was found to come to fifty thousand silver coins. ²⁰ So the word of the Lord grew mightily and prevailed.

²¹ Now after these things had been accomplished, Paul resolved in the Spirit to go through Macedonia and Achaia, and then to go on to Jerusalem. He said, “After I have gone there, I must also see Rome.” ²² So he sent two of his helpers, Timothy and Erastus, to Macedonia, while he himself stayed for some time longer in Asia.

²³ About that time no little disturbance broke out concerning the Way. ²⁴ A man named Demetrius, a silversmith who made

^a Other ancient authorities read of a certain Tyrannus, from eleven o'clock in the morning to four in the afternoon

^b Gk them

